The train rush[illegible] had married out[illegible] able set, while sh[illegible] her new friends, [illegible] showed her terr[illegible] disgrace her. He[illegible]

"Your mother[illegible] Suppose I"——

"Oh, let her al[illegible] brown paper parc[illegible] and Bologna saus[illegible] of thing."

An hour or two[illegible] sounded through [illegible] men shrieked, and[illegible] as the train stop[illegible] them.

"Keep your s[illegible] rail only."

"Anybody hurt[illegible]

"Four or five p[illegible] dyin'. I heard he[illegible] that's on the train[illegible] now. Take keer [illegible] rushed past him.

The old woman [illegible] men were holding [illegible] physician who hap[illegible] kneeled beside her[illegible] herself down and d[illegible] breast. The woma[illegible] her eyes stared as [illegible] But she did not ca[illegible]

"Do something[illegible] wildly. "Make he[illegible] mother! it is Mag[illegible]

"Madam," said [illegible] late!"

The itinerant eye[illegible] his operations wit[illegible] which the more civ[illegible] recklessness. As be[illegible] "Do you want bac[illegible] only." When a cu[illegible] out his penknife an[illegible] while standing in [illegible] he binds up the wo[illegible] keep in the dark fo[illegible] his rupee. A write[illegible] who describes this [illegible] is almost always su[illegible] servants, a woman [illegible] successfully operate[illegible]

FOR DAISY'S SAKE.

BY NORAH LAUGHER, TORONTO.

Author of "Pansy," "Homeless," "Lady Ingledine's Sin," etc., etc.

At the moss grown rustic gate of the picturesque, sweet-smelling, old-fashioned garden of the Glebe Farm two lovers were standing. The golden June sunlight streamed through the wide branches of the apple trees upon them. The one, a tall, fair-haired, broad-shouldered young man, evidently a well-to-do yeoman, the other, a slight, golden-haired girl of not more than seventeen summers.

The rich mild rose color of the girl's dimpled cheeks deepened, and the dark blue eyes drooped sadly at something she was listening to. At last she replied: "Philip I think you are rather unkind to me; if you had only spoken thus last week I would have declined the invitation; but now, I have promised to go and it is so long since I had a dance, you are very, very cruel to me."

"Well, well, Daisy, don't think any more of what I have said, dear, but go and enjoy yourself," said Philip Ashlin, kindly, harshly blaming himself for the jealous feeling creeping into his heart, for he could not bear to see tears on the lovely, child-like face of his future bride. "Go and be happy, darling," and taking her in his strong young arms he kissed her tenderly, and then with a heavy, troubled sigh he walked away to his farm a mile distant.

Philip Ashlin sighed heavily, knowing that Daisy Vernon could not love him as dearly as he loved her or she would not care to attend the dance at the Hall when he was not included in the invitation.

The Hall at Westleigh was occupied—as it had been for many centuries—by the Westleigh family. The present Lord Westleigh was to give a tenants' ball that evening, to which Miss Vernon, as a friend of one of the earl's daughters, was invited.

Anthony Vernon, although not a wealthy man, was of a good family and farmed his own estate; he had been a widower for many years and Daisy was his only child.

The ball room at the Hall presented a brilliant sight, many of the aristocracy of the neighborhood gracing it to mingle for a few hours with the tenants of their friend. The lamps shone on many lovely women, but on none so fair as the golden-haired Daisy Vernon, who was clad in a simple white muslin dress with a single white rose nestling in her golden curls.

"Who is that lovely child?" enquired a handsome man of some thirty-five years, with a dark moustache and a somewhat military look. "Introduce me will you, Westleigh."

"Captain Beaumont, Miss Vernon," returned Lord Westleigh, introducing his friend after he had himself shaken hands with Daisy.

Captain Beaumont bowed low she thought "what a handsome and distinguished looking man, and"—with a little sigh—"how different he is to Philip."

Taking Daisy's card, Captain Beaumont wrote his name upon it for three round dances, of which the next waltz was one.

"Thank you very much, Miss Vernon," he said when it was ended, "that is the most delicious dance I have ever had. But let me take you to the conservatory; it is so much cooler there."

Placing Daisy on a seat near a large fountain he entertained her with interesting anecdotes of camp life and peculiar people he had met abroad, noting with pleasure each emotional feeling betrayed in the lovely sensitive face at his side.

Captain Beaumont bit his nether lip savagely and a Mephistophilian look came into his dark eyes as he tried not to appear annoyed at the intrusion of a servant who sometime afterwards entered with a message for him. "If you please, sir, Mrs. Beaumont wishes to speak to you."

"Your wife," faltered Daisy, with a deep blush and a shy, frightened look in her dark blue eyes.

"No, Miss Vernon, you do not think I am married, surely. Mrs Beaumont is my cousin's wife. I will take you back to the ball room while I go and speak to her."

The handsome, bronzed face of Captain Beaumont haunted Daisy's vision all the next day. He had asked permission to call at the Glebe Farm, but several days passed and he had not done so.

Daisy was walking homeward slowly through the Westleigh woods one evening when she heard the clatter of a horse's hoofs behind her. Turning round she beheld Captain Beaumont, who instantly alighted to greet her. Retaining her small hand he drew it through his arm, and as she listened to his soft, false, musical voice, the homely, honest face of Philip Ashlin was entirely forgotten.

Captain Beaumont had much to relate and he said, just then on his way to call at the Glebe Farm. "But is it not much better, Daisy, that we met here instead? Tell me, little one, that you are pleased to see me." Failing to make the sweet blue eyes meet his passionate dark orbs, he placed his arm caressingly around Daisy's waist; but the poor child grew shy and frightened and bursting into bitter tears she told him of her engagement to Philip Ashlin.

Captain Beaumont kissed away the tears from the pretty, blushing face now nestling confidingly on his breast, while he told her she should never be the wife of a poor country farmer.

"Philip is not poor, Captain Beaumont, and he loves me."

"But you do not love him, Daisy, and I love, I love you better than he does. Do you love me well enough, darling, to leave your home and come with me?" Gathering her passionately in his arms, he kissed over and over again the pansy-like eyes and child-like lips, while he explained to her that for the present their marriage must be kept secret, as he was but the youngest son of Lord Garlan, who had other matrimonial views for him, and having but small income from the estate he greatly feared disinheritance.

Week after week passed by with repeated secret meetings in the Westleigh woods, for Captain Beaumont rarely called openly at the Glebe Farm.

Poor, poor Daisy, listening to the musical, loving voice of her lover, and beneath the spell of his passionate, dark eyes, forgot everything—her white-haired old father and the honest, true heart of Philip Ashlin, who loved her so faithfully—forgot everything but the handsome, dark, pleading face of her lover, and at last with many tears, promised to consent to his wish of a secret marriage.

Before the last load of golden sheaves was gathered into the barn of the Glebe Farm, Daisy Vernon had fled from her home; fled, leaving a tiny note for her heart-broken father, begging his and Philip's forgiveness, and telling him she should soon see him again, as Cecil had promised shortly to acknowledge her openly as his wife and bring her back to Westleigh as such.

That night the red light of the autumn sun streamed through the lattice of the farm house upon the bowed head of old Anthony Vernon, and upon the passionate, pitying face—now anything but homely—of Philip Ashlin, who, kneeling beside the old man, lifted his eyes to Heaven and swore solemnly before God that he would have the life of this man who, although married, had contrived by his artful wiles to win the heart of the simple, trusting girl who was to have been his bride.

The Christmas snow lay thickly upon a newly made grave in Westleigh churchyard when Philip Ashlin sadly betook himself to London in search of his lost love, poor, misguided Daisy. But, although he traced her to that great, city and searched with the aid of detectives almost night and day, he failed to get a clue to her whereabouts.

Months dragged on and at the end of May he was still perseveringly trying to find her, when he saw in the newspapers that Captain Beaumont had joined his regiment and sailed for Africa. "But where was Daisy? Dead? Oh, would to God that were possible," he thought as with a heavy heart he returned to Westleigh. In the evening as he entered the village he paused at the gate of the churchyard and mournfully neared the grave whose new marble slab told the name of Anthony Vernon. In the waning light he was horrified to find the body of a woman lying senseless on the daisy-grown mound. He raised her tenderly in his arms, for he knew it was Daisy. Daisy! but ah, how different was the pale, emaciated form resting against his heart to the blooming, lovely girl who had so cruelly thrown away his love to choose the Dead Sea fruit—the poisonous ashes of false vows instead.

"I will win her love now," he vowed as he kissed the closed eyelids and pale lips, "and, please God, as my honored wife she shall be happy once more. Daisy, my love, my love, look up, speak to me, only one little word? It is I, Philip. Daisy, my darling, speak to me!" But Philip Ashlin pleaded in vain; Daisy Vernon was dead!

* * * * * * *

Near to a Hottentot kraal in Central Africa an English regiment had encamped.

Far away from the encampment the glaring sun shone down on the tall form of a man—an officer—shot through the heart. His handsome, bronzed face was still damp with the dew of death, but the dark, glassy eyes still wore their cruel Mephistophilian look.

The tall form and passionate fair face of another soldier—evidently an inferior—bent over him, who, with a wild agonizing cry raised his eyes to Heaven as he fell on his knees. "At last my oath is fulfilled. Oh, Daisy, my love, my love, for your sake, God forgive me; this is my revenge."

Ashamed of Her.

In traveling, chance words and incidents some times open to us whole volumes of tragedy. For example, take the following fragments noted some years ago by a passenger on a railway train in the West, on which a fatal accident occurred. A little blonde woman, very much over dressed, was languidly nibbling cake and sipping champagne at her lunch in the palace car, when her husband entered.

"Daisy," he said, "your mother is getting on the train."

"Oh, good gracious, where?" she exclaimed angrily.

He pointed to a tall, ungainly woman in shabby clothes, going into a second-class car.

"Had I not better bring her into this car?" he said. "There are some rough fellows in that one."

"Does she know we are on the train?"

"No."

"Then never mind. I can't introduce mamma to the Schallers," glancing at some of her companions.

The train rushed on, and the woman who had married out of poverty into a fashionable set, while she laughed and jested with her new friends, wore an uneasy face that showed her terror lest her mother should disgrace her. Her husband said presently,—

"Your mother will want lunch, Daisy. Suppose I"——

"Oh, let her alone! She always takes a brown paper parcel with chunks of bread and Bologna sausage. She likes that sort of thing."

An hour or two latter a jarring crash resounded through the Pullman cars. Women shrieked, and men rushed to the door as the train stopped. A brakesman met them.

"Keep your seats, gentlemen. Broken rail only."

"Anybody hurt?"

"Four or five people. One old lady's a-dyin'. I heard her callin' for her daughter that's on the train: 'Maggy! Maggy!' just now. Take keer ma'am!" as a little woman rushed past him.

The old woman lay on a clay-bank. Some men were holding her tenderly enough. A physician who happened to be on the train kneeled beside her. Her daughter threw herself down and dragged her head upon her breast. The woman's lips were opened, and her eyes stared as if searching for some one. But she did not call for "Maggy" any more.

"Do something!" cried her daughter, wildly. "Make her speak to me! Mother! mother! it is Maggy! Maggy!"

"Madam," said the doctor, "you are too late!"

The itinerant eye doctor of India performs his operations with a confident celerity which the more civilized oculist would call recklessness. As he enters a town he bawls, "Do you want back your sight?—one rupee only." When a customer appears he takes out his penknife and performs the operation while standing in the open square. Then he binds up the wound, tells his patient to keep in the dark for a fortnight, and pockets his rupee. A writer in Chambers' Journal, who describes this proceeding, says that it is almost always successful; one of his own servants, a woman of 80, was in this way successfully operated upon for cataract.

SCIENTIFIC SPARKS.

Grapes are an easy and pleasant cure for dyspepsia.

A German chemist, J. G. Otto, finds arterial blood to contain more sugar than the blood of the veins.

Iron bars and steel are elongated by magnetization, the latter not so much, but nickel bars are shortened.

The sea is salt because of the great quantities of chloride of sodium washed into it from the mountains.

It has taken thirty trials to cast a lense for the Lick telescope in San Francisco, but one has been obtained which is without a flaw.

Round chimneys are best for workshops, factories, etc. They deliver the smoke more easily and are less exposed to the wind. They are not, however, so easy to build.

Two microscopists, Dr. Nussabaum and Dr. Gruber, have artificially multiplied infusoria by cutting them in halves, each half becoming a perfectly developed animal.

Rings, or concentric ligneous layers, would seem to be a very uncertain indication of the age of trees. In Mexico some trees known to be but 22 years old were found with 230 rings.

A paper is manufactured from seaweed in Japan that has the transparency of glass—not exactly clear flint glass, but a good sort of stained glass—and can be used satisfactorily in windows.

If igniting by detonation or concussion can be prevented, chemists assert that shells can be charged with an explosive so potent that one of them, bursting alongside an iron clad, would shatter the strongest armor afloat.

The French government has had constructed a machine which, with the engine operating it, weighs some thirty-five tons, which will cut steel plates an inch in thickness. It is used in cutting plates for swift cruisers.

The American Indians are found by Matthews to have a knowledge of animals and plants incomparably superior to that of the average white man, or of the white man who has not made zoology or botany a subject of study.

Talc ore is being discovered in large quantities near Red Cliff, Col., principally in caves. The ore is light and fluffy and gives no indications of mineral value, yet has yielded seven ounces of gold and sixty-three ounces of silver to the ton.

Good Reading for Young Men.

The late Edward Pierrepion who distinguished himself as secretary of the American Legation at Rome, once received a letter from his father which contained the following advice:—

Dress like a gentleman: never be peculiar or flashy, but dress as becomes you, not as becomes some one else. Never talk about your expenses, or your money, and never be ashamed to live with economy; on the contrary, be proud of it. Your business now is to acquire knowledge, and you need not be anxious to display yours, especially to older men, but always try to learn of them.

Never say to another what it would be unpleasant to have him say to you.

Remember that good manners are of great importance. Manners should be frank and easy, with dignity.

Avoid fawning, toadying ways as you would the foul fiend. Never fawn to a prince or swagger to a peasant. Be courteous and manly everywhere and to everybody.

Let your manner be quiet; nothing is more unbred than a flurried address, with a face wrinkled all over with grinning delight.

The countenance can express pleasure and welcome without idiotic contortions, and when these appear, whether in the son of a duke or a drayman, they are intensely vulgar.

You cannot have good manners in the drawing-room if your habitual manner is bad; the habit will betray you; let the habit be always good.

Far better that frigid look even, than that you degrade your countenance with silly hilarity.

Be a gentleman, feel like a gentleman, and you will look and act like one.

Sometimes you will be neglected, and your vanity may feel wounded. Never let this annoy you. Be absolutely sure that in due time all will come right, and that you will have all the consideration that you merit. No one can do you any permanent injury but yourself. The world is so constituted that it is not in men's power to withhold respect from lofty character, real ability, and good conduct.

TOM THUMB ON HIS HEAD.

Cunning Tricks of a Bright-Eyed Baby Elephant.

There is great rejoicing in P. T. Barnum's Winter quarters over the recovery of the trick baby elephant, Tom Thumb, whose leg was injured at the time of Jumbo's death. The baby elephant feels as glad as anybody, and his exuberance of spirits keeps Scott, the trainer, in a constant worry. The plaster had no sooner been torn off Tom Thumb's leg than he waved his trunk and stood upon his head, kicking his heels in the air. The baby next climbed on top of the tiger's cage, and astonished those animals by leaping into the air and turning a somersault with the agility of a professional tumbler. Unfortunately he fell upon his head, and his piteous cries brought Scott to his assistance. After drinking a gallon of beer the baby felt better and danced around the ring on his hind legs to the music of a passing hand-organ. Tom Thumb does not sleep as well as he formerly did, and he chooses the darkness of night for performing his antics.

The giraffe awoke one night to find the Baby holding the hose and playing cold water upon him. There came pretty near being a row, but Mr. Scott roused himself and put an end to the disturbance.

If the Baby's friskiness continues it is thought that Mr. Barnum will be obliged to confine him in a cage. Scott thinks, however, that Tom Thumb is so overjoyed at his recovery that he naturally feels like having some fun and will soon settle down to the staid life of a trick clown elephant.

THE FARM.

The Farmer's Wife.

The farmer came in from the field one day
His languid step and his weary way,
His bended brow and sinewy hand,
All showing the work for the good of the land:
For he sows,
And he hoes,
And he mows,
All for the good of the land.

By the kitchen fire stood his patient wife,
Light of his home and joy of his life,
With face all aglow and busy hand,
Preparing the meal for the husband's band;
For she must boil,
And she must broil,
And she must toil,
All for the sake of the home.

Sun shines bright when the farmer goes out,
Birds sing sweet songs, lambs frisk about,
The brook babbles softly in the glen,
While he works bravely for the good of men;
For he sows,
And he hoes,
And he mows,
All for the good of the land.

How briskly the wife steps about within—
The dishes to wash, and the milk to skim,
The fire goes out, flies buzz about
—For dear ones at home her heart is kept stout;
There are pies to make,
There is bread to bake,
And steps to take,
All for the sake of the home.

When the day is o'er and the evening has come,
The creatures are fed and the milking is done,
He takes his rest 'neath the old shade tree,
From the labor of the land his thoughts are free;
Though he sows,
And he hoes,
And he mows.
And he rests from the work of the land.

But the faithful wife, from sun to sun,
Takes the burden up that's never done;
There is no rest, there is no pay,
For the household's need she must work away;
For to mend the frock,
And to knit the sock,
And the cradle to rock,
All for the good of the home.

When autumn is here, with the chilling blast,
The farmer gathers his crop at last,
His barns are full, his fields are bare,
For the good of the land he ne'er hath care;
While it blows,
And it snows,
Till the winter goes,
He rests from the work of the land.

But the willing wife, till life's closing day,
Is the children's, the husband's stay,
From day to day she has done her best,
Until death alone can give her rest;
For after the test
Comes the rest,
With the best,
In the farmer's heavenly home.

Gleanings.

Puppies ought not to be fed meat till past seven months old, as this is apt to bring on distemper. But a light soup made from boiled bones and meat, mixed with bread and vegetables, is excellent. From seven months to a year old they may have a little lean meat daily; fat meat is injurious, frequently causing vomiting,

The largest cheese ever manufactured in America recently was made at East Aurora, N. Y. During the process of its manufacture, ten $5 gold pieces were thrown into the milk. Its weight will be 3,300 pounds. The milk was taken from 2,600 cows, which it took 300 hands to milk.

From a few stations alone on the line of the N. B. Railway between McAdam and Frederickton Junction, there has been, this season, exported to the United States probably 30,000 quart boxes of blueberries and this is only a small item in the immense aggregate of the export of those berries, from the Provinces.

There will always be some soft corn grown on plants accidentally set back early in the season. It is more loss than gain to delay cutting until every ear is entirely hardened. Corn cut just past the milk stage will become ripe from juices in the stalk, while if frosted before cutting at this period, not only is the fodder much injured, but the further development of the grain is suspended.

Sixteen years, experience in charge of one of the largest institutions in Great Britain has convinced a teacher of industrial training that boys who will have to earn their bread by the sweat of the brow ought to be taught some handicraft alternately with their school work, and that the brain and hands ought to be taught to work in unison with each other.

A bee-raiser has discovered toads making great inroads upon the population of his hives. During the dry weather he examined the hives in the morning and found a toad at the entrance of each of several boxes. The toads were apparently asleep, but as soon as a bee or two appeared would shoot out their tongues and convey the honey gatherers into their capacious mouths. The toads were killed and dissected, and many bees found in their stomachs. The bee-raiser has elevated the hive.

There will be years of poor crops generally throughout the world, when prices will go up to the highest figures consumers can possibly pay. But as a rule the range of values will average below that of twenty years past, and for this reason: While the consumption is increasing everywhere, the accessible wheat-producing area is enlarging faster. It has expanded greatly in the North-West, including the adjoining British possessions, and on the Pacific coast. This will go on for a few years, until the remaining ground is covered.

At Gilmore, 10 miles South of Omaha, a company has started a cattle "fattery." They have expended $75,000 in the erection of big stables. There are 3,750 stalls, and by winter they will have 5,200 stalls. In each stall they will place a "critter," and they will all be fed with food placed before them through a system of pipes, and cooked in enormous steam vats having a capacity of 1,000 barrels of feed an hour. They will ship in cattle from the Western Nebraska ranches, and fatten them in these stalls.

There is not enough careful system and regularity in feeding. One owner, when asked how much meal or bran he gave his cows, said he took a bushel and went along in front of them and gave each one about what he thought she ought to have. This is the way in which many farm operations are carried on. If the owner of cows wishes to know what his profits are, he must weigh the food he gives them and keep a record of the amount. Experiment may be necessary to determine the most profitable quantity, which will vary with the size of the animals.

Farming.

The only way to learn the practice of farming is by actually working on a farm and taking part in all the operations and business transactions connected therewith. And this working must not be mere playing or passing the time promenading up and down and around with hands in pockets, looking at other people working. A young man might look a long time at a plough, or at a man ploughing, before he would learn to hold the tool himself; and he would even be little the better of taking hold of the stilts for an hour or two. It is only by continuous work day after day that one can thoroughly learn the operation, and be entitled to call himself a practical workman. In fact, the embryo farmer must regularly work a pair of horses for at least one year, such work including most of the field operations on the farm; and in these he should endeavor to excel. In Scotland it is usually considered that a boy on leaving school at seventeen becomes "odd man" or general laborer for the first year; the second year he is a full-blown ploughman, and the third year he takes part in the management of the farm, goes to market, &c. At the end of that time he has mastered "practical farming;" and further knowledge is such as he can only gain by experience as he grows older. He may remain at home, working or managing for many years thereafter, until he is old enough, or opportunity occurs to get a farm of his own; and it is obvious that the older he becomes the sounder and more practical his ideas on farming become.

In all imitations of the Myrtle Navy tobacco yet attempted, either inferior stock has been used or the plug has been made a trifle lighter in weight. The latter defect is apt to escape the attention of the consumer until he finds that he is smoking a greater number of plugs than before. The Myrtle Navy is made three plugs to the pound and each plug is carefully weighed.

At least one ton of gold is buried in the graves of the dead every year.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. Cox & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a LIST of the heirs to this enormous wealth. Reader, send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entited to any money or property, claim your own. Cox & Co. will show you the way.

Snuff is the interpreter of the nose.

Imperial Cough Drops will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto.

A.P.251

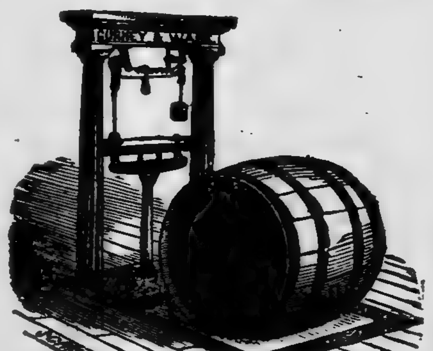
BENGOUGH'S SHORTHAND INSTITUTE—Public Library Building, Church-street; thorough tuition; reasonable rates; particulars free. THOS. BENGOUGH, President; C. H. BROOKS, Sec.-Treas.

MACHINERY FOR SALE—ENGINES AND Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills Planing Factory and Outfits, Stove and Heating Machines, water wheels, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descriptive catalogue and mention what you want. (Mention this paper.) H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

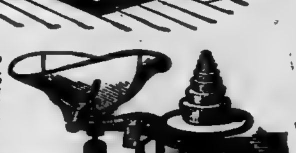
A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL PREEJUDICE Williams' Eye Water has proved itself a success, by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the undersigned certificates. It cured me, 8 years blind, oculist failed, O. Fortin; it has cured me, oculist would not try me. Alexander Want, 6 years blind, Chas. Amiott; 4 years, Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, John Lecroix. Ask your druggist for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St., Montreal.

JAMES PARK & SON,
Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock



Coleman's Improved Plough Harnes
Adapted to Orchard Work



No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price, $10 without collars and bridles.

DEWEY & CO.,
COLBORNE, ONT.

GURNEY & WARE'S
STANDARD SCALES

Are the Best, Attested by the Fact that there are more of our scales in use in the Dominion than of all other makes combined. Hay, Stock and Coal Scales, Farmers' Grain and Dairy Scales, Grocers' & Butchers' Scales, Scales for Domestic Use.

Housekeepers, Consult Your Best Interests

By purchasing a scale, and in buying one be sure to get the best. Our scales are fully warranted in every particular. All sizes Railroad, Warehouse and Mill Trucks. Alarm Money Drawers. For sale by the Hardware Trade generally. Illustrated Catalogue and Price List forwarded upon application.

GURNEY & WARE
HAMILTON.
Warerooms—Montreal and Winnipeg.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column....	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column........	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space......	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

—x—

—JOB PRINTING.—

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.
OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vieker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly
J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON,
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WM. G. GUTHERIE,
Flain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.
Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.
Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.
The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of
School Furniture,
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street,
MARKDALE.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made eqtensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE.
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S
YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.
LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to
JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,
Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

LAND FOR SALE.
THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.
For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,
GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

J. J. DALTON.
DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

Monthly Fairs.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Markdale—Saturday before Orangeville.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Holland Centre—Saturday before Chatsworth.

Priceville—Monday before Durham.

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

Victor Roller Mills,
MARKDALE.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

J. W. FORD.

Burdock
BLOOD
BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.
BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.
Sole Agent,
H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
194ly

CANADIAN PACIFIC
OWEN SOUND BRANCH
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, August ...

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.
Toronto....Leave	7 30
Cardwell Junction	9 07
Caledon	9 23
Orangeville, Arrive	9 50
Orangeville, Leave	9 58
Orangeville Jun.	10 05
Shelburne	10 17
Dundalk	10 45
Flesherton	11 10
Markdale	11 36
Williamsford	11 51
Chatsworth	12 12
Owen Sound	12 28
	1 00

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.
Owen Sound	5 20
Chatsworth	5 50
Williamsford	6 05
Markdale	6 27
Flesherton	6 42
Dundalk	7 06
Shelburne	7 31
Orangeville Jun.	8 00
Orangeville, Arrive	8 12
Orangeville, Leave	8 35
Caledon	8 55
Cardwell Junction	9 07
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45

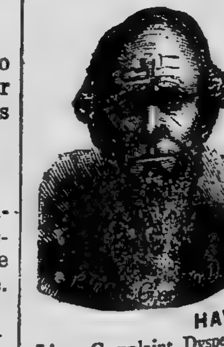
Special Steamship Express ... Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and ... for Toronto and Points East, on ... R. Steamship from Port Arthur ... in Manitoba and North-West.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10... Prayer Meeting every Wednesday ... 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor ... Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for October, 4th at 7 p.m. ... 7 p. m.; 18th, 7 p. m.; 25th, 10... November 1st, 7 p. m.; 8th, 10:30 ... 7 p. m.; 22nd, 10:30 and 7; ... Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.

METHODIST CHURCH.
Services every Sunday at 10:30 ... 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 ... Meeting every Thursday evening ... Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; G. ... S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid ... nection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.



Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, ... alternate Monday evening at 8 o'c... Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting ... welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 14... their Hall, McDougall's block, every ... Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A... brethren of neighboring lodges ...

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets ... Hall on Friday on or before full ... month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. ... Secretary.

NEW GROCERY S...
IN CONNECTION WI...
Plewes' Flour and F...
Having just rece...
Choicee, Fresh and ...
STOCK O...
Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacc...
Which will be sold VERY...
I respectfully solicit th... patronage.
193 J. PLE...

THE CELEBRATED DR. C... MANDRAKE ... LIVER CURE
HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, ... Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, ... Costiveness, or any disease arising ... liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will ... and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY.
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's ... Liver Complaint rests solely with the ... compounded from nature's well-known ... MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, com... other invaluable roots, barks and ... powerful effect on the Kidneys, S... Blood. 500,000 SOLD ...
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's ... were sold in Canada alone. We ... woman and child who is troubled ... plaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. ...
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. ... is a valuable Household Medical ... Book (84 pages), containing over ... pronounced by medical men and ... able, and worth ten times the price ...
TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A ... remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER ...
SOLD BY ALL ...
T. EDMANSON & CO. ...

Markdale ...

OL. 5.--No. 268.

Everybody, Attention!
New Goods now in.
American Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,
SPECTACLES,
Musical Instruments and Strings.
☞ Warrants honestly kept goods or work.
W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit ... individual or Society will be charged ten ... a line for the first insertion and five ... a line each subsequent insertion.

MR. J. G. IRVING was in Markdale ... week.

RIEL's chances to escape the gallows ... fading.

MT. FOREST Methodist church has a ... pipe organ.

MR. D. J. SHANAHAN returned from ...netang. last week.

THE date to which Riel is respited ... the 10th November.

THE daily death rate from smallpox ... Montreal is not decreasing.

THE new circle roller rink, in Owen Sound, was opened last week.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 ... new subscribers for $1. cash.

THE new post office building at ...rangeville is nearing completion.

MISS A. J. WHITE has been re-engaged in S. S. No. 5, Glenelg, for ...886.

MRS. W. M. CLARK, of Toronto, ...ent a few days in Markdale this ...ek.

THOSE in need of surveying should ...ll on or write to J. J. Dalton, Chatsworth.

WM. CONDY of the Kimberley Hotel, ...ll have a shooting match on the 5th ...ovember.

THANKSGIVING day has been changed ...om the 7th to Thursday the 12th ...ovember.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP is ...ghly recommended for all humors ... skin diseases.

MARKDALE Methodist S. S. anniversary will be held on Thursday, the ...th November.

REV. MR. CASSON, and Rev. Dr. ...rongman of Dundalk, exchange ...ulpits next Sunday.

WE had a pleasant call from Mr. ...awcett, of the Advance, and Mr. Hall, ... the Herald, last week.

MR. THOS. PORTER, of Orangeville, ...rother to our head school teacher, ...isited Markdale last week.

THE Markdale Orange Lodge will ...ve a concert in the Orange Hall on ...e evening of the 5th prox.

THE stores in Markdale will be ...osed on Thursday the 12th November, it being a public holiday.

FREEMAN'S Worm Powders are ...reeable to take, and expel all kinds ... worms from children or adults.

NATIONAL PILLS are a mild purgative, ...ting on the Stomach, Liver and ...owels, removing all obstructions.

gains.
GOODS AND,
D. reat sacrifice
save from 5 ourse in you bargains nov til to-morrow
ns missed.
lines:
Prices.
to $8 00.
to 11 00.
to 3 00.
to 85.
to 2 75.
to 2 00.
to 1 40.
to 90.
to 25.
to 10.
to 20.
to 3 50. onable Goods,
ave never beto
in exchange f and we are pr
ntee satisfactio continuance
'S, ford & Markdal Account, Note to Wm. Lucas
H. B.
GOODS

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 269. MARKDALE, ONT., NOV. 5, 1885. COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.

erybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

merican Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,

SPECTACLES.

Musical Instruments and Strings.

☞ Warrants honestly kept goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cts a line for the first insertion and five cts a line each subsequent insertion.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE is 52 years old.

THE Tax collectors are on the war path.

R. C. BRYDEN has $50,000 to loan, more or less.

GOOD horse for sale. W. Jackson, STANDARD office.

A GOOD pair of Horse Blankets for $1.25 at McFarland's.

THE STANDARD to 1st January 1887 to new subscribers for $1. cash.

1,630 deaths from small-pox in Montreal is reported for October.

THE new Methodist parsonage at Heathcote was opened last month.

FARMERS look here, you can buy a good Root Cutter for $10 at Jackson's.

MR. ROWLAND and Mr. Allison, of Owen Sound, called on us last week.

THANKSGIVING day has been changed from the 7th to Thursday the 12th November.

MARKDALE Methodist S. S. anniversary will be held on Thursday, the 12th November.

AN unoccupied building, near the Eugenia Hotel, was burned last Saturday night at Eugenia.

ONE car load No. 1 Coal Oil just received by W. J. McFarland. Warranted non-explosive.

For Bedroom Suits, Sideboards, Cupboards, Lounges and Cradles, go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

Miss BRIMNER, W. J. McFarland's Milliner, is turning out very stylish Mantles, Bonnets and Hats.

THE stores in Markdale will be closed on Thursday the 12th November, it being a public holiday.

LOOK HERE.—First class cooking stoves No. 9, trimmed and complete for $16.50 at Walker Bro's, Markdale

W. J. Ross of the Seldon House, Owen Sound, died suddenly on Sunday, the 25th, from heart disease.

ALWAYS leave weights, key and ball at home when bringing clocks to me for repairs. W. A. Brown, Jeweller, Markdale.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

An exchange says that folded newspaper placed under the coat in the small of the back is an excellent substitute for an over coat. Now is the time to subscribe.

REMEMBER the Orange Concert this (Thursday) evening in the Orange Hall.

POTATOES.—Three or four car loads of good dry potatoes wanted at Hill Bro's.

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP will remove all kinds of Worms from children or adults.

TRY J. R. Trimble's 5 lbs. of Tea for $1 cash, former price 90 cts., or 5 lbs. for $1.40. Try it.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS are safe in all cases. They destroy and remove Worms in children or adults.

TEACHER WANTED, for S. Section No. 6, Holland, for '86. Apply to Wm. Jackson, STANDARD office, Markdale.

IF you are too bashful to pop the question, just ask your girl, if she will go halves with you in buying a marriage license.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP.—Healing, soothing a cleansing for all eruptive diseases of the skin. Delightful for toilet use.

MR. H. ALLEN, agent for the History of the Upper Canadian Rebellion, is in town. This is a very interesting book of two volums.

NATIONAL PILLS are unsurpassed as a safe, mild, yet thorough, purgative, acting upon the biliary organs promptly and effectually.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

JAMES MASSON, ESQ., has been appointed Q. C., and the appointment cannot but give general satisfaction to members of the legal profession. He richly merits the position.

MR. GEO. R. PENNINGTON, general manager of the Provincial Provident Insurance Institution, lectured in Haskett's Hall last week. He secured fourteen members before he left town.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

VALUE RECEIVED Waltham Watches, 14, 17, 20 dollars. 3 grades, 3 oz. coin cases. Warrants cover breakages for 2 years 5 p.c. off for cash. W. A. Brown, the reliable Jeweller, Markdale.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

W. McLEOD is doing a fast increasing business in both readymade and ordered work in Boots & Shoes. The people say it is the cheapest place in town to get booted. Call and be convinced.

MARKDALE cattle fair on Saturday, the 7th November. This will be one of the best fairs of the season. Some of the outside buyers have already engaged cars for that day, with a view to heavy purchases.

SPRINGFIELD WATCHES—fine movements—fully guaranteed for 2 years, 3 & 4 oz. coin cases, key and stem wind, 14, 18 & 21 dollars. 5 p.c. off for cash. These are close prices. W. A. Brown. Markdale.

NO DOUBT the farmers will be pleased to see our genial friend, Mr. John Richards, on the market again this winter for his old employer, W. J. McFarland. Jack will make things lively, and don't you forget it.

THE new all rail Canadian route to Winnipeg and the Rocky Mountains via. the North Shore of Lake Superior opened for passenger traffic Monday, 2nd November. Cars will be run through to Winnipeg without change.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

Beware of any druggist who will try to induce you to take anything in place of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is a marvel of healing for Sores, Cuts, Burns, etc. No family should be without it. It has no equal. Get McGregor & Parke's, and have no other. Only 25c. per box at Hill Bro's. 3

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, and Canker Mouth. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

Any quantity of money to loan on real estate on the very best terms. Low rates, easy terms, and dispatch in putting through loans. Business strictly private and confidential. Apply at the STANDARD office, Markdale.

WHY WILL YOU cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

WM. STUART, ESQ., of Kimberly, in authorized to issue Marriage Licences, and is also a money lender on real estate. He is an honorable man and will doubtless receive a good patronage. See his card in another column.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says; "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

BARRHEAD MILLS.—Both the Grist and Saw Mill are now in full blast and in a position to turn out better work than heretofore. Farmers will do well to remember this, for no person is more honorable with his customers than is W. J. Rowe.

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

MARKDALE S. S. Anniversary will take place on Thursday next. Tea in the Orange Hall from 5 o'clock. Chair taken at 8 o'clock. Splendid program. Addresses by Rev. W. Ayers of Flesherton and the local ministers. Admission 25 cents. Come.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

IF you have a Waltham, Elgin Swiss or English Watch, out of repair, leave it with me. I have lathes, material, and 16 years practical experience, and will guarantee a satisfactory job to all who intrust me with work. W. A. Brown, Watchmaker.

MISS RORKE'S pupils are making very satisfactory progress in music, and particularly those who are taking lessons in drawing. Miss Rorke passed through the Ladies College at Whitby, carrying off many of the highest honors, and we would be pleased indeed to see her make her mark as a teacher.

THE Presbyterion Review, a weekly paper, published in Toronto, only $1 per year, is now on a trial trip to the majority of the members and adherents of the Presbyterian church. We have no doubt that a large number will be added to the subscription roll as the paper really deserves the support of all true Presbyterians.

COMMENDABLE.—Mr. Jenkins announces his intention to close the Chronicle office at 8 o'clock every Saturday in order to let his employees have a chance to "shine up" for Sunday. We often let our staff off early Saturday, but cannot always adhere to this desirable practice owing to work of an urgent nature.

J. R. TRIMBLE has just received a very large lot of fine Furs in Ladies' & Gents' Fur Coats & Caps, and Ladies' Fur Sets in endless variety. We will give you extra value in those goods for spot cash, as we hold the largest line of fine Furs in Markdale or the County; also a large stock of Ladies' & Gents' Kid Gloves & Mitts in stock.

"OUR LITTLE ONES."—The November number of the magazine is to hand, and is full of short illustrated stories which are calculated to interest and instruct the young members of the family. The children look eagerly for its arrival each month, and are always pleased with its simple and amusing articles. This magazine should be in every family where there are children. $1.50 per year. Russel Publishing Co., Boston, Mass.

THE accident which happened to Mr. John Thompson, of Holland, while threshing at Mr. Howey's, near Massie, resulted more seriously than was at first expected, and on Friday last the two Dr. McCulloughs and Dr. Denhart amputated it at the knee joint. Very little hopes are entertained of his recovery.—Chatsworth News.

NEW STORY.—The STANDARD is noted for the excellence of its seriels, and the one commencing this week is one of the best yet published. New subscribers for 1886 who send in their names any time this month (November) together with $1, will have the paper supplied from commencement of this story, and their subscription will not expire until the 1st January, 1887.

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

Peck's Sun published ot Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is the most humorous paper in America to-day. Geo. W. Peck, its editor and proprietor stands without an equal as a humorist. He believes in making people happy, and no one can be otherwise who reads his most excellent paper. Our readers are invited to read the prospectus of Pecks Sun, in another column. Sample copies mailed free to any address.

MERCHANTS should be careful in selling to children without a written order from their parents. In a suit in the Division Court. Here on Saturday His Honor Judge Macpherson refused to allow the claim of a merchant for goods sold to children without a distinct order from their parents. It is all right when no objection is made; otherwise it is all wrong.—Chatsworth cor. to O. S. Advertiser.

FARMERS' INSTITUTION.—At a well attended meeting at McAllister's on Tuesday of last week, for the formation of a Farmers' Institute, the following officers were elected, each of which are authorized to receive subscriptions: D. McNichol, Pres.; Geo. Binnie, Vice-Pres.; Wm. Irvine, Lamlash, Sec'y-Treas.; W. Young, R. Watson, jr., J. Hastie, D. McDougall and A. McPhail, Directors The entrance fee was placed at 25cts. —Grey Review.

THE Dundalk Herald has come out in an enlarged form, being now the same size and make up as the STANDARD. This has been done owing to increased advertising space, which may not continue. We are glad to see this sign of prosperity in the Herald, and hope Mr. Hall will have such practical support as to enable him to continue the Herald in its present size. It is one of the best papers in the County.

HALLOWE'EN.—The boys acquitted themselves very creditably, not doing anything like the damage usually done on such occasions. The parliament building in rear of the McDougall block was upset, and the boys gathered on Monday night in order to replace the building; but, notwithstanding their commendable efforts, they were unable to put it in position. They ought to get one of Mabee's patent loal lifters.

CURE FOR SMALLPOX.—A well-known correspondent of the Liverpool Mercury writes as follows: "I am willing to risk my reputation as a public man if the worst case of smallpox cannot be in three days effectually cured, simply by cream of tartar. One ounce of cream of tartar dissolved in a pint of boiling water, to be drank when cold at short intervals. It has cured thousands of cases without a failure. It may also be taken as a preventative. I have restored thousands by this means without leaving a mark. Don't talk about the simplicity of the remedy. Try it! Try it.

IN looking for the latest improvements about town, we notice that Mr. J. E. Marsh, of the Markdale House, has greatly improved his hotel yards and sheds by grading them up with gravel, making the yards and sheds high and dry, and really a pleasure drive over and into. He has also made extensive and thorough repairs on his hotel stables, and they are now warm, commodious and in every way first-class. It is live, energetic men we want in Markdale, then our business interests will all be upheld and continue to thrive.

THE Quarterly meeting of the Euphrasia Mission was held Sunday, Nov. 1st, at Mount Zion church. The attendance was good. The services were conducted by the Rev. Thomas Grandy, assisted by Robert Dunlop, who very ably addressed the congregation from Isiah 63rd, 1st verse. The business meetiug was held on Monday, and financially was the best ever held in the Mission. Through the able and good business system and earnest devotion of our esteemed pastor and the blessing of the Lord, we are looking forward to the time when we will become self-sustaining.—COM.

WHY, Mrs. McDonald, have you tried that tae called Triumphant, that the STANDARD puffed so much about in last week's paper. Indeed, Mrs. McCarty, but I have. You know the tae I mean, Mrs. McDonald. It is put up in a nate little tin box, and och, sich nice printing and purty pictures as there is on it; and Mrs. McDonald and did you loike it. Loike it! No, no; who could loike sich great raw, coarse stuff as that. Give me Jim Trimble's 35 cent tae in preference to all their fancy taes in tin boxes and fancy printing, and all sich other stuff as that. Jim Trimble puts it into a nate little common brown paper bag, and you don't have to pay him any fancy prices for your tin cans or fancy printing or sitch other stuff as that. Why, Mrs. McDonald, dear, the beautiful fresh, fragrant smell you get through your house from Trimble's taes just does the children as well as if they had been drinking a bowl or two of any other taes I can get there in Markdale, and of course that gives the ould man and myself an extra bowl or two. Och, dear Mrs. McDonald, but that Jammy Trimble does give you the bargains for the ready money. Indeed and Mrs. McCarty I shall take your advice, and more than that I shall pitch all that rubbish of tae out in the gutter and go straight to Trimble's and buy enough Tae and Sugars, and Dry Goods, and Boots & Shoes, and all the other little nicknacks I want to do the family for the next twelve months, for I really believe from what you have tould me, and what I have seen myself, that he does give great bargains for the ready money. It is wonderful how he does it, but he does do it. Friends, go and see for yourselves.

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Important auction sale on Friday 6th Nov. of village property in Markdale, comprising lot No. 5, Queen St. opposite the residence of Mr. G. Bowes, and lot No. 4, Brown St., opposite the residence of Dr. Sprou[le] M. P. There is on the former a commodious concrete dwelling house and on the latter a large brick residence. Wm. Kough, Owen Sound owner; Geo. Noble, auctioneer. See posters for full particulars.

Saturday, Nov. 14th, on lot 24, con. 9, Euphrasia, Mr. Wm. Curry will sell his stock, implements, &c., &c., without reserve, having leased farm. Sale at 1 o'clock. Terms on sums over $5, 18 months credit on approved joint notes. W. Shepherdson, auctioneer.

Friday, the 13th Nov., on lot con. 2, Holland, at 1 o'clock, stock, implements, &c., &c. 12 months on approved paper [at] per cent. off for cash. James [Mc]Kay, proprietor; Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

YOUNG FOLKS.

Who Was the Culprit?

"Your sums are wrong again, Walters," said the master. "And the mistakes are precisely the same as Leslie's, figure for figure. You've been copying again. Stand out, sir."

Walters, a grave-looking boy, did as he was desired, and the master took up his cane.

"Hold out your hand."

John Leslie half rose; he was trembling and he could not speak, though his lips moved.

"Sit down," said the master.

Leslie sat down mechanically, and James Walters received the punishment.

After a time he brought up his sum corrected.

"And yours, Leslie?" said the master.

"I can't do it, sir."

"There is no such word as 'can't,'" answered the master. "You will not go home until it is done."

II.

It was a half-holiday. John Leslie, locked up in the school room, sat at one of the tables, his face buried in his hand and his slate beside him.

"I'm stupid, and I'm a coward," he said to himself.

He was faint and dizzy, for he had had nothing to eat since breakfast time, and it was now 4 o'clock.

Suddenly he heard a footstep in the next room. Perhaps it was the master. He shuddered. Suddenly a hand was laid on his shoulder. He could bear his dread no longer, and uttered a wild shriek.

"Do be quiet, Jack; no one's going to kill you. The master is out, and I'll try to help you," said James Walters.

"Jim," replied Leslie, "it's no use to try to help me; I'm stupid, and a coward. I should like to die, and not be a trouble to any one."

"Nonsense, Jack; you're clever enough in some ways, and you'll get over your fear in time."

"You've been caned twice for me now," murmured Leslie.

"And will be caned again," said the master, who, having suddenly remembered John Leslie, had come to look after him. "How dare you come here?"

And he turned to Walters.

But at that moment Leslie, overcome with fear, and faint with hunger, fell to the ground.

"He's fainted, sir," said James Walters.

Perhaps the fainting saved both the boys, for when Leslie had recovered, the master bade Walters take him home.

III.

"Jim," said John Leslie, "what do you think I can do?"

"Why there ain't a fellow in the school can draw as you can. You can make likenesses of us all, and the master too, with your bits of chalk, only you have to rub them off the walls for fear of being seen."

John Leslie sighed.

He had worked away out of school hours, and his sums were oftener right. He longed to confess his delinquency, but did not dare to do it. He sketched the scene on bits of paper; he sketched it on his slate, and then rubbed it quickly away. But to-day, with his great gift for drawing, he had sketched it more elaborately; he had become absorbed in it, insomuch that he did not notice that the master's eye was upon him, nor that he had risen from his seat and was close to him before he could efface the sketch.

"So this is the way you spend your time at school, Leslie—in drawing caricatures?" John Leslie went red and white. The choking feeling came, but he made a great effort.

"If you please, sir, it isn't a caricature—it did happen—I was a coward. I copied the sum; Walters did not. He wouldn't tell of me, so he was caned; and I've been trying to be braver. Will you cane me now, sir?"

And the thin delicate hand was put out.

But the master was gazing upon the slate, and every moment growing more and more surprised at the sketch before him.

"I will take the caning now, sir," said John Leslie in a tremulous voice.

"I'll see to it," said the master, taking the slate and paying no heed to John Leslie's speech.

And he did see to it. John Leslie was not caned.

And the governors of the school gave him the advantages necessary to carry on his education for an artist.

"It's all through you, Walters," said John Leslie to his friend. "If you had not stood by the poor coward, and taken the caning, I should never have made that drawing. If I ever am an artist, the first picture I paint shall be of you and me at school, Jim, and the poor frightened fellow who could not do his sums shall be peeping at his brave friends slate. And we'll be friends for ever and ever, Jim Walters, for you will have made a man of me."

"Told a Lie With His Finger."

A little boy, for a trick, pointed his finger to the wrong road when a man asked him which way the doctor went. As a result the man missed the doctor and his little boy died because the doctor came too late to take a fishbone from his throat. At the funeral the minister said that the little boy was killed by a lie which another boy told with his finger.

I suppose that boy did not know the mischief he did. Of course nobody thinks he meant to kill a little boy when he pointed the wrong way. He only wanted to have a little fun. But it was fun that cost some body a great deal; if he ever heard the result of it, he must have felt guilty of doing a mean and wicked thing. We ought never trifle with the truth.

Curious Place for a Bird's Nest.

In the picture gallery of Charlton Park, Lord Suffolk's place, near Malmesbury, is a glass case containing the skin and feathers of a big crow. The creature had been caught and nailed to a tree with other vermin, a fate which so many thousands of crows share yearly that there is nothing in it. The extraordinary part of the matter is that in the shelter of his wings, where his body was before it decayed, a little wren had built itself an exceedingly neat little nest. With wonderful dexterity the tiny bird had contrived to fasten together the wings of his dead enemy, whose body he proposed to utilize; the entrance to the nest was where the crow's breast had been, and here the family of little wrens was reared. The nest was observed, and when its occupants had flown away, Lord Suffolk had it carefully removed and placed in his picture gallery.

THE LMIE-KILN CLUB.

Knowing that all the local officers and committees would be appointed at the first meeting after the annual picnic, the majority of the members have during the past week labored under more or less excitement. As the appointing power is entirely in the hands of Brother Gardner there was but little chance to wire-pull and log-roll. Nevertheless, several instances of devotion to country cropped out. Sir Simon Rainbow called upon Pickles Smith and offered him a dog that would sell on the weakest market for $2 if he would use his influence to get the Rainbow family the position of librarian. Sir Simon can't read, but is a great hand to look at pictures.

Prof. Cauliflower Cooper made a midnight call at the house of Shindig Watkins on pretense that his wife was ill and must have mustard. After securing the mustard he offered Brother Watkins a wheelbarrow built on Corinthian ideas of architecture if he would just drop a hint that the Cooper family wanted to carry the key of the club safe during the next year.

Judge Backdown Johnson bought a pair of roller skates for the eldest daughter of Waydown Bebee, and slyly intimated to her that if he was appointed janitor of Paradise Hall he would turn it into a roller rink for her benefit.

THE OPENING.

Every member of the club living within seven miles of Paradise Hall was on hand as the triangle sounded and Brother Gardner arose and said:

"My frens, dis am de beginnin' of anoder y'ar wid us. While we kin look back ober six y'ars of success an' harmony, we hev reason to believe dat we kin look ahead to greater success an' my' perfeck understandin'. Dis club was organized on de open street one rainy day, an' its fust roll-call included six men an' a dog. At de present date our membership would make de populashun fur a city, an' if ebery member doan' own fo' dogs it am not de fault of our constitushan and by-laws.

"Doorin' de past fiskal y'ar death has bin busy in our ranks, an' de b'ar traps hev never bin free from de insigna of mournin'. Three members were devoured by alligators; two were run ober by butcher carts; three fell off de roofs of barns; two died fur luv, an' seben owed deir deaths mo' or less directly to roller skatin' rinks.

"When we organized dis club de charges fur whitewashin' a kitchen ceilin' ranged all de way from thirty cents to fo' dollars, accordin' to de standin' of de family in society an' de hardupness of de whitewasher. De charges fur blackin' a stove depended on de state of de weather. If an eminent citizen wanted a fence whitewashed he might hev to pay fifty cents or $5 a rod. If a lady wanted some flower-beds in de side yard de spadin' up might cost her fifty cents apiece, or de cull'd pusson who did de spadin might want a deed of de house an' lot. It was de same about beatin' carpets an' layin' 'em down, an' de same about drawin' ashes out of de back yard. We were in a state of anarchy an' wildness.

"What was de status of culled society in dis kentry befo' de Lime-Kiln Club was organized? Three millyon people war chucked in a hole, so to speak. Dere was no upper crust—no lower crust. De wife of de whitewasher could call on de wife of de barber an' fell perfectly to home. De barber went ober to see de head-waiter of de leadin' hotel an' feel on terms of soshul equality wid him. All am now changed. Our society am graded as shar ply as wid white folks. We has our patronizin' ways to our inferiors same as if our complexion was of de purest alabaster.

"What did de cull'd people of dis kentry know about art an' science an' hygiene when dis club held its first meetin'! Why, none of us knowed a tea sto' chromo from a Rembrandt an' we did not know as much about harmonizin' colors in de house as a mule does of music. Lots of us would leave de parlor walls bare an' put a velvet carpet down on de kitchen floo'. We would hang a Brussels lace curtain at one winder an' a chintz at de next. We all reckoned dat de airth was flat. We supposed dat de sun moved. We supposed dat de wind blowed simply to dry out de clothes on de lines. If anybody had told us dat de moon was inhabited we should have stepped on him. Think of de change a few brief ya'rs hev wrought! De aiverage cull'd man of to-day names his dog arter some prominent astronomer, an' his mule am fed accordin' to de changes of de moon. Six y'ars ago we didn't know any better dan to sleep six and eight in a room an' stow our dogs under de bed. We reckened dat sewer gas was good to kill off de aiger. We enjoyed de smell of taller dropped on a red hot stove.

"My frens, when we look back frew de misty past, an' den ahead to de rosy fucher we can't help but feel dat it was a good thing to be bo'n a cull'd pusson. While we may justly feed proud an' elated, I want to warn you not to bust your suspenders ober de back. Doan' go and git de idea dat white folks am poo' trash who hev no pe tickler rights in dis kentry. Doan' emagi'r dat all de sidewalks was laid down for your benefi', an' dat de time has arrove for de white man to stan' back an' speak only when spoken to.

Americans visiting London complain of tradesmen's exactions and attempts to defraud. The best shops will cheat, in making change, and the shopkeepers do not scruple to admit that they have one scale of prices for their own people and another—and higher—for Americans.

The mind is its own place, and in itself can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. Cox & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a LIST OF the heirs to this enormous wealth. Reader, send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entitled to any money or property, claim your own. Cox & Co. will show you the way.

IN FEAR OF THE REDSKINS.

Frontier Telegraph Experiences.

The telegraph operators at some of the exposed points in Arizona and other western regions are valiant fellows, but it frequently happens that they cannot be convinced that duty demands of them a strict attention to the company's business regardless of self. One man up at Derrickville—Tommy Dyer—lost a week's pay and experienced considerable hardship by abandoning his post, and three or four others of the boys have had trouble of various kinds since the Apaches set out on their last scalping tour. A letter from Dragoon says:

Last week the operator here received a brief message from Dyer, saying: „I'm off. Injuns two miles north." Nothing more was heard from that quarter for three or four days, though the operator here called the place regularly about once an hour. At length one afternoon he got a feeble and uncertain sort of an answer, which, the best way he could make it out, was to the effect that a detachment of troops were in that neighborhood, and that the operator, who was nowhere to be found, had probably been carried off by the hostiles, as Indian trail, were everywhere to be seen. The boys here felt very sorrowful over Dyer's fate and they were on the point of sending off a flattering biography of the missing telegrapher, when a lively rattle from one of the receivers was heard, and everybody paused to listen. The ticking continued for a minute or two, and then somebody ejaculated: "That's Tommy, now. Where is he?" An inquiry or two over the wires sufficed to locate the missing operator at Talbot's Mill, about thirty miles from his own office, where he said he had gone for shelter and found deserted by the operator. Tommy's last message before closing his key and starting on his journey again created some amusement here, and was:

"There hasn't been an Injun within forty miles of this place, and yet the operator can't be found with a fine-tooth comb. They've got too many plugs in this country. They're n. g."

The boys tried to tell him that he had deserted his own office without cause, but as they got no reply they concluded he had gone.

The same night a new man at Pikestaff edified the boys all along the line by sending messages describing the progress made by the Indians in that neighborhood, and saying that it was his intention to stay there and sell his life as dearly as possible. After he had assured everybody to this effect several times, he broke in with:

"Hostiles killing and burning east of here. Think I'll go out and help clean them out."

Toward evening the next day he announced that a squad of troops had arrived; that they had seen no Indians, and that, as he was getting lonesome, he would go along with them.

Speaking about the nervous condition of the boys at these and other points, Henry Welter, an old operator, said to me: Of course it's fun to sit around an instrument in a place of safety and laugh at these fellows, but it's not very humorous to be in one of these offices all alone and feel that a redskin or two may come in on you at any moment. I had an experience two years ago at Pender, over in the Mogollons, which I won't forget right away. The savages had been moving around pretty lively for several days, and nearly everybody had left the country or was ready to leave. I didn't have any business to do except to answer inquiries from citizens, newspapers, and soldiers. About twice an hour I'd get a 'rush' message asking for Indian news. Sometimes the inquiry would convey intelligence to me that I had no other means of knowing, as, for instance, when somebody would say that the redskins had done so and so, and then ask me for particulars. When I got those inquiries I would step out in front, look around for a minute, and then go inside and forward the particulars of the Indian situation. I wrote a good many pretty fair war sketches in that way, but at length I found that I was getting nervous and excitable. Every time the wind made a noise I'd jump. Then I would get up and look out on the deserted country. Perhaps a party of volunteers would call on me for a few moments and advise me to clear out, besides giving me information of some atrocity perpetrated near at hand. I got so finally that when my instrument would click I would almost fall out of the chair, and then I sent word to headquarters that if they wanted me to stay they would have to give me a couple of guards. This was done, and we got along all right after that."

IMPERIAL COUGH DROPS will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto.

It is proposed in Spain to start a fleet of ships, representing all maritime nations, from the little port of Palos, in Spain, on August 3, 1892, the four hundredth anniversary of the sailing of Columbus, and to have the fleet sail to San Salvador over the route taken by the great discoverer.

Several noblemen in England are in the habit of giving special orders to makers in Virginia for their supply of smoking tobacco. There is no doubt that by that means they get the very best tobacco to be had, but it costs them $2 a pound. The workingmen of Canada are smoking the very same quality of tobacco at 60 cents a pound, and it is known to them by the name of "Myrtle Navy."

A. P. 255.

DRAIN TILE—FIRST-CLASS. Apply to WM. BUCKOW, Freeman P. O., Ont.

FOWLS — COLORED DORKINGS AND LANGshans for sale. WM. H. DOEL, Doncaster.

SHOE SHOP TO RENT IN BELGRAVE, ONT., at fifty dollars a year; use of sewing machine, trees, crimps, lasts, seats, stove. Apply to JOSHUA PEAREN, Belgrave.

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER — Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. 18 FRONT ST. EAST.

BENGOUGH'S SHORTHAND INSTITUTE—Public Library Building, Church-street; thorough tuition; reasonable rates; particulars free. THOS. BENGOUGH, President; C. H. BROOKS, Sec.-Treas.

MACHINERY FOR SALE—ENGINES AND Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills, Planing Factory Outfits, Stove and Heating Machines, water wheels, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descriptive catalogue, and mention what you want. (Mention this paper.) H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

WATER STAR AUGUR $30 Per Day WELL BORING has no superior; 20 feet per hour, hand or horse-power combined boring and rock drilling machine; grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue. 63 MARY STREET, HAMILTON, CANADA.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING —USE ONLY— Clapperton's Spool Cotton! Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on every label. For sale by all Dry-Goods Dealers.

JAMES PARK & SON. Pork Packers, Toronto. L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tube and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c. each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 35c. per box of 3 cakes, sent postage paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

CANADA PERMANENT LOAN & SAVINGS CO. Incorporated, A. D. 1855.

Subscribed Capital	$3,000,000
Paid up Capital	2,200,000
Reserve Fund	1,100,000
Total Assets	8,600,000

OFFICE: Company's Buildings, Toronto St., Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first-class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to J. HERBERT MASON, Managing Director

CAUTION. EACH PLUG OF THE MYRTLE NAVY IS MARKED T. & B. IN BRONZE LETTERS. NONE OTHER GENUINE.

The Magic Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a weakly woman or girl 14 years old, without the use of a wash board, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash collars in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bedclothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

Coleman's Improved Plough Harness Adapted to Orchard Work. No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price, $10 without collars and bridles. DEWEY & CO., COLBORNE ONT.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships. Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for the North of Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax, N.S., and St. John, N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during summer to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly. For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John, N.B.; N.F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N.F.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allan, Ross & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. & A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

CUT THIS OUT The New Co-Operative Sewing Machine —IS THE— BEST IN THE MARKET. NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE! Latest Improved Attachments. Agents price for similar machine. Our price only $25 each. Before buying send us stamp for our elegant catalogue and sample of sewing. Machines guaranteed for three years and warranted. Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write us. The Co-Operative Sewing Machine Co. 22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

THE "ECLIPSE" KNITTING MACHINE. The only machine suitable for family use. Machine, without change of cylinder or needles, knit all sizes of stockings or socks, full-fashioned and seamless. The Ribber is the simplest part of any machine, and the same needle is used in doing ribbing and plain work. The lifting of the stitches entirely dispensed with. Mitts, Gloves, Undershirts, Drawers, Sashes, Tuques, Jersey Suits, and almost every variety of knitted goods can be made on it. Received First Prize at Dominion and Provincial Exhibitions. First Honors at every fair giving prizes this year. Do not confound it with others. It is a new invention. Send Stamp for circular. Active agents wanted. Sold on instalment plan. Discount for cash. Instruction book sent with every machine, by which any person can learn to operate the "Eclipse." The Toronto Knitting Machine Co. 116 BAY ST., TORONTO.

BUY THE IMPROVED CONBOY Carriage Top AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET. There are over Twenty Thousand of these Tops now in use, and are giving more satisfaction than any other. The manufacturer of these Celebrated Carriage Tops, owns more patents for improvements, and makes a greater variety than any other firm in Canada or United States. THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY. FACTORY & SALEROOM 407 to 413 King St. West TORONTO.

QUEEN CITY OIL WORKS AGAIN VICTORIOUS! HIGHEST HONORS AND GOLD MEDAL FOR Peerless Oil At Toronto. Every Barrel Guaranteed. This Oil was used on the Machinery during the Exhibition. It has been awarded GOLD MEDALS during the last three years. See that you get PEERLESS. It is only made by SAMUEL ROGERS & CO., TORONTO.

$10 Reward for the Conviction Of Dealers who Sell inferior Oil of Our Manufacture in place of McCOLL'S LARDINE MACHINE OIL. THE ABOVE REWARD. Eureka, Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. For sale by all leading dealers. McColl Bros. & Co. Toronto.

AN EGYPTIAN P

A Story of Love and Wild Adventure, found tions in the Career of Ara

By the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER I.

GRAND CAIRO—THE CHOUBRAH ROAD AT SUNSET.

It is the celebrated Choubrah Road of Grand Cairo, the favorite European ride, drive and promenade in the cool of the evening, which is already here, for the great golden sun of Egypt is fast sinking below the neighboring desert sands, encrimsoning a heaven that crimsons again the boundless plain of burning sand till it looks like a vast lake of blood, with Sphinx and Pyramids rising like the grotesque shaped rocky islets from out its midst.

They, too, are bathed in the same fierce, sanguined glow, which, shooting athwart the entire exanpse of pale ultramarine sky, like the streamers, reddens even the crumbling walls of the citadel and steeps in a rosy blush the alabaster dome and heaven-inspiring minarets of the Mosque of Mehemet Ali.

But the Choubrah Road, bordered and in places almost overarched by its broad leafed sycamore and magnificent larch trees, is pleasant and agreeable, gay and animated, a nineteenth century fragment of Europe plumped down in the midst of a land that seems to have remained stationary ever since those long past ages when the little ark of the outcast Hebrew infant and the golden barge of the gorgeous daughter of the Ptolemies gloated over the lotus and lily studded river, whose yellow waters are now plowed by many a steam launch under the euphonious name of dahabeeyah, and re-echo instead of the clash and clangor of Pharaoh's war timbrels, the last catching opera bouffe or blatant music hall air, as bored on the flute or blared on the cornet by some average sample of American or British tourists.

But, thanks be, there are few of this class of gentry on the Choubrah Road the evening in which our tale opens, but the most showy turnouts that Paris or London can supply are there, as well as ladies and gentlemen mounted and attired as they would be in Central Park, the course at Longchamps, or London Rotten Row, and neither is music wanting to enliven the scene, for almost within sound of the muezzins' voices, as from every minaret top of the adjacent city they throw out their arms toward the setting sun and chant in sonorous tones, "God is great, and prayer is better than sleep!" a brass band is playing selections from "Pinafore" and "Les Manteaux Noirs."

Yet the scene is not all European, for it would be impossible to plant London or New York beside Grand Cairo without the population of the one overflowing occasionally into the other, and thus it is that along with European carriages and horses, ladies and gentlemen, grooms clad in showy liveries and of course, better mounted than their masters or mistresses, we behold also the warthy Egyptian officer in his dark blue uniform and red tarbouch, taking an airing on his thoroughbred Arab stallion, for well he loves to look upon the unveiled women of the west, with every now and then some "Light of the Harem," mounted on a painted Cairene ass, which is led by an armed eunuch, who (a perfect study in black and white) scowls savagely at any Feringhee who dares to gaze too fixedly at his mistress, albeit that there is nothing to be seen of her save a shroud-like mass of drapery and a pair of lustrous eyes, that gleam like stars through the slits of her yashmack.

Then, too, there is the wandering Bedouin, with a turban as big as a pumpkin and a spear of prodigious length, who is mounted on a great gaunt camel and is making his way deserward with what speed he may through the fashionable crowd, cursing them all under his beard, as unclean dogs and unbelievers, and frequently muttering some such pious wish as that "jackasses may defile the graves of their burnt fathers," for the amiable Bedouin has been stifling in the close city all day, and even the gay Italian villas, each standing in its own grounds, that still border the island on either side, seem to him like prison walls. He pants to reach the boundless sands and freedom.

Here and there also are a few scantily clad Fallaheen, the peasantry of the land, a peasantry who are always working and yet ever on the brink of starvation, by reason that three-fourths of their earnings are wrung out of them by iniquitous taxes for the building of palaces and the feting of strangers. They have to help pay, too, for the construction and maintenance of that Suez ship canal, connecting two seas, which has given to France glory, to England profit, and to poor Egypt simply a debt which will weigh her down for generations untold.

CHAPTER II

ROMANTIC RESCUE—THE MYSTERIOUS EGYPTIAN BEAUTY.

On the Choubrah road at the rosy sunset hour there is no time for further moralizing, and here comes one who deprives us of all desire to do so.

She is a most beautiful girl of some eighteen years of age, and she is driving a pair of cream colored ponies in an elegant little victoria that is shaped almost like a shell. She manages her whip and ribbons very prettily with the tiniest of hands, that are encased in dainty buff gauntlet gloves, and she is dressed to the very height of Parisian fashion.

Surely that peerless girl, with her spiritual violet eyes, golden hair, porcelain pure complexion and sweet, swaying form, will be allowed to run the gauntlet of so many eligible cavaliers without a single

'Last n... away also. "I went... light canno... tress, the... knowing... sire that t... Nile with... joyed ours... "What,... that the co... pletely spo... ment? In... my absence... result is th... self immed... "Oh, I w... fellows en... you'll let u... tell you all... back with... fin sh your... "I am n... think mam... turn for and... sideration... weeks, I'll... you and cha... The re-sul... Captain D... Monaghan,... bridle, orde... horse in coo... pha ton he... the white-en... sharply roun... bellion on th... on their trac... "Well F... back to Cai... "I'll tell... Nellie It... would return... ace to-morro... affair. Thre... and it will b... "Then I've... immense... wasted there... wretched pea... ing class of th... honey is stole... can accumula... rulers, who l... "The shuck... so; but anyh... markably wel... do your absen... Oh, you must... not let you a... "Then, for... you the promi... "In the nam... well, I thank... long a time ha... tian political... "I have giv... subject ever a... quaintance at... the war minist... "Whew! I... ropean nostrils... lie dear, he is... adventurer, an... tune."

"My opinion... in a thousand,... was one, the... heart bleeds fo... try and the mi... would willingly... "You little r... ficer. "You w... long if you rat... tell you what,... discussing polit... the world. I'd... morrow. You'... dive's and you'... with me. Com... dear?"

"Why, yes, i... isn't it a shan... shame I call it,... all his officers o... pean girls and... their wives, aist... —and in short,... kind locked up... prisons, where... what's going on... least?"

"It is the cust... countries have... know."

"Then why d... customs of this... make their wom... tian looks as mu... dance as one of t... do. And if the... champagne they... lowing the laws... what it is to bel... you think their w... ly? They never... chance of judgin... like bales of m... has been inside a... by the older ladi... together flown."

"I should say... ones would com... Nellie.'

"Oh, I might h... have made some... believe that you h... can be in no posi...

"Then permit... Nell, that not onl... not a fortnight a... take to be a very... genus in my arms... more shape-destro... than one of thos... that are in commo... ritz. It was a w... who was in charg... head open with h... his duty to serve... mistress unveiled...

"I don't feel at... have served you ri...

"He'd have use... ver inlaid pistols...

Line Royal Mail Steamship
during winter from Portland every Thursday
Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Queenstown Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry ry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland.
Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N.F., o Liverpool fortnightly during summer months.
amers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter months from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia fortnightly. and during summer between Glasgow and Portland eekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and iladelphia, fortnightly.
freight, passage, or other information apply
o A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore;
d & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's;
Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N.B.;
& Co., Chicago; Love & Allan, Montreal;
H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allan Bros & Co., Winnipeg;
; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. & A. Allan, New York; Portland, Boston, Montreal.

T THIS OUT

The New Co-Operative

wing Machine

—IS THE—

ST IN THE MARKET

EW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!

est Improved Attachments

ts price for similar machine

Our price only $25 each.

e buying send us stamp for our elegant
and sample of sewing.
Machines guaranteed for three years and ady was ng a machine will do will
The Co-Operative

wing Machine Co

AMES ST. SOUTH HAMILTON

THE

ECLIPSE

KNITTING MACHINE.

only machine suitable for family use without change of cylinder or needles l sizes of stockings or socks, full-fashioned mless. The Ribber is the simplest part of e, and the same needle is used in doing rib in work. The lifting of the stitches is ed with. Mitts, Gloves, Undershirts, Drawers Tuques, Jersey Suits, and almost every ted goods can be made on it. Received at Dominion and Provincial Exhibitions, Honors at every fair giving prizes this confound it with others. It is a new Send Stamp for circular. Active agents old on instalment plan. Discount for rtion book sent with every machine, any person can learn to operate the "Eclipse"

Toronto Knitting Machine Co

116 BAY ST., TORONTO.

BUY THE

IMPROVED CONBOY

arriage Top

HEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH
VENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE
TOP IN THE MARKET.

e are over Twenty Thousand of them now in use, and are giving better ction than any other.

manufacturer of these Celebrated ge Tops, owns more patents for ments, and makes a greater variety any other firm in Canada or d States.

ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING AGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT RPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.

TORY & SALEROOMS
7 to 413 King St. West
TORONTO.

OIL WORKS

HONORS AND GOLD
R

ss Oil

This Oil was used on
It has been awarded years See that you
y made by
CO., TORONTO

he Conviction

L'S ferior Oil of Canada
Manufactured

INE

E OIL.

g dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co.
Toronto.

AN EGYPTIAN ROMANCE

A Story of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

By the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPIDER," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER I.

GRAND CAIRO—THE CHOUBRAH ROAD AT SUNSET.

It is the celebrated Choubrah Road of Grand Cairo, the favorite European ride, drive and promenade in the cool of the evening, which is already here, for the great golden sun of Egypt is fast sinking below the neighboring desert sands, encrimsoning a heaven that crimsons again the boundless plain of burning sand till it looks like a vast lake of blood, with Sphinx and Pyramids rising like the grotesque shaped rocky islets from out its midst.

They, too, are bathed in the same fierce, sanguined glow, which, shooting athwart the entire exanpse of pale ultramarine sky, like the streamers, reddens even the crumbling walls of the citadel and steeps in a rosy flush the alabaster dome and heaven-inspiring minarets of the Mosque of Mehemet Ali.

But the Choubrah Road, bordered and in places almost overarched by its broad leafed sycamore and magnificent larch trees, is pleasant and agreeable, gay and animated, a nineteenth century fragment of Europe plumped down in the midst of a land that seems to have remained stationary ever since those long past ages when the little ark of the outcast Hebrew infant and the golden barge of the gorgeous daughter of the Ptolemies gloated over the lotus and lily studded river, whose yellow waters are now plowed by many a steam launch under the euphonious name of dahabeeyah, and re-echo instead of the clash and clangor of Pharaoh's war timbrels, the last catching opera bouffe or blatant music hall air, as bored on the flute or blared on the cornet by some average sample of American or British tourists

But, thanks be, there are few of this class of gentry on the Choubrah Road the evening in which our tale opens, but the most showy turnouts that Paris or London can supply are there, as well as ladies and gentlemen mounted and attired as they would be in Central Park, the course at Longchamps, or London Rotten Row, and neither is music wanting to enliven the scene, for almost within sound of the muezzins' voices, as from every minaret top of the adjacent city they throw out their arms toward the setting sun and chant in sonorous tones, "God is great, and prayer is better than sleep!" a brass band is playing selections from "Pinafore" and "Les Manteaux Noirs."

Yet the scene is not all European, for it would be impossible to plant London or New York beside Grand Cairo without the population of the one overflowing occasionally into the other, and thus it is that along with European carriages and horses, ladies and gentlemen, grooms clad in showy liveries and of course, better mounted than their masters or mistresses, we behold also the worthy Egyptian officer in his dark blue uniform and red tarbouch, taking an airing on his thoroughbred Arab stallion, for well he loves to look upon the unveiled women of the west, with every now and then some "Light of the Harem," mounted on a painted Cairene ass, which is led by an armed eunuch, who (a perfect study in black and white) scowls savagely at any Feringhee who dares to gaze too fixedly at his mistress, for that there is nothing to be seen of her but a shroud-like mass of drapery and a pair of lustrous eyes, that gleam like stars through the slits of her yashmack.

Then, too, there is the wandering Bedouin, with a turban as big as a pumpkin and a spear of prodigious length, who is mounted on a great gaunt camel and is making his way desertward with what speed he may through the fashionable crowd, cursing them under his beard, as unclean dogs and unbelievers, and frequently muttering some pious wish as that "jackasses may defile the graves of their burnt fathers," for the amiable Bedouin has been stifling in the city all day, and even the gay Italian flies, each standing in its own grounds, that still border the island on either side, seem to him like prison walls. He pants to reach the boundless sands and freedom.

There and there also are a few scantily clad Fellaheen, the peasantry of the land, a country who are always working and yet ever on the brink of starvation, by reason that three-fourths of their earnings are wrung out of them by iniquitous taxes for the building of palaces and the feting of foreigners. They have to help pay, too, for the construction and maintenance of that ruinous ship canal, connecting two seas, which has given to France glory, to England profit, and to poor Egypt simply a debt which will weigh her down for generations untold.

CHAPTER II

ROMANTIC RESCUE—THE MYSTERIOUS EGYPTIAN BEAUTY.

But at the Choubrah road at the rosy sunset hour there is no time for further moralizing, for here comes one who deprives us of all desire to do so.

She is a most beautiful girl of some eighteen years of age, and she is driving a pair of cream colored ponies in an elegant little victoria that is shaped almost like a shell.

She manages her whip and ribbons very prettily with the tiniest of hands, that are encased in dainty buff gauntlet gloves, and she is dressed in the very height of Parisian fashion.

Surely that peerless girl, with her spiritual violet eyes, golden hair, porcelain pure complexion and sweet, swaying form, will be allowed to run the gauntlet of so many eligible cavaliers without a single defiance.

Now she, for presently a tall, manly figure, curly haired and laughing eyed and fallow, who sits his horse as though he and the animal were one, curvets toward the elegant little equipage, and as he gets into close proximity thereto, lifts his hat and exclaims in accents of evident delight:

"I'm not sure it was you when you were yet a long way off. When did you return to Cairo?"

"Last night. And you? You have been away also, have you not?"

"I went simply because you went. Daylight cannot long linger when once its mistress, the sun, has disappeared. So, not knowing how to kill time, and having no desire that time should kill me, I went up the Nile with half a dozen friends, and we enjoyed ourselves immensely."

"What, without me? Are you aware that the conclusion of your speech has completely spoiled the effect of its commencement? In the beginning you declare that my absence has almost killed you, and the result is that you go away and enjoy yourself immensely."

"Oh, I meant to have said that the other fellows enjoyed themselves immensely. If you'll let me be your charioteer, Nellie, I'll tell you all about the affair and send Simson back with my groom. You don't want to finish your drive this early?"

"I am not very particular, and I don't think mamma will scold much if I don't return for another half hour. Anyhow, in consideration of our not having met for five weeks, I'll take a turn down the road with you and chance it."

The result of this "chancing it" was that Captain Donelly called up his groom, Pat Monaghan, dismounted, threw him the bridle, ordered him to be sure to take the horse in cool, and then entering the little phaeton he relieved the fair charioteer of the white enamelled reins, wheeled the ponies sharply round, and after a faint show of rebellion on their part, made them trot back on their tracks.

"Well, Frank, I wonder what brought us back to Cairo almost together?"

"I'll tell you what brought me back, Nellie. It was the conviction that you would return for the fete at the Gezirah Palace to-morrow night. It will be a grand affair. Three thousand guests are invited, and it will be gotten up regardless of cost."

"Then I've a great mind not to go, for the immense amount of money that is to be wasted thereon, will be first wrung from the wretched peasantry, who are the only working class of the entire community, and whose honey is stolen from them as fast as they can accumulate it by their idle and cruel rulers, who leave them only the wax."

"The shucks, you mean. Well, perhaps so; but anyhow they grin and bear it remarkably well, which is more than I should do your absenting yourself from the fete. Oh, you must promise you will go. I shall not let you alight until you do."

"Then, for my ponies' sake, I will give you the promise—there."

"In the name of the ponies and my own as well, I thank you. And now tell me for how long a time have you been studying Egyptian political economy?"

"I have given a few stray thoughts to the subject ever since I made a delightful acquaintance at Alexandria in Arabi Pasha, the war minister."

"Whew! His is a name offensive to European nostrils just at present. Why, Nellie dear, he is a dark schemer, a reckless adventurer, an unscrupulous soldier of fortune."

"My opinion of him is that he is a man in a thousand, a true patriot, if ever there was one, the sole living Egyptian whose heart bleeds for the degradation of his country and the misery of its people, and who would willingly die to exalt both or either."

"You little rebel," laughed the young officer. "You will make me jealous before long if you rattle on at that rate. But I'll tell you what, Nell, I don't feel at all up to discussing politics with you, of all folks in the world. I'd much sooner talk about to-morrow. You'll go to this fete of the Khedive's and you'll dance the first round dance with me. Come, that's all settled, is it not, dear?"

"Why, yes, if you will have it so. But isn't it a shame, Frank, yes, a burning shame I call it, that whilst the Kedive and all his officers of state dance with us European girls and enjoy it so that they keep their wives, sisters and daughters and—and—and in short, the whole of their womankind locked up in what can only be called prisons, where they can see nothing of what's going on or enjoy themselves in the least?"

"It is the custom of the country, and all countries have some absurd customs, you know."

"Then why don't the men observe the customs of this especial country as well as make their women do so? I'm sure an Egyptian looks as much out of place in a round dance as one of their Nile crocodiles could do. And if they drank sherbet instead of champagne they'd be a deal more closely following the laws of their prophet. Oh, dear, what it is to belong to the weaker sex! Do you think their women can be so very lovely? They never give us Feringhee girls a chance of judging, for in the street they look like bales of merchandise. Mamma, who has been inside a harem, was only received by the older ladies, whose charms had altogether flown."

"I should say that none of the younger ones would compare in beauty with you, Nellie."

"Oh, I might have known that you would have made some such reply, though I don't believe that you have ever seen one, and so can be in no position to judge."

"Then permit me to inform you, Miss Nell, that not only have I seen one, but that not a fortnight ago I held what I should take to be a very favorable specimen of the genus in my arms, who was clad in nothing more shape-destroying or beauty-concealing than one of those scant bathing costumes that are in common use at Trouville or Biarritz. It was a wonder that the black rascal who was in charge of her didn't slice my head open with his scimitar, for so it was his duty to serve any one who gazed on his mistress unveiled."

"I don't feel at all sure that it wouldn't have served you right if he had."

"He'd have used his scimitar and his silver inlaid pistols as well to better purpose if he had attacked with them the crocodile that was on the point of making the pretty bather its prey. Had he done so I might not have interfered, but as it was I threw Mohammedan etiquette to the winds, by first shooting the crocodile from the bank with my rifle and then plunging into the river to preserve from drowning the woman whom its advance had frightened out of her depth into deep water. I saved her, carried her back to her dahabeeyah, and deposited her therein, and then waded and swam ashore as best I could with my water-saturated clothes on and a current running at the rate of very nearly four miles an hour."

"Well, all things considered, you did not deserve to have your head sliced off. I'm very glad you saved the poor thing. And so she was not so very, very beautiful?"

"Certainly not. She had the most splendidly lustrous eyes, magnificent hair and a most perfect form, but though her features were also good in the main, her lips are like those that we see in the pictures of Pharaoh's daughter, and to an exaggerated extent in the Sphinx, and they are certainly the reverse of lovely to European taste."

"Yet they mark her as being a real Egyptian, and one of pure blood and ancient lineage."

"Such is my impression, and I should say that she was the wife, sister or daughter of some very great man, for her dahabeeyah was also a magnificent one, and her eunuch was most gorgeously attired, whilst she herself wore on neck, wrists, ankles and arms almost sufficient of golden ornaments to have sunk her with their weight even had she been able to swim."

"I declare, Frank, I think I have as much reason to be jealous of your interesting bather as you have to be of my war minister. Pray, how did she thank you?"

"She pressed my hand, and then slipped on to my little finger this ring, which she took from off her thumb. She accompanied the gift with these softly murmured words in broken yet perfectly intelligible French, 'Tis the jewel of the month, so wear it ever, and be sure that as long as you do so during this month of the year, death nor misfortune will ever find you.' Then she looked me full in the face with a world of sentiment in her dark, lustrous orbs, and added in still lower tones, 'Answer the summons of the lotus flower,' and immediately drawing the curtains that surrounded the little cabin of the dahabeeyah, I saw her no more."

"A very pretty adventure, I declare; but what did she mean by the summons of the lotus flower?"

"I'm sure I cannot say. Some mere flower of speech, I should imagine, Nellie."

"If I were at all jealous or suspicious I should feel positive that it bore reference to some future meeting that she intended to have with you. However, I possess neither feeling, so let me have a nearer look at the ring which she gave you."

"Frank Donelly passed the whip into his rein hand, and his hastily drawn off glove along, and held up the other for his companion's close inspection."

No sooner did Nellie's gaze alight on the gem, however, than she exclaimed:

"Oh, it's a fire opal, and it glares like a conflagration. Why, Frank, it is the most unlucky stone that one person can possibly give unto another."

As Nellie Tregarr uttered the words, still holding Frank Donelly's hand in hers (indeed she was unable to let it go, so great was her horror) she happened to look up and round, and was instantly fascinated by the glance of two eyes that were fixed upon her from within a rapidly passing carriage, and whose expression filled her with more unaccountable dread than even the opal ring had done.

"Frank," said she, hastily dropping his hand, "who was inside that carriage?"

"What carriage? The Khedival affair that just flashed past us, do you mean? I declare, I never noticed. Not your war minister, you may be quite sure of that, Nellie."

"War minister? Who is thinking of such nonsense? It was two yashmacked women who were inside, and one had the most beautiful eyes, but they glared on me like those of a fury."

Frank Donelly looked around on hearing this, and beheld the huge face of a Nubian negro, with a scarlet and white turban stuck sideways on the top thereof, and a hideous grin on his thick blubber lips, staring back at him across the top of the heavy, cumbrous vehicle which they had just encountered.

"Confound it," he ejaculated, "that fellow perched beside the driver on the box is the very eunuch who had charge of the bathing lady whom I saved from the crocodile."

"Then it was your bathing lady who glared at me through the eyelet holes in her veil as though she would like to kill me. Frank, her fierce, vengeful eyes and that ring together have given me such a turn. And see how dark it has suddenly grown. It is like an ill-omened something suddenly overshadowing our young lives. It may be foolish of me to think so, but I can't help it. Oh, do let us turn around and drive home."

"By all means, if you desire it, darling; but pray, how long have you been so superstitious?"

"I don't know, not for long, I think, but this strange, mysterious land forces me into weird strains of thought that are even opposed to one's common sense. Frank, I have never doubted your affection or your constancy, and yet do let me hear you say that you will never in the future love any one else as well as you now love me."

"If I so far humor you, you will be quite sure to go to the palace fete to-morrow?"

"Quite sure; in fact, I would not miss going there now on any account."

"Then, Nellie, may I die a death of shame if I even learn to love any one else a quarter so much as I now love you," and he raised her gloved hand to his lips and kissed it.

Let us picture the remainder of the homeward drive, and the tender leave taking of its termination, a beautiful Italian villa called Mount Carmel, the abode of the rich English countess, whose only child our pretty heroine is; afterwards accompanying in imagination the young Irish dragoon guardsman (who is wintering in Egypt for his health's sake) in his solitary walk back to his quarters at the world-famed Shepherd's Hotel.

CHAPTER III.

THE ILLUMINATED FETE AT THE PALACE.

Pass we over an uninteresting twenty-eight hours, and then change we the scene to the illuminated palace of Gezirah, on the opposite bank of the Nile, a vast Saracenic structure standing in the midst of many acres of park and shrubbery and beautifully laid out gardens, in which a fete is being given by the Khedive on the mere occasion of his birthday.

Out of the three thousand guests who have been invited, there are at least two thousand five hundred present, the hundreds being represented by the fete-giver's fellow countrymen, and the thousands being drawn from the most influential and opulent of the Christian population, who, of late years, have made the land of the Pharaohs their home, and who, the Khedive knows full well, are the sole supporters of his throne.

The gardens are adorned with a thousand flower beds, whose shrubs are the myrtle and the mimosa, with orange, lemon and citron trees showing the blossom, the green fruit and the ripe, at one and the same time, whilst high above them all the feathery forms of the palm, the dusky foliage of the olive, and the broad waxen leaves of the fig wave in the gentle breeze that comes laden with the hot air from the distant desert.

Here and there, too, are perfect groves of roses, whose fragrance is almost overpowering, and in and out through flower beds and emerald leaves, like silvery scaled serpents gliding in all directions, trickle rills of bubbling water in tiny terra cotta canals, for flowers, grass and shrubs are ever thirsty in such a clime, and would soon fade and perish but for this tribute drawn from the neighboring Nile.

Nor without it would even the leaves of the tall trees be so green, or the gaily plumaged birds warble so blithely in their branches, thinking that another day has dawned before its time, and little wonder, for the outlines of every bed and path are traced with little, colored lamps, and thousands of gaudy Chinese lanterns hang like Brobdignagian fruit amidst tree and shrub, whilst every fountain (and there are many score) tosses high in air water of the most brilliant and ever changing colors.

But let us quit this scene of fairyland until the fairies arrive to people it, and entering the palace, take up our position unseen in the gorgeous Hall of a Hundred Mirrors, from whose azure-domed roof a thousand stars of glass gleam down on an assemblage that is well worth contemplating.

The superb band of the Khedive's favorite regiment of zouave uniformed lancers is discoursing the most modern dance music in a shell-shaped gallery, which is entirely coated with mother of pearl, and in the vast space beneath, the Khedive's guests are already nearly all assembled. Seventeen out of the twenty foreign consuls, each of whom brings his own laws to Egypt, and insists that his countrymen shall be amenable to no other, are there with their wives and families, a swarm of locusts that certainly form one of the seven plagues of modern Egypt; but they by no means exclude the other six, who are also present in full force, comprising men who have grown fat on the spoiling of the Egyptians, and whom one can only feel half inclined to forgive, because so much of the loot has gone toward enhancing the charms of their comely wives and pretty daughters.

Nellie Tregarr is there, looking as beautiful as a Peri, but not quite so happy as one, for she is under her mother's wing, and her mother is essentially worldly.

Like many mothers, so she has a pet aversion for the man whom her daughter loves better than all others, and in heart (and herein we hope that she is unlike the majority of motners) would rather see her fair child even the fourth wife of a rich Egyptian or Turkish pasha than married to a penniless Irish dragoon.

"But Frank is not penniless and he has, besides, great expectations," Nellie had pleaded as they were crossing the Nile by the especial pontoon bridge that spanned it for the occasion, on their way to the palace. "Yes, mamma, he has very large expectations."

"I never knew an Irishman who had not, my dear, and expectations they in general remain to the end of the chapter. But as to Captain Donelly, I have objections to him on other grounds, for he is volatile to a fault, extravagant, reckless, and in addition that most detestable thing, a male flirt."

"Oh, mamma, I am sure that his worst enemies cannot say that of him."

"Then I will say it for them, my dear. I'm sure that ofttimes his attentions to me have been of a most devoted nature, yet no sooner have you come up to us than he has transferred them to you as lightly and easily as he could change his gloves."

"But, mamma, dear, he was only attentive to you because you were my mother."

"Nellie, I'm really surprised at your self-conceit. I'm sure I'm still a very presentable woman, and therefore it is by no means a necessity that a gentleman should pay attention to me merely for my daughter's sake. I've known queens of society at sixty, and how a man of taste and discernment can suffer his attention to be lightly diverted from the conversation of a cultured woman to the commonplace inanities of a mere girl is more than I can comprehend. No, Nellie, I have a very poor opinion of Captain Donelly, and I fear with grave reason."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The Canadian Pacific.

A few more miles of track-laying and the Canadian Pacific Railway will be completed. In a few days the iron band will unite the east with the west, British Columbia will be only a few hours' from Nova Scotia. As a triumph of engineering skill our great trans-continental line stands unrivalled in the annals of railway building. The history of the work from its inception to its grand consummation will be interesting and instructive reading when it is written by the unprejudiced historian. In the prosecution of such a work, involving, as it has, millions of money it would be scarcely possible to carry it through without some attempt at jobbery. The building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been carried forward by the Company with commendable energy, and if they have succeeded in getting a big price for their work they should be allowed to enjoy the benefits of their good bargain. What is matter for sincere regret, however, is the exceeding sparseness of the population along the line of the railway in the Northwest. Before the concern can ever pay a dividend the number of settlers will have to increase millions. At present, scattered through a thousand miles of the territory through which the line passes, there are little more than 200,000 people, whilst the resources of this vast region lie practically undeveloped. But the completion of the road will increase the tide of immigration in that direction, and villages, towns and cities will multiply until Manitoba and the North west will be peopled by the millions for which there is ample room.

The Principles of Color.

BY W. A. SHERWOOD.

There is no element in nature more widely diffused, or more infinitely developed, than the element of color. Look around you everywhere and it abounds. It, indeed, is the medium through which we look and see, for the sunlight itself is a component of the three primary colors. Of this fact we are every day convinced. The three primary colors are, viz., Red, Blue and Yellow, and these, by their various combinations, produce what are termed secondary colors, and the secondary colors, by a union of any two, produce a Tertiary. Red and Blue of the primary will give you Purple, a secondary; Blue and Yellow, Green; Yellow and Red, Orange. The range or scale from light to shade must more or less be apparent to all. Take Red, for example, follow it through in all its varieties from pale pink to deep crimson; to what an infinite degree may not its range run, yet, preserving all its primary characteristics, for the red of the pink is equal to the red of the crimson; the presence of the lighter or deeper tone in no-wise affecting the primary. And the law that governs the one governs all colors. The scale of tones in Yellow is apparent to every lover of flowers. You know how pale the the Primrose is, and how deep and rich the yellow of the "Marechal Neil" Rose, yet since that degree of depth does neither add nor detract from the primary, they both are equally yellow. There are many flowers, the Tulip for example, that will illustrate this truth. Indeed almost every flower is in itself an excellent illustration, the more secluded parts being invariably darker than the outer portions. The terms we use to express these varied hues do not lessen the fact of their being but one in color. Of Blue—we know the pale hues of the little "Forget me not" and the deep hues of the Convolvolus, and both are equally blue. Thus to know and understand the first principles of color is to know and understand the whole range, whatever variety it may assume. A little observation will well repay the time spent in the pursuit of this most charming study, and can there be any study more beneficial in all of nature's schools than the study of the beautiful as exhibited in the principles of color? We all have our favorite color in nature—it may be associated with a tree or a flower, a mountain or a lake. It may be at the rising or the setting of the sun—for both are beautiful. And when nature exhibits our favorite color, it is then we admire her most.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Eggs sell in Panama for 30 cents apiece.

The shamrock is growing scarce in Ireland.

Complaint is made that nothing fit to eat can be had in Cuba.

Trained seals in Paris lie on their backs and smoke a pipe.

Homer, a place in Georgia, hasn't had a death in three years.

Narrow streets are said to be promotive of murder in Baltimore.

The cultivation of the bamboo has proved quite successful in California.

The largest fortunes accumulated in Ireland have been made in the liquor business.

The London Truth tells of a dog that loses all desire to get out of a Sunday after being shown a prayer book.

Charles XII., of Sweden was killed at 36, after having spent eighteen years in command of his army.

A Cincinnati husband who threatened to cut his wife's heart out and carry it around on a shingle got off with a fine of $5.

A scheme is afoot in France to convert Paris into a seaport town. It is proposed to build a ship canal from the seacoast to the capital.

The oak tree planted by Lord Byron at Newstead Abbey is large and flourishing, although the alder on which he cut the names "Byron and Augusta" long since died.

The largest apothecary's establishment is said to be that of Waldemar Ferrain of Moscow, in which 800 laboratory and other assistants are employed, and over 1,000 prescriptions are dispensed daily.

The same flag was used at Vallejo, Cal., during the celebration of the recent Admission Day anniversary that was flung to the breeze when the news of the admission of California as a State was received thirty-five years ago.

In several villages of the Viatki province, in Russia, the peasants manufacture wooden watches, which work steadily, though they do not keep very accurate time; all the parts of the watch are of wood, except the axles, which are of horn.

Lieutenant Schwatka and Engineer Melville are again laying their plans to find the north pole. It would be easier for them and less expensive to go to bed and blow the gas out.

"If tobacco is an evil," observes the Detroit Free Press, "why does Providence permit such thumping big crops?" Providence, we believe, is not responsible for the manufacture of cabbage leaves into Havana tobacco.

The old-fashioned spinning wheel was introduced a short time ago into the Isle of Man Insane Asylum with the idea of amusing the patients. The latter seemed delighted that they could in this way contribute to their support, and became so absorbed in their new occupation that their nervous symptoms no longer predominated. As Dr. Richardson, the medical superintendent expressed it, the direction of the nervous force was changed, and their condition was improved. The experiment is to be tried in other asylums.

The Standard.

MARKDALE NOVEMBER 5, 1885

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO AND NOW.

Fifteen years appears short when past; yet, what important changes takes place in a comparatively new country in that length of time. Fifteen years ago there was no Markdale; true, there was a few houses in the place, then called Cornabuss; now it is one of the most thrifty and staunch villages in the Dominion.

Fifteen years ago we had no railway; now we have through our midst, a railway which is second to none on the continent.

Fifteen years ago all the produce of this district was hauled to Collingwood a distance of nearly forty miles; now we have large storehouses and an excellent market at home, from which place the products of the surrounding country is conveyed by steam power to foreign markets.

Fifteen years ago, in order to reach Toronto, it was necessary to leave home about 3 o'clock in the morning, take stage from Flesherton to Collingwood thence by rail, reaching the city at 10 at night, and another day full as long to return; now we step into a first class coach about half past six a. m., arriving in Toronto in about four hours, have six full hours to do business in the best business portion of the day, say from 11 to 5, and return same evening at about 9 o'clock.

Fifteen years ago we were almost completely isolated from the outside world; now we have all the means of communication of the fast age in which we live: Postal, Telegraphic, Railway, &c., &c.

Fifteen years ago ye editor was twenty years of age, and if he lives fifteen more he will be fifty, and if not, the world will move along just the same.

MUSIC TEACHER'S CONCERT.

Notwithstanding the exceedingly bad state of the weather as well as the roads on Thursday evening last, the concert given by Mrs. Irvine was very well attended. Had the evening been fine the house would have been crowded. Mrs. Irvine's class consists of thirty-one pupils of various ages from 7 or 8 years up, and we understand it is her intention to give an entertainment every three months for the encouragement of her pupils. The chair was occupied by Dr. Sproule, M. P., who presided in his customary dignified and happy manner. The program was lengthy, varied and well rendered, many of the pupils showing marked advancement in that most desirable art. The love of music, and the culture and development of the musical talents or propensities of the youth cannot receive too much encouragement on the part of parents; its influences are truly refining, elevating and cheering. We are gratified to see so much interest taken in this most desirable accomplishment, if it may be so called, there being several large classes in our prosperous little village.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

Flesherton Station, Nov. 3, '85.

To the Editor of the Standard.

SIR,—We notice an item in the STANDARD of last week regarding the stallion race at the Northern Exhibition, Walkerton, which would seem to be inspired by Mr. J. R. Trimble, the unhappy owner of "Joe Gale."

The STANDARD says "Goldfinder" had to do considerable running in order to win this race. Such was not the case, as we are prepared to prove, on the testimony of the judges, that "Goldfinder" won the race in first-class honest style, trotting from wire to wire without a skip. The first heat was won by "Crown Imperial" by half a length; "Goldfinder," 2nd; "Joe Gale," 3rd; running 75 yards behind. The 2nd and 3rd heats were won by "Goldfinder," "Crown Imperial" being placed 2nd by the judges, "Joe Gale" having been set back for running; and we are authorized by Mr. T. W. Bollston of Walkerton, who acted as patrol judge, to say that "Joe Gale" did not trot one mile in the whole three heats.

The STANDARD again says, "Mr. Trimble, as we understand, purchased 'Joe Gale' for stock purposes and not for trotting." If such is the case, why did Mr. Trimble enter for the stallion race at the Industrial Exhibition, Toronto, and also for the stallion races at Collingwood and Walkerton. In our opinion his purpose was quite obvious.

With reference to the waggons used at Walkerton, we would say, that our waggon was 15 lbs. lighter than the Johnston waggon, used by Trimble, but that our driver, Mr. Thos. Middleton, weighed 183 lbs., and that Mr. J. Jenkins, Trimble's driver, only weighed 128 lbs., thus giving Trimble's horse an advantage of 40 lbs. in weight

The STANDARD further says, that "Goldfinder" was in good condition. This is not correct, as "Goldfinder" lamed himself on the back tenants of the fore leg at the Industrial Exhibition, Toronto, and was not out of the stable from Sept. 29th (date of Flesherton fair) until we started him for Walkerton, on Tuesday, Oct. 6th; he was then by no means in good condition.

However, if Mr. Trimble is not satisfied with the result of the race at Walkerton, we will match "Goldfinder" to trot "Joe Gale," mile heats, best three in five, National Association Rules to govern, for $100 a side, on any of the following tracks, viz: Owen Sound, Meaford, Woodbine or Barrie, within three weeks from date. We will meet Mr. Trimble at any convenient place he may name, to put up if he wants to match us.

Hoping you will insert the above in your valuable paper,

We remain yours respectfully,
HANNAH & MCGIRR,
Flesherton Station.

A PROFITABLE LIFE.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chas. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Byspepsia. Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to call in at A. Turner & Co. and buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Nov.

Berkeley.

From a correspondent.

In the Berkeley items last week in regard to the attempted incendiary it should have read Dring's house instead of Davis.

Hallowe'en passed off without any serious damage being done to our citizens or their property as far as known; not, however, without raising the ire of certain parties. It appears a family in our town foolishly left their clothes out on the line, and to their great disgust found next morning part of the wearing apparel missing, having been made into a very artistically and fashionably dressed effigy and erected in front of Sargent's blacksmith shop. The joke was enjoyed by the majority.

Our teacher, Miss VanDusen, returned on Monday from visiting friends in Owen Sound.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

It is popularly admitted everywhere that McGregor's Speedy Cure is the safest, most reliable and far cheapest remedy for Constipation, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Impure Blood, Loss of Appetite, and all similar troubles. It is not necessary to take a great quantity before any result is produced. A few doses will convince you of its merits, Trial bottle given free at Hill Bro's. 3

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

A cottage social, held at the residence of Mr. Roger Lever on Friday evening last, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, was very well patronized, and was a very pleasant affair.

We have this week to note the acquisition to the J. P's bench in the person of our esteemed citizen, Mr. M. Richardson, who has received the appointment, and was duly sworn in a Justice of the Peace a few days ago.

Mr. P. Munshaw's new brick dwelling is almost completed.

The brick work on R. Lever's dwelling is almost completed.

PLEURISY AND LUNG FEVER.

Inflammation of the Lungs, or the pleura covering them, is the result of sudden colds. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam relieves the sore chest, loosens and cures the cough and difficult breathing, and allays all irritation arising from colds.

The American Agriculturist for November, 1885.

This is one of the most brilliant and varied numbers ever issued. The illustrations, numbering nearly one hundred, are superior to any which have hitherto appeared. The full-page engraving of the Cattle Quarantine Station, and the Village Blacksmith, are specially fine, while cattle, horses, small stock, house-plans, farm implements, new fruit and flowers, etc., etc., are fully illustrated. The articles are as usual adapted to the season, and include Stable Fittings for Horses, an Obituary and Portrait of Goldsmith Maid, an article on an American Breed of Polled Cattle, Notes on Southern Farming, an article on French Pigs with Portrait, on Berkshires, on Fattening Swine, a Movable Pen, etc., Ice Houses and Filling them, Shropshire Sheep, Sheep Pastures, articles on Winter Care of Sheep, etc., Winter Rations of Dairy Cows, a Winter Dairy, articles on Dairying and Butter Making, most of which are fully illustrated. Then the subject of Quarantining Cattle is fully described, with a groupe of pictures occupying a full page. A Warm Fowl House described, and also the Dakota system of Wintering Fowls. In the Horticultural pages, occur descriptions of Flowering Plants, beautifully illustrated; the Culture of Orchards is discussed, Methods of Keeping Celery described, etc., etc. Besides, Col. Moore disscusses Farmer's Clubs and Libraries, Mr. C. A. Dewey, Horses not on Farms, Henry Stewart, Large and Small Swine, Dr. Thurber, the Influence of Railroads in Sowing Weeds. Then there are the valuable answers to inquiries in "Our Basket," the Animal Ailment Column, Sundry Humbugs exposed, etc., etc. Price, $1.50 a year. Single numbers, 15 cts. Address Publishers American Agriculturist, 751 Broadway, New York.

"Is there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said,
'I will my country paper take,
Both for my own and family's sake?'
If such there be, let him repent—
And have the paper to him sent;
And if he'd pass a happy winter,
He in advance should pay the printer."

"Git Up and Git."

A correspondent of the Globe rebukes another correspondent who had been advocating Canadian independence in that paper, and concludes by asking the advocate of independence why, if he does not like living in a colony, he does not "git up and git." This is a question frequently asked by bigoted loyalists, and it has been answered by thousands of Canadians, who, so to speak, have got up and got. Because this style of argument has been used, New York, Chicago, and all of the most important American cities have large Canadian colonies. From Michigan to Dakota, from Ohio to California, enterprising Canadian farmers and pushing young business men are living under the American flag, because when they wanted democratic institutions the bigots have always said "git up and git." We want to keep our young men in Canada. We want to give them institutions and possibilities which will encourage them to remain here. But while fanatics tell them if they don't like our institutions to depart for the United States the exodus will go on, and Canada will lose the best blood and the best brains from amoung her people.—Toronto News.

PAIN IN THE SIDE, from whatever cause, may be quickly relieved by Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which cures all manner of aches and pains, and all soreness and lameness of the flesh applied and taken inwardly,

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twenty five cents.

BIRTHS.

ELLIOTT—In Artemesia, on Hollowe'en, (31st Oct.) the wife of Mr. Thos. Elliott, of a son.

MARRIAGES.

SMITH—HURLBURT.—By Rev. T. Grandy, on the 4th inst., Mr. John W. Smith, to Miss M. E. Hurlburt, all of Euphrasia.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 70	to	0 85
Barley	35	to	58
Peas	50	to	55
Oats	25	to	28
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	25	to	40
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 50
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

TO THE PUBLIC.

—:o:—

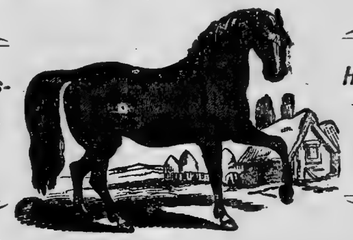
We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

—:o:—

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL.



☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

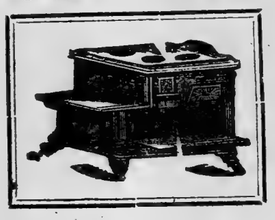
Markdale, October 20, 1885. 265-tf

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.



VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary: MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE.

Stoves! Stoves!

Cook Stoves,
$16.50 Trimmed Parlor Stoves,
Coal Stoves,
Box Stoves,
All equally low.

Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.

☞ Intending purchasers will do well to give us a call as we cannot be undersold.

WALKER BRO'S,

3m MARKDALE.

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., - - - Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT.

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

TEACHER WANTED.

TEACHER, holding third class certificate, duties to commence next January. Applications received up to 2nd November by R. H. STINSON, Sec.-Treas., S. S. No. 16, Euphrasia, Markdale, P. O. 265-67

Store to Rent in Makaale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent. Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent, Strathnairn, P. O., Ont. 149-tf

Fall Assizes.

(Continued from last week.)

ALMOND DRINKWATER was arraigned and pleaded guilty to the forgeries he was accused of.

QUEEN vs. WM. G. GARDINER.—The prisoner was accused of maliciously wounding one McLaren. The evidence showed it to be a fight between the parties. Verdict, not guilty. A Frost for the Crown. Jno. Creasor, Q. C., for the defence.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against Thos. B. Gilliland for perjury, and one against John Bell and Aaron Boynton for stealing from the person.

INKSETTER vs. TOTTEN & HAYES.—The defendants has a judgment against John Inksetter, and seized some telegraph poles which were claimed by Wm. Inksetter, the plaintiff. This was an Interpleader suit to try to whom the property belonged. Verdict for plaintiff. Creasor & Morrison for plaintiff. Platt for defendent Totten, and Masson for Masson for defendant Hayes.

QUEEN vs. JAS. WHITE.—The prisoner was indicted for a nuisance in having a glandered horse on the highway. The evidence was very conflicting, and the jury failed to agree. A. Frost for the Crown. J. M. Kilbourn for the defence.

FRIDAY.

WM. H. WHITBY, for receiving horse knowing it to be stolen, was sentenced to six months in Central Prison; and Almond Drinkwater, for forgery, to five years in Penitentiary.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against J. P. Connor for conspiracy.

QUEEN vs. JNO. BELL AND AARON BOYNTON.—The prisoners were accused of robbing Dugald Campbell, jr., of a sum of money in June last. The prosecutor told a circumstantial story of being at Bell's Hotel Singhampton, of starting home walking the two prisoners with him, and of Bell putting his hand in his pocket and taking the money. After hearing two or three of the witnesses for the defence, His Lordship stopped the case and ordered the prisoners to be discharged, saying that he charitably took Campbell's testimony as arising from the vagaries of a drunken man, or he would have him indicted for perjury. A. Frost for the Crown. Jas. Masson for the defence.

BURPEE vs. MCRAE.—This was an action brought by the township of Burpee against A. C. McRae on a bond for $3,000, by which he bound himself to erect a grist and saw mill within the township. Judgment reserved. Jno. Creasor, Q. C., and S. Platt for plaintiffs. A. D. Cameron for defendant.

THE EMMA MINE CASE.

QUEEN vs. CONNORS.—This was the celebrated conspiracy case against P. J. Connors, a detective from the Pinkerton Agency, Chicago, which has created a great deal of interest in this locality. He was charged with conspiracy with others to defraud Mrs. Billings and members of her family, by obtaining their interests in the celebrated Emma Mine, of which Mrs. Billings' first husband, Mr. Woods, was one of the original discoverers, without adequate compensation. The main facts of how a Mr. Moody, learning that Woods left a widow in Canada started from Colorado in search of her; how the other side learning what he was about, put a detective on his track, who shadowed him from Chicago, and finally got to Owen Sound and saw Mrs. Billings, ahead of him. Our readers are already familiar with. The Crown tried to prove the great value of the mine by the first witness, Moody, who was present at a trial in Colorado, and heard the value stated on oath by a person who had charge of the books, but His Lordship ruled that this kind of secondary evidance was not admissable. The principal facts brought out in the trial were as follows:—Mr. Moody, who was an Attorney in Colorado, was employed by a woman there who was thought to be the lawful widow of Mr. Woods, to look after her interest, and his wife bought all her share for a very small sum. Then finding that there was an "original widow" in Canada, he came here with the intention of getting her to entrust her business to him and give him a share if he got the property for her When the detective got ahead, and with his two friends got the confidence of Mrs. Billings, she asked $40,000 for her share, from the information of value which Moody had given her; but on representation that her claim was doubtful, and that they were only paying her something to prevent litigation, they got her to give a quit claim deed of her interest for $2,500. After signing this and getting her money, Mrs. Billings was then induced by others to make a trust deed to R. J. Doyle, the terms of which were disclosed by another agreement, by which it appeared that Moody was to get half for recovering the property, and he was to give Doyle 20 per cent. for his services—10 per cent. for himself, and the other 10 per cent. for the professional men who assisted in the case. It appeared that in addition to this, Mr. Doyle was also to get 10 per cent. from Mrs. Billings for looking after her interest. Meanwhile the detective had started for Port Arthur, where one of the Woods boys resided, and represented to him that he was a detective employed by the authorities to distribute $3,200 [illegible] which had al[illegible] and one-sixth [illegible] but he was g[illegible] assignment o[illegible] Lordship inte[illegible] was no evide[illegible] would be imp[illegible] been defraud[illegible] Two other in[illegible] a similar off[illegible] Frost for the[illegible] and Masson [illegible]

ORR vs. F[illegible] which the Po[illegible] wife sued the[illegible] Standard for[illegible] against them[illegible] brought out [illegible] but the jury [illegible] criticisms we[illegible] in a verdict f[illegible] J. Birnie for[illegible] and R. H. E[illegible]

The Court[illegible] several cases[illegible] Court.

An unpara[illegible] all over Onta[illegible] equalled man[illegible] ache, Rheum[illegible] removed by [illegible] Lightning. [illegible] need be taken[illegible] Try a 25c. bo[illegible]

RIOT AND[illegible] 10:30 the f[illegible] and a big r[illegible] tion of Ba[illegible] whereabout[illegible] covered to[illegible] where a rio[illegible] Atterberry[illegible] Americans [illegible] were havin[illegible] spitoons, [illegible] weapons. [illegible] down and l[illegible] which resul[illegible] to the ho[illegible] Spense app[illegible] in his usua[illegible] rioters to [illegible] Majesty's r[illegible] There were[illegible] at or near [illegible] the same ti[illegible] Frank Mitc[illegible] Murray, th[illegible] of burglars[illegible] pound of po[illegible] Two or thr[illegible] been employ[illegible] lathing at [illegible] prisoners w[illegible] Police Magi[illegible] remanded [illegible] developmen[illegible]

LIV[illegible]

A faint, [illegible] feeling; wit[illegible] ders, and in[illegible] a diseased [illegible] Bitters; whi[illegible] complaint.

Rel[illegible]

MR. OUIMET [illegible] GR[illegible]

MONTREAL[illegible] met, advoca[illegible] just returne[illegible] where he w[illegible] as a gover[illegible] assessing th[illegible] the rebellio[illegible] no means a[illegible] ported. At[illegible] Fish Creek [illegible] and it wa[illegible] through Por[illegible] The princip[illegible] are storekee[illegible] rifled of goo[illegible] firearms. [illegible] Mr. Ouimet[illegible] and now th[illegible] their land c[illegible] are going [illegible] Ouimet deni[illegible] in want, as[illegible] government [illegible] them with a[illegible] needed. He[illegible] his opinion t[illegible] magnificent [illegible] to be opene[illegible] quickly settl[illegible]

THE PAINS[illegible] and hips, wi[illegible] ness, will sp[illegible] treatment of[illegible] remedy who[illegible] and applied [illegible] cure for pain[illegible]

WHY E[illegible] Consult a [illegible] bottle of m[illegible] Turner & Co[illegible] 12 oz. bottle[illegible] Cure for $1.[illegible] Book free.

BLIC.

HOP in connection
t of Mr. Kay, well pose turning out a e at prices which

Expeditiously.

ods, Boots & Shoes
shoddy men who

RIAL.
ts per barrel.
WN & CO.
265-tf

V. S., nary College.
—o—
Horses Examined
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.
—o—
L & DISPENSED
GES MODERATE.
MARKDALE.

ves!
Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty &c.
At bottom prices.
to give us a call as RO'S,
MARKDALE.

Opticians
CE'S
e-Glasses
ARTICLES
KET.
n stock.
rove Genuineness.
ve been received from the e-President of the Medical e of Physicians and Sur-of Laval University; the
of Nova Scotia, &c., &c. to prove their qualities
emists and Druggists,
NT.
can be obtained.
principle. $1

o Rent in Makoale.
in Reynold's Block to rent, on as to terms can be obtained ns, Markdale, or WHITE, St. Vincent,
Strathmairn, P. O., Ont.

Fall Assizes.

(Continued from last week.)

ALMOND DRINKWATER was arraigned and pleaded guilty to the forgeries he was accused of.

QUEEN vs. WM. G. GARDINER.—The prisoner was accused of maliciously wounding one McLaren. The evidence showed it to be a fight between the parties. Verdict, not guilty. A Frost for the Crown. Jno. Creasor, Q. C., for the defence.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against Thos. B. Gilliland for perjury, and one against John Bell and Aaron Boynton for stealing from the person.

INKSETTER vs. TOTTEN & HAYES.—The defendants had a judgment against John Inksetter, and seized some telegraph poles which were claimed by Wm. Inksetter, the plaintiff. This was an Interpleader suit to try to whom the property belonged. Verdict for plaintiff. Creasor & Morrison for plaintiff. S. Platt for defendant Totten, and Masson & Masson for defendant Hayes.

QUEEN vs. JAS. WHITE.—The prisoner was indicted for a nuisance in having a glandered horse on the highway. The evidence was very conflicting, and the jury failed to agree. A. Frost for the Crown. J. M. Kilbourn for the defence.

FRIDAY.

WM. H. WHITBY, for receiving horse knowing it to be stolen, was sentenced to six months in Central Prison; and Almond Drinkwater, for forgery, to five years in Penitentiary.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against J. P. Connor for conspiracy.

QUEEN vs. JNO. BELL AND AARON BOYNTON.—The prisoners were accused of robbing Donald Campbell, jr., of a sum of money in Owen Sound last. The prosecutor told a circumstantial story of being at Bell's Hotel Singhampton, of starting home walking the two prisoners with him, and of Bell putting his hand in his pocket and taking the money. After hearing two or three of the witnesses for the defence, His Lordship stopped the case and ordered the prisoners to be discharged, saying that he charitably took Campbell's testimony to be arising from the vagaries of a drunken man, or he would have him indicted for perjury. A. Frost for the Crown. Jas. Masson for the defence.

BURBEE vs. MCRAE.—This was an action brought by the township of Burpee against A. C. McRae on a bond for $3,000, by which he bound himself to erect a grist and saw mill within the township. Judgment reserved. Jno. Creasor, Q. C., and S. Platt for plaintiffs. A. P. Cameron for defendant.

THE EMMA MINE CASE.

QUEEN vs. CONNORS.—This was the celebrated conspiracy case against P. J. Connors, a detective from the Pinkerton Agency, Chicago, which has created a great deal of interest in this locality. He was charged with conspiracy with others to defraud Mrs. Billings and members of her family, by obtaining their interests in the celebrated Emma Mine, of which Mrs. Billings' first husband, Mr. Woods, was one of the original discoverers, without adequate compensation. The main facts of how a Mr. Moody, learning that Woods left a widow in Canada started from Colorado in search of her; how the other side learning what he was about, put a detective on his track, who shadowed him from Chicago, and finally got to Owen Sound and saw Mrs. Billings, ahead of him, our readers are already familiar with. The Crown tried to prove the great value of the mine by the first witness, Moody, who was present at a trial in Colorado, and heard the value stated on oath by a person who had charge of the books, but His Lordship ruled that this kind of secondary evidance was not admissable. The principal facts brought out at the trial were as follows:—Mr. Moody, who was an Attorney in Colorado, was employed by a woman there who was thought to be the lawful widow of Mr. Woods, to look after her interest, and his wife bought out her share for a very small sum. Then finding that there was an "original widow" in Canada, he came here with the intention of getting her to entrust her business to him and give him a share if he got the property for her When the detective got ahead, and with his two friends got the confidence of Mrs. Billings, she asked $40,000 for her share, from the information of value which Moody had given her; but on representation that her claim was doubtful, and that they were only paying her something to prevent litigation, they got her to give a quit claim deed of her interest for $2,500. After signing this and getting her money, Mrs. Billings was then induced by others to make a trust deed to R. J. Doyle, the terms of which were disclosed by another agreement, by which it appeared that Moody was to get half for recovering the property, and he was to give Doyle 20 per cent. for his services—10 per cent. for himself, and the other 10 per cent. to the professional men who assisted in the case. It appeared that in addition to this, Mr. Doyle was also to get 10 per cent. from Mrs. Billings for looking after her interest. Meanwhile the detective had started for Port Hope, where one of the Woods boys resided, and represented to him that he was a detective employed by the authorities to distribute $3,200 coming to the family, $1,600 of which had already been given to his mother, and one-sixth of the remainder was for him, but he was generous, and gave $270 for an assignment of his share. At this point His Lordship intervened, and said that as there was no evidence of the value of the mine, it would be impossible to show that they had been defrauded, and directed an acquittal. Two other indictments against Connor for a similar offence were also dismissed. A. Frost for the Crown. D. McCarthy, Q. C., and Masson & Masson for defendant.

ORR vs. FAREWELL.—This was a case in which the Postmaster at Fairmount and his wife sued the publisher of the Thornbury Standard for libel, in a series of articles against them in his paper. The evidence brought out the whole gossip of the village; but the jury came to the conclusion that the criticisms were not too severe, and brought in a verdict for defendant. Jas. Masson and J. Birnie for plaintiffs. J. Creasor, Q. C., and R. H. Evans for defendant.

The Court concluded at noon on Saturday, several casses being left over for another Court.

A SENSATION.

An unparalleled sensation is being created all over Ontario by the wonderful and unequalled manner in which Neuralgia, Tooth ache, Rheumatism, Backache, Headache, is removed by but one application of Fluid Lightning. No offensive, disgusting drugs need be taken for days. It is an instant cure. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 3

RIOT AND FIRE.—Last night about 10:30 the fire bell alarm was sounded, and a big rush was made in the direction of Bay street to ascertain the whereabouts of the fire it was discovered to be at the Clifton House, where a riot was at full blast. Fred Atterberry, off the Algoma and two Americans by the name of Holmes were having a free fight with stones, spitoons, bottles and miscellaneous weapons. Chandeliers were knocked down and lamps smashed on all sides, which resulted in considerable damage to the house by fire. Constable Spense appeared on the scene, and in his usual affable way invited the rioters to accompany him to "Her Majesty's residence" for the night. There were three other arrests made at or near the Clifton House about the same time by Constable Pearce. Frank Mitchell, Cadman, and Charles Murray, the first of whom had a set of burglars tools and about half a pound of powder in his possession. Two or three of the prisoners have been employed for some weeks past lathing at Knox Church. All the prisoners were brought up before the Police Magistrate this morning, and remanded for one week to await developments.—O. S. Advertiser.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

A faint, weary, sick and listless feeling, with aching back and shoulders, and irregular bowels, proclaim a diseased liver. Try Burdock Blood Bitters, which cures all forms of liver complaint.

Rebellion Claims.

MR. OUIMET SAYS THE DAMAGE IS NOT AS GREAT AS REPORTED.

MONTREAL, OCT. 9.—Alphonse Ouimet, advocate of the city, who has just returned from the North West, where he was engaged since July last as a government commissioner in assessing the damage to property by the rebellion, says the damage is by no means as great as generally reported. At Battleford, Batouche and Fish Creek the loss is the greatest, and it was principally sustained through Poundmaker and his band. The principal applicants for damages are storekeepers, whose premises were rifled of goods of all kinds, including firearms. The effects of the rebellion, Mr. Ouimet said, have passed away, and now that the Metis have had their land claims finally settled they are going to work actively. Mr. Ouimet denies that the halfbreeds are in want, as stated, of food, as the government agents have supplied them with abundance wherever it was needed. He concluded by expressing his opinion that the Northwest is a magnificent country and only requires to be opened up by railways to be quickly settled.

THE PAINS OF LUMBAGO, aching back and hips, with all weakness and soreness, will speedily vanish under the treatment of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, a remedy which may be taken internally and applied externally. It is a positive cure for pain.

WHY EMPLOY DOCTORS.

Consult a doctor, for a 6 or 8 oz. bottle of medicine $1—consult A. Turner & Co. and he will give you a 12 oz. bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure for $1, and a valuable Recipe Book free. Nov.

URIC ACID.—When the Liver and Kidneys fail in their action, this acid in excess is thrown into the blood, causing Rheumatism and other painful conditions of blood poisoning. You may cure this condition by a prompt resort to the purifying, regulating remedy Burdock Blood Bitters.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. Europeau plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

THE FOUR CARDINAL POINTS of regulating the system are the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood. With a healthy action of these organs sickness cannot occur. Burdock Blood Bitters acts promptly upon these organs, restoring them to a healthy action.

WILLIAM STUART,
KIMBERLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licences. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.
Nov. 5, '85-1y

STRAYED

FROM the premises of Mr. D. J. Lewis, lot 19, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the last of June, two ewes, one ram lamb and a ewe lamb. Any person giving information as to their whereabouts will be liberally rewarded. 267-3in.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM
CURES COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, ETC.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding 3d class certificate, duties to commence 1st January, '86, for S. S. No. 15, Euphrasia. State salary. Applications received up to noon the 14th November.
JAMES ELLIOTT, Sec.-Treas.,
268 70 Markdale P. O.

Shropshire Ram
For Service.

THE undersigned having purchased from Mr. Thos. Ellis, Queen's Valley, one of his thorough bred Shropshire Rams aged, will have him for service on lot No. 4, con. 7, Euphrasia. Terms, 75 cents cash. This ram is an excellent stock getter. Also for sale one first-class Ram Lamb from above sheep, and a thorough bred Leicester Ewe. Will sell reasonable.
JOHN BUSKIN, Proprietor,
Vandeleur P. O.
Euphrasia, Nov. 1st, 1885. 268-70

Peck's Sun
MILWAUKEE, WIS.
GEORGE W. PECK
Editor and Proprietor.
The Funniest Paper in America

What Vaccination is to Small-pox PECK'S SUN is to the blues.

PECK'S SUN is one of the most widely read and popular papers in the country to-day, and stands without a peer in its specialty.

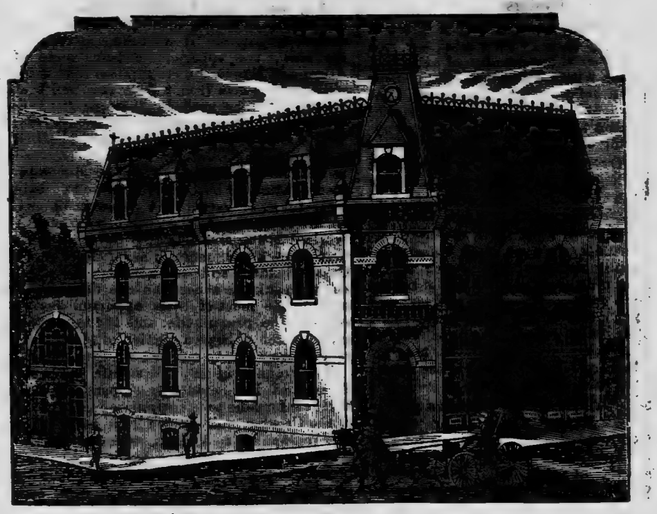
The Originator of the celebrated BAD BOY PAPERS.

Specimen Copies Free To Any Address.

Bear in mind that by sending a Postal Card to this office a Sample copy of Peck's Sun will be mailed you Free.

Don't neglect to send at once, and tell your neighbors to.

$1 Worth of Fun for 1c.



Address GEORGE L. LORD,
Business Manager, Milwaukee, Wis.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.
BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Sample Bottles 10c; Regular size $1.
For sale by all dealers.
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto.

This is an excellent cut of M. Richardson's new Mercantile Premises at Flesherton.

For the Fall and Winter Seasons.
M. RICHARDSON & CO., -:- FLESHERTON,
Show a superb stock of Dress Goods, Mantles, Millinery, Wool Goods, Furs, &c., also Mens & Boys Clothing Hats, Caps, Boots & Shoes
—&c.—
A visit and inspection convinces customers that in this establishment they can supply their wants at lowest prices obtainable, while having one of the largest stocks in the County to select from.

Important
Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in
MARKDALE
An Agency for the sale of the famous
"DOHERTY ORGAN"
And world renowned
"Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.
HUGH WILLIAMS.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.
44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR.
Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address, PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, 751 Broadway, New York.
We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—Big Standard.

SavE MoneY
By buying your Watches,
Clocks,
Jewelry,
Spectacles,
Pipes, &c.
—AT—
JAS. G. RUSSELL'S
FLESHERTON.
A Beautiful Stock to Select from.
☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.
GIVE HIM A TRIAL.
Every job warranted to give satisfaction.
JAS. G. RUSSELL.
217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter
JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to
THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the next Entrance Examination to High Schools for the County of Grey, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd and 23rd days of December, 1885, at the Town of Owen Sound, the Village of Markdale and the Village of Thornbury respectively. It is requested that the probable number of Candidates from each locality shall be notified to me one month antecedent to the first of the above dates.
THOMAS GORDON,
Inspector W. Grey.
Markdale, 27th October, 1885. 16-402

HOUSEHOLD.

Oysters.

BROWN OYSTER SOUP.—Take a quart of water, add to it a tablespoonful of rich brown gravy or a teaspoonful of extract of beef, thicken with a dessertspoonful of flour and let it simmer ten minutes, to cook the flour thoroughly. Then stir in an ounce of butter, season to taste, and add a dozen oysters. Bring to boiling point and serve.

WHITE OYSTER SOUP.—Take four toast biscuits (English), roll them fine, and mix with a pint of water; add another pint of good milk, an ounce of butter, pepper and a dozen oysters and serve OYSTERS A LA CREME.—Open a dozen oysters carefully and save the liquor; take a half pint of milk, add to it a piece of butter the size of a walnut, thicken with flour, and simmer ten minutes. Add the oysters and their liquor, and seasoning to taste. Have some nicely browned slices of toast, take up the oysters carefully, lay them on the toast, pour the mixture over, and serve.

STEAMED OYSTERS.—Lay them in a potato steamer over boiling water, cover with a plate to keep the steam in, and cook for ten minutes. Then serve quickly in the shell, and on a very hot dish, with fried brown bread and lemon or vinegar.

STEWED OYSTERS.—Take a pint of milk thicken with a dessertspoonful of corn-meal, and stir in an ounce of butter; season well, add a dozen oysters and stew gently for half an hour. When serving, garnish the stew with sippits of bread soaked in lemon juice and fried in butter.

OYSTER PATTIES.—Make first a rich puff paste with half pound of Vienna flour and half pound of butter. Press all the moisture out of the butter with a clean cloth, then rub half of it very lightly into the flour, mix with sufficient cold water to form a paste, roll, and put on the remainder of the butter, fold in three and roll out: repeat this, then fill the patty-pans and bake quickly. Beard and drain a dozen oysters, add a few drops of lemon juice to the liquor, and then thicken with flour, butter and the yolk of an egg. Cut the oysters into dice, stir them into the mixture with a few drops of anchovy sauce; warm up and fill the cases.

FRICASSED OYSTERS.—Take a teaspoonful of cream and the beaten yolk of an egg. Mix them well together, then drain the liquor from a dozen oysters, thicken it with butter and flour, add the egg and cream, season to taste, and simmer for five minutes, stirring all the time. Lay in the oysters, let them warm through, then pour over slices of buttered toast.

ESCALLOPED OYSTERS.—Butter some scallop shells and line them with bread crumbs soaked in milk, drain the oysters and lay them in (four are enough for one shell), season with pepper and salt, cover with a thick layer of crumbs also soaked in milk, put tiny bits of butter on top, and bake on a quick oven fifteen minutes.

A Wife's Expenses.

Many married men blunder in the management of home expenses, although not one bridegroom in a thousand, standing proudly at the altar with the woman of his choice, would believe the thing possible were some truth-telling prophet to whisper to him, "In one, or in two, or in five years, your wife will want things for needful expenses, personal to herself, or for your common advantage and comfort, and will shrink from asking you for it, lest you should upbraid her for extravagance or chide her for folly."

What a blush would mount to the cheek of an ingenuous, well meaning young man at such an aspersion! He is quick to resent it. Nevertheless, in half the homes in the country, because the husband holds the funds and the wife must ask for her share, there is exasperation, there is false shame, there is undreamed-of distress. And the trouble springs not out of the greed of penurious men (for men are usually open-handed, generous, and anxious to treat their wives and daughters with liberality), but has its genesis in a mistaken principle at the beginning. Indulgence, liberality and generosity are terms wholly inapplicable to the situation when we are speaking of the relations of husband and wife. The one does not dispense an alms; the other does not accept a charity. They are partners in the business of life. It is his part to do the providing, and hers to look after the use of the provisions. He attends to the out-door economy; she to the interior; economy being taken in its root-sense of systematic government. "In true marriage lies nor equal nor unequal;" yet there can be nothing but the farce of equality where the wife must account to her husband for every farthing, and the husband, forgetful of the consideration due his wife, allows her to be fretted and worried, worn to shreds, and subject to petty mortifications, because five days out of seven she is the possessor of an empty purse. Entire openness and confidence as to the resources of the firm, a definite and exact method of keeping household accounts, and a recognition of the fact that bricks cannot be made without straw, and that a certain approximating annual expense must be proportioned to the position the family occupies in the community, would go far to bring in a millenium in British homes.

The Business Outlook.

The business situation is the subject of a good deal of discussion by press and people. But while there is a steady though slow improvement indicated in almost every branch of trade and industry, there are many who can see nothing encouraging in the outlook. Farm produce is low, especially wheat, but that is now considerably above the minimum price for last year. Its cheapness has, however, had one effect that will tend to increase its price. Low wheat has made cheap flour, and the result has been that it has been more largely consumed, so that the stock in hand has been reduced. One very encourging indication is found in the increased earnings which are monthly reported on the Canadian Pacific Railway. This shows that the north-west farmers are buying goods as well as selling their products. On the whole, we see the most hopeful signs of a general revival in business in all sections of the country. Securities are firm, and while crops have been almost abundant, they are not drugs in the market, but are finding ready sale at prices which, if too low, are not by any means starvation prices.

The Problem of Life.

BY ISAIAH BYDER, M. D., TORONTO.

Air, water and food are essential to the conditions of life in both the vegetable and animal kingdoms. If we take a retrospective view, the apparent circumstances of Adam and Eve lead us to suppose that these were gifts to man from the Creator, and that they were to be used in the conditions in which they were presented. By comparison with our present customs, this view is called barbarous, and a return to the prescribed use of these necessities would be denominated a return to barbarism. If we institute a careful examination of the results of each we are compelled to the conclusion that the original eating and drinking usages of our first parents were more in harmony with the Creator's laws, and are adapted to afford better results to those who are desirous of making the most of their opportunities as regards the present life, and the immortality to which so large a portion of the human race aspire.

The promise of an endless life made to Adam and Eve evidently depended upon their conforming to the stipulated conditions of the Creator, and their failure to do this, it is reasonable to assume, was the special reason why the "dying, thou shalt die," process of which they were so auspiciously warned, was, in the case of themselves, and so large a portion of their posterity, so persistently carried out. The superiority of man's cerebral structure, as compared with that of the lower animals, affords ample evidence of his ability to grasp the facts instituted in the order of nature sufficiently to discriminate between the good and evil, so far as they relate to his physicial status and destiny. Without assistance it might require an indefinite period for the human mind to accomplish this work; but we, as a human race, have been specially favored with revelations from the Creator, both in its incipiency and at various periods since, which not only intimate, but positively stipulate both our privileges and our duties. But the free-agency accorded to humanity has permitted mankind to seek out "many inventions," in the doing of which it has alienated itself from the wise instructions of the Creator.

Is is evident to the commonest observer that our lungs and pure air are admirably adapted to each other. We instinctively seek it in infancy and adult age; but as our instinctive intelligence becomes dulled by the evil customs of society, we gradually come to disregard its great importance, and finally, from the force of habit, prefer evil odors rather than to enjoy the "food for the lungs" in its original purity. This is evidenced by the inability of the smoker to enjoy himself for any length of time in an unperverted atmosphere. If further illustration of this fact were needed, it is also found in the preference of city aldermen, commissioners, boards of health officials, doctors, lawyers, ministers of the Gospel, editors, and other prominent citizens, for sewer-gas, and the effluvia of closet cess pools. Men in these various positions have it in their power to abate these evils, but persistently decline to do so, though they are asked through the public prints and by private requests. Babylon, Rome and London inaugurated a system of sewers which was preceded and accompanied by the closet cess-pools, and that is a sufficient reason why every modern city should tax the populace for this most expensive and death-dealing luxury.

And similarly with our water, Nature distills it by the power of the sun, and precipitates it in the rain-fall—purified, and admirably adapted to sustain life; and the same influential classes persistently contaminate it with alcohol, tea, coffee, etc.; and by associating our water supply and sewage systems succeed in compelling all classes to practically accept their perverted and death-dealing opinions. The custom of using these contaminated beverages so dulls the vital-nervous intelligence that it fails to distinguish as to what is pure and impure, and, as a result, the proper depurating processes are omitted, and the system becomes so loaded with the debris of broken-down-tissues, which are only poison, as to make a continuous existence impossible, and the purging and purifying processes, called by medical writers "cholera," "yellow-fever," "small-pox," etc., are instituted by an all-wise providence, in order that His instituted laws may find acceptance in His "temple," the human body.

Our food-supply is equally bad. We fail to distinguish between the things given to man, and those prescribed for the "fishes of the sea, the fowls of the air, and everything that creepeth upon the earth, in which is life." The leaves of plants are their breathing organs, the same as are our lungs ours. The vegetable kingdom uses the gases that are destructive to animal and human life in building up their own structures; and the persistent efforts of humanity to appropriate these noxious gases first degrades its victims to the standard of intelligence peculiar to the vegetable, and then to the "dust" on which the vegetable kingdom feeds.

The fruits and grains were specially prescribed for man's food, and are given to him uncontaminated and uncooked. The reason why they were specially prepared by the Creator for man's use, was that he was His favored and best product—the temple in which He was wont to make His own permanent abode. The method by which this special preparation of food is accomplished is simple, though unique. It is done by "elaborating" or breathing upon the dust a second time through the instrumentality of the chaff leaves of seed-bearing herbs and the leaves peculiar to the fruit-buds of all fruit-bearing trees and shrubs, the leaves peculiar to the general plant performing the first elaborating process for the sap peculiar to the cells of all living plants.

A comparison of the two systems—the divine and the human—or imaginary—of sustaining human life, are so much at variance that it is worth while to pause, and ascertain if the death which is so persistently paraded by the advocates of the human method, is an absolute necessity in human experience. If God, in His wisdom, has established a better order of things, it is our privilege to avail ourselves of it. But "they that would come to God, must first believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him."

The newspaper organ of the Philadelphia anarchists has suspended for want of financial support Anarchists can not afford to buy a paper and beer too.

HEALTH.

Pure Water for Drinking.

Prof. Baird, secretary of the Smithsonian institute, strongly recommends the practice of boiling all water used for drinking purposes, unless it is known to be pure. The only perfectly safe way of ascertaining whether water is pure or not is by having it analyzed by a competent chemist. But this is an expensive process, though there are rogues who profess to do it for much less than the operation would cost, and the boiling for half an hour, though somewhat troublesome, is a good deal less costly, and would have to be resorted to anyway if the analysis should show the water to be unsafe.

A porous earthen vessel is a good thing to put the water in to cool, and if boiled in the evening and placed in earthenware vessels in a cool place to get cold, the water will be found cold enough in the morning for many persons to drink without ice. It is a simple preventive of the cause of many diseases, and the fact that impure water by no means betrays itself, as many people suppose, by an appearance of impurity, but is perfectly clear and limpid and agreeable to the taste, adds to the danger of this cause. It has been shown over and over again that impure water is not at all confined to cities, but is found even more frequently in the wells which supply our country residents. It used to be held generally that even when surface impurity existed within a radius of the well sufficiently limited to drain into it, the percolation through the soil would remove every particle of impurity from the water ere it reached the well; but scientists have shown us that such is not the case. During the very hot weather, when so much water is drank, it is well to be on the safe side. A little cold coffee, or a little vinegar and a little sugar poured into the water, make a very palatable and refreshing drink in hot weather. All very cold drinks should be imbibed slowly. Suddenly flooding the stomach with a large quantity of ice-cold liquid is always attended with more or less risk, according to the condition of the drinkers at the time.

Dangers of Roller-Skating.

When roller-skating was first introduced, we looked on it with much favor. We put on skates ourselves, and often accompained ladies to the hall. They, we and our associates, enjoyed the exercise much. In some respects roller-skating seemed fully equal to skating on ice, in its graceful and complicated movements, and vastly superior in its freedom from the interruption of snow and rain, wind and cold. We thought it furnished a fine combination of mental relaxation, physical exercise and social life." We saw in it a cheap and agreeable diversion for the people, free, we supposed, from the temptations which everywhere beset the young.

But people overdo many things, in pleasure, work, politics and religion. If the apostolic injunction, "Let your moderation be known unto all men," were one of the Ten Commandments, we should be a nation of breakers of the Decalogue. Roller-skating became "a craze." It was pursued as if it were the purpose of life; every night in the week, several hours at a time, in crowded rinks, with vitiated air and impalpable dust.

That moderately indulged in and duly regulated it would be healthful, and in many ways helpful for those already vigorous, we still believe. But the fruits of the present methods of pursuing the amusement are often evil.

The following, from the Medical Record, written by Julia Townsend Hill, M. D., is worthy of attention:

"Sir: I am very much interested in this subject of roller-skating for girls especially, because I have from thirty to forty girls under my care for physical training and treatment. With the utmost care as to time and amount, I find it unsatisfactory. It seems to bring out any latent predisposition to disease. I have been compelled to forbid those who had the slightest tendency to kidney or heart trouble, in fact, any organic trouble, indulging in the sport. A case of anæmia, the most intractable one I ever had to deal with, I am sure was caused by skating excessively." Other physicians give a similar testimony.

All recreations may have their dangers if carried to excess. This now and popular one, like all others, needs to be used more wisely and conscientiously.

Abominations of the Back Yard.

Many back yards are abominations to the eye and nose. One finds in them all sorts of litter and refuse, from oyster cans to old boots. Here the slops of the kitchen are poured to increase the odors which ought to warn every thoughtful person of the malarial influence breeding there, to break out eventually in fevers or diphtheria. If any member of the family dies from one of these diseases his death is probably lamented as a "mysterious dispensation of Providence," but the minister would say, if he were to visit the back yard, that death was caused solely by a violation of hygienic laws. A very strong argument against a dirty back yard is the spirit of deception which it is apt to foster in the young members of the family, for it is a constant deceit to present a clean and attractive front yard to the gaze of the passers, while the back yard is not fit to be seen. Children should be taught to be clean for the sake of cleanliness, and not because outsiders are likely to criticise them. The best plan is to have a hogshead or large box fitted up in one corner of the yard, and make it a rule to throw into this old cans, boots, broken dishes, and all such rubbish, and when there is a great accumulation to bury or burn it. Do not allow anything to be thrown about. Have drains made to convey slops from the house. Make good walks, and let the ground have a fine covering of grass, not weeds. Put up strong supports for the clothes lines. Keep the fence in repair, and plant currant bushes near it. Set vines about the refuse barrel, and train them over it until it is hidden. If you have a receptacle for ashes, let it be something which can be shut up, not a row of old barrels to offend the eye, and give out a cloud of ashes every time the wind blows. Make it a rule to have the back yard at all times as clean as the front one.

MAXWELL AND HIS FATHER.

The Interview Between The Aged Man and His Wayward Son.

Samuel N. Brooks, the schoolmaster at Hyde, England, and his son Hugh, better known as W. H. Lennox Maxwell, met in the Circuit Attorney's office at St. Louis the other morning. The previous arrangements which had been made for bringing father and son together in the quiet of the jailor's parlor were abandoned, and at 10 o'clock the old gentleman sat in a chair in Mr. Clover's back room attended by his counsel. The old gentleman was laboring under intense nervous excitement, the result of the mental strain to which he has been subjected, and it was apparently only by great effort that he retained a semblance of composure. The door opened, and Hugh Brooks, alias Maxwell, entered, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Kenefick. At the sound the father turned in his chair, and for the first time in many long months the father and son looked upon each other.

At sight of his father the young man, whose face was pale with suppressed emotion, moved rapidly towards the chair in which he was sitting, and the father, springing quickly to his feet at the same moment, they met. The old man flung his left arm around his son's neck and drew him to his breast. Maxwell's arm enfolded his father, and for a few moments they stood there in silent. When they parted each buried his face in his hand and wept bitterly. A chair was handed to Maxwell, and the father and son sat down and soon entered into conversation which lasted over an hour. The sight of the old father and his son meeting so far away from their home under such circumstances brought tears to the eyes of several of the bystanders. After the interview with his son the old gentleman bade him an affectionate farewell and left the building. He said he found his son but little changed.

"I first thought my son was connected with this case in May last," said he, "when I read an article in a Manchester paper in which my son's name appeared. Then came little corroborative circumstances, article that I knew my son had, and finally the letter from my son's counsel telling me the prisoner was my son. He never studied medicine, and knew nothing about, nor do I know anybody named Maxwell. My son was fond of natural science, and liked chemical experiments, carpentry, and other little amusements to pass away time. He never attended a college, but passed through the grammar and high schools. I attribute his present trouble to the curate Evans, who, I believe, had a bad influence upon him, and whom I would hold responsible if I could meet him. I never knew any of Preller's family, but I have private and reliable information that his life was insured for $6,000. Whether this money was paid or not I will find out when I return, but I heard that the insurance company was contesting the claim.

"I have not spoken to my son about his defense. He is a lawyer, and he and his counsel know best what to do. I am, and have been from the first, satisfied of his innocence, and if he has gotten into a scrape through bad associations an explanation will clear it all up. I will advise him that if he has entered into a conspiracy to defraud an insurance company to tell the truth, no matter who suffers."

WOMAN'S WAYS.

It is reported that Princess Kung of China has been converted to Christianity.

Mrs. Van Cott has more magnetic power than any other lady preacher in this country.

Mme. Modjeska brought over sixty-five pieces of baggage, and had to take an outfit to $20,000 worth of wardrobe.

Col. Pat Donan, speaking for Dakota, says that the flourishing territory can accommodate 10,000 girls with husbands on ninety days' notice.

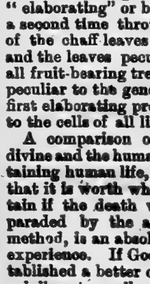
One of the innocent tricks of the Philadelphia shop girls is carrying their dinner disguised in a muslin roll. It looks as though they belonged to the conservatory and were going for an early music lesson.

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.



Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages Handsomely bound in cloth.

Robert Burns

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 358 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
372 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
370 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 350 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 320 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for any one, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
362 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must be in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL, for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

THE FARM.

Timely and Practical.

THE ADVANCE IN WOOL.—An authority says there seems no doubt that the advance in the price of wool will be sustained. The demand for goods is active, and manufacturers have large contracts for future delivery that must be filled. Some of the mills have a six months' stock on hand, but have orders for goods for about the same period. Some of the small mills have contracts ahead, but have only a few weeks' stock on hand, and will be compelled to go to market often, and purchase from week to week.

FEEDING THE FOWLS.—Keep the fowls quiet at this season, says an experienced poultry fancier. If you expect to get eggs from your hens in December, they must be daily fed with egg-producing provender. Give them bones in granulated form; have plenty of lime and clean gravel within the houses, to which they may have full use; twice a week give them cooked, lean meat, chopped up; and don't forget an occasional allowance of green food—cabbage, turnips, etc.—while they are housed in confinement.

SOWING SEED.—As the season for feeding is again at hand, it is in order to remind our readers that there is great advantage in having a hay-cutter in the barn. By its use straw and other coarse fodder can be mixed with meal that stock will eat all up; and thus the capacity of the farm to keep stock and make manure will be largely increased. The stubs of the corn-stalks will not be eaten unless steamed; but it is worth while to cut them if only for the advantage of having fine manure to be evenly spread during the Winter and Spring.

KEEP FENCES IN REPAIR.—Some one makes the timely remark that fences should never be allowed to get out of repair in the fall season, and the stock permitted to jump and become breachy in consequence. A good many farmers repair their fences in the spring, and then pay no more attention to them during the year. In the meantime, many rails, etc., become displaced, and there are low places in the fence for the stock to break into grain fields or into neighbors' premises. It is always the best plan to look after the fences every little while, and especially after a wind storm.

SALT AND WATER FOR SHEEP.—According to London agricultural journal, Mr. Russell of Horton, England, provides salt as well as fresh water for his sheep so that they may have access to it whether the weather be wet or dry. If this were done generally, those wholesale losses which are now suffered would not be experienced. Salt acts as a condiment, and is no doubt an appetizer; but it also does something more in quickening the action of the interior organic system, and prevents the generation of internal parasites.

BARB-WIRE FENCES.—The farmers in convention assembled recently made a complaint against the use of barb wire for fences as it is cruel to animals and injurious to the skins when they are sent to be tanned. Commenting upon which the Indiana Farmer says it would indicate that cattle frequently get caught in the wires, or are driven against them with such force as to tear their skins. And it adds that a strip of board, three inches wide, nailed under the top wire would prevent this in most cases; and some such safeguard ought always to be used where the barb-wire fence is made use of to enclose cattle.

RAT PROOF CRIBS.—As a matter of economy and good management, says the Rural Messenger, be sure to have a rat-proof crib. This can be done at very little trouble or expense. Build the house of skinned logs or lattice work plank; let the sills rest on small blocks, four feet high, capped with sheets of tin or large tin pans inverted, and be careful to leave nothing leaning against the the house but a step-ladder; and this must be kept under the house except when in use to get to get out corn. This being done, you will no longer be pestered with the filth and waste of rats and mice. This is the year to have a cheap rat-proof crib, and help to save your corn crop.

THE GAPES.—It is asserted that every species of bird, large and small is subject to the gapes. The young of the robin are often greatly troubled with them. It is believed that many chicks thus effected die from starvation; on account of their inability to swallow. This parasitic disease is occasioned by a number of small worms in the throat, producing inflammation. The fowl is oftentimes relieved by a stiff feather, or a quill striped of its feathers within an inch of the end, which, when carefully used, will remove some of the worms. Care and proper attention to fowls will ward off the disease. Pure water, wholesome food, and sufficient room for exercise will seldom fail in preventing its appearance.

CHAFF IN AN ANIMAL'S EYE.—Prof. Low says the best method of removing chaff from the eye of an animal is to pick it off with a pair of pincers, the head being held steadily by an assistant having hold of the nose, the eyelid being held open by the opposite hand. In the absence of pincers or forceps, cover a pin with a single layer of soft handkerchief, and scrape off the chaff, with the head of the pin so protected. The eye will suffer much more from the continued presence of the chaff than from pretty active scratching. Keep a rag, wet in cold water, over the eye for a day or two after removal; then touch it daily with a feather dipped in a solution of lunar caustic, five grains to the ounce of distilled water.

CHARCOAL FOR TURKEYS.—A California paper recommends charcoal for fattening turkeys, and says that it should be pulverized and mixed with mashed potatoes and corn meal, as well as fed to them in small lumps. It mentions that, in two lots of fowls, each treated alike, and one lot given a mixture and the other not, there was an average gain in the weight of the first of three pounds and a half each. In commenting upon this another writer says: "While we condemn the practice of mixing pulverized charcoal with other food for fowls, compelling them to eat it whether they will or not, we have no doubt of the excellent effects of supplying them charcoal broken into small bits, especially when fowls are fattening for market." arently only by great effort that d a semblance of composure. The ed, and Hugh Brooks, alias Maxered, accompanied by Deputy nefick. At the sound the father hi chair, and for the first time in months the father and son looked other.

t of his father the young man, e was pale with suppressed emo-ed rapidly towards the chair in was sitting, and the father, spring-y to his feet at the same moment
The old man flung his left arm son's neck and drew him to his Maxwell's arm enfolded his father, ew moments they stood there all en they parted each buried his hand and wept bitterly. A chair d to Maxwell, and the father and wn and soon entered into conversa-lasted over an hour. The sight father and his son meeting as far their home under such circum-ought tears to the eyes of several anders. After the interview with he old gentleman bade him an e farewell and left the building.
found his son but little changed.
thought my son was connected ase in May last," said he, "when rticle in a Manchester paper in son's name appeared. Then came oborative circumstances, articles w my son had, and finally the my son's counsel telling me the as my son. He never studied and knew nothing about, nor do I body named Maxwell. My son natural science, and liked chemments, carpentry, and other little s to pass away time. He never college, but passed through the and high schools. I attribute trouble to the curate Evans, ieve, had a bad influence upon hom I would hold responsible if et him. I never knew any of mily, but I have private and re-mation that his life was insured
Whether this money was paid ll find out when I return, but I the insurance company was con-claim.
not spoken to my son about his
He is a lawyer, and he and his w best what to do. I am, and from the first, satisfied of his and if he has gotten into a scrape associations an explanation will p I will advise him that if he into a conspiracy to defraud an company to tell the truth, no suffers."

WOMAN'S WAYS.

orted that Princess Kung of China
nverted to Christianity.

Cott has more magnetic power her lady preacher in this country.

odjeska brought over sixty-five ggage, and had to take an oath worth of wardrobe.

Donan, speaking for Dakota,
the flourishing territory can ac-10,000 girls with husbands on
notice.

e innocent tricks of the Phila-p girls is carrying their dinners a muslin roll. It looks as y belonged to the conservatory ing for an early music lesson.

'S SELECT WORKS
BY D. L. MOODY
h portrait of the evangelist. This anecdotes and illustrations from eches and Sermons.
G ON IN THE WORLD
LIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
ound in cloth, in blue and gold.
the most popular books, by a bines knowledge with the ability a most attractive form. Their is for a young man, in fact for any-n "Getting on in the World."
S WITH MEN AND BOOKS
LIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
nd in cloth, in green and gold.
ten times its cost for the tenth
Full of useful information.
OTTAGE HEARTH
printed monthly magazine, made e literature, pure in tone and price is $1.50 a year. Anyone ly subscription to the WEEKLY ular rate of one dollar each will nt the above capital magazine pecimen copies will be sent free
The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston,

William Thackeray

EVENING MAIL for 3 months is
LY for one year; a DAILY or EVE-is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year;
EVENING for one year is equal to ns for the combined "Mail and Bargain" will count just the subscriptions.

extra charge for sending papers
n or the United States, and sub-
those points count as ordinary

o a prize a club must consist of at ibers, and as many more as pos-say, the sending in of one sub-
DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY
entitle the sender to a prize, but
ption to both DAILY and WEEKLY,
riptions to either one or both, will

Hon to THE MAIL for two years,
n advance, will count as two sub-subscription for three years as
s.
is sent in to the MAIL office a new
ntaining a larger list of prizes.

are all handsomely bound in
are by excellent authors, and
in any family.
e prepay all postage on the
the books.
ecimen number and illus-
list to THE MAIL, Toronto.

THE FARM.

Timely and Practical.

THE ADVANCE IN WOOL.—An authority says there seems no doubt that the advance in the price of wool will be sustained. The demand for goods is active, and manufacturers have large contracts for future delivery that must be filled. Some of the large mills have a six months' stock on hand, but have orders for goods for about the same period. Some of the small mills have contracts ahead, but have only a few weeks' stock on hand, and will be compelled to go to market often, and purchase from week to week.

FEEDING THE FOWLS.—Keep the fowls well at this season, says an experienced poultry fancier. If you expect to get eggs from your hens in December, they must be amply fed with egg-producing provender. Give them bones in granulated form; have plenty of lime and clean gravel within the houses, to which they may have full access; twice a week give them cooked, lean meat, chopped up; and don't forget an occasional allowance of green food—cabbages, turnips, etc.—while they are housed for confinement.

CUTTING SEED.—As the season for feeding stock is again at hand, it is in order to remind our readers that there is great advantage in having a hay-cutter in the barn. By cutting straw and other coarse fodder can be readily mixed with meal that stock will eat all up readily; and thus the capacity of the farm to keep stock and make manure may be largely increased. The stubs of coarse corn-stalks will not be eaten unless steamed; but it is worth while to cut them if only for the advantage of having fine manure to be evenly spread during the Winter and Spring.

KEEP FENCES IN REPAIR.—Some one makes the timely remark that fences should never be allowed to get out of repair in the fall season, and the stock permitted to jump and become breachy in consequence. A good way for farmers repair their fences in the spring, and then pay no more attention to them during the year. In the meantime, many rails, etc., become displaced, and there are low places in the fence for the stock to break into grain fields or into neighbors' premises. It is always the best plan to look over the fences every little while, and especially after a wind storm.

SALT AND WATER FOR SHEEP.—According to an London agricultural journal, Mr. Russell of Horton, England, provides salt as well as fresh water for his sheep so that they may have access to it whether the weather be wet or dry. If this were done generally, those wholesale losses which are now suffered would not be experienced. Salt acts as a condiment, and is no doubt an appetizer; but it also does something more in quickening the action of the inter-organic system, and prevents the generation of internal parasites.

BARB WIRE FENCES.—The farmers in convention assembled recently made a complaint against the use of barb wire for fences as cruel to animals and injurious to the skins which are sent to be tanned. Commenting upon which the Indiana Farmer says it would indicate that cattle frequently get caught in the wires, or are driven against them with such force as to tear their skins. And it adds that a strip of board, three inches wide, nailed under the top wire would prevent this in most cases; and some such safeguard ought always to be used where the barb-wire fence is made use of to enclose cattle.

RAT PROOF CRIBS.—As a matter of economy and good management, says the Rural Messenger, be sure to have a rat-proof crib. This can be done at very little trouble or expense. Build the house of skinned poles or lattice work plank; let the sills rest on small blocks, four feet high, capped with sheets of tin or large tin pans inverted, and be careful to leave nothing leaning against the the house but a step-ladder; and this must be kept under the house except when in use to get to get out corn. This being done, you will no longer be pestered with the filth and waste of rats and mice. Once in the year to have a cheap rat-proof crib, and help to save your corn crop.

THE GAPES.—It is asserted that every species of bird, large and small is subject to the gapes. The young of the robin are often greatly troubled with them. It is believed that many chicks thus effected die from starvation; on account of their inability to swallow. This parasitic disease is occasioned by a number of small worms in the throat, producing inflammation. The fowl is oftentimes relieved by a stiff horse-hair, or a quill striped of its feathers within an inch of the end, which, when carefully used, will remove some of the worms. Care and proper attention to fowls will ward off the disease. Pure water, wholesome food, and sufficient room for exercise will seldom fail in preventing its appearance.

CHAFF IN AN ANIMAL'S EYE.—Prof. Low says the best method of removing chaff from the eye of an animal is to pick it off with a pair of pinchers, the head being held steadily by an assistant having hold of the nose, and the eyelid being held open by the opposite hand. In the absence of pincers or forceps, cover a pin with a single layer of soft handkerchief, and scrape off the chaff, using the head of the pin so protected. The eye will suffer much more from the contioued presence of the chaff than from pretty severe scraping. Keep a rag, wet in cold water, over the eye for a day or two after removal; then touch it daily with a feather dipped in a solution of lunar caustic, five grains to the ounce of distilled water.

CHARCOAL FOR TURKEYS.—A California paper recommends charcoal for fattening turkeys, and says that it should be pulverized and mixed with mashed potatoes and corn meal, as well as fed to them in small lumps. It mentions that, in two lots of ten each treated alike, and one lot given the mixture and the other not, there was an average gain in the weight of the first of one pound and a half each. In commenting upon this another writer says: "We condemn the practice of mixing pulverized charcoal with other food for turkeys, compelling them to eat it whether they want to or not, we have no doubt of the excellent effects of supplying them charcoal broken into small bits, especially when fattening for market."

HERE AND THERE.

A great deal of land around Winchester, England, may be leased for 25 cents an acre.

A naturalist, who has just returned from Spain, says that the natives keep locusts in cages for the sake of their "music."

The Countess De Rochefoucauld and the Countess de Bethune appear on the real estate assessment rolls in New Orleans for over $100,000.

There are between 300,000 and 400,000 cyclists in England, and the ancient city of Coventry is the chief seat of the cycle-making industry.

The Sultan is as devoted to Wagner as the King of Bavaria. Much of his time is passed at the piano, and two of his sons are accomplished musicians.

The other day there died at Turin Padre Giacomo, the confessor of Count Cavour. It was to Padre Giacomo that Cavour addressed his dying words, "Father, a free Church in a free State."

Holloway jail seems to suit Mrs. Weldon, the eminent London litigant, far better than it suited Mr. Yates. There she has remained all summer without making any plaint to the world without.

Since 1852 $373,000,000 has been laid out in rebuilding and embellishing Paris. The new Town Hall cost about $60,000,000, and $40,000,000 has been spent on the four parks—the Bois de Boulogne, Bois de Vincennes, Pacs Monceaux and Montsouris.

A growing disposition in Episcopalians to call in question the utility of Sunday schools is discerned by the Church Press, which does not share in these misgivings and objections, and sees no reason why the school should be discontinued or decried.

Ten physicians, who have had an opportunity for personal observation, report diversely as to the deadliness of leprosy. Four feel certain that it is absolutely incurable, three are in doubt, and three believe that chaulmoogra oil may prove a specific, as they have seen remarkable results from its use.

No class in England has in the past thirty years seen such an improvement in its condition as the army. The modern barracks have admirable sanitary arrangements, baths, libraries, five courts, and gymnasiums; in fact, are so comfortable that many of the men do not go outside for days together.

In the garden of a residence whose lawn slopes down to the bank of the Delaware, near Chester, a ship's yawl has been set upright, painted red, and turned into a flower holder. Living blossoms and foliage plants fill it from stem to stern, and flowering plants climb its one mast and twine about the stays.

When the late Lord Shaftesbury was Lord Ashley, by which title he was long prominent, there were some 400 peers, and probably 200 had grown-up sons; and yet, out of this large body of men, he is about the only name standing out as that of a nobleman who gave his time, energy, money, and the prestige of his position to the cause of benevolence.

The Jews of the world numbered 6 377,602 last June, according to the statistics gathered by the Geographical Society of Marseilles and were distributed as follows: Europe, 5,407,602; Asia, 245,000; Africa, 413,000; America, 300 000; Australia, 12,000. Nearly a third of the European Jews live in Russia. Austria and Hungary come next. In the three Scandinavian kingdoms, Denmark Sweden and Norway, there are 7,000 Israelites all told.

A heavily loaded street car in Philadelphia was stopped last week by the falling of one of its horses from exhaustion. The poor beast was lifted to his feet, and was about to be reharnessed, though his shoulders were raw; but no one protested until a young lady vehemently warned the driver that she would procure his immediate arrest if he persisted in trying to drive the horse. The driver sneered and swore, but took the hint, and the horse was sent away.

If the corners of the mouth are habitually drawn down in a frown and the brows wrinkled in perplexity, those features will gradually assume an aspect of repellent serfousness. On the other hand, the man who smiles a great deal will acquire a pleasant expression. A Yankee has invented an apparatus to be worn at night, which he fancies will not only lend an agreeable expression to a face that has not yet become set, but will obliterate and rearrange the unpleasant lines that time and circumstances have established.

A Birmingham (England) paper says: "Not long ago the wife of a prominent gentleman in this town called at a leading shop and noticed a beautiful camel's hair shawl. She inquired the price and was informed £40 She admired the shawl very much, and, upon being solicited to buy it, said that her husband would never consent to pay £40 for it, 'but,' she continued, a bright idea striking her, 'I will pay you £20 on it, and the next time you see my husband passing show him the shawl and tell him it is only £20, and I am sue he will buy it.' The proprietor readily assented, and a few days afterward the husband, on passing the shop was called in, saw the shawl, and in a little while consented to give £20. A few days later, while walking in the street, his wife observed the identical shawl upon the shoulders of a woman for whom she long suspected her husband entertained more than a neighborly regard.

Dr. Ferran, the Spanish inoculator for cholera, has had the fullest measure of praise followed by a deluge of abuse which the facts do not seem to justify. Reports as to the efficacy of inoculation have now been received from seven Spanish towns, containing an aggregate of 41,641 inhabitants. Of these 20,382 were inoculated, leaving 21,259 not so treated. Of the latter 7.45 per cent. were attacked with cholera, and of these 52.02 per cent. died. Of the 20,382 inoculated 1.13 per cent. were attacked, and of these 32,33 per cent. died. Some of the medical writers consider this a remarkable showing in Ferran's favor. They say that he considered two inoculations, a "mild" and a "massive" one, necessary to secure success, and these could not always be given in the confusion attending the onset of cholera in the towns specified. Again, the pressure upon him was so severe that he could not always ascertain whether his inoculations had taken or not.

HOW PATIENTS ARE TREATED.

Terrible Revelations of one of the Sufferers in St. Roch's Hospital.

Facts concerning the treatment and experience of the patients in St Roch's hospital, Montreal, which have just come to light, are revolting in the extreme. Mrs. Borland, the daughter-in-law of the Rev. John Borland, well known in this city, who entered the hospital on Sept. 29 last, says when she was sent to the hospital she was placed on a bed in which was one sheet to lie on and then a ragged, dirty blanket for a covering. For the first few days she suffered from the cold owing to the window just above her head being partially open and a too scanty supply of clothing. While she was still suffering from cold, as were several others, a man of the hospital was applied to for additional covering, when he brought up several ragged blankets, which he distributed, saying as he did so not to let the nuns know, or "they would play hell with him." Dr. Nolin gave no medical attendance, simply looking at the cards over the beds in the morning, dropping here and there an occasional remark, and thus passing along and out. Mrs. Borland and Mrs. Hopkins, who were both patients, declared that Dr. Nolin gave them no professional attention until in Mrs. Borland's case she asked for some aperient medicine, when he gave a dose of what he called mineral water, the effect of which for four days was that the most painful diarrhœa was experienced, which was followed for five consecutive days by hemorrhage, which was so profuse as to run through the bed on to the floor of the ward. Dr. Nolin then gave her a powder, which, while it stopped the hemorrhage, nevertheless gave her a pain in her side which she experiences to the present day. There was no attendance given by the regular nurses, that being principally done by convalescent patients. Cries of the patients for a glass of water were heartrending, to be met by the response: "Shut up, you." The stench of the place was most revolting, and anything in the way of deodorizing or disinfecting was never thought of. The heartlessness, they said, with which patients are treated in the St. Roch's hospital was remarkable. In the case of a Miss Norris, to relieve a choking sensation, application was made to Dr. Nolin. After much entreaty he made his appearance and gave her some relief. This was about 10 o'clock at night, and nothing more was done or attempted. The following day she was removed to the black smallpox ward, and without any further attention was allowed to die a couple of days afterwards. No attention was paid to anybody the moment they entered the black smallpox ward, and the cries that came from that awful place were heartrending. After the first night of Mrs. Borland's stay in the hospital a poor woman after her death was rolled out of the bed on which she had died and allowed to fall like a log of wood on the floor. The first evening Mrs. Borland spent in the hospital a woman, who had been a cook of the Rev. Mr. Wood, died under terrible circumstances. For hours previous to her death, and as long as she could speak even in a whisper, she cried, "For God's sake give me water," but the only attention given her was to tell her to shut up. She died during the night. Previous to her death she writhed in her agony and fell out of bed. Two men were called, who lifted, and throwing her into bed, said: "Now sit on her and keep her down" When dead a sheet was placed on the floor and she was rolled on to it like a log. Then they pinned up the sheet around her and two men dragged her down stairs. Her body thumping on the stairs could be heard in the ward. On throwing the corpse of this woman down off her bed her bowels burst open and the contents were spilled all over the floor, which were allowed to remain there for several days, the stench being abominable. A number of similar cases could be given. There was only one nun to four wards and with eight in each ward, the patients could not be attended to. The food was often not fit to eat.

MECHANICAL ITEMS.

A forge hammer driven by gas instead of steam was recently invented in England.

A London boot and shoe paper is indignant that an American firm should presume to ship fine boots for Londoners to wear.

It is said the coming roofs will be of terra-cotta tiles. The terra-cotta manufacturers are adapting their wares to a variety of purposes.

Mainsprings of watches break most frequently in the fall of the year, and watchmakers are said to put in more new springs in two fall months than in all the rest of the year.

Brick makers have heard of a brick-making machine that has a pressure of from 5,000 to 300 000 pounds, and which can turn out from 8,000 to 20,000 bricks per day.

Tool makers will be interested in knowing that a process has been discovered and perfected by which old rails, at a cost of $17 per ton, can be turned into good edged tools.

Not ten years have elapsed since the first paper mill was started in Japan, with the latest appliances of European and American machinery, and now we are told that there are a dozen mills in operation in that country several of them making good dividends. It may be put down to the credit of Japan that she was a few hundred years in advance of the United States in making papers from wood fiber.

Statistics concerning the new American postal card are now in order. The material used is twenty-five per cent. wood pulp and seventy-five per cent. fine rags. It takes about twelve hours to convert the raw material into the cards, and between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 of them are turned out daily, giving employment to about 130 women and girls. They come from the press in sheets of forty cards each. It costs $100 a month for the little paper bands that are placed about the bunches of twenty-five each. The new card has a watermark that will aid in the detection of counterfeits. Even with a million turned out daily the demand is greater than the supply.

Editors in Madrid place their desks on trapdoors, so that when a government inspector enters with a subpœna they can drop into the cellar. Caricaturists climb up the chimney.

OVER THE OCEAN.

Ozone baths are a specialty at Eastbourne, England. The bath is filled with long, green sea weed, steeped for an hour before use in boiling water. The bather remains in about twenty minutes, and the bath is thought very invigorating.

A Scotchman is suffering from a painful disease of the hand and wrist, brought on by the pressure against the palm of a round-knobbed cane. The surgeons say that the thing to carry is a stick with a plain, smooth, cylindrical handle.

The proprietors of London restaurants and hotels are taking to music At the Holborn restaurant sweet music has been discoursed during dinner hours for some time past, and quite a number of hotels and restaurants have now applied for a license.

The London police have received orders not to take into custody a person about to commit suicide, but to apply for a warrant to apprehend him on a charge of misdemeanor. The medical journals call this "locking up the stable after the horse is stolen."

It seems almost useless to warn people not to take overdoses of opium and its alkaloids. An English clergyman, who had been accustomed to take morphia pills for sleeplessness, continued the habit against his physician's express instructions, and one night took a number of them equal to a grain and a half of the drug. He went to sleep and never awoke.

Asia possesses the most powerfully equipped hornets. The Indian Medical Gazette tells of a man who was bitten on the neck by one of them. Within ten minutes he became cold, pulseless, and unconscious. He was a robust man, but the use of active remedies only brought him to after a couple of hours. The hornet was of medium size, bright yellow and striped with black.

The immense gun constructed at Elswick for the British government has a total weight of 200 tons, being considerably in excess of previous undertakings. Its length is stated at some forty-four feet, though with an extreme diameter at the breech of but five feet six inches, a very elongated chase or barrel tapering down to twenty-eight inches, with a slight swelling at the muzzle.

A curious public house is among the latest attractions in Paris. It is called La Taverne du Bagne. The walls are hung with paintings representing the horrors of convict life, interspersed with portraits of notorious Communists. All the waiters are dressed in convict uniform, and wear the chains and boulets of the regular forcat. The landlord is Citoyen Maxime Lisbonne, one of the leaders of the insurrection of 1871.

Sir James Paget has been tracing the course in life of one thousand medical students, taken at random from an English institute. He found that 23 out of the 1,000 achieved distinguished success; 66 had considerable success; 507 made a living; 124 had a very limited success, not having made a fair practice within 15 years after graduation, and 56 failed utterly. Nearly 10 per cent. (96) of the whole number left the profession after beginning either study or practice; 87 died after entering practice, and 41 died when students.

The merry little mosquito has arrived in Dublin. The interesting tourist row on side had already turned up in London evidently with the notion of staying. He is reported at opposite outskirts. Ever since the memorial day, some seven years since, when the first intruder of his race waylaid an Irish M. P. in Piccadilly, the bloodthirsty insect has not only lurked around London, but has considerably increased and multiplied, though it is doubted whether he will ever prove formidable. His development there promises to form a curious chapter of natural history.

In about the centre of the island of Trinidad, a dot in the Carribbean sea, just off the coast of Venezuela, there is an asphalt lake. It is said to cover about 100 acres, and is apparently inexhaustible. It is a black sand substance and is believed to be crude rotten petroleum. A singular feature of the substance is that, although about 30,000 tons are taken out of this lake annually, it constantly fills up so there is no lessening of the supply. This singular lake of paving material is owned by the Venezuelan government, but is lessed to a company in Washington.

The special correspondent of the London Times says of the Italian army: The Italian soldier always seems contented, cheerful, and willing, while, as to his conduct, it is remarkably good. I have not, during the more than a fortnight I have been living in the midst of the troops, seen or heard of a single drunken soldier, nor have I been told of misconduct of any sort. The Italian, indeed, as was proved by Napoleon, makes a good soldier, though he is not quite so military in his style, bearing and talk as the Frenchman; and the army has been a great civilizer of the more uncouth portions of the population, as well as a great fuser of the different races which inhabit the peninsula and the islands.

The imperial meeting at Kremsier, which lasted twenty hours, cost the Austrian Court Treasury upwards of $300,000. It is a proof of the morbid state of terror and apprehension in which the Czar exists that, on arriving at Kremsier, he refused to occupy the splendidly furnished apartments which had been prepared for him, and installed himself in a couple of rooms at the other end of the palace, which had been destined for some other members of the suite. There must have been frightful waste, or else the whole company must have indulged in a great orgie, for 1,000 bottles of Rhine Cabinet wines, 3,000 of champagne, 2,500 of claret, 300 of liqueurs, and 300 of brandy were consumed by 800 persons at two meals.

One morning twenty-nine years ago, the body of Mr. John Sadlier, a celebrated Irish financier and speculator was found lying stark and cold near Jackstraws Castle, on the Hampstead Heath and near it the little vial containing prussic acid with which, in the depth of his despair, he had rid himself of life. An inquest was held, and the medical witness on the occasion was Dr. Edward Staunton. About ten days ago again another body was found, stark and cold on nearly the same spot, and the fingers still gripped a small bottle which had contained prussic acid. It was taken up and recognized as that of the same Dr. Edward Staunton, whom the weary passage of twenty-nine years had brought to the same end.

FALL FOLLIES.

Note shavers use soft soap entirely.

Music of the spheres—The grindstone.

An accessory before the act—The orchestra.

A lie has no legs. Neither has a cheese. Some cheeses are living lies.

When the prisoner heard his sentence, he was visibly moved—by two policemen.

Bronze is a very fashionable hue nowadays, but brass has not entirely gone out.

Society is a fraction whose numerator is clothes and whose denominator is cash.

They have patented an automatic milk-stool at last. Shuts up when the cow kicks.

Jumbo will get a monument before Grant does. This is the advantage of being widely known.

"Mother Hubbardville" is the name of a new town in Georgia. It must be a loose place.

An exchange asks, "Why do people have poor teeth?" Probably because they can't afford to buy good ones.

A farmer wants to have his body burned. He has only to get upon his haymow and light his pipe.

Maine's potato crop is said to be worth $8 000 000 this year. What heaps of backache there must be in that crop.

If the height of a fall bonnet was proportionate to its price the roofs of theaters would have to be raised.

The world may owe a man a living, but it is always best for him to go out and collect it by a little hard work.

Bridgeport has a church that has opera chairs instead of pews. The "dropcurtain" has not yet been painted.

Italy is now sending canned oysters to Canada. If it were not so mean we might retaliate by sending some organ-grinders to Italy.

An exchange heads one of its columns, "Men and Things." The women ought to rise in arms in indignation at being called by such a name.

Siberian cats are the newest agony in pets. A Siberian cat has a cold and searching voice, and is a valuable addition to the backyard orchestra.

A new novel just issued is said to have been written between the hours of 2 and 6 o'clock in the morning. The evils of late hours seem to be accumulating.

Scientists are interested in the discovery that extreme cold converts tin into a semi-crystalline mass containing large cavities. Now when a man looks for "tin" in his pockets and finds only a large cavity he can attribute it to extreme cold—which inflates coal and plumbing bills.

"Hush, Johnny," admonished the mother as the scion of the family grew clamorous for something to eat. "You must remember that older people take precedence at the table." "Let 'em take proceedins; I want some of the muffins," Shouted Johnny.

"You are charged with kissing this young lady in the dark," said the judge to the prisoner, a good looking young man. "Merciful heavens," he gasped. "Is that the young lady?" "It is." "Then I plead not guilty, your honor" "Not guilty?" "Yes; and I desire to enter a plea of insanity."

Doctor—Have you, sir, tried the seashore? Invalid—Yes. I tried it once, but it's too hard work. Dressing and undressing is very tiresome. Doctor—I don't quite understand. Invalid—Well, you see, the doctor I had there said I must take a toddy after each bath. "Yes; but suppose he did?" "It kept me in bathing all the time."

The Soup.

A coachman suddenly raised to the post of waiter at a dinner party, when a sudden resignation had left the place vacant within an hour of the assembling of the guests, was delighted. The host was delighted to find that an old dress coat and vest would fit the coachman, and ten minutes was spent in acquainting the servant with the usages of polite society at a dinner. Among other things, the host told the coachman that he was on no account to ask any of the guests to be helped a second time to soup. The guests took their places at table, and the soup was quite credibly served. The coachman observed that one gentlman pushed his plate of soup away from him. The servant leaned over and drew the plate back again in front of the gentleman, who in turn pushed it from him again. This displeased the coachman. He thought he saw a breach of decorum in action. "Ate your soup, sorr!" said he, in trumpet tones, "yez ll get no more."

Grasshoppers are so numerous and large in Mexico that farmers go gunning for them. Enormous damage has been done to the crops, but the farmers have lots of fun.

One crank's hobby is to induce the wealthy residents of cities to open their spacious, ventilated homes during their own summer absence as lodgings for the poor. He argues that it is wicked in the millionaires to let thousands of innocent children die unnecessarily in tenements.

Three-fourths of the grazing land to the west of the Colorado river in Texas is eaten bare and about 100,000 cattle are without anything to feed on. They are kept out of New Mexico and Arizona by alleged quarantine restrictions. There is plenty of grass across the border and the Texas cowboys are getting ready to appeal to the rifle and the revolver.

The question as to the origin of the custom of sewing two but ons on the back of a gentlemen's coat. Though those buttons have now outlived their usefulness, they must have been sewed on at first with a purpose. The two buttons are generally supposed to be a relic of the days when every gentleman wore a sword. The buttons were used to support the sword belt.

The one cheap thing in Japan is the washing, which is well and beautifully done at the laundries in every foreign settlement at the moderate rate of 2.50 for 100 pieces. The skirt or single piece of the most elaborate frilled and pickoted dress is counted in at 2½ cents, as well as a single handkerchief, and the smallness of the laundry bills is a perpetual surprise and the greatest comfort in life.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column.... ..	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column........	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space......	7 00	4 00
Three inch spase	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,

(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vieker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,

Fashionable Tailor,

OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.

A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON.

Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,

MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE, - - ONT.

J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WM. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON

CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,

TAILOR,

Sydenham Street.

MARKDALE.

MARKDALE

HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

Thos. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEINC

A SPECIALTY.

Also agent for the celebrated

CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made eqtensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

PUMPS,

Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.

Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's

PATENT LOAD LIFTER

For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,

UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—

PICTURE FRAMING

Done on short notice.

ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S
YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,
Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

Monthly Fairs.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Markdale—Saturday before Orangeville.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Holland Centre—Saturday before Chatsworth.

Priceville—Monday before Durham,

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.
219 ANGUS PLEWES'

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

J. W. FORD.

Burdock
BLOOD
BITTERS.

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE. ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND

MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,

MANUFACTURER OF

MARBLE AND GRANITE

MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,

Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED

3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,
H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

W. G. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale,
134ly

CANADIAN PACIFIC R

OWEN SOUND BRANCH

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, August 2nd, ...

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.
Toronto....Leave..........	7 20am
Cardwell Junction........	9 07 "
Caledon....................	9 25 "
Orange- { Arrive..........	9 50 "
ville. { Leave...........	10 05 "
Orangeville Jun..........	10 17 "
Shelburne.................	10 45 "
Dundalk	11 10 "
Flesherton................	11 36 "
Markdale...................	11 51 "
Williamsford	12 12pm
Chatsworth................	12 28 "
Owen Sound................	1 00 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.
Owen Sound................	5 20am
Chatsworth................	5 50 "
Williamsford..............	6 05 "
Markdale...................	6 27 "
Flesherton	6 42 "
Dundalk	7 06 "
Shelburne	7 31 "
Orangeville Jun...........	8 00 "
Orange { Arrive...........	8 12 "
ville.. { Leave...........	8 35 "
Caledon	8 55 "
Cardwell Junction.........	9 07 "
Toronto.....Arrive........	10 45 "

Special Steamship Express leaves ... Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and ... for Toronto and Points East, on arrival ... R. Steamship from Port Arthur and ... in Manitoba and North West.

Markdale Church Directory

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 ... Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor ... Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for October, 4th at 7 p.m.; 7 p. m.; 18th, 7 p. m.; 25th, 10:30 ... November 1st, 7 p. m.; 8th, 10:30 and ... 7 p. m.; 22nd, 10:30 and 7; 29th, ... Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 ... 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. ... Meeting every Thursday evening ... Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; G. S. ... S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid ... nection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock ... Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting ... welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 ... their Hall, McDougall's block, every ... Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A ... brethren of neighboring lodges ...

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets ... Hall on Friday on or before full moon ... month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. ... Secretary.

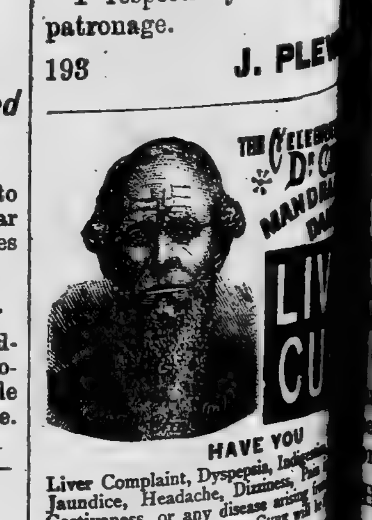
NEW GROCERY ST...

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed ...

Having just received ...

Choicee, Fresh and ...



STOCK OF

Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacco ...

Which will be sold VERY ...

I respectfully solicit the ... patronage.

193 J. PLEW...

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, ... Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, ... Costiveness, or any disease arising from ... liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be ... and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's ... Liver Complaint rests solely with the ... compounded from nature's well-known ... MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined ... other invaluable roots, barks and herbs ... powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach ... Blood. 500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's ... were sold in Canada alone. We want ... woman and child who is troubled ... plaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. ...

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's ... is a valuable Household Medical Guide ... Book (84 pages), containing over ... pronounced by medical men and druggists ... able, and worth ten times the price of ...

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A ... remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS ...

SOLD BY ALL DEAL...

T. EDMANSON & CO., Sole ...

Mark...

...L. 5.--No. 270.

...ody, Attention!

... Goods now in.

...an Watches,
...ks,
...ewellery,
...Silverware,

...ECTACLES,

...al Instruments and Strings.

...Warrants honestly kept ...s or work.

...A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

... and Other Items.

...in these columns intended to benefit ...ual or Society will be charged ten ... for the first insertion and five ... each subsequent insertion.

...BRYDEN has $50,000 to loan, ...ess.

...orse for sale. W. Jackson, ... office.

...G TAGS very cheap at the ... office.

...ore Turkey is tried, the more ... be of Greece.

...STANDARD is unsurpassed as a ...r, only $1.00.

...ott Act will be voted on in ...rines on the 19th.

...STANDARD to 1st January 1887 ...ubscribers for $1. cash.

... PARKER of Durham had ...ep killed by dogs recently.

...k of fine linen paper always ... this office for letter heads.

...s look here, you can buy a ...t Cutter for $10 at Jackson's.

...HEADS and Letter Heads very ...cheap at the STANDARD office.

...n three teachers have been ...d and a fourth advertised

...w's WORM SYRUP will remove ...of Worms from children or

...ttle fair on Saturday last was ...e expected; the largest and ...e season.

... SMITH of Orangeville had two ...gers cut off in a sausage ...ast week.

...edroom Suits, Sideboards, ...s, Lounges and Cradles, go ...& Co., Markdale.

...ores in Markdale will be ... Thursday the 12th Novem... ...g a public holiday.

...s from 4 to 5 cents per ...y 25 ready printed by the ... at the STANDARD office.

...'s WORM POWDERS are safe ...es. They destroy and re... ...rms in children or adults.

...HEM.—First class cooking ... 9, trimmed and complete ...0 at Walker Bro's, Markdale

...tice in our exchanges that ...", were unusually respectable ...halloween. This is encour...

...0 Shingles for sale at Spar... ..., near Vandeleur, by John ... All shingles warranted as re...

... WARREN, for S. Section ... Holland, for '86. Apply to ...chean, STANDARD office, POTATOE buyer...

VACCINATION is...

THERE is an ... rates.

SHOT gun for ... the barber.

A PAIR of good ... $1.25 at McFarl...

APPLES are s... few loads would ... now.

THE weather a... all that could be ... week.

THERE is a gr... the death rate ... Montreal.

OUR brass b... Prof. E. Jones as... ing year at a sala...

For lame back ... Shiloh's Porous ... cents. Sold by ...

BLANK NOTES ... 25 and 50, suit... and farmers, at ...

SHILOH'S COUGH ... Cure is Sold by ... guarantee. It c...

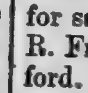
FORTY thousan... venator Bitters ... its own merits. ... barber.

MISS SUSAN ... teaching school f... of next year on ac... ill health.

MR. W. G. CR... turned to Markd... understand he ha... to hear it.

WITHOUT doub... stylish and cheap... to be found at ... Importations.

To polish stove... seed oil on them ... is much easier th... equally as good.



SLEEPLESS NIG... by that terrible co... is the remedy for ... Turner & Co.

HASKETT'S thre... nearing completi... will be occupied b... and liquor store.

HENRY WARD ... of a valuable gold... tering the elevate... one day last week...

MR. COOK, tax... No. 3, Glenelg, w... Hotel. Markdale, ... ber to receive tax...

PROF. LOW'S MA... Healing, soothing ... eruptive diseases ... lightful for toilet ...

House an... Street, Mar... apply to Pe... ton P. O., or to this ...

NATIONAL PILLS ... a safe, mild, yet t... acting upon t... promptly and effe...

WILL YOU SUFF... and Liver Co... Vitalizer is guara... Sold by A. Turne...

THE scholars a... people highly pl... Mr. Porter, Mark... has been re-engag...

Two YEAR old ... for sale, cheap for ... R. Freeborn, one ... ford. Also two g...

JOHN MORRISON, ... brakesman on th... broke railway, w... stantly killed on t...

The virtue of Carb... cleansing and purifyi... from the many mod... public is uncertain h... meet that want, McG... Cerate is prepared, a... confidence. Do not ... McGregor & Parke's ... at Hill Bro's.

ANADIAN PACIFIC R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, August 3rd, 188
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	E
ronto....Leave	7 30am	4 4
rdwell Junction	9 07 "	6 2
ledon	9 25 "	6 4
ange- Arrive	9 50 "	6
ville. Leave	10 05 "	7
angeville Jun	10 17 "	7
elburne	10 45 "	8
ndalk	11 10 "	8
esherton	11 36 "	9
rkdale	11 51 "	9
lliamsford	a 12 12pm	9
atsworth	12 28 "	9
ven Sound	1 00 "	10

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	M
ven Sound	5 20am	2
atsworth	5 50 "	3
lliamsford	6 05 "	3
rkdale	6 27 "	3
esherton	6 42 "	4
ndalk	7 06 "	4
elburne	7 31 "	4
angeville Jun	8 00 "	5
ange Arrive	8 12 "	5
ville.. Leave	8 35 "	5
ledon	8 55 "	6
rdwell Junction	9 07 "	6
ronto.....Arrive	10 45 "	8

Special Steamship Express leaves
und on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sa
Toronto and Points East, on arriva
Steamship from Port Arthur and
Manitoba and North West.

Markdale Church Direct
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10:30
ayer Meeting every Wednesday eve o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor own, S. S. Superintendent.
CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for October, 4th at 7 p. m
p. m.; 18th, 7 p. m.; 25th, 10:30 ovember 1st, 7 p. m.; 8th, 10:30 and
p. m.; 22nd, 10:30 and 7; 29th,
ev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.
METHODIST CHURCH
Services every Sunday at 10:30 a.
p. m. Sunday School at 2:30.
eeting every Thursday evening from
ev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; G. S.
S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid
ection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.
Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, mee
lternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock
Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting
elcome.
Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 heir Hall, McDougall's block, every Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A vi rethren of neighboring lodges solic
Markdale L. O. L. No. 1045 meets
Hall on Friday on or before full mo month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J.
Secretary.

NEW GROCERY ST
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed
Having just receive
Choicee, Fresh and S
STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco
Which will be sold VERY
I respectfully solicit the patronage.
193 J. PLEW

THE CELEBRA
Dr C MANDRA
DAN
LIV
CU
HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion
Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain
Costiveness, or any disease arising fro liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMED
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Complaint rests solely with the compounded from nature's well-known MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combin other invaluable roots, herbs and powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stom
Blood. 500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's were sold in Canada alone. We woman and child who is troubled wi
plaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. OVER
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Ch is a valuable Household Medical Gu Book (84 pages), containing over 50 pronounced by medical men and dru able, and worth ten times the price of TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILL
SOLD BY ALL DEAL
E. CORNABOOM & CO., Sole Agts

Markdale Standard

VOL. 5.--No. 270. MARKDALE, ONT., NOV. 12, 1885. COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.

dy, Attention!
w Goods now in.
ian Watches,
cks,
ewellery,
Silverware,
ECTACLES.
al Instruments and Strings.
Warrants honestly kept ds or work.
. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

and Other Items.

these columns intended to benefit l or Society will be charged ten for the first insertion and five ch subsequent insertion.

RYDEN has $50,000 to loan, ess.
rse for sale. W. Jackson, rkdale.
Tags very cheap at the office.
ore Turkey is tried, the more ple of Greece.
STANDARD is unsurpassed as a per; only $1.00.
Act will be voted on in mes on the 19th.
STANDARD to 1st January 1887 scribers for $1. cash.
. PARKER of Durham had ep killed by dogs recently.
k of fine linen paper always at this office for letter heads.
s look here, you can buy a t Cutter for $10 at Jackson's.
ads and Letter Heads very cheap at the STANDARD office.
three teachers have been ed and a fourth advertised w's WORM SYRUP will remove f Worms from children or tle fair on Saturday last was e expected; the largest and e season.
SMITH of Orangeville had two gers cut off in a sausage last week.
droom Suits, Sideboards, e, Lounges and Cradles, go & Co., Markdale.
rns in Markdale will be Thursday the 12th Novem- g a public holiday.
ers from 4 to 5 cents per of 25 ready printed by the at the STANDARD office.
w's WORM POWDERS are safe n. They destroy and re- rms in children or adults.
TAILOR.—First class cooking 9, trimmed and complete at Walker Bro's, Markdale
tice in our exchanges that were unusually respectable Halloween. This is encour-
Shingles for sale at Spar- near Vandeleur, by John All shingles warranted as re-
Wanted, for S. Section Richard, for '86. Apply to Atkinson, STANDARD office, POTATOE buyers are loosing money.

VACCINATION is the order of the day.

THERE is an advance in express rates.

SHOT gun for sale, apply to Smith, the barber.

A PAIR of good Horse Blankets only $1.25 at McFarland's.

APPLES are scarce in town. A few loads would find a ready market now.

THE weather and roads have been all that could be un-desired the past week.

THERE is a gratifying decrease in the death rate from small-pox in Montreal.

OUR brass band has re-engaged Prof. E. Jones as captain for the coming year at a salary of $200.

For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

BLANK NOTES put up in books of 20, 25 and 50, suitable for auctioneers and farmers, at the STANDARD office.

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is Sold by A. Turner & Co. on a guarantee. It cures consumption. z

FORTY thousand packages of Rejuvenator Bitters sold in four years by its own merits. Sold by Smith, the barber.

MISS SUSAN DAVIS has resigned teaching school for the first six monts of next year on account of her mother's ill health.

MR. W. G. CROSSON and family returned to Markdale last week. We understand he has come to stay. Glad to hear it.

WITHOUT doubt the prettiest, most stylish and cheapest Dress Goods are to be found at McFarland's, Direct Importations.

To polish stove pipes, rub raw linseed oil on them with a cloth. This is much easier than polishing and is equally as good.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z HASKETT'S three new stores are nearing completion. The centre one will be occupied by Benson's grocery and liquor store.

HENRY WARD BEECHER was robbed of a valuable gold watch as he was entering the elevated train in New York one day last week.

MR. COOK, tax collector for Ward No. 3, Glenelg, will be at the Revere Hotel, Markdale, on the 25th November to receive taxes.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP.—Healing, soothing a cleansing for all eruptive diseases of the skin. Delightful for toilet use.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

NATIONAL PILLS are unsurpassed as a safe, mild, yet thorough, purgative, acting upon the biliary organs promptly and effectually.

WILL YOU SUFFER with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

THE scholars are delighted and the people highly pleased to learn that Mr. Porter, Markdale head teacher, has been re-engaged for '86.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

JOHN MORRISON, a Collingwood boy, brakesman on the Kingston & Pembroke railway, was run over and instantly killed on the 31st ult.

The virtue of Carbolic Asid for healing, cleansing and purifying is well known; but from the many modes of applying it, the public is uncertain how best to use it. To meet that want, McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate is prepared, and may be used with confidence. Do not be misled. Take only McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Sold at Hill Bro's. 4

TEACHERS wanted, see adv. columns.

WE publish one day early this week, Thursday being a public holiday. We have as much need of rendering thanks as our neighbors, and will therefore close up.

JUST ARRIVED.—At McLeod's shoe store Boots & Shoes, all styles and sizes, the best value for the money to be had in Markdale, at least so the people say.

MARKDALE cheese factory patrons are shipping this week nearly 600 boxes of cheese, being the last shipment of the season.

CATARRH CURED, health and sweet breath secured, by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal Injector free. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

FIRE.—Webster's saw mill on the 9th line Euphrasia was burned early last Thursday morning. We understand there was nothing saved. Origin of the fire not known.

UNION thanksgiving services will be held in the Presbyterian church at 10:30 a. m. by the Presbyterians and Methodists of this village, on Thursday 12th, thanksgiving day.

A MAN named Andrew Pickens fell into a threshing machine near Hastings last week while cutting bands, and was instantly killed, his head being severed from his body.

FIRE.—Thos. Hill, lot 7, con. 11, Euphrasia, had his house burned last week. The contents were mostly saved. No insurance. We did not learn how the fire originated.

W. MCLEOD is doing a fast increasing business in both readymade and ordered work in Boots & Shoes. The people say it is the cheapest place in town to get booted. Call and be convinced.

INSTANTLY KILLED.—Last Friday a young man named Thomas Cochrane of Kingston, second waiter on the C. P. R. steamer Athabaska, fell from the main deck into the hole and was instantly killed.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Consumption, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. z

IT is estimated that there are 35,000 newspapers and other periodicals published in the world. The United States has a total of 13,494, while the Dominion of Canada has 644 and Newfoundland 9.

WE are pleased to learn that Mr. Crosson has decided to make Markdale his home, for he is indeed a desirable citizen. He has entered into partnership with W. H. Rutledge in the butcher business.

MR. F. PORTER and Miss F. Ford, first and second teachers, have been re-engaged for Markdale school at a salary of $430 and $250 respectively, and a Miss Brown of Hopeville as third teacher at $235.

MR. THOS. FOSTER fell from a ladder while working on Davis' new brick house last week. He had his collar bone broken and was otherwise badly shaken up. He has been laid up since, but is on the mend.

REJUVENATOR BITTERS assists nature and removes the cause of diseases from the system by keeping the Kidneys, Liver, Stomach and Blood pure and nature's channels free, then you have health. Sold by Smith, the barber.

Any quantity of money to loan on real estate on the very best terms. Low rates, easy terms, and dispatch in putting through loans. Business strictly private and confidential. Apply at the STANDARD office, Markdale.

THE wreck of the Algoma has caused general excitement throughout the country. Mrs. Gill of this village has the sincere sympathy of our citizens in her present distressing grief, in the loss of her husband on the Algoma. Mr. Gill has been engaged as one of the crew on the ill-fated vessel for two months and is among the list of lost.

IF other merchants would follow W. J. McFarland's example in Direct Importation of pure Teas, they would not have to envy the heavy run on his Triumphant Tea, and in order to bolster up a tottering business, resort to falsehood.

PROMOTED.—The efforts of an agricultural gentleman, in supplying the Mt. Forest Representative with choice vegetables, have been so satisfactory and appreciated, that the publisher has promoted him to the position of agricultural editor.

WE saw a man the other day go down street without a hat, but we would like to see the man that can go barefoot this weather. Go straight to McLeod's for any kind of Boots & Shoes; you cannot but be satisfied with quality and prices.

BARRHEAD MILLS.—Both the Grist and Saw Mill are now in full blast and in a position to turn out better work than heretofore. Farmers will do well to remember this, for no person is more honorable with his customers than is W. J. Rowe.

SENTENCED.—Martha Purdy, of Singhampton, who was sentenced on Oct. 11th, to two years in the Penitentiary for burning the barn of her nephew, Andrew Neff, was conveyed to Kingston on Monday last by Sheriff Smith, of Barrie.—Free Press.

MARKDALE S. S. Anniversary will take place on Thursday next. Tea in the Orange Hall from 5 o'clock. Chair taken at 8 o'clock. Splendid program. Addresses by Rev. W. Ayers of Flesherton and the local ministers. Admission 25 cents. Come.

MACHINERY.—Two carloads of machinery arrived this week for Mr. J. S. Plewes' new roller mill, now in course of erection. Messrs. Goldie & McCullough, of Galt, have the entire contract of the job. Eight men are now engaged on the work.—Shelburne Free Press.

I CAN'T understand how it is our cat leaves us every year on the approach of winter. We never can get a cat to stay with us, said Mrs. B. Just exactly the same with me, says Mrs. W.; but I believe the season for making sausage has something to do with the disappearance of the cats.

SOME men have conceived the unreasonable idea that if they subscribe for the STANDARD for a friend at a distance that it will entitle them to their own copy free. If we would softly comply, and had five hundred such patrons, we would be bankrupt in less than twelve months.

THE Tichborne claimant's wife, whom the Wapping butcher styled "Lady" Tichborne when he was engaged in his great perjury act, is dead. Since his release the ex-conviet has not lived with her, because when he came out of prison after ten years incarceration he found an unaccountable increase in the number of his family.

HONOR ROLL OF S. S. No. 7, HOLLAND, FOR OCTOBER.—4th Class—1st, Mattie Bailey; 2nd, Eddie Bailey. 3rd Class—1st, Maggie Price; 2nd, James Ewing. 2nd Class—1st, Willie Spears; 2nd, John Fitzgerald and Ada Roulston. Part 2nd—1st, Albert Roulston; 2nd, Thomas Kemp. Part 1st—Johnnie Armstrong and Frankie Kemp. Lizzie S. Moore, teacher.

THE Farmers' Advocate for November is to hand, every column of which contains useful and practical interest to farmers. This periodical is too well known to require any puffing from us It has deservedly the largest circulation of any agricultural paper in Canada, yet a hundred per cent. increase in its circulation would be a direct benefit to subscribers as well as the publisher.

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

PAIN IN THE SIDE, from whatever cause, may be quickly relieved by Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which cures all manner of aches and pains, and all soreness and lameness of the flesh applied and taken inwardly,

THE following is a list in order of merit of the pupils of 1st division Markdale Public School who obtained 60 per cent. or over at the last monthly examination: Class V—Lizzie Thibaudeau, Geo. Bowes. Class IV, Sen.—John Dundas, E. Jones, Lottie Mann, Willie McFarland. Class IV, Jun.—Mary Stevens, Frank Bryden, Herbert Hull. Class III—Bessie Moffat, Ada Reynolds, Jessie Grant. F. Porter, teacher.

A HEARTY "SEND OFF."—On Saturday last, Messrs. Cliff & Sons left Traverston for good. Mr. E. Kennedy the owner of the mill, who is now going to run it himself, entertained the Cliff Bros., their men, and a number of friends, with a sumptuous dinner, and before leaving, Mrs. Delaney, the storekeeper, invited them all to a farewell lunch, which was served in the same generous manner.—Durham Chronicle.

WE learn, from a letter to his brother, that Mr. James Blair of New Lenex, Illinois, formerly of Artemesia, has been to Scotland the past summer and brought over nine fine Clydesdale stallions. He lost one, however, on the passage from Glasgow to Montreal. He passed through on the C. P. R. from Montreal to Chicago via Toronto. Mr. Blair has now fourteen stallions and has more coming this winter. The many friends of Mr. B., who is brother to Messrs. William and Robt. Blair, of Artemesia, will be pleased to hear that he is prospering in his business.

ORANGE CONCERT.—Last Thursday night was very dark and wet, and the roads were in a shocking state, yet the concert in the Orange Hall was fairly attended. Dr. Sproule, M. P., presided and gave a very interesting address. Revs. Casson, Grandy and Mr. W. J. McFarland also addressed the audience very suitably. The Misses Ford and Misses Dundas contributed in song. Mr. Porter gave a recitation, and Prof. Benson brought down the house as usual in comic songs. The brass band was in attendance and contributed very materially to the enjoyment of the entertainment. All passed off very pleasantly.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Saturday night last about half past six Thomas McCann, aged about 22, son of Mr. Michael McCann of Holland, was driving across the railway at Berkeley when an engine going north struck the hind part of the buggy, smashing the vehicle and seriously, if not fatally injuring the young man. He was badly bruised about the head and had one leg broken in two places. Drs. Sproule and Carter of Markdale were called on and attended his injuries. He has been unconscious up to time of writing (Monday), and not much hope is entertained of his recovery. The engine had whistled, and the bell ringing at time of accident, so that no blame can be attached to the engine-driver. The horse escaped unhurt. Later the young man died Wednesday morning.

POST OFFICE ROBBERY.—No sooner have the people of Thornbury got over the excitement occasioned by the burglary of Mr. T. R. Foster's safe than they are startled by a robbery of our post office. On Sunday morning about 10:30, Master Fred Hutchinson, clerk in the post office, on entering the building was surprised to find vinegar on the floor, and on going to the apartment used as a post office, found letters, papers, &c., strewn all over the floor. He immediately sent for Dr. Hurlburt who was at church. On further examination it was discovered that seven registered letters were taken, and the mail bags ripped open with a knife. The cash box from which McKenny and Hurlburt usually paid money to [illegible] for a grain buyer in Toronto had been rifled, but fortunately there was no money in it. Thornbury is surely getting to be a terrible place. Nobody safe.—Thornbury Standard.

THE FARM.

The Gradual Exhaustion of Soils.

No country was ever blessed by nature with more productive soil. She made the best possible use of the long ages prior to the settlement of this country by whites, in forcing the most luxuriant growth of vegetation, and by its decay and that of the annual crop of foliage, had filled the soil with an amount of fertility that seemed exhaustless. So thought our fathers, and so think many of the occupiers of the great fertile West. But a continual taking out and putting nothing back would exhaust even the ocean. It has exhausted the millions of acres of the older East, and it will exhaust the most fertile fields of the West. A study of the census must convince any searcher that the productions of all our crops is year by year growing less and less. It cannot be attributed to a change of seasons for a series of years, but can be only to one cause—the gradual exhaustion of plant food by our unthinking and unwise course.

This subject of husbandry the resources of our acres, and of returning to our starving fields those elements of plant growth quite or nearly exhausted, is yearly forcing itself more prominently upon the attention of the farmers of at least the eastern half of our country, and the line is very rapidly extending westward. Millions of acres that once produced magnificent crops of the various grains, even west of the great lakes, are now lying vacant, or barely paying for the most shiftless cultivation. This question cannot be seriously considered too soon, even by the farmers on the now rich and productive prairies west of the great rivers. Every train that passes eastward is loaded with a portion of their fertility, much of it in the crude and barely remunerative state of bran, oil meal, and the coarser grains, and, to the shame of the farmers, even in the bones of their animals, while the returning trains carry back nothing in the nature of plant food.

Though Western farmers may think they have no need of such knowledge, they should not fail to thoroughly post themselves, and those farmers who do so and who take advantage of this knowledge, will, by and by, be looked upon as the "lucky ones" who have the richest farms in the vicinity in which they live. Rural New Yorker.

Notes.

Every animal on the farm should be tested—whether cattle, sheep, swine, or horses. The ordinary cow should have her merits known to the dairyman, and he should familiarize himself with her qualifications, not only as a milker, but as to the kind and quality of food best adapted for her purposes, and the most profitable. A cow may give only twenty pounds of milk a day, and yet be an excellent animal if she can produce that amount at a low cost, while another cow in the same herd may yield thirty pounds per day, and yet prove unprofitable compared with the other.

A fall planted tree has this great advantage, that the heavy rains have a tendency to carry the earth in and around the roots, while the low temperature following is unfavorable to any excessive evaporations from the branches. The only enemy to be feared is excessively cold and drying winds. In spring planting we not only have the difficulty of packing the earth well in among the roots, but have the possibility of heat and drought immediately following. Aside from these theoretical reasonings, the experience of the last few seasons has been favorable to the success of fall planting. As early as it can be done in the fall the better.

A peculiar kind of hard times has come upon the farmers and people of this country. If you inquire what product is so short as to cause distress, the answer will be that it is not scarcity of anything that causes the hard times—there is too much wheat, too much corn, too much grain of all kinds, too much hay, too much beef, pork, sugar; too much wool, cotton, iron, steel; too much of everything. We are in distress of too much, borne down with the sad burden of superabundance. We are uncertain what advice to give—even money is too plenty, and often can't be loaned at a low interest. We can't think of any better advice than to dry up our tears, put on a cheerful look, and go to work vigorously with a full appetite, and eat our way through this abundance, and trust to time for success.

We observe that some writers on vegetable gardening speak of the difficulty of keeping succulent vegetables, like beets, turnips and parsnips, from wilting when placed in cellars, and recommend packing them in sand, or burying them in the earth of the cellar bottom. This mode is necessarily cumbersome and inconvenient. An easier and more perfect way is to pack them in damp sawdust, placed in barrels of moderate size, or in boxes of not more than two feet in width. Place a layer of sawdust in the bottom, then a layer of the roots, then fill in all the interstices with another layer, and so on till the box is full, leaving no crevices. We have taken beets out of such boxes after remaining in them a full year, so fresh in appearance that no external difference could be seen between them and fresh roots. Nurserymen's moss is neater than sawdust where it can be had, and serves an excellent purpose for packing winter cabbage in large boxes.

More Humane Treatment of Horses.

Machinery is doing a vast amount of labor for man, but horses are not dispensed with, or the contrary the ir number is increasing in this country every year. Not only so, but their quality is improving, both for carriage and heavy work. No creature is so valuable a servant to man. He is often ill-treated, not so much from intention as from ignorance of what is right. Don't build the manger so high as to make it unnatural, and therefore painful, for the horse to eat from it. Remember a horse is a grazing animal, constructed to take food from the ground. When the head is down near to the surface of the earth, the swallowing muscles are in a position to do their work; but when the head is raised four or five feet high the muscles are restricted in their action. What is supposed to be gained by high mangers in the development of high neck and shoulders is more than lost in the depressed back or "saddle back" of the horse in consequence of the unnatural elevation of the head. The bottom of the feed-box and manger should not be above the horse's knees, or, what is better, never more than one foot from the floor. The manger should be two feet deep, measuring from the top, and about two feet four inches wide at the top. Make the feed-box at the bottom of manger. Some claim that the floor of the stall should be level instead of descending from the manger toward the rear, and use more and better absorbents. In so doing you not only save the most valuable part of the fertilizing of the horse, but you remove the strain of standing with his hind feet lower than the forward ones. When at rest in the pasture the horse chooses to stand with his forward feet lower than his hind feet; this he does to throw the centre of gravity nearer the fore legs and shoulders, by which the projecting neck is balanced by the rear portion of the body. The horse wants clean food and drink. Nothing is clean where a hen goes. Hens should be kept awag from horses, not only from fouling their food, but from communicating lice. These parasites are difficult to remove from horses when once upon them. Don't work a horse all day upon the farm, and at night turn him out to pick up a scanty supper when he should be resting in the stable after eating. All that a horse requires for his services is rest, food and drink, and he is cruel who denies these. There is economy in keeping a working team in the stable at night, where it can be regularly fed, and is always ready for use. Don't crimp the allowance of suitable food. All a horse needs of hay and grain to keep in good condition, it is for the profit of his owner so supply.

PERSONAL.

Lady Dufferin is organizing sewing and relief societies among the women of India.

Oscar Wilde has re-entered the lecture field with his hair cut and English trousers on his lower limbs.

In the wedding trousseau of the Princess Marie d'Orleans is a pearl necklace looted in the Chinese war by Gen. Palikaiao, valued at $25,000.

Professor Pasteur has cured a boy of hydrophobia by inoculating him with attenuated virus sixty hours after he had been bitten fourteen times by a mad dog.

Mr. Spurgeon declares that he has been practicing vegetarianism for the past eight months, and is "not only living but lively." The abstinence is, however, believed to have been compulsory.

William K. Vanderbilt has not been to church for four years, and it is said that Jay Gould hasn't heard a sermon, for an even greater length of time. Both might change that record with benefit to themselves.

Mr. Samuel Rowlandson, who has been appointed to the bench in Yorkshire by the Marquis of Ripon, is said to be the first tenant farmer ever selected in England for such an honor.

George Augustus Sala records the statement that trees and shrubs in South Australia die from the top downward, in that reminding one of Dean Swift's prediction of his own end.

The Princess Victoria of Hohenzollern, granddaughter of Queen Victoria, is less likely than ever to marry Prince Alexander of Battenberg now that his Bulgarian throne looks decidedly shaky.

Labouchere says that Prince Frederick of Saxe-Altonberg will be the German and Austrian candidate for the Bulgarian throne in case of a vacancy. Bismarck won't hear of Prince Waldemar of Denmark.

Prince and Princess Edward of Saxe-Weimar have taken up their quarters at the Royal Hospital at Kilmainham, near Dublin. They doubtless expect a visit from the Invincibles and want to be near surgical help.

A Liverpool coffin-maker, who had furnished a casket to a poor woman for her deceased husband, failing to get paid immediately, broke into the widow's house in her absence, threw the body out on the floor and drove away with the casket.

The Empress of Austria has had a hunting lodge built in the Lainger Wildpark near Vienna which took three years to complete and cost $1,750,000. She has indefinitely postponed her return to the Irish hunting fields on account of the prevailing agitation.

One of the Paris papers is responsible for the statement that the Prince of Wales smokes forty cigarettes a day, and that when in Austria lately he prevailed on the Princess Louise of Cobourg and Countess Esterhazy to join him in smoking at the dinner-table.

A Sioux Indian named Two Strike entered the office of the Valentine (Dak.) Blade the other day and assumed a warlike attitude. The editor got ready for an Indian outbreak, but was agreeably disappointed when Mr. Two Strike threw down a $10 gold piece to pay for a year's subscription.

It is not generally known that John Russell Young is in descent related to Robert Burns the poet. To be more explicit, he is a greatgrandnephew of the Scotch bard. The Rev. John Russell, after whom Mr. Young was named, was a cousin of Burns and pastor of the Burns family, who were strict followers of the severest form of the covenanted faith.

Madame Patti has a small, cold and wrinkled hand. Modjeska's hands are round, long, well formed. They are generally in repose. The hands of Clara Morris are long, slender, rather wiry and nervous. Her nails are pink and pretty, and the wrists are small and well turned. Mary Anderson has a cold hand that almost gives you a chill if touched. Margaret Mather's hands, like herself, are small, graceful, and effective in gesture. Gerster, Scalchi, Fursch-Madi, and Materna all have large and generous hands, hearty to clasp, and looking able for the work their ample bodies and brains require.

Josh Billings, according to an acquaintance, was the only man who wanted to thrash a compositor for correcting his bad spelling.

The steamer Oregon, on a voyage from Portland, Oregon, to San Francisco early this month, encountered an immense whale, and struck it with such force that the big vessel shook from stem to stern. In some unaccountable way the monster's head then became wedged in between the rod of the rudder and the vessel, and in that way the whale was carried along with the steamer for several hours.

LAUGHLETS.

The first thing in a boot is the last.

The telephone is conducted on sound principles.

Widows who live in grass retirement shouldn't throw glances.

"Nervous Girl" wants to know how to cure tickling sensations about the face. Get him to shave off his mustache.

Mrs. Coyne has sued a man for damages for breach of promise. He didn't want Coyne but she does.

A newspaper relates the story of a poet "who sang the song and died." The name of the editor who killed him is not given.

Artemus Ward, when asked by telegraph on behalf of a lyceum committee, "What will you take for ten nights?" replied, "Brandy and water."

It looks paradoxical. The Parsees are said to be rich and generous, yet there must be a great deal of Parsee money among them.

Mrs Langtry has refused to pay her husband's debts. If this is to be the rule hereafter, a certain class of men will refuse to marry popular actresses.

Freshmen professor (holding up a written exercise:) "I perceive that this one was copied from outside helps. The man who handed it in will remain." A half dozen remain.

Bibulous Printer (to proof-reader)—"How do you spell whisky? With an 'e'?" Proof-reader—"No. Do you drink it with an 'e'?" Bibulous Printer—"You bet, I drink it with 'e's.'"

The following is the reply given by one of our prominent scholars: Teacher—"What are metamorphic rocks?" Pupil—"Metamorphic rocks are rocks containing metaphor."

A fashion authority states that "low-necked dresses will be dropped at the opera this season." The time is fast approaching when the opera will be no place for respectable people to frequent.

"I went to hear Archdeacon Farrar lecture on Dante," remarked the music teacher, "and I was greatly disappointed. He talked nearly two hours about Dante, and never said a word about his sister Ann."

Pearl Desmond writes a touching poem entitled, "A Broken Link." Well, the next time Pearl goes to market she will carry her sausages home in a basket, and not try to carry them by the handle or lead them with a string.

"It appears to me," said Muldidheron, "that I can't go out nowadays without being insulted." "Why, what's the latest?" inquired his friend. "The other day a young lady asked me for the loan of my face to start a crazy quilt."

Rum and honey is said to be one of the best cough medicines for a family. The wife can use her share of it—the honey—while the husband, with his usual self-sacrificing devotion, gets away with the nasty rum.

"Only one trouble with that preacher," said the brakeman, as the sermon closed, after a slow run of an hour and a quarter and two laps. "What's that?" the switchman wanted to know. "Poor facilities," the brakeman replied.

An Eye to Economy—Young Husband: "I believe I would like a nice turtle steak for dinner." Young wife (of a thrifty disposition): "I am afraid turtle steaks are rather expensive, dear. Wouldn't you be satisfied with a mock-turtle steak?"

Mr. Cable, the southern novelist, gives in his adhesion to woman suffrage by saying: "If our mothers are not fit to vote, they ought to stop bearing sons." By this brilliant logic, as our fathers don't bear sons, they will be deprived of the right of voting.

"Whew!" exclaimed Crimsonbeak, surprised on entering his sleeping apartment to find his wife waiting for him the other morning at 2 o'clock, "these stairs almost take my breath away." "Well, I wish they would," replied his displeased wife, catching the odor of the club man's evening beverage.

Among the Karens, when a bridegroom reaches home his clothing is taken from him. It would seem from this that woman, even in her uncivilized state, understands that the only peaceful marriages are those where the wife affects the unmentionables, and she takes the earliest occasion to make the transfer.

A burglar who attempted to enter a house in Sacramento was caught fast in the window, and the woman armed herself with a potato masher, drew up a chair, and sat there and tapped his head for half an hour before calling the police. She said she had always just ached to pound a man all she wanted to.

A Michigan girl told her lover that she could never think of marrying a man with less than $10 000, and as he was worth a suit of clothes less than nothing he went sadly away. That night his uncle died and left him $5,000. The next day the dejected lover got a letter. It read: "Dearest George, I'm willing to make it $5,000."

Mr. D. L. Moody says about long prayers: "If when Peter found himself sinking in the waves of Galilee, he had insisted on putting before his petition, 'Lord, save me,' the regular prayer meeting round-about introduction, he would have been forty feet under water before he could have asked of the Lord the help he needed."

A Sunday-school scholar was asked, apropos of Solomon, who the great queen was that travelled so many miles to see him. The scholar—in fact, the whole school—looked as if a little help would be liked, and the teacher therefore said: "The queen's name began with an S." "I've got it, sir!" exclaimed the delighted scholar. "Well, who was it?" "It was the queen of spades, sir!"

When Vestryman Green bowed his head to read the responses of the litany he was very drowsy indeed, and he had repeated "Lord have mercy upon us miserable sinners," but three times when he fell fast asleep. His wife nudged him with her parasol without success. When the minister reached, "And now, seventeenthly, my beloved brethren," Vestryman Green awoke, and being unconscious of the lapse of time responded in a sonorous and fervent voice: "Lord have mercy upon us miserable sinners."

Advocates of beer as a healthy temperance drink should ponder the case of the St. Bernard dog reported from Alleghany City (Pa.) He is a magnificent animal, very sagacious, and until recently very docile and gentle Unfortunately he became addicted to beer-guzzling, for which he has acquired an inordinate appetite, and his nature has altogether deteriorated under its influence. At a certain stage he becomes madly ferocious, and now his life is in jeopardy, having in one of his paroxysms of drunken fury severely bitten a man.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

For ponderous cheek, joined to the smile of a thief, commend us to the Boston man who built two houses side by side, lived in one himself and sold the other. Into the one he sold, he had put a furnace, close to the partition wall, connecting to its hot air chamber flues leading to his own residence. In this way he heated himself at his neighbor's expense for a whole winter before his little scheme was discovered. If anybody knows of a meaner piece of knavery we want to hear about it quickly.

Anglomania, as it is called, is so prevalent in Boston, Newport and other American cities that theatrical managers regard it as an important factor in advertising. An illustration of the fact was afforded in Boston recently. A young fellow newly out of Cambrige, and without theatrical experience, has been given a leading role in a company which is to star the country this season, for no other reason than that he calls himself "Honourable Cecil P. Vivian, Glamis Castle, N. B.," and says his father is a member of the House of Lords. It is thought his mere presence on the stage will be inducement enough to make the tuft-hunters part with their dollars.

There is something grotesque in a recent telegram to the effect that though the Duke of Connaught is anxious to return to India to something like the real life of a man in attendance upon his military duties, his mother is unwilling to let him because she fears the climate and the dangers of the present complications with Burmah. She would like him to stay quietly at home until he succeeds the Duke of Cambridge as Commander-in-Chief of the army. Poor, dear boy! From Edward the Black-Prince to the present scions of royalty, kept close to their mother's apron strings for fear they get into danger, what a tumble!

A stern old soldier passed away when Lord Strathnairn died last week. He was a Field Marshal, and his full title was Rt. Hon. Hugh Henry Rose, Baron Strathnairn, G.C.B.G.C.S.I. He is remembered among other things for his severe treatment of the leaders of the Sepoy mutineers, whom he caused to be blown from the mouths of cannon. He was undoubtedly one of the ablest and most brilliant soldiers who have figured in the British service since the days of Wellington. His rank of field marshal is held by only two other men in the British service who are not of Royal birth, viz., by Lord Napier, of Magdala, and Sir Patrick Grant. The others are the Duke of Cambridge, and the Prince of Wales.

A curious case of conflicting evidence was brought out in a recent bigamy case in England. The defendant, James Malcolm, was identified by various witnesses as the man who, under the name of Macdonald, met a young woman in Brighton, and married her after a very brief wooing, having a wife living at the time. Various circumstances told heavily against him. For instance, Macdonald gave as an excuse for his return to London every night that he was obliged to be on board his ship at four o'clock in the morning and Malcolm was a marketman whose duties began at the same early hour. This was only one of a number of striking coincidences. Nevertheless numerous persons were found to prove a complete alibi for Malcolm on the occasion when Macdonald was engaged in marrying the bride. As an outcome of the conflict of testimony, the jury disagreed and a new trial was ordered. The whole story commends itself to lovers of the mysterious. Miss Braddon at her best never tried to unravel a more contradictory snarl of circumstances.

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.

Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages Handsomely bound in cloth.

Robert Burns

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 368 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
372 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
376 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 350 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 352 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for anyone, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
352 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least TWO subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

THE DOMINION CAPITAL.

BY EDMUND COLLINS.

"Beautiful as Zion for situation, lying jewel-like within the bosom of a lovely valley where every phase of Nature's beauty, in rock and river, field and forest, mead and mountain, whirlpool and waterfall, she may be surveyed at one broad sweep of entranced vision; wearing the noblest pile of public buildings in the colony upon her fir-clad brow; fringed all about with mingled mansion, villa, lawn and grove, and holding the rival falls of thunderous Chaudiere and tawney Rideau in either hand." Thus does Mr. James Macdonald Oxley pourtray Ottawa. "An arctic lumber village turned into a political cockpit." Such is Mr. Goldwin Smith's description of the same city. As these two gentlemen do not exactly agree in their estimates, I have given both their versions; though I must not get myself into hot water by saying which I deem to be the most accurate. But Mr. Oxley cannot make this city more proud, any more than Mr. Smith can make it more humble; so that regardless of the disparagement or the praise it falls to my lot to give a very brief and unambitious sketch of the past and present of the Capital, according to my own understanding. A little while after the beginning of the present century one Philemon Wright, of Woburn, Massachusetts, left his native place and proceeded to Montreal. From this point, with a caravan of five families, including thirty men, fourteen horses, eight oxen and seven sleighs, loaded deep with mill irons, axes, scythes, hoes and all other kinds of tools, together with a number of

BARRELS OF CLEAR PORK

of his own raising, he proceeded to the Chaudiere Falls, where he erected for himself an habitation. He built the village of Wrightville, now Hull, one of the darkest looking cities in the world, in spite of all the latent illumination stored up in its factories. Hull is directly opposite Ottawa, and for a trifling sum the land upon which the city stands fell into the hands of one Nicholas Sparks, a person in the service of Mr. Wright. There was considerable nervousness for many years after the war of 1812-15, and this feeling led to the construction of the Rideau Canal, a water route which would serve our people or our troops, in time of war, to come and go upon, without interruption. The junction of this canal with the Ottawa river was made precisely at the point where Mr. Sparks had purchased the land. In a little while the nucleus of a settlement made its appearance, and then with the growth of the canal traffic, there uprose a thriving place called Bytown, so named after Colonel By, the engineer of the canal. As for Mr. Sparks, he soon found himself busy selling lots to the Imperial Government and to enterprising settlers, till he became the master of a cool half a million sterling. In 1851 Bytown boasted of no fewer than 8000 inhabitants; and the great bulk of these were concerned, either directly or indirectly, with the lumber traffic. To this part of Canada seemed to come from all quarters men of the sturdiest enterprise, as witness the names of the Steads, the Eddys, the Moors, the Gilmours, the Perlys, the Patteys, the Hamiltons, the Wrights, and the many others hardly less

ADVENTURESOME AND SUCCESSFUL

in achievements. The new city now began to grow dissatisfied with her name, and longed for one with more poetry and more music in its sound. So Bytown was changed to Ottawa, which appellation had taken the place of the Utwa of the Indian. It would seem as if some guiding hand were preparing this little northern town for the laurels soon to be placed upon her brow. In 1841 the old provinces of Upper and Lower Canada entered into union, and the seat of the new Government was established at Kingston. But three years later it was decided that parliament should go "boarding round the deestrict," so to speak; in other words, it was resolved that the seat of government should go four years to the French province, and for a like period to the English one, alternately. Montreal was given the honors for Quebec, and Toronto held them for Ontario. But in 1849 a Tory mob in Montreal did itself the credit of burning down the parliament buildings, stoning the Governor-General and poking sticks through a portrait of the Queen. The representatives never returned to the riotous city, but chose Quebec in its stead. In 1858 the legislature had grown sick of the continuous packing, moving, and unpacking; and decided to ask Her Majesty to become arbitrator in the matter, and name a city for the permanent residence of parliament. The Queen took a map of the wild colonies, and called one or two of her trusty councillors to her side. The Duke of Wellington put his pointer upon a little black dot marked "Bytown," and said, "That is a suitable place, Your Majesty. It stands on the border of both provinces, and it is a place of little importance in the English province." Her Majesty accepted the advice, and signified her choice to the Canadian government. Not a little excitement was manifested when it became known that the place chosen for the Capital was "a certain modest village-town, perched meekly on high bluffs and intervening valleys between the spray and roar of headlong waterfalls." This decision at once brought the "arctic lumber village" into prominence; and a gentleman with a very bitter and therefore somewhat unreliable tongue, in later years, when referring to its selection said, "It was to become the cemetery of political morality for this country." Of course the city has never considered that it received any honor in being chosen; but quite the contrary. Its very insignificance was its passport to distinction. As Mr. Oxley has happily said, it was the "dark horse" in the contest for the capitalship. Clever writers may sharpen their wits as they may to say disparaging things of our little capital; they can not alter the facts. In the last resort, God made Ottawa, and neither the hostile critic nor the occasional political villainy enacted here, can blot out the grandeur of its rushing rivers, and of its thunderous waterfalls.

The population of Ottawa is now about 33,000, and comprises some 15,000 French, more or less. The latter people seem to have preferred the low ground; and therefore Lower Town is pretty much in their hands, and may be regarded as presenting fair types of their civilization. They are fairly moral, open-hearted, courteous, and enterprising; but they are

POX VERY MUCH IN DREAD OF SMALL-POX.

This disease, I regret to say, is a sort of ELLANEOUS ITEMS.

erous cheek, joined to the scalp mend us to the Boston man who uses side by side, lived in one sold the other. Into this one he put a furnace, close to the par-connecting to its hot air chamber to his own residence. In this ed himself at his neighbor's ex-whole winter before his little discovered. If anybody knows piece of knavery we want to t quickly.

is, as it is called, is so prevalent Newport and other American heatrical managers regard it as t factor in advertising. An ilthe fact was afforded in Boston young fellow newly out of nd without theatrical experience, ven a leading role in a company star the country this season, for ason than that he calls himself
e Cecil P. Vivian, Glamis Castle, says his father is a member of Lords. It is thought his mere the stage will be inducement ake the tuft-hunters part with something grotesque in a recent the effect that though the Duke

t is anxious to return to India like the real life of a man in upon his military duties, his willing to let him because she mate and the dangers of the plicat ons with Burmah. She im to stay quietly at home until the Duke of Cambridge as in-Chief of the army. Poor,
From Edward the Black-Prince nt scions of royalty, kept close her's apron strings for fear they ger, what a tumble!

ld soldier passed away when hairn died last week. He was arshal, and his full title was gh Henry Rose, Baron Strath-
B.G.C.S.I. He is remembered things for his severe treatment s of the Sepoy mutineers, whom be blown from the mouths of was undoubtedly one of the ost brilliant soldiers who have e British service since the days
n. His rank of field marshal is two other men in the British are not of Royal birth, viz., by
, of Magdala, and Sir Patrick others are the Duke of Cam-the Prince of Wales.

case of conflicting evidence was a recent bigamy case in England.
nt, James Malcolm, was idenous witnesses as the man who, ne of Macdonald, met a young woton, and married her after a very having a wife living at the time.
umstances told heavily against tance, Macdonald gave as an exeturn to London every night that ged to be on board his ship at in the morning and Malcolm tman whose duties began at the ur. This was only one of a number ncidences. Nevertheless numer-were found to prove a complete colm on the occasion when Macngaged in marrying the bride.
ne of the conflict of testimony, agreed and a new trial was orwhole story commends itself to mysterious. Miss Braddon at r tried to unravel a more conarl of circumstances.

S SELECT WORKS

By D. L. MOODY

portrait of the evangelist. This notes and illustrations from ches and Sermons.

S ON IN THE WORLD

LIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.

ound in cloth, in blue and gold.
the most popular books, by a ense knowledge with the ability most attractive form. Ther is or a young man, in fact for any-
"Getting on in the World."

WITH MEN AND BOOKS

LIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.

nd in cloth, in green and gold.
ten times its cost for the tenth
Full of useful information.

OTTAGE HEARTH

printed monthly magazine, made literature, pure in tone and price is $1.50 a year. Anyone arly subscriptions to the WEEKLY ir rate of one dollar each will ent the above capital magazine ecimen copies will be sent free
The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston,

Evening Mail for 3 months is y for one year the DAILY or EVEN-
is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year;
EVENING for one year is equal to

for the combined "Mail and Bargain" will count just the
subscriptions.
extra charge for sending papers or the United States, and sub-
those points count as ordinary

a prize a club must consist of as bers, and as many more as pos-
say, the sending in of one sub-
DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY
entitle the sender to a prize, but tion to both DAILY and WEEKLY iptions to either one or both, will

tion to THE MAIL for two years, advance, will count as two sub-subscription for three years as

*is sent in to the MAIL office a new
ntaining a larger list of prizes.*

are all handsomely bound in re by excellent authors, and
in any family.
e prepay all postage on the
he books.
ecimen number and illus-
ist to THE MAIL, Toronto,

THE DOMINION CAPITAL.

BY EDMUND COLLINS.

"Beautiful as Zion for situation, lying jewel-like within the bosom of a lovely valley where every phase of Nature's beauty, in rock and river, field and forest, mead and mountain, whirlpool and waterfall, she may be surveyed at one broad sweep of entranced vision; wearing the noblest pile of public buildings in the colony upon her fir-clad brow; fringed all about with mingled mansion, villa, lawn and grove, and holding the rival falls of thunderous Chaudiere and tawney Rideau in either hand." Thus does Mr. James Macdonald Oxley pourtray Ottawa. "An arctic lumber village turned into a political cockpit." Such is Mr. Goldwin Smith's description of the same city. As these two gentlemen do not exactly agree in their estimates, I have given both their versions; though I must not get myself into hot water by saying which I deem to be the most accurate. But Mr. Oxley cannot make this city more proud, any more than Mr. Smith can make it more humble; so that regardless of the disparagement or the praise it falls to my lot to give a very brief and unambitious sketch of the past and present of the Capital, according to my own understanding. A little while after the beginning of the present century one Philemon Wright, of Woburn, Massachusetts, left his native place and proceeded to Montreal. From this point, with a caravan of five families, including thirty men, fourteen horses, eight oxen and seven sleighs, loaded deep with mill irons, axes, scythes, hoes and all other kinds of tools, together with a number of

BARRELS OF CLEAR PORK

of his own raising, he proceeded to the Chaudiere Falls, where he erected for himself an habitation. He built the village of Wrightville, now Hull, one of the darkest looking cities in the world, in spite of all the latent illumination stored up in its factories. Hull is directly opposite Ottawa, and for a trifling sum the land upon which the city stands fell into the hands of one Nicholas Sparks, a person in the service of Mr. Wright. There was considerable nervousness for many years after the war of 1812-15, and this feeling led to the construction of the Rideau Canal, a water route which would serve our people or our troops, in time of war, to come and go upon, without interruption. The junction of this canal with the Ottawa river was made precisely at the point where Mr. Sparks had purchased the land. In a little while the nucleus of a settlement made its appearance, and then with the growth of the canal traffic, there uprose a thriving place called Bytown, so named after Colonel By, the engineer of the canal. As for Mr. Sparks, he soon found himself busy selling lots to the Imperial Government and to enterprising settlers, till he became the master of a cool half a million sterling. In 1851 Bytown boasted of no fewer than 8000 inhabitants; and the great bulk of these were concerned, either directly or indirectly, with the lumber traffic. To this part of Canada seemed to come from all quarters men of the sturdiest enterprise, as witness the names of the Steads, the Eddys, the Moors, the Gilmours, the Perlys, the Patteys, the Hamiltons, the Wrights, and the many others hardly less

ADVENTURESOME AND SUCCESSFUL

in achievements. The new city now began to grow dissatisfied with her name, and longed for one with more poetry and more music in its sound. So Bytown was changed to Ottawa, which appellation had taken the place of the Utwa of the Indian. It would seem as if some guiding hand were preparing this little northern town for the laurels soon to be placed upon her brow. In 1841 the old provinces of Upper and Lower Canada entered into union, and the seat of the new Government was established at Kingston. But three years later it was decided that parliament should go "boarding round the deestrics," so to speak; in other words, it was resolved that the seat of government should go four years to the French province, and for a like period to the English one, alternately. Montreal was given the honors for Quebec, and Toronto held them for Ontario. But in 1849 a Tory mob in Montreal did itself the credit of burning down the parliament buildings, stoning the Governor-General and poking sticks through a portrait of the Queen. The representatives never returned to the riotous city, but chose Quebec in its stead. In 1858 the legislature had grown sick of the continuous packing, moving, and unpacking; and decided to ask Her Majesty to become arbitrator in the matter, and name a city for the permanent residence of parliament. The Queen took a map of the wild colonies, and called one or two of her trusty councillors to her side. The Duke of Wellington put his pointer upon a little black dot marked "Bytown," and said, "That is a suitable place, Your Majesty. It stands on the border of both provinces, and it is a place of little importance in the English province." Her Majesty accepted the advice, and signified her choice to the Canadian government. Not a little excitement was manifested when it became known that the place chosen for the Capital was "a certain modest village-town, perched meekly on high bluffs and intervening alleys between the spray and roar of thundering waterfalls." This decision at once brought the "arctic lumber village" into prominence; and a gentleman with a very bitter and therefore somewhat unreliable tongue, in later years, when referring to its selection said, "It was to become the cemetery of political morality for this country." Of course the city has never considered that it received any honor in being chosen; but quite the contrary. Its very insignificance was its passport to distinction. As Mr. Oxley has happily said, it was the "dark horse" in the contest for the capitalship. Clever writers may sharpen their wits as they may to say disparaging things of our little capital; they can not alter the facts. In the best sense, God made Ottawa, and neither the hostile critic nor the occasional political villainy enacted here, can blot out the grandeur of its rushing rivers, and of its thunderous waterfalls.

The population of Ottawa is now about 28,000, and comprises some 15,000 French, more or less. The latter people seem to have preferred the low ground; and therefore Lower Town is pretty much in their hands, and may be regarded as presenting fair types of their civilization. They are fairly moral, an open-hearted, courteous, and enterprising; but they are

NOT VERY MUCH IN DREAD OF SMALL-POX.

This disease, I regret to say, is a sort of institution among some of our French-Canadian people, and it has come to acquire certain vested rights among them. Vaccination is an infringement, and it is treated now and again to a little correction at the hands of the mob. The are three things which a good many of our French brethren must have, and these are: their religion, their language and their small pox. They will defend either one of these to the death. Of course, I do not wish my readers to suppose that the educated French-Canadian or the bulk of the people has as many "institutions" as his unlettered confreres.

The English folk are found upon the more elevated ground, and their location is an extremely healthful one. There is considerable business activity and contractors are steadily putting up new buildings. I suppose that my readers will infer an Upper Town as well as a Lower Town here from my observations. The chief business of the city is confined to one street leading from the Chaudiere Falls to the Rideau River; and this thoroughfare has various names. The portion of it in which young people given to street flirting are most interested, is very appropriately named Sparks street. In the matter of female beauty, I had imagined before visiting Ottawa, that Toronto carried the palm away from all her Canadian sisters; but I must confess that I now regard the issue as doubtful betwixt her and our little Ottawa. We have the two types of beauty here, the Gallic and the Anglo Saxon, while Toronto enters the lists with only one. Our French girls have more colour than their English sisters; that is to say, they wear the carnation in their cheek, and the other wears the rose. I should judge the French girl's face to be the prettier, and her figure to be not so good. Her eyes are pretty sure to be dark, with the lustrous gleam of Normandy in them; the English girl's eye suggests a fire kindled at a star. I suppose I have made myself quite clear on these points. The stores here, with the exception of one, are not pretentious in appearance; but prices are a little lower than at Toronto. I don't know whether the licensed grocers or not; but they sell a large "square" bottle of John D. Kuyper for 60 cents; whilst the Toronto grocer sells the same for 75 cents. In most of the stores the clerks speak both French and English.

SMUGGLE THEIR SPIRITS

The public buildings of Ottawa I need hardly refer to. Crowning an airy hill, overlooking the Ottawa River, stands the Parliament and Departmental Buildings, magnificent structures, costing over five million dollars, and constructed of Ohio sandstone and Trenton limestone. The colors are warm yellow and Quaker's gray, but how Ruskin would rage at seeing those rockeries built in the wall above door and window-arch. About the grounds are flower plots; and during the late autumn a large narcissus bed sweetened the whole air about with odor. Government have recently taken over the Nepean Park from the city. It was very beautiful in the autumn; but next year, Sir Hector Langevin has arranged, it will surpass in gorgeousness. Trenton limerock forms the city's foundations, and the contractor needs but to sink his drill under the building lot to obtain an exquisitely tinted blue-gray stone. A number of private residences and the civic buildings are constructed of this stone. The City Hall is a handsome structure of somewhat too coldly blue about the top; and is a rebuke to the squat, tumble-down pile if ugly brick in which the City Father's of the Queen City congregate. Little type seems to be very fashionable in Ottawa; and the names of the streets are shown in upper case letters, a little larger than the type in a novel; but not much larger. If you want to find out the name of a Street painted upon a corner-board, a good way is to take a ladder or an opera glass. Of course I am only talking from hearsay; as I have never seen any of the letters.

In summer, of course, it is quiet in a social way in Ottawa, but in winter there is a continuous round of parties, snow-shoe tramps; and tobogganing at the Rideau slides and Tache's Hill. The chief social event is the State Ball at Rideau, to which seven or eight hundred persons are invited. Tobogganing at the Hall at night under the flare of torches, bonfire and Chinese lanterns presents a very picturesque and beautiful spectacle. Their present excellencies have become very popular, and the good sense, industry and zeal which his Lordship has shown since coming amongst us will very probably pave part of the way to India. There is not unrestrained social intercourse between the French and English circles here; but the dividing line is every year becoming less rigid. Fur coats largely prevail during the reign of parliament; and the ladies have begun, for the season, to carry their steel-pointed canes. For my part I am unable to see why a lady should not carry a cane as well as a gentleman, (I hope my words will not be misconstrued here!) if it be granted that there is any utility in the appendage. But let me enter my solemn protest against the hideous dolman or Mother Hubbard in which so many of the Ottawa maidens

HIDE THEIR PRETTY FIGURES.

One girl in four hundred can wear a dolman and look graceful, but that is all. Dolly Varden is about the only girl that I ever knew who could do so; and it is very questionable if the robs would not have taken much of the poetry out of her. I believe this garment is "affected" in Ottawa because a certain not very exquisite taste in the matter of dress adopts a similar robe. Anything that tends to hide the natural curves and graces of the human figure is barbarous; and the pinched-up back of a dolman upon a lady has always reminded me of a cancer.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. COX & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a LIST of the heirs to this enormous wealth. Reader, send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entitled to any money or property, claim your own. COX & Co. will show you the way

"Listen to your wife," says a medical advertisement. What terrible remedies they do get nowadays.

Imperial Cough Drops will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto, Ontario.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Hints.

Moths do not eat through paper.

Hot wood ashes applied to a stove when it is cold will remove grease.

Tea should never be made in a tin pot. The tannin works on the tin and makes a poison.

Glass kept wet with camphor dissolved in spirits of turpentine may be cut with metallic tools.

Cooking utensils, after being washed, should be rinsed in clean water and wiped out with a clean, dry cloth.

Water that has stood in a lead pipe over night is unfit for cooking or drinking purposes. Let it run for two or three minutes before being used.

In cleaning paint obstinate spots that will not wash off with soap and water will often yield to a gentle rubbing with a damp cloth dipped in soda.

Vinegar and yeast are kept best in glass vessels. If placed in stone crocks or jugs their acid attacks the glazing, which is considered poisonous.

India rubber bands slipped over the body of bottles that are to be packed in cars for transportation will prevent breakage and save considerable in packing material.

Choice Recipes.

CREAM DOUGHNUTS.—One egg, a cup and a half of sugar, one cup of thick sour cream, half a cup of sweet milk, a pinch of salt, two-thirds teaspoonful of soda; mix with Haxall flour, flavor with lemon, and fry in very hot lard.

CAULIFLOWER.—Trim off the outside leaves and put into salted boiling water. When tender take out carefully and lay on a dish. Pour over it sauce made thus: Stir into two tablespoonfuls melted butter in a saucepan a heaping tablespoonful of flour, stir till the flour is well cooked, then add milk or cream till the gravy is thin as batter, season with pepper and salt, and pour over the cauliflower.

QUINCE PRESERVE.—Select the best quinces for preserving, the others reserve for marmalade. Pare, core, and quarter the quinces, or after coring cut in rings. Allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit. Boil the quinces in just water enough to cover them till they are tender. Drain them from this water and put them into boiling syrup made by putting one pint of water to two pounds of sugar. Boil five minutes and put into jars.

CHICKEN SALAD.—Take some tender pullets, fry them in the saucepan or roast them. When cold cut them up, skimming and trimming them neatly. Put the pieces in a tureen with some salt, pepper, oil, vinegar, some sprigs of parsley, and an onion cut into slices. Mix all well together, cover, and let stand for some hours. Then, just before serving, drain the salad, taking care to remove all bits of onion, etc., and place it tastefully on lettuce leaves, with the hearts of the lettuce on top, and cover with a Mayonnaise dressing.

PEAR JELLY.—The pears must be a juicy sort. Cut them into quarters without paring or coring. Put eight pounds in a pot with one quart of water and boil on a slow fire to a pulp, then throw them into a jelly bag, made of coarse glass cloth, and let them remain all night to drain. Next morning squeeze any remaining juice out of the bag, and to each pound of juice add half a pound of lump sugar and a very little lemon juice to flavor. Boil it on a quick fire till it comes to a jelly. Great care must be taken not to let this burn. It takes about two hours to boil to a jelly, but is more easily done in small quantities. Coarse, juicy pears are the best.

Some New Pickles

TOMATO PICKLE.—Take a gallon of green tomatoes and six large onions; cut them in thin slices and stand them in salt and water all night. In the morning pour off the brine and put them into a preserving pan, with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, four of mustard two teaspoonfuls of ground cloves, two of cinnamon, one of cayenne pepper and one of the best curry powder. Simmer for one hour and when cool, pour into pickle jars.

CHOW-CHOW.—Take two heads of cabbage, two heads of cauliflower, one quart of dwarf onions, two quarts of small tomatoes, one dozen cucumbers and six roots of celery; cut into small pieces and boil each kind of vegetable separately until tender, then strain and take two gallons of vinegar, quarter of a pound of mustard, quarter of a pound of mustard seed, one pot of French mustard, one ounce of cloves and two ounces of tumeric; put the vinegar and spices into a pan and let them come to the boil, then mix the vegetables and pour the liquor over.

TO PICKLE SMALL YELLOW TOMATOES—Let them lie in salt and water for three or four days, changing the brine if a scum rises; then rinse them with clear water and let them lie for a night in weak vinegar, or say half vinegar and half water. The next day prepare thus: To one peck of tomatoes allow half an ounce of whole cloves, a quarter of a pound of ground mustard, half an ounce of whole black pepper and six good-sized onions, cut in slices. Put the tomatoes in a jar, putting a layer of onions and spice between the layers of tomatoes till the jars are full. Cover the whole with cold vinegar of good strength. In a week or ten days the pickles will be ready for the table.

APPLE PICKLE.—Core six good-sized cooking apples and six russet apples; slice them, but do not pare them. The cooking apples will form the soft part of the chutnee, and the slices of russet apples should look like sliced mangoes. Put them into a pint of red vinegar, add a pound of moist sugar and four ounces of sultana raisins; boil together until the apples are soft. Have two ounces of onions ready, chopped finely, four ounces of salt, two ounces each of mustard and ground ginger, mixed smoothly with a little vinegar; stir these ingredients into the apple, sugar and vinegar while hot; add half an ounce of cayenne pepper, or for some tastes a quarter of an ounce is sufficient; stir the chutnee well, and then bottle when cold.

Portland, Oregon, boat-builders are just now taking an interest in a model yacht race. The yachts must not exceed four feet in length, and the sail, rig and model will be a matter of fancy to the owner.

By a simple system of registered numbers Messrs. Tuckett & Son can tell which of their workmen manipulated any particular plug of their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco, if the caddy which contained it is known. Should any imperfection be found in any plug, therefore they can single out the workman—from among their 300 hands—who is responsible for it. The system works so thoroughly that the complaints do not average one for every 200,000 plugs turned out.

All medium shades of dark and pale green are fashionable—reseda, sage, cress, Chartreuse, olive, Russian or bottle or invisible green, bronze, and even pea green.

A.P. 253

DRAIN TILE—FIRST-CLASS. Apply to WM. COCKBURN, Freeman P. O., Ont.

BENGOUGH'S SHORTHAND INSTITUTE—Public Library Building, Church street; thorough tuition; reasonable rates; particulars free. THOS. BENGOUGH, President; C. H. BROOKS, Sec.-Treas.

MACHINERY FOR SALE—ENGINES AND Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills, Planing Factory Outfits, Stave and Heading Machines, water wheels, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descriptive catalogue and mention what you want. (Mention this paper). H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

A BIG OFFER To introduce them, we will GIVE AWAY 1 000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O and express office at once THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N. Y.

A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE Williams' Eye Water has proved itself a success by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the undersigned certificates. It cured me, 8 years blind, oculist failed O. Fortin; it has cured me, oculist would not try me, Alexander Wand; 6 years blind, Chas. Amiott; 4 years, Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, John Legrolx. Ask your druggists for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St. Montreal.

CUT THIS OUT

The New Co-Operative

Sewing Machine!

—IS THE—

BEST IN THE MARKET.

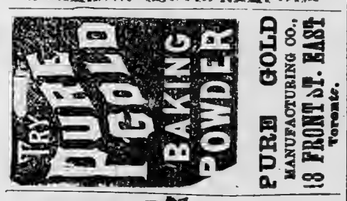
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE

Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine $60

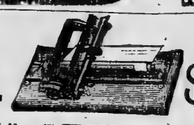
Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and samples of sewing.



Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.

Any lad wantin a machine will do well to write to



THE CO-OPERATIVE

Sewing Machine Co

97 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON

PURE GOLD MANUFACTURING CO., 18 FRONT ST. EAST, Toronto.

ONLY $15.  ONLY $15.

"SUN" TYPE-WRITER!

This is not a rubber stamp, but a genuine metal type manifolding machine. Just the thing for clergymen, teachers, business men and others having limited correspondence. As a guarantee that the machine is as represented, I agree to receive it any time within 6 months at price paid in exchange for the Celebrated Remington Perfected Type-Writer.

GEORGE BENGOUGH Sole Agent,
34 King Street East, Toronto.

JAMES PARK & SON,

Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of Regish Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING

—USE ONLY—

Clapperton's Spool Cotton!

Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

Christmas Cards

BY MAIL

At less than wholesale prices. All well assorted. No two alike. Postage prepaid. BIRTHDAY CARDS may be included. NOT FRINGED. FRINGED.

25	CARDS, good value, for		$ 25	$1 50
25	"	larger, "	50	2 25
25	"	very fine, "	1 00	3 25

Orders may be proportionately mixed. Cash to accompany order. Address,

Matthews Bros. & Co., Toronto

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships,

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co, St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B. Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Proprietor Boston Montreal.

CAUTION

EACH PLUG OF THE

MYRTLE NAVY

IS MARKED

T. & B.

IN BRONZE LETTERS

None Other Genuine.

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a weakly woman or girl 14 years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bedclothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada

Coleman's Improved Plough Harness

Adapted to Orchard Work.

No whiffletrees to injure trees. Easy on man and team. Working qualities guaranteed. Money refunded if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Price, $16 without collars and bridles

DEWEY & CO.,
COLBORNE, ONT.

$10 Reward for the Conviction

Of Dealers who offer and Sell In- McCOLL'S Inferior Oil of Other Manufacture for

THE ABOVE REWARD

LARDINE

WILL BE PAID

MACHINE OIL.

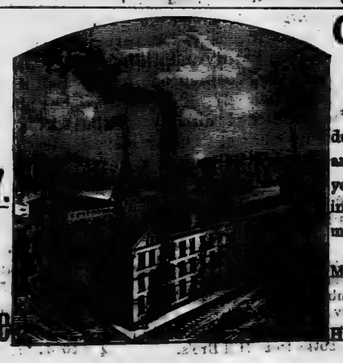
Eureka, Cylinder Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co Toronto.

GOLD MEDAL

JUST AWARDED AT THE TORONTO EXHIBITION FOR

PEERLESS

AND OTHER MACHINE OILS.



Six Gold Medals have been Awarded this Oil during the last Three Years. Be Sure to get PEERLESS, no other genuine.

WE WILL PAY FREIGHT BOTH WAYS IF NOT ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY

Queen City Oil Wroks | Samuel Rogers & Co.

MERIDEN BRITANNIA COMPANY.

FINEST Electro Plate

CAUTION

Goods stamped Meriden Silver Plate Co., are not our make. If you want reliable goods insist on getting those made by the

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.,
HAMILTON, ONT.

The Standard.

MARKDALE NOVEMBER 12, 1885

APPALLING DISASTER.

The C. P. R. Steamer Algoma Driven Ashore.

ABOUT THIRTY LIVES LOST AND THE BOAT A TOTAL WRECK.

The Canadian Pacific railway Co's. steamer, Algoma, which left Owen Sound on Thursday the 5th inst., went ashore in a blinding snowstorm and gale of wind on Isle Royal, Lake Superior, at 4 a. m. on Saturday. About 8 of the passengers and 25 of the crew are supposed to be lost. Among the names of the lost thus far are Captain John Moore, First Mate Jeseph Hastings, Second Mate Richard Simpson; And the passengers saved are W. J. Hull and W. B. McArthur; also Wheelsman Henry Lewis, Watchman John McNabb, Fireman H. McCallagar, deck hands R. Stephens, James Bolton, Dave Langton; waiters John McLean, George McColl, and John McKenzie. Full particulars are not yet received. Mr. Beatty, the manager of the lake traffic, has sent out tugs from Port Arthur with instructions to search the island for any that may have got ashore, and pick up and take care of any bodies that may be found. The tugs are now at the wreck.

THE ATHABASCA DISCOVERS THE WRECK.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 9.—The first known of the disaster was when the steamer Athabasca of the same line arrived at Port Arthur late this evening with the rescued, consisting of thirteen sailors and two passengers. The Athabasca, which left Owen Sound two days after the Algoma, came upon the wreck at Isle Royal, and found those saved in a perishing condition. The wreck had been dashed by the waves against the rocks, and had finally beaten against the shore of the island. The boat containing the rescued was washed over several times, but righted again while the men clung to her sides. They succeeded in reaching land almost dead from exposure and exhaustion. The storm continued to rage furiously all night long. They remained on the beach watching the wreck beating the rock bound island and seeing the dead bodies dashed in the surf against the shores. The Athabasca, set sail for Port Arthur, where she arrived about 7 this evening.

The Algoma was a splendid Clyde steamer lighted by electricity, Gross tonnage 1,780, length 270 feet, breadth 38 feet. The furnishings were luxurious, equal to the finest ocean steamers. The vessel cost $450,000 and is understood to have been insured for $300,000. It was one of the three steamers, Alberta, Athabasca, and Algoma, purchased two years ago by the Canadian Pacific railway for the lake traffic, since which time it has been plying steadily between Owen Sound and Port Arthur.

LATER.

The following are supposed to be lost:—

Henry Gill, Markdale.
Edwin Frost, wife and one child of Owen Sound.
Mrs. Dudgeon of Owen Sound with two children.
Thomas Snelling, waiter.
John Scutt, L. Bates and Ballantyne, deck hands.
Mrs. Shannon, ladies maid.
Two brothers named Buchanan.
Charles Taylor, steward.
McIntyre.
Capt. Moore, badly hurt.

Eleven Frog Lake Murderers to be Hanged November 27.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 6.—Judge Rouleau, of Battleford, arrived here last night. The Judge tried fifty-six Indian prisoners. Sixteen of these were discharged, twenty-nine were sent to the Penitentiary for periods ranging between twenty and two years, and eleven were sentenced to be hanged November 27. These were said to be concerned directly in the Frog Lake massacres. Of the eleven the Judge says that eight will be certainly hanged, but he thinks the sentence of two will be commuted and possibly that of a third.

Finid Lightning does not take a day or an hour to remove Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Lumbago or Rheumatism, but will do it instantly, and without carrying your head in a poultice for a day or using greasy liniment. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 4

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

On Wednesday last serious accidents befell some of the men at work upon the Methodist church here. During the early part of the day Mr. R. Whitten received some bruises by falling brick from a scaffold under which he was working. About 5 o'clock in the afternoon a more serious accident happened to John & Edward Whitten by the scaffold, upon which they were at work, giving way, precipitating the men to the ground, a distance of over 20 feet, both men receiving severe injuries. Edward Whitten is rapidly recovering. John, whose injuries were more serious, under the care of Drs. Sproule & Christoe, is doing as well as can be expected.

AN AGED SUFFERER.—Old Mrs. Thompson, now over 90 years of age, living with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. Thompson, baker, during Thursday night last rose from her bed and wandering from her room, fell down a stairway, and in the fall broke her right arm and received other severe bruises. Dr. Christoe was at once summonsed and set the broken limb; but, being so advanced in years, little hopes are entertained of her recovery.

A large number of cattle changed hands on Monday last (fair day), but at very low figures.

Maxwell.

From our own Correspondent.

Weather unfavorable, as we may expect at this season of the year. Roads very bad, almost impossible to get around.

Business very good considering the very low prices for grain.

The Gospel Army of Dundalk is expected to be here this week to hold a series of revival meetings. We are looking for a rich harvest, and trust we shall not be disappointed.

Halloween passed off rather quiet, no damage being done by the boys as usual, but gates, ploughs, and even the great big boot walked off a short distance, but was found without much trouble.

Joe went out shooting on Friday last, and while loading his gun, the ramrod stuck in the barrel and he was not strong enough to pull it out, so he fired, the gun giving him a bad kick, making him feel somewhat sore about the shoulder. He says the ramrod light between Badgeros and Horning's Mills.

D. A. Holman has moved to the opposite side of the road, the place formerly occupied by J. Miller, and has fitted his place up quite toney. Perhaps he will take unto himself a partner now. He needs one.

W. H. Ccloquett, our lively implement man, intends leaving here and taking up his abode in Flesherton.

Mr. Sandford Tuck has been ill for some time but is getting around again.

Mr. Alex. Clark is building a frame house on Centre St. Guess he means business.

Mr. Thos. Gamey of Manitoba, son of our respected Reeve, is home on a visit, and is looking well.

PHIZ.

EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD.

It is demonstrated by history that the Ancients in many of the arts, notably architecture, far excelled the present age, but it is reserved for the present decade to produce the eighth wonder of the world, i. e., West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, which is infallible for Rheumatism Sprains, Cuts, Bruises, Sores and all diseases requiring external application. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Nov.

Euphrasia Council.

The council met pursuant to adjournment at McConnel's Hotel, Rocklyn, on 31st Oct., 1885. Members all present. Minutes of last session of council read and confirmed.

$3, charged in error for statute labor against Neil Boyle, was struck off the collector's roll.

The treasurer was authorized to call in last year's collector's roll forthwith.

By-law No. 353, establishing deviation road between lots 6 and 7, in the 3rd and 4th concessions, was carried through the different stages and passed.

The treasurer was ordered to remit to M. Robinson, Meaford, $5, fee for examining the town hall after the fire, and $1.50, fee as constable in Enoch Bull's appeal case.

The treasurer was ordered to remit to J. G. Sing, P. L. S., $4, fee for compiling description of survey for by-law.

The treasurer was ordered to pay as follows, viz: For selection of jurors, T Gilray, reeve, $4; J. Clugston, assessor, $4; R. Dunlop, clerk, $6, and for special services, $10.

The reeve's orders were issued on the treasurer to pay as follows, viz: John McArthur $22.75, work on 12 and 13 side line, con. 8; Henry Ellis $25, work on 4th line at lot 6; Jas. Stinson $46, work on Sauveen hill; Thos. Hutchinson $18.50, work on 3 and 4 side line, con. 6; Roger Bowser $45.56, work on 21 and 22 side road; John Cook $23.40, work on 7th line at lot 30; Geo. Crabtree $5, plan and specifications for town hall; John & Joseph Thompson $1, plank and blasting rock; John Murray $1, work on town line Holland, Holland council giving an equal amount; Henry Hard $5, repairing crossway on 4th line; Geo. Yeaddell $8.90, work on 9th line; Geo. Emery $2.50, repairing road scraper; John Sewell $5, building culvert; J. Paterson, Mirror office, $2.70, printing; James Boyd, Esq., $15, for relief of Hamilton Malcolm; Joseph Boyd $5, work on 24 and 25 side line; Dr. McBride $16 part payment for medicine for the late Mrs. Jas. Neil; Joseph Shepherdson $1.50, repairing bridge; J. Farewell $37.42, publishing road by-laws, notices thereof for posting up, notices of tenders wanted, and notice of court of revision before the County Judge.

Council adjourned until the last Saturday in November next, then to meet at Dodson's Hotel.

ROBERT DUNLOP,
Tp. Clerk.

A PROFITABLE LIFE.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chas. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Byspepsia. Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to call in at A. Turner & Co. and buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Nov.

New and Renewed Subs.

We purpose publishing every alternate week the names of new subscribers as also those who have renewed their subscription to the STANDARD during the fortnight, with the date to which their subscription is paid. Those not marked new are all renewals. Many thanks to all those whose names appear below. Who will add to the list next two weeks?

Rev. W. Casson, Markdale, July 9, 1886.
Charlie Lawrence, Markdale, (new) Jan. 31, '86.
Mrs. Popham, Markdale, (new) Jan. 1, '87.
Wm. Summers, Vandeleur, (new) Jan. 1, '87.
J. Lund, Berkeley, Sept. 17, '86.
Rev. P. Flint, Singhampton, Jan. 1, '86.
Jas. Stewart, Eugenia, Jan. 1, '86.
J. A. Jamison, Eugenia, Jan. 1, '86.
Jas. Mower, Walter's Falls, Jan, 1, 1886.
Thos. Townsend, Glascott, March 5, '85.
Thos. Symes, Markdale, May 20, 85

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Saturday, Nov. 14th, on lot 24, con. 9, Euphrasia, Mr. Wm. Curry will sell his stock, implements, &c., &c., without reserve, having leased his farm. Sale at 1 o'clock. Terms, on sums over $5, 12 months credit on approved joint notes. W. J. Shepherdson, auctioneer.

Friday, the 13th Nov., on lot 79, con. 2, Holland, at 1 o'clock, farm stock, implements, &c., &c. Terms, 12 months on approved paper or 10 per cent. off for cash. James McNeely, proprietor; Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 2

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 70	to	0 85
Barley	35	to	58
Peas	50	to	55
Oats	25	to	28
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	25	to	40
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	9 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 50
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

TO THE PUBLIC.

—:o:—

We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

—:o:—

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes, &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

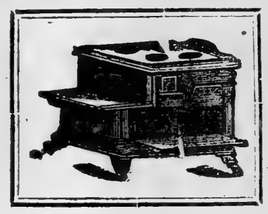
Markdale, October 20, 1885.

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.



VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED.

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary:
MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE.

Stoves! Stoves!

Cook Stoves,
$16.50 Trimmed Parlor Stoves,
Coal Stoves,
Box Stoves,
All equally low.

Hardware,
Lance tooth Saws,
Buck Saws,
Hand Saws,
Axes, Nails,
Glass, Putty,
At bottom prices.

☞ Intending purchasers will do well to give us a call, we cannot be undersold.

WALKER BRO'S,

MARKDALE.

3m

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their genuineness, but if further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., Chemists and Druggists

MARKDALE, ONT.

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle.

WHY EMPLOY DOCTORS.

Consult a doctor, for a 6 or 8 oz. bottle of medicine $1—consult A. Turner & Co. and he will give you a 12 oz. bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure for $1, and a valuable Recipe Book free. Nov.

Store to Rent in Malvern.

THE Store in Reynold's Block in Malvern. Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent.
Strathnairn, P. O., Ont.

143-tf.

Should Orchards Be Cultivated.

This is evidently one of those questions that admit of a variable answer. In other words, a practice which may be the best for one orchard, may not be so for another, because the conditions are far from being uniform. To keep the ground in an orchard constantly under cultivation, and producing crops which are removed annually, will soon exhaust the fertility of the richest soil, unless some kind of fertilizer is returned to make good the amount taken away. The frequent stirring of the soil, breaking up, disintegrating, and pulverizing, are beneficial operations, for, by keeping the surface open and loose, we aid the admission of air and moisture, both of which contain certain elements which are absorbed by the roots and go far towards making up the bulk of all cultivated plants. But as a rule, orchardists do not think that they can afford to plow, harrow, and keep down noxious weeds in the orchard for no other purpose than to benefit the trees and improve the quantity and quality of the fruit; consequently, when they plow, it must be for the purpose of sowing or planting, and the orchard is kept constantly occupied with some annual farm crop, or seeded down to clover or grass. To show grain of any kind in an orchard, except on very moist soils, or in a humid climate, seldom fails to check the growth of the trees, because the growing grain will take the moisture from the soil at the very time the trees need it most.—A. S. FULLER in American Agriculturist for Nov.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

A faint, weary, sick and listless feeling, with aching back and shoulders, and irregular bowels, proclaim a diseased liver. Try Burdock Blood Bitters, which cures all forms of liver complaint.

Best Mode of Storing Ice.

If one will need ice next summer, he must prepare for it now. The first thing to be done is to gather a few wagon loads of sawdust—about seven hundred bushels will be required for a house twelve feet square, and ten feet high, to give an ample supply. If sawdust can not be procured, dry waste tan bark is equally good; dry swamp muck, forest leaves, cut straw chaff, or chaff from the threshing machine, are all very good substitutes; but an open air space is only about forty per cent as effective as any one of these substances. A house twelve feet square will hold a mass of ice ten feet square, which will give about five thousand pounds of each foot in hight, yielding a supply of one hundred pounds daily, for about two months. One hundred pounds of ice will cool one hundred pounds of water from one hundred and seventy-four degrees, down to thirty-two degrees, absorbing one hundred and forty-two degrees of heat from the water, in the slow process of liquefaction alone. These figures will enable any person to calculate how much ice may be required for any specified effect. Thus one hundred pounds of ice, absorbs fourteen thousand and two hundred units of heat, and we want to cool seven hundred and ten pounds of milk from sixty-five to forty-five degrees, we shall find that the ice will just do it, because seven hundred and ten pounds cooled twenty degrees, equals fourteen thousand and two hundred units. In the use of ice, it is therefore seen to be a great economy, to cool the milk down to just as low a point as possible, by means of cold well or spring water, before it is set in the ice water pool. For a three hundred quart dairy, or for twenty-five cows, then, one hundred pounds of ice will be required daily, and for the season of eight months, when ice may be necessary, the ten feet square of ice should be raised eight feet, which will allow for waste, which is usually about forty or fifty per cent on the average.—American Agriculturist for November.

AN ENTERPRISING DRUGGIST.—It is with much pleasure we announce to our readers that A. Turner & Co., our wide-awake druggist, has secured the agency of the celebrated West's Cough Syrup. This is a compound that has stood the test for a quarter of a century, and is an unfailing and certain cure for all throat and lung troubles. It will relieve a cough like magic, and the proprietors have thousands of the most flattering testimonials from sufferers that have been cured of that dread disease, consumption, in its early stages, bronchitis, asthma, &c. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle.

Should Orchards Be Cultivated.

This is evidently one of those questions that admit of a variable answer. In other words, a practice which may be the best for one orchard, may not be so for another, because the conditions are far from being uniform. To keep the ground in an orchard constantly under cultivation, and producing crops which are removed annually, will soon exhaust the fertility of the richest soil, unless some kind of fertilizer is returned to make good the amount taken away. The frequent stirring of the soil, breaking up, disintegrating, and pulverizing, are beneficial operations, for, by keeping the surface open and loose, we aid the admission of air and moisture, both of which contain certain elements which are absorbed by the roots and go far towards making up the bulk of all cultivated plants. But as a rule, orchardists do not think that they can afford to plow, harrow, and keep down noxious weeds in the orchard for no other purpose than to benefit the trees and improve the quantity and quality of the fruit; consequently, when they plow, it must be for the purpose of sowing or planting, and the orchard is kept constantly occupied with some annual farm crop, or seeded down to clover or grass. To show grain of any kind in an orchard, except on very moist soils, or in a humid climate, seldom fails to check the growth of the trees, because the growing grain will take the moisture from the soil at the very time the trees need it most.—A. S. FULLER in American Agriculturist for Nov.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

A faint, weary, sick and listless feeling, with aching back and shoulders, and irregular bowels, proclaim a diseased liver. Try Burdock Blood Bitters, which cures all forms of liver complaint.

Best Mode of Storing Ice.

If one will need ice next summer, he must prepare for it now. The first thing to be done is to gather a few wagon loads of sawdust—about seven hundred bushels will be required for a house twelve feet square, and ten feet high, to give an ample supply. If sawdust can not be procured, dry waste tan bark is equally good; dry swamp muck, forest leaves, cut straw chaff, or chaff from the threshing machine, are all very good substitutes; but an open air space is only about forty per cent as effective as any one of these substances. A house twelve feet square will hold a mass of ice ten feet square, which will give about five thousand pounds of each foot in hight, yielding a supply of one hundred pounds daily, for about two months. One hundred pounds of ice will cool one hundred pounds of water from one hundred and seventy-four degrees, down to thirty-two degrees, absorbing one hundred and forty-two degrees of heat from the water, in the slow process of liquefaction alone. These figures will enable any person to calculate how much ice may be required for any specified effect. Thus one hundred pounds of ice, absorbs fourteen thousand and two hundred units of heat, and we want to cool seven hundred and ten pounds of milk from sixty-five to forty-five degrees, we shall find that the ice will just do it, because seven hundred and ten pounds cooled twenty degrees, equals fourteen thousand and two hundred units. In the use of ice, it is therefore seen to be a great economy, to cool the milk down to just as low a point as possible, by means of cold well or spring water, before it is set in the ice water pool. For a three hundred quart dairy, or for twenty-five cows, then, one hundred pounds of ice will be required daily, and for the season of eight months, when ice may be necessary, the ten feet square of ice should be raised eight feet, which will allow for waste, which is usually about forty or fifty per cent on the average.—American Agriculturist for November.

AN ENTERPRISING DRUGGIST.—It is with much pleasure we announce to our readers that A. Turner & Co., our wide-awake druggist, has secured the agency of the celebrated West's Cough Syrup. This is a compound that has stood the test for a quarter of a century, and is an unfailing and certain cure for all throat and lung troubles. It will relieve a cough like magic, and the proprietors have thousands of the most flattering testimonials from sufferers that have been cured of that dread disease, consumption, in its early stages, bronchitis, asthma, &c. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle.

Notes by the Way.

Uriah Ketchum and Ichabod were law-partners; their sign read U. Ketchum and I. Cheatum.

"Peter, don't you enjoy the astronomical phenomena these evenings?" "'Clare to goodness, I never tried them; mus'-melons is my favorite fruit."

An Irish country doctor, conversing with a friend about the high rate of mortality then prevailing, remarked: "Shure there are people dying who never died before!"

Minster: "My dear brethren, in this warm, oppressive weather, I can excuse a little drowsiness during my sermon, but I do wish you would try to keep awake while the collection is being taken up."

The Boston Courier reporter asked the superintendent of schools the other day: How does it happen that there are so many old maids among the school-teachers?" And he replied, "Because school-teachers are as a rule women of sense, and no sensible woman will give up a sixty-dollar position for a forty-dollar man.

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. European plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

THE FOUR CARDINAL POINTS of regulating the system are the stomach, the liver, the bowels and the blood. With a healthy action of these organs sickness cannot occur. Burdock Blood Bitters acts promptly upon these organs, restoring them to a healthy action.

Cheerful Women.

In marrying, men should seek happy women. They make a terrible mistake when they marry for beauty, or for talent, or for style. The sweetest wives are those who possess the magic secret of being happy under any and all circumstances. Rich or poor, high or low, it makes no difference, the bright little fountain bubbles up just as musically as their hearts. Nothing ever goes wrong with them—no trouble is too serious for them "to make the best of it." Was ever the stream of calamity so dark and deep that the sunlight of a happy face falling across its turbid tides would not awake an answering gleam? Why, the joyous tempered people don't know half the good they do. No matter how cross and crabbed you feel, no matter if your brain is full of meditation on "afflicting dispensations," and your stomach with medicines, pills and tonics; just get one of these cheery women talking to you, and we are not afraid to wager anything she can cure you. The long drawn lines about the mouth will relax—the cloud of settled gloom will vanish, nobody knows where, and the first thing you know you will be laughing! Ah, what a blessing are these happy women! How often their hands guide the ponderous machine of life, with almost an invisible touch! How we look forward through the weary day to their fireside smiles! No one knows, no one will ever know until the day of judgment reveals, how much we owe to these helpful, hopeful, uncomplaining happy women.

Mrs. Robert Hooper, of Kinloss, county of Bruce, in a letter, says: "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints for a number of years, and am glad to say to the public as well as friends that McGregor's Speedy Cure brought me around, and I am now all right, thanks to McGregor's Speedy Cure. Hundreds of like testimonials are frequently received, and are daily proving that this is truly a wonderful remedy, curing Sluggish Liver, Bilious Headache and Costiveness, where all else fails. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. 4

THAT HACKING COUGH can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 2

It Will Take Place in the Near Future.

A certain young couple of our town were looking cautiously over the pages of a hymn book the other evening, when the young man paused for a moment, and pointed at a hymn entitled "When shall we embrace?" Presently the young lady, in answer to this question, turned to the old familiar hymn, "In the sweet bye and bye." We suppose there will be a match soon.

URIC ACID.—When the Liver and Kidneys fail in their action, this acid in excess is thrown into the blood, causing Rheumatism and other painful conditions of blood poisoning. You may cure this condition by a prompt resort to the purifying, regulating remedy Burdock Blood Bitters.

THE PAINS OF LUMBAGO, aching back and hips, with all weakness and soreness, will speedily vanish under the treatment of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, a remedy which may be taken internally and applied externally. It is a positive cure for pain.

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.

270-77 J. HANSON.

TEACHER WANTED.

MALE or Female, holding 3rd class certificate; duties to commence 1st January, 1886, for S. S. No. 7, Holland. State salary.

THOS. J. SPEARS, Sec.-Treas.
Williamsford Station P. O.

CITY HOTEL, MARKDALE.

The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage, Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostler.

D. McLANE,
Proprietor,

Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

NOTICE.

THE High School Entrance Examination will be held at Durham, in the Public School building on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd & 23rd of December, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. each day. Candidates are requested to send their names to the undersigned on or before the 1st December.

JAMES WINTERBORNE,
Head Master, Durham Public School.

BARRHEAD -:- MILLS

Now In Full Blast.

Having raised my mill-dam five feet and thoroughly overhauled my grist mill, I am now in a position to turn out all work in a satisfactory manner.

Bring along your logs and we will give you your lumber home with you; also Shingles cut on short notice. Gristing and Chopping done better than heretofore.

270 W. J. ROWE.

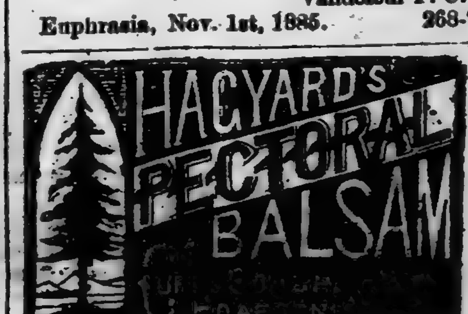
Health is Wealth!



DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression. Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 181 & 183 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 270-1y

Shropshire Ram For Service.

THE undersigned having purchased from Mr. Thos. Ellis, Queen's Valley, one of his thorough bred Shropshire Rams aged, will have him for service on lot No. 4, con. 7, Euphrasia. Terms, 75 cents cash. This ram is an excellent stock getter. Also for sale one first-class Ram Lamb from above sheep, and a thorough bred Leicester Ewe. Will sell reasonable.

JOHN BUSKIN, Proprietor,
Vandeleur P. O.
Euphrasia, Nov. 1st, 1885. 268-70

Important Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of the famous

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

"Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.

44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR,

Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address, PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, 751 Broadway, New York.

We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—ED. STANDARD.

Peck's Sun

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

GEORGE W. PECK
Editor and Proprietor.

The Funniest Paper in America

What Vaccination is to Small-pox PECK'S SUN is to the blues.

PECK'S SUN is one of the most widely read and popular papers in the country to-day, and stands without a peer in its specialty.

The Originator of the celebrated BAD BOY PAPERS.

Specimen Copies Free To Any Address.

Bear in mind that by sending a Postal Card to this office a Sample copy of Peck's Sun will be mailed you Free.

Don't neglect to send at once, and tell your neighbors to.

$1 Worth of Fun for

Address GEORGE L. LORD,
Business Manager, Milwaukee, Wis.

WILLIAM STUART,

KIMBERLEY,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses ... Loan on Real Estate at low rates.

Nov. ...

SavE MoneY

By buying your
Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Spectacles, Pipes, &c.

—AT—

JAS. G. RUSSELL'S FLESHERTON.

A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.

217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the next Entrance Examination to High Schools for the County of Grey, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd and 23rd days of December, 1885, at the Town of Owen Sound, the Village of Markdale, and the Village of Thornbury respectively. It is requested that the probable number of Candidates from each locality shall be notified to me one month antecedent to the first of the above dates.

THOMAS GORDON,
Inspector W. Grey.

Markdale, 27th October, 1885. 16-...

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of Mr. ... lot 19, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the last of June, two ewes, ... and a ewe lamb. Any person giving information as to their whereabouts will be liberally rewarded.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding ... certificate, duties to commence 1st January, for S. S. No. 15, Euphrasia. State salary. Applications received up to noon ... November.

JAMES ELLIOTT, Sec.-Treas., Markdale.

268-70

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

YOUNG FOLKS.

UNDER THE SHADOW OF THE SWORD.

A MISSIONARY'S ADVENTURE IN BURMAH.

"Kill the white men ! kill the traitors !"
"To the market with them ! to the market !"
Death to all farangs !" (foreigners).
"Fling them into the river, and let them float down to their countrymen !"

Never had there been such an uproar in the old Burmese city of Rangoon since its many colored temples first looked down upon the broad brown stream of the Irrawaddy. Any stranger who had come suddenly into the midst of that rushing crowd of lean, dark-skinned, fierce-eyed men in their quaint Eastern dress, whose bare brown arms were brandishing knives, hatchets, stones, or heavy clubs, as if hunting down a mad dog, would have wondered very much what could be the matter. He would probably have wondered still more when he found that all this fury seemed to be directed against two quiet-looking men in European clothes, quite unarmed, and to all appearance as harmless as men could be.

But there was a good reason for all this excitement. England was at war with Burmah, and some native fishermen had come in that morning with the news that they had seen a squadron of British ships coming up the river to open fire upon the city.

When this news got abroad, the whole town seemed to go mad at once. Hitherto the Burmese had always believed that there were only a few thousand Englishmen altogether, that those few were all needed to keep down the people of India, and that, although England might declare war against them and threaten to attack them, she would never be able to do it. The King of Burmah himself—who never lost a chance of boasting what a great man he was—had put forth a proclamation declaring that if the "English pigs" dared to disturb him, he would sweep them all into the sea, or chain them as slaves in front of his palace.

But now that the enemy was really at hand, the people of Rangoon began to recollect how many of their guns were out of order, how much of their powder was bad, and how old and tumble down their walls were. Some of them were frightened out of their wits, some were mad with rage. Many rushed into the temples, and threw themselves at the feet of the idols that stood there. A few went down to the river to see for themselves, hoping that perhaps the terrible ships might not be coming after all. But the great mass ran wildly up and down the streets, yelling for the blood of the two American missionaries who were living in the town.

Ever since the war broke out these two missionaries had been in constant peril. To the ignorant Burmese all white men were of one nation, and repeated attempts had been made to kill them both, as a defiance to the other "white faces" who dared to fight against Burmah. Some of their Burmese friends had begged them to leave the town, offering to hide them in their own country houses till the war was past ; but the brave Americans [illegible] to be moved.

"No soldier would desert his post just before a battle," said they ; "and we, who are soldiers [illegible] too in another way, must not desert ours."

Now, however, their courage seemed likely to cost them dear. Dragged before the Governor of the city by a howling rabble which was only kept from killing them on the spot by the hope of making them suffer more before they died), they had been [illegible] to death as enemies and traitors, and were now being led away to the place of execution in the great market, with a [illegible] of fierce-looking native soldiers on [illegible] and the raging mob yelling [illegible].

[illegible] could save them now, and [illegible] the coming up of the English ships. [illegible] well that the batteries of the [illegible] chance against men-of-war, and [illegible] broadside would probably send [illegible] flying. But would the ships [illegible]?

[illegible] of them stalked the public [illegible] tall, lean, hideous-looking [illegible] brown face was spotted [illegible] leopard. He wore [illegible] turban and a pair of [illegible] thickly stained with [illegible] in his hand a huge knife, [illegible] as a butcher's chopper. [illegible] sight had no effect [illegible] men, who walked [illegible] sign of flinching. [illegible] the fatal spot and [illegible] forward [illegible] them down [illegible] headsman [illegible] looked toward [illegible] to strike. [illegible] friendly [illegible] up to the [illegible] if the city [illegible] these men might [illegible] whereas their [illegible] countrymen [illegible] tyrant paused [illegible] the blood [illegible] see plain them. The yelling mob had vanished, the Governor and his soldiers were gone, the vast square was empty and silent as a grave, but the grim executioner lay headless beside them, with the knife still clutched in his stiffening hand.

Suddenly a hearty English hurrah was heard above the distant firing, and a body of sturdy blue jackets, just landed from the fleet, came charging across the market-place cutlass in hand. They unbound and carried off in triumph the rescued men, who lived to do noble work in other lands, and to tell many a time how they had once been saved even under the shadow of the sword.

The fo[illegible] lost :—
Henry G[illegible]
Edwin F[illegible]
Owen Sound.
Mrs. Dudge[illegible]
two children.
Thomas Snell[illegible]
John Scutt, L[illegible]
tyne, deck hands.
Mrs. Shannon, [illegible]
Two brothers nam[illegible]
Charles Taylor, st[illegible]
McIntyre.
Capt. Moore, badly [illegible]

Eleven Frog Lake M[illegible] be Hanged Novem[illegible]

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. [illegible] Rouleau, of Battleford, arr[illegible] last night. The Judge tried [illegible] Indian prisoners. Sixteen [illegible] were discharged, twenty-nine [illegible] sent to the Penitentiary for [illegible], ranging between twenty and two [illegible] and eleven were sentenced to [illegible] hanged November 27. These [illegible] said to be concerned directly in [illegible] Frog Lake massacres. Of the eleven the Judge says that eight will be certainly hanged, but he thinks the sentence of two will be commuted and possibly that of a third.

Fluid Lightning does not take a day or an hour to remove Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Lumbago or Rheumatism, but will do it instantly, and without carrying your head in a poultice for a day or using greasy liniment. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 4

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Japanese fans in Osaka, Japan, cost $5 per 1,000.

A private in the Eighth U. S. Cavalry has fallen heir to $30,000.

Georgia gunners say they kill a thousand rice birds at a shot.

A Fremont, Neb., druggist has a 12 pence English coin 574 years old.

Smallpox was first described A. D. 900 by Rhazes, an Arabian physician.

The cost of the epidemic of smallpox at Montreal is likely to reach $5,000,000.

King Ludwig of Bavaria thrashes the dentist every time he has a tooth pulled.

The King of Italy's hair is turning white, and the Queen is very much troubled over it.

A Carlisle dog committed suicide by pushing his head under a gate and choking to death.

Fifeshire, Scotland, is earnest in the belief that it possesses "Robinson Crusoe's gun and sea chest."

A large green stone taken from a cock's gizzard in Alexandria county, South Carolina, turns out to be a $1,000 emerald.

Elisha Camp of New York originally owned the majority of the Thousand Islands and disposed of his rights for a very small sum.

The rector of St. Helen's (Eng.) lives at Bath, has never performed any duty whatever, and has received as salary $125,000 in twelve years.

An eight-footed cow is the curiosity which a Hancock's bridge (N. J) man claims to have. The extra feet are well distributed, one being on each of the animal's legs, just a short distance above the hoof.

For boldness in adulteration the Russians take the palm. The new Government inspectors of provisions lately found packages of tea adulterated with 40 per cent. of pea shells. A tea-packing factory has been shut up for repacking exhausted tea leaves.

The Belgians lead the way in the matter of humanity to convicts. Eugene T Kint, the hero of the great Bank of Belgium robberies, has been authorized to let his hair and beard grow as a preparation for resuming his position in extra-mural society three months hence.

A case of small-pox having occurred recently in the town of Elsinore, Denmark, the Chief of Police issued orders that all unvaccinated persons must appear within two weeks to have their arms scraped, or pay a fine of fifty cents for every day they went unvaccinated after that. In less than a fortnight the small-pox had no terrors for Hamlet's home.

The Russian journal of the Finance Minister has published a long article on the forests of Eastern Siberia. The immense forests of pines, larches, firs, cedars, birches, aspens, and limes which form almost the exclusive wealth of this vast region belong for the greater part to the State. During a great number of years this source of wealth was almost entirely unproductive. It is only since 1869 that a more or less regular administration of forests has been established, and at the present time the extent of the forests in Eastern Siberia is estimated at 72,335,330 deciatines (about 11 square yards each).

The imperial stables at Berlin have recently been the scene of great rejoicings on the occasion of Herr Heise, Emperor William's coachman, celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his appointment. A large number of telegrams, letters, and cards, all congratulating the veteran coachman, were followed by presents from colleagues and friends, and a congratulatory address from the highest stable authorities. But the chief event of the day was the arrival of a present of 500 [illegible] a clock, with remarks from the Emperor, and the Empress, [illegible] bust of the Emperor, from

It has long been [illegible] named Campodunum, known that a place [illegible] Constance, was not far from the Lake [illegible] Roman military settlement centre of a great [illegible] and the headquarters of [illegible] in Vindelicia, legion. It seems to have the third Italic [illegible] importance to Ratisbon [illegible] the next region. But various desultory [illegible] in all that, [illegible] regular intervals, failed [illegible] to light any of the relics which [illegible] to bring [illegible] such a site. Quite [illegible] careful exploration has laid bare [illegible] foundations [illegible] great Roman building, [illegible] mortar [illegible] opus reticulatum, drain [illegible] being of unquestion- [illegible] further investigations [illegible] more extensive re- [illegible]

A Scotch co[illegible] notorious offender [illegible] life in a certain village [illegible] Forfar magistrate [illegible] half a crown [illegible] If he [illegible] [illegible] to the place he had been brought from.

[illegible] Ceylon the natives cover down newly [illegible] venison with honey, in large earth [illegible] these are not opened for three [illegible] The [illegible] meat so preserved is said to J. G. [illegible] flavor.

Honey.

BY ALLEN PRINGLE.

Why people should freely eat honey can be put briefly in one sentence, to wit: Because honey is wholesome, palatable, and comparatively cheap food. This fact in itself ought to be sufficient to insure its general use, and no doubt will when the fact is generally known. Owing mainly, perhaps, to the fact that honey yields such exquisite pleasure to the human palate it is for the most part regarded as a mere luxury, and its valuable qualities as a food and even a medicine are generally overlooked. Now, corn meal porridge is a wholesome and cheap food, but it is not sufficiently palatable to catch many mouths watering for it. There are many excellent articles of diet that are quite neglected simply because they do not commend themselves to our perverted taste, everybody, however, admitting their wholesomeness. But because honey is so superlatively pleasant to all tastes—both normal and abnormal—the hasty conclusion is forthwith reached that it is merely a luxury to please the palate, having no special value as a regular article of diet. This popular conception is very erroneous, and must be corrected before this rich product of nature can take its proper place on the tables of all classes of people as a common article of diet. True, occasionally a person is found who cannot eat honey. It disagrees with a few, or, as they put it "acts almost as poison" to them. But this fact no more proves that honey per se is essentially injurious than the fact that potatoes "act like poison" to some people proves that potatoes are essentially unwholesome. The fault is not in the honey or potatoes but in the subject himself. In some peculiarity of constitution or abnormal condition of the system may always be found the true cause of the difficulty.

The dietetic elements which honey contains are quite indispensable to first-rate health in this and more northerly climates—indeed to all outside the Torrid Zone. The carbonaceous, no less than the nitrogenous, elements of food are required by the human system in these zones ; and as we go north from the tropic of Cancer more imperatively required than the latter. Now, as honey furnishes these indispensable, heat producing elements in greater purity than almost every other article of human diet, it therefore stands at the very head of the carbonaceous ingesta. If the animal heat of the system is produced and maintained by the combustion in the blood of the oxygen of the air taken in by the lungs and certain elements of the food, as the most eminent authorities maintain, then it is absolutely certain that for six or eight months of the year in this climate there is no more wholesome or necessary food than pure honey. True, in our ordinary dietary we can get the necessary heat-forming materials from other sources, but we also get at the same time from these other sources disease-producing impurities—fat pork, for instance, and other oleaginous substances so common on our table. The conclusion is therefore as plain as it is logical that during the seasons of Autumn, Winter and Spring in these latitudes honey is the very best food of its class which we can get. Let there be less pork, butter, and the dirty unwholesome syrups used in the families of our land and more honey, and the certain result will be the greatly improved health of the people. Sickness and the common ailments of life will be greatly diminished. Considering the relative wholesomeness, purity, and nutritive properties, pure, extracted honey at 10 to 12½ cts. per pound is much cheaper as a regular article of diet than pork or the average quality of market butter at the same price. In nature's materia medica honey has also valuable properties as a curative agent. In pulmonary complaints, common colds, sore throats, and that class of diseases, honey has frequently proved most efficacious. Many instances are recorded of remarkable cures by honey in such cases when other medicaments had utterly failed. That honey possesses restorative and remedial properties of an important character is already well known by the bee-keeping denizens of country places, and their neighbors who frequently call upon them for honey in cases of sore throats, colds, croup, etc. ; while the bee-keeper knows well that every druggist in every country town as well as in the city lays in a stock every year for medicinal purposes.

We may also lay honey under tribute in the production of one of the most wholesome beverages in existence ; to supersede tea and coffee on the family table. We give the formula and process and advise all to try it :

Take three quarts of good, clean, wheat bran and bake in the oven till it becomes quite brown. Then add one quart of liquid buckwheat honey and stir thoroughly ; put it back in the oven to bake still more, stirring it frequently until it gets dry, granulated, and very brown—a little scorching will not hurt it. Draw it the same as coffee and use with milk and honey or milk and sugar to suit taste.

This makes a perfectly wholesome and palatable drink and the sooner it takes the place of tea in every family the sooner the public health will improve. In the writer's family this wholesome and really palatable beverage has been on his table for years with the best results ; and were a ton of tea and coffee unloaded at the door gratis we would say, "no, thank you," so far as drinking either is concerned. The buckwheat honey is preferable to the clover in making this beverage for the double reason of its brown color and more pungent taste.

A Scotch Farmer's Wife.

A correspondent of the Scottish Agricultural Gazette, in giving an account of his farming, remarks : "My wife and I (we have only a girl in the house) rear a dozen or so calves every year. · · For my success with them I am greatly indebted to a careful wife. A distant relation of my own, and bearing my own surname, she is a jewel to her husband [illegible] She brought [illegible] a little money [illegible] a fortune in herself. She [illegible], can speak French fairly [illegible] covered on the honeymoon [illegible] capital musician; but [illegible] have crowned our wed[illegible] ing machine is oftener [illegible] She rears and sells [illegible] every year, besides keep[illegible] book, and many a comfort in [illegible] groceries does the egg basket [illegible] She says her pigs pay and I be[illegible] ner, though what with her hens and [illegible] the corn heap suffers. It is not, however, much felt by me, and the loss is amply repaid. She is not at all given to finery, yet I can always look upon her with pride as the most tastefully and becomingly dressed woman in the district. · · Then as to disposition. There never was such a thing as a jar known in our family. Forbearance and loving respect towards old age—consideration and confidence towards youth—have been the rule. In the case of my wife and I, the warmest and most devoted affection, tempered by the sincerest mutual respect, have influenced us, I may safely say, all our lives. Any one passing my house and seeing the roses blooming over the walls, and "Ned," the old collie dog, frisking about with the children busy feeding their rabbits and pigeons in the open air, could not fail to be assured that happiness and contentment reigned within the home.

A GERMAN SUNDAY.

How the Germans in Germany Spend their Sabbath.

A Sunday or so ago I came around a corner suddenly into the old market place and found myself in a throng of people, High in air on a rope stretched from the roof of the houses, "Mademoiselle" some body or other, "in tights," was dancing and walking, to display herself and her science. Clowns were scattered around below taking up collections and amusing the people with the usual antics and wretched jokes. All this to the accomplishment of a desperately noisy drum and brassy cornet. Everybody seemed perfectly delighted and contented—quite fulfilling, their "being's end and aim." Those who crave something higher drink their beer in the parks, while a band gives selections from Schubert, Bach, Strauss or other wothies.

But amidst everything else the churches must not be forgotten, although amusements play a more prominent part in the German's Sunday than his church. We are accustomed to speak of "Protestant Germany," and so perhaps overlook that the body of Jews is large, and the Roman Catholics more than a third of the entire population. They are the people of the Rhine and Bavaria, with of course a scattering through all the provinces. The remainder is dubbed Protestant because not Jews or Roman Catholics, but probably their regard for Luther is more for his services to literature than his struggle against the Pope.

Naturally when everybody is in search of amusement all such places as operas and theatres are in full blast. Public festivals and jubilees, too, are relegated to Sundays to ensure good displays. The great event of the season is the illumination of the castle, and this is always on Sunday. This summer there have been three, all of them as near fairyland sights as any glimpse we are likely to get into that region. The castle is ideally situated for an illumination. All around lie thick groves of trees as a dark background. Far away below the Neckar tumbles along, and boats decked with Chinese lanterns float past with bands and voices chiming "Old Heidelberg." At a given signal rockets fly from the towers, and in an instant the castle stands out in a flood of crimson light. The whole is like magic, and like a dream it fades slowly away into the darkness. From the river there is a perfect cannonade of rockets, and from every buttress of the bridge showers a golden rain. On the opposite bank of the Neckar and up the sides of the hill people are collected in crowds. Strangers have been attracted by the views and from the adjacent towns come excursionists. Such Sundays are Heidelberg's "red letter days."

The coins bear the motto "Gott mit uns" (God with us), but with about the same significance, as the "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity," on the French. The Protestants seem to be divided into two principal groups, the orthodox, who abide fast by the old landmarks and interpretations, and those more liberal in their views, united only as Protestant, differing in their ritual, and service, and ways of thinking. In Heidelberg both varieties are found, the latter vastly in the majority. In the oldest church here, and in many throughout Germany, there is a curious arrangement by which one side is occupied by the Protestants and Roman Catholics, and the parties dwell together without broils or bickerings. The one preaching service of the day is at nine or ten in the morning, and then follow various minor services, but all is over before evening, to give people an opportunity of going to the theatre ! As I have said, the attendance is usually sparse. Often the women and children form almost the entire congregation ; the men get along somehow with less attendance. The old custom of separating the men and women is still adhered to. If a family come, the wife takes the girls and goes to one place, and the man with the boys to another. Add to this that all the peasant women appear with bare heads, and it is at once seen how strange an appearance a German congregation presents. The minister wears a black gown not unlike a lawyer's. His sermon is of the average length, and if I may judge by the specimens I have heard, hung on a text of many verses, and containing illustrations drawn from the Franco-German war. The service is all according to a prayer-book ; the people stand to pray, and sit while singing. Many of the tunes are weird sort of melodies, with a solemn ring caused by the general slow singing and by having the last two notes of a line the same. The churches are fairly like many old country churches, good, but with those straight box-like seats intended to add a little pennace to the worship. It is noticeable, too, that the Protestants have crucifixes and pictures scattered around the walls ; but a liking for such things seems to be inbred in the people ; all through the country by the roadside one finds terrible-looking crucifixes, enough to make the passer-by shudder.

Boston reports a freak of nature in the shape of a child born with natural eyeglasses, the frame being of bone and the glasses of a tender skin stretched like a drum-head.

One of the most remarkable instances of the reconciliation of science and faith is found in the case of the Rutgers College seismologist, who noted at New Brunswick the shock of the Flood Rock explosion just one minute after the appointed time, and just fifteen minutes before the explosion actually occurred.

HEALTH

Sleep.

BY D. N. PATTERSON, [illegible]

· · · · We are such stuff
As dreams are made of ; and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.—[illegible]

Charles Kingsley was once asked [illegible] his favorite amusement. He [illegible] "Sleep"

In the study of the various [illegible] life there is not, perhaps, any [illegible] more interesting than that of [illegible] connected sleep obtained at [illegible] is not only refreshing to the [illegible] essential to the maintenance of [illegible] as our daily supply of food. [illegible] be the most scientific [illegible] there can be but little doubt [illegible] object to be obtained by this [illegible] recreation. By this term, we [illegible] portunity for the muscles of the [illegible] the brain to cease its activity [illegible] allow a recuperation of the [illegible] go on with as little interruption [illegible] In order to obtain this result [illegible] sible manner, certain conditions [illegible] sary. These may be divided into [illegible] viz : internal or physical, and [illegible] mechanical.

First.—Internal or physical [illegible] class may be considered the [illegible] working of the machinery of [illegible] being. In order to secure good [illegible] natural sleep, there should be [illegible] of the body in a horizontal [illegible] are speaking now of the [illegible] which to obtain sleep. In [illegible] position, the limbs are at rest, [illegible] cles not being called into use, [illegible] tension, and consequently all [illegible] direction ceases. While in [illegible] the heart, which is the engine [illegible] slows up, and it has repeatedly [illegible] by examination, that the heart [illegible] from five to ten less in number [illegible] son is asleep than when awake, [illegible] instances, even that number [illegible] ly exceeded. Of course this [illegible] the pulsations of the heart [illegible] and tear of that organ, and [illegible] some extent, the pressure upon [illegible] and veins.

It is to the condition of the [illegible] sleep, that the greatest amount [illegible] gation has been directed. It is [illegible] out the number of heart beats [illegible] but it is not so easy to examine [illegible] the condition of the brain. [illegible] been made in this direction, by [illegible] skulls of living animals, and [illegible] glass plate for the bony [illegible] through this medium watching [illegible] ments of that organ. This [illegible] demonstrated the fact that the [illegible] more slowly through the blood [illegible] that the vessels themselves are [illegible] er than when the animal is [illegible] is known, as above stated, that [illegible] man beats a less number of [illegible] sleep than when awake, it is [illegible] sume that the conditions of the [illegible] in the human brain presents [illegible] pearance, and it is natural [illegible] such a condition is essential [illegible] to sound, refreshing sleep. [illegible] several organs of sense undergo [illegible] ory change during sleep. [illegible] reason why death has been so [illegible] sleep, is not only because the [illegible] beautiful figurative term [illegible] but more especially because [illegible] of sensation is so like that of [illegible]

The ear is dull of hearing, [illegible] the sense of touch is less [illegible] quiet, save the slow-measured [illegible] That sleep is a necessity, no [illegible] will deny, and to allow custom [illegible] pleasure to rob us of a sufficient [illegible] sleep is suicidal. We, as C[illegible] been called a sleepless nation, [illegible] many things in the curriculum [illegible] lives which lay us open to [illegible]

It has been wisely said that [illegible] better division of time could [illegible] than that into equal periods of [illegible] each, eight hours for business, [illegible] for study and physical enjoyment, [illegible] hours for sleep. All nature [illegible] creation teaches us that night [illegible] time to sleep ; it is nature's [illegible] It is a time when all is hushed, [illegible] condition of our surroundings [illegible] to repose. It is then that and the negative forces of the [illegible] operation, and that needful [illegible] which gives "brightness to [illegible] glow to the cheek."

"Sleep knits up the ravelled [illegible]

Of the eight hours allotted [illegible] least two should be obtained [illegible] night. The sleep secured between [illegible] of ten and twelve at night [illegible] ously called "the beauty sleep" [illegible] difficult to notice the difference [illegible] who habitually retires at [illegible] and one who sits up until [illegible] can be laid down which [illegible] people with reference to their [illegible] any more than one kind of [illegible] to all. There are certain [illegible] require a part, or all night [illegible] these exceptions must be [illegible] lowance made for them. [illegible] people need more sleep than [illegible] ren and elderly people need [illegible] middle life. But there are [illegible] sleep as much as they ought [illegible] mistake, which, if they live, [illegible] ly regret. But regrets will [illegible] avail, and the loss can never [illegible] Some one has beautifully [illegible] touch so powerful to smooth [illegible] whiten sallow complexions, [illegible] tresses, to flush pallid [illegible] velvet-fingered sleep. In [illegible] Lethean cup for sorrow. [illegible] bath, the chief nourisher in [illegible]

* A dozen years ago [illegible] bought for a franc a [illegible] which had belonged to [illegible] recently deceased. The [illegible] picture upon the wall, but [illegible] worth the cost of cleaning. [illegible] found it very attractive. A [illegible] however, an artist happened [illegible] induced the owner to [illegible] clean. No sooner was the [illegible] remove than there was [illegible] corners the signature, [illegible] 1614." The picture [illegible] sing the world and is said to [illegible] lent preservation. The [illegible] received several good offers [illegible] but he is waiting and [illegible] comes along.

[E]GYPTIAN ROM[ANCE]

[illegible] Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon [illegible] tions in the Career of Arabi Pasha [Autho]r of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPOT," [illegible] ETC., ETC.

[CHAPT]ER III.—(CONTINUED.)

[illegible]ATED FETE AT THE PALACE.

[illegible] knew well that her mother [illegible] her views, no matter what [illegible] to controvert them, so she had [illegible] silence, and this was why she [illegible] happy as a Peri, though quite [illegible] one, on appearing half an [illegible] we have before described) in [illegible] Hall of a Hundred Mirrors, [illegible] she took the earliest opportun[illegible] [illegible] a little secret telegraphic [illegible] er, who for a long while had [illegible] awaiting her advent, that [illegible] not approach her just yet, [illegible] maternal was not quite as ami[illegible] [illegible] ght be."

[illegible] nelly, who had donned his [illegible] and carefully waxed the ends [illegible] mustache for the occasion, [illegible] flattering anything but blessings [illegible] British matron whom he hoped [illegible] metamorphose into his mother in-[illegible] she seated herself on one of the [illegible] ottomans that lined the walls, [illegible] that she would remain a fix[illegible] the entire evening rather than [illegible] one save the lover of her

[illegible] ound the scene of pomp and [illegible] with its hundreds of dancing [illegible] couples, and where in all

[illegible] love to eyes that spake again,
[illegible] merry as a marriage bell,"

[illegible] one individual who looked [illegible] as sullen and discontented, [illegible] she herself was doing, and [illegible] she recognized him as Arabi [illegible] created war minister.

[illegible] erect and stern of aspect, [illegible] nose, fierce, eagle-like eyes, [illegible] what cruel looking mouth [illegible] chin, expressive of undaunted [illegible] Arabi looked like one who [illegible] way and control the destinies [illegible] fortunes were doomed to give

[illegible] frippery in his attire, he wore [illegible] military uniform, with the least [illegible] of gold lace thereon, while [illegible] blue tasseled tarbouch (which [illegible] Egyptians is worn always, in[illegible] out), surmounted a broad, [illegible] that was wrinkled by anxious [illegible] than by years.

[illegible] had made his appearance [illegible] which he appeared so little to [illegible] to the fair girl, who, in[illegible] it were, watched his every [illegible] a keen interest that she her[illegible] way account for.

[illegible] her like unto one who was [illegible] only for some attraction and [illegible] to find it, for it certainly [illegible] unveiled beauty which was [illegible] played on all sides, and to the [illegible] the effeminate Khedive (cat[illegible] and in his fawnings as [illegible] yield himself with the keen[illegible] delight.

[illegible] have no eyes for the giver [illegible] the amiable and gentle Khe[illegible] Nellie's mother presently, [illegible] as though she could have [illegible] distinguished personage her[illegible] hilted scimitar and all.

[illegible] dislike him, dear mamma, [illegible] every girl whom he deigns to [illegible] suppose deign is the proper [illegible] even to his puppet royalty) [illegible] look at some lamb whom it [illegible]."

[illegible] can you be so harsh-judging [illegible] I think his highness is al[illegible] utterly delightful. I do not [illegible] keen appreciative regard of [illegible] I'm sure many of them are [illegible] well formed, and then 'tis [illegible] whispered that he seeks a wife [illegible] number, and that this fete [illegible] given to afford him an oppor[illegible] [illegible] g choice."

[illegible] mamma, if any one had hinted [illegible] me beforehand, I would nev[illegible] [illegible] e, but I should think that [illegible] at all events, would marry a [illegible] Khedive though he may be) [illegible] wives already, for I have [illegible] that is the present number."

[illegible] shame ! I'm positively shock[illegible] [illegible] the dearest wish of my [illegible] form a high and distinguish[illegible] [illegible] at this moment I feel that [illegible] in your grasp, for you are [illegible] the—"

[illegible] would have concluded [illegible] cannot inform the reader, in[illegible] [illegible] point of her discourse a [illegible] in French :

[illegible] too much of a philoso[illegible] [illegible] the frivolous amusements [illegible] delight her countrywomen ? [illegible] I sufficiently old an ac[illegible] [illegible] for the pleasure of being [illegible] her the illuminated gar[illegible]

[illegible] so like to see them ! Please [illegible] at once," answered Nellie, [illegible] waiting for her mother's per[illegible] [illegible] to her feet, passing her [illegible] of Arabi Pasha, the war [illegible] him with the greatest [illegible] her away from the ab[illegible] [illegible] of his royal master.

[CH]APTER IV.

[LO]VE AND A MURMUR OF HATE [illegible] CRY FOR HELP.

[illegible] and the grim war minis[illegible] [illegible] prize (for as his prize [illegible] her) had passed out of [illegible] Hundred Mirrors and through [illegible] conservatory that lay beyond [illegible] air, where the great full [illegible] twinkling stars (whose [illegible] hardly be guessed at by [illegible] beheld an Egyptian [illegible] an indigo-hued heaven [illegible] reflected not only in the [illegible] it rolled sluggishly along, [illegible] was at once solemn and [illegible] land likewise, for [illegible] lamps of divers [illegible] sapphires, garnets, rubies, [illegible] amethysts around flower-beds [illegible] equally bright and beautiful, while fully as ma[illegible] lanterns gleamed from [illegible] dangled swayingly fro[illegible] some of the more dari[illegible] having climbed the lof[illegible] them amongst the feat[illegible]

As to the palace itse[illegible] it was built of fire, for [illegible] every architectural de[illegible] lined with little lambe[illegible] which also encircled th[illegible] with many a cordon of [illegible] pillars and coiled roun[illegible] folds that resembled fi[illegible]

Altogether, the sigh[illegible] seen would never be fo[illegible]

"How very beautif[illegible] lie, involuntarily. "[illegible] land."

"If it be so, then as[illegible] ing on my arm the quee[illegible] answered Arabi, in th[illegible] tongue, which he had [illegible] order to enable him to [illegible] Monsieur de Lesseps, [illegible] great ship canal, and f[illegible] entertained a great fr[illegible] ation ; and as he utter[illegible] on the lovely girl a gl[illegible] or other made her wish[illegible] readily accepted him a[illegible]

"How few people [illegible] she said. "Oh, how c[illegible] tiful a sight !"

"You may cast pear[illegible] will they not leave the [illegible] feed. Our religion tea[illegible] has no soul, and that th[illegible] is no future state of rew[illegible] I never doubted the d[illegible]

"Perhaps your relig[illegible] that woman has no co[illegible] not try to convince me [illegible] es it, either. The lad[illegible] may like the sugar plu[illegible] these of mine the flavor[illegible]

"But surely I may [illegible] and truly meant ? You [illegible] believe that some wo[illegible] have souls, aye, and [illegible] heart you made captive [illegible] that we met at Alexa[illegible] had you not generousl[illegible] upon me yours in retu[illegible] with such evident rapt[illegible] proposal to show you [illegible] Egyptians are skilful re[illegible] and feelings."

"You have utterly f[illegible] aright, and if you rea[illegible] say, pray take me bac[illegible] assure you that you are [illegible] in me. I let you show [illegible] cause—well, because I [illegible] liked and respected you, [illegible] the reason that I wante[illegible] —from—from—"

"The Khedive ? I [illegible] There, I knew I read yo[illegible] But do you mean to say [illegible] would allow you to dec[illegible] alliance ?"

"Assuredly it would [illegible] reason than that he ha[illegible] ready."

"Yet as an English gi[illegible] your Bible, which is alw[illegible] must have read therein h[illegible] men, some of them even [illegible] called the friends of G[illegible] many wives."

"Ah, that was under[illegible] tion, but it has been alte[illegible]

"True, but we, you [illegible] new dispensation. I am [illegible] you on this point beca[illegible] that you love me. You[illegible] looks, your manner, you[illegible] yet, like the good girl th[illegible] I would have you to be [illegible] combat and overcome th[illegible] that you imagine it to b[illegible] really so I would help yo[illegible]

"Indeed, sir, you fla[illegible] needlessly," retorted Ne[illegible] ing with indignation t[illegible] should think her guilty o[illegible] mation) unmaidenly con[illegible] caring in the slightest d[illegible] all events in the manner [illegible] or indeed in any other m[illegible] for months been engaged [illegible] one of my own count[illegible]

"Ah, then you [illegible] are what is ca[illegible] can hardly bel[illegible] better of you, a[illegible] false and despica[illegible] credit it even yet. [illegible] said this thing to tr[illegible] I am sincere. To co[illegible] will swear to you by [illegible] Kaaber, by the Zemzen [illegible] of the Prophets that if y[illegible] me I will never take u[illegible] wife. I have one already [illegible] helped, but verily and in[illegible] my last."

The war minister spo[illegible] whilst his eyes flashed, [illegible] flushed and his chest hea[illegible]

Nellie was now positive[illegible]

She glanced nervously [illegible] there were many couple[illegible] gardens, in one direction [illegible] was really near by, an[illegible] sudden strange terror [illegible] escape from the man w[illegible] dignation she had evide[illegible] small degree.

But he laid a hand on h[illegible] gentle force restrained he[illegible]

"Perhaps we only dis[illegible] do not rightly understan[illegible] said, persuasively. "Li[illegible] fore, for yet another m[illegible] and you shall never forget [illegible] powerful, and ere long I[illegible] powerful. Marry me and [illegible] thing for you, and for yo[illegible] I dare not speak more [illegible] I might raise your hopes [illegible] other hand awaken ter[illegible] gentle breast for which [illegible] whatever. I—I would bu[illegible] war minister is not the [illegible] lies within the gift of [illegible]

HEALTH

Sleep.

BY D. N. PATTERSON, M.

. . . . We are such stuff
As dreams are made of; and our li
Is rounded with a sleep.—Tempest

Charles Kingsley was once asked his favorite amusement. His "Sleep"

In the study of the various ph life there is not, perhaps, any more interesting than that of sleep connected sleep obtained at suita is not only refreshing to the mind essential to the maintenance of bo as our daily supply of food. Wh be the most scientific definition there can be but little doubt th object to be obtained by this ph recreation. By this term, we m portunity for the muscles of the b the brain to cease its activity, allow a recuperation of the whole go on with as little interruption In order to obtain this result in sible manner, certain conditions sary. These may be divided into viz: internal or physical, and mechanical.

First.—Internal or physical. class may be considered the ch working of the machinery of o being. In order to secure good, natural sleep, there should be pe of the body in a horizontal pos are speaking now of the best which to obtain sleep. In the position, the limbs are at rest, an cles not being called into use, tension, and consequently all eff direction ceases While in tha the heart, which is the engine of slows up, and it has repeatedly b by examination, that the heart from five to ten less in number, son is asleep than when awake, a instances, even that number has ly exceeded. Of course this ret the pulsations of the heart lesse and tear of that organ, and also some extent, the pressure upon and veins.

It is to the condition of the br sleep, that the greatest amount gation has been directed. It is ea out the number of heart beats du but it is not so easy to examine the condition of the brain. E been made in this direction, by skulls of living animals, and glass plate for the bony cov through this medium watching ments of that organ. This exp demonstrated the fact that the more slowly through the blood that the vessels themselves are er than when the animal is awa is known, as above stated, that man beats a less number of ti sleep than when awake, it is na sume that the conditions of the b in the human brain presents a pearance, and it is natural to such a condition is essential if n to sound, refreshing sleep. several organs of sense undergo ory change during sleep. Pr reason why death has been so o sleep, is not only because the la beautiful figurative term than but more especially because th of sensation is so like that of th

The ear is dull of hearing, the the sense of touch is less acute quiet, save the slow-measured That sleep is a necessity, no will deny, and to allow custom, pleasure to rob us of a sufficien sleep is suicidal. We, as Cana been called a sleepless nation, a many things in the curriculum lives which lay us open to this

It has been wisely said that better division of time could hav than that into equal periods each, eight hours for business, for study and physical enjoym hours for sleep. All nature creation teaches us that night time to sleep; it is nature's ch It is a time when all is hushed, condition of our surroundings to repose. It is then that and the negative forces of the operation, and that needful res which gives "brightness to th glow to the cheek."

"Sleep knits up the ravelled sleeve

Of the eight hours allotted least two should be obtained night. The sleep secured betwe of ten and twelve at night have ously called "the beauty sleep difficult to notice the difference who habitually retires at and one who sits up until twelv can be laid down which wil people with reference to their h any more than one kind of food to all. There are certain occ require a part, or all night work these exceptions must be admit lowance made for them. The people need more sleep than oth ren and elderly people need m middle life. But there are those sleep as much as they ought to mistake, which, if they live, the ly regret. But regrets will th avail, and the loss can never b Some one has beautifully said, touch so powerful to smooth out whiten sallow complexions, to th tresses, to flush pallid cheeks velvet-fingered sleep. In sleep Lethean cup for sorrow. It is bath, the chief nourisher in life's

---

A dozen years ago an A bought for a franc a dirty which had belonged to an old recently deceased. The tailo picture upon the wall, but did worth the cost of cleaning. found it very attractive. A li however, an artist happened to induced the owner to lend clean. No sooner was the first remove than there was seen in corners the signature, "Pietro P 1614." The picture represen sing the world and is said to lent preservation. The tailor received several good offers for but he is waiting until a rich comes along.

EGYPTIAN ROMANCE.

of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

...of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPOT," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC.

...TER III.—(CONTINUED.)

...ATED FETE AT THE PALACE.

...knew well that her mother ...ange her views, no matter what ...y to controvert them, so she had ...silence, and this was why she ...s happy as a Peri, though quite ...is one, on appearing half an ...we have before described) in ...ted Hall of a Hundred Mirrors, ...y she took the earliest opportun... ...mit a little secret telegraphic ...lover, who for a long while had ...ly awaiting her advent, that ...ter not approach her just yet, ...maternal was not quite as ami... ...might be."

...Donelly, who had donned his ...and carefully waxed the ends ...etty mustache for the occasion, ...uttering anything but blessings ...British matron whom he hoped ...ransmogrify into his mother in... ...Nellie seated herself on one of the ...ottomans that lined the walls, ...that she would remain a fix... ...the entire evening rather than ...any one save the lover of her

...around the scene of pomp and ..., with its hundreds of dancing ...ding couples, and where in all

...ked love to eyes that spake again,
...went merry as a marriage bell,"

...held one individual who looked ...ay as sullen and discontented, ...as she herself was doing, and ...hat she recognized him as Arabi ...ly created war minister.

...ted, erect and stern of aspect, ...nose, fierce, eagle-like eyes, ...somewhat cruel looking mouth ...chin, expressive of undaunted ...nd Arabi looked like one who ...sway and control the destinies ...his fortunes were doomed to give ...

...all frippery in his attire, he wore ...ilitary uniform, with the least ...of gold lace thereon, while ...blue tasseled tarbouch (which ...Egyptians is worn always, in... ...as out), surmounted a broad, ...that was wrinkled by anxious ...rather than by years.

...an had made his appearance ...e which he appeared so little to ...uzzle to the fair girl, who, in... ...it were, watched his every ...a keen interest that she her... ...no way account for.

...to her like unto one who was ...iously for some attraction and ...failed to find it, for it certainly ...the unveiled beauty which was ...played on all sides, and to the ...the effeminate Khedive (cat... ...ents and in his fawnings as ...to yield himself with the keen... ...and delight.

...to have no eyes for the giver ...or the amiable and gentle Khe... ...ed Nellie's mother presently, ...while as though she could have ...distinguished personage her... ...hilted scimitar and all.

...ly dislike him, dear mamma, ...every girl whom he deigns to ...I suppose deign is the proper ...even to his puppet royalty) ...ld look at some lamb whom it ...ed on."

...w can you be so harsh-judging ...d! I think his highness is al... ...utterly delightful. I do not ...keen appreciative regard of ...I'm sure many of them are ...nd well formed, and then 'tis ...ispered that he seeks a wife ...number, and that this fete ...given to afford him an oppor... ...ng a choice."

...mamma, if any one had hinted ...to me beforehand, I would nev... ...here, but I should think that ...at all events, would marry a ...nd Khedive though he may be) ...wives already, for I have ...that is the present number."

...r shame! I'm positively shock... ...it is the dearest wish of my ...to form a high and distinguish... ...nd at this moment I feel that ...within your grasp, for you are ...or the—"

...Trezarr would have concluded ...cannot inform the reader, in... ...this point of her discourse a ...ed in French:

...Trezarr too much of a philoso... ...or the frivolous amusements ...delight her countrywomen? ...am I sufficiently old an ac... ...hope for the pleasure of being ...ow her the illuminated gar...

...ld so like to see them! Please ...r at once," answered Nellie, ...waiting for her mother's per... ...prang to her feet, passing her ...at of Arabi Pasha, the war ...ered him with the greatest ...lead her away from the ab... ...ce of his royal master.

CHAPTER IV.

...LOVE AND A MURMUR OF HATE—A CRY FOR HELP.

...ute and the grim war minis... ...rembling prize (for as his prize ...rded her) had passed out of ...Hundred Mirrors and through ...conservatory that lay beyond ...n air, where the great full ...yriad twinkling stars (whose ...can hardly be guessed at by ...never beheld an Egyptian ...mmed an indigo-hued heaven ...be reflected not only in the ...as it rolled sluggishly along, ...that was at once solemn and ...the dry land likewise, for ...and tiny lamps of divers ...like sapphires, garnets, rubies, ...amethysts around flower-beds ...were equally bright and beauti-ful, while fully as many hundreds of Chinese lanterns gleamed from out the shrubs and dangled swayingly from the tree branches, some of the more daring of the illuminators having climbed the loftiest palms to suspend them amongst the feathery foliage.

As to the palace itself, it looked as though it was built of fire, for the whole facade and every architectural design thereon was outlined with little lambent tongues of flame, which also encircled the onion-shaped domes with many a cordon of fire, and climbed up pillars and coiled round minarets in spiral folds that resembled fiery serpents.

Altogether, the sight was one which once seen would never be forgotten.

"How very beautiful!" exclaimed Nellie, involuntarily. "It is a veritable fairy land."

"If it be so, then assuredly have I hanging on my arm the queen of the fairy realm," answered Arabi, in the melodious French tongue, which he had chiefly mastered in order to enable him to converse freely with Monsieur de Lesseps, the constructor of the great ship canal, and for whom he had ever entertained a great friendship and admiration; and as he uttered the words he bent on the lovely girl a glance which somehow or other made her wish that she had not so readily accepted him as her cavalier.

"How few people are in the gardens," she said. "Oh, how can they miss so beautiful a sight?"

"You may cast pearls before swine, yet will they not leave the husks whereon they feed. Our religion teaches us that woman has no soul, and that therefore for her there is no future state of reward and punishment. I never doubted the dogma until I met you."

"Perhaps your religion also teaches you that woman has no common sense, but do not try to convince me that no man possesses it, either. The ladies of your country may like the sugar plumbs of speech, but to these of mine the flavor is nauseous."

"But surely I may say what I sincerely and truly meant? You have taught me to believe that some women, at all events, have souls, aye, and hearts as well. My heart you made captive the very first time that we met at Alexandria, and to-night, had you not generously longed to bestow upon me yours in return, you would not with such evident rapture have accepted my proposal to show you the gardens. We Egyptians are skilful readers of the thoughts and feelings."

"You have utterly failed to read mine aright, and if you really think what you say, pray take me back indoors again. I assure you that you are entirely mistaken in me. I let you show me the gardens because—well, because I somehow or other liked and respected you, and more still for the reason that I wanted to get away from—from—from—"

"The Khedive? I guessed as much. There, I knew I read your feelings aright. But do you mean to say that your ambition would allow you to decline so brilliant an alliance?"

"Assuredly it would, if for no other reason than that he has other wives already."

"Yet as an English girl you must believe your Bible, which is always ours, and you must have read therein how that many holy men, some of them even honored by being called the friends of God, possessed very many wives."

"Ah, that was under the old dispensation, but it has been altered under the new."

"True, but we, you know, reject your new dispensation. I am anxious to convince you on this point because I feel assured that you love me. You show it in your looks, your manner, your speech even, and yet, like the good girl that you are and that I would have you to be, you try hard to combat and overcome the feeling by reason that you imagine it to be sinful. Were it really so I would help you to conquer it."

"Indeed, sir, you flatter yourself most needlessly," retorted Nellie Trezarr, burning with indignation that the Egyptian should think her guilty of such (in her estimation) unmaidenly conduct, "for far ... have caring in the slightest degree for ... arried to all events in the manner that ... or indeed in any other ma... ed with me and for months been engag... ir people a flirt. I one of my own cou... because I had thought

"Ah, then you ... a flirt is altogether a are what is ca... haracter, I will not can hardly bel... fess that you have better of you, a... and to see whether false and despica... you that I am I credit it even yet. ... and the holy said this thing to tr... and the City I am sincere. To co... I but, marry will swear to you by ... self a third Kaaber, by the Zemzen ... cannot be of the Prophets that if y... shall be me I will never take un... wife. I have one already, ... helped, but verily and indee... vidly, my last." ... heek

The war minister spoke mo... whilst his eyes flashed, his swa... flushed and his chest heaved convu...

Nellie was now positively afraid o...

She glanced nervously around, but ... there were many couples promenadi... gardens, in one direction or another, no was really near by, and overcome by sudden strange terror she attempted escape from the man whose rage and indignation she had evidently kindled in no small degree.

But he laid a hand on her wrist and with gentle force restrained her.

"Perhaps we only disagree because we do not rightly understand each other," he said, persuasively. "Listen to me, therefore, for yet another minute. Marry me and you shall never forget it. I am rich and powerful, and ere long I may be yet more powerful. Marry me and it shall be a good thing for you, and for your people as well. I dare not speak more plainly, because—I might raise your hopes too high, or on the other hand awaken terrors within your gentle breast for which there is no cause whatever. I—I would but remind you that war minister is not the highest rank that lies within the gift of his Highness the Khedive, and that I would climb to any height in order to make myself more worthy of you. Come, what do you say now?"

"That I will not be detained here a second longer against my will. Help!"

The last ejaculation was uttered in a sort of wailing cry, but hardly had it quitted her lips when there was a flash of scarlet and gold between her and the Egyptian, whose wrist was grasped in turn with a force that made his hand fly open.

"Nellie, what is the meaning of this? Tell me in order that I may know what to do."

"The pasha terrified me with something that he was relating; that is all."

Frank Donelly, for it was he, perceived that his affianced wife dreaded a scene (that bugbear to all educated women), and he himself had no wish that her name should be made the subject of idle gossip and censorious scandal.

He therefore released the war minister's wrist from his vice-like grip and said with a bow:

"This lady is my affianced wife, and consequently I am her most fitting companion and protector. You will find the palace in that direction."

As he concluded he raised his hand to the gold-laced rim of his cap, in a half ironical salute and leavetaking, but in so doing he was quite unprepared for what directly thereon ensued, for, with a cry almost like that of a hyena, Arabi Pasha darted forward, seized his hand in its descent, wrenched it around until the opal ring that set there on shot forth its many tinted rays of seeming blood and flame, and then dropping it as suddenly as he had laid hold of it, he turned sharp around with a scornful, abrupt laugh, and sallied away, muttering to himself as he went: "A double debt, and by Allah they shall both be paid, and that to the uttermost para!"

CHAPTER V.

THE BARRED WINDOW—THE SUMMONS OF THE LOTUS FLOWER.

Not until the tall, stalwart form of the war minister had grown dim in the distance did Frank Donelly find his tongue, and then the first use that he made of it was to demand from Nellie what the Egyptian had said or done to frighten her so.

"He only made love to me in a warm, impulsive manner that was as novel as unwelcome. Not that he intended the least rudeness, I'm sure of that."

"I'm glad that you are, or else it would have been my painful duty to wring his neck, Pasha of Three Tails and war minister though he is. At all events, Nell, his conduct has taught you not to waste your admiration upon such fellows."

"I am by no means sure that I do not admire him as much as I did before. We must not judge all people by our own standard of what is etiquette and what not. He asked me to be his wife, that was all, and vowed that I should be his last, though I could not be his first. Then, when I wanted to get away, he detained me gently in order that I should hear him to the end, whereat I grew alarmed and cried 'Help!' and you know the rest."

"The fact is, Nellie, I had been following you about for a long while, though of course at a distance, and I was glad of almost any excuse to relieve him of your custody, that I can assure you. Well, if I was not over and above courteous to him he gave me a regular tit for tat, and so we are quits. I wonder what raised his ire in my opal ring?"

"I can't think, but it terrifies me nevertheless, Frank. I positively hate that ring. I shuddered the first time that I ever looked upon it and beheld the red, demon-like fire that was imprisoned in its heart. I wish it was at the bottom of the Nile."

"Agree to marry me without waiting for your parents' consent, which I know full well that we shall never obtain, and in it goes at once, Nellie. Though between you and I, I shouldn't wonder if it was of very great value, I shouldn't, indeed."

"If its value was almost fabul... and should yet wish the Nile to have it."

"Well, then, only agree to ... of both my as I said before the Nile get do it?"

"Oh, Frank, I am th... will take you to parents' hearts, so ...tly they have learned

"Easily, beggar axiom that what can't their hearts ... be endured."

... to realize give me time to think. Oh, do be ... a little while to think."

I never could refuse you anything, dar... ... so take what you ask; but I shall wear this opal until you have decided in my favor and then away it goes at once."

"Then I hate it so much that I will only sleep over the matter ... and give you a decisive answer on the morrow. And now, Frank, you shall take me over and around this scene of fairyland, and show me everything, for my ... is so flushed and I'm too agitated altogether to subject myself yet awhile to mamma's ... guard in the Hall of Mirrors."

"Come, ... my darling," the young dragoon whispered in her ear. "You have set me a task that I shall never tire of, yet, nevertheless let us start at once."

They sauntered though the grounds for some little while admiring everything that they saw, and then the appearance of a fountain more beautiful than any that they had yet beheld attracted them near unto a wing of the palace that was strange to them both.

After admiring, therefore, the bright amber hue of the fountain's ..., they examined its architectural features somewhat closely, and presently Nellie exclaimed:

"How lovely, yet how quiet it is here. ... clare that delicate fretwork of stone is ... st like lace, but how small the windows ... They seem to be closely barred as well. ...'t be a prison, for it is too beautiful ... t, and yet I seem to see people ... t us from the gloom of the interior ... them clearly, dear. That ... white against the dark background ... and arms, so they must be ... btless the harem."

... glist... is ba... dies. ...ures, they remind me of caged

"Poo... ...inful it must be for them to birds. ... free as air, and able to go see girls ... Oh, it is a cruel and inhu- wherever I ... of such prison houses, man creed th... they are nothing else. for in sober ... as I cannot give them Come away, Fr... no longer to tantalize ... liberty, I will sta... cle of my own freedom ... lize them with th... dom."

"Just as you like, ... good, right feeling Nell. They can see us very plainly as we stand here in the full glare of the illumined fountain, though they look to us like shadows."

"Shadows possessed of sad enough hearts, doubtless. Oh, gracious, here's mamma."

It was Mrs. Trezarr without a doubt, and Mrs. Trezarr in anything but an amiable disposition as well.

"Eleanor!" she exclaimed, "I have been looking for you everywhere. It is very wrong of you to wander away from me in this way, very wrong, indeed."

"Pray, Mrs. Trezarr, allow me to bear the blame, for I am the only guilty party," said Frank.

The stately and offended dame bowed stiffly to the young officer, as though she quite acquiesced in what he had said, but vouchsafed him no answer in words, and then she tucked Nellie's milk white arm within her own and walked her off, a most unwilling yet at the same time unresisting captive, leaving the discomfited dragoon standing alone and looking somewhat ridiculous; at all events, he thought so.

"I wish Nell had a little more spirit, and I do trust that a merciful Providence will never allow her to grow like her mother," muttered Frank to himself in a dudgeon; and then some strange and unaccountable fascination drew him back to the amber-hued fountain, and resting himself on the carved stone balustrade that surrounded it he pulled out his cigar case and fusee box and began to smoke as though for a wager.

He had not been engaged thus for more than five minutes, thinking just as hard and viciously as he puffed, when he felt his sleeve twitched, and, looking round, beheld a hideous, unveiled old woman dressed entirely in yellow, and with her poor, wrinkled face chalked and painted almost after the manner of a circus clown.

"Who in the name of wonder are you and what do you want with me?" snapped Frank.

"I am Elman the Buffoon," was the answer, spoken in almost as execrable Egyptian as his own.

"I can quite believe it; but you have only replied to half my question. What want you?"

"I want nothing, Effendi; I am but a poor old slave. But I am the messenger of one who is brighter than the stars and fairer than the moon in the heavens, and she sends thee this and bids me tell thee to remember the summons of the lotus flower."

And with these words the strange looking old woman produced from within the voluminous folds of her bright yellow satin attire, which glittered all over with spangles, one of the long lotus flowers of the Nile and held it toward him.

The perfume was sweet yet faint, and Frank Donelly took it from the old woman's hand and resolved to obey the mysterious summons.

At any other time he would assuredly not have done so, but the little cross that he had just experienced and the unpleasantness which had preceded it had stirred up his hot Irish blood and made him as ripe for peril, mischief or any species of adventure as even an Irishman well could be.

He rose to his feet, therefore, and motioned to the female buffoon to lead the way, which she did, but, first of all, into an adjacent orange grove, where, taking down from one of the trees a bundle, she shook it out into a long, flowing robe, and signified to the young dragoon that he should put it on.

He did not hesitate for a moment, but dropping it over his head, the next moment discovered that it was a garb which se... to combine the office of several in ... covered him entirely up from ... yashmack, his head to the soles of his f... integral por... or face mask, even for... the usual eyelet holes for lookin... tion thereof, furnish... rough. ... said the old buffoon, en...

"Do no... Be silent and discreet and courag... no danger to either of us, for the... ...medan dare raise a yashmack to ...hom it covers," and as she made this comforting explanation, the withered grotesque chuckled as though she had given utterance to an excellent joke.

She then glided on afresh, with a strange kind of dancing step, ever and anon glancing back over her shoulder as though to make sure that she was still followed, and she did not fail to bestow on the dragoon nods and grimaces of encouragement every time she perceived that he was close at her heels.

In this strange and grotesque manner the palace was presently reached, and approaching a little low vaulted door that seemed to be painted in a hundred different colors and emblazoned all over with texts from El Koran, she drew a key from out her sleeve, opened the little door therewith, and entered in thereat, still closely followed by Frank Donelly, who felt sure now that, either for good or for ill, he had entered ... where it would be death for him to be discovered, the harem of the Khedive.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

STRANGE BUT TRUE.

Three clergymen ... on an average ... pay for ... to see Maud S.

Old Sport, the horse that Gen. Grant ... at Vicksburg, was sold last year for ... by order of the Quartermaster, and ... joined a circus.

The Adin (Cal.) Argus says: ... which was hitched in front of ... that city gave himself ... that he discharged a pistol ... carelessly left in one of his ... shot killed a dog ... time.

No less than 4,000 ... put to death that their ... beautify the gorgeous ... London belles. In ... fair 500 canary birds ... other day, that ... the other ...

... John Brig... the great ... his pocket, ... of water ... ed off his ... key ... fire ... been ... an All deem best to suppress the habit, prevalent among men, of eating with knives when forks should be used. The deceased says that he has always felt the disadvantages of early training in that respect. He was in the habit of reproving everybody at hotels or elsewhere whom he saw eating with their knives, and was a monomaniac on the subject.

The famous feet of a Sandusky, Ohio, girl are again protruding into public notice, owing to the fact that a New York shoemaker has been building a pair of No. 29 dress shoes for them. They are nineteen inches long and seven and a half inches wide. The heels are four inches long and five and a half inches in width. Three goat skins and four chamois skins were used up in making these shoes, which cost $45. The father of the young lady is a well-to-do farmer. It is said he has offered $5,000 and a farm to the man who will become his son-in-law. Several Sandusky beaux have gone into training and nightly sleep with bars of railroad iron or cakes of ice planted against their backs.

Plain Talk From a Clergyman.

The Rev. Dr. Mark Trafton, the venerable and widely-known Methodist clergyman, made a sensation at a late conference of Methodist ministers, by denouncing the modern church service, and by defending the non-church-going masses.

"I confess," he said, "I don't like to go to church. I am sorry to say it. When I was a boy I was glad when they said:

"'Let us go into the house of the Lord.'

"I enjoyed the preaching, the singing, and the praying."

A Voice.—"You were very pious in those days."

"Yes. Well its no wonder I've backslidden with such associates. [Laughter.] Let me start out, now, to go to church and worship God. At home we have had our private devotion. We come to the church door, (I am saying what took place exactly,) and we see plenty of seats vacant. We ask one of the young snipper-snappers, with a rosette in his button-hole, for a seat. He says:

"'You wait awhile and I'll see.'

"By and by, when the bell stops tolling, the man says:

"'You can find a seat in the gallery.'"

A Voice.—"What church was that?"

"A Christian church. In the gallery you see four young people talking and laughing. Suddenly the organ starts, and then as suddenly the four grow solemn, jump up, and begin to squall. You can't understand a word they say. They sing a hymn you never heard before, and never want to hear again. You can't sing with them. Call that singing God's praise? It's not only folly, but it's blasphemy. You've no business to introduce such trash as that, and call it devotion. Then the prayer! In the old times the minister used to pray, to supplicate, to implore, just as if he expected something would come, and something did come. Now this brother who prayed ... livered a homily, an address to the pe... strained effort. It wasn't prayi... fess it didn't touch me at al... ...pt saying to myself:

"'Oh, nonsense! ... ...icks!'

"I say this oug... ...be. We ought not to go awa... ...ed."

There w... more in the same strain, and th... ministers decided to consider th... at length two weeks later.

A Queer Type of Man.

The Kubus, who inhabit a portion of the Island of Sumatra, are a peculiar type of beings, gravitating between the ... and the animal. Their special peculiarity is shyness. They are too shy to ... with the other races of the island ... dwell in the recesses of the ... They are looked on as inferior ... Malays, and thought to be ... than beasts. Such is their ... they will never willingly ... Their trade with the Mal... frequently carried on in a ... The trader announces his ... ing a gong, and then ... place of rendezvous. The ... put their forest wares ... beat a gong and ... turns and lays his ... quantities suffice ... purchase of the ... tobacco, and ... thrift ... and consider ... more, without ... going back ... to an ... dependence ... in their ... that ... not ... slave for an ... th... ler not ... n for re...

[illegible] ... Complaint, ... guarantee on ... Vitalizer. It ... Sold by A. x

... most interesting little ... ever been issued from ... Canada is just out, under ... Two Months in the Camp ... being narratives of the ... of Mrs. Gowanlock and ... Delaney, written by themselves. ... Intense anxiety was felt through... the country about the fate of these ... ladies while captive with Big Bear, and so many different statements ... their treatment were given afterward, that the public will now be glad to have an authentic narrative from themselves. Besides the narratives of their captivity, the book contains brief sketches of their lives. It is a neat little volume, from the office of the Parkdale Times, and will no doubt have a large sale.

... ed, ... will ... Grey ... concert ... Hall on ... at which ... local talent ... effort. The ... in attendance. ... determined to ... entertainment in itself ... patronage of the public; ... of this, the object ... meet with the practical ... community. Mr. H. ... one of the lost on the ill-fated ... Algoma, leaves a wife and ... of small children, in straitened circumstances, and the proceeds ... concert is to be appplied for their ... benefit. Tickets will be sold by ... various persons, so that those who cannot attend the concert may assist just the same by purchasing a ticket for 25 cents.

ANNIVERSARY.—The Methodist S. S. Anniversary on Thursday was very well attended notwithstanding the bad roads and dark wet night. Refreshments were served in the Orange Hall after which all repaired to the Church where the literary part of the entertainment was gone through. The school did their part exceedingly well in singing, dialogues, recitations and readings. The report read by the secretary, J. R. Mathews, showed the school to be in a healthy and prosperous state. Rev. Mr. Casson occupied the chair while Revs. W. Ayers of Flesherton, Wilson and Grandy, and Dr. Sproule, M. P., of Markdale, delivered appropriate addresses short and to the point; and, a fact worthy of special mention, is that the program commenced fifteen minutes ahead of time, which was a great improvement on the usual behind time custom in this place.

PLEURISY AND LUNG FEVER.

Inflammation of the Lungs, or the pleura covering them, is the result of sudden colds. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam relieves the sore chest, loosens and cures the cough and difficult breathing, and allays all irritation arising from colds.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column.... ..	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column........	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space......	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,

(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—[illegible] Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,

Fashionable Tailor,

OVER MCFARLAND'S STORE.

PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

[illegible]

Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work. Estimates given. All work guaranteed. Orders by mail promptly attended to. MARKDALE P. [illegible]

MANSION HOUSE,

MARKDALE.

Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

J. E. Marsh, Prop.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL,

[illegible] Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder well supplied, with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler.

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.

EUGENIA HOTEL,

EUGENIA FALLS

A. McAleer, Prop.

[illegible]

WM. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON

CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,

TAILOR,

Sydenham Street.

MARKDALE.

MARKDALE

HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Also agent for the celebrated

CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bill Stuff on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

[illegible]

J. T. QUINN,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

PUMPS,

Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.

Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's

PATENT LOAD LIFTER

For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended.
219

ROBT. ASKIN,

UNDERTAKER,

MARKDALE,

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—

PICTURE FRAMING

Done on short notice.

ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,

Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

Monthly Fairs.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Markdale—Saturday before Orangeville.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Holland Centre—Saturday before Chatsworth.

Priceville—Monday before Durham,

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
	40	13
62	39	14
61	38	14
60	37	15
59	36	16
58	35	17
57	34	18
56	32	19
55	31	20
54	30	20
53	28	20
52	26	20
51	25	20
50

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale ot exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

J. W. FORD.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS,	DIZZINESS,
DYSPEPSIA,	DROPSY,
INDIGESTION,	FLUTTERING OF THE HEART,
JAUNDICE.
ERYSIPELAS,	ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH,
SALT RHEUM,
HEARTBURN,	DRYNESS
HEADACHE,	OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND

MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,

MANUFACTURER OF

MARBLE AND GRANITE

MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,

Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED

3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

H. B. HARRISON.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. L.

OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave......	7 20am	4 50pm
Cardwell Junction.......	9 07 "	6 30 "
Orange- Arrive.........	9 50 "	7 03 "
ville. Leave.........	10 05 "	7 08 "
Orangeville Jun........	10 17 "	7 22 "
Shelburne.............	10 45 "	7 34 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 04 "
Flesherton............	11 36 "	8 30 "
Markdale..............	11 51 "	8 55
Berkeley..............	12 03pm	9 10
Williamsford	12 12 "	9 23 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 32 "
Owen Sound...........	1 00 "	9 49 "
		10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound...........	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth...........	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford.........	6 05 "	3 30 "
Berkeley	6 14 "	3 40 "
Markdale.............	6 27 "	3 52 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun......	8 00 "	5 23 "
Orange Arrive........	8 12 "	5 35 "
ville. Leave.........	8 35 "	5 55 "
Cardwell Junction....	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto....Arrive....	10 45 "	8 35 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North-West.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for November, 15th at 7 p. m.; 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th, 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th, 10:30 and 7, 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from 8 to 9. Rev. Wesley Cassen. Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in their Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

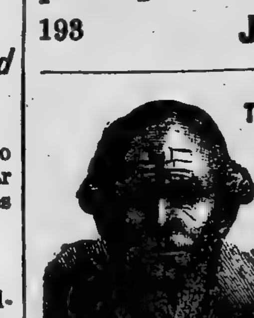
Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blakely, Secretary.

NEW GROCERY STORE

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed Store.



Having just received a

Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF

Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,

Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.
198 J. PLEWES.

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a deranged liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.

500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Receipt Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. [illegible]

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

[illegible] & CO., Sole Agents, [illegible]

Ma[illegible]

VOL. 6.--No. 271.

Everybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

American Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,

SPECTACLES,

Musical Instruments and Strings.

☞ Warrants honestly kept on goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

SMALLPOX is diminishing in Montreal.

DURHAM is likely to have a roller rink.

MR. JOHN MCINTYRE is home on a visit.

EXPRESS rates have gone up nearly a half.

SHOT gun for sale, apply to Smith the barber.

MEAFORD literary society is in readiness for winter.

COLLINGWOOD is to have a general and marine hospital.

THE Dominion Parliament will meet on the 21st January.

MRS. T. HILL of Forgo, Dak., is visiting friends in Markdale.

RIEL'S execution took place on Monday morning, 16th, at Regina.

RED SQUIRRELS, chipmonks and such got a terrible chase thanksgiving day.

THE stables belonging to Lemon's hotel, Owen Sound, were burned last week.

MR. W. A. FERGUSON has been re-engaged as head teacher in Chatsworth.

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP will remove all kinds of Worms from children or adults.

MASTER J. M. REYNOLDS of Muskoka paid his parents in Markdale a visit this week.

ABOUT eight inches of snow fell on Saturday night last which has since disappeared.

OVERSHOES and Rubbers in great variety at McLeod's, and cheaper than any place else in town.

THERE are strong indications of winter, and we may look for reports of many a (fowl) murder.

For Bedroom Suits, Sideboards, Cupboards, Lounges and Cradles, go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

THOSE nobby Mantles, Bonnets and Hats you see on the street are turned out by McFarland's Milliner.

JAS. HANNA, constable of Dundalk, has been appointed stipendiary constable for the county of Dufferin.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS are safe in all cases. They destroy and remove Worms in children or adults.

BLANK NOTES put up in books of 20, 25 and 50, suitable for auctioneers and farmers, at the STANDARD office.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

FORTY t[illegible] venator [illegible] its own [illegible] barber.

800,000 [illegible] ling's mil[illegible] Weber. [illegible] presented [illegible]

TEACHE[illegible] No. 6, H[illegible] Wm. J[illegible] Markdale[illegible]

FIRE.—[illegible] Johnston, [illegible] burned [illegible] Nothing [illegible]

J. R. T[illegible] cheaper f[illegible] other me[illegible] don't you[illegible]

MR. C[illegible] No. 3, Gl[illegible] Hotel. M[illegible] ber to rec[illegible]

PROF. L[illegible] Healing, [illegible] eruptive [illegible] lightful f[illegible]

AFTER [illegible] by-law w[illegible] peal the [illegible] Brunswic[illegible]

NATION[illegible] a safe, m[illegible] acting [illegible] promptly[illegible]

JUDGE [illegible] ment se[illegible] tentiary, [illegible] Assizes la[illegible]

HASKET[illegible] fine plate[illegible] three sho[illegible] being 7 f[illegible]

THE E[illegible] will give a[illegible] Hotel o[illegible] a large a[illegible]

TWO Y[illegible] for sale, [illegible] R. Freeb[illegible] ford. A[illegible]

MUNIC[illegible] keeping [illegible] the prese[illegible] from the[illegible]

A CAR[illegible] shipped [illegible] and McF[illegible] dressed [illegible]

THE [illegible] Presbyte[illegible] day was [illegible] Wilson a[illegible] addresse[illegible]

JUST A[illegible] store B[illegible] sizes, th[illegible] to be ha[illegible] people s[illegible]

THE A[illegible] intention[illegible] line for [illegible] tainmen[illegible] ing mor[illegible]

AN a[illegible] William[illegible] signatur[illegible] basket, [illegible] which n[illegible]

A GOO[illegible] all-rail [illegible] Northwe[illegible] ger. T[illegible] pectation[illegible]

J. R. [illegible] and che[illegible] Clothing[illegible] Mantles[illegible] shan, th[illegible] in Mark[illegible]

THE [illegible] and the[illegible] machin[illegible] their [illegible] STANDAR[illegible] per yea[illegible]

J. R[illegible] from T[illegible] tending[illegible] secured[illegible] 55c on [illegible] bargain[illegible]

AN PACIFIC R. R.
V SOUND BRANCH.
ME TABLE.
Monday, November 2nd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

TIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Leave	7 20am	4 50pm
ection	9 07 "	6 30 "
rive	9 50 "	7 08 "
ave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
	10 45 "	8 04 "
	11 10 "	8 30
	11 36 "	8 55
	11 51 "	9 10
	12 03pm	9 23 "
	12 12 "	9 32 "
	12 28 "	9 49 "
	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

TIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
	5 20am	2 35pm
	5 50 "	3 10 "
	6 05 "	3 30 "
	6 14 "	3 40 "
	6 27 "	3 52 "
	6 42 "	4 06 "
	7 06 "	4 31 "
	7 31 "	4 57 "
Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
rive	8 12 "	5 35 "
ave	8 35 "	5 55 "
nction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Arrive	10 45 "	8 35 "

teamship Express leaves Owen nesdays, Thursdays and Sundays and Points East, on arrival C. P. p from Port Arthur and Points and North-West.

le Church Directory.

SBYTERIAN CHURCH.
every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m.
ing every Wednesday evening at
Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm.
Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
r November, 15th at 7 p. m.;
nd 7. 29th 7, December 6th,
: 13th 7, 20th, 10:30 and 7,
lev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.
Superintendent.

HODIST CHURCH.
ery Sunday at 10:30 a. m and
nday School at 2:30.
y Thursday evening from 8 to 9.
Casson, Pastor; W. A. Brown,
intendent. Ladies' Aid in con-
rs. T Hill, Secretary.

ciety Directory.

C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every onday evening at 8 o'clock in their ugall's block. Visiting brethren

A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in McDougall's block, every alternate ening at 8 o'clock. A visit from neighboring lodges solicited.

L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their day on or before full moon each os. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blakely,

GROCERY STORE
CONNECTION WITH
Flour and Feed tore.
ing just received a e, Fresh and Select
STOCK OF
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c,
ill be sold VERY CHEAP.
ectfully solicit the public's e.
J. PLEWES.

THE CELEBRATED
Dr. CHASE'S
MANDRAKE AND DANDELION
LIVER CURE
HAVE YOU
plaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness,
Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back
, or any disease arising from a deranged
CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
ified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is plaint rests solely with the fact that it is d from nature's well-known liver regulators,
E AND DANDELION, combined with many luable roots, barks and herbs, having a ffect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and
500,000 SOLD
alf million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book in Canada alone. We want every man, d child who is troubled with Liver Com-
ry this excellent remedy.
OMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure
ble Household Medical Guide and Recip pages), containing over 200 useful recipes
d by medical men and druggists as family worth ten times the price of the medicine.
ASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure and positive
Price, 25 cents.
AE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS 25 cts. per box.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
ANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Kingston

Markdale Standard

VOL. 6.--No. 271. MARKDALE, ONT., NOV. 19, 1885. COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.

Everybody, Attention!

New Goods now in.

American Watches,
Clocks,
Jewellery,
Silverware,

SPECTACLES.

Musical Instruments and Strings.

☞ Warrants honestly kept on goods or work.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES IN THESE COLUMNS INTENDED TO BENEFIT ANY INDIVIDUAL OR SOCIETY WILL BE CHARGED TEN CENTS A LINE FOR THE FIRST INSERTION AND FIVE CENTS A LINE EACH SUBSEQUENT INSERTION.

SMALLPOX is diminishing in Montreal.

DURHAM is likely to have a roller rink.

MR. JOHN MCINTYRE is home on a visit.

EXPRESS rates have gone up nearly a half.

SHOT gun for sale, apply to Smith the barber.

MEAFORD literary society is in readiness for winter.

COLLINGWOOD is to have a general and marine hospital.

THE Dominion Parliament will meet on the 21st January.

MRS. T. HILL of Fargo, Dak., is visiting friends in Markdale.

RIEL'S execution took place on Monday morning, 16th, at Regina.

RED SQUIRRELS, chipmonks and such got a terrible chase thanksgiving day.

THE stables belonging to Lemon's hotel, Owen Sound, were burned last week.

MR. W. A. FERGUSON has been re-engaged as head teacher in Chatsworth.

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP will remove all kinds of Worms from children or adults.

MASTER J. M. REYNOLDS of Muskoka paid his parents in Markdale a visit this week.

ABOUT eight inches of snow fell on Saturday night last which has since disappeared.

OVERSHOES and Rubbers in great variety at McLeod's, and cheaper than any place else in town.

THERE are strong indications of winter, and we may look for reports of many a (fowl) murder.

For Bedroom Suits, Sideboards, Cupboards, Lounges and Cradles, go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

THOSE nobby Mantles, Bonnets and Hats you see on the street are turned out by McFarland's Milliner.

JAS. HANNA, constable of Dundalk, has been appointed stipendiary constable for the county of Dufferin.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS are safe in all cases. They destroy and remove Worms in children or adults.

BLANK NOTES put up in books of 20, 25 and 50, suitable for auctioneers and farmers, at the STANDARD office.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

FORTY thousand packages of Rejuvenator Bitters sold in four years by its own merits. Sold by Smith, the barber.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

TEACHER WANTED, for S. Section No. 6, Holland, for '86. Apply to Wm. Jackson, STANDARD office, Markdale.

FIRE.—The dwelling house of W. S. Johnston, Hill St., Owen Sound, was burned a week ago last Sunday. Nothing saved.

J. R. TRIMBLE will sell you goods cheaper for the ready money than any other merchant in the County, and don't you forget it.

MR. COOK, tax collector for Ward No. 3, Glenelg, will be at the Revere Hotel, Markdale, on the 25th November to receive taxes.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP.—Healing, soothing a cleansing for all eruptive diseases of the skin. Delightful for toilet use.

AFTER being three years in force, a by-law was voted on last week to repeal the Scott Act in St. John, New Brunswick, and defeated.

NATIONAL PILLS are unsurpassed as a safe, mild, yet thorough, purgative, acting upon the biliary organs promptly and effectually.

JUDGE ROSE inflicted a life imprisonment sentence in the Kingston penitentiary, on eight young men at Ottawa Assizes last week for rape.

HASKETT BRO'S have received their fine plate glass safe. The front of three shops will be plate, each light being 7 ft. 10½ in. x 12 feet.

THE East Grey Agricultural Society will give a grand banquet at Munshaw's Hotel on Tuesday evening next. A large attendance is expected.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

MUNICIPAL matters in Glenelg are keeping cool as usual. Mr. Davis, the present reeve, is going to retire from the glories of municipal life.

A CAR load of fine poultry was shipped from Markdale on Monday; and McFarland took in 1,200 lbs. of dressed poultry the following day.

THE union services held in the Presbyterian church on thanksgiving day was well attended. Revs. Grandy, Wilson and Casson each gave suitable addresses.

JUST ARRIVED.—At McLeod's shoe store Boots & Shoes, all styles and sizes, the best value for the money to be had in Markdale, at least so the people say.

THE Advance man has declared his intention of charging ten cents per line for all notices of socials, entertainments, &c., henceforth. It's nothing more than a just act.

AN anonymus communication from Williamsford this week without a signature was consigned to the waste basket, where all such go, and from which none ever returns.

A GOOD business is being don on the all-rail route of the C. P. R. to the Northwest, both in freight and passenger. The traffic far exceeds the expectations of the Company.

J. R. TRIMBLE has the largest, best and cheapest stock of fine Ready-made Clothing, and fine Fur Caps, Fur Mantles in Persian Lamb and Astrachan, that has ever been offered before in Markdale.

THE Globe offers a Yankee watch, and the Mail an American sewing machine to induce the public to read their weekly productions, but the STANDARD is eagerly sought for at $1 per year without a bribe.

J. R. TRIMBLE has just returned from Toronto where he has been attending the great Trade Sales, and has secured over $2,000 worth of goods at 55c on the dollar. Look out for big bargains in a few days.

MANITOBA WHEAT.—A car load of wheat arrived this week per C. P. R. all rail route from John Hanbury, Brandon, for J. W. Ford of Markdale Roller Mills. This is the first over the all rail route to Markdale.

SAVE MONEY.—Parties wishing to secure a loan at a low rate of interest in order to pay one off which bears a high rate should consult us at the STANDARD office. All such business strictly private and confidential.

REJUVENATOR BITTERS assists nature and removes the cause of diseases from the system by keeping the Kidneys, Liver, Stomach and Blood pure and nature's channels free, then you have health. Sold by Smith, the barber.

WE saw a man the other day go down street without a hat, but we would like to see the man that can go barefoot this weather. Go straight to McLeod's for any kind of Boots & Shoes; you cannot but be satisfied with quality and prices.

REMOVAL.—Mrs. Montgomery has leased Mr. Dunlop's shop, next door to the baker shop, where she has a large and well assorted stock of candies, biscuits, &c., from the best manufacturers. Bread and cakes always on hand.

FROM an advertisement in another column it may be seen that the Entrance Examination will be held in Markdale on Dec. the 21st, 22nd, and 23rd. Candidates may obtain blank applications from F. Porter, Head Master, Markdale Public School.

WE assure you that after many years' experience we find nothing that can compare to West's Cough Syrup, in the speedy cure of coughs, colds, consumption, asthma, bronchitis, influenza, and all throat and lung diseases. For sale by A. Turner & Co., Druggists.

WHY does Triumphant Tea continue to hold its triumphant way without opposition in this country? This is due to its sterling excellence, and to the fact that the perfection tea can is the package of all others best qualified to preserve this excellence unsurpassed; only to be had from W. J. McFarland.

GONE TO MARKDALE.—Mr. Donald McLean, of Amaranth, formerly of the Queen's Hotel, Shelburne, has rented a hotel in Markdale, and takes possession this week. Mr. McLean is a good citizen, and we can recommend him to the people of Markdale, as an upright business man.—Shelburne Free Press.

AT the request of a good many, a subscription list has been opened for the benefit of Mrs. Gill. The list will be found with W. L. Young who will be most happy to receive any contributions. The following have very liberally subscribed: W. J. McFarland, $10; Alex. Lyons, $5; Hill Bros., $5; J. R. Trimble, $10.

THE "Trip Hammer," published monthly by the employees of the Massie Manufacturing Company at Toronto, is one of the best edited journals we know of. Its articles are not only deeply interesting, but they are written with more than ordinary ability. Fifteen cents will get it for the next three months.

AN extraordinary story comes from Portland, Maine, to the effect that a young man was buried there about fourteen months ago, but lately his friends raised the coffin and were about to open it when the young man himself walked in. It is thought the body was raised by students, who finding signs of life, kept him till he was cured.—O. S. Times.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY.—The last Steamer of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Line left Owen Sound for Port Arthur, on the 17th instant, for the final trip of the Season. The All Rail Route, however, is open, and travellers can take advantage of a through Canadian Route, thus saving themselves the annoyance of Customs scrutiny and charges, and frequent changing of Cars. The Company runs daily trains by the Canadian All Rail Route.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

LARGE TURNIP.—Mr. Andrew McQuacker of Holland township brought a purple top turnip to Bonnell Bro's store, Walter's Falls, which weighed 30 lbs after being trimmed; it measures 37¾ inches round and is perfectly smooth. The ground was thoroughly howed on the 12th day of July, since which time this turnip made the wonderful growth. It is still on exhibition at the store of Bonnell Bro's.

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Dipthrie, and Canker Mouth. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

THE dude has been analyzed by a scientific man, and these are the ingredients and proportions which make up the fashionable dell: Bicarbonate of cheek, 990,230; essence of gall, 2,500; nitrate of stare, 2,500; tincture of conceit, 3,500; oxalate of cuffs, .270; protoxide of collar, .230; ecetate of tooth pick shoe, .267; sulphide of smirk, .500; chloride of coattail, .002; cyanide of brain, doubtful, .001; total, booby.

WHY WILL YOU cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

HONOR ROLL for S. S. No. 5, Glenelg, for October. 4th Class—Marion McNab, 157; Hugh McNab, 150. 3rd Class—May Robson, 268; Rilla Kennedy, 220; May Edwards, 128. 2nd Class — Maggie Nelson, 217; Willie Jack, 185; John Peart, 177. 1st Class, Sr.—Annie Davis, 167; Adeline Neil, 143; Jennie McArthur, 140. 1st Class, Jr.—Tommie Glencross, 168; Bertie Cook, 147; Anabella Blair, 149. Agnes J. White, teacher.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says; "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

POST OFFICES.—Several of our exchanges contain a notice of what hours their respective village or town post office is kept open on holidays; this is as it should be. Our P. M. would confer a favor on the public if he would do likewise. We will publish such notice free; furthermore, we are inclined to think it is his duty to let the public know in some manner what hours the P. O. will be open. It is not at all pleasant to hang around for an hour on a cold morning in order not to miss the few minutes given for receiving mail matter.

FOR DYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

ONE of the most interesting little books that has ever been issued from the press in Canada is just out, under the title of "Two Months in the Camp of Big Bear," being narratives of the adventures of Mrs. Gowanlock and Mrs. Delaney, written by themselves. Such intense anxiety was felt throughout the country about the fate of these two ladies while captive with Big Bear, and so many different statements of their treatment were given afterward, that the public will now be glad to have an authentic narrative from themselves. Besides the narratives of their captivity, the book contains brief sketches of their lives. It is a neat little volume, from the office of the Parkdale Times, and will no doubt have a large sale.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by indigestion, Consumption, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by A. Turner & Co. x

WE sometimes think and speak of Russia as being only a sort of semi-civilized place. She has more sense, however, than to allow herself to be cursed by grog shops, whose only reason for existence is the retailing of more or less poisonous alcohol, and by her new excise law, which goes into force at the beginning of the year, all such places will be interdicted. The sale of liquor will be allowed only in hotels and restaurants, and licenses for such will have to be obtained by the expenditure of not less than $825. Canada might well take a lesson from the Muscovite bear.

J. R. TRIMBLE can and will sell you a much better Tea for 30c per lb. than you can buy from other merchants from 45c to 50c per lb. J. R. Trimble don't get gulled by Chicago tea pedlars representing themselves to be from San Francisco, the way one of our Markdale merchants did, having to pay him about 15c per lb. more than it was really worth just because it was put up in tin caddies. Oh, but it must be the horrible stuff when this same merchant has to acknowledge to a friend, "Well, I was beat by that Chicago tea pedlar, but don't say anything about it; keep it quiet; don't give it away to the other merchants."

CAVED IN.—Mr. John Collier, of the 2nd Con., Glenelg, has been digging a celler in under his house, and had the house propped up, and everything ready for building a stone foundation. On Saturday morning last the props gave way owing to the very wet weather, and the house tipped over to one side wrenching some of the furniture and damaging the front wall. Although Mrs. Collier and her child were in the house at the time they fortunately escaped with nothing worse than a scare. The house can be re-adjusted, although as it is built of grout it will take a few days' careful work.—Grey Review.

WORTHY OF PATRONAGE.—A concert will be held in Haskett's Hall on Wednesday evening next, at which our deservedly popular local talent will make their best effort. The brass band will also be in attendance. The committee are determined to make the entertainment in itself worthy the patronage of the public; but, independent of this, the object will, we trust, meet with the practical support of the community. Mr. H. Gill being one of the lost on the ill-fated Algoma, leaves a wife and family of small children, in straightened circumstances, and the proceeds of the concert is to be appplied for their benifit. Tickets will be sold by various persons, so that those who cannot attend the concert may assist just the same by purchasing a ticket for 25 cents.

ANNIVERSARY.—The Methodist S. S. Anniversary on Thursday was very well attended notwithstanding the bad roads and dark wet night. Refreshments were served in the Orange Hall after which all repaired to the Church where the literary part of the entertainment was gone through. The school did their part exceedingly well in singing, dialogues, recitations and readings. The report read by the secretary, J. R. Mathews, showed the school to be in a healthy and prosperous state. Rev. Mr. Casson occupied the chair while Revs. W. Ayers of Flesherton, Wilson and Grandy, and Dr. Sproule, M. P., of Markdale, delivered appropriate addresses short and to the point; and, a fact worthy of special mention, is that the program commenced fifteen minutes ahead of time, which was a great improvement on the usual behind time custom in this place.

PLEURISY AND LUNG FEVER.

Inflammation of the Lungs, or the pleura covering them, is the result of sudden colds. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam relieves the sore chest, loosens and cures the cough and difficult breathing, and allays all irritation arising from colds.

HEALTH.

How to Cure Obesity.

In the Fourth Congress of German physicians the first subject discussed was corpulence. Ebstein advanced the opinion that drugs were of little service in reducing the amount of fat, and that an entire change in the regimen—including both change of diet and of the manner of living—was necessary.

Any method which reduced the general nutrition, and thus removed fat, was a failure; the fat alone must be removed. The method must not require the individual to give up his business during treatment, else it would not be generally applicable. The method must be capable of being continued indefinitely without producing unpleasant results, for individuals predisposed to corpulence by heredity or constitution must keep up the diet for a long time.

One method is to cut off all fatty foods. But as carbohydrates may be changed into fat in the body this is not reasonable. The object is rather to prevent the formation of fat in the body. To secure this it is necessary to regulate the proportion of albuminous, starchy, and fatty foods, so that perfect nutrition shall be secured, but no excess of fat produced. The necessary amount of fat for a healthy man is 142 grains per diem.

If this is reduced one-half a part of the amount necessary for nutrition will be taken from the body to compensate for the reduced allowance in the food, and thus the excess of fat may be removed. Under this system the individual does not suffer the distress which is felt by those who are cut off from all fatty food, and the results are more successful and agreeable than those of the Banting system. The amount of carbohydrates is to be reduced so that no surplus above bodily needs shall be taken.

In the Banting system the diet is chiefly nitrogenous, which often causes indigestion. Ebstein gives nitrogenous food, with the reduced allowance of starch and fat in sufficient quantity to keep up the general nutrition and working strength, but not in such amounts as to overload and embarrass the organs which digest proteids. The necessity of muscular exercise of sufficient force to produce free perspiration is insisted upon. This system has met with approval in Germany on account of its success.

Henneberg, in discussing the subject, approached it from a different side, and, by a review of the methods adopted in fattening cattle, sought to deduce the rules necessary to be observed in avoiding the accumulation of fat in man. The general discussion elicited varying views upon the physiology of digestion, but all agreed that the use of medicine for reducing corpulence was to be avoided.

The Danger of Contagion in Throat Troubles.

A medical editor writes: A recent case within our knowledge, in which fatal diphtheria developed upon what had been believed to be a simple quinsey, suggests a few words regarding the duty of isolating any case of sore throat where there are other children in the house. Without entering upon any disputed points regarding diphtheria, it is generally agreed that the distinctive visible sign of it is its peculiar membranous deposit. A case may present clearly the conditions of a "common sore throat," and subsequently diphtheria be unmistakably present. For our purpose is unnecesary to discuss whether such cases are diptheritic from the first or become so. The point for parents to know is that the sequence of dangerous symptoms upon those apparently slight is not uncommon, and that it is better to isolate a child fifty times unnecessarily than to be neglectful once.

NOTES.

Dr. Burck of St. Louis says that asphaltum varnish is the best disinfectant he knows of; it will destroy all germs at once, and no household insects will approach an article of furniture whose interior has been painted with it.

The Lancet thinks that the proposal to free the ring finger of pianists by dividing its connecting bands is ingenious in theory, but would be dangerous practically, owing to the risks attendant, more or less, upon all surgical interferences.

Anti-vaccinationists rest one of their chief arguments on the fact that calves have tubucular consumption—a communicable disease. Late researches by Strauss show that the propertion of tuberculosis in calves does not reach 1 in 100,000.

The Russian traveller Fodtschenko recently discovered in Turkestan a plant which is said to be an excellent specific against cholera and typhus. It is used by the natives of Central Asia against all kinds of maladies, and every effort has been made to keep its properties from the knowledge of the Europeans. The plant which is named Ferula sumbet, has been acclamatized in the Moscow Botanical Garden.

The new idea of inoculation against zymotic diseases amounts almost to a mania among some of the European doctors M. Tayon recently said at the Academie des Sciences that he had inoculated himself and several of his friends with the microbe of typhoid fever, and that all were seized with a mild form of that disease. Further inoculations with a more powerful preparation of the typhoid microbe failed to bring about a repetition of the symptoms.

In the Kharkoo region of Russia quinine is considered of no account for the cure of chills and fever. The Dharkoo doctor catches a mess of live crabs, pours whisky over them until they become hilariously drunk, and then puts them into a hot oven. After being well dried they are pulverized, shells and all, and administered in drachm doses. The local papers say that whether the treatment is scientific or not the patient gets well under it, though quinine has no effect on him.

Dr. Fothergill, a greatly respected English authority on dyspepsia speaks strongly in favor of milk puddings and stewed fruits for the dyspeptic, the bilious and the gouty. He says: "Sugar is undoubtedly objectionable to many, but it is by no means necessary to add sugar to stewed fruit. If the acidity be neutralized by a little bi-carbonate of soda, the natural sweetness of the fruit will be brought out and the dish be made more agreeable than though artificially-made sugar were added."

It was not long ago that the doctors discovered the existence of muscular disease due to the excessive strain of bycicle riding and now they have given the name of tennis elbow to a painful ailment which is sufficiently explained by its title. While playing, intense pain is suddenly felt in the right elbow, the arm drops to the side, and take or service is impossible for periods varying from six weeks to six months. Such cases, it now appears, are very frequent. One sufferer ascribes it to rheumatism, and another found he had fractured a small bone. The former tried rheumatic medicine and the latter poultices and both got well; the majority of the patients find that rest is the best remedy, and, indeed, the only remedy.

A correspondent writes upon a disease which is now too common: "I have become convinced that hay-fever is not the sole product of any one or any half-dozen kinds of flowers, or weeds, or grasses, but results from any well-diffused flower odor or grass or leaf exhalations. . . . . I discovered that in those portions of Europe where the winds were frequently from the south or east, hay-fever was almost as prevalent as in the United States. From this fact I drew the conclusion that the Pacific coast of this continent, from Victoria in British Columbia south to San Diego in California, should be exempt from hay-fever, because throughout the summer season (the hay-fever period of the year) the prevailing—in fact, the constant—winds of the coast are from the Pacific Ocean. . . . This last summer, before the usual hay-fever set in, I corresponded with friends in Oregon and California on the subject, all of whom assured me that such a thing as hay-fever was utterly unknown to that coast."

PERSONAL.

Elisha Vedder, the famous American artist who has lived so long in Rome, will, it is rumored, return home and locate permanently in New York.

Count Von Moltke is in very poor health. He will not live till winter, it is said. Bismarck, who was dangerously ill last summer, is dangerously well again.

The death of Lord Strathnairn reduced the number of British Field Marshals to four: The Duke of Cambridge, the Prince of Wales, Lord Napier of Magdala and Sir P. Grant.

The Marquis of Bute, believed by some to be Disraeli's "Lothair," has just finished, at a cost of $5,000,000, another palace, to be known as Bute Castle, and described as in every way beautiful.

Meissonier is painting the portrait of Mr. Robert Barrett of Baltimore, though when Mrs. Mackay burned his picture of her the little Frenchman said he would have nothing more to do with Americans.

President Eliot of Harvard University was a widower when he heard Grace Osgood sing at a private concert. He fell in love at sight, was introduced next day, engaged the next week, and married the next month.

Kaiser Wilhelm is not only the oldest officer in the German army in point of age, but in point of service as well. His commission as Major General bears date of March 30, 1818, and he joined the army as an ensign March 22, 1807.

The Princess Beatrice and her husband will probably always maintain an incognito when traveling in Europe, as the courts of Berlin and Vienna, certainly, will not recognize Prince Henry as a "Royal Highness," nor grant him any precedence.

The three daughters of Lord Carnarvon will inherit about $200,000 each under the will of their grandmother, Lady Chesterfield, a descendant of the famous Lord who tried to make a priggish snob out of his son through a series of "Letters."

King Christian of Denmark is in his 68th year. He looks, as he is, an austere man of determined will. In family ties and blood he is more German than Scandinavian. He is a Holsteiner, and married a daughter of the Landgrave of Hesse-Cassell.

Caroline Bauer leaves on record her estimate of Wagner as "a conceited, arrogant swaggerer," which may simply mean that he declined to make love to her. Prince Jerome Napoleon she declared to possess "enchanting beauty and amiability, with intelligent, deep blue eyes and a charming melancholy smile."

Mrs. Gladstone is very absent-minded. The last time she went to Windsor Castle her daughter, aware of her peculiarities, had the waist of her dinner dress sewed to the skirt. The first night Mrs. Gladstone went down to dinner Lady Ponsonby, going down after her, cried, "Why, Mrs. Gladstone, what have you on your skirt?" It was the waist trailing on the floor. Mrs. Gladstone, not finding it, had pinned a shawl about her as a low-necked waist. There is a "set" in English society where nothing would have been thought of the lady appearing without the shawl.

A correspondent writes from Hamburg: "The Empress of Germany and Prince Bismarck have been staying here. This place is a very dream of fair women, and the early hours and healthy life have done wonders to many fair faces that two months back one remembers a little worn-looking after the fatigues of a London season. Miss Winslow never looked so lovely as now, nor the celebrated Miss Chamberlain, and there are four fair sister compatriots of theirs, the Misses Walker, who are taking all hearts by storm. Anything so exquisitely and delicately beautiful as these four sisters can only hail from the west."

Cheek in man is not to be admired; but what is nicer than a woman's cheek?

"In Siam, the cats have their tails banged." In this country the entire cat is banged.

Business is steadily getting better, but there are six weary months coming for the husbands whose wives have naturally cold feet.

A small, brazen statue, with feet of lead, representing a lad sitting asleep on an anchor, has been dug up on the Island of Cyprus. This proves that the telegraph was known to the ancients, else why should they have telegraph messengers?

"Oh," gasped fat Mrs. Weighty, as she ascended the second flight of stairs in her new residence, "I really cannot run up any more stairs." "Of course not," testily answered her husband: "but if the stairs were made of dressmakers' bills, you could run them up very easily."

YOUNG FOLKS.

Charity Triumphant.

One moment stood she silently in doubt,
Her treasure grasping tightly in her hand,
First looking at the tempting things spread out—
Red apples, cakes, and candies—on the stand,
Then where the blind man, old and worn and gray,
Sat patiently, his good dog by his side,
Begging from all who chanced to pass that way
From early morning until even-tide:
One moment, then the poor child gave her all
To him who begged with piteous sightless eyes.
Only a penny 'twas; but though so small,
Her gift as gold will count beyond the skies.

A VERY STRANGE BOY.

BY DAVID KER.

"And if I had not rushed in and dragged the boy away from him, I do believe he'd have killed the poor little fellow."

"Ha! ha! ha!"

We all looked round in amazement, for Charlie Thornton, of the——th Bengal Native Infantry, the pleasantest and most kind-hearted young fellow among all the eighty-three saloon passengers on our homeward-bound steamer from India, was the very last man any one would have expected to be amused at the idea of a child being beaten and ill-used.

"I beg your pardon, really," said the young lieutenant, still quivering with suppressed merriment, "but it always makes me laugh when I hear of a boy being hurt or ill-treated."

"Then, sir," growled a hard-faced old Commissioner beside him, "all I can say is that you aught to be ashamed of yourself."

"Don't be to hard on Charlie, Mr. Currie," put in Major McNab, of the Seventy-eighth Highlanders. "I'll be bound there's some good joke behind it all, or he'd never talk like that. Come, Charlie my boy, let's have the story; it's sure to be a good one."

And Lieutenant Thornton began as follows:

"About two years ago I was down at Bombay on leave from Jhansi, just at the beginning of the hot season. I put up at Watson's Hotel, as usual; and before I had been there half an hour I met three old friends of mine, just out from England, whom I hadn't seen for five or six years.

"We had plenty to talk about, as you may think; and so we managed to sit together at dinner. After dinner we went out on to the veranda to have our coffee; and I was just in the middle of telling them about the fun I'd had among the tigers up in the Terai the year before, when all at once a great halloo from below made us look down, and there we saw a sight that put everything out of our heads at once.

"You know that enormous square in front of the hotel, with the tall clock tower on the other side of it? Well, about midway across it, seemingly coming straight toward the hotel, was a man, carrying a small boy in his arms, and shouting at him very savagely every now and then. They were soon near enough for us to see them quite plainly; and certainly they did look the two most extraordinary hobgoblins that I ever set eyes on.

"The man was an immensely tall fellow, and as thin as a lightning-rod; and although it was now, as I've said, the beginning of the hot season, he wore a long dark gray coat and high black hat, which made him look taller still. But if his dress wasn't very gay, the boy was grand enough for both, for he seemed to have got all the colors of the rainbow. He had a sky-blue cap, an apple-green jacket, red pantaloons, white stockings, and a bright yellow sash round his waist.

"It takes something to gather a crowd in Bombay, where swarms of figures as queer as any in a circus are going about the streets all day long; but two such objects as this man and this boy couldn't be overlooked even there. Half a dozen young English soldiers, who were strolling through the town, began first to stare at them, and then to go after them. Then some other people turned and followed too, till at last the pair found themselves heading quite a procession. But the man seemed to take no notice, and and kept straight on, with the child in his arms, giving him a shake and a rough word every now and then, while the boy kept screeching out,

"'Oh, papa, please don't hit me any more!'

"'I say, this won't do, you know,' said big Dick Netherby, of the ——th Dragoons, who was sitting beside me.

'If the fellow bullies that poor little chap any more, I'll go down and warm his hide in a way he'll remember.'

"By this time the man had come close underneath the veranda, and put the child roughly down on the pavement, saying to him:

"'Now, you lazy young whelp, just walk on your own feet a bit. I'm not going to carry a great heavy thing like you all the way home.'

"'Oh, papa, do carry me a little farther; remember that I'm lame!'

"'Lame! yes, trust you for being lame when you're told do anything. If you don't walk on this minute, when I tell you, I'll lame you in earnest.'

"'Leave that boy alone, you coward!' roared Dick Netherby, leaning over the balustrade of the veranda, 'or I'll break every bone in your skin.'

"'But the man took no notice of him, and as the boy didn't go on, his father gave him a slap on the side of the head that fairly knocked him down. Dick turned quite purple with rage, and would have jumped right down into the street, and perhaps have broken his leg, if we hadn't held him. But just then there came a frightful scream of pain from below, and we all rushed down-stairs and out of the door like so many madmen, to see what had happened.

"All round the door there was such a crowd gathered that it quite blocked up the front of the hotel, and they seemed to be all shouting at once:

"'Murder! Call a policeman. There's one over yonder.'

"'Hold him tight, or he'll be trying to sneak off.'

"'What a villain, to stab his own child!'

"There, sure enough, lay the boy seemingly dead, and over him stood the father with a knife in his hand, which two soldiers were just taking from him.

"'Is the poor little fellow really dead?' asked Netherby, stooping tenderly over the fallen child. Hollo! what sort of boy is this? Why, he seems all ribs and paper, like a Japanese umbrella.'

"'Well, I guess that ain't wonderful, seein' he's made of whalebone and pasteboard,' said the supposed murderer, coolly. 'Say, Britisher, don't you know a live boy from an image yet?'

"'An image!' echoed Dick, staring, while the crowd burst into a roar of laughter.

"'That's so,' said the Yankee, tapping the seeming boy with his knuckles. 'Fact is, I'm a ventriloquist, and all that boy's hollerin' was just my voice talkin' through that image. Here's my card' (scattering among the crowd, as he spoke, a shower of cards engraved with 'Silas J. Polyvox, Professor of Ventriloquism') 'and if any of you folks care to come to my performance at the Town-hall to-morrow evening, I'll fix you up a deal better show than this one.'

"'And Professor Polyvox kept his word on the following evening before a crowd such as the Town-hall had not seen since it was built."

A Testimonial.

Referring to an extended notice of TRUTH's new Bible competition in another column, notwithstanding the fact that the publisher of TRUTH has given as prizes in competition a dozen at least of first-class pianos, and twice that number of organs and sewing machines, and hundreds of first-class watches, and the names of recipients, with their addresses, have been published, there are those who are yet bold to assert that no such prizes are paid. Such assertions are slanders, and the publisher would be justified in prosecuting some of the parties for slander,—for unjustly and wrongfully injuring his reputation and his business. The names of the winners have all been published in TRUTH columns, and any of the parties may be written to in regard to what they have actually received.

The following letter has been sent by a well-known and respected Presbyterian minister, whose son was a successful competitor last year:—

The Manse, Markham To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

The piano won by my son Benson, in TRUTH Bible Competition No 6, came to us about a year ago, and was acknowledged at the time. After a year's service I am able to say that it proves in every respect a superior instrument. A "tuner," a Toronto gentleman, says its tone and finish are complete. A larger number of people during the year, have called at the manse and examined and tried it, and are suprised at its excellence. It is just as advertised.

I am convinced that the publisher of TRUTH Mr. Wilson, has too much at stake to depart in any measure from his offers, which are both numerous and liberal.—F. SMITH Pastor, St. Andrews.

Imperial Cough Drops will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto.

The beautiful composition known as parian is said to consist of a mixture of plaster of Paris and borax.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. Cox & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a LIST of the heirs to this enormous wealth. Reader, send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entitled to any money or property, claim your own. Cox & Co. will show you the way.

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS, morphine and kindred habits. Book of treatise sent free. The remedy can be given in tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the person taking it. If no cure, no pay. Send two 3c. stamps for full particulars and testimonials of those who have been cured. Address M. V. Luban, Agency, [illegible] Ellington street east, Toronto, Ont.

Braid flounces and fronts are shown. They are made of skirt width braid woven in octagonal meshes, and when made [illegible] colors are very showy.

The "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is [illegible] deened with the usual costs which [illegible] price of most articles to the consumer the firm employs no travellers who [illegible] their orders come to them instead of being sought by them. The merchant does not require to keep a large stock on hand, thus selling its price with interest, for the purchaser an immediate source of supply to him at the cost of a postal card or at most a few cents. He loses nothing, therefore, from having it stocked. The article is a staple one, of which there is as constant a demand as for wheat or flour, and the merchant can therefore sell it at a minimum rate of profit.

DRAIN TILE—FIRST-CLASS. [illegible] CUCKOW, Freeman, P. O., Ont.

YOUR NAME, ADDRESS, AND [illegible] mailed Bengough's Shorthand and Institute Toronto, will bring copy of Shorthander, best journal in America. Send for Calendar.

A BIG OFFER To [illegible] Self-Operating Washing Machine. [illegible] will GIVE A one send us your name, P. O. and [illegible] at once. THE NATIONAL CO., [illegible]

MACHINERY FOR SALE—[illegible] Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills, [illegible] tory and Outfits, Stave and Heading [illegible] wheels, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for [illegible] catalogue and mention what you want. (Mention this paper.) S. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

JAMES PARK & [illegible]
Pork Packers, Toronto

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, [illegible] Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, Beef, Breast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, [illegible] Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family Pork, [illegible] Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brand of Irish Fine Dairy Salt in Stock

FOR PLEASANT SLEIGHING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton

Warranted FULL Length, and to run smoothly on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry-Goods Dealers.

GREAT BARGAIN.—VALUABLE FARM [illegible] Brick Mansion for sale, on the bank of the River Lawrence, one mile above Prescott, opposite the town of Ogdensburg, N. Y., 110 acres in all, [illegible] acres good plough land, twenty-five acres maple land, sugar bush of one thousand trees, [illegible] pasture, soil, clay loom, well fenced and [illegible] mansion built six years ago under [illegible] celebrated American Architect, modern improvements, Boat House and Wharf, Carriage House, Barns, all new. Orchard of three hundred [illegible] all bearing; will sell mansion, outbuildings, [illegible] or twenty acres separate; one of the most desirable locations on the St. Lawrence; very cheap and easy. JAMES QUINN, Prescott, Ont.

Allan Line Royal mail steamers

Sailing during winter from Portland every [illegible] and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during summer to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freights, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; Canard & Co, Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Allan, York; H. Boucher, Toronto; Allans, Rae, Quebec; Wm. Crockie, Philadelphia; Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

A QUICK RUN

"Ladies' Journal" Bible Competition.

NO. 11.

The Publisher of the Ladies' Journal announces the eleventh Bible Competition with a great deal of satisfaction and pleasure. The complimentary letters he is receiving almost constantly from subscribers, who have won prizes, are so numerous that he could be kept busy night and day reading them. He gives everything just as promised and carries out every engagement to the letter.

THE BIBLE QUESTIONS.

1st. Give first mention of the word SALT in the Bible.

2nd. Give first mention of the word ONIONS in the Bible.

The first person correctly answering these BIBLE QUESTIONS and sending a half-a-dollar for one year's subscription to the Ladies' Journal, a large 20-page story and fashion monthly, will receive number one of the FIRST REWARDS named below; the sender of the second correct answer, number two; and so on till all the rewards are distributed.

1. One Fine Grand Square Rosewood Piano, by a celebrated maker.
2. and 3. Two Fine Heavy Silver-Plated Tea Services
4, 5 and 6. Three celebrated Wanzer Sewing Machines.
7 to 10. Fourteen Fine Solid Gold Gem Rings, size to fit the winners.
21 to 47. Twenty-Seven Solid Gold Rings of 10 beautiful patterns.
48 to 127. Eighty Fine Rolled Gold Brooches, elegant new designs.
128 to 329. Two Hundred and Two Copies of "Ladies' Guide to Fancy Work;" a most useful book for ladies.

Then, so all may have an equal chance, there has been arranged a series of Middle Rewards, number [illegible] which will be given to the sender of the middle correct answer of the whole Competition from first act. The sender of the next correct answer following the middle one will get number two of these middle rewards; the third number, three; and so on, [illegible] whole ninety rewards are given away.

THE MIDDLE REWARDS.

1. One 10-stop Fine-Toned Cabinet Organ.
2. Lady's Fine Gold Watch.
3 to 7. Five Fine Solid Silver-Plated [illegible] Baskets.
8 to 20. Thirteen Solid Gold Rings, [illegible] designs.
21 to 40. Twenty Rolled Gold Brooches.
41 to 90. Fifty Fine German Oleographs, suitable to decorate any house.

In order that even the most [illegible] not be left out in the cold, a series of Consolation Rewards have been arranged. [illegible] the sender of the last correct answer received after date of closing (January 31st) will be given number one, (the Gold Watch) of these consolation rewards; the [illegible] the last, number two; the third, number three; and so on till all these consolation rewards are given away.

THE CONSOLATION REWARDS.

1. Lady's Solid Gold Watch, a [illegible] time-keeper.
2 to 9. Eight Extra Quadruple Plated [illegible] Baskets.
10 to 30. Twenty-One Half-Dozen [illegible] Heavy Silver-Plated Tea Spoons.
31 to 57. Twenty-Seven Solid Gold [illegible] Rings.
58 to 121. Sixty-Four Volumes of [illegible] beautifully bound, ordinarily [illegible] $200.

In any case you will get [illegible] your money in the Ladies' Journal for a year. You will not regret this [illegible] Only fifty cents required, and you have opportunity of getting one of these rewards named above. Don't delay. Send up the questions now. It will do you whether you get a prize or not, and you will be pleased with your outlay anyway. Address, Editor Ladies' Journal, Toronto, Canada. Send all letters by mail or express.

EGYPTIAN RO[illegible]

[illegible] of Love and Wild Adventure, founded up[illegible] tions in the Career of Arabi Pas[illegible]

[illegible] of "NIHA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPIDER," ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER VI.

[illegible] FAINT MURMUR OF THE COMING STORM.

[illegible] several long and dimly lighted [illegible] that were glazed and ceiled with [illegible] chanam, each having a door whose [illegible] led to one or other of the keys that [illegible] the girdle of Elman, the buffoon, [illegible] hall was at last reached, and at [illegible] end were massive curtains of [illegible] gold having a heavy bullion fringe, [illegible] were partly looped up, whilst on [illegible] thereof, like a statue of bronze, [illegible] enormous eunuch with a huge flame-[illegible] urban on his head and loose [illegible] hanging [illegible] of the same color draping his form, [illegible] ing his brawny limbs bare, whilst [illegible] he grasped a naked scimitar.

[illegible] ering that he was perfectly unarmed, [illegible] was fully aware that the penalty [illegible] for one of his sex to be found in [illegible] hoe, Frank Donelly did not feel par[illegible] comfortable at sight of these arm[illegible] ns; but had they been from columns [illegible] d not (to all outward seeming) have [illegible] him with greater unconcern and [illegible] ce, and a minute later Elman had [illegible] between them into a beautiful apart[illegible] the other side of the curtains, the [illegible] which were painted with a series of [illegible] landscapes in a kind of distemper, [illegible] ich nothing having life was intro[illegible] to draw such is a deadly sin ac[illegible] to the laws of Mohammed. Thus [illegible] e boats being rowed upon lakes and [illegible] t no one handling the oars, ships [illegible] e sea to all appearance passenger[illegible] rewless, and the interiors of mos[illegible] palaces, but all empty and desert[illegible]

[illegible] the Irish dragoon was looking at [illegible] gs and also at the piles of cushions [illegible] and the flowers that formed the [illegible] ture of this splendid apartment, [illegible] ffoon advanced alone into one that [illegible] d, but had hardly been gone a min[illegible] n she reappeared and beckoned [illegible] follow her.

[illegible] so to find himself a second later in [illegible] t luxuriously fitted up chamber [illegible] most brilliantly lighted, and in the [illegible] of a woman who was reclining on a [illegible] t cushions, in a pose of voluptuous [illegible] nd who, directly that Elman had [illegible] rew aside her veil and smiled upon [illegible]

[illegible] did so the young Irishman recog[illegible] beautiful Egyptian whom he had [illegible] m the crocodile and from drowning [illegible] ing in the Upper Nile.

[illegible] not surprised, for he had guessed [illegible] t known that she was his summon[illegible] was astonished at discovering how [illegible] e lovely a woman looks am'dst lux[illegible] dor, and genial warmth, than when [illegible] oken, wet and exposed to the ele[illegible] ss as they are tempered and soften[illegible] pt, the land of the sun.

[illegible] ss was gorgeously rich. She wore [illegible] vest of crimson velvet, embroider[illegible] r with gold and having buttons of [illegible] ion. It fitted her to perfection [illegible] rd the surprising beauty of her [illegible] ulders and bosom, for her skin was [illegible] an a Spanish girl's, and looked [illegible] fair when the heavy ebon masses [illegible] rl-entwined hair formed its back[illegible] y strayed over it in wanton tresses. [illegible] et her full Turkish trousers were [illegible] atin and also covered with filigree [illegible] , being bauded tightly around her [illegible] vealed the tiniest of feet, that were [illegible] o a pair of crimson velvet heelless [illegible] thickly studded with precious [illegible]

[illegible] n have not forgotten me? You [illegible] e summons of the lotus flower and [illegible] i. Yes, well for ourselves and for [illegible] t you love me."

[illegible] s spoken in the purest French, and [illegible] n not slow in making reply: [illegible] mpossible to help loving the beau[illegible] Allah has created the beautiful in [illegible] t should be loved," and having [illegible] s aloud, he muttered to himself: [illegible] she was an Irish or an English girl [illegible] lined to think her a forward hussy, [illegible] the fashion here for the women to [illegible] e making, I suppose I must sub[illegible] a good grace."

[illegible] ile he thought he had made a [illegible] e answer, but it seemed to be a [illegible] to vague in its nature for the party [illegible] t was addressed.

[illegible] t want you to love everything and [illegible] who is beautiful," she said petu[illegible] she tore a rose to pieces and scat[illegible] crimson petals in a shower on the [illegible] require you to love only me, and [illegible] me who could brook a rival."

[illegible] a nice state of affairs. Frank [illegible] the woman who had made so im[illegible] demand upon his affections, and [illegible] to own to himself that very few [illegible] find the least difficulty in obeying [illegible] he was indeed lovely, with the [illegible] voluptuous loveliness of the East, [illegible] that there was something about [illegible] tive of the beauteous grace of the [illegible] pose—a something to shudder at as [illegible] mire.

[illegible] e," said Frank, bluntly, as this [illegible] ng took possession of him, "to [illegible] you in, as you must well know, [illegible] ; but to be candid with you, I [illegible] er more, aye, one whom I have [illegible] months instead of days."

[illegible] t believe you, for love grows in [illegible] of time to as great a degree as it [illegible] ain. Had you not loved me you [illegible] have risked your life for me. It [illegible] eases that you would not, for life [illegible] s all things, save love alone. [illegible] your most secret feelings towards [illegible] owing also that you would never [illegible] to aspire so high without encour[illegible] have stooped to raise you up, and [illegible] I now bid you to relinquish all [illegible] lesser affections, for your courage [illegible] on have touched me and made me [illegible] thing only."

[illegible] m unworthy, totally unworthy of [illegible] h honor," stammered Frank. "Be[illegible] added, solemnly, "it is written: [illegible] t not covet thy neighbor's wife.'

"I have no wish [illegible] swered the lov[illegible] that showed a do[illegible] and regular as tw[illegible] possible, then, tha[illegible] plete ignorance [illegible] Princess Zeeneh, [illegible] who condescends [illegible] fections, and who [illegible] and hour to fly w[illegible] one and only wife. [illegible] provided the disgr[illegible] us, and I have new[illegible] and other gems th[illegible] yond thy utmost i[illegible] py man, you may [illegible] and thank me. A[illegible]

"Because, your [illegible] I am unworthy of [illegible] do me, and I will [illegible] advantage of yo[illegible] bounded goodness [illegible] disposition. I am [illegible] permitted to kiss [illegible] stand in your pres[illegible] you to allow me t[illegible] was thus doing t[illegible] Frank was thinkin[illegible] mortal man in suc[illegible] I wish I was well [illegible] wanting to get ins[illegible] so on.

"Humility may [illegible] claimed the prince[illegible] last volley of excu[illegible] monotonous prison[illegible] for freedom, the f[illegible] the Feringhee wom[illegible] man I shall never [illegible] young and fair? [illegible] forever hidden [illegible] guarded by hideou[illegible] others more favore[illegible] nature dance bef[illegible] faces and necks [illegible] are the only F[illegible] known, and as yo[illegible] you must love me, [illegible] own country and m[illegible] enjoy life as the C[illegible] man has learned th[illegible] goes through the c[illegible] leaves Port Said w[illegible] should assuredly [illegible] without further lo[illegible] val night like this [illegible] for many hours. [illegible] grasp the happines[illegible]

"Because, your h[illegible] sponded the young [illegible] to sheer desperatio[illegible] only that I am u[illegible] the happiness that [illegible] that I am engaged [illegible] young girl, one of [illegible] than whom I could [illegible] press half so well. [illegible] highness' life at th[illegible] think not of it, for [illegible] as much, I hope, f[illegible]

"You dare tel[illegible] wretch!" exclaimed [illegible] den change of man[illegible] ger awakening wit[illegible] tiful eyes dilated a[illegible] began to rise and f[illegible] her emotions, she [illegible] hiss in her tones:

"She who stands [illegible] ness and my freedo[illegible] with, have I not? [illegible] she held thine hand [illegible] at the opal ring w[illegible] again not half an h[illegible] hued fountain, wit[illegible] dow, which was [illegible] need not answer m[illegible] your eyes have do[illegible] I knew it aforehan[illegible] her liberty that ma[illegible] dom. But do you [illegible] that my beauty, m[illegible] rank cannot win y[illegible] as she?"

"Your highness, [illegible] his temper in turn[illegible] so contemptuously [illegible] not win me from [illegible] lovely, rich and e[illegible] impossibilities. I [illegible] preferring the dov[illegible] pardonably rude i[illegible] put to me a plain q[illegible] for a plain answer, [illegible] your highness, tha[illegible] have twice seen me [illegible] my own life, and t[illegible] her less so."

The princess de[illegible] rhapsody save a gla[illegible] Then she clapped [illegible] three thousand ye[illegible] Eastern method of [illegible] tendant,) and in q[illegible] man, the buffoon, [illegible] little apartment.

"Take him away [illegible] knows not evil fr[illegible] gone bring hither—[illegible] —for at last he see[illegible]

This she said in [illegible] and directly she p[illegible] understood her cle[illegible] Frank, and contin[illegible]

"I thank you [illegible] taught me, namely [illegible] It has proved a bit[illegible] thoroughly well le[illegible] and it will never [illegible] go, and take with [illegible] you have also tau[illegible] your entire race as[illegible] whom you have da[illegible] ware, both of you, [illegible] though shut up wi[illegible] may seem to be s[illegible] dangerous, aye, d[illegible] serpent or vexed s[illegible] both of you one da[illegible] Go, sir, and I warn[illegible] admission here, fo[illegible] spy is long, and to [illegible] ly, even amongst y[illegible] would be to jeopar[illegible]

"Your highness[illegible]

N EGYPTIAN ROMANCE

y of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

Author of "Nina, The Nihilist," "The Red Spider," "The Russian Spy," Etc., Etc.

CHAPTER VI.

ST FAINT MURMUR OF THE COMING STORM.

ing several long and dim'y lighted s that were glazed and ceiled with d chunam, each having a door whose ded to one or other of the keys that at the girdle of Elman, the buffoon, of hall was at last reached, and at ther end were massive curtains of d gold having a heavy bullion fringe, were partly looped up, whilst on side thereof, like a statue of bronze, enormous eunuch with a huge flame- turban on his head and loose y hang- of the same color draping his form, ving his brawny limbs bare, whilst and he grasped a naked scimitar. idering that he was perfectly unarm- was fully aware that the penalty h for one of his sex to be found in place, Frank Donelly did not feel par- y comfortable at sight of these arm- chs; but had they been iron columns uld not (to all outward seeming) have d him with greater unconcern and rence, and a minute later Elman had between them into a beautiful apart- the other side of the curtains, the f which were painted with a series of landscapes in a kind of distemper, which nothing having life was intro- for to draw such is a deadly sin ac- to the laws of Mohammed. Thus ere boats being rowed upon lakes and but no one handling the oars, ships the sea to all appearance passenger- crewless, and the interiors of mos- palaces, but all empty and desert-

t the Irish dragoon was looking at ings and also at the piles of cushions and the flowers that formed the niture of this splendid apartment, buffoon advanced alone into one that and, but had hardly been gone a min- en she reappeared and beckoned to follow her.

d so to find himself a second later in but luxuriously fitted up chamber most brilliantly lighted, and in the of a woman who was reclining on a cushions, in a pose of voluptuous and who, directly that Elman had rew aside her veil and smiled upon e did so the young Irishman recog- beautiful Egyptian whom he had m the crocodile and from drowning thing in the Upper Nile.

s not surprised, for he had guessed st known that she was his summon- he was astonished at discovering how re lovely a woman looks amid dst lux- ndor, and genial warmth, than when ricken, wet and exposed to the ele- as they are tempered and soften- ypt, the land of the sun.

ress was gorgeously rich. She wore vest of crimson velvet, embroider- r with gold and having buttons of llion. It fitted her to perfection ed the surprising beauty of her ulders and bosom, for her skin was than a Spanish girl's, and looked y fair when the heavy ebon masses earl-entwined hair formed its back- r strayed over it in wanton tresses. eet her full Turkish trousers were satin and also covered with filigree , being banded tightly around her revealed the tiniest of feet, that were nto a pair of crimson velvet heelless thickly studded with precious you have not forgotten me? You the summons of the lotus flower and ll. Yes, well for ourselves and for at you love me."

was spoken in the purest French, and was not slow in making reply:

impossible to help loving the beau- Allah has created the beautiful in at it should be loved," and having thus aloud, he muttered to himself: if she was an Irish or an English girl nclined to think her a forward hussy, is the fashion here for the women to ove making, I suppose I must sub- a good grace."

while he thought he had made a ite answer, but it seemed to be a oo vague in its nature for the party it was addressed.

not want you to love everything and e who is beautiful," she said petu- she tore a rose to pieces and scat- e crimson petals in a shower on the "I require you to love only me, and one who could brook a rival."

was a nice state of affairs. Frank at the woman who had made so im- a demand upon his affections, and nd to own to himself that very few uld find the least difficulty in obeying she was indeed lovely, with the voluptuous loveliness of the East, all that there was something about gestive of the beauteous grace of the repose—a something to shudder at as admire.

ame," said Frank, bluntly, as this ling took possession of him, "to ung you is, as you must well know, ble; but to be candid with you, I nother more, aye, one whom I have for months instead of days."

not believe you, for love grows in out of time to as great a degree as it attain. Had you not loved me you ever have risked your life for me. It o reason that you would not, for life r than all things, save love alone. g your most secret feelings towards knowing also that you would never red to aspire so high without encour- I have stooped to raise you up, and I now bid you to relinquish all d baser affections, for your courage otion have touched me and made me d thine only."

I am unworthy, totally unworthy of an honor," stammered Frank. "Be- he added, solemnly, "it is written: halt not covet thy neighbor's wife.'

"I have no wish that thou shouldst," answered the lovely odalisque with a smile that showed a double row of teeth as tiny and regular as two rows of pearls. "Is it possible, then, that thou lovest me in complete ignorance of who I am? It is the Princess Zeeneh, the sister of the Khedive, who condescends to honor thee with her affections, and who is ready this very night and hour to fly with thee and become thy one and only wife. Elman, the buffoon, hath provided the disguises and will accompany us, and I have sewn up in my dress diamonds and other gems that will make thee rich beyond thy utmost imagination. Come, happy man, you may kneel and kiss my hand and thank me. Ah, why do you hesitate?"

"Because, your highness, I now know that I am unworthy of the honor that you would do me, and I will not be base enough to take advantage of your condescension and unbounded goodness of heart and generosity of disposition. I am too humble even to be permitted to kiss the hem of your robe or to stand in your presence, wherefore I beseech you to allow me to retire." And whilst he was thus doing the civilities of speech, Frank was thinking to himself: "Was ever mortal man in such a predicament before? I wish I was well out of it. Catch me ever wanting to get inside of a harem again," and so on.

"Humility may be carried too far," exclaimed the princess, in answer to Frank's last volley of excuses. "I am sick of this monotonous prison life of the harem. I pant for freedom, the freedom and enjoyment of the Feringhee women. If I marry a Mussulman I shall never obtain them. Am I not young and fair? Why, then, should I be forever hidden behind stone walls, and guarded by hideous armed eunuchs, whilst others more favored by fortune but not by nature dance before all men with their faces and necks uncovered? Whilst you are the only Feringhee whom I have known, and as you risked your life for me you must love me. Take me, then, to your own country and marry me, and there let me enjoy life as the Christian women do. Elman has learned that one of the big steamers goes through the canal this very night and leaves Port Said with the early dawn. We should assuredly catch her if we started without further loss of time, and on a festival night like this we should not be missed for many hours. Why do you hesitate to grasp the happiness offered to you?"

"Because, your highness, I may not," responded the young dragoon, at last driven to sheer desperation, "since it happens not only that I am unworthy of the honor and the happiness that you proffer me, but also that I am engaged to be married to a fair young girl, one of my own creed and race, than whom I could never love even an empress half so well. As for the saving of your highness' life at the risk of my own, pray think not of it, for I would have ventured as much, I hope, for a drowning beggar."

"You dare tell me this, ungrateful wretch!" exclaimed the princess, with a sudden change of manner, and all the latent tiger awakening within her; and as her beautiful eyes dilated and her magnificent bosom began to rise and fall with the violence of her emotions, she added with a snake-like hiss in her tones:

"She who stands in the way of my happiness and my freedom I have seen thee twice with, have I not? Once in a carriage, when she held thine hand in hers whilst she gazed at the opal ring which was my gift; and again not half an hour ago beside the amber-hued fountain, within view of this very window, which was in darkness then? You need not answer me with your tongue, for your eyes have done so already, and besides I knew it aforehand. It was the sight of her liberty that made me sigh for a like freedom. But do you mean to tell me seriously that my beauty, my wealth and my exalted rank cannot win you away from such a girl as she?"

"Your highness," responded Frank, losing his temper in turn, at hearing Nellie Trezarr so contemptuously spoken of, "you could not win me from her were you thrice as lovely, rich and exalted, all of which were impossibilities. I may show bad taste in preferring the dove to the eagle, and be unpardonably rude in saying so, but you have put to me a plain question and pressed me for a plain answer, therefore I candidly tell your highness, that the fair girl whom you have twice seen me with is dearer to me than my own life, and that nothing could make her less so."

The princess deigned no answer to this rhapsody save a glance of supreme contempt. Then she clapped her hands (still, as for three thousand years past, the invariable Eastern method of summoning a slave or attendant,) and in quick answer thereto Elman, the buffoon, re-entered the exquisite little apartment.

"Take him away; the man is a fool and knows not evil from good, and when he is gone bring hither—you know whom I mean—for at last he seems to suit my taste."

This she said in Egyptian to the buffoon, and directly she perceived that the old hag understood her clearly she turned again to Frank, and continued in French:

"I thank you for the lesson you have taught me, namely, that I am not invincible. It has proved a bitter lesson, but it has been thoroughly well learned, I can assure you, and it will never be forgotten. And now go, and take with you the knowledge that you have also taught me to hate you and your entire race as well, more especially her whom you have dared to prefer to me. Beware, both of you, for I am not powerless, though shut up within these barren walls I may seem to be so. Nay, more, I can be dangerous, aye, dangerous as the trod on serpent or vexed scorpion, which you may, both of you one day discover to your cost. Go, sir, and I warn you not to prate of your admission here, for the ear of the Egyptian spy is long, and to indulge in such rash folly, even amongst your most intimate friends, would be to jeopardize your life."

"Your highness, honor instead of fear will make your secret safe with me," was Frank's haughty reply, and bowing low he dropped the yashmack over his face again and followed Elman, the buffoon, out of the chamber and the harem.

* * * * * * * *

Hardly had he gone when Zeeneh, the princess, happening to be looking on the ground, beheld something sparkling with a lurid light within easy reach of her hand, and stretching one forth, she picked it up and discovered it to be the beautiful opal ring which, a couple of weeks before, she had bestowed on him who had rescued her from the crocodile.

"He was too proud to keep it after what has just passed between us," she muttered, with a frown; then her face brightened with a strange light as she added: "And it is well that it is so, for another will be here presently who, if he did not see his gift upon my finger, would wonder what had become of it, and perhaps even suspect treachery. Oh, that would never do, for he is the only one now left me on whom I can depend for avenging me on my brother Tewfik and all the others whom I hate."

* * * * * * *

Half an hour later another man, clad in the same disguise as the Irish dragoon had worn, and guided thither by the same hideous old woman, stood before the princess, and when he raised the yashmack he revealed the stern face of Arabi Pasha, the war minister, who said, curtly, as his brows contracted in a frown, "Your highness sent for me; I am here."

"Ahmmed, I have summoned you in order that you may teach me how to hate."

"I fear that I might find in your highness too apt a pupil, yet fain would I teach you to hate, and hate deeply, all those who are the enemies of Egypt and its people."

"You mean the Feringhees who swarm like locusts over the land. I am prepared to hate them."

"It were difficult to do otherwise. They are our rulers while they pretend to be our friends. They send all the wealth out of the country and bring nothing into it but what we should be better without. They refuse to be subject to our laws, and living amongst us will not pay any share of the taxes, whilst their presence has so raised the price of everything that our poorer classes labor sixteen hours out of the twenty-four, and yet can barely save themselves from starving. Thousands of our Arab and Coptic clerks, too, are discharged to make way for their Syrian interpreters, and that because they don't take the trouble to make themselves acquainted with the language of the people whom they have so thoroughly well learned to rob and wrong. Encouraging national liberty in Italy because, as one sect of Christians, they hate our older sect, the English, who are the most powerful of our foes, crush it here lest it may imperil their dividends, derived though they are from a scheme that has cost Egypt thousands of lives and loaded her with a debt from which she can hardly hope for an entire century to recover. Then, too, their presence stirs up the vanity of our rulers to the building of palaces and fleets, for both of which the starving fellaheen has to pay, and neither of which is in the least required, and—"

"Yes, yes, I know all that and more," interrupted the princess impatiently. "Well, you once sought my alliance to help set all these things straight, and I then refused is because at the time I still loved my brother, Tewfik. To-night you have been brought thither to be told that that time and that love have passed away. I hate my brother. Why, matters not. Let the fact suffice, as also that I hate these Christians in addition. I would give my life to see them all, aye, all, every one of them, driven into the sea, and universally perish."

"Your highness carries her hate too far," answered the war minister, reprovingly. "To drive them forth from the country that they have ruined, with the help of Allah and the Prophet I should be quite willing to do, and perhaps I am the only man in Egypt save one who could do it.'

"And who is the other?"

"He whom his foes call the False Prophet."

"Arabi Pasha, you alone are the chosen of the nation, and all men know it, for you have a heart that feels for the misery and degradation of the people, and 'tis not a mean, selfish ambition but an earnest desire for Egypt's welfare that spurs you to take action." Without me, however, you would be powerless, and you know why."

"Because without you our mighty lord and souzerane, the Sultan, would designate the struggle for liberty a military rebellion, and help your brother, the Khedive, to crush it out."

"You have said it, and 'tis no more than the truth But my beauty can sway the Sultan, for he loves me. And that beauty and that love combined shall obtain you that which alone you require to insure success. Provide me with a secret and trusty messenger to Constantinople, and in a month from now I will hand you the Sultan's authority and the Chief Imaun's blessing for the movement that shall give Egypt to the Egyptian." Is it a bargain?"

"In the name of Allah and the Prophet, yes," answered the war minister, with fervid zeal, and then a silence of death fell upon the two conspirators.

CHAPTER VII.

THE STIRRING UP OF HELL BROTH

A month has passed away since the evening of the fete at the Ghezireh Palace, and during that month nothing of any importance seems to have happened, but as in the case of the little mole, which once upon a time was the death of a king, dangerous enough work has been done in the dark during that period, as we shall presently see.

Introduce we the reader to the palace of Ahmed Arabi Pasha, the war minister, a big, pink house, with yellow jalousies and blinds, having a garden in front gorgeous with scarlet hibiscus blossoms, and to the salemlic of big hall thereof, which, according to custom, is the general reception room, and wherein at the hotter seasons of the year, on account of its coolness, meals are generally taken as well.

The floor was of marble, the surrounding walls were whitewashed and hung here and there with arms and armor, whilst surrounded at different altitudes by balconies or galleries, some of which were fronted by a trellis-work of wood called moucharabies, the object of which was that the ladies of the harem could peer out therethrough (whilst remaining themselves unseen) upon an object of interest in the hall below.

Had any of the ladies been there upon the present occasion they would have beheld nothing that would have tempted them to remain, for the salemic was occupied only by the master of the house and a couple of early morning visitors, who were walking to and fro with measured strides and conversing meanwhile in Turkish instead of their native Arabic, so that not a syllable of their discourse could be understood by the sentry in a dirty linen uniform and red tarboush, who was posted just at the outer door, or by his companions of the main guard who were lounging on a stone bench close by gossiping whilst knitting, for the Egyptian soldier is generally handy with the needle.

Ahmed Arabi, the war minister, is the centre figure of the three, and he on the right with the crafty, cruel look in his face, is Toulba Pasha, afterwards nicknamed Arabi's brains, whilst his left hand companion is Suleiman Bey, who is fierce looking as a jackal.

All three were clad in dark blue regimentals, and all three wear the red tarboush on their heads, for no Mohammedan can don a head dress having either peak or brim by reason that five times a day his devotions oblige him to touch the ground or floor with his forehead, whilst he is forbidden to uncover his head during prayer.

It is now high time for us to discover what these three men are talking about, a task, which by donning our invisible coats we shall find easier of accomplishment than does the Aga of the eunuchs, who, concealed behind the carved moucharabie of the lowest of the three galleries, is trying very hard to make the same discovery.

"You have the Sultan's firman and all is well," says Toulba Pasha.

"But our lord, the Sultan, grants that firman on the sole condition that we work in secret at the first and reveal not our high authority until success appears already assured. Thus it loses much of its value."

This from Arabi, to whom Suleiman Bey at once replied:

"We should have got on very well without the firman, and its chief value seems to me to be in the fact that the Sultan thereby indirectly pledges himself not to oppose us in our designs. If the Sublime Porte remains neutral, we must succeed. Have we not tens of thousands wherewith to oppose the Feringhee's hundreds? Inshallah! (God being willing!) in another month we will have driven them all into the sea."

"On to the sea will suffice," said Arabi. "We simply desire to be rid of them and their creature, the Khedive, as well. We want to secure Egypt for the Egyptians. Allah knows that I have no higher or other ambition."

A somewhat incredulous smile played about the lips of Toulba Pasha as the war minister gave vent to these very disinterested sentiments, but he merely said: "We have no doubt of it, Excellency. We know you to be the champion of the downtrodden people, and it is the people whom we must now proceed to stir up, for their own good."

"The army is ours to a man," replied Arabi. "The pay of a single piastre a day, especially when it happens to be two years in arrears, is a very low bid for loyalty and cheerful service."

"And for such troops the prospect of pillaging the banks, magazines, warehouses and shops of the Frankish swine would prove a temptation that they could hardly resist. Yes, I myself imagine that they are ours to a man; yet must the populace of, at all events, the largest cities be won over."

So spoke Suleiman Bey; and Arabi rejoined:

"It will be no difficult task, for to make them one with us we have but to tell the simple truth. It wants no coloring whatever."

"They know that the European merchants despise while they fleece them," growled Toulba Pasha. "The very children are aware of that."

"By Allah, European commerce quadruples the price of everything to the poor," echoed Suleiman Bey. "Aye, and it doubles their labors as well. There is no slave driver equal to an Englishman or a Frenchman."

"Bands of pillagers are they all. They have never known how to be useful to us."

"Because for every honest man Europe sends us twenty swindlers."

"And the one honest man makes his fortune in Egypt only to spend it elsewhere. That is not the way to do good to the country."

"Yet our Khedive, who, as you well know, should be the father of his people, is never so happy as when surrounded by these blood-suckers, and feteing and feasting them on the money which he wrings from the starving peasantry for the special purpose. To each new arrival who is armed with a letter of introduction, he says, 'Welcome, the riches of Egypt are yours,' and by Allah and the Prophet, I have never looked upon the Feringhee yet who has been slow to take him at his word."

This from the war minister, and his companions laughed approval.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

SUNDRY TOPICS.

The municipal authorities of Rome are removing antique works of art from the open air and substituting exact productions. The antiques are placed in the various museums.

Masses of deep sea coral, many tons in weight, which were torn from their ocean bed by the volcanic explosion in Sunda Straits two years ago, my now be seen two or three miles inland, whither they were borne by the tidal wave.

Half of the boys in the Dexter, Me., high school use tobacco, and whiskey bottles are passed around among them. A Dexter school girl smokes and swears in public. These cases were up for consideration at a recent local teachers' institute.

Watches may be sent for testing to the Kew Observatory in London, and a certificate of excellence will be given; but so extreme is the accuracy required that no watch can be marked first-class which varies as much as one tick in 43,000.

Recent experiences in the Russian Government workshops have demonstrated the fact that the steel guns for the heavy marine and coast batteries cannot be made at home, and that, as heretofore, these orders had better be given to the Krupps.

A Providence woman gave birth to four children recently; the new comers lived but a few hours The husband took advantage of the sensation it caused, and got an admission fee of ten cents from each of the 500 people who viewed the little ones' bodies.

The Imperial and American Club—the outcome of an association of gentlemen desirous of tightening the bonds of sympathy uniting all English-speaking people—has just effected a fusion with the Hanover Square Club, and the new club calls itself the St. George's Club, Hanover Square. The club house is handsome, large, and well appointed; situated in the very heart of London, and possessing forty bedrooms.

The new water works for Venice, involving the construction of an aqueduct to convey water from the main land to that city, under the auspices of the Compagnie Generale des Eaux of Paris, have reached the finishing point after a lapse of some nine years, the finished works comprising the aqueduct, which passes under the lagoons; the underpipes for the distribution of the water, and two large reservoirs in the town, the water to be taken from the canal known as Dei Moranzani. Private families will be supplied with water at the price of sixty centimes per cubic metre—1,000 litres—special arrangements being also made for the supply of larger quantities of water at lower rates, while the minimum quantity of water which will be furnished is 250 litres per day.

The calculating machine invented by Prof. Thomson appears to excel, in its ingenious adaptation to a variety of results, even Babbage's wonderful apparatus. By means of the mere friction of disk, a cylinder, and a ball, the machine is capable of effecting numerous complicated calculations which occur in the highest application of mathematics to physical problems, and by its aid an unskilled person may, in a given time, perform the work of ten expert mathematicians. The machine is applicable alike to the calculating of tidal, magnetic, meteorological, and other periodic phenomena; it will solve differential equations of the second or even higher powers or orders; and through this same wonderful arrangement of mechanical parts, the problem of finding the free motions of any number of mutually attracting particles, unrestricted by any of the approximate suppositions required in the treatment of the lunar and planetary theories, is done by simply turning a handle.

An account is given of the introduction into England by Mme. DeLong of her metal cutting machinery, which has for some time been in successful use in France. She has now, it appears, perfected some ingenious machinery, worked by steam power, which cuts with the utmost precision the hardest and softest metals in any design, so that by it can be produced a gold lace pin or a steel castle portcullis from the solid metal, without any moulding or filing. This unique industry is divided into four general branches. The first is the production of gates, doors, balcony fronts, and other architectural metal works, without casting—plates of brass a foot thick being thus cut into lattice work at a single operation; a second branch is the making of lattice metal work filled in with glass, to supersede the ordinary leaden frames for church and other ornamental windows; the third branch comprises the inlaying of plush and ebony jewel cases, cabinets, &c., with red and yellow copper, steel, and other metals; and a fourth for the working of picture frames, baskets, crests, &c., out of the solid metal fully finished.

Fate of an Old Hunter.

Simon Truman, of Bell's Cabin, in the mountains near Elkland, was one of the oldest and best-known hunters and guides in Pennsylvania. He was 70 years of age, but was still strong and active, having only last week spent three days and nights in the open woods, during which time he killed a deer and a bear. He always asserted that he had killed over 200 bears, and it was well known that he had had many battles with them hand to hand, many deep and ugly scars on his body testifying to the fierceness of some of them. He had escaped many dangers in his more than half a century of life in the woods. Last winter he killed the long-hunted big bear that had prowled about this vicinity for more than two years, carrying off sheep and other stock repeatedly and successfully. In the fight with this bear Truman lost three fingers on his left hand, the hand being so badly mangled that it was barely saved by the amputation of the fingers.

A few days since two travelling Italians came to that place with two large trained bears. In the afternoon they left town, and a mile from the village met a team of horses belonging to a farmer named Gibbs. Gibbs was driving, and Simon Truman was riding with him to the village. The sight of the bears frightened the horses, and they turned square about in the road. The wagon was upset, and both Gibbs and Truman were thrown out. Truman struck on a sharp projecting knot on a log at the side of the road. The knot penetrated his side to the depth of three inches. Gibbs was unhurt. Without stopping to look after his runaway team he compelled one of the Italians to help carry the injured old hunter to Elkland. The knot had broken three of Truman's ribs, and pushed the broken ends with it into his lung. He did not utter a groan all the way in to the village. He was carried to the tavern and a doctor called. When the doctor arrived, Truman said to him:

"This will settle me. I don't mind dying, but it's the thought that after escaping from wild bears for fifty years I am killed through tame bears, chained and muzzled, that worries me."

Truman died three hours after being brought in. He was the last of his family.

"It beats all creation," muttered old Mullethead, "what pains swindlers will take to beat honest men. Here, someone has saddled a lead 10 cent piece off on me." "Can't you pass it again?" timidly suggested his lesser half. "Pass it!" he shouted; "why, the thing is as black as my hat! No, I'll have to put it in the contribution-box."

"It fills my heart with joy," said an earnest country pastor at the end of his sermon, "to see so many strangers among our congregation on this beautiful Sabbath morning. Sojourners in our town are always welcome; we want them to come. Young men and old men whom pleasure or business has called away from the softening influences of home, we greet them with open hearts. The collection will now be taken up."

The Standard.

MARKDALE NOVEMBER 19, 1885

RIEL'S END

The Sentence of the Court Carried Out.

Arrangements for the Execution Perfect.

A Quick and Entirely Painless Death.

Closing Moments of the Metis Leader's Life.

REGINA, N. W. T., Nov. 16.—Riel was hanged this morning at 8.23. The coroner's jury is under Dr. Dodd. He died game on the scaffold.

The scaffold has been erected within a contracted enclosure immediately in rear of the guard-house, and the only view of it was through a window immediately under a rafter. The last sacrament was taken by the condemned man within the guard-house proper, and near the opening which led to the scaffold. He responded to the Latin prayers with a full and clear voice while on his bended knees. When the moment came for him to rise to have his arms and hands pinioned he kept looking up, slowly repeating his prayers. He then walked through the opening and down the narrow stairway with his face turned away from the few civilians and soldiers who stood about the opening. When he was about to take his place on the trap the deputy sheriff asked if he had anything to say. He turned to his confessor, Pere Andre, and inquired:

"Shall I not say a few words?"

"No," quickly replied the priest in French. "Make this your last sacrifice and you will be rewarded."

Riel turned and remarked in English: "I have nothing more to say."

There was some delay in adjusting the noose, but Riel did not remark upon it, and as the white cap closed over him, he was heard distinctly repeating his prayers.

During the night, Pere Andre, while urging upon Riel not to attempt an address upon the scaffold, suggested that a reprieve might still be on its way; but this idea Riel strenuously repelled. He said he knew his hour had come and that he was not only prepared, but that he would not have it any other way, as nothing but the alternative of prison for life awaited him; and to him death was preferable to that.

During the night he addressed letters to his mother and sister, which touch upon the affection he bore them. He added a codicil to his will, specifying that he desired his body to be laid by the side of his father's in St. Boniface cemetery at Winnipeg, which request will be carried out. Pere Andre will go there with Riel's remains within a few days. His body was interred to-day underneath the scaffold.

There was barely a quiver as the drop fell, and his death was pronounced an easy one.

His executioner was a man named Jack Henderson, who was a captive of Riel's in the rebellion of 1870.

OPINIONS OF THE LEADING LONDON JOURNALS.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—All the papers this morning devote much space to the execution of Riel. The Chronicle says the Canadian government have not only taken care that Riel shall never again imperil the welfare of the state, but makes such an example of him that no one else should think of following in his footsteps.

The Advertiser says: "Should the hotheaded Anglophebists of Lower Canada attempt to preach resistance to the laws of the Dominion, it may become necessary to enquire whether it will allow imprisonment for debt in an English colony of the nineteenth century, and whether a foreign church shall be permitted to monopolize the soil and hamper the civilization of a great city."

The Times argue that the execution is entirely proper.

The Trade Of Rebel Gone.

Louis Riel ascended the scaffold last Monday morning as a knave who has at last encountered his doom. He was no patriot, and those who have been working in his behalf were spending themselves on an unworthy object. He offered to sell all his dupes for $35,000. His treatment of Thomas Scott was of a cruelty in keeping with his savage nature. There is not one redeeming feature in his whole career. His insanity was feigned. He raised two rebellions, and if let go would have headed a third.

Riel was a dangerous man, who is well out of the road. We are not inclined to call for any man's blood, and are sorry to think that capital punishment still exists, but society has only one way to protect itself, and that is by making an example on the scaffold. With Riel's removal Northwest rebellions are at an end. The trade hereafter will be too risky.

As for the French Canadians, we fail to see wherein they should make common cause with a common murderer. The truth of the matter is that they do not. All this talk coming from Quebec in favor of Riel was worked up for party purposes. The great mass of the French people and all their leaders are on the side of the law.

Heaven forbid that Riel should go to his death because he has French blood in his veins; he is removed simply because he is a man dangeous to the entire society of Canada.

The Canadian people by this execution have given the world, and especially that class for whom the New York Herald and the Sun speak, to understand that they are going to settle their difficulties themselves. So, too, may the ill-advised philanthropists of London take the same lesson to heart. And if there be a section of the community in Quebec who think that because a French Canadian issue is raised, therefore it must be given into, that section will know that the Canadian people as a whole will not allow such rare prejudices to rule.

Riel dies, not because he is a French halfbreed, not becaus he is a patriot worthy of martydom, but because he is a man who in the past has been dangerous almost to destruction of the Canadian community.—World.

THOUGHT.

The human mind is the only brain power in the animal creation capable of solving abstruse subjects, and giving direction to our actions in futurity. The human mind is characteristic of that sublimary infiniteness recorded in Holy Writ; hence, how absolutely necessary becomes the training of "Thought" in our Public Schools, Semenaries and Colleges.

The intellectual manhoood of our species is not the ruling question in the moral development of Canada's people: honor, not talents alone, makes the true gentleman.

Many Godfearing fathers and mothers consider they have accomplished all their duty to their offspring by giving them the "so-called" good education. A true and useful education develops the power of THOUGHT: no training is substantial without that requisite. The celebrated Lord Bacon asserted, and with truth, that "Knowledge is power." We acknowledge the truth of the axiom; but, is it not as likely to be exercised in the interests of villany as the principles of Truth and Virtue, unless we inculcate the youthful mind to develop the power of "Thought," in order to embrace that revealed religion which cultivates the true principles of "Man's humanity to Man." Many parties vainly suppose they have done their duty to their offspring, when they have given them a tolerably good education. Education and Wisdom have diametrically opposite ranges. Education is that which enables the burglar to accomplish his foul deeds with a degree of precision that an ordinary culprit could not commit. What is knowledge?—That which gives action to the human brain in order to achieve a higher power. Intelligence in the ordinary run of human life may pass for Wisdom; and is frequently passed off as the spurious element of self-knowledge It tends to moral degeneracy, and a quickening of the morbid faculty which generates the sentiment of infidelity. Truth is the born child of Thought; the cultivation of latter is, to disseminate Truth in all its visible beauty:—to behold and admire the good and shun the unrighteous. Wisdom:—thou beautiful purchase from the almighty throne by the great King Solomon! In this word Wisdom, we find the keystone of our schools of learning. Many there are in the household department, who do not possess the necessary information to be conveyed to their offspring. Wisdom is the power of thought, one of the most precious gifts of an Almighty ruler. Education is a paltry power, to be used for good or evil at the possessors will, and is to be avoided when placed in the hands of ungodly men.

"WHAT SAY YOU TO A PIECE OF ROAST BEEF AND MUSTARD?"

Well, there is much to be said. The question being asked of the banqueter at the average boarding house, calls up reminiscences of close contiguity to the horns, and beefstake three cuts south thereof. He, of course, will pass unless it occurs to him that he needs a hinge for his trunk. Should there be any suffering, the effects of an indulgence is such sinuous fare, use McGregor's Speedy Cure, a sure and effectual remedy for Dyspepsia, Constipation and all affections of the stomach and liver. Sold by Hill Bro's. Trial bottles free. 5

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Friday, Nov. 20th, Mr. John Ormsby will sell on his farm, lot 16, con. 8, Euphrasia, a very large stock consisting of 6 horses, 36 head of cattle, &c., and a lot of good farm implements, &c, &c. Sale at 1 o'clock. 13 months credit on sums over $5, with usual approved joint notes. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

Saturday, Dec. 12th, at Queen's Hotel, Williamsford, valuable village property, grain warehouse, &c. Geo. Noble, auctioneer; William Lucas, trustee.

EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD.

It is demonstrated by history that the Ancients in many of the arts, notably architecture, far excelled the present age, but it is reserved for the present decade to produce the eighth wonder of the world, i. e., West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, which is infallible for Rheumatism Sprains, Cuts, Bruises, Sores and all diseases requiring external application. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Nov.

The Greatest of Their Kind.

The largest ocean in the world is the Pacific.

The largest sea, the Mediterranean.

The largest lake, Superior.

The greatest river, the Amazon.

The largest gulf, the Gulf of Mexico.

The largest cape, Cape Horn.

The largest bay, the Bay of Bengal.

The largest island, Australia.

The largest city, London, England.

The largest public building, St. Peter's Church, Rome.

The largest hotel, the Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

The largest ship, the Great Eastern.

The largest desert, the Sahara.

The largest theatre, the Great Opera House in Paris.

The largest country, Russia.

The largest park, Phœnix Park, in Dublin.

The highest mountain, Mount Everest, of the Himalayas.

A scrub hunt is to come off to-day at Holland Centre.

BIRTHS.

CONNOLLY—In Glenelg, on the 10th inst., the wife of Mr. Thos. Connelly, of a son.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 70	to	0 85
Barley	35	to	56
Peas	50	to	55
Oats	25	to	28
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	4 75	to	5 00
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

TO THE PUBLIC.

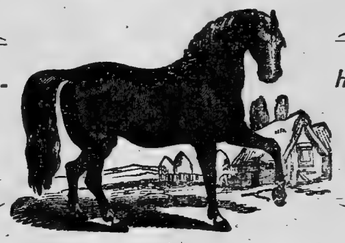
We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.



WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885. 285-tf

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary: MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE.

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but if further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT.

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 181 & 183 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 270-1y

CITY HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage. Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostler.

D. McLANE,
Proprietor,

Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

BARRHEAD -:- MILLS

Now In Full Blast.

Having raised my mill-dam five feet and thoroughly overhauled my grist mill, I am now in a position to turn out all work in a satisfactory manner.

Bring along your logs and we will give you your lumber home with you; also Shingles cut on short notice. Gristing and Chopping done better than heretofore.

270 W. J. ROWE.

Capt. Moore's Story.

The Steamer Algoma Was Cast Away.

TERRIFIC GALE AND SNOW STORM ASSAILED HER IN LAKE SUPERIOR.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 10.—On board the Athabasca were Capt. James Moore, commander of the Algoma, 29 passengers and 11 of her crew. These were all that was left of the 51 persons that sailed for this port from Owen Sound on the Algoma on Thursday. Following are the names of the survivors—W. J. Hull manager, W. B. McArthur, of Meaford, and Capt. James Moore, first-mate Algoma; second-mate, Richard Thompson; wheelman, Henry Lewis; fireman, John C. McNabb; fireman, McColgar; deck-hands, R. Stevens, Bolton, Daniel Laughlin; waiters, John McLane. George McKenzie, John McKenzie. The captain severely injured. The ships papers were lost. Following is a list of the passengers: Mrs. Dudgeon and her son aged 12 of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Frost (Forster), relatives of R. P. Butchart, Owen Sound; George Pettigrew, engineer; Alex. McDermott, Sarnia, second engineer; Mr. Mackenzie, purser, nephew of Alex. Mackenzie, of Sarnia; Alex. Taylor, steward, of either Buffalo or Cleveland; Mr. Jones, steerage steward Scotland. The names of the deck hands, fireman, waiters and others of the crew cannot be obtained. The story of disaster, as related by Capt. Moore, is that the Algoma passed through St. Marie canal bound for Port Arthur last Friday at noon. Soon after reaching Lake Superior the wind began to freshen up from the northwest and a great bank of leaden clouds along the northern horizon indicated the approach of heavy weather. Nothing, however, that the Algoma was one of the strongest and most powerful steamers afloat, and well able to cope with even a severe gale, Captain Moore kept her on her course. As night approached the wind continued to increase in violence and the sea had developed into one of the largest and most destructive gales ever experienced on the upper lakes. About 10 the gale increased the sea rose and before midnight Lake Superior was lashed into a mass of seething foam. Then the tempest roared and great waves swept completely over the struggling steamer. The situation was made more terrible by a blinding snow storm that set in before morning. It was impossible to see the length of the steamer. The passengers and crew were terrified beyond measure, and momentarily expected to see the steamer plunge to the bottom. By the instructions of Capt. Moore the officers went among the passengers tried to allay their fears. They were panic-stricken, however, and huddled together in the saloon, where the screams and prayers of women and children could be heard above the thundering of the gale. Friday morning Isle Royal was passed, and Captain Moore headed his steamer for Rock harbor, where he hoped to gain shelter. The island affords a natural harbor of refuge, but when the entrance there is a dangerous one, and just as the steamer was entering the entrance she struck the rocks. There was a terrific shock, and it seemed as the steamer came to a full stop. The passengers rushed out of the cabin and besought the officers to tell them what had happened. "We are on a reef," replied Capt. Moore, "but there will only keep as calm as possible I trust all will be safely landed." Just then one of the crew reported that the steamer's bottom had been punctured and she was filling with water. The boats were quickly got in readiness, and all started to leave the steamer, but just as they were about to lower them the steamer slipped off the reef and disappeared with an angry roar. The lake was covered with the struggling forms of men and women, and then all was over. Only fourteen lives to tell the tale. These got into one of the boats, but were powerless to save themselves, as they were without oars. Capt. Moore, however, wrenched a board from the bottom of the boat and with that as a paddle succeeded in working the boat to the shore, where the survivors were taken up by the Athabaska.

They are now at the scene of the disaster. One of the rescued passengers give a graphic account of the terrible scenes before and after the wreck. "It's no use to describe the scene," said he, "nothing worse ever happened on earth. In their madness, the waves were washing the crew a number threw themselves into the foaming billows. Others, when a huge wave would pass off the deck, which was swaying from side to side, were swept in... A few hung o... masts, but t... abandon them... despair. E... powerless so... the awful sud... Meanwhile, t... pieces, dashe... crew, all of w... had clung t... during the lu... themselves in... the fastening... wave swept ... wreck. Ami... and the dashi... was borne ... passengers h... themselves in... cut away from... that had bee... boats during ... horror had ... lifeboat and it... experience o... could bound ... while the rem... sides, expect... meet their de... exposure and... was turned o... one of the c... but the frail ... was swept on... After half an ... struck some... feared all wa... the craft caps... prise when t... only a foot d... that they w... maining ther... posed to t... abated and ... then discov... Isle Royal, a... been wrecked... shore on gr... channel. It ... in the mornin... there until la... the Athabasc... them up.

A PRO...
Few men ... same amount ... this world as ... Over 500,000 ... sold in Canada ... person troubl... Dyspepsia. ... Urinary Tro... Turner & Co. ... Chase's Liver ... Medicine and ...

Tennyson ...

"I think T... crazy," said ... Zebedee Sm... not read his ... "What in t... "Why, he ... entitled 'The ... "Well, wha... "Why, Eve...

When you vis... save Baggage E... stop at the G... the Grand Cen... fitted up at a co... duced at $1.0... European plan, ... with the best. ... ed railroad to a... better for less ... Hotel than at a... the city.

WHY E...
Consult a ... bottle of me... Turner & Co. ... 12 oz. bottle ... Cure for $1, ... Book free.

The Girl K...

Mamie—"... that old fossil ... is so rich?"
Sadie—"D... heart disease ... shock is liabl...
Mamie—"...
Sadie—"Y... that she will ...

HAMILT...
There is now ... article for insta... acute external ... most perfect cu... Toothache and ... tried. It is cal... rapid manner in... factured by M... Markdale by Hi...

McGR...
Of Hamilton, ... of the greatest ... pound known fo... Salt Rheum, Fr... McGregor & P... sure and get the ... Carbolic Cerate ... box.

UBLIC.

ER SHOP in connection
gement of Mr. Kay, well
d purpose turning out a cellence at prices which pply & Expeditiously.

ry Goods, Boots & Shoes
h the shoddy men who

TRIAL.

cents per barrel.

ROWN & CO.

265-tf

N, V. S.,

Veterinary College.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

KEPT & DISPENSED

THARGES MODERATE.

MARKDALE.

NCE'S
Eye-Glasses

H ARTICLES

ARKET.

ot in stock.

o prove Genuineness.

ls have been received from the x-Vice-President of the Medical College of Physicians and Surculty of Laval University; the ouncil of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

cient to prove their qualities

Chemists and Druggists,
ONT,

ney can be obtained.
ific principle. 51

TY HOTEL,
MARKDALE.

bscriber begs to inform the travelling nerally, that he has leased the above for a term of years, and hopes by to their comfort to merit a share of tronage, Bar and Larder well sup-od stabling and attentive hostler.

D. McLANE,
Proprietor,

ale, Nov. 12, 1885.

RHEAD -:- MILLS

ow in Full Blast.

ng raised my mill-dam five feet,
proughly overhauled my grist am now in a position to turn work in a satisfactory manner.

g along your logs and we will n your lumber home with you;
ingles cut on short notice.
g and Chopping done better
retofore.

W. J. ROWE.

Capt. Moore's Story.

The Steamer Algoma Was Cast Away.

STORM GALE AND SNOW STORM ASSAILED HER IN LAKE SUPERIOR.

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 10.—On board the Athabaska were Capt. James Moore, commander of the Algoma, 25 passengers and 11 of her crew. These were all that was left of the 80 persons that sailed for this port from Owen Sound on the Algoma on Thursday. Following are the names of the survivors—W. J. Hull of Toronto, W. B. McArthur, of Meaford, Ont., Capt. James Moore, first-mate Mr. Briggs; second-mate, Richard Thompson; wheelman, Henry Lewis; engineer, John C. McNabb; fireman, Mr. McColgar; deck-hands, R. Stevens, Mr. Bolton, Daniel Laughlin; Messrs. John McLane. George McLean, John McKenzie. The captain was badly injured. The ships papers were lost. Following is a list of the lost: Mrs. Dudgeon and her son aged 7, of St. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Frost (sister), relatives of R. P. Butchart, Owen Sound; George Pettigrew, chief engineer; Alex. McDermott, Sarnia, second engineer; Mr. McKenzie, purser, nephew of Alex. McKenzie, of Sarnia; Alex. Taylor, saloon steward, of either Buffalo or Cleveland: Mr. Jones, steerage steward of Scotland. The names of the deck hands, fireman, waiters and others of the crew cannot be obtained. The story of disaster, as related by Capt. Moore, is that the Algoma passed through St. Marie canal bound for this port last Friday at noon. Soon after reaching Lake Superior the wind began to freshen up from the northwest and a great bank of leaden clouds along the northern horizon told the approach of heavy weather. It came, however, that the Algoma was one of the strongest and most powerful steamers afloat, and well able to cope with even a severe gale, Captain Moore kept her on her course. As night approached the wind continued to increase in violence and soon had developed into one of the severest and most destructive gales ever experienced on the upper lakes. The gale increased the sea rose and by midnight Lake Superior was lashed into a mass of seething foam. The tempest roared and great seas swept completely over the struggling steamer. The situation was made all the more terrible by a blinding snow storm that set in before morning. It was impossible to see the length of the steamer. The passengers and crew were terrified beyond measure, and momentarily expected to see the steamer plunge to the bottom. By the instructions of Capt. Moore the officers went among the passengers tried to allay their fears. They were panic-stricken, however, and huddled together in the cabin where the screams and prayers of women and children could be heard above the thundering of the gale. Early Friday morning Isle Royal was sighted, and Captain Moore headed his steamer for Rock harbor, where he hoped to gain shelter. The island was a natural harbor of refuge, but before the entrance there is a dangerous reef, and just as the steamer was entering the entrance she struck the reef. There was a terrific shock, and the fine steamer came to a full stop. The passengers rushed out of the cabin and besought the officers to tell them what had happened. "We are on a reef," replied Capt. Moore, "but there will only keep as calm as possible I trust all will be safely over." Just then one of the crew cried that the steamer's bottom had been punctured and she was filling with water. The boats were quickly got in readiness, and all started to leave the steamer, but just as they were about to lower them the steamer slipped off the reef and disappeared with an angry roar. The lake was covered with the struggling forms of men and women, and then all was over. Only fourteen lives to tell the tale. These got into one of the boats, but were powerless to save themselves, as they were without oars. Capt. Moore, however, wrenched a board from the bottom of the boat, and with that as a paddle succeeded in working the boat to the island, where the survivors were picked up by the Athabaska.

The boats are now at the scene of the disaster. One of the rescued passengers give a graphic account of the terrible scenes before and after the storm. "It's no use to describe the scene," said he, "nothing worse ever occurred on earth. In their madness, some of the waves were washing the men a number threw themselves into the foaming billows. Others, when a huge wave would pass off the deck, which was swaying from side to side, were swept into the sea like a feather. A few hung on to the ropes or to the masts, but the majority seemed to abandon themselves in wild alarm and despair. Even the crew seemed powerless so stricken were they with the awful suddenness of the disaster. Meanwhile, the boat rapidly went to pieces, dashed against the rocks. The crew, all of whom except the waiters, had clung to the rigging, managed during the lull in the storm to place themselves in a lifeboat. They cut the fastenings, and in an instant a wave swept them from the ill-fated wreck. Amid the roar of the wind and the dashing of the waves the boat was borne onward. Two of the passengers had managed to place themselves in the boat before it was cut away from the wreck. Any efforts that had been made to launch the boats during the early confusion and horror had failed. Meantime the lifeboat and its occupants had a terrible experience on the lake. All who could bound themselver to the boat, while the remainder held on to the sides, expecting every moment to meet their death by drowning or from exposure and cold. Once the boat was turned over with the waves, and one of the crew was washed away, but the frail craft righted itself and was swept on incomparative darkness. After half an hour the boat suddenly struck some rocks. The inmates feared all was over with them, when the craft capsized, but to their surprise when thrown out the water was only a foot deep, and they discovered that they were on land. After remaining there an hour or more exposed to the elements the storm abated and the sky clouded. They then discovered that they were on Isle Royal, and that the vessel had been wrecked about one mile from shore on great boulders near the channel. It was about ten o'clock in the morning and the crew remained there until late in the evening, when the Athabasca came along and picked them up.

A PROFITABLE LIFE.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chas. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone. We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Byspepsia. Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to call in at A. Turner & Co. and buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Nov.

Tennyson Not Well Up in the Scriptures.

"I think Tennyson must be going crazy," said Ebenezer Jones to Zebedee Smith. "Or else he does not read his Bible."

"What in the world do you mean?"

"Why, he has just written a poem entitled 'The Close of Another Eve.'"

"Well, what of that?"

"Why, Eve had no clothes."

IMPORTANT.

When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Express and Carriage hire and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, opposite the Grand Central Depot. Elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced at $1.00 and upwards per day. Europeau plan, Elevator, Resturant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first class hotel in the city.

WHY EMPLOY DOCTORS.

Consult a doctor, for a 6 or 8 oz. bottle of medicine $1—consult A. Turner & Co. and he will give you a 12 oz. bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure for $1, and a valuable Recipe Book free. Nov.

The Girl Knew What She was About.

Mamie—"How can Lucille marry that old fossil, Closefist? What if he is so rich?"

Sadie—"Did you know that he has heart disease so badly that the slightest shock is liable to prove fatal?"

Mamie—"Ah, that's it."

Sadie—"Yes, and Lucille thinks that she will be able to shock him."

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS.

There is now being manufactured here an article for instantly removing pain of any acute external nature, and it is certainly the most perfect cure for Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache and the like that has ever been tried. It is called Fluid Lightning from the rapid manner in which it acts, and is manufactured by McGregor & Parke. Sold in Markdale by Hill Bro's. 5

McGREGOR & PARKE.

Of Hamilton, Ont., are the manufacturers of the greatest healing and purifying compound known for Sores, Burns, Cuts, Scalds, Salt Rheum, Frost Bites, etc. It is called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Be sure and get the genuine McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate sold by Hill Bro's. at 25c. a box. 5

"Muzzer Chillun"

"My muzzer's almost crazy,
Her Chillun is so bad,
An' my drete bid sister Daisy
Does mate her dreffal sad,
So she says.

"And Daisy is a norful dirl;
Her nice new frock she tored,
An' tause she had her hair to turl,
Why she—why she just roared Yesterday.

"When baby cwyed, an' muzzer said:
'Go an' wrock yittle Clair,'
She put trums in his tradle spread,
An' chew-dum in his hair
Tozzer day.

"What you sint one time she did?
Why, runned away from me,
She went and runned an' hid.
I didn't know where she be—
Touldn't find her.

"Dess I'se sometimes norful too—
Of tourse I is, I know;
But what's a yittle girl to do
When she don't wort or sew
Tause she tarnt?

"She dot to try; be tross too,
When she's so small as me.
That's all the way she has to do
When she tired—don't you see?
Tourse you do.

"When I'se weally dood and nice
Through all the drate long day.
Papa tells me a 'pearl of prize,'
An' muzzer's dlad to say
'She was dood.'"

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of the subscriber, last June, 3 yearling steers, two red, with little white spots, one having its ears partly frozen off the third brindle. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery will be suitably rewarded.

W. J. BROWN,
271-73* Harkaway, P. O.

TENDERS.

SEALED tenders will be received at this office, up to noon the 1st December for Sexton for the new Methodist Church. Specifications of duties may be seen at this office. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
271-72 Sec.-Treas.

TEACHER WANTED.

FOR S. S. No. 16, Euphrasia township, duties to commence 1st January. Applications received up to noon 5th December. State certificate held and salary wanted.

D. R. ELLIS,
Kimberley P. O.
271-73 Sec.-Treas.

Store to Rent in Makaale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.

270-77 J. HANSON.

TEACHER WANTED.

MALE or Female, holding 3rd class certificate; duties to commence 1st January, 1886, for S. S. No. 7, Holland. State salary.

THOS. J. SPEARS,
Sec.-Treas.
Williamsford Station P. O.

NOTICE.

THE High School Entrance Examination will be held at Durham, in the Public School building on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd & 23rd of December, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. each day. Candidates are requested to send their names to the undersigned on or before the 1st December,

JAMES WINTERBORNE,
Head Master, Durham Public School.

Shropshire Ram
For Service.

THE und rsigned having purchased from Mr. Thos. Ellis, Queen's Valley, one of his thorough bred Shropshire Rams aged, will have him for service on lot No. 4, con. 7, Euphrasia. Terms, 75 cents cash. This ram is an excellent stock getter. Also for sale one first-class Ram Lamb from above sheep, and a thorough bred Leicester Ewe. Will sell reasonable.

JOHN BUSKIN, Proprietor,
Vandeleur P. O.
Euphrasia, Nov. 1st, 1885. 268-70

Important

Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of the famous

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

"Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.

44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR,

Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address, PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, 751 Broadway, New York.

We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—ED. STANDARD.

Peck's Sun

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

GEORGE W. PECK
Editor and Proprietor.

The Funniest Paper in America

What Vaccination is to Small-pox PECK'S SUN is to the blues.

PECK'S SUN is one of the most widely read and popular papers in the country to-day, and stands without a peer in its specialty.

The Originator of the celebrated BAD BOY PAPERS.

Specimen Copies Free To Any Address.

Bear in mind that by sending a Postal Card to this office a Sample copy of Peck's Sun will be mailed you Free.

Don't neglect to send at once, and tell your neighbors to,

$1 Worth of Fun for 1c.

Address GEORGE L. LORD,
Business Manager, Milwaukee, Wis.

WILLIAM STUART,

KIMBERLEY,

Issuer of Marriage Licences. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.

Nov. 5, '85-1y

SavE MoneY

By buying your

Watches,
Clocks,
Jewelry,
Spectacles,
Pipes, &c.

AT

JAS. G. RUSSELL'S
FLESHERTON.

A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.
217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

HIGH SCHOOL
ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the next Entrance Examination to High Schools for the County of Grey, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd and 23rd days of December, 1885, at the Town of Owen Sound, the Village of Markdale and the Village of Thornbury respectively. It is requested that the probable number of Candidates from each locality shall be notified to me one month antecedent to the first of the above dates.

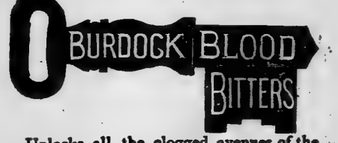
THOMAS GORDON,
Inspector W. Greg.
Markdale, 27th October, 1885. 16-402

STRAYED



FROM the premises of Mr. D. J. Lewis, lot 19, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the last of June, two ewes, one ram lamb and a ewe lamb. Any person giving information as to their whereabouts will be liberally rewarded. 267-3in.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding 3d class certificate, duties to commence 1st January, '86, for S. S. No. 15, Euphrasia. State salary. Applications received up to noon the 14th November.

JAMES ELLIOTT, Sec.-Treas.,
268-70 Markdale P. O.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Sample Bottles 10c; Regular size $1.

For sale by all dealers.

T. MILBURN & Co., Proprietors, Toronto.

THE WORLD OVER.

The new fortifications around Paris are no safeguard, according to German military authorities, but its siege would be more difficult than in 1870.

A genuine English sole is reported to have been caught in Long Island Sound near New Haven, a few days ago, and sent to a prominent naturalist for preservation.

Of thirteen lynchings conducted by one band of vigilantes in Montana during the three months, it is claimed that the right man was hanged in twelve instances.

Careful examination shows that in Massachusetts 32 per cent. of females in the laboring classes and 11 per cent. of males work on Sunday, in addition to their weekly services.

The Russian Government has decided that liquors shall be retailed only in hotels and eating houses. As a result of this edict 90,000 volka shops will be closed on Jan. 1, 1886.

A court martial recently condemned the chief surgeon of a Rhenish infantry regiment to nine years in the penitentiary for illegally letting off young men from military service.

A Justice in Georgia recently undertook to marry two couples at once and married both women to one of the men before he was aware of the fact. He afterward got the matter straightened out to the satisfaction of the contracting parties.

The Commission appointed by the Spanish Government to investigate the great Andalusian earthquakes last Christmas report that over 17,000 buildings were injured in Granada and Malaga, of which 4,400 were ruined; 745 persons were killed, and 1,485 wounded.

An ocean steamer lately took out to New Zealand a consignment of bumble bees. At present clover does not seed in that country, because there are no bumble bees to fertilize the flowers. The importer hopes that the bumble bees will save him $5,000 a year in clover seed.

The price of the Genesta, says the London Court Journal, is going up. Four thousand pounds sterling has been refused, but it is intimated that a compromise between that sum and the price asked for the cutter, £6,000, may be effected. This should mean that five thousand will do it.

It is doubtful if a legislative body in any country ever passed a law that was so completely and universally ignored as the anti-treating act of the last Legislature of Nevada. Everybody claims the right to treat a friend, and the claim is so reasonable that even the officers do not dispute it.

It required three men with a large wagon to move in lively fashion during the whole of a day lately to gather up and return to Hillsdale College, Mich., the 600 chairs and benches that had been distributed among the barns and fields in the neighboring country on the preceeding night by the students.

Late measurements give the height of the Mexican volcano, Popocatepetl, as 17,809 feet above the sea. The crater, which is completely obscure within by sulphurous vapor, is about 2½ miles in circuit and 1,000 feet deep. The entire centre of the top of the mountain seems to be solid sulphur, which is deposited at the rate of about a ton a day.

At the German naval port of Wilhelmshaven, on the North Sea, a number of laborers who were engaged in cleaning the iron hull of a steamer ate the mussels they found clinging thereto. The consequence was that nineteen of the men were taken violently ill, with unmistakable symptoms of poisoning, and in the course of a few hours four of them died.

An old inhabitant of the English village of Wednesbury, named Edward Hampson, a coachsmith, has just come into possession of $4,000,000 under the will of his uncle, Adam Roades, cattle dealer, of New Zealand. Roades, who was a Wednesbury man, left his native town fifty-three years ago almost penniless, and since that time he has acquired his wealth by means of cattle farming.

The French Government has commissioned Lieu. Palat, who is about to undertake a journey across the Sahara desert, from the Mediterranean Sea to Timbuctoo, to inquire into the feasibility of establishing a caravan route between the Soudan and Algeria, with a view to diverting to that province some of the commerce of the Soudanese and Saharan tribes that now flows only to Morocco and Tripoli.

One hundred and five years ago Nicholas Thomas and Lucy Somes lived in Mt. Desert Me., and wanted to be married. There was no minister within thirty miles and so they married themselves. On the town records under date of 1780, is the contract which they drew up and signed—agreeing, in "the presence of God, the angels, and these witnesses, to love, to cherish and nourish," and to "love, honor, and obey," as husband and wife as long as God should continue their lives.

To Mr. Willis, the well-known British student and operator in photography, is due the success achieved in the art of photo-chemical printing in metallic platinum in its metallic state as a pigmet, but in obtaining permanent and practical results by a method in which the particles of pigments forming the pictures are imbedded in and entangled among the fibre of the paper on which they are printed, not depending for their adhesion on the use of any sizing material. Paper is coated with a mixture of aqueous solutions of ferric oxalate and potassic chloro-platinate, then dried, and exposed to light under a negative. After it has had a sufficient exposure it is floated on a hot aqueous solution containing potassic oxalate and a salt of platinum. This solution instantly developes the picture, which is then washed in one or two solutions, to remove the chemical salts adhering to the paper.

Killing a Man-Eater.

Only two creatures are distinctly known as "man-eaters," namely, the shark and the tiger. Thousands of human beings are devoured annually in India by tigers, so that nothing can strike greater consternation into the hearts of the poor defenceless villagers of that great country than the cry of "tiger!" Any one who kills one of these beasts is regarded as a public benefactor; and perhaps among the reasons why the British have gained such a foot-hold in the country, is that Englishmen are so passionately fond of hunting, scores and hundreds of tigers, not to mention other wild animals, falling victims to their prowess every year. An officer in the British army of India gives the following description of his first experience with a man-eater:

I waited for daylight with much anxiety, and directly there was sufficient light, I got my people up and started for the place where we had tied a calf. Scarcely two hundred yards had been passed when we heard the tiger, which infested that part of the forest, roar loudly.

My guide, the father of the only remaining family in the village, whispered, "Wuh hai—that he is!" I replied, "If you run, you are a dead man. Keep behind us." Placing in front my head hunter, Mangkalee, who has a very good sight, while, in the dark, my own is very bad, we hurried along the path.

Coming to some rocks from which I knew that the tied-up calf could be seen, and thinking that the shikaree might not have remembered the spot, I pulled him back cautiously. I looked. There was the white calf, apparently dead. Mangkalee remarked as much in a whisper. The younger shikaree, Nursoo, was behind me on the left. We all gazed at a tail. The distance was some sixty yards from us, but we could not make out the tiger.

At length the end of the tail moved. Nursoo, making a similar motion with his fore-finger, whispered in my ear, "Doomhilta-hai" (The tail's moving). I now made out the body of the animal clear enough. Not a blade of grass nor a leaf was between us. A single forest tree, without a branch on it for thirty feet from the ground, was twenty yards nearer the tiger.

It was very probable that he would see us, but it must be risked; so pressing down my shikaree, Mangkalee, with my hand behind me, and keeping the trunk of the tree between the foe and me, while I said within myself, "If I get behind that tree without your seeing me, you're a dead tiger," I passed rapidly forward. So intent was the huge beast upon the poor calf, that it did not hear me. I placed the barrels of my rifle against the tree, but was obliged to wait.

The tiger and the calf lay contiguous, tails on end to us. The calf's neck was in the tiger's mouth, whose large paws embraced his victim. I looked, waiting for some change in the position of the body, to allow me to aim at a vital part. There were some forty paces between us.

At length the calf gave a struggle, and kicked the tiger, on which the latter clasped him nearer, arching his own body, and exposing the white of his belly and chest. I pulled the trigger very slowly, aiming at the white and firing for his heart,—he was on his left side,—as if I was firing at an egg for a thousand pounds.

I knew that I hit the spot aimed at, but, to my astonishment, the tiger sprang up several feet in the air with a roar, rolled over, and towards me,—for he was on higher ground than I was,—when, bounding to his feet as if unscathed, he made for the mountains, the last rock of which was within forty yards of him.

Immediately the tiger sprang to his feet and exposed his broad side to me, I stepped from behind the tree and shot him through the heart. He went straight and at undiminished speed, each bound covering fifteen feet at least, for twenty-five yards, and then fell on his head under the lowest rock of the mountain, in which was his stronghold. His extreme length, as he lay dead, was ten feet eight inches; his tail was only three feet three. His head was very large. The points of all his large fangs were considerably broken; this had saved the calf, who, though much scratched and with sundry holes in his neck, was alive, and is now well and happy with my milch cattle at Naypore.

Josh Billings wrote: "I have known a man who was so pious that when he went fishing on Sunday he always prayed to the Lord for good luck."

The Red Indians of Newfoundland.

BY A. G. WINTON.

Little is known of the once powerful though now extinct Bethuks or Boeothic tribe of red Indians, the aborigines of Newfoundland, that at one time sported along the sea-coast, and in the interior of the country, pitching their wigwams along the margin of its beautiful lakes and rivers, which teem with fish of the finest description, and giving chase to the noble carribon or reindeer that in vast numbers traversed the country from north to south, displaying their skill in the handling of the bow and arrow which they can use with great dexterity, and shooting the rapids with their light swift canoes, made from skins or the bark of birch trees neatly sewn together. One can easily imagine that Newfoundland, with its wild animals, its numerous lakes and rivers teeming with fish, its marshes swarming with ptarmigans, curlew, plover and snipe, whilst on the plains or barrens may be met countless herds of reindeer; what a paradise this must have been to these wild and savage aborigines, where:—

> "Untamed, untaught, in arms or arts unskilled;
> Their patrimonial soil they rudely tilled,
> Chased the free rovers of the savage wood,
> Ensnared the wild bird, swept the scaly flood;
> Or when the halcyon sported in the breeze,
> In light canoes they skimmed the rippling sea,
> The passing moment, all their bliss or care;
> Such as their sires had been—the children were."

Here they sported along its shores, and with the returning winter, sought refuge in the interior, where amidst its beautiful forests game, in abundance could still be found. Here in perfect security, their hunting grounds unintruded upon, they erected their wigwams far from the reach of civilization. Here in perfect happiness and savage luxury they reigned undisturbed.

When, therefore, John Cabot discovered Newfoundland in 1497, and came in contact with the aborigines of the island, who were clothed with skins and painted with red ochre, they naturally beheld his approach with terror and astonishment, thinking that the ship he had traversed the ocean with, was an enormous bird or animal. As no resistance was made, and as they seemed inclined to come to friendly terms, Cabot, with his crew, landed, and at once a friendly intercourse took place amongst them. It is evident that they must have become warm and close friends, for on Cabot taking leave of the New-found-land, three Indians accompanied him on his return voyage. But, unfortunately, the discovery of the island proved fatal to them. From the first friendly feelings had always existed between the Indians and their white invaders; this friendship, however, could not last long. The Indians, reared in their savage state, knew not the difference between right and wrong. Children of the forest though they were, loving the wild nature and freedom which were always theirs, bounding through the thick forests seeking the wild birds, and chasing the reindeer over barrens, on their swift and powerful steeds. To cure them of their wild and savage state was impossible. When the island, therefore, became more thickly populated, the Indians became more and more reserved towards the whites. They now suspected that their territory would be taken from them and become the property of their invaders. Already the axe of the woodman and settler could be heard resounding through the forest. The sea-coast began to swarm with men, busy and eager to gather the fortune that awaited them. Here, on the waters, could be seen boats of all nations gathering in the harvests that were of more value than the rich mines of Chili and Peru or the diamond fields of Africa; and over the barrens could be heard the sound of the rifle, as the hunter or trapper emerged from the outskirts of the forest, and bounded over the plains, scattering the rabbits or hares from their covers, in their wild and mad career. No wonder, that envious and jealous feelings gathered within the breasts of the Indians, as they saw their beautiful forests give way before the march of civilization, the wild animals robbed of their beautiful furs and the sea of its riches. Instead of friendly intercourse with the whites, a feeling of revenge and hatred came over them.

These savage children of the forest began at first to show a tendency to appropriate the white man's goods and wares whenever the opportunity occurred; this led to disputes and finally bloodshed. The hunters and trappers felt that the Indians were a source of annoyance, and they were looked upon as only fit to be destroyed.

The peace and harmony which the Indians had previously enjoyed were now about to be ended forever. Their hunting grounds were invaded by a tribe of Micmacs from Cape Breton and Nova Scotia, who, having learnt the use of fire-arms, carried on a war of extermination against them, which continued for a number of years. The Government made strenuous efforts to bring about a peaceful settlement, but of no avail. The unfeeling, barbarous hunters and trappers, assisted by the savage brutality of the Micmacs, had raised the savage nature of the once powerful red Indians, and at length "war to the knife" was proclaimed between the two races. Everywhere the Bathuks were hunted like wolves. Their bows and arrows could avail them nothing against the fire-arms of their invaders.

In order to bring about a reconciliation, the Governer, Sir John Duckworth, soon after his arrival in St. John's, in the summer of 1810, issued a proclamation enjoining all persons who came in contact with the red Indians to treat them with kindness so as to conciliate their affections. He also offered to anyone who should bring about and establish a permanent peace upon a firm and settled footing, the sum of one hundred pounds, and such a person he would honorably mention to His Majesty the King. But, unfortunately, it came too late; the Indians who had at one time maintained friendly relations with the white man, became at length fierce and implacable foes, and refused all overtures for peaceable intercourse. In the Autumn of the same year, Lieut. Buchan, with the assistance of William Cull, formed an exploring party for the purpose of seeking the Indians and if possible opening up communication with them. Having penetrated about one hundred and thirty miles in the interior, he came upon some wigwams of the Indians. These he surrounded, and their occupants, to the number of seventy, fell into his hands. He soon, however, overcame their terror, and established a peaceful footing with them. Seeing that the white men were friends instead of foes, four of the Indians, including the chief, accompanied Lieut. Buchan back to a place where he had left some presents, promising to be back the next morning. As the Indians and whites had become very friendly, two of the whites remained behind until the return of Lieut. Buchan the next morning. The following day, finding that Lieut. Buchan had not returned with their chief, the Indians began to suspect treachery and immediately murdered the two men and fled. Shortly after Lieut Buchan returned and was horrified to find the corpses of the two men with their heads severed from the body. The Indians who had accompanied him, seeing what had occurred, and fearing that a similar fate awaited them, if they remained, fled, and were never seen again.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

One minute's imprisonment in jail was the punishment imposed on a man charged in Clarendon (Ark.) court with having sold the products of land for which he had failed to pay the rent. The trial occupied several days, and upon the verdict being pronounced the condemned walked across the court room and placed himself in charge of the Sheriff, who took him to the jail, where he served out one minute's time.

The general depression of trade has made itself very severely felt in the artist world of England. Some of the artists, poor fellows, have been reduced to sore straits, as pictures are about the first things a very humanity economizes in when it wishes to draw in the reins of self indulgence. Well-known artists of established reputation find it difficult to dispose of their productions, and it is said that one painter has been so far reduced that he is glad to keep the pot of life boiling by the lowly industry of cleaning pictures.

Poole, the famous London tailor, who died some time ago, was no Cockney but a Simon-pure Yankee. The American Anglo-maniacs who patronized him under the fond delusion that he was thoroughly "English, you know," felt thoroughly disgusted when they learned the truth. The fact of the matter is, it is extremely doubtful if first-class American tailors are not facile princeps in their business. And that English tailors, the real sort, that is those who have never been anywhere else but in England, with all their excellencies, have not the same gift of giving stylish finish and cut to clothes as the architects on this side the water.

Here is a good example of the practical value of knowledge and the disadvantages of ignorance as to the relative values of things. A Connecticut man received a Persian rug as a present. Small-souled creature and bargain-hunter that he was, he got an opportunity to trade it for an ingrain carpet and snatched at the chance, thinking he had a good thing. The man who gave the carpet was equally ignorant of the value of the rug, and so were several other ignoramuses through whose hands it passed in course of trade. Finally, a connoisseur got possession of it for $20 and found no difficulty in disposing of it for twenty times what he had paid for it. What is the use of casting pearls before swine?

The days of skating are coming round again, and already pleasing anticipations of many an hour's pleasant sport are making glad the hearts of youth, and of a good many also that are not so young. Grandmotherliness is nine-tenths of the art of skating, and all who indulge in this most exhilarating of all winter sports, should seek with all their power to secure a graceful carriage while on the ice. If there is anything awkward-looking on earth it is the skater who sprawls along at an angle of thirty or thereabouts, with arms going like the wings of a windmill and legs exhibiting curious gyrations. There is no greater mistake that young skaters can make than to sacrifice grace for mere rapidity. Such rapidity is too dearly bought.

Nobody need despair of a Chinaman. He learns the ways of the white man's civilization with remarkable quickness. A good example of this comes from California, where they have recently established a trades union, and tested it a few days ago in the most approved fashion by ordering a strike of the sixty celestials employed in a cigar factory where there were 28 white laborers, the sole object being to compass the dismissal of the latter. There was no complaint about wages—the offensiveness of pale-faced competition it was that troubled Ah Sin. The strike appears to be exactly of a kind with the coal miners' strike in Wyoming against Chinese labor, except that the heathen have shown a superior humanity and regard for the forms of law.

A St. Louis paper deals very successfully with those crude thinkers who are constantly bewailing low prices as if they were a national calamity. "Is it," says this level-headed journal, "a calamity that a million families should be able to buy flour at 2½ instead of 3½ cents a pound; sugar at 7 instead of 10 cents; a cooking stove for $9 instead of $15; a suit of clothes for $5 instead of $10; and a blanket for $2 instead of $4? Are there not more consumers than producers in the country, and are not low prices, therefore, favorable to the larger number?" Of course they are. Every father of a family can see through that problem with half an eye. So let nobody be deceived by anybody's wailings about low prices, it is himself he is mourning over, nothing else.

To give lawyers their due they are a pretty long suffering class in their relation to the judges. They have a respect for the Bench which it takes a good deal to overthrow in the person of any particular occupant thereof. The majority of them reveal a submissiveness of feeling in receiving snubbings from their Lordships which says a great deal for their self-restraint. And so we conclude that things must be in a very bad way indeed, when a resolution like the following, respecting the Judge of the County Worcester, was carried by a vote of 51 to 4 by the Hamilton bar:—"Resolved,—That the dissatisfaction existing in the minds of a large number of the bar of this county with his Honor the Judge of this county, owing to his habitual discourtesy towards them while in the discharge of his duties as Judge, is well founded, and is a matter of extreme regret." This is certainly very strong. If not too strong, then the Judge in question is assuredly unfit for his position. A man who is "habitually discourteous" in the discharge of his duties has utterly mistaken his functions.

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.

Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages Handsomely bound in cloth.

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 358 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
372 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
370 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 360 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 352 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for anyone, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
352 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and Illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

The Glory and Majesty of the Unseen.

BY THOS. WHITEHEAD.

"For the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal."—2 Cor. iv. 18.

This world I deem
But a beautiful dream
Of shadows that are not what they seem;
Whose vivid hues rise
Giving dim surmise
Of that which shall meet our waking eyes.

Arm of the Lord!
Creating Word!
Whose glory the silent skies record!
Where stands Thy Name
In scrolls of flame
Beneath the firmament's high-shadowing frame!

I gaze overhead
Where Thy hand hath spread
For the waters of heaven their crystal bed;
And stored the dew,
In its depths of blue,
Which the fire of the sun came tempered through.

Soft they shine
Through that pure shrine;
Yet beneath, the veil of Thy flesh divine
Shines forth the light
That were else too bright
For the feebleness of a sinner's sight.

I gaze aloof
On the tissued roof
Where time and space are the warp and woof,
Which the King of Kings
Like a curtain flings
For the dreadfulness of eternal things.

A tapestried tent
To shade us meant
From the bare everlasting firmament;
Where the glow of the skies
Comes soft to our eyes
With a veil of mystical imageries!

But could I see,
As in truth they be,
The glories of heaven that encompass me,
I should tightly hold
The tissued fold
Of that marvellous curtain of blue and gold.

Soon the whole,
As a parchment scroll,
Shall before my amazed sight uproll;
And without a screen
At one burst be seen
The Presence wherein I have ever been.

But who may bear
The blinding glare
Of the Majesty that shall be there?
What eye may gaze
On the unveiled blaze
Of the light-girded throne of the Ancient of Days?

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, Cambridge, England.

Little Shop-Girl.

"She's an old darling," said Grace Craxall, "and I mean to help her all I can. I've got a beautiful recipe for chocolate eclairs, and on Friday evening I am going there to make up all that I can, so that the school children will buy them on Saturday. I know how to make cinnamon apple tarts, and lemon drops and cocoanut balls."

"Grace I do believe you have taken leave of your sense," said Medora May. "One would think it was disgrace enough for Aunt Deborah—our own mother's sister—to open a horrid little huckster shop without our helping ourselves up in the affair."

"But Aunt Debby must live, you know," said Grace, who was perched, kitten-fashion, on the window-sill, feeding the canary with bits of sparkling white sugar. "And Cousin Dixon couldn't keep her any longer, and her eyes are not strong enough for fine needlework, and her education has not fitted her to be a teacher, and her poor old rheumatic bones keep her from going behind a counter or entering a factory. I suppose you wouldn't be willing to have her come and live with you?"

"I!" cried Medora. "Do you suppose I am going to proclaim to the whole town that I have such a dilapidated old relation as—"

"I would take her quick enough," said Medora, "if I didn't board with Mrs. Howitt, and share the little up-stairs back room with the two children. Just wait until I marry some rich man," she added, with a sudden uplifting of her auburn brows, "and then see if I don't furnish up a stately apartment for Aunt Debby?"

"Don't talk nonsense," said Medora Taylor. "It's very likely, isn't it, that a pretty girl like you is going to marry a rich man?"

Grace Craxall laughed merrily. All through life she and her cousin, Medora Taylor, had agreed to differ on most points. Grace, seeing no other career before her had, on the death of her last surviving parent, resolutely entered a factory, while Medora, to her stand on the platform of a fashionable lady, had done fine sewing and silk embroidery on the sly to support herself, and keep on all the airs of a young lady of fashion the while. And now Aunt Deborah Craxall, to the infinite disgust of her aristocratically inclined niece, had actually opened a little low-windowed shop in a shady street just out of the main thoroughfare, which Medora despairingly expressed it, went into trade!"

"Aunt Debby, in her bewildered loneliness, had scarcely known what to do until Grace Craxall came to the rescue with her natural courage and straightforward common-sense.

"I only wish it wasn't sinful to take a little laudanum and put myself out of the way," sighed the poor old lady.

"Oh, Aunt Debby, that doesn't sound like you," said Grace cheerfully.

"But what am I to do?" said Aunt Deborah.

"What can you do?" said Grace.

"I don't know as I am good for anything," said the old lady with a quiet tear or two, "except to help around the house, and I am not strong enough for regular hired help. My uncle always used to say I was a master hand at making bread."

"Then make it," brightly interrupted Grace.

"Why," said Aunt Debby.

"There's a nice little store to let on Bay street," went on Grace, "for ten dollars a month."

"But I haven't got ten dollars a month," interrupted Aunt Debby.

"I will lend it to you," said Grace, "out of wages I have saved. And there's a nice bedroom at the back of the shop, and a good dry basement under it, where you can bake your bread. I know, for the dear old lady where I board is looking for boarding rooms, and I heard her talking about it."

"But you mean to open a bakery?" said Aunt Debby.

"Exactly that," explained Grace. "Mrs. Howitt, or Mrs. Taylor, or any

"Do you one," "that U will go to hea Why do you waking from thinking wha would make—luding the chief, accompanied Lieut. back to a place where he had left sents, promising to be back the rning. As the Indians and whites me very friendly, two of the whites behind until the return of Lieut. he next morning. The following that Lieut. Buchan had not reith their chief, the Indians began t treachery and immediately surtwo men and fled. Shortly after uchan returned and was horrified e corpses of the two men with the vered from the body. The Indians accompanied him, seeing what had and fearing that a similiar fate hem, if they remained, fled, and er seen again.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

ISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

nute's imprisonment in jail was the nt imposed on a man charged in a n (Ark.) court with having sold the of land for which he had failed to rent. The trial occupied several up on the verdict being pronounced mned walked across the court room d himself in charge of the Sheriff, him to the jail, where he served inute's time.

neral depression of trade has made severely felt in the artist world d. Some of the artists, poor fel- e been reduced to sore straits, as re about the first things average economizes in when it wishes to he reins of self indulgence. Well- tists of established reputation find to dispose of their productions, eid that one painter has been so d that he is glad to keep the pot ing by the lowly industry of clean- es.

he famous London tailor, who died ago, was no Cockney but a Simon- kee. The American Anglo-man- patronized him under the fond de- he was thoroughly 'English, you it thoroughly disgusted when they e truth. The fact of the matter remely doubtful if first-class Am- ors are not facile princeps in their And that English tailors, the hat is those who have never been else but in England, with all their es, have not the same gift of giv- finish and cut to clothes as the on this side the water.

a good example of the practical knowledge and the disadvantages ce as to the relative values of Connecticut man received a g as a present. Small-souled nd bargain-hunter that he was, he portunity to trade it for an ingrain snatched at the chance, thinking od thing. The man who gave was equally ignorant of the value and so were several other ignorough whose hands it passed in rade. Finally, a connoisseur got of it for $20 and found no difficul- sing of it for twenty times what id for it. What is the use of arls before swine?

s of skating are coming round already pleasing anticipations of hour's pleasant sport are making hearts of youth, and of a good that are not so young. Graceful- e-tenths of the art of skating and lulge in this most exhilarating of sports, should seek with all their ecure a graceful carriage while If there is anything awkward- earth it is the skater who sprawls n angle of thirty or thereabouts, going like the wings of a wind- gs exhibiting curious gyrations. o greater mistake that young make than to sacrifice grace for lity. Such rapidity is too dear-need despair of a Chinaman. He ways of the white man's civilisa- remarkable quickness. A good this comes from California, where ecently established a trades un- ted it a few days ago in the most shion by ordering a strike of the ials employed in a cigar factory were 28 white laborers, the sole to compass the dismissal of the re was no complaint about wages iveness of pale-faced competition hat troubled Ah Sin. The ars to be exactly of a kind with ners' strike in Wyoming against bor, except that the heathens a superior humanity and regard s of law.

uis paper deals very successfully erude thinkers who are constant- low prices as if they were a na- ity. "Is it," says this level-head- "a calamity that a million fam- be able to buy flour at 2½ instead a pound; sugar at 7 instead of ooking stove for $9 instead of $15; othes for $5 instead of $10; and r $2 instead of $4? Are there nsumers than producers in the d are not low prices, therefore, the larger number?' Of course Every father of a family can see t problem with half an eye. He be deceived by anybody's wail- low prices, it is himself he is ver, nothing else.

wyers their due they are a pretty g class in their relation to the ey have a respect for the Bench es a good deal to overthrow is f any particular occupant there- jority of them reveal a submis- feeling in receiving snubbings Lordships which says a great deal elf-restraint. And so we con- things must be in a very bad way, n a resolution like the following, he Judge of the County Court carried by a vote of 51 to 4 by on bar:—"Resolved,—That the on existing in the minds of a er of the bar of this county with he Judge of this county, owing to discourtesy towards them while large of his duties as Judge, is d, and is a matter of extreme re- is certainly very strong. If not then the Judge in question is fit for his position. A man who ly discourteous" in the discharge has utterly mistaken his func-

The Glory and Majesty of the Unseen.

BY THOS. WHITEHEAD.

"For the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal."—2 Cor. v. 18.

This world I deem
But a beautiful dream
Of shadows that are not what they seem;
Whose visions rise
Giving dim surmise
Of that which shall meet our waking eyes.

Arm of the Lord!
Creating Word!
Whose glory the silent skies record!
Where stands Thy Name
In scrolls of flame
Emblazoned on the firmament's high-shadowing frame!

I gaze overhead
Where Thy hand hath spread
For the waters of heaven their crystal bed;
And stored the dew,
In its depths of blue,
Which the fires of the sun came tempered through.

Soft they shine
Through that pure shrine;
As beneath the veil of Thy flesh divine
Shines forth the light
That were else too bright
For the feebleness of a sinner's sight.

I gaze aloof
On the tissued roof
Where time and space are the warp and woof,
Which the King of Kings
Like a curtain flings
For the dreadfulness of eternal things.

A tapestried tent
To shade us meant
From the bare everlasting firmament;
Where the glow of the skies
Comes soft to our eyes
Through a veil of mystical imageries!

But could I see,
As in truth they be,
The glories of heaven that encompass me,
I should tightly hold
The tissued fold
Of that marvellous curtain of blue and gold.

Soon the whole,
As a parchment scroll,
Shall before my amazed sight uproll;
And without a screen
At one burst be seen
The Presence wherein I have ever been.

But who may bear
The blinding glare
Of the Majesty that shall be there?
What eye may gaze
On the unveiled blaze
Of the light-girded throne of the Ancient of Days?

St. John's College, Cambridge, England.

A Little Shop-Girl.

"She's an old darling," said Grace Craxall, "and I mean to help her all I can. I've got a beautiful recipe for chocolate eclairs, and on Friday evening I am going there to make up all that I can, so that the school children will buy them on Saturday. I know how to make cinnamon apple tarts, and lemon drops and cocoanut balls."

"Grace! I do believe you have taken leave of your senses," said Medora May. "One would think it was disgrace enough for Aunt Deborah—our own mother's sister—to open a horrid little huckster shop without our making ourselves up in the affair."

"But Aunt Debby must live, you know," said Horace, who was perched, kitten-fashion, on the window-sill, feeding the canary with lumps of sparkling white sugar. "And Cousin Marion couldn't keep her any longer, and her eyes are not strong enough for fine needlework, and her education has not fitted her to be a teacher, and her poor old rheumatic bones keep her from going behind a counter or entering a factory. I suppose you wouldn't be willing to have her come and live with you?"

"I?" cried Medora. "Do you suppose I intend to proclaim to the whole town that I have taken a dilapidated old relation as a—"

"I would take her quick enough," said Grace, "if I didn't board with Mrs. Howitt, and share the little up-stairs back room with three children. Just wait until I marry some rich man," she added, with a roguish twinkling of her auburn brows, "and you'll see if I don't furnish up a stately apartment for Aunt Debby?"

"Don't talk nonsense," said Medora sharply. "It's very likely, isn't it, that a city girl like you is going to marry a rich man!"

Grace Craxall laughed merrily. All through life she and her cousin, Medora Day, had agreed to differ on most points. Neither seeing no other career before her had, on the death of her last surviving parent, than entering a factory, while Medora, declaring her stand on the platform of a false beauty, had done fine sewing and silk embroidery on the sly to support herself, putting on all the airs of a young lady of fashion the while. And now Aunt Deborah, to the infinite disgust of her aristocratically inclined niece, had actually opened a little low-windowed shop in a shady street, just out of the main thoroughfare, and Medora despairingly expressed it, "gone into trade!"

"But Aunt Debby, in her bewildered loneliness, had scarcely known what to do until Grace Craxall came to the rescue with her usual courage and straightforward common-sense.

"I only wish it wasn't sinful to take a little laudanum and put myself out of the way," sighed the poor old lady.

"Now, Aunt Debby, that doesn't sound like you," said Grace cheerfully.

"But what am I to do?" said Aunt Deborah.

"What can you do?" said Grace.

"I don't know as I am good for anything," said the old lady with a quiet tear or two, "except to help around the house, and I'm not strong enough for regular hired help. My uncle always used to say I was a master-hand at making bread."

"Then make it," brightly interrupted Grace.

"Eh," said Aunt Debby.

"There's a nice little store to let on Bay street," went on Grace, "for ten dollars a month."

"Dear! I haven't got ten dollars a month," interrupted Aunt Debby.

"I'll lend it to you," said Grace, "out of the wages I have saved. And there's a nice bedroom at the back of the shop, and a good dry basement under it, where you can bake your bread. I know, for the old lady where I board is looking for bread-making rooms, and I heard her talking about it."

"Do you mean to open a bakery?" said Aunt Debby.

"Not exactly that," explained Grace. "Mrs. Howitt, or Mrs. Taylor, or any of the ladies around here could get real home-made bread, such as you make, do you suppose they would put up with the sour stuff they get at the baker shops? And you could easily get up a reputation on your raisin cakes, and fried crullers, and New England pumpkin pies. Now couldn't you?"

The old lady brightened up a little.

"I used to be pretty good at cooking," said she. "And if you think I could support myself so—"

"I am sure of it!" cried cheerful Grace. "And I'll go there with you this very day to look at the place, and will engage it for three months on trial. And I can paint you a sign to put over your door. "Home-made bread by Mrs. Deborah May!" And I'll hem you some curtains and arrange the shelves in the low window! I almost wish I was going to be your shop girl," she added merrily. "But I can help you in the evening you know!"

Grace Craxall's prophecies proved correct, Aunt Debby's delicious home-made bread, whiter than powdered lilies, sweet as ambrosia, soon acquired a reputation, and the old lady could scarcely bake it fast enough. People came half a dozen blocks to buy the yellow pumpkin pies and delicious apple tarts; children brought their hoarded pennies to invest in chocolate sweetmeats, vanilla caramels, and cream cakes with puffy shells and delicious centres of sweetness. The little money-drawer grew fat with coins, and Aunt Debby's dim eyes grew bright and hopeful again.

And one day Mr. Herbert Valance, walking by with Medora May, stopped and looked in.

"Isn't that your cousin Grace," said he, "behind the counter?"

Medora turned crimson with vexation.

"My cousin Grace?" she said. "No, indeed! We are not—in trade."

What possessed her to utter this deliberate falsehood Medora could not afterward have told. Partly the sting of false shame, partly a disinclination for Mr. Herbert Valance to know that her relations were, to use her expression, "not ladies and gentlemen."

Mr. Valance looked up at the sign over the door.

"The name is May," he remarked indifferently.

"Yes," said Medora, angry at herself blushing so deeply, "but we are no relation."

Mr. Valance thought over the matter; he afterward met Miss May at a party given by a friend, where pretty Grace Craxall was also present; he had taken rather a fancy to the bright blue eyes and delicate blonde beauty of the former. Valance Hall, on the hill just out of the city, was solitary enough, now that his sisters had all married and gone away, and perhaps a man might find a less attractive and graceful wife than Medora May. But he could not be mistaken, he thought, in Grace Craxall's identity.

And so the next evening, about the same time, he sauntered into the shop.

Grace was behind the daintily-clean little counter, taking some newly-baked maple caramels off the pan. She looked up with a smile.

"Good evening, Mr. Valance," said she.

"So," he thought, "I wasn't mistaken after all. And the little blue-eyed seraph is mortal enough to tell a lie in spite of her angelic appearance!"

But he looked serenely at Grace.

"I didn't know you were in trade," said he.

"Didn't you? Well," retorted Grace, "I am my Aunt Deborah's shop-girl at present. I always come here in the evenings to help her, because," she added, with a sweet shade of seriousness coming over her face, "aunt was old and poor, and she didn't quite know how to maintain herself in independence; and, unfortunately, my wages at the factory are not enough for us both. So I advised her to open this business, and she did, and she's doing well; and she bakes the most delicious bread and pies you ever ate, so," with a saucy twinkle under her eyelashes, "if you know of any customers, will you please recommend our firm?"

"To be sure I shall," he answered in the same spirit. "And I am very glad, Miss Craxall, to see that you are not ashamed of being a working girl."

"Of course I am not," said Grace. "Why should I be?"

"But your cousin Medora is."

Grace gave a little shrug of her shoulders.

"Very likely," said she. "Medora and I differ in many things."

Mr. Valance bought a pound of caramels, and went away.

"She is a beauty," he said to himself "And she is a sensible beauty into the bargain. One of those rare creatures in our country, a thoroughly well-balanced girl."

He must have been well pleased with his purchase, for he came again the next evening, just in time to walk home with Grace Craxall. And they talked over Aunt Deborah's affairs, and concluded as flour was low just then, it would be a favorable opportunity for the old lady to lay in her winter stock through Mr. Valance, who was acquainted with one of the great Toronto grain merchants.

Only a few weeks had elapsed when Medora May was electrified to learn that her cousin Grace was engaged.

"To some master baker or journeyman confectioner, I suppose," she said contemptuously.

"No," said Grace, with eyes roguishly sparkling, "to Mr. Herbert Valance."

"I—don't—believe—it," said Medora, growing red, then pale.

"But it's really so," said Grace. "And we are to be married in three months. And Aunt Debby is to come to the hall and live with me as soon as she can dispose of her business to advantage. And, dear Medora, I hope you will often come and visit me there."

Medora May did not answer. She could not. But in her secret heart she recognized how infinitely more successful in life's lists had been Grace's true, frank honesty, than her own subtle and devious course.

Like many another, however, the lesson had come to her too late.

"Do you think, mamma," said a little one, "that Uncle Reuben is a good man and will go to heaven?" "I think so, my child. Why do you ask?" "Oh, nothing much," waking from a sort of reverie; "I was thinking what a funny looking angel he would make—that's all."

THE FARM.

The Poultry Yard.

The fall work in the poultry yard does not amount to much, but it is very important that what little work there is to be done should be done properly, and at the right time. First is the little things about the care and management of poultry, which, if tended to properly, keep the fowls in such good condition and thrift.

Above all things do not neglect cleanliness; for fowls will keep healthier and in better condition on meager quantities of coarse food with cleanliness, than if fed on the best and most nourishing food if entombed in filthy quarters. Clean the house often and scatter plenty of dry earth and fresh sand around the house and under the roosts. Clean dirt surely is cheap, but becomes quite valuable when applied for this purpose.

Care bestowed upon poultry is not lost by any means, as some persons seem to think, for the fowls appreciate kindness and care very quick in returning favors in the shape of nice fresh eggs. The better the care and the more varied the food, the bettor will be the results, and the more profitable they will be to their owner.

There is at present a great deal of interest manifested in the rearing of Bantams. The smallest specimens are considered the best, being the hardest to obtain. The practice followed by most breeders seems very cruel, to say the least. They do not set the hens until very late in the season, so that the chicks will only be partly grown when the cold weather comes. This will serve to stunt their growth more or less, and this is just what the breeders want to accomplish. Besides this, they are oftentimes very scantily fed for the same reason, it being very desirable to have them as small as possible. They make beautiful little pets, and are much more profitable than most of our ornamental fowls.

The time for selling chicks is now at hand. They are now of a large size and the best breeders can be easily picked out. Now is really the time to start into the poultry business, for good stock can be purchased at reasonable prices, and by changing location now they will become accustomed to their new quarters, and be in excellent breeding condition in the spring. If they are bought in the spring at breeding time, the change will oftentimes break up their laying, and it will take considerable to recover and get in good breeding condition again. And, as time is so valuable in breeding season, it is sometimes quite a serious loss.

Experience is a valuable teacher. The reader should look over the past season, and see wherein he has made mistakes, and try to improve the next season. Experience teaches that the best way to ship eggs is in baskets, and never in boxes. There is always more or less complaint about eggs being received in bad order; and anything that can be done to avert this should be carefully attended to by the reader. The trouble with shipping in boxes is, that they are handled too rough; but the instant an expressman sees a basket with cloth cover sewed on, he knows immediately what it contains, and handles it accordingly. When shipped in a box, the chances are that they will be handled as ordinary freight, no matter how many special warnings may be written or pasted on the box, for the expressman dose not take time to read them; the natural consequence is that they get well shaken up before they reach their destination.

There is a great deal of talk and writing about the "best kind of fowls" and which breed brings the best returns. This is most of it guess work more than anything else, as there is no one variety best for all purposes. They nearly all have their special points of excellence, and breeders should first determine qualities he wants best developed in his fowls, and select accordingly. He should fully decide whether he wants eggs alone, or a good market variety, or simply an ornamental variety that makes a nice appearance on the lawn. No matter what quality is desired, it can easily be found, as we have so many varieties of fancy fowls, that it is but a simple matter to get the right bird if the breeder knows just what he is desirous of obtaining.

Farm Fences.

Perhaps no better treatise upon fences can be given than a farmer's reason for seeking a different fence that those already in use. Every year upon my farm I usually divided one or more grass fields, so as to mow one portion, and pasture the other, or to keep different kinds of stock by themselves, which I consider desirable, especially in the case of milch cows and sheep. I found it a great job to move the necessary amount of rail fence to accomplish the desired purpose, and when built such temporary fences were blown down in places by every heavy wind that came; stock, especially horses, were constantly knocking it down, colts, finding it one of the finest of pastimes to see how many rails they could knock down in a day, till there was no rest for the weary old farmer from rebuilding; hence he thought, in his weariness, cannot this be changed? Cannot some device be made that can be moved with ease, that will not blow down, that colts will let alone, that is a good sheep and hog fence? Such a fence must be high as possible, therefore let us use all the wire we can, form a bridge to keep it tight, put the wire at the top so that the wind will not blow it down or cattle press it over, with boards at the bottom to form the bridge, also to make a fence against sheep and hogs. It must be made in lengths so that it can be moved apart at any time (14 feet proves the best length;) we want it straight, to let us couple it together end to end. The couplers must allow the fence to follow the uneven surface of the ground; the upper couplers will spread going over a hill, the lower through a hollow, hence it will leave no hog holes under the fence. This coupler makes the best point from which to support the lengths. What shall I anchor it with was the next question An iron rod can be driven easily; being of uniform size it can be drawn easily also. If I use a large, stiff rod when I draw the top one way the bottom will move in the opposite direction. That will not do; the rod must be as light as may be and support the fence, then the lower end of the rod will not move, hence the post when drawn over will again resume its upright position.

The height of fashion—A dude's collar.

WATER STAR AUGUR 600 Per Day WELL BORING

has no superior; 20 feet per hour; hand or horse power; combined boring and rock drilling machine; grand success; first prizes and diplomas. Send for Circulars.

68 Mary Street, Hamilton, Canada.

CHRISTMAS CARDS BY MAIL

At less than Wholesale Prices. All well assorted. No two alike. Postage prepaid. BIRTHDAY CARDS may be included. NOT FRINGED. FRINGED.

25 CARDS, good value, for $ 25 $1.50.
25 " larger, " 50 2.25.
25 " very fine, " 1.00 3.25.

N.B. Orders may be proportionately mixed. Cash to accompany order. Address,

Matthews Bros. & Co., Toronto

CANADA PERMANENT LOAN & SAVINGS CO.

Incorporated, A.D. 1855.

Subscribed Capital..... $3,000,000
Paid up Capital..... 2,200,000
Reserve Fund..... 1,100,000
Total Assets..... 3,600,000

OFFICE:

Company's Buildings, Toronto St., Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first-class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to

J. HERBERT MASON, Managing Director

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER

Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO., 13 FRONT ST. EAST, Toronto.

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a weakly woman or girl 12 years old, without the use of a wash board, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bed clothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

CAUTION.

EACH PLUG OF THE

MYRTLE NAVY

IS MARKED

T & B.

IN BRONZE LETTERS.

NONE OTHER GENUINE

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat. Every one should have them. Price 10c. each—three for 25c. Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c., or 25c. per box of 3 cakes, post paid to any address upon receipt of price. Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application. Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Free Lands and Cheap Homes FOR THE MILLION

Along the line of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in Central Dakota and Northern Nebraska. New sections are being opened up and rapidly settled in these wonderfully productive regions, and the "first comers" will have "first choice" of location.

For full information (which will be sent you free of charge) about the free lands and cheap homes, apply to

JOHN H. MORLEY, Western Canadian Pass. Agent, C. & N. W. R., 9 York St., Toronto, Ont.
R. S. HAIR, General Pass. Agent, Chicago, Ills.

CUT THIS OUT

The New Co-Operative

Sewing Machines!

—ARE THE—

BEST IN THE MARKET.

NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!

Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine $60
Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and sample of sewing.

Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.

Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write

THE CO-OPERATIVE Sewing Machine Co. 22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON.

ONLY $15.  ONLY $15.

"SUN" TYPE-WRITER.

This is not a rubber stamp, but a genuine metal type manifolding machine. Just the thing for clergymen, teachers, business men and others, having limited correspondence. As a guarantee that the machine is as represented, I agree to receive it any time within 6 months at price paid in exchange for the Celebrated Remington Perfected Type-Writer.

GEORGE BENGOUGH, Sole Agent, 34 King Street, East, Toronto.

FROM THE BOOT & SHOE MANUFACTURERS OF MONTREAL

Whereas the reports of the epidemic in Montreal have, for obvious reasons, been greatly exaggerated, we, the undersigned Boot and Shoe Manufacturers of Montreal, beg to inform the trade and the public generally that our manufacturing establishments are entirely outside and far removed from what is known as the Infected District; that the extraordinary precautions taken by us render it extremely improbable that contagion can be carried in our goods; that every employee in our establishment has been vaccinated and re-vaccinated (their families also being vaccinated), and that a thorough examination of the homes of our operatives has been made by competent physicians; and that it is acknowledged by the Medical Faculty that the combination of chemicals used in the tanning, colouring, and finishing of the leather used in Boots and Shoes is in itself a potent disinfectant.

We have also complied with every requirement of the ONTARIO BOARD OF HEALTH, and after close examination of our factories by Doctor Covernton, their Chief Inspector, we have received his certificates.

(Signed),

AMES, HOLDEN & CO.,
JAMES LINTON & CO.,
JAMES POPHAM & CO.,
JAMES WHITHAM & CO.,
GEO. T. SLATER,
SHARPE & McKINNON,
JAMES McCREADY & CO.,
R. McCREADY & CO.,
COCHRANE, CASSILS & CO.,
G. BOIVIN.

PEERLESS OIL!

Ahead of All Competitors.

HIGHEST HONORS AND GOLD MEDAL AT TORONTO.

Six Gold Medals in Three Years—Best Record in the World.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

Ask for PEERLESS, and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO. } Queen City Oil Works, TORONTO, ONT.

$10 Reward for the Conviction

Of Dealers who offer and Sell Inferior Oil of Other Manufacture for McCOLL'S

The Above Reward LARDINE Will be Paid

MACHINE OIL.

Eureka Cylinder, Bolt Cutting & Wool Oils. | For sale by all leading dealers. | McColl Bros. & Co Toronto

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,

(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,

Fashionable Tailor,

OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.

A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON,

Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,

MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE, - - ONT.

J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WM. G. GUTHERIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

JOSEPH GIBSON

CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,

TAILOR,

Sydenham Street,

MARKDALE.

MARKDALE

HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Also agent for the celebrated

CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,

MARKDALE.

Manufacturer of all kinds of

PUMPS,

Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.

Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's

PATENT LOAD LIFTER

For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,

UNDERTAKER,

MARKDALE,

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—

PICTURE FRAMING

Done on short notice.

ROBT. ASKIN.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

FARM FOR SALE OR TO RENT.

LOT North ½ 16 on the 11th concession, Holland, 100 acres, 70 acres cleared, 30 acres in good state of cultivation, the balance hay and pasture. There is on the farm a good log house and frame kitchen, a good well near the house also a log barn. School and Post-office on the next lot. Will rent for a term of years and take improvements for rent, or will sell on easy terms. For particulars apply to

JAMES BRUCE,
Lilly Oak,
Or to William Steele, Ionia, Michigan.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
258-tf Goderich.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

Monthly Fairs.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Markdale—Saturday before Orangeville.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Holland Centre—Saturday before Chatsworth.

Priceville—Monday before Durham,

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

J. W. FORD.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE. ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,

MANUFACTURER OF

MARBLE AND GRANITE

MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,

Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED

3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

H. B. HARRISON.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.

124ly

CANADIAN PACIFIC R'

OWEN SOUND BRANCH

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, November 2nd,

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "
Orangeville. Arrive	9 50 "
Orangeville. Leave	10 05 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "
Shelburne	10 45 "
Dundalk	11 10 "
Flesherton	11 36 "
Markdale	11 51 "
Berkeley	12 4 3pm
Williamsford	12 12 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.
Owen Sound	5 20am
Chatsworth	5 50 "
Williamsford	6 05 "
Berkeley	6 14 "
Markdale	6 27 "
Flesherton	6 42 "
Dundalk	7 06 "
Shelburne	7 31 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "
Orangeville. Arrive	8 13 "
Orangeville. Leave	8 35 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival of C. P. R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Duluth in Manitoba and North-West.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; J. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for November, 15th at 7 p. m. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid Society in connection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A cordial welcome to brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Secretary.

NEW GROCERY STO

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed

Having just received

Choicee, Fresh and S

STOCK OF

Teas, Sugars, Tobacco

Which will be sold VERY C

I respectfully solicit the patronage.

193 J. PLEW

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Costiveness, or any disease arising from a torpid liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a safe and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY.

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known remedies, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with certain other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, which have a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Liver and Blood. 500,000 SOLD Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Cure were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with any ailment or complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Receipt Book (84 pages), containing over one thousand pronounced by medical men and druggists to be invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure remedy.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

E. T. SOMANSOK & CO., Sole Agents.

Mar

VOL. 6.--No. 272.

T-H-A-N-K-S!

TO THE PUBLIC.

Many thanks for your generous support during the past years. By straight dealing, honest representation of goods, fair prices, and satisfactory work, I trust to merit continuance of your patronage.

W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

SHELBURNE has now a roller rink.

BUSINESS booming at J. R. Trimbles.

SHOT gun for sale, apply to Smith barber.

MRS. CIPHER of Allenford visited friends in Markdale this week.

GABRIEL DUMONT is reported to have left last Sunday in Montreal.

THE SCOTT ACT was defeated in St. Thomas last week by 578 majority.

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP will remove all kinds of Worms from children or adults.

FIVE colts were killed on the R. R. crossing near Melancthon station recently.

W. H. ELDER of Flesherton has purchased "Jimmie Puzzler" from W. Campaigne.

Messrs. Benson talk of erecting a large roller rink along side their brick block on Mill St.

THERE will be no Chronicle this week, owing to the removal of the office to new premises.

OVERSHOES and Rubbers in great variety at McLeod's, and cheaper than any place else in town.

For Bedroom Suits, Sideboards, Sideboards, Lounges and Cradles, go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS are safe in all cases. They destroy and remove Worms in children or adults.

BLANK NOTES put up in books of 20, 25 and 50, suitable for auctioneers and farmers, at the STANDARD office.

HOUSE and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Travers-ton, or to this office. 266-tf

SUBSCRIPTIONS received since last week for Mrs. Gill:—A Plewes, $5.00; M. Haskett, $5.00; Wm. Guthrie, $5.00.

FORTY thousand packages of Rejuvenator Bitters sold in four years by its own merits. Sold by Smith, the barber.

500,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

TEACHER WANTED, for S. Section No. 6, Holland, for '86. Apply to Wm. Jackson, STANDARD office, Markdale.

JOHN H. ANDERSON, tax collector for Div. No. 2, Artemesia, will be at the Markdale House on Saturday, the 28th inst., for the purpose of receiving AXES the Bro's.

TENDERS for the new Monday, the 1st De

FUR line Men's fine sian Lamb McFarland

MR. WM being lot 1 Road, Glen for $2,000

PROF. Le Healing, s eruptive di lightful for NATIONAL a safe, mild acting up promptly a

MR. MIL vented a bo a patent in has a fortu

KEEP yo your left e formance a Friday eve

TWO YEA for sale, ch R. Freebor ford. Also FOUND— Sarjeant's last, a bu owner can this office.

ONE of th have had t long time umphant b in perfectio

MR. ROB Monday fro to remain N. W. very of Ontario

THE Mt. estray abo Markdale b just one m December

AT a me Erskine Pr Thanksgivi accept the Rev. J. T.

JAS. NOB shipped off empty beer larger num gallon cask beer.—Me

SAVE M secure a lo in order to high rate STANDARD strictly pri

REJUVEN and remove the system Liver, Sto nature's ch health. S

MANY of vaccinated plain of the vaccine pe many cases to quit wor Mirror.

REMOVAL leased Mr to the City large and dies, Bise manufactu always on SAD Acc Mr. Joseph of the O (Sydenham Tuesday a Dr. Christ and prom little suffer fully atten

CANADIAN PACIFIC R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	E
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6
Orange- Arrive	9 50 "
ville. Leave	10 05 "	7
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7
Shelburne	10 45 "	8
Mundalk	11 10 "	8
Flesherton	11 36 "	9
Markdale	11 51 "	9
Berkeley	12 03pm	9
Williamsford	12 12 "	9
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2
Chatsworth	5 50 "
Williamsford	6 05 "
Berkeley	6 14 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3
Flesherton	6 42 "
Mundalk	7 06 "	4
Shelburne	7 31 "	4
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5
Orange Arrive	8 12 "
ville.. Leave	8 35 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "

Special Steamship Express leaves
Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sa or Toronto and Points East, on arrival
Steamship from Port Arthur and
Manitoba and North West.

Markdale Church Direct

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10:3
Prayer Meeting every Wednesday even o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor;
Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for November, 15th at 7
2nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December
0:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30
7th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incu
W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.
Services every Sunday at 10:30 a.
p. m. Sunday School at 2:30.
Meeting every Thursday evening from
Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; W A.
S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid
Section: Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No 78, meet
Alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock
Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141
Their Hall, McDougall's block, every Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A brethren of neighboring lodges solicit

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets
Hall on Friday on or before full moo month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J.
Secretary.

NEW GROCERY ST
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed
Having just received
Choicee, Fresh and S
STOCK OF
Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacco,
Which will be sold VERY C
I respectfully solicit the patronage.
193 J. PLEWE

THE CELEBRATE
Dr. CHA
MANDRAK
DAND
LIV
CUR
HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion,
Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in Costiveness, or any disease arising from liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be f
and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Li Liver Complaint rests solely with the fa compounded from nature's well-known liver
MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined other invaluable roots, barks and herbs powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach,
Blood.
500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's were sold in Canada alone. We want woman and child who is troubled with plaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY F
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase is a valuable Household Medical Guide Book (84 pages), containing over 100 re pronounced by medical men and druggists able, and worth ten times the price of the TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
E. GOMARSON & CO., Sole Agents.

Markdale Standard

VOL. 6.--No. 272. MARKDALE, ONT., NOV. 26, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

T-H-A-N-K-S!

TO THE PUBLIC.

Many thanks for your generous support during the past years. By straight dealing, honest representation of goods, fair prices, and satisfactory work, I trust to merit continuance of your patronage.

W. A. BROWN,

The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

SHELBURNE has now a roller rink.

BUSINESS booming at J. R. Trimbles.

Shot gun for sale, apply to Smith the barber.

MRS. CIPHER of Allenford visited friends in Markdale this week.

GABRIEL DUMONT is reported to have left last Sunday in Montreal.

THE SCOTT ACT was defeated in St. Catharines last week by 578 majority.

DR. LOW'S WORM SYRUP will remove all kinds of Worms from children or adults.

FIVE colts were killed on the R. R. crossing near Melancthon station recently.

W. H. ELDER of Flesherton has purchased "Jimmie Puzzler" from W. Campaigne.

Messrs. Benson talk of erecting a large roller rink along side their brick block on Mill St.

THERE will be no Chronicle this week, owing to the removal of the office to new premises.

OVERSHOES and Rubbers in great variety at McLeod's, and cheaper than any place else in town.

For Bedroom Suits, Sideboards, Sideboards, Lounges and Cradles, go to Grant & Co., Markdale.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS are safe in all cases. They destroy and remove Worms in children or adults.

BLANK NOTES put up in books of 20, 25 and 50, suitable for auctioneers and farmers, at the STANDARD office.

For House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

SUBSCRIPTIONS received since last week for Mrs. Gill:—A Plewes, $5.00; T. M. Haskett, $5.00; Wm. Guthrie, $1.00.

FORTY thousand packages of Rejuvenator Bitters sold in four years by its own merits. Sold by Smith, the barber.

50,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Peter. All shingles warranted as represented.

TEACHER WANTED, for S. Section No. 6, Holland, for '86. Apply to Wm. Jackson, STANDARD office, Markdale.

JOHN H. ANDERSON, tax collector for Ward No. 2, Artemesia, will be at the Markdale House on Saturday, the 28th inst., for the purpose of receiving taxes.

AXES the leading makes at Haskett Bro's.

TENDERS will be received for Sexton for the new Methodist church up to Monday, the 7th, instead of Tuesday, the 1st Dec.

Fur lined Mantles, Ulsters, and Men's fine Fur Caps in Neutra, Persian Lamb, and Seal, just opened at McFarland's.

MR. WM. ARMSTRONG sold 50 acres, being lot 104, 2nd West of T. & S. Road, Glenelg, to Mr. C. Littlejohns for $2,000 cash.

PROF. LOW'S MAGIC SULPHER SOAP:—Healing, soothing a cleansing for all eruptive diseases of the skin. Delightful for toilet use.

NATIONAL PILLS are unsurpassed as a safe, mild, yet thorough, purgative, acting upon the biliary organs promptly and effectually.

MR. MILLER, of Allenford, has invented a boiler cleaner and is securing a patent in the U. S. He thinks he has a fortune in his invention.

KEEP your weather eye open and your left ear set for Dramatic performance at Williamsford Station on Friday evening, December 4th.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

FOUND—On the sidewalk near Sarjeant's butcher shop on Tuesday last, a bunch of small keys. The owner can have them by calling at this office.

ONE of the highest class articles we have had the pleasure to taste for a long time is W. J. McFarland's Triumphant brand of pure Tea, packed in perfection cans.

MR. ROBERT KELLS, who arrived last Monday from the North-West, expects to remain over winter. He likes the N. W. very well, and thinks it ahead of Ontario for a young man.

THE Mt. Forest Index man is a peg estray about the new Church at Markdale being opened last Friday. just one month estray, the 20th of December being the date, also 27th.

AT a meeting of the congregation of Erskine Presbyterian church, held on Thanksgiving Day, it was decided to accept the resignation of the pastor, Rev. J. T. Paterson.—Meaford Mirror.

JAS. NOBLE of the "Royal Hotel" shipped off on Wednesday, about 60 empty beer and whiskey barrels. The larger number (we should judge), 36 gallon capacity. Who drinks all the beer.—Meaford Monitor.

SAVE MONEY.—Parties wishing to secure a loan at a low rate of interest in order to pay one off which bears a high rate should consult us at the STANDARD office. All such business strictly private and confidential.

REJUVENATOR BITTERS assists nature and removes the cause of diseases from the system by keeping the Kidneys, Liver, Stomach and Blood pure and nature's channels free, then you have health. Sold by Smith, the barber.

MANY of those who have been vaccinated recently in Meaford complain of the severity with which the vaccine penetrates the system. In many cases persons innoculated have to quit work for a week or ten days.—Mirror.

REMOVAL.—Mrs. Montgomery has leased Mr. Dunlop's shop, next door to the City Hotel, where she has a large and well assorted stock of Candies, Biscuits, &c., from the best manufacturers. Bread and cakes always on hand.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A little daughter of Mr. Joseph Beatty fell down the steps of the Orange Valley schoolhouse (Sydenham road, Artemesia) last Tuesday and broke her thigh bone. Dr. Christoe was hastily summoned and promptly responded, when the little sufferer was carefully and skilfully attended to.—Advance.

J. R. TRIMBLE has just received a large consignment of the celebrated New York Electric Lamp which he is offering for $1.50 cash all complete, a Better Lamp than those sold by other dealers at from $4 to $5.

OWING to increasing amount of business done in this village by Masson & Masson, Barristers, their office will be kept open all through the week during fall and winter months. Mr. Wm. Masson will be in attendance as usual on Fridays and Saturdays.

GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC.—This publication, for 1886, is to hand. It is brimful of amusement, containing—besides its other attractions—a double-page cartoon, "Ancient Nursery Rhymes for Modern Politicians." For sale by all booksellers; only 10 cents.

LATEST ARRIVAL.—Albert E. Rutledge of Fort William, Dave Burns of Port Arthur, Robt. Kells of Moose Jaw, N. W. T., and Thos. Bates of somewhere up the lakes, came down per last boat of the season and arrived on first train last Monday. They are all hale and hearty.

THE firm of Rutledge Bros. of Fort William, lost $1,100 worth of dry-goods by the Algoma disaster, but fortunately they were insured, so that the loss will not be their's. A. E. Rutledge, one of the firm, is now down to Toronto purchasing a stock to replace that lost.

MR. H. B. HARRISON of Owen Sound Marble Works, left Monday for the United States quarries to select his stock of Marble and Granite for the coming season. His business is increasing so rapidly he finds it necessary to visit the quarries annually. Look out for big bargains next year in every variety of stone.

Years of experience and successful trial have proved McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate the most complete and satisfactory compound for healing Old Sores, Festerings, Ulcers, Cats, Wounds, Burns, Frost Bites or Felons, and for keeping out the cold and to cleanse or prevent proud flesh, sloughing or decay. Insist on having McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate, sold at 25c. by Hill Bro's. 6

Enquire at A. Turner & Co., Druggists in reference to the extraordinary merits of West's Cough Syrup. It is incomparable for the speedy cure of coughs, colds, consumption in its early stages, bronchitis, asthma, influenza, whooping cough, and all throat and lung diseases. Price, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle. Nov. 26

THE building committee of the new Methodist Church in this village anticipated a first class job when Mr. Richards secured the contract, but their most sanguine expectations have been more than realized. The material used is the best that could be obtained, and the workmanship is pronounced by the architect as first-class in every respect.

DEC. 1st—My fine lines of Xmas Cards from W. J. Gage, Toronto, and Atkinson Bros., Hamilton, will be open for inspection. Every card shown will be new, as I only had a few small cards left over last Xmas, and they will not be offered for sale. Call early and secure the choice ones. Marked in plain figures at list prices. W. A. Brown, Jeweller.

BURGLARY.—On the night of Nov. 8th, some parties broke into Mr. Bliss, mill at Traverston, and stole about eight hundred of chopped feed. A number of farmers in that vicinity have also had grain in small quantities taken from their barns, and one night recently, Mr. Cook's new house was entered by some parties who either maliciously burned some window sashes, or used them to keep on a fire and slept there. There must be something bad in the neighborhood.—Grey Review.

Fluid Lightning is simply a marvellous Rheumatic Remedy. I was for two months a cripple, unable to get out of the house from Sciatica. One bottle gave me instant relief, and placed me on my feet again. I have driven fourteen miles to-day (something I could not possibly have done were it not for Fluid Lightning) for the express purpose of procuring another bottle. So says Wm. Dixon, Gananoque. Only 25 cents per bottle at Hill Bro's. 6

THE stained glass windows were put in the new Methodist church last week, and the plastering was completed this week. The furnaces were also put up this week, and all the carpenter work will be complete next week. The whole edifice is pronounced "a model" by its numerous foreign as well as local visitors.

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

THE great majority of subscriptions expire at the end of the year; there is but one month until that time, and during that month (December) is the best time to renew for next year. Those who have not yet paid for the present year will require to bring along an extra 25 cents, unless they pay for next year at the same time and that time must be before New-years in order to secure this discount.

I had for years been a miserable sufferer from Dyspepsia, and tried all known remedies and the best medical skill of my acquaintance, but still grew worse, until unable to eat any thing without great suffering, or do any kind of work. I began to think there was no hope for me, and that I must surely die; when, like a drowning man catching at a straw, I determined to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial, I at once began to Improve so rapidly that in two months I was as well as I had ever been in my life.—WM. EVERS LEAMINGTON. Sold by Hill Bro's. Free trial bottles. 6

IMPROVEMENTS STILL GO ON.—During the long winters with their attendant long evenings, it is well and highly proper to have some harmless and beneficial amusement for our young people, and this want is, we are glad to learn, to be supplied in the form of a roller skating rink which is to be built at once by J. E. Marsh and others. We have seen a plan of the rink and it appears to be such as will combine all the comforts and conveniences that the lovers of this commendable sport could desire. The contract is let and work already commenced.

STRANGE BUT TRUE.—On Friday last about one o'clock, a man from the vicinity of Markdale was driving along the road in Sullivan township, near Desboro, when his attention was suddenly attracted by an object by the wayside, and on coming forward it proved to be a German girl just after giving birth to a child. The man hastened to the nearest dwelling and secured the services of the woman of the house. The girl picked up her offspring and walked to said house where she was cared for. It appears she had been stopping with relations at Desboro who, on learning her state, forced her to leave on the above day. The names of the parties we withhold.

THE wisdom of inflicting capital punishment upon persons convicted of the grave political offences of inciting to rebellion and occasioning loss of life being conceded, the Federal Government acted wisely in not arresting the action of the law in the case of Louis Riel. The misguided man had a fair trial, and after the sentence his council and friends were allowed to exhaust every legitimate means of showing why the death penalty should not be inflicted. The highest courts in the realm found no reason for interfering with the death sentence. In his death justice has been vindicated, and the inherent ill-desert of crime has met with its just reward. The action of a portion of the French speaking population of this country in stirring race-hatred over Riel's punishment is greatly to be deplored. It is to be hoped that they will see in the execution of Riel both a lesson and a warning. The action also of such party newspapers as have made the execution of Riel a lever for party purposes seem to us no less deplorable. This fostering for party purposes of race-hatreds, and false sympathy with criminals, is playing with a fire that may envelop the whole Dominion in a blaze.—Presbyterian Review.

THE right place to procure a good chopping axe is at Haskett Bro's, Markdale.

CONCERT.—A concert in aid of Mrs. Gill, whose husband was lost on the ill-fated Algoma, was held in Haskett hall on Wednesday evening and was a grand success. The house was crowded and the programme was excellent, and very impressive, the selections being chiefly appropriate for the occasion. Receipts $100.

IF you are after a cross cut saw that will beat anything in the country, go straight to Haskett Bro's, Markdale.

HARVEY SAFETY LAMP.—We have been favored with a view of this new petroleum light, and we are strongly convinced of its superiority as a coal oil burner over any lamp yet placed on the market. The air chamber in which the wick-case is suspended has openings at the collar permitting a constant circulation of air downward around the wick-case, thence upward through the wick-case, thus giving a direct central draught. By this arrangement the wick-case is isolated from the oil, a small tube conveying sufficient oil through to the wick. This lamp is constructed upon thoroughly practical and scientific principles, and the result attained is a beautiful, soft white light, which for economy, brilliancy and steadiness is not surpassed by either gas or electricity. J. H. Hull, agent. See adv. in another column.

CHURCH OPENING.—The new Markdale Methodist church dedicatory services will be held on the 20th and 27th December. The Rev. Dr. Williams, Chief Superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada, will conduct the morning and evening services on the 20th, and Warring Kennedy, Esq., of Toronto, the 2:30 p.m. service of the same day. Rev. Dr. Griffin of Guelph, the morning and evening services on the 27th, and Rev. J. E. Howell, M. A., Superintendent of Owen Sound District, at 2:30. A grand tea-meeting will also be held on Christmas Day. This church is a very handsome red brick edifice with basement, heated with hot air, has seating capacity for about 700. The design of the exterior is very imposing, while the interior is a perfect jem, and reflects great credit, not only on the architect, M. B. Aylsworth, Esq., of Toronto, but also the contractor, Mr. W. G. Richards of Markdale. The church complete will cost $8,000. [If our neighboring exchanges will give the above one insertion, we shall esteem it a favor, and will reciprocate when an opportunity presents itself. —ED.]

EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD.

It is demonstrated by history that the Ancients in many of the arts, notably architecture, far excelled the present age, but it is reserved for the present decade to produce the eighth wonder of the world, i. e., West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment, which is infallible for Rheumatism Sprains, Cuts, Bruises, Sores and all diseases requiring external application. Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Nov.

United Workmen.

The membership in Ontario has increased 1,276 during the present year....A Legion of Select Knights is to be organized in Brampton..... "Covenant" is the name of a new lodge recently organized in St. Catharines with forty-nine charter members.....Thirty new lodges have been opened in Iowa during the past few months.....At the recent meeting of the Select Knights at Topeka, Kansas, J. R. Millar, of Goderich, Ont., was unanimously elected Supreme Vice-Commander.

INFLUENZA.

This is an epidemic worse and more depressing than an ordinary cold, and requires prompt remedies to break it up. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is a trustworthy remedy for all forms of colds and their dangerous results.

YOUNG FOLKS.

A Jingle.

There was a crusty sailor
As X as X could B,
Who at last quite weary grew
Of life upon the C,
He built himself a cottage
Upon the river D.
Where he idly smoked his pipe
And drank his scouchong T;
He wink'd his starboard I,
He set his nose askew;
And said, if U asked Y—
"Pray, what is it to U?"

Wanting to Fly.

"I don't care for swimming," said the young wild duck, "I want to fly." It was the first day of leaving the nest, and the mother bird was very proud of the flourishing young brood just beginning life. The nest had been made in the coziest of corners beside the river, overhung by rocks, and with wild flowers and rushes bending down upon it. It was so cool and shady there through the hot summer days, except when, quite early in the morning, the sun's rays glinted down between the birch trees on the bank.

The pair had agreed it was time for the children to take to water—at least for some of them—so while the father bird remained in the nest with those who were hatched later, the mother turned out with the older ones.

Two were already enjoying the water, but just as the other little duckling was going to make a plunge he happened to look up, and he caught sight of a dragon fly. As it hovered over him and then glanced away, its brilliant gauzy wings glittering in the sunlight, it quite turned his head. And like many another young creature he fixed his mind on something he had not and forgot all about what he had.

"Why can't I fly like that? I want to fly," he said again.

"Patience, my child," replied the wise mother; "you will fly some day, but you have no wings yet—only legs. You must use your legs in the water as we are doing, and that will help you to grow properly. If you do your part in the present you will be preparing for the future. You have got to be educated, you know; don't you see?"

But the young duckling did not see and he would not listen. He only flopped his tiny stumps of wings and stared up at the dragon-fly. If he had been a child he would have pouted, but as it was he did whatever it is that ducks do when they are sulky, and he turned his back as his brothers paddled away.

Day after day it was just the same; he would not take to the water because he wanted the air. He moped and moped, and this was all his cry: "I want to fly; I want to fly."

Of course he could not grow. He was not using the means for developing himself, so he could not be a duck all round. In longing for the future he lost the present. He got smaller instead of bigger, and would have dwindled down to nothing, I suppose, had not a prowling fox one night pounced on him—a poor starved duckling, and a very meager supper after all!

It is no good our longing for the future unless we are preparing for it in the present. Because what we have now is always the training for what we are to have by and by. And ah! it is no use our wanting to get to heaven unless we are employing the right means and making life the training place for eternity.

Nature's Story Book.

Mrs. Cortwright was reading, and smiled as she read.

"What makes you laugh, mamma?" asked Ruth.

"Listen, dear:

And Nature, the old nurse, took
The child upon her knee,
Saying, 'Here's a story-book
Thy Father has written for thee.'"

"That's pretty," said Ruth.

"Are you sure you understand it?" asked her mother.

"I understand that—of course I do," answered Ruth, surprised that her mamma should doubt her. "'Nature' means all out-doors, and the story-book is about birds and trees and everything you see out there."

"You darling child! you do understand better than I thought," said mamma, giving her little girl a fond kiss.

"I'll go out, now, I guess, and read in the story-book," said little Ruth.

"All alone, dear? Don't you want some one to read to you?" for Ruth could not read printed books very well, and always asked mamma or Aunt Lucy to read to her; she said she understood better so.

"Oh, I can read easy lessons out-doors," she said; so her mother tied on the white sun-hat and the little girl tripped away into the garden.

When she came in, a long time after, she seated herself on a little bench at her mother's feet: "Now, dear mamma, let me tell you about the stories. The first was ants: they made hills all along the walks, and were so busy every minute bringing grains of sand to make the hill higher; and there wasn't one that didn't work—not one little naughty ant that said 'I won't' or 'I don't want to.'"

"Then I saw bees—the bees that 'gather honey all the day from every opening flower;' they were busy too."

"Like the ants?"

"They were better than the ants, 'cause they sang all the time—not like the birds, but they hummed and buzzed, and it sounded real nice, they seemed so happy.

"Then there were the apples—the little children apples—green and small and hard and sour. They are not good for much till they are big men-and-women apples—ripe and sweet. The story-book said, 'Little children aren't worth much now, but let 'em be; by and by they'll be grown up, and then they'll be good for something.'"

The mother smiled: "I think your book was very interesting, Ruthie, and you can read it better than I thought. Anything more?"

"There was a beautiful story about daisies. When I was out this morning they were all looking over to grandpa's, but after dinner they looked straight up to the sky, just as if they were praying; now they are turning their faces this way, as if they were sorry to see the sun getting down lower and lower in the sky. They looked sad, as if they had got to say, 'Good-bye,' and didn't want to."

"The daisies follow the sun," said mamma, "just as we ought to keep looking to Jesus all the time."

"'Fix your eyes upon Jesus;' I guess that is what they were saying, only they did not speak loud enough for me to hear," said Ruth; "and then I laid down and let the great punkah-wallah fan me."

"You queer child! what do you mean?"

"Why, mamma, didn't you read to me about them the other day—the fans they have in India? 'Punkah' means 'fan,' you said, and 'wallah' means 'boys' fan-boys. The fans hang from the ceiling, and the boys pull 'em up and down. The trees were my punkah-wallahs; the branches were my punkahs, and the wind was the wallah, and they kept me so cool and nice I went to sleep. I like the old story book, mamma."

"I wonder if my little girl knows who wrote it for her?"

"God. That is why it's so nice," said the little girl, "and I think He helps me understand it."

"I am sure He does, my darling; and it's better than any other book for this reason: you keep turning the leaves and never get to the end."

HERE AND THERE

At Acworth, Ga., a few days ago, two persons, about to enter into the bonds of matrimony stood on a tombstone to be wedded.

A church at Terre Haute has been built in just sixteen days from the time the stone was laid. It is "very beautiful, finished in native woods, with windows of sapphire and ruby glass."

The Lancet states that a German observer has found that cows milked three times a day gives much more milk than when milked twice only, and that the proportion of it is the same in both cases.

An attempt to punish an unruly boy in a Holyoke, Mass., school last week, brought on such a general fight that the police had to be called in to quell it, and the teacher and two pupils were marched off to the station house.

The Portland (Me.) Board of Health will place an officer on the Grand Trunk train, who will go out as far as Danville Junction and examine all passengers and baggage coming from Montreal, using a system of checks to prevent persons getting through.

In Germany the inspection of pigs for trichinæ is more thorough than is generally supposed. The Medicinische Wochenschrift state that in one year there were established in Prussia 20,636 official inspecting stations. Out of 4,000,000 of the animals examined, 2,000 were trichinous.

The Germans have nearly stamped out small-pox. In the 5 years 1870-1874 the number of deaths from the disease per 100,000 inhabitants in London, Paris, Vienna, Prague, and St. Petersburg was 101.05. In Berlin, Breslau, Hamburg, Munich, and Dresden during the same period it was but 1.44.

The painted rock of Santa Barbara county, Cal., is 150 feet high, and upon it are many color paintings in a good state of preservation that are thought to be the work of Indians. There are two caves in this giant rock, one at its base and another some sixty feet up, and in each of these are pictures of animals.

The French Government would like to give the army the privilege of wearing beards, but feels the necessity of first consulting several high military authorities, as the opinions on the subject are contradictory. Meanwhile the press falls back on history, and finds that the conquerors of all ages were about equally divided between the shorn and the unshorn.

The French lady doctors have carried the day. Henceforth the female medical students will be mesdemoi elles les internes, and as such they will be admitted to hospitals on the same terms as their male colleagues. Sixty aspirants to the M. D. degree are at present rejoicing in the victory, among them a young negress, who is said to be one of most zealous students in Paris.

"Adirondack" Murray began a lecturing tour at St. Johnbury, Vt., the other night, and after he had finished his discourse lectured his audience because a local newspaper had called his life a wasted one. He said he had graduated from the ministry, and for six years had studied to fit himself for another kind of work; and that, instead of having "dropped down and out from among forceful men," he proposed soon to appear in a quite opposite character.

There is in the extreme north of Utah a magnificent subterranean reservoir of first-class soda water, bubbling and effervescing out of the ground in such quantities that all America might be supplied. In the extreme south, on the road to Orderville, is an exquisite circular lakelet that is always just full to the brim with water as clear and as green as beryl. And wherever the water overflows the lake's edge it encrusts with a fine coating of limestone, so that the brim is growing higher and higher with imperceptible but certain growth of a coral reef, and in the course of generations the lake will become a concreted basin.

The cave out of which Gen. Israel Putnam dragged the wolf is seldom visited, because it is in a stony mountainous forest in a remote corner of Connecticut. A picnic party this summer made the tedious trip, which involved several miles of rough walking. There are pictures in primers of Putnam entering the cave erect, with a blazing torch held above his head. The hole is really so small that it can only be explored on hands and knees, and an adult cannot turn round in it. The length is 300 feet, and tradition says that he followed the beast to the further end, shot him between the eyes by their own glow, and was drawn out with him by means of a rope.

Not many years ago the late Lord Strathnairn was staying in a country house in Yorkshire. Among the guests in the smoking room one night were some young cavalry officers, who were narrating tales of various skylarking adventure in which they had lately been engaged. The veteran took himself off to bed, and, his room being overhead, they shortly after heard the furniture in that apartment being moved about. The next morning some one alluded to this at breakfast. "Ha, ha!" said Lord S., "I was not going to let you youngsters say you had 'drawn' a Field Marshal, so I put the chest of drawers against the door." He was over seventy at the time.

A Famous Trick.

Robert Heller, the famous magician, who died a few years ago used to exhibit with delight one trick of which he was very proud. He would step to the front of the platform, holding out at arm's length a small bird-cage, in which hopped and chirped a live sparrow. Extending the cage above his head, and grasping it with both hands, he would say,—

"Ladies and gentlemen, you see this cage. It is a real cage, isn't it? You see the bird. It is a real bird, isn't it? Now watch me closely. The moment I snap my fingers, the cage and bird will vanish into thin air."

He would then snap his fingers, and both cage and bird would disappear, leaving not so much as a feather behind.

Calvert, a French wonder-worker, having heard of the bird-cage trick, determined to discover its secret. He came to the performance one evening armed with a powerful opera-glass. Just as Heller stepped upon the platform, with the cage in his hands, Calvert called out,—

"Put the cage down on the table, or hold it out by one hand."

Heller made a reasonable excuse for not doing anything of the kind, and immediately caused the cage to disappear, as usual. The next morning Calvert, who was on good terms with Heller, called upon him at his hotel.

"Ah, monsieur!" said the Frenchman, "I have discovered your great bird-cage trick at last!"

"Have you?" replied Heller. "Pray describe it."

"No. Come to my performance to-morrow night, and you shall see it."

"Very well," said Heller. "If you can perform the trick, you are the only living person, besides myself, who can do it."

Heller went to the evening performance, and took a front seat. After the usual tricks with cards and pistols had been performed, Calvert came forward with a bird-cage, in which could be seen a small bird fluttering about. Holding the cage out at arm's length, he said—

"Ladies and gentlemen, you will see here to-night, for the first time, the great bird-cage trick of the American wizard, Heller. I have had the honor to discover the secret of this trick, and I now perform it before you as my own, when I snap my fingers, the cage and bird will disappear."

Looking directly at Heller, with a smile, Calvert snapped his fingers, and the bird-cage vanished.

At Heller's death the method of making the cage and causing it to disappear, was disclosed

The cage, made of the finest and most delicate wires, were separated into two compartments by a thin partition. Those two compartments were held together by minute but powerful springs, which were made to open by pressing two wires, one on each side of the cage.

The two wires were held by the performer between his thumb and finger, as he extended the cage at arm's-length. Each compartment of the cage was so made that when the springs which held them together were loosened, the compartments would collapse, or fold up, into a very small compass.

Attached to each side of the cage, close by the wires held by the finger and thumb of the performer, were stout elastic cords running up the inside of Heller's sleeves, and fastened at some point above his elbows.

The bird chosen for the cage was one of the smallest varieties of sparrow, and he was placed in the compartment to which the partition belonged.

Suppose the performer now ready to exhibit the cage. He steps out, holding it up at arm's-length. The elastic bands, being on the inner side of his hands and wrists, are not perceived by the audience. He snaps his fingers, that is, he presses the wires which let the cage fall apart; each side collapses, and the force of the tightly-stretched rubber pulls each section of the cage up the performer's sleeves.

The bird is drawn up with the side in which it was placed, and, strange to say, is not often seriously injured by the operation.

Every part of this trick requires the utmost skill and the most delicate handling in every detail to make it successful. The fact that Heller performed the trick hundreds of times before attentive audiences, without betraying the secret of it, shows to what an extent attention to details may enable a man to triumph over the seemingly impossible.

"Ladies."

Cultivation alone will not make a lady of a vulgar woman, nor a gentleman of a boor. Innate vulgarity will manifest itself in spite of all forms of politeness and etiquette. To a certain class of persons, indifference is the test of high-breeding. If you educate a man or a woman to insensibility, he in their view is a gentleman, and she is a lady.

A woman was one day brought before the judge of a police court. She said in her defence,—

"Me and another lady was a-having a few words, and she called me a 'hindewidual,' and I ups with a pail of water, and chucked it all over her, and that began the row between me and the other lady."

Me and another lady indeed!

The following notice was once put up over the door of a show:

"No lady or gentleman admitted into this show in a state of intoxication."

A hand-bill in St. Louis read,—

"One hundred rats to be killed by one dog in ten minutes. None but gentlemen are expected to be present on this occasion."

The advertisement of a dog-fight in a Western town read,—

"Tickets admitting both gentleman and lady can be had for one dollar."

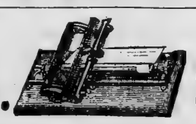
A very elegantly dressed woman once rudely pushed a man from a crowded sidewalk, saying as she did so,—

"Aint you got any more manners than to stand right in front of a lady?"

A shabbily dressed woman accidentally ran against a superb-looking woman whose dress and manner indicated the perfect lady.

"I beg your pardon, madam," said the poor woman in the most humble manner.

"You clumsy thing!" angrily retorted the elegantly clad woman.



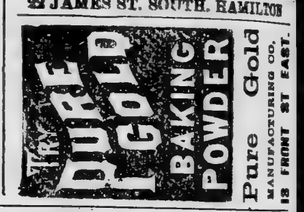
Which was the lady?

The consumption of fish in Great Britain has considerably increased (as shown by transportation statistics) since the great Fisheries Exhibition of 1883.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any Sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry Goods dealers.

Free Lands and Cheap Homes
FOR THE MILLION
Along the line of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in Central Dakota and Northern Nebraska. New sections are being opened up, and rapidly settled in these wonderfully productive regions, and the "first comers" will have "first choice" of location.
For full information (which will be sent you free of charge) about the free lands and cheap homes, apply to
JOHN H. MORLEY,
Western Canadian Pass. Agent, C. & N. W. R.
9 York St. Toronto, Ont
R. S. HAIR, General Pass. Agent,
Chicago, Ills.

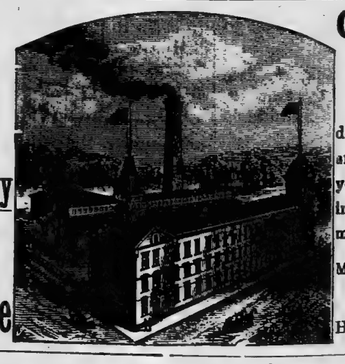
CAUTION.
EACH PLUG OF THE
MYRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T. & B.
IN BRONZE LETTERS.
NONE OTHER GENUINE



ONLY $15.  ONLY $15.
"SUN" TYPE-WRITER.
This is not a rubber stamp, but a genuine metal type manifolding machine. Just the thing for clergymen, teachers, business men, and others having limited correspondence. As a guarantee that the machine is as represented, I agree to receive it any time within 6 months at price paid in exchange for the Celebrated Remington Perfect Type-Writer.
GEORGE BENGOUGH, Sole Agent,
34 King Street East, Toronto.

The Eagle Steam Washer is the only Washing Machine invented that a weakly woman or girl 12 years old, without the use of a washboard, can with ease wash 50 to 100 pieces in one hour. Agents wanted all over Canada. Sample sent for trial and territory given. Ladies make good agents; no wear on clothes, and every lady will buy after trying it; warranted to wash calicos in five minutes, cotton goods in 20, bedclothes 10, or no sale. Address, FERRIS & CO., Patentees and Manufacturers, 78 Jarvis Street, TORONTO, Canada.

Christmas Cards
BY MAIL
at less than wholesale prices. All well assorted, no two alike. Postage prepaid. BIRTHDAY CARDS may be included. OR FRIENDS, FRIENDSHIP, &c.
25 CARDS, good value, for .. $ 25
25 " larger, " 50
25 " very fine, " 1.00
Orders may be proportionately mixed. Cash to accompany order. Address,
MATTHEWS BROS. & CO., TORONTO.



Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships
Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John, N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow line sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.
For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John, N. B.; N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. & A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

CUT THIS OUT
The New Co-Operative
Sewing Machine
—IS THE—
BEST IN THE MARKET
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
Latest Improved Attachments
Agents price for similar machine $50
Our price only $25 each.
Before buying send us stamp for our elegant plate and sample of sewing.
Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.
Any lady wanting a machine will do well to write us
The Co-Operative
Sewing Machine Co.
22 JAMES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON

QUEEN CITY OIL WORKS
AGAIN VICTORIOUS! HIGHEST HONORS AND GOLD MEDAL FOR
Peerless Oil
At Toronto. Every Barrel Guaranteed. This Oil was used on all the Machinery during the Exhibition. It has been awarded SIX GOLD MEDALS during the last three years. See that you get PEERLESS. It is only made by SAMUEL ROGERS & CO., TORONTO.

R. HAY & CO.
TORONTO.
LIQUIDATION SALE.
Owing to the failing health of the senior member of our firm we have been obliged to abandon the contemplated continuance of the business.
The manufacturing premises, machinery, &c., have already been sold.
The entire stock of furniture, upholstering material, &c., amounting to over $80,000.00 must be disposed of as speedily as possible.
The furniture is all our own manufacture, and the reputation earned by the firm during the last 50 years is a sufficient guarantee of its quality.
The liquidation being peremptory, dealers and the general public are now afforded such an opportunity as has never occurred heretofore in Canada.
Toronto, 12th Nov., 1885. R. HAY & CO.

Meriden Britannia Company
FINEST Electro Plate

CAUTION
Goods stamped Meriden Silver Plate Co. are not our make. If you want reliable goods insist on getting them made by the
MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.,
HAMILTON, Ont.

Important to All Who Desire More Light

THE HARVEY "SAFETY LAMP"
is superior to every other domestic light used, NOT EXCEPTING GAS. This is a Central Draught Burner in GLASS BOWLS in various ornamental designs on metal and glass stands. It consumes but half the quantity of oil that the so-called electric lamp uses. It is the brightest oil lamp ever invented. Manufacturers also of the "Sola-Star Lamp," in Brass and Nickel. This lamp took FIRST PRIZE and SILVER MEDAL at Toronto's Industrial Exhibition, 1885.
HARVEY SAFETY LAMP.—We have been favored with a view of this new petroleum light, and we are strongly convinced of its superiority as a coal oil burner over any lamp yet placed on the market. The air-chamber in which the wick-case is suspended has openings at the collar transmitting a constant circulation of air downward around the wick-case, thence up round through the wick-case, thus giving a direct central draught. By this arrangement the wick-case is isolated from the oil, a small tube conveying sufficient oil through to the wick. This lamp is constructed upon thoroughly practical and scientific principles, and the result attained is a beautiful, soft white light which for economy, brilliancy and steadiness is not surpassed by either gas or electric by.—[Toronto Truth.
Correspondence with dealers and inspection invited.

OFFICE: 9 Adelaide St. West, Toronto.
HARVEY & TRUAX.

istmas Cards
BY MAIL
wholesale prices. All well assorted. No
Postage prepaid. BIRTHDAY CARDS
nded. or Friends. Friends good value, for .. $ 25 $1.50
larger, " 50 2.50
very fine, " 1.00 3 $.
may be proportionately mixed. Cash to order. Address,
S BROS. & CO., - TORONTO.
ne Royal Mail Steamships
ng winter from Portland every Thursday, every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry, mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. of the Glasgow lines sail during winter Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.
ght, passage, or other information Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B.; Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. land, Boston, Montreal.

THIS OUT
e New Co-Operative ing Machine
—IS THE—
IN THE MARKET
STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
Improved Attachments
rice for similar machine $60 price only $25 each.
ng send us stamp for our elegant photo pie of sewing.
are guaranteed for three years and ...
an ng a machine will do well to write ...
he Co-Operative
ng Machine Co.
S ST. SOUTH. HAMILTON

GOLD BAKING POWDER Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO. 13 FRONT ST EAST.

L WORKS
NORS AND GOLD
s Oil his Oil was used on all has been awarded SIX
s. See that you get de by
D., TORONTO.
& CO.
SALE.
ur firm we have been obliged to ready been sold.
c., amounting to over $80,000.00
tation earned by the firm during eneral public are now afforded Canada.
IAY & CO.

CAUTION
Goods stamped Meriden Silver Plate Co, are not our make. If you want reliable goods insist on getting those made by the
MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.,
HAMILTON, - ONT.

ire More Light.
LAMP"
EXCEPTING GAS in various ornaments but half the It is the brightest Sola Star Lamp," IZE and SILVER d with a view of ced of its superi in the market. The openings at the ward around the s giving a direct is isolated from to the wick. This scientific princi light which for by either gas or invited.
t. Toronto.
UAX.

AN EGYPTIAN ROMANCE.

A Story of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

By the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPOT," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER VII.—(CONTINUED.)

It is certainly so. There can be no doubt about it. All these accursed locusts who settle down in Egypt become our masters. They bring with them, too, their own laws, in order that they may violate ours," retorted Toulba Pasha, to which Suleiman Bey added with an oath:

"No doubt about it, and what is worse, they not only start business here unasked, but they claim indemnities when they fail therein, indemnities which our weak-minded ruler always seems ready to pay."

"Raising the taxes of our poor until they must cheat the collectors and get the bastinado on being detected, or else pay and starve. People such as these make very good rebels, for there is nothing to make them loyal," said Toulba.

"Should Allah call upon me to reign over them I will make them loyal, for the fellah, like a dog, would lay down his very life for a good master. By the Prophet, would that he knew better what it was to have one," said the war minister proudly, and Toulba Pasha at once made answer:

"That is because he has so many masters. There are twenty foreign consuls in Egypt, and each is a petty prince. They are above the law in Egypt. Their watches regulate even the sun. Let a Feringhee do what wrong he may, yet his consul will protect him from its consequences, whilst the Egyptian is twice injured by the seeking of redress."

"That is true, for his case is tried, not by his own laws, but by those of the man who has injured him, which of course there is no understanding, so that in seeking to recover his stolen coat the chances are that he loses all the rest of his apparel," said Suleiman Bey.

"By Allah and the Prophet, where is the use of discussing these matters farther? Can we count the sands of the desert or the seashore? No, no, but we can try to save ourselves from being buried beneath them, nevertheless. My friends, we must lose no time in teaching through trusty but secret emissaries the population of our great cities the wrongs and injustices which they suffer and how they can best rid themselves of them. I, Ahmed Arabi, of Orabi, proclaim myself the friend of the downtrodden and the oppressed, and as being ready to lay down my life in their cause. Should they elect me as their champion my battle cry will be 'Egypt for the Egyptians and down with the European control.' You, my friends, I am well sure, are with me hand and glove, whilst the allies that we can number without are already more numerous than all the followers of the Khedive. Go, then, and sow in secret in order that we reap amidst the joys of victory."

Thus spoke the war minister. Toulba Pasha made answer: "A victory that has been waited for by the unlying tongue of prophecy, for has it not been foretold that the great leader who shall restore Mohammedanism to its golden glory shall be called Ahmed, and is not thy name Ahmed? And is not the time in which this deed will be wrought been fixed for the thirteenth century of the Hegira? And do we not enter upon that century in the course of a few days?"

"Inshallah, be it as God wills," replied the war minister devoutly; and then he said: "You may tell that prophecy to the people likewise, for if Allah speaks through his prophet and I am the person there alluded to, I dare not, even if I would, refuse to obey the behest of the Most High. So go away, and lose no time in sowing the good seed, yet be careful that it falls not upon stony ground, where the birds of the air will see and devour it. With this farewell I dismiss you, my brothers, and with the parting assurances that as I soar I will s... therefore remember that Allah blesses the birds that remember their nests."

Perhaps this warning was not altogether needed, but be that as it may, the trio parted with mutual expressions of fidelity and esteem.

CHAPTER VIII.

...AND THE ROASTING OF A PIG.

Another week has passed away and a European opera company is playing "The ...er" at the Cairo Theatre to crowded houses.

Another case of dancing, singing and fiddling on the brink of chaos, though to be sure nobody guesses how close chaos is at hand, for the powers of revolution have perfected their labor in darkness and in silence, and no one perceives as yet the strong crop of knife, dagger and scimitar blades mingled with countless bayonet points that are springing up all around.

Every ... a shower of blood drops needed to replenish that crop and make it grow the quicker and bear fruit in season, and then as Feringhee blood will give it the strongest nourishment these traders, singers and revelers will be aroused from their pleasant vision of ease, luxury and amusement at the cost of the Egyptian, as though by a thunder-clap.

For the present the Frank hotels are crowded, and the European quarter of the city is as bright and cheerful as any aristocratic suburb in Paris, London or New York, and only in the labyrinth of dark, narrow, intricate lanes and valleys, where the upper stories of the flat-roofed houses on either side nod towards each other, where the occupants of the highest rooms can easily shake hands across the tortuous winding thoroughfares from their respective verandahs and balconies, are the mutterings of hatred and discontent allowed to swell into a murmur, and that murmur quickly suppressed.

And yet are there a sufficiency of signs and omens to give timely warning of what is shortly about to happen to those who are engaged in the headlong pursuit of wealth and pleasure, did not those occupations engross their entire and undivided attention. Can it be possible that the Europeans, as a rule, do not notice the hatred with which the native population have begun to regard them—the flashing of the eyes, the curling of the lips, the sound of the spitting on the ground after they have passed by?

'Tis true that one or two consuls have lodged complaints of not being saluted by Egyptian sentries when in official uniform on their way to and from the palace, but the remissness on the soldiers' part has been set down to opium instead of impertinence, and has been either overlooked or forgotten. 'Tis true, also, that many Europeans have observed that the masses pay far more deference to the war minister, Arabi Pasha, when he drives or rides abroad than they do to his highness the Khedive, but they consider the reason for this to lie in the pasha's austere piety and boundless generosity, two qualities for which he has long been famed, and their confidence in the Joint Control.

With this obliquity of vision all around, who shall particularly blame Mr. Trezarr, the rich English banker, for allowing his comely wife and lovely daughter to attend the Opera House even unaccompanied by himself? He had arrived at that time of life when an easy chair and a newspaper, taken in conjunction with a prime cigar and a bottle of iced Chateau Lafitted, proved a fund of enjoyment much greater than even a ballet, far less an opera, could have afforded him. So, after bidding his womankind an impatient farewell, for he was in the middle of a leading article in a fortnight old Times, he had his armchair moved out into the garden, where he might watch in a kind of drowsy enjoyment the gorgeous setting of the blood red Egyptian sun, from within a little summer house that was almost buried beneath fragrant jasmine, and in front of which a drooping date tree gently waved its clusters of crimson and golden fruit, the sunlight causing them to resemble huge precious stones.

"Assuredly his lot had fallen in pleasant places," the rich man thought to himself, and he saw not Lazarus afar off in his little mud hut thatched with straw, with its sole furniture of a mat and two pitchers, eating his evening meal of coarse maize bread, whilst he gazes half savagely and half despairingly at the tiny copper coins that to the value of the thirteenth part of a dollar represent a day's labor of sixteen hours in the burning sun, yet out of which the tax gatherer will seize at least a quarter in order that rich Europeans may be feted at the Khedive's nominal, out of these poor starved wretches' real, expense.

But while we are thus moralizing, the handsome two-horsed chariot containing our lovely heroine and her mother is dashing along the Choubrah road towards the city, with coachman and footman in irreproachable liveries, en route to the Opera House, near the Rue de Moscow.

Nellie is not looking her best, for her color and spirits seem to have alike forsaken her. The fact is, she is fretting about Frank Donelly, whom she has only seen once since the fete at the Gizereh Palace, now an event of the, to her, long ago; and on that solitary occasion he had met with so cool a reception from her parents that he had ever since held himself aloof.

The young officer was the last man in the world to stir up a daughter to needlessly rebel against those to whom she rightly owed obedience, and as it had seemed to him very evident that neither Mr. nor Mrs Trezarr would ever sanction his marrying her, he had made up his mind that both for Nellie's sake and his own it would be better did he try to forget her, and by zealously keeping out of her way, help her to forget him in like manner.

But Nellie, far from giving him credit for kindly and unselfish motives, had made up her mind that he had surrendered her far too easily; and then jealousy, of course, crept into her heart to make her still more uncomfortable, and she began to believe that after all he must have learned to care much more for the Egyptian lady whose life he had saved than he had ever done for herself.

There is not one girl in a hundred who would not torture herself in a very similar manner under the same circumstances, and certainly Nellie had some excuse for doing so, since when her lover had called at Mount Carmel on that one solitary occasion which we have mentioned, he had never as much as asked her for an answer to the question which he had propounded with such fervor in the illumined palace gardens the night before—namely whether she would marry him without her parents' consent.

In plain truth, the young dragoon had had no time to do so, for he had wasted a precious five minutes in the usual greetings, and then the mother had come into the room and directly afterwards the father and had not left him alone with Nellie for a single instant hereafter, and when half an hour later he had received his cool conge from the severe paterfamilias, who had followed him outside the drawing room door in order to be as coldly impertinent as he could make himself consonant with what he considered to be good breeding, Frank had tried to persuade himself that he was glad he had not been allowed time to ask what he had called expressly to ask, since he had been forced by their conduct to the conclusion that there was less of Christian forgiveness and the milk of human kindness in Nellie's parents' constitutions than he had before supposed.

"And if they persisted in not forgiving her she would mope and fret, and instead of making her happy I should only make her wretched, on which account I shall sacrifice my own happiness for hers without further struggle," had been Frank's final resolve; but he would have been able to carry it out better if he had at once retired from the scene of action, instead of which, with a strange, yet natural, inconsistency, he still lingered on in Cairo, though there was not the slightest necessity for doing so, his health having by this time been quite re-established.

Though the young dragoon had resolved to give Nellie up, he could not tear himself wholly away from her; that was the true state of the case. He still had no small degree of comfort in gazing at her afar off, and even in looking at the windows of the house in which she dwelt if he had been unable to catch a view of her fair self for a few days. He also derived some degree of satisfaction, though it was certainly allied with still more of uneasiness, in the suspicion (which he was one of the very few to entertain) that a time of peril and danger was near at hand in which he might be able to render her or hers some great essential service which would create a revolution in their sentiments toward him and lead up to as happy a climax as any recorded in a novel.

But Nellie has no such hopes or comforts to buoy her up, and her sorrow is all the harder to bear because her pride forces her to assume a gaiety of disposition which she is far from feeling, and in the artificial sustaining of which she is constantly breaking down.

In the dark depths of the carriage, however, she makes no attempt to sustain the part which she has set herself to act, but giving way to her real feelings suffers the great crystal tears to escape from her beautiful violet eyes.

And now the carriage has entered Cairo proper, through the great Gate of Victory, and rolling along the no longer level causeway presently reaches the opening to that unsavory and evil reputationed locality, the Quartier du Crocodile.

Here the glare of flames and a shrill hubbub of cries and laughter frightened the horses and caused both ladies to glance out of the carriage window, when they beheld the strange, and to them as yet unmeaning, spectacle of some street gamins, actively aided by a few children, of large growth, hanging a large pig that was dressed like a Christiam over a fire to roast, taking good care, however, not to touch it with their hands.

CHAPTER IX.

IN THE CROCODILE QUARTER AND AT THE THEATRE.

Yes, it was a comical sight enough when not viewed as a suggestive one, and there was nothing in it of cruelty to cause a shudder, for the pig was dead, and from the serene expression of its porcine countenance he died (for one of its race) happily.

A stiff shirt collar and a high black satin stock concealed very probably the gap in the throat which had let the steel in and the life out, while his capacious paunch was covered with an immaculate white waistcoat, and his little short front legs dangled inside the sleeves of a black cloth coat, whose lappels were thrown well back.

As for his hinder legs (and it is to be presumed his tail included), they were tucked inside a pair of black cloth trousers that were a mile too long for them, whilst somehow or other an eyeglass was fixed in front of one closed optic, and what had been once a jaunty Paris high-crowned silk hat (though now disfigured by many a dent) was fastened (stuck a little on one side) atop of the huge lop-eared head, which also hung a little on one side, owing to the manner in which the brute was hung.

As the coachman was reducing his fractious horses to obedience, a crowd of the young street roughs, the majority of them nearly naked and more than half of them possessing but one eye (for ophthalmies is a terrible scourge in Egypt, and many parents also cut out the pupils of their children's eyes, so that they may escape when grown up the horrors of military service) surrounded the carriage, loudly demanding baksheesh, for in Egypt alms are demanded as a right instead of asked for as a favor.

Mrs. Trezarr, however, who knew that both pig and clothes must have been stolen from Europeans, and had a vague and misty idea that the whole show was meant as an insult to the whole population, would not part with a single paistre, whilst Nellie, whose perceptions were keener, was too terrified even to feel for her purse. Happily, at this juncture, the horses condesended to spring forward in the right direction, which, however, they did with such suddenness that one importunate young beggar was knocked down and trod under their hoofs, whilst the wheels of the carriage passed over the toes of a second, extracting from the sufferers a chorus of howls, mingled with oaths and execrations in gutteral Arabic.

Then a shower of stones was thrown, and one, smashing a window, struck Nellie's creamy-hued right shoulder with a force that caused it to tingle and its fair possessor to cry out in alarm:

"Oh, let us return home, mamma, or we shall be murdered."

"No, my dear. The danger is behind us now, and were we to return we should have to pass it again. Besides, to be afraid of the wretched natives would be very bad form, and to show our fear might be imprudent in addition. Mobs do strange things even at home, sometimes, so you must not be afraid. I wonder what could have been the meaning of the show?"

"What could it mean, mamma, except that the fanatics would like to serve our entire race as they were serving its representative?"

"The representative of our race a pig? I don't follow you, my dear."

"Oh, mamma, don't the natives hate us in part because we are swine eaters, and therefore do they not couple us with the to them unclean animal which we make our food? Was not the bitterest scandal that they could concoct about the Khedive the tale that his European favorites had taught him to like ham? Should he lose his crown and our lives a pig will be at the bottom of it. I feel sure that it was in the bloody Indian mutiny when the false rumor that the Mohammedan sowar's carbine cartridges had been greased with hog's lard led to the shedding of whole rivers of Christian gore."

"Nellie, you are a little fool, and may depend upon it that instead of being intended as an insult to the Christians, that dressed-up animal was merely a kind of Mohammedan Guy Faux. It's a pity that their scruples will prevent them from eating the animal after it is roasted, and it's a pity if they've stolen it from a poor man instead of a rich one, and if you want a third regret from me it is that our carriage windows are broken."

"Mamma, tell me if my shoulder is cut."

"No, my dear, I don't see a mark. If you were hit 'tis fortunate that the stone was not a sharp one, for the bruise will not show until to-morrow. Here we are at the theatre, so do call up a smile, my dear."

Nellie essayed the task, and in part succeeded, for the bright lamps, the flaunting play bills and the richly carpeted and lighted interior of the dress circle entrance looked so homelike and European that they seemed to breathe an assurance of safety.

The footman, descending from the box, threw open the carriage door and assisted his ladies to alight, and a minute or two later they were in the company of a score of other elegantly dressed Christian woman in the sumptuously filled up cloak room, whose silvery laughter and anticipation of coming enjoyment caused Mrs. Trezarr at all events to forget the outward occurrence that had happened during their drive thither.

The house when they entered it looked particularly bright, for the performance that evening was under royal (that is to say, Khedival) patronage, so that the centre of the dress circle (the heat of the climate forbidding the construction of close, stuffy boxes) was brilliant with rich uniforms, gold lace and glittering jeweled orders.

Prince Tewfik was seated in a golden chair of state, and around him stood a goodly array of pashas, beys and effendis, mingled with many an embroidered coated European consul, and here and there an English, French, Austrian, German or Italian officer in the uniform of his corps and country.

To the right and the left of this gay assemblage sat many a comely dame or lovely maiden, attended by father, husband, brother or lover, all clad in sombre black, for they had been in uniform or official dress they must, by court etiquette, have gone over to swell the resplendent group who encircled the Khedive, amongst whom were Ahmed Arabi Pasha, the war minister, and Captain Frank Donelly, the latter clad in the brilliant scarlet and gold of the British cavalry service, for he had been dining with Sir Edward Malet, the consul-general, and afterwards, rather against his will, been induced to accompany him hither.

He was no longer sorry that he had come when he beheld Nellie Trezarr and her mother enter the circle, and it was not long ere the young lady saw him likewise and wondered that he did not come over to her, rather despising him in her heart, in that she fancied he was afraid of her mother, and all unconscious that court etiquette prevented his quitting the Khedival party.

There was one present who read her thoughts and rejoiced in her mistake and evident chagrin, and he was Ahmed Arabi Pasha, who, far from having given up all hopes of making her his, had firmly resolved that his she should be directly the patiently for the hour should arrive, when kismet or destiny should make him the master and ruler of Egypt and of all that it contained, though he had almost determined more than once that as a punishment for her treating his offer of marriage with so much disdain, he would no longer make her his wife, but merely one of the many beautiful slaves of his harem.

But the swarthy war minister's was not the only malevolent gaze that was fixed upon poor Nellie, for from behind the gilded lattice work that concealed the ladies of the Khedival harem from the view of the entire audience, whilst it permitted them to see house and stage alike, a pair of large, black, glorious eyes, soft as velvet, yet sharp as steel, were fixed alternately upon our heroine and her two admirers, taking fierce cognizance of the expressions of each, whilst the fire of fiercest hate was kindled in the heart of their possessor as she discovered that the rival was beloved by both.

The excellence of the music was as powerless to attract her attention as the rich dresses of the performers or the beauty of the mise-en-scene. A quarter of an hour ago she had longed for the spectacle, but now she had eyes for nothing but the objects of her love and hate, and she would have given her very life to have been able to plunge a stiletto up to its very hilt in the white breast of her fairer and younger rival, and to watch her die with greatest agony first. Nor let these vengeful feelings on her part be wondered at, for Eastern blood is naturally hot and vengeful, and a life of idleness and seclusion is apt to increase and foster all that is evil in a nature that is never given to the study of aught that is good.

Despite the great heat of the night in the narrow streets, the interior of the theatre was kept deliciously cool by the continual fluttering of enormous punkas, worked by machinery. There was a free circulation of air to everywhere, and the lamps in the auditorium were not numerous enough to generate much heat of themselves; whilst below, in place of the European arrangement of pit and stalls, was marble pavement, with a foudtain in the centre that threw spray instead of water, which, instead of falling, seemed to dissolve into the atmosphere and tend to cool and moisten it.

The habitants of this part of the house had to move about with bare or stockinged or feltsoled feet, so that no noise should disturb those who sat above, but the lowest classes amongst the audience were accomodated as with us in the topmost circle or gallery, and these celestials, like our own, were not always silent or well mannered, and had not the European portion of the spectators felt so secure in their self-conceit they might have noted many things to cause them even more than uneasiness.

But neither the marked disapprobation of the comic incantation scene which many of the baser class of spectators seemed to regard as an insulting burlesque on their own belief in the supernatural, or the growls and ejaculations that greeted each appearance of the British grenadier officer who is one of the leading characters in the opera, were regarded or noticed, and at the termination of the performance the audience began to disperse, the fashionable portion at all events well pleased with the amusement that had been afforded them, and Nellie Trezarr alone received any indication of danger in the future.

The warning came in the shape of a piece of rather thick writing paper folded in two, which was suddenly pushed into her white kid gloved hand by a huge and bare one as black as ebony from behind, but when she looked round she could give no guess as to its owner, so with a thrill she opened the paper and read in delicately traced characters: "The dove who hovers near the eagle's nest should beware its claws and beak."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Wreckless engineering is what is wanted on railroads and steamboats.

Girls, a delicate way of giving a young man a hint that he is acting too fresh is to treat him to pretzels.

"Has he any expensive habits?" "He has one rather expensive one that I know of." "What is it?" "Eating."

PERSONALS.

King Milan is said to have the lar est foot of any man in Europe. It is planted pretty deeply in Bulgarian clay.

Jesse Grant denies with emphasis the rumors in regard to Mrs. Sartoris and the alleged unhappiness in her domestic life.

Albani recently sang before Queen Victoria, and had the choice between an India shawl and one of Her Majesty's published works as a souvenir. Of course she took the book.

Dr. Dio Lewis says "that wearing large, thick heavy boots and blue hand-knit stockings will improve a woman's complexion." We fear it will require more than this to kill the sale of face lotions and complexion powders.

An engine driver on a Saxon railway has just retired from a service of forty years, during which he has traveled on his locomotive, without a single accident, a distance of 253,347 miles, equal to forty seven journeys around the earth.

The footmen who wait solely upon the Queen of Sweden and her daughter wear a very quaint uniform, consisting of tunic, petticoat and breeches edged with gold lace. Their attire includes a wonderful headdress, consisting of a kind of embroidered skull-cap from which arises three ostrich feathers, none of whichis less than three feet high.

Elder L. R. Hurst, grandfather of the noted Miss Lulu Hurst, the electric girl, predicts the end of the world in 1932. He declares that the next year will witness symptoms of the coming event, after which startling developments will follow rapidly, such as the moon turning to blood, the sun withholding its light and a general derangement of things.

The Czar of Russia and Kaiser Franz Joseph of Austria had a fine time at Gastien. The bills for the entertainment of the Emperors and their suites have been sent in, and amount to $200,000. The wine merchant's bill enumerates 1,500 bottles of old Rhine wines. 2,500 bottles of various French vintages, 3,000 bottles of champagne and 1,000 bottles of liquors.

Report comes from Turin of the death, aged 77 years, of Father Giacomo, the friend of Cavour. For years he was the dispenser of that statesman's charities, and when the Count lay dying the priest went to receive his last confession and administer the last sacraments. It was his privilege then to have addressed to him the statesman's last words in this world: "Brother, a free church is a free State."

Charles Heber Clark (Max Adler), lately converted, has some of the old man left in him still. He managed to raise a lively shindy in the Church Congress at New Haven and enjoyed the fun as much as the man in one of his own stories who, after submitting to a transfusion of goat's blood, got a globule in his brain at church and bucked the sexton up into the pulpit.

Ella Wheeler-Wilcox was born in 1850, and is said to be below medium height, spare in chest and shoulders, but with shapely arms and hands. Her eyes are hazel, with a peculiar amber tint, approaching yellow. Their color has once been poetically defined as old gold. A prominent chin imparts an attenuated aspect to her features. Her complexion is pale, with a transient bloom that appears on the cheeks under the stimulus of any mental excitement. Her hair is of that texture and shade of brown that is the unerring indication of a refined nature. In phrenological development the imaginative qualities are strikingly prominent.

Col. Higginson writes to a Boston newspaper that the "shock" caused in Boston by Matthew Arnold's lecture on Emerson related, in the opinion of many persons, not so much to the subject of the lecture as the author. He recalls an anecdote of Mrs. Elizabeth Montague, who, while in Paris, was invited to hear Voltaire read an essay on Shakespeare, in which he attempted to show that the great poet was not a great poet. When Voltaire had finished reading the hope was expressed by some one present that the essay had not caused her pain. "Why should it pain me?" she said calmly, "I have not the honor to be one of the friends of M. de Voltaire."

A Desolare Spot.

Isle Royal, where the ill-fated Algoma was lost, is the largest island in Lake Superior, and lying about forty-five miles south of Port Arthur. It is wholly American territory. Like other islands in the great inland sea, it is rugged and rocky in character. It contains several mining locations of more or less value, and is a favorite resort for travellers in search of amethysts and agates. On a clear day it can be seen very easily with the naked eye from Port Arthur. The course taken by the C. P. R. steamer, which runs direct from Sault Ste. Marie to Port Arthur, passes close to the north-eastern extremity of the island. Its length northeast and southwest is about 45 miles, and its greatest breadth nine miles. Beyond a few fishing huts and mining camps it has little in the way of human habitations, and it has no permanent population. Copper veins have been discovered on the island, which must have been worked by a race of people now unknown a extinct. Here are to be found open cut gs more than a mile in length, and connected by tunnels or drifts, which were timbered with beams now broken and decayed. The tools with which this pre-historic people worked, are still to be found scattered about the scenes of their long neglected labors. Stone hammers, copper knives and other tools have been found in these old workings in great abundance. The stone hammers ranged in weight from ten to thirty pounds. The copper tools were found to have been tempered by fire. At least one generation of forest trees has grown over workings made by this now forgotten people. There is a cluster of rocky islets located at the northeastern extremity of Isle Royal, some of which are mere reefs of solid rock scarcely rising above the surface of the water. For a steamer to run into one of these rocky labyrinths when there was a sea on would be swift and certain destruction, which could hardly be unattended with loss of life, for right beside these reefs and islets there is often found from ten to twenty fathoms of water. As far as can be learned at present it would seem that this was the fate of the Algoma.

The Standard.

MARKDALE NOVEMBER 26, 1885

SUCCESSFUL BANQUET.

On Tuesday evening last the East Grey Agricultural Society's banquet came off at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, as announced. The roads were in a very rough condition, yet there was a good turn-out, and a very pleasant time spent. At half-past five, about sixty sat down to a substantial and toothsome spread, gotten up in the usual superior style for which the house is noted. A very pleasing feature of this banquet was the presence of a number of the fair sex, about twenty per cent. of the guests being ladies.

After full justice was done in supplying the wants of the inner man. Thos. Kells, Esq., President of the Society, called the assemblage to order, when S. Damude, Esq., secretary, read letters of apology from prominent gentlemen who were unable to be present, among whom were Prof. Brown of the Experimental Farm, Guelph; Dr. Landerkin, M. P., South Grey; Mr. McGee, M. P., Dufferin; the Commissioner of Agricvlture, and others.

The chairman then proposed the first toast, "The Queen," when all arose and sang "God Save the Queen" led by Prof. Anderson, who also gave other two, Scotch songs, during the evening in his usual vigorous and pleasing style. Then came the "Dominion and Provincial parliaments," coupled with the names of B. Allen, M. P., and Dr. Sproule, M. P. Mr. Allen dwelt on the advantages which our Dominion, and especially this Province, affords the agriculturist. He gave a statement in figures of the average yield per acre in this province of the various kinds of farm produce, showing an apple crop to be more profitable than any other product. Dr. Sproule followed, giving an outline of the duties of the Dominion Parliament and their connection with the agriculturist. The municipal interests were responded to by Dr. Christoe and J. Blakely. The agricultural interests, by the chairman (Mr. Kells), W. G. Pickell, J. Boland, R. Oliver, A. Stewart, and others. Mr. Kells urged very forcibly the necessity of adopting some means of procuring a change of seed grain of a pure quality from a distance so that the average farmer could secure a change of seed at a nominal price, or in other words, he advocated that the County Council should take the matter in hand and import a change of seed, paying the freight out of the County treasury, and thus enable farmers to procure the seed at about the same price that they can realize for their own. He claimed, and we think very reasonably, that such a course would add five bushels per acre to the yield, which in itself would be a very material addition to the wealth of the County.

At this stage of the programme we had to hurry away to catch the train home, and are thus unable to give a report of the latter end of the banquet.

There was a good representation of leading farmers and business men present, some ten or twelve from Markdale, and the interchange of ideas will doubtless result profitably.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the Standard.

DEAR SIR,—I notice an item in last weeks Chronicle stating that "For Deputy-Reeve, Mr. John McMillan will be opposed by Patrick Neil." This report has been doubtless originated for a purpose, and I deem it my duty to publickly contradict it, as I have no intention of offering myself as a candidate for Deputy-Reeve, neither have I intimated such to any person whatever.

PATRICK NEIL.

Glenelg, Nov. 25th, '85.

DROPSY, GRAVEL, BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

These common and dangerous complaints are due to a bad condition of the fluids, unhealthy changes in the blood and secretions—the Liver being equally at fault with the Kidneys. Regulate these conditions with Burdock Blood Bitters, one of the best system renovators known to medical science.

Walters Falls.

From our own correspondent.

That a place like Walter's Falls should be advancing rapidly without the aid of railway, telegraph or telephone, may be classed among the remarkable events of the age. Various theories have been advanced to account for this phenomenal state of things: One, that it is owing to the inherited and extraordinary vitality of the inhabitants; another, that some latent power stored away at the commencement of what is called the "Middle Ages" is now coming to the surface and in course of development, while others again assert it is because this is the center of a rich agricultural country. Whatever may be the reason, certain it is, that building operations here have been pushed on with vigor during the past three or four months.

Mr. Richard Olmstead's new planing mill, adjoining his lower saw mill, put up by Mr. Wm. Lemon, is a model for neatness and finish, and will be a boon to the surrounding country.

The capacious new stable of Bonnell Bros., with stone foundation, built by Mr. Samuel Caswell, and the woodwork by Mr. Lemon, is a building of which they may well be proud. We hear that a new residence is also in contemplation by them (Bonnell Bros) to be built early next spring which will most likely be a credit to the village. Then there is the new Methodist parsonage in course of construction, and which will soon be completed should weather continue favorable.

David Brown of the Woollen Factory has put up a nice little stable on his place, which ought to be a neat one, as it was built by a cabinetmaker.

I think you will conclude, Sir, from the foregoing remarks, these are signs of prosperity that cannot be disputed.

There are vague rumors floating about of the formation of a company to light up the village with electric light, the power for doing so to be obtained from the falls. Not much confidence, however, can be placed in them; but one thing seems pretty sure, that the want of street lamps are greatly felt, as only the other night a gentleman, endeavoring to make his way home, mistook the middle of the road for the sidewalk, and in his futile efforts to gain the latter, gave vent to utterances more expressive than elegant, and vowed that at the very next meeting of the council he would strenuously press upon that body the absolute necessity of having the streets lit up on moonless nights.

CURED OF DEAFNESS.

Harry Ricardo, of Toronto, was deaf for eight years, and also suffered with Chronic Rheumatism. After all else failed, Hagyard's Yellow Oil cured both afflictions. Yellow Oil is a reliable internal and external remedy for all painful and inflammatory complaints.

Williamsford.

From a Correspondent.

Bad roads is the sound all around town. Business very good considering the times.

One of the grandest entertainments that has ever been held in this village took place here last Thursday evening. The origin of it was a shooting match. The programme consisted of singing, dancing, wild speeches, and a few black eyes, and about 2 o'clock in the morning a moonlight procession took place which lasted until morning. It was grand. I think the audience enjoyed it well. A grand supper was given at the Queen's Hotel, and I think some of the boys had eaten their beefsteak a little too rare, for before morning there was spitting of blood and broken glass laying around the place. This entertainment lasted more than thirty hours, and the last heard of them, they were drawing to a close by singing "We are all jolly good fellows." They may be there yet.

A very large shed was raised here last week at the Methodist church. You can go to church and listen to good long sermons and have your teams comfortable.

Mr. L. Anderson is building two very fine houses here just now. Mr. F. Shunn is also building a house here, all on Main St.

A very nobby wedding is coming off at Berkeley to-day, and another is expected about Wednesday, not far from there. We wish them all kinds of success and happiness.

MALARIA is the action of disease germs in bad air, poor drainage, swampy regions, etc., upon the system, producing chills, fever, neuralgia, and many dangerous diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels, liver and blood and wards off and cures Malaria.

Meaford Road.

(From our correspondent.)

Our new blacksmith, Mr. Ritchard, has arrived and is now hard at work.

Mr. C. Gilbert and family have removed from here and gone to Wiarton to live.

Mr. W. J. Cooey, his two boys, and Mr. S Gilbert started for the lumber shanties on the Peninsula last week. Mr. Cooey is looking for a farm to purchase.

Our school trustees have had a good substantial wood shed erected on the school premises.

Mr. R. McLoughry, our present school teacher, is leaving here at the close of the present school term. His place next year will be filled by one of the Miss Fords of Markdale.

Bad roads at present. All hands are anxiously wishing for the beautiful snow.

DEBILITY.

Perhaps you are weak and weary, all run down, get tired with slight exertion, feel faint and dizzy, or dull and languid, then you need a good tonic regulator to make pure blood circulate, and give you strength. Try Burdock Blood Bitters—it will not fail you.

Osprey.

From our own correspondent.

W. H. Campaigne has rented the Feversham mills. Flour just right now, so he says.

A Mr. Hamilton, waggon maker, has taken possession of R. Brown's waggon shop.

L. Hall is moving into the store lately occupied by M. Curts, who has moved to Rob Roy.

Paul Bro's are making things lively in the cutter and sleigh line.

The Salvation Army have about fifty converts in Maxwell. Their singing and speaking is excellent.

A Straight Split Between the Quebec Irish and French Catholics.

MONTREAL, Nov. 22.—At St. Patrick's church to-day the Rev. Father Dowd delivered a most impressive discourse on the duties of the Irish Catholics in the present crisis. He had enjoyed, he said, the privilege of a personal interview with Mgr. Grandin, Bishop of the Northwest territories, the scene of the late rebellion. From his lordship's own lips he had heard the recital of all the atrocities that had been committed by the pagan Indians and the easily deceived halfbreeds, urged on by a bad an unscrupulous man. Four missionaries had been massacred almost under his lordship's eyes. The halfbreeds had been led, not only to revolt against the government but, under their wicked leader, had been induced to abandon their faith and turn their backs on the devoted clergy to follow the leader who wished to set aside the pope and the church—all authority, ecclesiastical and civil. He had been informed by his lordship that the result of this was that to-day the halfbreeds were starving, and that he was now soliciting alms from the faithful in various parts of the Dominion to save the lives of his unfortunate people.

Referring to the recent demonstrations in the city, seemed now to be in the hands of the mob. Night after night there had been inflammatory speeches at meetings convened by deceitful politicians, the streets had been occupied by noisy processionists, and respectable citizens had been insulted. A section of the people seemed to have gone crazy. He did not address himself to them, but he warned his hearers, for whom he was responsible to God, to have nothing to do with this movement, which must result disastrously, and to avoid their meetings, processions, and Sunday desecrations. They had been advised by foolish journalists and deceitful politicians to join a so-called national party. But it was not an Irish National party. It was a national party of a section of the people whom he had always loved. This must end in disaster. The banding together in this community of that section would unite as one man all the Protestants of every race against them. The Irish Catholics must keep aloof from all such folly. They were living at peace with their neighbors of all creeds, they had no interest in this movement, many and many of them were the trusted and respected employes of Protestant employers. The wretched man who had been executed had admittedly been guilty of two rebellions. He had sacrificed some of the best lives in the Dominion, and had initiated a war that brought about massacre, disaster and death. He had been fairly tried, the highest court in the empire had pronounced his sentence a just one. When the gallows had been erected the unfortunate man had abandoned his wicked ways, renounced his false religion, wept over his crimes, and with the aid of the church, had been enabled to die as a Christain here. Had his life been spared that grace might never have been granted to him.

TO THE PUBLIC.

—:o:—

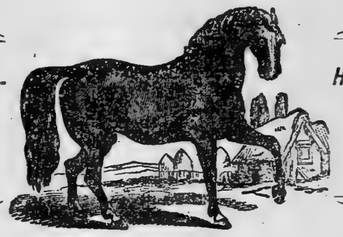
We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

—:o:—

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL



☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885. 2

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary: MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

—o—

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

—o—

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

—o—

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER & Co., - - Chemists and Druggists

MARKDALE, ONT.

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 181 & 183 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 270-1y

CITY HOTEL, MARKDALE.

The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage. Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostlers.

D. McLANE,
Proprietor.

Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

BARRHEAD -:- MILL

Now In Full Blast.

Having raised my mill-dam five feet and thoroughly overhauled my mill, I am now in a position to turn out all work in a satisfactory manner.

Bring along your logs and we will give you your lumber home with you; also Shingles cut on short notice. Gristing and Chopping done better than heretofore.

270 W. J. ROWE.

Dynamite in Barrie.

NARROW ESCAPE.

BARRIE, Nov. 17.—During the nights of the 17th and 18th of August last some miscreants placed a dynamite cartridge about seven inches long and one-and a half inches in diameter on the floor of Mr. J. G. Strong's residence of this town, to which was attached a fuse about a foot long, and paper saturated in coal oil. The paper was ignited and was about half burned before the discovery was made by two of Mr. Strong's sons. The infernal machine was sent to Toronto and tested, and proved to be one of the most powerful kind. The case was laid before the Attorney-General, and was then placed in the hands of Government detectives, who have since been engaged in ferreting up the case. It is said that some clue has been found, but as yet the evidence is not sufficient. The matter has been kept secret up to last Monday evening, when at a Scott Act meeting addressed by Rev. Mr. Keefer, the public were made aware of the fact. The motive that prompted such a diabolical act can only be attributed to the prominent part Mr. Strong has taken in advocating the passing of and carrying into effect of the Scott Act. He was the President of the Association at the time the Act was passed and this year the Vice-President, and his services were sometime since recognized by the County Alliance presenting him with a gold watch. There is not a more respectable citizen in Barrie than Mr. Strong, and he personally could have no enemies.

A PROFITABLE LIFE.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chas. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to call in at A. Turner & Co. and buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Nov.

Post Office Robbery At Thornbury.

The postoffice at Thornbury was robbed of a number of registered letters containing a large amount of money, between Saturday night, the 31st Oct., and Sunday morning. The robbery was at once reported to Mr. Spry, Postoffice Inspector, Barrie, who, along with Mr. Jas. Henderson, Assistant Postoffice Inspector, proceeded to Thornbury and made a thorough investigation of the robbery. The result was that they were led to suspect a young man named Fred. Hutchinson, telegraph operator, the telegraph and postoffice at Thornbury being together. Yesterday they again visited Thornbury and completed their labours, when stronger suspicions seemed to have rested on young Hutchinson, and they expected that he would shortly attempt to skip out. To-day he acquainted his employer that he had received a telegram from St. Catharines that his sister was dying, and accordingly took the train for that city. On the train at Allandale station Mr. Spry took him in charge and had him committed to Barrie gaol, where he was searched and the greater amount of the money found on his person.

THE Sunday School Papers published by Mr. Blackett Robinson, Toronto, are well adapted for Canadian schools. They are free in number, beautifully illustrated, well printed and at low prices. Send for specimen numbers, which are sent free of postage on application.

The Level Head of an Idle Youth

"I think," said Colonel Fizzletop, that Johnny is getting to be too trifling for anything. He is the laziest boy in town."

"That may be, but he gets up at 4 o'clock in the morning, I notice, replied Mrs. Frizzletop.

"Oh, he does that so he can have more time to loaf."

AMONG the forthcoming Books of special interest is the "History of the Presbyterian Church in the Dominion," by Rev. Professor Gregg, D. D., of Knox College, Toronto, who has been gathering information for the work for the past dozen years. From the well-known ability of the author, the care with which every fact has been verified, and the interest which naturally attaches to the history of a great denomination, we have no doubt the publication of this work will prove the literary event of the year. The publisher is Mr. Blackett Robinson, 5 Jordan Street, Toronto, who will be glad to hear of a reliable agent in each congregation.

UBLIC.

R SHOP in connection
ement of Mr. Kay, well
purpose turning out a llence at prices which

ly & Expeditiously.

y Goods, Boots & Shoes
the shoddy men who

TRIAL
cents per barrel.
ROWN & CO.
265-

N, V. S.,
eterinary College.

Horses Examined
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.

EPT & DISPENSED
HARGES MODERATE
MARKDALE.

NCE'S
ye-Glasses
ARTICLES
RKET.
t in stock.
prove Genuineness
have been received from the
Vice-President of the Medical ollege of Physicians and Sur-
ulty of Laval University; the
uncil of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.
ient to prove their qualities
Chemists and Druggists.
ONT.
ey can be obtained.
ic principle.

TY HOTEL,
MARKDALE.
scriber begs to inform the travelling erally, that he has leased the above or a term of years, and hopes by o their comfort to merit a share of ronage, Bar and Larder well sup-od stabling and attentive hostler.
D. McLANE,
Proprietor.
le, Nov. 12, 1885.

RHEAD -:- MILL
w In Full Blast.
g raised my mill-dam five fee roughly overhauled my gri m now in a position to tur ork in a satisfactory manner along your logs and we will your lumber home with you
ingles cut on short notice and Chopping done be tofore.
W. J. ROWE.

Dynamite in Barrie.

NARROW ESCAPE.

BARRIE, Nov. 17.—During the nights of the 17th and 18th of August last some miscreants placed a dynamite cartridge about seven inches long and one-and a half inches in diameter on the floor of Mr. J. G. Strong's residence of this town, to which was attached a fuse about a foot long, and paper saturated in coal oil. The paper was ignited and was about half burned before the discovery was made by two of Mr. Strong's sons. The infernal machine was sent to Toronto and tested, and proved to be one of the most powerful kind. The case was laid before the Attorney-General, and was then placed in the hands of Government detectives, who have since been engaged in ferreting up the case. It is said that some clue has been found, but as yet the evidence is not sufficient. The matter has been kept secret up to last Monday evening, when at a Scott Act meeting addressed by Rev. Mr. Keefer, the public were made aware of the fact. The motive that prompted such a diabolical act can only be attributed to the prominent part Mr. Strong has taken in advocating the passing of and carrying into effect of the Scott Act. He was the President of the Association at the time the Act was passed and this year the Vice-President, and his services were sometime since recognized by the County Alliance presenting him with a gold watch. There is not a more respectable citizen in Barrie than Mr. Strong, and he personally could have no enemies.

A PROFITABLE LIFE.

Few men have accomplished the same amount of work and good in this world as the celebrated Dr. Chas. Over 500,000 of his works have been sold in Canada alone We want every person troubled with Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia. Headache, Kidney or Urinary Troubles, to call in at A. Turner & Co. and buy a bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure, it will cure you. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Nov.

Post Office Robbery At Thornbury.

The postoffice at Thornbury was robbed of a number of registered letters containing a large amount of money, between Saturday night, the 31st Oct., and Sunday morning. The robbery was at once reported to Mr. Spry, Postoffice Inspector, Barrie, who, along with Mr. Jas. Henderson, Assistant Postoffice Inspector, proceeded to Thornbury and made a thorough investigation of the robbery. The result was that they were led to suspect a young man named Fred. Hutchinson, telegraph operator, the telegraph and postoffice at Thornbury being together. Yesterday they again visited Thornbury and completed their labours, when stronger suspicions seemed to have rested on young Hutchinson, and they expected that he would shortly attempt to skip out. To-day he acquainted his employer that he had received a telegram from St. Catharines that his sister was dying, and accordingly took the train for that city. On the train at Allandale station Mr. Spry took him in charge and had him committed to Barrie gaol, where he was searched and the greater amount of the money found on his person.

The Sunday School Papers published by Mr. Blackett Robinson, Toronto, are well adapted for Canadian schools. They are three in number, beautifully illustrated, well printed and at low prices. Send for specimen numbers, which are sent free of postage on application.

The Level Head of an Idle Youth

"I think," said Colonel Fizzletop, "that Johnny is getting to be too trifling for anything. He is the laziest boy in town."

"That may be, but he gets up at six o'clock in the morning, I notice, replied Mrs. Frizzletop.

"Oh, he does that so he can have more time to loaf."

Among the forthcoming Books of special interest is the "History of the Presbyterian Church in the Dominion," by Rev. Professor Gregg, D. D., of Knox College, Toronto, who has been gathering information for the work for the past dozen years. From the well-known ability of the author, the care with which every fact has been verified, and the interests which naturally attaches to the history of a great denomination, we have no doubt the publication of this work will prove the literary event of the year. The publisher is Mr. Blackett Robinson, 5 Jordan Street, Toronto, who will be glad to hear of a reliable agent in each congregation.

"The British Empire."

WHAT DR. WILD THINKS WILL BECOME OF IT.

From the Toronto News.

Although Rev. Dr. Wild can be heard any Sunday for nothing, there was a big crowd paid a dollar each to hear him lecture in Bond street Congregational church last night on "The British Empire." The reverend doctor is evidently very popular.

The chair was occupied by Lieutenant Governor Robinson, whose appearance was the signal for enthusiastic applause. The lecturer began by saying that there was an advantage in belonging to a great nation. If he had been asked before his birth what he would like to be he would have said, "I want to be born in the British empire. Protestant faith, 19th century, reign of Victoria Dominion of Canada, province of Ontario, city of Toronto, to become the pastor of Bond street Congregational church, and to preach to the audience before him." He then proceeded to eulogize the British empire and everything connected with it. Under no other government were the working classes more prosperous or better wages paid. The vast streams of immigration are flowing to the "Saxon circle," the United States and Canada, where they are sure of perfect freedom. Britain is not atheistic, and the proper course was pursued when Bradlaugh was not admitted to her parliament. Hers is the most tolerant and equitable of all governments, and the late Pius IX. said that in England Catholics had more liberty than in many a Catholic country. She has prospered by being a Christian country. Her power is not waning, for since 1881 she has added 2,000,000 square miles to her territories; she is opening up vast regions of trade in South Africa; and just now she is about to annex Burmah. The lecturer here called on the choir to sing "Rule Brittannia," which, was enthusiastically received, after which he launched out into his favorite Anglo-Isreal theory. The teachings of the prophets showed that there was going to be a great federation composed of the British empire, the Jews, who will then be gathered in Palestine, and the United States. By this federation Canada will be more independent. She will have less danger and more security. Her expenses will be less, because she will have no senate and no governor-general sent her from England. Ireland, England and Scotland will each have local parliaments. Federation is sure to come, though it will be years before the consummation takes place, and when it comes all custom houses will be swept away. The chief factors of a nation's growth and future prosperity are land—of which Britain has 10,000,000 square miles—climate and mineral resources. A chief factor was good government, and Britain has a crowned democracy, which is vastly better than a republican form of government because it does not cost the millions spent on election of a ruler every few years. In speaking on this point the lecturer gave figures which, he claimed, proved that the support of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and the royal family cost nothing. Religion was a factor, and Protestantism would yet rule the world. Race was a factor, and the Saxon race was ahead of all others. Language was a factor, and the English language is spreading and will yet prevail over all others.

The choir rendered several patriotic songs in splendid style.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Afflictions, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Dability and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

WHY EMPLOY DOCTORS.

Consult a doctor, for a 6 or 8 oz. bottle of medicine $1—consult A. Turner & Co. and he will give you a 12 oz. bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure for $1, and a valuable Recipe Book free. Nov.

By an arrangement with the publishers of the Rural Canadian, we are enable to club that valuable farm journal to all prepaid subscribers to the STANDARD for the small sum of $1.50, thus effecting a considerable saving to the readers. Renew your subscription now and get the Rural free for the balance of this year.

New and Renewed Subs.

D. McCarty, Markdale, Oct. '85.
Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Goring, Jan. '86.
Jas. Lauder, Pomona, Jan. '86.
John Hewitt, Berkeley, Jan. 87.
W. J. Brown, Harkaway, (new) Jan. 87.
T. J. Graham, Peninsular Harbor, (new) May '86.
Jas. Ritchie, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Simon McCallum, Flesherton (new) Jan. '87.
Alex. Smith, Markdale, July '85.
Robt. Bradly, Lily Oak, July '85.
Alex. Mercer, Markdale, Sept. '86.
Wm. G. Guthrie, Markdale, Jan. 87

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Saturday, Dec. 12th, at Queen's Hotel, Williamsford, valuable village property, grain warehouse, &c. Geo. Noble, auctioneer; William Lucas, trustee.

Tuesday, Dec. 1st, at 1 o'clock, on lot 120, 3rd, west of T. & S. Road, Artemesia, four miles south of Markdale, Mrs. Robt. Brown will sell 5 horses, 12 head of cattle, 16 sheep, &c., &c. Terms, 12 months credit on sums over $5. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

Friday, Dec. 4th, at one o'clock, Mr. Thomas Campbell will sell on his premises adjoining Markdale, a large quantity of live stock, farm implements, &c. He has rented his farm, and will sell without reserve. See posters for particulars. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

DIRECT RELIEF follows the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, in case of Pain, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and all soreness of the flesh. Yellow Oil is an internal and external remedy that should be kept in every household.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 70	to	0 85
Barley	35	to	56
Peas	50	to	55
Oats	25	to	28
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	4 75	to	5 00
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

TENDERS.

SEALED tenders will be received at this office, up to noon the 7th December for Sexton for the new Methodist Church. Specifications of duties may be seen at this office. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
271-72 Sec.-Treas.

ESTRAY.

A WHITE ewe lamb came to the premises of Samuel Douglas, lot 1, con. 9, Euphrasia, about the 20th October. The owner can have it by proving property, paying expences.

SAMUEL DOUGLAS,
272-74 Markdale, P. O.

Flouring Mills to Rent.

THE well known "Speeton Mills," within one an a half miles of Flesherton, to rent on very reasonable terms.

Apply to the executors,
JOHN W. ARMSTRONG,
WILLIAM CLAYTON,
JOHN BOLAND,
Flesherton, Nov. 25, 1885.

STRAYED.

FROM the premises of the subscriber, last June, 3 yearling steers, two red, with little white spots, one having its ears partly frozen off the third brindle. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery will be suitably rewarded.

W. J. BROWN,
271-73* Harkaway, P. O.

Store to Rent in Makdale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or
JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
148-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

Important Notice.

I take this means of informing the public generally, that I have opened in

MARKDALE

An Agency for the sale of the famous

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

And world renowned

"Singer Sewing Machine."

The Doherty stands at the top of the list as either a Parlor or Chapel Organ. For strength and variety of tone, as well as beauty of finish and durability, it stands without a peer.

The Singer Sewing Machine is known all over the continent as the most perfect and durable machine in the market. Those who anticipate purchasing anything in the above line will consult their own best interests by giving me a call before closing a bargain elsewhere.

Office in Dunlop's old stand, Markdale.

HUGH WILLIAMS.

TEACHER WANTED.

MALE or Female, holding 3rd class certificate; duties to commence 1st January, 1886, for S. S. No. 7, Holland. State salary.

THOS. J. SPEARS,
Sec.-Treas.
Williamsford Station P. O.

TEACHER WANTED.

FOR S. S. No. 16, Euphrasia township, duties to commence 1st January. Applications received up to noon 5th December. State certificate held and salary wanted.

D. R. ELLIS,
Kimberley P. O.
271-73 Sec.-Treas.

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.

270 77 J. HANSON.

Peerless Oil!

Ahead of All Competitors.
Highest Honors & Gold Medal at Toronto.
SIX GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YEARS—BEST RECORD IN THE WORLD.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Ask for PEERLESS and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.,

Queen City Oil Works,
TORONTO, ONT.

WILLIAM STUART,
KIMBERLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.
Nov. 3, '85-1y

SavE MoneY

By buying your
Watches,
Clocks,
Jewelry,
Spectacles,
Pipes, &c.
AT
JAS. G. RUSSELL'S
FLESHERTON.
A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.
Every job warranted to give satisfaction.
JAS. G. RUSSELL.
217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

LOT 20, con. 10, Euphrasia, nine miles from the flourishing village of Markdale, and one lot from Post Office. This farm is well watered, solid clay loam, contains 100 acres 45 of which is cleared and under cultivation and the balance fine hardwood timber, also a frame barn 36 x 56 thereon. Terms easy, for particulars apply to

THOS. MUXLOW,
Goring P. O.
263-72 Adjoining the premises.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the next Entrance Examination to High Schools for the County of Grey, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd and 23rd days of December, 1885, at the Town of Owen Sound, the Village of Markdale and the Village of Thornbury respectively. It is requested that the probable number of Candidates from each locality shall be notified to me one month antecedent to the first of the above dates.

THOMAS GORDON,
Inspector W. Greg.
Markdale, 27th October, 1885. 16-402

SAVE MONEY! CHEAP READING!!

THE STANDARD
AND THE
RURAL CANADIAN,
From now till 1st January, 1887,
FOR THE SMALL SUM OF $1.50.

By an arrangement with the publisher of the Rural Canadian, now in its ninth year of publication, we are enabled to offer both papers for $1.50. The regular price of the two is $2.

The Rural Canadian is a monthly illustrated magazine for the Farm and Home. The following are the leading Departments:—Farm and Field; Horses and Cattle; The Dairy; Sheep and Swine; Garden and Orchard; Bees and Honey; Poultry and Pets; Home Circle: The Grange Record; Rural Notes; Household Hints; Young Canada; Scientific and Useful. The music given from month to month is worth the price of several years' subscription.

The Bobcaygeon Independent styles the Rural "The agricultural authority of the Dominion."

The Cobourg World says: "One of the best papers of the kind published on the coutinent."

☞ SUBSCRIBE NOW
And get
BALANCE OF YEAR FREE.

NOTICE.

THE High School Entrance Examination will be held at Durham, in the Public School building on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd & 23rd of December, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. each day. Candidates are requested to send their names to the undersigned on or before the 1st December.

JAMES WHITESIDE,
Head Master, Durham Public School.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Choice Recipes.

SQUASH BISCUIT.—One and one half cups of boiled and sifted squash, one-half cup of sugar, one cup of scalded milk, one spoonful of shortening, salt, and one-half cake of compressed yeast dissolved in a spoonful of cold water, and mix in flour till stiff enough to mold. Raise over night, mold, and cut them out in biscuit, raise an hour and bake.

PRESERVED CITRON MELON.—Cut the melon in strips, remove the soft pulp containing the seeds, and peel the pieces. Boil in a liberal quantity of water containing an ounce of alum to every gallon of water; when tender, drain. Prepare a syrup, using a pound of sugar, half a pint of water, and two sliced lemons to every pound of melon; when the syrup is clear add the citron melon; let it boil once, then put into jars while hot.

RAISED BROWN BREAD.—Put one quart of yellow Indian meal in an earthen bowl, pour over it sufficient boiling water to entirely moisten it, and let it cool to blood heat; when it is cool mix with it one quart of rye-meal, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of home-made yeast or half a cupful of baker's yeast, one teaspoonful of salt dissolved in a little water, and sufficient lukewarm water to make a soft paste; after thoroughly mixing these ingredients put the dough into a buttered earthen or thick iron pan, smooth it on top with a wooden spoon wet in cold water, cover it with a folded towel, and set it in a moderately warm place to rise; when the surface begins to crack open put it into a moderate oven, with another pan turned over it, for four hours; or steam it five hours, and then dry the crust in the oven.

LIGHT SUET PUDDING.—To half a pound of flour allow a quarter of a pound of suet, weighed after it has been very finely chopped and freed from every particle of skin or fiber. Add a pinch of salt, mix thoroughly, moistening with as much cold water added gradually as will bring it to about the same consistency as bread before it is baked. Wring a perfectly clean cloth out in water as nearly boiling as may be, and flour well over the moistened cloth. Form the pudding into a long shape, like a jam roll. Fold the cloth round it, tie the ends firmly, remembering in both these processes that it must not be bound up too tightly. A certain amount of room is necessary to allow it to swell or the pudding would be heavy. With a needle and thread catch the cloth together along the side. Have ready a saucepan full of boiling water, drop the pudding into it, put on the lid, and let it keep boiling for about an hour or an hour and a half. When done turn it out for a minute onto a clean, folded cloth to drain, cut off the ends, and serve it in a flat dish with a little sifted sugar over the top.

Hints.

The juice of the common milkweed will generally cure warts on the hands or face. It is an inexplicable and painless application, and much preferable to cutting the excrescences out, which will not always extirpate them. It will probably serve the same purpose on the teats of cows, where warts often come and cause much inconvenience in milking.

Hard waters are to be preferred to soft waters in the teapot, as the hard waters dissolve less of the tannin of the leaves.

After tea has been steeped in boiling water for three minutes a large proportion of the valuable constituents are extracted.

The most effectual remedy for slimy and greasy drain-pipes is copperas dissolved and left to work gradually through the pipe.

Plaster of paris ornaments may be cleansed by covering them with a thick layer of starch, letting it dry thoroughly, and brushing with a stiff brush.

A room crowded to discomfort with furniture and ornaments, no matter how costly, is never restful and homelike, and always suggestive of the shop or the museum.

A dark and gloomy room may be brightened by placing ebonized shelves over the doors and windows, grouping scarlet, yellow or gilded fans upon the walls, and placing pretty bric-a-brac and vases in positions where they will be brought into relief by a cheerful background.

A correspondent of the Fruit Recorder says he has boiled leaves and stems of tomato plants until the juice is all extracted, and finds the liquor deadly to caterpillars, lice, and many other enemies of vegetation. It does not injure the growth of the plants, and its odor remains for a long time to disgust insect marauders.

A good hair restorative is a mixture of equal parts of alcohol and castor oil. If the combined quantity is four ounces, add to it two drachms of camphorides and a few drops of any perfume.

Colored hose that stain the feet should be thus treated: Put them into a pail of boiling hot clear water, let them stand until cool, rub them out by hand, and put into hot salt water. When cool, rinse from that thoroughly, wring dry, and hang out smoothly in the shade to dry. Black cotton goods of all kinds are benefited by the same treatment the first time they are washed, using the usual method of washing with soap after scalding.

The oftener carpets are shaken, the better they last, as the particles of dirt and sand which collect upon them grind the threads. Sweeping them also wears them.

In putting down stair-carpets, housekeepers should be careful to tack a piece of folded paper or soft cloth over the edge of each step. It saves the carpet from wearing out.

All descriptions of woolen goods should be washed in very hot water with soap, and as soon as cleansed immersed in cold water and hung up to dry. Housekeepers well know how difficult it is to have flannels and other woolen goods properly washed, so that they will not be ruinously shrunk.

Use spirits of turpentine to remove grease spots from clothes. It dissolves the grease, and then soap and water more easily removes it. Grease may be removed from undyed woolen also by a solution of pearl-ash.

Lime spots may be entirely removed by strong vinegar. The vinegar neutralizes the lime, but does not generally affect the color of the cloth. Dark cloth, the color of which has been completely destroyed in large spots, has thus had its original color entirely restored.

The daughters of a millionaire always have fine figures.

THE RED INDIANS OF NEWFOUNDLAND.

BY A. C. WINTON.

(Concluded.)

In 1819 Mr. Peyton, doing a considerable trade in the northern part of the island, was considerably annoyed at having lost a large amount of property, which had been taken by the Indians. He determined to go into the interior and recover it, and at the same time if possible to do some trading with the Indians in furs and skins. On the fifth of March, together with seven or eight men, he came upon a party of the aborigines on a frozen lake. By making signs and throwing away his arms, he induced one of them (a woman) to stop. The rest of the Indians, however, approached with more hostile dispositions, and it is said that one of them seized Peyton by the throat with the intention of killing him. This action on the part of the Indian caused some confusion, which ended by one of the Indians being shot. The woman was secured, but her husband and another Indian resisting, they were both killed. The woman was afterwards taken to St. John's, and christened Mary March, from the month in which she was taken. Here she remained several months, and was treated with great kindness, and attracted a good deal of attention by her modest and intelligent demeanour. She remained in St. John's until the ensuing winter, when she was sent back under the escort of Lieut. Buchan, with numerous presents, with the intention of opening up friendly communication with her people, but during her stay in St. John's she had contracted sickness, which finally led to consumption, and, unfortunately, before the enterprise could be accomplished, the woman died; her body was placed in a coffin and left on the margin of Red Indian Lake, where it was shortly afterwards recovered by her own people. The subject of her capture and death in 1819 is very neatly versified by Barrington Lodge, of Albany, N. Y. as follows:—

MARY MARCH,

The last of the Newfoundland Indians, who died in captivity at St. John's, 1819.

In Terra Nova's land,
By the Atlantic's strand
Strayed a Saxon band
Three-score years ago.
There where the red cliffs rise.
Up to the northern skies,
These brave men sought their prize,
In fields of Arctic snow.

It was a winter month,
When, with its hungered tooth,
It desolates the north,
Near the Exploit's water.
Piqued for a racquette run,
Armed with the sealing gun
These heroes sought the fun
Of nomad slaughter.

It was the break of day,
When they espied their prey,
Fleeing like deer away
Into the forest;
Following fast behind,
Fast as the fleet-foot hind,
Fast as the storm whipped wind,
Mad for the conquest.

Running with lightning speed,
Over the ice-bound mead,
Following the chieftain's lead,
They saw a woman—
Who, haggard, weird and wild,
Bearing an infant child,
Exhausted had to yield
To men not human.

For this bold heartless crew,
Who fear nor mercy knew,
Were not in mood to woo,
But ruthless capture.
As well the dove might find
The shriek of eagle kind,
Or the fierce night hawk blind,
Or thirsty vulture.

Under the snow bent tree,
There upon bending knees,
Awaiting their orgies
She bared her bosom—
Hoping the man within,
Each heart of cruel sin,
She by this act might win,
To manly custom.

Seeing her helpless errand,
Pleading with upraised hand,
Life from the Saxon band,
Back came the chieftain—
Who with outstretched palm,
With frenzied eyes, yet calm;
Chanting an Indian psalm
Begged them to refrain.

Catching her slender form
In his great stalwart arm,
He with a look of scorn,
Made for the cover.
When the marauder's aim
The snow with blood did stain
Marked on his brow the pain
Of more than lover.

There lay the helpless clay,
Left for the wolf a prey,
And with her tribe at bay,
She had no power.
Then with a cry of grief,
Over her fallen chief,
The hills retold her grief,
As she did cower.

They tied her palsied hands,
Tied them with hempen bands,
And with fierce commands
Their mute captive led.
Far from her forest home.
Where 'neath a stately dome,
Her fate she did bemoan
Her captors dread.

From homes of gentle love,
Kind matrons daily strove,
Their love, and pity prove,
But tried in vain.
Hope from her heart had fled,
Her chief and child were dead,
The past her memory fed,
And crazed her brain.

In vain they tried to calm,
In vain they tried each balm,
Chanting an Indian psalm,
With frantic role
She smote her brain and breast,
Would neither sleep nor rest;
At last Death's kind behest
Set free her soul.

Soon after this, their numbers decreased very fast. Driven from their hunting grounds persecuted on all sides by hunters and trappers, who, seeing the rich furs which were used as bedding and rugs, and the beautiful skins that clothe their bodies, carried on a cold-blooded war against them. Hunted by their hated foes, the Micmacs, together with famine and disease, their ranks thinned rapidly, until to-day not a representative of that once powerful race exists in Newfoundland. Where once was heard the war-whoop, silence reigns; the plaintive Indian psalms by the squaws, are not to be heard; no canoe is now seen shooting swiftly over the rapids or gliding noiselessly over its lakes. No sound of the Indians is heard; no smoke is seen issuing from their wigwam; their camp fires are extinguished forever. In vain explorations were sent into the interior to discover their whereabouts; only a few graves and the ruins of their wigwams remain; all is barrenness and desolation; their fate fills another dark page in the progress of civilization in the new world. Not since the death of Mary March has one of their number been seen, and it may be regarded as certain that in Newfoundland to-day, not one single individual of the race exists.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

"I can't see dat Prof. Trespass Johnson am in de hall to-night," said Brother Gardner as he looked up and down. "De fack am, I didn't 'xactly 'spect he would be. Sartin events hev occurred to render his absence a necessity. De Seckretary will turn to his name on de roll an' scratch it off, and write across it in red ink the word 'expelled.'"

When the Secretary had carried out the request the President continued:

"Up to a y'ar ago Prof. Johnson was an active, respected member of dis club. He was not only a worker in our cause, but he was industrious as a man. If he couldn't get work at a dollar an' a half a day he got it fur a dollar. If he couldn't hev roast duck fur Sunday he put up wid a beef-bone soup. His family had plenty to eat an' to w'ar, an' when rent day cum around he had de cash ready for his landlord.

"Jist about twelve months back some white man told de Professor dat he had just as good a right to a pianer, gold watch an' span of horses as a rich man. He was told dat de aristocracy war coinin' money out of his labor. He was made to believe dat de pusson who wouldn't pay two dollars to hev a kitchen ceilin' whitewashed was an oppressor. It was pounded into him dat, if he sot on de fence all summer an' talked agin de blue blood of dis kentry, somebody would furnish him roast turkey all winter.

"Many of you saw how he was affected. He begun to hate honest work. His mouf began to grow bigger. While his cloze growed seedy his importance increased daily. When his wood-pile grew low he cussed Vanderbilt. When his flour bar'l was empty he reviled Jay Gould. When his children becum ragged he ripped at capital. When his wife becum bar'-fut he swore at de aristocracy. When his landlord bounced him for non-payment of rent he howled an' raved about oppressors an' tyrants.

"De climax cum las' nite. I heard dat he had bin boastin' dat de rich must divide wid him, an' I concluded to watch my hen-coop. About 'leben o'clock de Professor showed up. I had twenty-two choice hens. He had none. He was gwine to divide wid me an' take 'leben. My frens, I can't 'zactly discribe what happened arter I got my paws on him, but I know he went away empty-handed, limpin', sore an' in de hands of an officer. He am no longer a member of dis club. If dar' am any odder member wid socialistic ideas now would be a good time fur him to make a grab fur his hat an' back down sta'rs."

A deep silence followed. Not a man moved.

BASE IMPOSTORS

The secretary announced the following communications:

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA.

To the President of the Lime-Kiln Club:

DEAR SIR—I am instructed by the Amalgamated Whitewash Society (colored) of this city to inform your club that two colored men representing themselves to be members of the Lime-Kiln Club are now in this city collecting money and curiosities for your museum and have succeeded in obtaining quite a large collection of cash and curios. They give their names as Exodus Bourbon and Witanagemot Crawley. Please let us know through the press if they are bona fide members of your club. Among the curiosities are: A sketch of the (proposed) dry-dock, some cabin fittings of the S. S. Micmac (very rare), a copy of the revised statutes, a bottle of water taken from the dockyard where H. R. H. the Prince of Wales landed in 1860, a boot-jack once fired at a cat by the late Hon. Joseph Howe, eleven hairs pulled from the tail of a horse owned by a brother of McAskill, the Nova Scotia giant, a birch switch used by a son of Gen. Williams, the "hero of Kars," to drive the cattle home with, two skulls of Evangeline (rare), a bunghole once the property of Sir Charles Tupper, a sensible and unpersonal editorial in the Halifax Herald, supposed to be unique, two feet of the Short Line Railway, and others too numerous to mention. It is now generally supposed that these men are frauds, as Exodus was seen a few nights ago serenading Gov. Richey, while Witanagemot was discovered last night at Billy Coombs' trying to trade off one of Evangeline's skull for a glass of beer.

Please let us know at once if they are imposters or not and relieve our suspense.

Yours truly in the bonds of color,
JOHN THOMAS BULMER,
Secretary A. W. Society.

BROTHER GARDNER,
Detroit, Mich.

The Secretary was instructed to telegraph a night message to the effect that both men were imposters of the basest sort, and to offer a reward of $25 each for their arrest and conviction.

JUST THE SAME

Shindig Watkins secured the floor to ask for information. He wanted to know if a member must feel perfect confidence in another member's word when trading horses. He hadn't made a trade yet, but might in a day or two.

"Brudder Watkins," said the President in very solemn tones, "dar am no doubt a fraternal feelin' among members of dis club. In case you wanted to borry ten cents of Waydown Beebe, and had no odder security but de fack dat you was a member heah, he would probably lend it to you, but you must not presume too far. When two members of de same church will kiver up all de spavins in a hoss-trade, an' reduce de aige of an 18-y'ar ole beast down to a 9 widout changin' countenance, doan' hope fur too much honesty in a society mostly composed of sinners."

SERVED HIM RIGHT.

The Secretary of the "Tall Timber Cadets," of Orangeville, Ont., forwarded a communication on behalf of his society, which deeply interested the club. A colored man calling himself Sir Isaac Walpole reached Orangeville a few days ago and set about organizing a branch of the Lime-Kiln Club, with the initiation fee at $2. Before he had collected much money he was exposed by the Hon. Snowball Wilkins, one of the delegates to the last annual election. The bogus Sir Isaac was at once escorted to an old tannery in the suburbs by a committee of indignant colored men, and when he broke for the woods he had on a suit of tar and feathers.

On motion of Calligraph Smith the thanks of the club were tendered to the "Cadets" in red ink, and there was much rejoicing that an impostor had been publicly exposed and properly rewarded.

HEART-RENDING SCENE.

Imprisonment for Life the Sentence Passed upon Eight men Guilty of Rape—A Mother's Unspeakable Grief.

The scene in the Court room at Ottawa the other day when Judge Rose sentenced eight men to Penitentiary for life for the heinous crime of rape, will forever live in the memories of those present at the time. The outrages, full reports of which were published at the time, were the most revolting in Canadian criminal history, and the punishment, though severe, is acknowledged by all to be just.

THE JUDGES CHARGE.

After the counsel for the defence had addressed the jury, his Lordship delivered his charge. He instructed the jury in the interest of justice and of the prisoners, to dismiss from their minds any influence that might affect their judgment; to consider whether or not the Crown had proved its case; stated that the prisoners had a right to the benefit of all doubts, and defined what doubt consisted of. Alluding to the Queen's prosecutor's reference to lynch law, the learned judge said, it might do for young countries where they had not had time to organize courts, but in countries where these were duly organized, justice was calmer, and as sure. In reference to this case it mattered not whether it were the commonest strumpet, or the most modest maiden who ever adorned a household, who was the complainant. It was always a sad thing to see a woman fall from virtue. It had been said; "Man unto man so oft unjust, to woman always so," and were there no means by which a woman who had once made a fall could return to the path of virtue, then indeed death would be the natural reference. As to the commission of the crime the evidence if true proved the full crime. The evidence had been heard by them, the young woman swore positively to the three. In conclusion his Lordship told them as a matter of law that a verdict of guilty was the only one they could return on the evidence unless they saw any good ground to disbelieve the evidence, in which case they would give the prisoners the benefit of the doubt.

RETURNING THE VERDICT.

The jury retired at 4:20, returning into court at 6:15.

Clerk of arraigns—"Gentlemen, are you agreed upon your verdict?"

The foreman—"We are."

Clerk of arraigns—"Guilty or not guilty?"

Foreman—"Guilty, with a recommendation to mercy."

After her examination Miss Graham was so much exhausted that she suffered from convulsions for some hours. She did not recover until nearly 5 o'clock.

Throughout the trial the court was densely crowded, large numbers of people thronging into court, during the judge's summing up. The greatest order was maintained throughout.

PASSING THE SENTENCE.

After the verdict had been returned in the Theodore street case, his Lordship ordered the eight prisoners to be placed in the dock. This being done his Lordship addressed them as follows:

"What say you why you should not be sentenced?"

Black—"I am innocent of the charge laid against me."

McHugh—"I have nothing whatever to say, my lord."

His Lordship then said:—"I am rather sorry to hear your declarations of innocence, because after the verdicts, in which I quite agree, you are guilty. The offence itself is of a most heinous character. Standing as you do, convicted, I can see nothing but the recommendation of the jury to save the sentence of the gallows being passed on you. Trained in crime till you are unable to restrain your passions, you must be treated as dangerous beasts, and put away for the sake of our daughters' virtue. Sympathy, as a man, I may have for you; but I am a judge. The sentence of the court upon you and each of you is, that you be confined in the provincial penitentiary for the term of your natural lives.

The dread sentence fell on a deadly silence, during which one gentleman seated by the solicitors' table put down his head and wept bitterly, whilst surprise was depicted on every face in court, and the prisoners turned deathly pale and motionless. Then a short, enthusiastic burst of applause came from the seats on the judge's right, among which Miss Graham, one of the victims, was sitting. This was at once suppressed and was succeeded by

A HEART-RENDING SHRIEK,

as Mrs. Goodman, mother of one of the condemned men, wildly wringing her hands and incoherently talking in a perfect paroxysm of grief, burst through the court and made her way up the steps to the dais, on which the judges were seated. Before Mrs. Goodman could recover articulation she was forcibly removed from the court, only to burst in again, however, and address his Lordship from Mr. Featherstone's table. "My lord! My lord! have mercy on me, don't take him away, my lord!" It was a relief to most present to hear Justice Rose, calm, and judicial, though with tremulous voice at the painful moment, as he assured the unhappy woman. "My heart bleeds for you, but I am here as a judge. I have only done my duty, and relief to you must come from the executive." Mrs. Goodman was then gently led from the court, to the head of the stairway forming the public means of access. Here again, her grief was most acute, wildly shrieking, she besought each and every one present, to render her immediate assistance, the burden of her prayer being

"MY GOD! MY GOD!

send me help now to-night. Can't you help me, won't you help me," and many a manly heart was melted almost to tears, and many a heart beat low with compassion, as she turned from one to another with the same wild imploring cry for aid, and ... how utterly powerless he was ... As the intense, and maddening ... of her grief wore off, she allowed ... be led down the stairs, and ... probably an absolutely true ... who's case on the stairway. "My ... like that, he couldn't do it, he would ... have insulted a child until he took ... cursed drink with the other two."

About half an hour after the ... was pronounced a weeping crowd of ... amongst whom might be heard the ... heart-broken Irish "O'hone, o'hone ... the mothers of the other prisoners ... vain effort to see their boys, or to ... Lordship, and by him to intercede with ... executive for them. After waiting, ... ever, for some hours, and not being ... pass the cordon of constables, they ... the attempt and retired. Throughout the ... city the news of the sentence spread ... wherever two or three met together the ... ject of conversation was the doom of ... convicts, and every where expressed ... approval of the severe sentence was ... No one thought, or thinking would ... that his Lordship was too severe, ... will stamp that sort of thing out in Ottawa ... was the general verdict.

The sentence for rape is death, but ... Justice Rose mercifully accepted the ... commendations of the jury, and passed ... lighter sentence.

A fact which even political economists ... apt to forget is that a manufacturer's ... of profit is not the only essential element ... success; the aggregate profit at the ... the year is of far greater importance, ... this in most cases is greater out of a low ... of profit than out of a high rate, because ... the increased business, which the ... price gives rise to. It was on this principle ... that Messrs. Tuckett & Son acted in ... ducing their now famous "Myrtle ... tobacco, and to this principle they have ... since adhered. This is one of the ... why the people of Canada are smoking ... best tobacco which can be produced, ... cheaper price than any other people ... a similar article.

Portland, Oregon, boat-builders are ... now taking an interest in a model ... race. The yachts must not exceed ... in length, and the sail, rig and model ... be a matter of fancy to the owner.

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS—O... morphine and kindred habits. ... treatise sent free. The medicine ... given in tea or coffee, without the know... ledge of the person taking it, if so ... Send two 3c. stamps for full par... and testimonials of those who have ... cured. Address M. V. Lubon, agent, ... Wellington street east, Toronto, Can.

The Manchester Gallery of Paintings ... be lighted with electricity.

Imperial Cough Drops will ... Positive and Instant Relief to those ... from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, ... and are invaluable to orators and vo... For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufa... Toronto.

YOUR NAME, ADDRESS AND ... mailed Bengough's shorthand and ... Institute, Toronto, will bring copy ... Shorthander, best journal in America. ... Send for Calendar.

MACHINERY FOR SALE—ENGINES, Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills, ... tory Outfits, Stave and Heading Machin... wheels, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for ... catalogue, and mention what you want (... this paper) H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

A BIG OFFER To introduce them, we GIVE AWAY ... Operating Washing Machines. If you ... send us your name, P. O. and express ... THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N. Y.

A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL ... Williams' Eye Water has proved itself ... by all who have used it according to directions ... eyes were curable, as will be seen by the ... certificates It cured me, 8 years blind, ... O. Fortin; it has cured me, occulist would ... Alexander Wand, 6 years blind, Chas. Amiot; ... Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and now I ... Lecroix. Ask your druggists for it. Wh... man Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St., Montreal.

RUGS Beautiful Colored Designs ... Flowers, Birds, Animals, Etc., printed on Burlap ... to be worked in rags, yarn ... Wholesale and retail Large discount to ... and Agents. Send to manufacturer for ... R. W. ROSS, Guelph, ...

JAMES PARK & SON, Pork Packers, Toronto. L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. ... Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, ... Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, ... ed Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, ... Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English ... Dairy Salt in Stock.

BUY THE IMPROVED CONBOY Carriage Tops AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.

There are over Twenty Thousand of ... Tops now in use, and are giving ... satisfaction than any other.

The manufacturer of these Conboy Carriage Tops, owns more patents ... provements, and makes a greater ... than any other firm in Canada ... United States.

THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE ... CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT ... BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ... APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.

Factory and Salerooms, 407 to 413 KING ST. W... TORONTO

The Lachine Bridge.

... struction of a new bridge across the ... river is not yet an event that ... frequently as to pass unnoticed, ... aspects the new bridge at Lachine, ... contracts for which have been let ... Canadian Pacific Railway Company, ... an occurrence in the history ... railways, at least, as was the ... of the Victoria bridge some twenty ... years ago. The Victoria Bridge not ... a winter outlet to the sea for ... was independent of climatic in... but it opened a way for the pro... West to reach the sea the year ... The Lachine Bridge will break the ... held by the Grand Trunk as the ... only bridge across the St. Law... it will, with the addition of a ... of road, complete the Canadian ... railway without a break from ocean ...

As a piece of engineering work ... bridge cannot begin to compare with ... 's masterpiece, the great tube ... in length, once one of the won... world; but will be a more satis... bridge as a bridge. It is to be an ... girder, resting upon eleven piers, ... yards in length from abutment to ... The spans, with the exception ... great channel spans of 409 feet ... comparatively short, and, ... striking feature will be the rise ... girder in these spans above the ... the abutments the track will be ... above the water, and a somewhat ... feature of the stone work is the in... four panels on each side of each ... bearing the arms of the provinces. ... line has been constructed from ... End Station of the Canadian Paci... a few miles of the site of the ... bridge, and it is to be carried across ... Trunk line and the canals with... special engineering feature. Upon ... bank of the river a line is to be ... connect with the South-Eastern at ... and thus a connection is to be ... all points south. From West ... on the South-Eastern, a connect... be made to Lennoxville, there to ... the line of the International ... the corporation last devoured by ... Canadian Pacific. An almost perfect ... will thus be completed between ... and the Maritime Provinces. The ... Quebec Short Line, for which a ... already been obtained, is to run ... 's Falls to St. Ann's, where it ... Ottawa alongside the Grand ... passing through St. Genevieve ... a junction with the approach ... upon the high level. When ... all dependent upon the bridge. ... the Canadian Pacific will ... the shortest route from Toronto ... from Winnipeg to the sea by way ... Maritime Provinces and the comple... Credit Valley from St. Thomas ... River will complete their line ... of the Grand Trunk in al... particular, and they will have ... of an air line.

Boycotting with a Vengeance.

... most extraordinary contests ... classes of people in the same ... now in progress in Ireland, ac... by the usual exhibitions of burn... conspicuous in the contentions ... warm-hearted and mercurial people. ... say that the government finds ... fighting this boycotting with the ... most formidable and vexatious ... the resources for the preserva... peace of the country. This is ... ceivable when it is understood that ... who have taken land from which ... had been evicted find it not ... possible to work it, but even to ob... necessaries of life from the shop... the vicinage.

... oddest forms which this system ... has assumed is the refusal of ... Dealers' association of Munster to ... to England in the vessels of the ... company, unless the com... to ship cattle boycotted by the ... league. In fact, the demand is that ... shipped unless the shipper can ... certificate of league membership. ... part of this procedure is that ... stockholders of the company are ... and that a majority of them ... in politics. This gives color to ... on their part that the cattle deal... making these demands in the ... monopoly.

... curious circumstance in this mel... contention is that the boycotters are ... working against the interest of ... in the country, for the reason ... cattle are not shipped the values ... remaining in the country must ... decline.

Indian Summer.

... nothing that happens with such ... regularity about which there is ... than our Indian summer. ... when is it, and why is it, are ... are discussed as often as it ... causes of our Indian summer ... hard to find. During the sum... earth becomes heated to the depth ... About the time of the ac... the autumnal equinox there are ... changes in the northern hemi... result in storms of cold rain and ... When these rains cease, and ... becomes settled, the surface of ... has been cooled by them, but it ... to bring the heat from the ... to the surface where it is ra... the water rapidly evaporated, ... the atmosphere its peculiar blue, ... The escaping heat of the ... added to that of the sun, causes the ... weather of the Indian sum...

... has been said this delightful ... be expected any time after Sep... comes earlier in the east than ... it is expected in October, ... usually does not come until ... and it is generally of longer dur... interior than on the coast, main... there is less wind in the interior, ... is radiated more slowly and ... air. In 1889 our Indian sum... until the middle of December, ... will remember the long sea... dry weather that seemed al... ally to follow the Chicago fire ... 1874 it lasted until the day be... and wound up with the ... of the winter.

Peace in a sin... est of curses.

The highest ... this world is ... man.

The way to s... not go out of fa... sincerely.

Mystery is ... ance; if we we... plain.

Selfishness b... we hug our fanc... ing in his sleeve...

Truth is the ... feels flattered ... think him too ...

Let a man lea... even motes and ... not by "luck," ... reaps.

The effect of ... a tree is seen alo... so in the next w... good deeds.

Feelings come... lowing the victo... ciples, like troop... ed and stand fas...

In these word... code of courtesy ... same level as yo... everybody's plac...

Every man h... thought which ... alone. This, to ... man.

There is no lev... it levels by liftin... ble only to huma... ble can rise, and ...

It is one thing ... i, for its own s... welcome as much ... pressions and pre...

We are in da... opportunities of ... cating. In reac... trample down th...

There exists ... who may not imp... his own true nat... say nature I m... purity.

Good-humored ... ary conversation, ... will indulge in th... privacy of domes... or misrepresents.

The worst thin... good things. Ab... the dangerous vi... make the accomp... fecti ne engender...

The world is go... wisdom, authorit... dam for thought... rough people, and ... mass of superficia... at the outside.

Nature presents ... gives the rule to ... ing is fine art; an... worketh hitherto, ... ings the way he h... desire and the ins...

Pronouncing ma... of the spelling bee... smallest Welsh ... ient to put down ... American pronou... For example; Pro...

Duty is a power... morning, and goes ... It is co-extensive ... telligence. It is ... to us, go where ... leaves us when we...

How lovingly a... of tender memorie... illustrating anew ... a sweet "Good-nig... or a sad "Adieu" ... ones—from casual ... these, when once ... never die." Plea... thorny pathways ... found enemies, an... are the rule, and ... be otherwise than ... then, let us cultiv... alutations and a...

Ambition, that ... which makes such ... men, arises from ... distinction, and, ... pings in which it ... removed, will be ... mean materials of ... ness. It is descri... a gallant madness, ... den plague, a secr... soul, the moth o... hypocrisy, and, by ... ing all it takes ho... choly and madnes...

The example of ... who, under the pe... short time ago ope... Fair, London—wh... of Wales bought g... —has fired the a... go and do likewise, ... adopting for busin... Mme. Isabel, has ... well-known bonne... A leading motive ... taking up milliner... laudable aim of ea... to lead English fa... pendent of Contin... after designs bette... of life and climate, ... mony with the law...

£100,000,000 IN CHANCERY!—A l... belongs to the pe... Co., 41, Southamp... London, Eng., hav... the heirs to this e... send a dollar and ... valuable LIST; and ... are entitled to any... your own. Cox & C...

"Where did the ... a Texas Sunday-sc... into the desert." ... was in the wilder... he was while he wa... was a deserter," re...

ild imploring cry for aid, and dash ow utterly powerless he was in such a s the intense, and maddening fear f her grief wore off, she allowed herself e led down the stairs, and home, to robably an absolutely true history of ho'e c se on the stairway. "My boy ke that, he couldn't do it, he would ave insulted a child until he took ursed drink with the other two."

About half an hour after the as pronounced a weeping crowd of mongst whom might be heard the eart-broken Irish "O'hone, o'hone," he mothers of the other prisoners ain effort to see their boys, or to ordship, and by him to intercede with xecutive for them. After waiting, ver, for some hours, and not being ass the cordon of constables, they gave e attempt and retired. Throughout ty the news of the sentence spread rapidly herever two or three met together the ct of conversation was the doom of onvicts, and every where expressed pproval of the severe sentence were he o one thought, or thinking would admit at his Lordship was too severe.
ill stamp that sort of thing out in Ont
as the general verdict.

The sentence for rape is death, but ustice Rose mercifully accepted the mmendations of the jury, and passed ghter sentence.

A fact which even political economis t to forget is that a manufacturer's profit is not the only essential elem ccess; the aggregate profit at the e e year is of far greater importance, is in most cases is greater out of a low profit than out of a high rate, becau e increased business, which the lo ice gives rise to. It was on this prin at Messrs. Tuckett & Son acted in cing their now famous "Myrtle Na bacco, and to this principle they have nce adhered. This is one of the rea ny the people of Canada are smoking st tobacco which can be produced, eaper price than any other people can imilar article.

Portland, Oregon, boat-builders are w taking an interest in a model
e. The yachts must not exceed four length, and the sail, rig and model a matter of fancy to the owner.

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS—Opi
orphine and kindred habits. Valu eatise sent free. The medicine may ven in tea or coffee, without the kn ige of the person taking it, if so desi nd two 3c. stamps for full particu
d testimonials of those who have b red. Address M. V. Luban, agency ellington street east, Toronto, Can

The Manchester Gallery of Paintings lighted with electricity.

Imperial Cough Drops will antive and Instant Relief to those suffe
m Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, d are invaluable to orators and vocal
r sale by druggists and confectioners.
& T. WATSON, Manufactu
ronto.

A P. 95

OUR NAME, ADDRESS AND TEN CE
mailed Bengough's shorthand and Bu titute, Toronto, will bring copy Comogs rthander, best journal in America. Price, d for Calendar.

ACHINERY FOR SALE—ENGINES
Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills, Planing Outfits, Stave and Heading Machines, els, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descr logue, and mention what you want (Ma paper) H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

BIG OFFER To introduce them, we
GIVE AWAY 1,000
Operating Washing Machines. If you want send us your name P. O. and express office a
THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N. Y.

SUCCESS AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE
Williams' Eye Water has proved itself a re ll who have used it according to directions, if were curable, as will be seen by the unsolic dicates. It cured me, 8 years blind, cocultis fortis; it has cured me, occulist would not xander Wand, 6 years blind, Chas. Amiot; 4 Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, rix. Ask your druggists for it. Wholesale Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St., Montreal.

RUGS Beautiful Colored Design
Flowers, Birds, Animals
Etc., printed on Burlap (C
to be worked in rags, yarn olesale and retail. Large discount to Agents. Send to manufacturer for catalog
R. W. ROSS, Guelph,

AMES PARK & SO
Pork Packers, Toronto
C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. gow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried
kfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, and Pails. The Best Brands of English
y Salt in Stock.

BUY THE
IMPROVED CONBOY
arriage Top
THEY ARE THE MOST STYL
NVENIENT, AND MOST DURA
TOP IN THE MARKET.
here are over Twenty Thousand of s now in use, and are giving b faction than any other.
The manufacturer of these Celebr riage Tops, owns more patents for yements, and makes a greater va n any other firm in Canada or ted States.
Y ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEA
RIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CA
SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.
actory and Saleroo
407 to 413 KING ST. WEST,
ORONT

The Lachine Bridge.

onstruction of a new bridge across the ervance river is not yet an event that so frequently as to pass unnoticed, many respects the new bridge at Lathe contracts for which have been let Canadian Pacific Railway Company, portant an occurrence in the history dian railways, at least, as was the ction of the Victoria bridge some twen-years ago. The Victoria Bridge not ovided a winter outlet to the sea for t that was independent of climatic in-but it opened a way for the proof the West to reach the sea the year
The Lachine Bridge will break the ply held by the Grand Trunk as the of the only bridge across the St. Law-and it will, with the addition of a ence of road, complete the Canadian Railway without a break from ocean
As a piece of engineering work bridge cannot begin to compare with rn's masterpiece, the great tube ards in length, once one of the won-the world; but will be a more satis-bridge as a bridge. It is to be an n girder, resting upon eleven piers, ards in length from abutment to
. The spans, with the exception two great channel spans of 409 feet are comparatively short, and,
striking feature will be the rise girder in these spans above the
At the abutments the track will be et above the water, and a somewhat feature of the stone work is the inof four panels on each side of each bearing the arms of the provinces.
a line has been constructed from End Station of the Canadian Paciwithin a few miles of the site of the bridge, and it is to be carried across Trunk line and the canals with-special engineering feature. Upon bank of the river a line is to be connect with the South-Eastern at
, and thus a connection is to be with all points south. From West
, on the South-Eastern, a connect-is to be made to Lennoxville, there to with the line of the International
, the corporation last devoured by dian Pacific. An almost perfect will thus be completed between and the Maritime Provinces. The and Quebec Short Line, for which a has already been obtained, is to run ott's Falls to St. Ann's, where it the Ottawa alongside the Grand and passing through St. Genevieve ct a junction with the approach dge upon the high level. When
, all dependent upon the bridge, leted, the Canadian Pacific will for the shortest route from Toronto from Winnipeg to the sea by way time Provinces and the comple-
e Credit Valley from St. Thomas roit River will complete their line petitor of the Grand Trunk in al particular, and they will have age of an air line.

...spotting with a Vengeance.

...e most extraordinary contests
...wo classes of people in the same
...now in progress in Ireland, ac-
...d by the usual exhibitions of burn-
...ity conspicuous in the contentions
...arm-hearted and mercurial people.
...ns say that the government "finds
...of fighting this boycotting with the ...e most formidable and vexatious
...s the resources for the preserva-
...peace of the country. This is ...rivable when it is understood that
...who have taken land from which
...ants had been evicted find it not
...ssible to work it, but even to ob-
...necessaries of life from the shop-
...of the vicinage.
...e oddest forms which this system
...ing has assumed is the refusal of
...e Dealers' association of Munster to
...t to England in the vessels of the ...ship company, unless the com...es to ship cattle boycotted by the ...gue. In fact, the demand is that
...e shipped unless the shipper can ...certificate of league membership.
...ious part of this procedure is that ...stockholders of the company are
...ers, and that a majority of them
...in politics. This gives color to
...on their part that the cattle deal-
...ly making these demands in the ...monopoly.
...e curious circumstance in this mel-
...ntention is that the boycotters are ...working against the interest of
...ers in the country, for the reason
...e cattle are not shipped the values
...remaining in the country must
...decline.

Indian Summer.

...s nothing that happens with such
...regularity about which there is
...ore than our Indian summer.
...t, when is it, and why is it, are
...ions that are discussed as often as it
...The causes of our Indian summer
...very hard to find. During the sum-
...earth becomes heated to the depth
...feet. About the time of the ac-
...of the autumnal equinox there are
...ic changes in the northern hemi-
...the result in storms of cold rain and
...w. When these rains cease, and ...ther becomes settled, the surface of
...has been cooled by them, but it
...gns to bring the heat from the
...below to the surface where it is ra-
...d the water rapidly evaporated,
...the atmosphere its peculiar blue,
...rance. The escaping heat of the ...added to that of the sun, causes the ...ant weather of the Indian sum-

...at has been said this delightful
...be expected any time after Sep-
...comes earlier in the east than
...There it is expected in October,
...it usually does not come until
...and it is generally of longer dur-
...interior than on the coast, main-
...there is less wind in the interior,
...heat is radiated more slowly and
...the air. In 1869 our Indian sum-
...until the middle of December,
...one will remember the long sea-
...dry weather that seemed al-
...silly to follow the Chicago fire
...In 1874 it lasted until the day be-
...spring and wound up with the
...ious snowstorm of the winter.

BRILLIANTS.

Peace in a sinful course is one of the greatest of curses.

The highest and most important use of this world is the development of a noble man.

The way to speak and write what shall not go out of fashion is to speak and write sincerely.

Mystery is another name for our ignorance; if we were omniscient, all would be plain.

Selfishness blinds and destroys! While we hug our fancied insults the devil is laughing in his sleeve.

Truth is the best policy. Every person feels flattered by the reflection that you think him too clever to be cajoled.

Let a man learn that everything in nature, even motes and feathers, goes by law and not by "luck," and that what he sows he reaps.

The effect of water poured on the roots of a tree is seen aloft in the branches and fruit;
so in the next world are seen the effects of good deeds.

Feelings come and go like light troops following the victory of the present; but principles, like troops of the line, are undisturbed and stand fast.

In these words is comprehended the whole code of courtesy: Put everybody on the same level as yourself and put yourself into everybody's place.

Every man has some peculiar train of thought which he falls back upon when alone. This, to a great degree, moulds the man.

There is no leveler like Christianity, but it levels by lifting to lofty tableland accessible only to humanity. He only that is humble can rise, and rising, lift.

It is one thing to love truth, and to seek it, for its own sake, and quite another to welcome as much of it as tallies with our impressions and prejudices

We are in danger of looking too far for opportunities of doing good and communicating. In reaching for rhododendrons we trample down the daisies.

There exists not any man in any nation, who may not improve in virtue if he adopts his own true nature as his guide. When I say nature I mean nature in its genuine purity.

Good-humored gossip is the salt of ordinary conversation, but no well-bred person will indulge in the gossip that peers into the privacy of domestic life and either invents or misrepresents.

The worst things are the perversions of good things. Abused intellectual gifts make the dangerous villain; abused sensibilities make the accomplished tempter; abused affections engender the keenest of all miseries.

The world is governed by three things—wisdom, authority, and appearance. Wisdom for thoughtful people, authority for rough people, and appearance for the great mass of superficial people who can look only at the outside.

Nature presents always a harmony which gives the rule to taste. Thus all the working is fine art; and the infinite Father, who worketh hitherto, follows in his own workings the way he has given us the instinctive desire and the inspired power to pursue.

Pronouncing matches have taken the place of the spelling bees of a few years ago. The smallest Welsh newspaper would be sufficient to put down both sides of the largest American pronouncing class in the country.
For example; Pronounce Wgnllbrunllyg.

Duty is a power which rises with us in the morning, and goes to rest with us at night.
It is co-extensive with the action of our intelligence. It is the shadow which cleaves to us, go where we will, and which only leaves us when we leave the light of life.

How lovingly are grouped along the walls of tender memories many a pleasing picture illustrating anew a cheery "Good-morning," a sweet "Good-night," a tender "Good-bye," or a sad "Adieu" from loved ones to dear ones—from casual acquaintances even—and these, when once spoken, are "words that never die." Pleasant greetings smooth the thorny pathways of life, win friends, confound enemies, and the homes where they are the rule, and not the exception, cannot be otherwise than happy ones. By all means, then, let us cultivate the practice of family salutations and adieux.

Ambition, that high and glorious passion which makes such havoc among the sons of men, arises from a proud desire of honor and distinction, and, when the splendid trappings in which it is usually caparisoned are removed, will be found to consist of the mean materials of envy, pride and covetousness. It is described by different authors as a gallant madness, a pleasant poison, a hidden plague, a secret poison, a caustic of the soul, the moth of holiness, the mother of hypocrisy, and, by crucifying and disquieting all it takes hold of, the cause of melancholy and madness.

The example of Lady Grenville Gordon, who, under the pseudonym of "Lierre," a short time ago opened a millinery shop in May Fair, London—where it is said the Princess of Wales bought goods to the value of $500 —has fired the ambition of other ladies to go and do likewise. A late student of Girton, adopting for business purposes the name of Mme. Isabel, has now become partner in a well-known bonnet shop in Wigmore street.
A leading motive in these English ladies in taking up millinery as a career, next to the laudable aim of earning money thereby, is to lead English fashions to be more independent of Continental inspiration, working after designs better adapted to English habits of life and climate, and also more in harmony with the laws of picturesqueness.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. Cox & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a LIST OF the heirs to this enormous wealth. Reader, send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entitled to any money or property, claim your own. Cox & Co. will shew you the way.

"Where did the prophet Elias go?" asked a Texas Sunday-school teacher. "He went into the desert." "What was Elias while he was in the wilderness?" "I dunno what he was while he was in the desert, unless he was a deserter," replied the hopeful pupil.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Terrible charges of extravagance, and perhaps something worse have been formulated against DeLesseps in connection with his Panama Canal.

The projected visit of Mr. Parnell to Chicago this winter can have but one object. Irishmen in America will be expected to contribute very liberally to the cause of Home Rule in Ireland.

Civic officials would do well to remember that they were not elected for their own glorification, but to do the work of the community. If they are honest men they will do that work to the best of their ability.

In a few years at most the empire of Brazil will have freed herself from the blight of slavery by the operation of a measure which is confidently expected to become law, and for the perfecting of which both the political parties of the day are harmoniously working.

"A fair woman which is without discretion" is likely to prove the curse of Spain should King Alfonso succumb to his serious illness. In that event a regency would be impossible owing to the unpopularity of the Queen who is a stickler for caste and other foolish trifles, and a Carlist rising is looked upon by many well-informed persons as inevitable.

Less than 9 per cent. of the amount needed for the Grant monument in New York has been subscribed. They had better institute a system of street corner collection boxes into which passers-by may drop their nickles and coppers as they feel disposed.
In time no doubt the gratitude of the Great Republic will be equal to the emergency, and the memory of the "greatest soldier of modern times," as they proudly call him, will be honored with a suitable monument.

One of the most horrible manifestations of the devil in human nature, is that habit of vitriol throwing in which French women seem to have acquired a most unenviable notoriety. A very dreadful instance of this direction of a passionate woman's vengeance was afforded in the Paris Palais de Justice recently in which a woman, who was involved in a lawsuit, dashed the contents of a bottle of vitriol into the face of the opposing party, burning out both his eyes, and otherwise disfiguring him frightfully. Death for such an offence would not be too severe a punishment for such fiendishness.

It is satisfactory to know that the bigoted
Irish cattle-dealers who boycotted the Cork Steampacket Company and tried to ruin their business, because in accordance with their duty as common carriers, they refused the League's dictation as to what they should carry, are in a fair way to be whipped in the fight. Agitation is a perfectly legitimate means of attaining one's object if carried on legitimately, but when pushed to such extreme lengths as have been witnessed in Ireland, it can attract no sympathy.

Pittsburg (Pa.) sets an example which might be followed with advantage by cities elsewhere. This is the inauguration of a society there for the protection of married women, the chief object being the creation and maintenance of a fund for the prosecution of wife-beaters. Such an organization is likely to do good. The collection of a trifling admission fee from each member and even a smaller amount as fees would go far towards securing the best legal advice, and making it tolerably certain that the cowardly ruffians who indulge in the pastime of wife-beating shall obtain the treatment the law provides.

For rascally ingenious trickery, commend us to the wolf in sheep's clothing, who, in the guise of a clergyman, tried his hardest to lure a young girl into a false marriage with him. She persistently refused to have anything to do with him; but, determined not to be outdone, if it were necessary to outdo Satan himself in order to accomplish his purpose, he filled out one of his marriage certificate blanks, signed it himself, and got a firm of New York lawyers to certify to the legality of the marriage. Fortunately the girl had still intelligence and strength of mind enough to refuse to be humbugged, and the fellow had to leave town.

Some women in the State of New York have made up their minds to test what they regard as their rights at the ballot box, on the ground that the constitution nowhere declares that women shall not vote, though it does say that male citizens of certain qualifications may vote. The hopefully courageous character of these excellent ladies is well established if they have already taken into account the statement of the constitution which declares that a qualified voter must be a "male citizen." Their first efforts, one would think, would be towards securing a much needed modification of this part of the constitution.

The custom of sending in flowers as a tribute of respect to a departed friend or acquaintance is being pushed to an extreme.
It is becoming vulgarized, in short, and not infrequently an occasion for very misplaced ostentation. One would think that as any-rate refined feeling would dictate some becoming reticence in the matter, and that the various crosses, crowns, pillows, broken columns, harps, mottoes and what not, with the names of the donors, would not be blazoned forth in all the newspapers. When we have the fashionable funeral as well as the fashionable wedding, the knell of civilization will have sounded.

Whatever may be thought of the practical character of a recent invention there can be no two opinions as to its novelty or the ingenuity of the man who conceived it. The man in question hails from Buffalo. His name is Morrison, and his invention is a scheme of aerial navigation by means of balloons. A continuous series of balloons is anchored in the ground, adjustably as to height, and a wire cable is stretched from one to the other.
Along this cable cars are made to travel by that always reliable motor—gravitation.
When a train is ready to start the first balloon is allowed to rise high enough to make the cable between it and the next balloon an inclined plane, down which the cars run with great rapidity. At the next balloon the process is repeated and so on until the final destination is reached.

At the recent meeting of the British Association, Sir Lyon Playfair complained of the neglect of scientific studies and modern languages in the public schools. There seems to be good reasons for his complaint.
At Oxford and Cambridge certificate examinations of last summer, 703 boys passed in Latin and 673 in Greek, but only 131 in any and all branches of science. There were only 263 proficient in French and 94 in German, while, most deplorable of all, the number of those who passed in English did not rise above 113. That is to say, it would seem that more than six times as much attention has been paid to Latin as to English, and that all the sciences had been esteemed of less than one-fifth the value of Greek. Truly, if the study of the ancient tongues of Greece and Rome is dying, it is dying remarkably hard.

Like many greater men Ned Hanlan seems to have taught his competitors how to beat him by the process of thrashing them so often.
His right arm has either forgotten its cunning, or other men have learned the secret, and are beating him at his own game.
There seems strong reason to believe that not only has the sceptre of the rowing world departed from this part of the globe, but that the chances of its ever coming back again are of the faintest. Ned had better just at once join the noble army of retired oarsmen, before his fate becomes worse.
Let him come back and attend to business and fight his battles o'er again to his heart's content. It may be that if he tarries too long, he will have no laurels to carry into retirement along with him.

The newest phase of fashionable fadism in Britain would seem to be the making of pilgrimages to certain historic spots. A recent progress of this sort was made to the tomb of Edward the Confessor in Westminster Abbey. The pietists were five hundred in number and most of them ladies. They were in "sombre attire," and knelt around the tomb engaging for some time in prayer.
A British newspaper, commenting on the above, says: "It is to be hoped that pilgrimages to Westminster Abbey will not become the fashion. Nothing could be more easy than for a dynamite conspirator to obtain entrance to the Abbey in the role of a pilgrim, and, while apparently praying over the tomb of Edward the Confessor, or some other pious notability, to carry out his nefarious design of laying the Abbey in ruins.

The field of scientific research appears to have a fascination for all classes. Even the unworldly clergyman is not proof against the spell. We hear it recently announced that the Rev. David Swing has discovered the startling fact that "putting an egg in coffee to make it clear is still an active humbug." We doubt not that the reverend gentleman has made this a profound study, and would not for worlds attempt to belittle the importance of his discovery, but we are not exactly "clear" ourselves as to whether he means that it is the egg or the coffee that fails in the clarifying process. We can readily understand the failure in the case of the egg, should the latter be of an advanced age! In any case, the announcement is sure to create much interest in poultry circles.
The clerical scientist furthermore informs us that "although the nineteenth century is nearing its close its blaze has not yet shined into the coffee pot." Well, now that we think of it, this seems most unfortunate.
We are hourly hoping to hear that the Rev.
David has relieved the public concern by devising a transparent coffee pot, so that the "blaze" may have a fair chance to pour in its effulgent beams. Query: Would that which we call coffee bear too much light?

Father—"What is your favorite hymn
Clara, my darling?" Clara—"The one you chased away over the fence last night, dear pa."

The custom of kissing babies is being justly censured these days. It is cowardly to kiss the poor little helpless things. We'd rather take somebody of our size.

A living frog has just been found in the heart of a solid rock, where it must have been for ages. It is needless to say he never advertised or he could not have remained so long unnoticed.

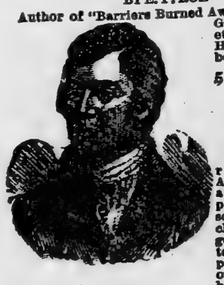
A young man advertises: "Wanted—A Permanent position in a store." That ought'n to be hard to get. If he isn't too particular, and doesn't object to the weather he might find employment as a cigar store
Indian. That would be permanent.

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.



Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth.

Robert Burns

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 368 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
372 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
370 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 350 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 352 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for any one, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
392 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE new subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

A NUMBER OF FARMS FOR SALE.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON. W. MASSON.

Alexander Brown.

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel. Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WM. G. CUTHRIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to. 303

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention. 126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of
School Furniture.
Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.
181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM
FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,
GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
353-tf Godrich.

J. J. DALTON.
DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

Peck's Sun
MILWAUKEE, WIS.
GEORGE W. PECK
Editor and Proprietor.
The Funniest Paper in America

What Vaccination is to Small-pox PECK'S SUN is to the blues.

PECK'S SUN is one of the most widely read and popular papers in the country to-day, and stands without a peer in its specialty.

The Originator of the celebrated BAD BOY PAPERS.

Specimen Copies Free To Any Address.

Bear in mind that by sending a Postal Card to this office a Sample copy of Peck's Sun will be mailed you Free.

Don't neglect to send at once, and tell your neighbors to,

$1 Worth of Fun for 1C.

Address GEORGE L. LORD,
Business Manager, Milwaukee, WIS.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.
44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR.

Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address,
PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,
751 Broadway, New York.

We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—ED. STANDARD,

Victor Roller Mills,
MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

J. W. FORD.

Burdock Blood Bitters.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS,	DIZZINESS,
DYSPEPSIA,	DROPSY,
INDIGESTION,	FLUTTERING OF THE HEART,
JAUNDICE.	ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH,
ERYSIPELAS,	DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
SALT RHEUM,
HEARTBURN,
HEADACHE,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,
H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
1341y

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1891.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 [illegible]
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 [illegible]
Orangeville { Arrive	9 50 "	7 [illegible]
Orangeville { Leave	10 05 "	7 [illegible]
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 [illegible]
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 [illegible]
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 [illegible]
Flesherton	11 36 "	9 [illegible]
Markdale	11 51 "	9 55
Berkeley	12 06pm	10 [illegible]
Williamsford	12 12 "	10 [illegible]
Chatsworth	12 28 "	10 [illegible]
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 [illegible]

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 [illegible]
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 [illegible]
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 [illegible]
Berkeley	6 14 "	3 [illegible]
Markdale	6 27 "	3 [illegible]
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 [illegible]
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 [illegible]
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 [illegible]
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 [illegible]
Orangeville { Arrive	8 12 "	5 [illegible]
Orangeville { Leave	8 35 "	5 [illegible]
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 [illegible]
Toronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8 [illegible]

Special Steamship Express leaves Owen Sound on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays for Toronto and Points East, on arrival C.P.R. Steamship from Port Arthur and Points in Manitoba and North-West.

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; W. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for November, 15th at 7 p. m. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 7, 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from which Rev. Wesley Cassidy, Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets on alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in the Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Bishop, Secretary.

NEW GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
Plewes' Flour and Feed store

Having just received a Choicee, Fresh and Select
STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c
Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.
I respectfully solicit the public patronage.
198 J. PLEWES.

THE CELEBRATED
DR. CHASE'S
MANDRAKE & DANDELION
LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Side, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a disordered liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found the best and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver remedies, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with certain other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, which have a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. 500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Remedies were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE.

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Receipt Book (84 pages), containing over 200 valuable receipts pronounced by medical men and druggists to be invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure and certain remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS, 25 cts.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. SOMMERVILLE & CO., Sole Agents, [illegible]

Mar[illegible]

VOL. 6.--No. 273.

T-H-A-N-K-S!

TO THE PUBLIC.

Many thanks for your generous support during the past [illegible] years. By straight dealing, honest representation of goods, fair prices, and satisfactory work, I trust to merit a continuance of your patronage.

W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

SEVERAL farmers are still plowing.

AXES the leading makes at Haskett Bro's.

TWEEDS, special values at W. J. McFarland's.

SHOT gun for sale, apply to Smith, barber.

LADIES' Mantles and Ulsters, special line at McFarland's.

VACCINATION is about as prevalent through the country as bad roads.

SILVER STAR cross-cut saws, the best in the market, at Haskett Bro's.

THE thermometer has kept above freezing point most of the fall so far.

OUR village subscribers will all find their papers at the post office in future.

THERE is now 3,527 miles of the Canadian Pacific Railway in operation.

ROLLED FLOUR, Bran, Shorts, Chop-Stuff, same price at Benson's as mill.

THE right place to procure a good chopping axe is at Haskett Bro's, Markdale.

DON'T buy a lamp of any kind until you see the latest, cheapest and best at McFarland's.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

THE world may owe a man a living, but like many another debtor it only pays after repeated duns.

SOMEWHAT LATE.—A Markdale farmer had a field of fine potatoes dug on Tuesday, the 1st Dec.

WILL not be undersold by any one in my line, and don't you forget it, for I belong to the brass band—W. J. B.

BANK NOTES put up in books of 20, 40 and 50, suitable for auctioneers and farmers, at the STANDARD office.

HOUSE and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Travers-ford P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

THE new roller rink, in course of construction by Messrs. Marsh, Porter & Co., was started on Tuesday evening.

IF you are after a cross cut saw that will beat anything in the country, go straight to Haskett Bro's, Markdale.

AS an arrangement with the publishers of the Rural Canadian, we are enable to club that valuable farm journal to all prepaid subscribers to the STANDARD for the small sum of $1.50, thereby effecting a considerable saving to the subscriber. Renew your subscription now and get the Rural free for the balance of this year.

OATS, Oatmeal, Oysters, cheap.

WORM Freeman's Worms, system.

FORTY venator its own barber.

800,0 ling's m Weber. presente

TEACH No. 6, Wm. Markda

To Re scalp wi Soap. for the t

A C often fre the caus safely ex

BENSO of Delp all descr er than

OUR st condition well gra there is

MRS. I spected now on She is l

Two r for sale, R. Freeb ford. A

R. H. E new bloc very han neat and

I HAV cheaper one in to without on trial f

MR. S N.Y., re 1886, las not be w per year.

Look play of Our sto best col sonal su

THE f to Winn remain t summer This is merchan

SAVE secure a in order high rate STANDAR strictly p

REJUV and remo the syste Liver, S nature's health.

FROST similar t is no bet Hagyard household tism, an plaints.

EVERY can tell label, wh Our num tance wi we canno the subse

THE S of the liv developed to suffer diseased Bitters, stomach, blood.

NADIAN PACIFIC R. R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
g effect Monday, November 2nd, 1885.
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
nto....Leave	7 20am	4 50pm
ell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
ge- Arrive	9 50 "	7 03 "
e Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
eville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
urne	10 45 "	8 04 "
alk	11 10 "	8 30
erton	11 36 "	8 55
dale	11 51 "	9 10
ley	12 08pm	9 23 "
msford	12 12 "	9 32 "
worth	12 28 "	9 49 "
Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
worth	5 50 "	3 10 "
nsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
ley	6 14 "	3 40 "
dale	6 27 "	3 52 "
erton	6 42 "	4 06 "
alk	7 06 "	4 31 "
rne	7 31 "	4 57 "
eville Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
e Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
ell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
to....Arrive	10 45 "	8 35 "

cial Steamship Express leaves Owen on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays
ronto and Points East, on arrival C. P. amship from Port Arthur and Points
nitoba and North-West.

kdale Church Directory.
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
ices every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m
Meeting every Wednesday evening a ock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm
, S. S. Superintendent.
CHRIST CHURCH.
iccs for November, 15th at 7 p. m,
0:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th nd 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 7
7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent
rord, Superintendent.
METHODIST CHURCH.
ices every Sunday at 10:30 a. m an Sunday School at 2:30. Praye g every Thursday evening from 8 to Wesley Cassan, Pastor; W A. Brown
Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in con n; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.
Society Directory.
kdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets eve ate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the McDougall's block. Visiting brethre
ne.
kdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets Hall, McDougall's block, every alterna ay evening at 8 o'clock. A visit fro en of neighboring lodges solicited.
KDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in the n Friday on or before full moon eac
. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blake
ary.
W GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
wes' Flour and Feed store.
Having just received a icee, Fresh and Selec
STOCK OF
as,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c
h will be sold VERY CHEA respectfully solicit the public nage.
J. PLEWES.

THE CELEBRATED
Dr CHASE'S
MANDRAKE
DANDELION
LIVER
CURE
HAVE YOU
Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bi ce, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the ness, or any disease arising from a d
DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a rtain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
nqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cur Complaint rests solely with the fact that it unded from nature's well-known liver regula RAKE AND DANDELION, combined with invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having ul effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels
500,000 SOLD
ne-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Bo old in Canada alone. We want every and child who is troubled with Liver C to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
ed around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver C aluable Household Medical Guide and Rec (84 pages), containing over 200 useful r nced by medical men and druggists as nd worth ten times the price of the medicine CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure and
y. Price, 25 cents.
CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS, 25 cts. per
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
MANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Buffalo

Markdale Standard

VOL. 6.--No. 273. MARKDALE, ONT., DEC. 3, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

T-H-A-N-K-S!

TO THE PUBLIC.

Many thanks for your gen- erous support during the past wo years. By straight deal- ; honest representation of oods, fair prices, and satis- factory work, I trust to merit continuance of your patron- ge.

W. A. BROWN,
The reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

SEVERAL farmers are still plowing.

AXES the leading makes at Haskett Bro's.

TWEEDS, special values at W. J. McFarland's.

SHOT gun for sale, apply to Smith, the barber.

LADIES' Mantles and Ulsters, special line at McFarland's.

VACCINATION is about as prevalent through the country as bad roads.

SILVER STAR cross-cut saws, the best in the market, at Haskett Bro's.

THE thermometer has kept above freezing point most of the fall so far.

OUR village subscribers will all find their papers at the post office in future.

THERE is now 3,527 miles of the Canadian Pacific Railway in operation.

ROLLED FLOUR, Bran, Shorts, Chopped Stuff, same price at Benson's as the mill.

THE right place to procure a good chopping axe is at Haskett Bro's, Markdale.

DON'T buy a lamp of any kind until you see the latest, cheapest and best at McFarland's.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

THE world may owe a man a living, but like many another debtor it only responds after repeated duns.

SOMEWHAT LATE.—A Markdale citizen had a field of fine potatoes hoed on Tuesday, the 1st Dec.

I WILL not be undersold by any one in my line, and don't you forget it, for I belong to the brass band—W. J. B.

BLANK NOTES put up in books of 20, 50, and 50, suitable for auctioneers and farmers, at the STANDARD office.

[illegible] House and lot for sale on George [illegible] Street, Markdale. For particulars [illegible] apply to Peter McArthur, Travers- [illegible] P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

THE new roller rink, in course of erection by Messrs. Marsh, Porter & Workman was started on Tuesday last.

IF you are after a cross cut saw that will beat anything in the country, go straight to Haskett Bro's, Markdale.

BY an arrangement with the publishers of the Rural Canadian, we are enable to club that valuable farm journal to all prepaid subscribers to the STANDARD for the small sum of $1.50, thus effecting a considerable saving to the readers. Renew your subscription now and get the Rural free for the balance of this year.

OATS, Potatoes, Apples, Corn and Oatmeal, Breakfast Cereals, Bulk Oysters, Cranberries, at Benson's cheap.

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system.

FORTY thousand packages of Rejuvenator Bitters sold in four years by its own merits. Sold by Smith, the barber.

800,000 Shingles for sale at Sparling's mill, near Vandeleur, by John Weber. All shingles warranted as represented.

TEACHER WANTED, for S. Section No. 6, Holland, for '86. Apply to Wm. Jackson, STANDARD office, Markdale.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF.—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet.

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when worms are the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms.

BENSON has opened this week, crate of Delph, China, and Glassware, of all description which I will sell cheaper than any one in town.

OUR station yard is in a desperate condition with mud. It should be well gravelled, as the business done there is something immense.

MRS. LEE, an old and highly respected resident of this locality, is now on a visit from the North-West. She is looking hale and hearty.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

R. H. BENSON removed into Haskett's new block on Monday. This is a very handsome shop, and will be kept neat and well filled with fresh goods.

I HAVE got better and will sell cheaper Liquors of all kinds than any one in town, and will give Whisky without water. Come and get a flask on trial free.

MR. S. M. SMYTHE, Binghampton, N. Y., renewed his subscription for 1886, last week, and says he would not be without the STANDARD for $10 per year. Thanks, S. M.

LOOK out for our annual grand display of Christmas and Fancy Goods. Our stock is being selected from the best collections in the city, under personal supervision. A. Turner & Co.

THE freight rates from Toronto to Winnipeg by all rail route are to remain the same for this winter as the summer rates, which were very low. This is an unexpected boon to merchants,

SAVE MONEY.—Parties wishing to secure a loan at a low rate of interest in order to pay one off which bears a high rate should consult us at the STANDARD office. All such business strictly private and confidential.

REJUVENATOR BITTERS assists nature and removes the cause of diseases from the system by keeping the Kidneys, Liver, Stomach and Blood pure and nature's channels free, then you have health. Sold by Smith, the barber.

FROST BITES or Chilblains require similar treatment to a Burn. There is no better remedy for either than Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the well-known household remedy for Pain, Rheumatism, and all Inflammatory Complaints.

EVERY subscriber to the STANDARD can tell by referring to his address label, when his subscription expires. Our numerous subscribers at a distance will kindly renew promptly as we cannot continue to send such after the subscription has expired.

THE STOMACH is the grand central of the living system, the first organ developed in animal life, and the first to suffer from excesses. Regulate its diseased action by Burdock Blood, Bitters, which restores health to the stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys, and blood.

GRIP'S COMIC ALMANAC.—This publication, for 1886, is to hand. It is brimful of amusement, containing —besides its other attractions—a double-page cartoon, "Ancient Nursery Rhymes for Modern Politicians." For sale by all booksellers; only 10 cents.

LAST CALL.—Saturday, the 12th Dec., I will be at the Markdale House from one o'clock p. m. to receive taxes for Ward No. 2, Artemesia. This is the last warning, so those interested will please govern themselves accordingly. John H. Anderson.

A HANDY RELIEF for Pains, Aches and accidental injuries is an almost universal requirement. Such a ready remedy is best found in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, that cures Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Colds, and all Pain, Lameness and Soreness, whether internal or external.

DIFFERENCE IN CLIMATE.—On Tuesday last they were digging potatoes in Markdale, and when we went to Dundalk on the same day we found to our astonishment there was several inches of snow on the ground, in that chilly climate; we found our many friends as warm hearted as ever, all the same.

MR. H. B. HARRISON of Owen Sound Marble Works, left Monday for the United States quarries to select his stock of Marble and Granite for the coming season. His business is increasing so rapidly he finds it necessary to visit the quarries annually. Look out for big bargains next year in every variety of stone.

DUNDALK has now one of the best public school building's in the county. It is indeed a credit to that village. The building is solid brick two story, and has four departments, and was built by Large & Cornwall of Markdale. The Dundalk people are very highly pleased with the manner in which the contractors did their work.

MR JAMES CRAWFORD'S little girl had a narrow escape to day. While her little brother Jim was splitting wood the little girl ran in the way of the axe and it descended on her head, making an ugly scalp wound about three inches in length. Had the axe been sharp the child would, very likely, have been killed.—Chatsworth News.

DEC, 1st—My fine lines of Xmas Cards from W. J. Gage, Toronto, and Atkinson Bros., Hamilton, will be open for inspection. Every card shown will be new, as I only had a few small cards left over last Xmas, and they will not be offered for sale. Call early and secure the choice ones. Marked in plain figures at list prices. W. A. Brown, Jeweller.

WHAT is it that gives the delicate aroma and gentle but potent nerve stimulating properties to Triumphant Tea? Two things are responsible for these circumstances; first, the tender condition of the leaf when it was picked and secondly, the Perfection Tea Can which perfectly retains its strength and fragrance. Sold only by the Importer, W. J. McFarland.

THE great majority of subscriptions expire at the end of the year; there is but one month until that time, and during that month (December) is the best time to renew for next year. Those who have not yet paid for the present year will require to bring along an extra 25 cents, unless they pay for next year at the same time and that time must be before New-years in order to secure this discount.

CHURCH OPENING.—The new Markdale Methodist church dedicatory services will be held on the 20th and 27th December. The Rev. Dr. Williams, Chief Superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada, will conduct the morning and evening services on the 20th, and Warring Kennedy, Esq., of Toronto, the 2:30 p.m. service of the same day. Rev. Dr. Griffin of Guelph, the morning and evening services on the 27th, and Rev. J. E. Howell, M. A., Superintendent of Owen Sound District, at 2:30. A grand tea-meeting will also be held on Christmas Day.

A GOOD INVESTMENT. — The old Methodist church is a frame, built of hewed elm timber 32 x 52 feet and 24 feet high; the vestry is 22 x 30, one story. If they were removed to a vacant lot they could be converted into two dwellings of 26x32 and one 22x30 feet. We will suppose the whole would cost $125 where they stand, $50 for moving them; $100 each, or $300 for fitting up for dwellings, and say $125 for a lot upon which to put them; this makes a total investment of $600. They would then rent readily for $4 each per month, or $144 per year, or almost 25 per cent. on the investment. Who will invest?

CHOLERA PREVENTATIVE.
In order to withstand Cholera and such like epidemics a perfect purity of blood, and the proper action of the stomach are required. To insure that end, in the cheapest, most available and complete manner, use McGregor's Speedy Cure for Dyspepsia, and Impure Blood. There is no purer, safer or more reliable remedy in existence for indigestion, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, etc. Ask your neighbor or any person who has used it. Sold by Hill Bro's. Trial bottle given free. 1

"I say Aunt Chloe, you is getting around right smart." "Yes indeed I is, honey. I was pestered and sick abed with Rheumatism for six years and done tried this West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment the people are talking so much about, and I was sure enough cured. It done saved this old nigger's life." Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

ELOPED.—One Wm. Smith, a farmer of about 60 summers, who has worked a rented farm two and a half miles from Markdale, on the Toronto line, the past year, sold his grain on this market and disposed of his horses and wagon for $125, has left for parts unknown. He leaves a wife, but no family. About the same time a man in Dundalk named Foster was left a grass widower. Up to the present, no trace of the pair of dandies can be found.

AMONG the forthcoming Books of special interest is the "History of the Presbyterian Church in the Dominion," by Rev. Professor Gregg, D. D., of Knox College, Toronto, who has been gathering information for the work for the past dozen years. From the well-known ability of the author, the care with which every fact has been verified, and the interests which naturally attaches to the history of a great denomination, we have no doubt the publication of this work will prove the literary event of the year. The publisher is Mr. Blackett Robinson, 5 Jordan Street, Toronto, who will be glad to hear of a reliable agent in each congregation.

A grand entertainment will be held in the town hall, Flesherton, on Thursday evening, the 10th of Dec., under the auspices of Fountaine Council, No. 146, R. T. of T., which promises to be a splendid affair, besides the drama entitled, "Don't marry a drunkard to reform him," there will be some excellent instrumental and vocal music, and will conclude with a laughable farce the "Dentist's office." For further particulars see posters in a day or two.

Wet feet invariably produces a cough, which, if allowed to stand, weakens the lungs, and in time brings on consumption. By having a little of West's Cough Syrup in the house you can cure your cough like magic. It is infallible for all throat an lung diseases, hoarseness, whooping cough, influenza, coughs and colds. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Druggists. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle. Dec. 3

HEAVY LOSS.—Trimble & Pickle's fine entire horse, "Garfield," died on Monday night last. He was taken suddenly with congestion of the bowels on Monday morning, followed by inflamation, and in spite of all that medical skill could do, he died in about twelve hours from the first symptoms. This is a heavy loss to the proprietors, they having purchased this fine animal last spring for $2,500, and it is also a loss to the surrounding country, as it was the first real fine animal of his class which has been introduced into the district. We understand it is the intention of Trimble & Pickle to procure another of the same class if possible, and we trust those interested in the introduction of this high class stock will give the necessary encouragement.

REV. MR. CASSON conducted the S. S. Anniversary services at Clinton last Sunday. His pulpit was filled very acceptably by Mr. Geo. Steer in the morning, and Rev. A. Wilson in the evening.

What we may Expect.

Colder weather;
But bad roads.
An open winter.
A wedding in town.
Municipal matters grow interesting.
A monster attendance at the church opening,
Especially the Christmas tea-meeting.
The roller skating rink rushed to completion,
And well patronized.

A Recipe for Cooking Husbands

A Baltimore lady has written a recipe for "cooking husbands so as to make them good and tender." It is as follows:—A good many husbands are utterly spoiled by management. Some women go about it as if their husbands were bladders, and blow them up. Others keep them constantly in hot water; others let them freeze by their carelessness and indifference. Some keep them in a stew by irritating ways and words. Others roast them. Some keep them in pickle all their lives. It cannot be supposed that any husband will be tender and good managed in this way, but they are really delicious when properly treated. In selecting your husband you should not be guided by their silvery appearance, as in buying mackerel, nor by the golden tint, as if you wanted salmon. Be sure to select him yourself, as tastes differ. Do not go to market for him, as the best are always brought to your door. It is far better to have none, unless you will patiently learn how to cook him.

A preserving kettle of the finest porcelain is best, but if you have nothing but an earthenware pipkin, it will do, with care. See that the linen in which you warp him is nicely washed and mended, with the required number of buttons and strings sewed on. Tie him in the kettle by a strong silk cord called comfort, as the one called duty is apt to be weak. They are apt to fly out of the kettle and be burned and crusty on the edges, since like crabs and lobsters you have to cook them while alive. Make a clear, steady fire out of love, cheerfulness, and neatness. Set him as near this as seems to agree with him. If he sputters and fizzes, do not be anxious; some husbands do this till they are quite done. Add a little sugar in the form of what confectioners call kisses, but no vinegar or pepper, on any account. A little spice improves them, but it must be used with judgment. Do not stick any sharp instrument into him, to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently, watch the while, lest he be too flat and close to the kettle, and to become useless. You cannot fail to know when he is done. If thus treated you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you and the children, and he will keep as long as you want, unless you become careless and set him in too cold a place."—Tid Bits.

Mistletoe for Kissing Purposes.

No English lady considers her home decorations for Christmas complete, until a little sprig of Mistletoe, no matter how small, is hung over one of the doors on the inside of the house. Upon this day, "if a gentleman discovers a lady standing under the Mistletoe, he has a right to kiss her."

If this ancient and honored custom becomes as popular in America as it has been for centuries in Europe, it will be largely due to the Emporia (Fla.) Gazette, which, by the way, is published in Volusia County, Florida, which is famous for its Summery Winters and Orange Groves; for this journal has prepared packages of Mistletoe (a parasite and a native of Flori which it will send to any address upon receipt of five 2 cent stamps to cover postage, &c. The Gazette has published a "Florida Catechism," that gives full and accurate information upon all subjects of interest to tourists or settlers, which it will mail, to any applicant, with a sample copy of its paper, upon receipt of two 2 cent stamps.

HERE AND THERE.

Shad have of late years nearly abandoned the Potomac River.

Twenty-five monuments to Napoleon I. are standing in the cities of France, despite the commune and revolution.

Fifteen swords worn by Garibaldi at various epochs during his campaigns are to be placed in the Capitol at Rome

James Gamble, a Baltimore gambler, was stabbed with a large knife The force of the blow was checked by a package of pool tickets in his vest pocket. Otherwise his heart would have been perforated.

A hotel at Festinog, North Wales, has a veteran colley which acts as a tourist's guide. When told to do so it leads visitors to the Cynfel waterfall, and exhibits it from the various points of view, trotting from one point to another as soon as it sees that the tourists have satisfied their curiosity. The dog learned his duties, years ago, by going with his master on the same errand.

Dr. Shaw, writing to the Medical Times from Water Cap, where poisonous snakes abound, says that during the past six years, in which he had followed out a method of cure for snake bite, he has not lost a case. He gives sixty minims of aromatic spirits of ammonia hypodermically and an ounce of whiskey every two hours. A large poultice of bruised raw onions is applied to the wound and renewed every hour. The whiskey and onions are continued until cure is effected, which is usually on the third day.

There can scarcely be a doubt of the complicity of jewelry houses in some of the great diamond robberies. One well-known London house was remarked to have made amazing strides not long after the robbery of the late Lady Ellesmere's jewels. The value of the jewelry stolen in England since 1870 would run up into hundreds of thousands of pounds. A fashionable jeweller in league with such an operator as the master of "The House in the Marsh" ought to do amazingly well—if no woman is let into the secret.

There is an old signboard hanging under the trees on the chief street in Bethlehem, Pa., weather beaten and blistered, whereon is seen a square-shouldered house, presenting to the spectator its gable end, before which mine host, attired in brown knickerbockers, is conversing with an old Indian in a red blanket, and another in a yellow blanket, while a traveller in a bag wig, galloping upon an excited steed, hails him with uplifted arm. Furthermore, we are informed in good English print that this is the Moravian Sun Inn Bethlehem, Pa., established in 1758.

With the passing away of Viscount Ranelagh, of which the cable brings word, an accustomed figure will be missed from Pall Mall and Hyde Park. In his youth he belonged to the D'Orsay set, and kept bachelor quarters for a long time with Jack Spalding Lord Brougham's stepson. He had been an officer in the Life Guards, and acquired notoriety by his zeal for the cause of Don Carlos, in whose army he served with distinction. Latterly he took an active part in the volunteer movements, and was Colonel of the Middlesex Rifles and commandant of the brigade to which Col. Mapleson belongs. For some years back he has been regarded as an aged but well preserved roue.

A correspondent of a Western journal says there is no surer way of predicting a change in the weather than by observing the habits of the snail. They do not drink, but imbibe moisture during a rain and exude it afterwards. The animal is never seen abroad except before a rain. The tree snail, as it is called, two days before rain will climb up the stem of plants, and if the rain is going to be a hard and long one will get on the sheltered side of a leaf, but if a short rain on the other side. Then there are other species that before a rain are yellow, after blue. In other snails deep indentations, beginning at the head between the horns and ending with the juncture of the tail, appear a few days before a storm.

The story is again contradicted that Lord Tennyson received a special fee from Queen Victoria for his lines on the Princess Beatrice's wedding. It would be just as reasonable to say that the royal chef received a special fee for superintending the details of the Princess's wedding breakfast. The Poet Laureate, like the royal chef, is a member of the Queen's household, and, like his culinary colleague, is paid for his services at an annual fixed salary. In Lord Tennyson's case this fixed salary is $1,000 per annum, which he has received since 1851, when he succeeded Wordsworth. He is also in receipt of a further proof of the royal favor in the shape of a butt of Malmsey wine, given in accordance with precedent.

Singularly enough, examinations made of the painted windows, so celebrated as works of artistic genius and skill, of the old cathedrals of England and Continental Europe, show that their superiority consists really in the inferiority of the glass, its richness in the poverty of its constituents, in the very perfection of its uneven thickness, and in the imperfections of its surface and its body, all covered, as they are, by the accumulating dust of ages, and honeycombed by the corroding effect of time. Like the facets of a diamond or ruby, each little wave and thread and blister becomes, by interference, refractions, and reflection of the light which plays upon it, a new source of the gem-like brilliance, harmony, and beauty which distinguish the painted glass of former centuries. The glass makers of America and England now aim to reproduce the perfection of this old glass by reproducing its imperfection.

At Deggendorf, where the Danbube flows through a rich and beautiful valley, there is a church upon whose walls a series of twenty-four paintings represents some remarkable events said to have occurred here. In the year 1337, the story goes, the Jews stole the sacred wafer (our host) from the church. They scratched it with thorns until it bled, and the visage of a child appeared; they baked it in an oven; they hammered it on an anvil, of which the block is still shown; they tried to thrust it down their throats, but were prevented by the hands and feet of the child. Then, despairing of being able to destroy it, they flung it into a well, which was immediately surrounded by a radiant glory. The result of this story was that the Deggendorfers, who owed large sums of money to the Jews, rose and massacred their creditors instead of paying their debts. The priests applauded these doings, and ever after showed the indestructible wafer.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

"I hold in my hand," said Brother Gardner as he opened the meeting, "a petishun from Mary Ann Johnson of Missouri. She wants to be tooken into dis club as a member. In rejectin' her applicashun I desiah to state for de benefit of woman kind a few fundemental facks:

"1. Woman am good 'nuff in her place.

"2. It am not her fault dat she was'n bo'n fur a man.

"3. As a member of any organizashun like dis she am a kicker.

"4. When man has shown dat he is incompetent to run dis kentry de women will be giben a show. I allus feel to exclaim wid de orators: 'Bress de women!' But I also feel to bress 'em fur what dey am and not fur what some of em wan to be. I hev somtimes sot down and wondered what we should do widout 'em. It takes a woman's hand to make catnip tea an' mustard plaster, an' to pare 'taters. She kin doctor a sore toe so tenderly as to make you wish you had a broken leg. When you hev traded a seben dollar shotgun for a three dollar dog it am her soft words which soothe your throbbin' soul. While you sleep she watches fur burglars. While you wake she sews on hind patches. While you toil an' sweat she am plannin' how to turn your old coat top to bottom 'an make a new garment. De true woman am an angel on roller skates. As for de kind who spend deir time wid gaddin' de street an readin' luv stories—an' dis Mary Ann Johnson probably belongs to dat class—de less we see of 'em de better, Let us now proceed wid de reg'lar purceedin's."

THE INFIDELS

Sir Isaac Walpole, who had been requested to investigate the inquiry: "Is infidelity spreading in this country?" reported that he had made as thorough an investigation as time and circumstances would permit, and would report:

1. Bob Ingersoll hasn't convinced over two men in this country that there is no Supreme Being.

2 The number of people who don't want to feel that there is a land of torment for the wicked are, however, on the increase.

3. The class who believe in Heaven but not in the other location is being added to daily, and the man who lends one of them half a dollar will never get it back.

4. The class who believe that nature is supreme while they are in health, but appeal to the Lord as soon as sickness comes, is holding its own as to numbers.

5. That species of humanity which delights in criticising Christianity and disputing the apostles has picked up in numbers during the last year, but the presence of the small pox along the Canadian border will doubtless make a change the other way this winter.

THREATS

Samuel Shin sent to the Secretary's desk an anonymous letter which contained threats against his life, and the Secretary read it aloud.

"Brudder Shin, do you feel dat you orter be purtected agin' dis would be assassin?" asked the President.

"Yes, sah; I feels jist dat way, sah," replied Samuel.

"Does you know of any reason why anybody should want to assassinate you?"

"No, sah, not one."

"Doan' know of anybody who has reasons to thirst fur your blood?"

"Not a pusson, sah."

"Well, Brudder Shin, arter you has paid dat nine dollars you owe a butcher on Gratiot avenue an' dat seben dollars you owe a grocer on Grand Riber, an' dat $22 back house rent you owe an old landlord, dis chile will take all precautions to preserve your waluab'e life from de bullet ob de assassin. Please sot down."

The Rev. Penstock then called up the case of Elder Walkabout Smith, of Toronto. Some two weeks since the Elder, who is an honorary member of the club, prepared a 'possum feast and sold tickets at twenty-five cents per head. Over fifty colored men sat down at his festive board and ate of the 'possums he claimed to have imported direct from Virginia. Everything passed off in the pleasantest manner, but it was discovered next day that Elder Smith had substituted musk-rat for 'possum and perpetrated a bald-headed swindle on his confiding countrymen. Complaint was at once lodged against him with the Secretary of the club. Brother Penstock's motion was promptly seconded by Shindig Watkins, and the President said:

"De moshun prevails and de case am tooken from the table. It seems to me dat Elder Smith's crime am one of de blackest eber known on de records an' dat it calls fur condign punishment."

"Am dar any way fur us to git hold of him?' asked Waydown Bebee.

"I doan' speck dar am."

"Couldn't we hev him arrested ober dar an' tried fur piracy, arson, perjury or sunthin' of dat sort?" queried Elder Toots.

"I doan' see how we kin. I reckon de only thing we kin do am to bounce him. While dar am nuffin' so werry condign about dat, we kin lib in hopes dat de small pox skeer may drive him across de riber before spring. De Seckretary will cross de name off de rolls an' the customary blue-ink circular will be sent to all honorary members in Canada."

THE LIBRARY.

The Librarian reported the receipt of several interesting volumes from friends of the club in Atlanta, and suggested that the Treasurer be authorized to purchase a dictionary.

"What do we want of a dictionary?" asked the President.

"To find out de hard words, sah."

"What hard words?'

"Why, sah, when Whalebone Howker am readin' one of our books on poultry, and he finds de word 'Discomfiture,' he has to skip right ober it kase he doan' know what it means."

"S'posein' dar am a hundred words which Brudder Howker or some odder brudder can't make out! Am we gwine to pay out $12 on dat account? What bizness hez we huntin' up hard words? Do we need to say 'Discomfiture' or 'Aggregashun' when we ax fur a job of whitewashin' or want to git trusted fur a codfish? De moshun am out o' order, an' de meetin' stands adjourned."

This is a Christian and civilized country, but just as soon as a baby is born its parents are anxious to give it a weigh.

HEALTH.

Over-Pressure in Schools.

We give the more important points of a paper read at the last annual meeting of the British Medical Association: Children, in order to keep pace with the present code of study, have to pour over their lessons, in some instances, until ten, eleven or twelve o'clock at night. The effect of this application to study at night on the brain, and nervous system takes away the appetite, enervates the child, and stunts its growth; then follow headaches, vomiting, nervous debility, brain fever, St. Vitus's dance, curvature of the spine, heart-disease, myopia (nearsightedness), spitting of blood, and, in some instances, convulsions and death. The dread of the examination, of the inspector's visit, the anxiety to gain a prize, or the thought of not being able to pass the examination, so as to leave the school to work for a livelihood, has each had a share in the production of disease.

Light, position, ventilation and proper warmth are essential to the health of children.

The home lessons have recently been made illegal in some parts of the States, and examinations are now less rigid generally, yet the code is still too high, and as it is futile to imagine that all children can be brought up to the same level, the boasted one hundred per cent. of passes is a strange thing. The head-master or mistress of every school ought to have the option of removing from examination at least seven per cent. of those who can give their whole time to the school, and fifteen per cent. of all "half timers."

Throughout the country the voices of managers, teachers and employers of labor bear witness to the diminished vigor and attenuated limbs of the children of our working population, and ask if there is no way of opening the eyes of our education theorists to the bitter and terrible wrongs inflicted on the young.

Near-sightedness is unknown among savage tribes. But more than half the children in Germany suffer from defective vision, and, in some schools, three-fourths. Twenty per cent. of the boys, and from thirty to forty per cent. of the girls, were found to be suffering from curvature of the spine!

In the discussion which followed the paper, Surgeon-Major Pringle said he was much struck on returning to England, after an absence of twelve years, to find so many boys and girls wearing spectacles. Dr. Drydale, of London, said that it was an axiom in his mind that children could not be better educated than they were fed. The same principle might be applied to a proper amount of exercise.

Medical Instruction in Schools.

Such a thing would once have been looked on as absurd. In ancient times the doctor purposely invested his art with mystery. More or less of the same spirit and policy has come down to our own day. Still, both the tendencies and the actualities of things have greatly changed. Not only have other sciences laid richest gifts at the feet of medicine, but the latter has fully entered into their enlarged spirit, and accepted their more accurate methods of investigation. In short, medicine has itself, for the first time in its long history, become a science.

We now understand as never before the nature and origin of epidemical diseases; their relation to bad surroundings in place and person; the prominence of drinking infected water as a source of contagion; the value of disinfectants, as distinguished from mere deodorizers, and which of them alone are absolutely reliable; the still greater disinfecting power of pure air and of sunshine.

We have learned to fight with success a threatening epidemic by concentrating our force on the first solitary case, hedging it around by removal of the well from the sick, or the sick from the well. We understand, too, the importance of good house drainage, and the danger of poor plumbing. We also know that the air of the chamber is never better than the air of the cellar. We have come to comprehend the possibility of stamping out the whole class of infectious diseases. The profession, to their honor, for it takes away their patients, is recognizing the truth of the old maxim, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Now all this has rendered it practicable to avail ourselves of our public schools in promoting the public health. This is already being done in the States. For the last year medical instruction has been given in the schools of Bangor, Me, with the result of preventing the spread of disease among the scholars.

Says the Medical Record, "The nature of the instruction given is such that the teachers are made watchful and careful in regard to their pupils, and often a so-called 'spunky' fit is seen to be really the precursor of an actual sickness. The practical inauguration of such a plan of instruction is not a difficult matter.

Vaccination.

As a general rule, with some exceptions, one attack of an infectious disease protects from a subsequent attack. Hence come the protective power of cow-pox against small-pox, the former being only a modified form of the latter. That it does protect is plain—among other proofs—from the fact that in an important London small-pox hospital not a nurse or an attendant has taken the disease during the last thirty years.

But it is not a complete protection. One attack even of small-pox may be followed by a second. Hence a person who has been vaccinated should not needlessly expose himself. Indeed, a change from one climate to another often ends the immunity.

Vaccination is now general in England, and the great majority of those admitted to the small-pox hospital have been vaccinated!

It is not enough that a person can show a vaccine scar; it should be a good scar; distinct, depressed, with a well, or a tolerably well, defined edge. Of two thousand who died of small-pox at the hospital, about one-twelfth had a single indifferent scar. Nor is a single good scar enough. Of the same number, nearly four per cent. died having such a scar. Of one thousand four hundred and forty-six having two good scars, about two per cent. died; while of five hundred and eighteen having three good scars, only about one per cent.; and of five hundred and forty-four having four or more, slightly over one-half of one per cent., or one in two hundred, died. Farther, of those who recovered, the two latter classes suffered far less, and were far less disfigured by the disease.

Again, no one should trust to a mere belief, however confident, that he has been vaccinated. Of three hundred and seventy such cases of merely supposed vaccination, about one-fourth died of small-pox.

Still again there is reason to believe that the protective power even of the best vaccination in infancy expends itself within the first eighteen or twenty years. Hence no one should fail to be re-vaccinated on reaching adult age.

Those who take this course are very seldom attacked with small-pox, and when they are, have it only in the mildest form. The immunity among the nurses and attendants of small-pox hospitals above referred to is due to the fact that every one is re-vaccinated on entering.

Value of Deep Breathing.

Deep breathing and holding the breath is an item of importance. Persons of weak vitality find an uninterrupted succession of deep and rapid respirations so distressing that they are discouraged from persevering in the exercise. Let such persons take into the lungs as much air as they can at a breath, and hold it as long as they can, they will find a grateful sense of relief in the whole abdominal region. Practice will increase the ability to help the breath, and the capacity of the lungs. After a time the art may be learned of packing the lungs. This is done by taking and holding the long breath and then forcing more air down the trachea by swallows of air. The operation may be described by that of a fish's mouth in water. To those who have never learned it it will be surprising to what an extent the lungs may be packed. Caution at first is needful, but later practice will warrant large use of the treatment. The whole thoracic and abdominal cavities will receive immediate benefit, and continuance, with temperance in eating and good air and right exercise, will bring welcome improvement.

The Brave Tars of the Navy.

"I was crossing the North Atlantic once in midwinter on a man-of-war," said a naval officer, "when one stormy afternoon we sighted a Norwegian bark showing signals of distress. The most tremendous seas were running that I ever saw, but we lowered away a boat and sent her to the bark. She came back with the information that the bark was loaded with grain and had sprung a leak. The water had caused the grain to swell and had opened the seams of the vessel so that she was rapidly going to pieces. The captain and crew wanted to be taken off. We sent two boats to the bark to take off the imperilled crew. It was a most difficult and dangerous task. Again and again it seemed as if the boats on the errand of mercy would be overwhelmed by the furious seas, but they were skilfully handled and after hours of toil and deadly peril, all except three of the sailors were taken off the bark. It was now growing dark. The storm was increasing in fury and it was evident that the bark could not live the night out.

"Our captain called all hands and made a speech telling them that three men were left on the bark. He said he knew American sailors would never leave a fellow-being in distress, but that it was doubtful if any boat could get to the bark and back safely in the rising storm and the gathering gloom. Then he called for volunteers to attempt the rescue. Immediately there was a rush for the boats by every officer and man aboard the man-of war and the captain had to call for volunteers to keep people from rushing into the boats and swamping them. A boat's crew went off and brought the three sailors back in safety."

The Scattered Household.

Oh! desolate home, oh! fireless hearth,
Oh! halls that re-echo no longer to mirth,
I turn to thee, longing for faces once dear,
And yearning for voices I nevermore hear.

There's sunshine to enter the shutterless pane,
But, sunbeams, your glorious mission seems vain;
For buds that here blossomed, and flowers that bloomed,
Beneath the green grasses have long been entombed.

The household is scattered; their graves lie apart,
Its heirlooms all gathered and sold in the mart;
And spiders a veil from the cornice have hung,
To hide where rare portraits were years ago swung.

The rust on the door-lock has loosened its hold,
The time-eaten hinges how noisily fold,
And creaking as never before at my tread,
Is the worm-eaten threshold I cross with a dread.

The broad, open fire-place, it welcomes me not,
No ray from it brightens this desolate spot,
The ashes are sodden, and cheerless and cold,
No light throws a shadow where all turns to mold.

The room of the household is here to the right,
The kitchen was always so cheerful and bright;
For children tramped here in the rainest day,
And always found room for their boisterous play,

And this is the room where we gathered for prayers,
And this room was mother's here we brought all our cares,
And these, where for rest, tired children could hie,
When daylight was over, and lessons laid by.

Oh! rooms of the household, though speaking meet,
There's everything lacking to make home of thee;
Sweet voices grown silent, and eyelids close pressed,
In the halls of dead sleepers have long been at rest.

One lies in Mount Greenwood, one sleeps in the sea,
One rests 'neath the shade of the pomegranate tree,
And she who went from us her bloom to restore,
Hath found her a lone grave on Florida's shore.

Oh! home of my childhood, oh! home once so dear,
With reverence I come, but thou givest no cheer;
I find here no welcome, the silence of years,
Betokens no gladness, I leave thee in tears.

And pass o'er thy threshold with timorous tread,
As one who walks over the mounds of the dead,
And leave all thy inner doors slightly ajar,
Lest sharply their echoes thy silence should mar.

Eternal indigestion is the price of pie.

Question for debating clubs—"Can a man, while asleep in the daytime, have the night-mare?"

There is no stated Thanksgiving day in Europe, but they have been concocting schemes to gobble Turkey, all the same.

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS—Opium, morphine and kindred habits. Valuable treatise sent free. The medicine may be given in tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the person taking it, if so desired. Send two 3c. stamps for full particulars and testimonials of those who have been cured. Address M. V. Luban, agency, 47 Wellington street east, Toronto, Canada.

The general verdict of the smokers of Canada is that "Myrtle Navy" is the finest tobacco they have ever used. There can be no mistake upon this point for it is proved by this tangible evidence. The large demand for this tobacco proves it to be true, and the character of the demand gives further proof. It has never been of the spasmodic kind, up one month and down the next, but has been a sustained and constantly increasing demand. The unsurpassed quality of the tobacco accounts for this.

Gentlemen of leisure—Tramps.

Imperial Cough Drops will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto, Ontario.

All the rage—A mad dog.

£100,000,000 IN THE BRITISH COURT OF CHANCERY!—A large part of this vast sum belongs to the people of America. Cox & Co., 41, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, London, Eng., have just published a List of the heirs to this enormous wealth. Readers send a dollar and they will forward you this valuable LIST; and if you find by it that you are entitled to any money or property, claim your own. Cox & Co. will show you the way.

A.P. 2[illegible]

FARM FOR SALE—100 ACRES, 2 MILES from Stratford City. Address, Box 154, Stratford, Ont.

FOR SALE — SEVERAL FIRST-CLASS IMPROVED Farms—easy terms of payment. G. MARTEN, Leamington, Essex County.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE BEST SELLING Patented Article in Canada to-day. Send 25 cents for Sample and Agents' Terms. D[illegible] & Co., Guelph.

ALLEN'S EXTRA REFINED CIDER—In Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs always in stock. Allen's Clarified Cider, prepared especially for Scott Act counties. Orders promptly filled; also cider for common cider. ALLEN'S VINEGAR WORKS, Norwich, Ont.

SCIAT-CA, INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM, Gout, Neuralgia, and Lumbago radically cured by a remedy invented by one who was self cured by it after being three years on crutches with sciatica; abundant testimonials as to its beneficial effects in above-mentioned diseases; sent expressed to any address. S. J. LANCASTER, [illegible] Ont.

A BIG OFFER To introduce them, we GIVE AWAY 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office at once. THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N. Y.

YOUR NAME, ADDRESS AND TEN CENTS mailed Bengough's Shorthand and Business Institute, Toronto, will bring copy Cosmopolitan Shorthander, best journal in America. Prize [illegible] Send for Calendar.

MACHINERY FOR SALE. ENGINES AND Boilers. Saw and Shingle Mills, Planing Factory Outfits, Stave and Heading Machines, [illegible] wheels Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descriptive catalogue, and mention what you want. (Mention this paper.) H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

WATER STAR AUGER $20 Per Day WELL BORING has no superior; 20 feet per hour, hand or horse power, combined boring and rock drilling machine; great success: first prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue. 68 MARY STREET, HAMILTON CANADA.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING —USE ONLY— Clapperton's Spool Cotton. Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the [illegible] For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

RUGS Beautiful Colored Designs, Flowers, Birds, Animals, Etc., printed on Burlap [illegible] to be worked in rags, yarn, [illegible] Wholesale and retail. Large discount to dealers. Agents. Send to manufacturer for catalogue. R. W. ROSS, Guelph, Ont.

JAMES PARK & SON, Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Hams, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St John's, N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston weekly, and Glasgow and Philadelphia fortnightly

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co, Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St John's, N.F.; Wm. Thomson & Co, St. John, N.B.; Allan & Co, Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brookie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

BUY THE IMPROVED CONBOY Carriage Tops AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.

There are over Twenty Thousand of these Tops now in use, and are giving better satisfaction than any other.

The manufacturer of these Celebrated Carriage Tops, owns more patents for improvements, and makes a greater variety than any other firm in Canada or the United States.

THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.

FACTORY & SALESROOM 407 to 413 King St. West, TORONTO

YOUNG FOLKS

Expecting to be Twins.

Walking in the street one day,
I saw two little girls;
I joined them, for I went their way;
They both had golden curls.

And looked alike, these maidens fair,
Alike as two small pins;
I asked them (they seemed such a pair),
"Pray tell me are you twins?"

"Not yet," and they looked wondrous wise,
And turned from me to go;
"We shall be twins when mamma buys
Our caps next week, you know."

Nan's Heathen.

Nan pushed back her little blue sun-bonnet and gazed at the picture pasted on the wall. There were several pictures on the flaunting show-bill, but this one particularly attracted Nan's attention. The turbaned and feathered head, the long braids of hair, the necklace of bears' claws, and the dark, wild face excited her wonder. She risked being tardy by stopping to gaze on her way to school in the morning, and now on her homeward walk, she could stay as long as she pleased.

"I spect he's an Indian. Maybe he's one of those dreadful cannon-balls that eat folks —or he's a squaw; anyhow, he's a heathen," she said, a little confused in her knowledge of races. "I do wish I could see a live heathen."

She slowly spelled out the words of the advertisement—at least she could spell the shorter ones—and so she gained some idea of what it was all about: "'Bar b-a-r-i-a-n;' that must be the name of him, I guess."

One thing she knew already—the exhibition was to be in Hill's meadow, for she had seen the tents erected there; and she discovered, by her careful spelling that the price of admission was twenty five cents. That sum was nothing to Nan. Had she not a bright new quarter that Uncle John had given her because he thought her little face looked sober at the prospect of having mamma go away from home for two whole days?

"I asked mamma what to do with it, and she said, 'Whatever you please, dear,' just before she went away; so, if I want to go," concluded Nan rather doubtfully, with an anxious look at the picture, "why she said, whatever I pleased.'"

There was no one to go with her. Whether anyone would have taken her to the exhibition of curiosities if mamma had been at home was a question which she did not care to consider very closely. She decided that she was quite old enough to go alone; but it required considerable shutting of her eyes to facts in one direction and stretching of her abilities in another to convince herself that what she wanted to do was exactly right. She questioned Hannah cautiously.

"Don't you think it would help folkes to understand about Sunday-school lessons and everything to see a real live heathen?"

"I s'pose so," answered Hannah absently. She was busy with her baking, and was trying to calculate how many yards of calico it would take to make her a dress.

"So I have the money, and mamma said I might do what I pleased, and Hannah says it'll be real 'structive to see such a one," reasoned Nan, trying to argue down her own misgivings.

She did not think it would be instructive to confide her plan to Hannah, however. After the early dinner, a little figure stole away from the house unseen, and trudged alone toward the show ground. It seemed very grand to be alone at first, but it was a grandeur that lasted only until she found herself in the midst of a surging, pushing crowd that nearly swept her off her feet. It was a rough crowd, too—laughing, pushing, swearing and threatening; and Nan would gladly have escaped, if it had been possible even before she reached the tent. She was only a little mite of humanity, jostled among the throng that shut her in on every side, and she was borne forward till she was carried through the narrow door without her precious quarter having been demanded.

But she did not rejoice over that, or even remember it at the time; she was too sorely bewildered and frightened. Her "pansy hat," the pride of her heart, was sadly crushed. She could see nothing, and she was nearly stifled. She began to cry, and at last some one noticed her.

"Hello, here's a child! Take care, there! This little girl is 'most crowded to death."

"Little girl?" repeated a gruff but good-natured voice. "Here give her to me; I'll hold her high enough above the crowd," and the "Norway Giant," who had been marching about for the gratification of the spectators, suddenly stooped and lifted her to his shoulders. "There, now, sissy! What's the matter? Who do you want to find?"

"The barbry-an," faltered Nan, feeling that she must give some reason for her presence.

"Barbara Ann? Did she come with you? Where is she?" questioned the giant; and Nan knew that she had made some mistake.

"No; I came alone. I wanted to see the heathen," she explained timidly.

"The heathen? Well, I guess that pretty well fits all of us—'specially the 'Fat Woman,'" laughed the giant, winking at the ill-named monstrosity, who chuckled in response. "I'll put you up where you can see all there is to be seen;" and he placed Nan on the platform among the "curiosities." Shyly, frightened and forlorn she stood there. The "Learned Pig" thrust his nose against her, the Albino smiled at her, and suddenly a dreadful suspicion seized her as to what these people might mean to keep her for. What if she had to live in a place like this and never saw home or mamma again? At last the crowd near the door thinned a little, and watching her chance, she jumped to the ground and fled as if the whole company were after her.

She found the household in commotion; everybody was looking for her. Her mother had returned, and with a glad cry Nan sprang into her arms and sobbed out all the story.

"You see, mamma," she said a little later, "I just thought about it all while I stood there—how a heathen is somebody that doesn't know about God or do His will, and I—I acted as if I didn't myself, or I wouldn't have been there where I knew I oughtn't to go. So I guessed I had some heathen in my own heart."

"If my little Nannie has learned that," mamma said gently, "she has learned what we all need to know—that we have room for a good deal of missionary work in our own hearts."

YOUNG FOLKS

Expecting to be Twins.

Walking in the street one day,
I saw two little girls;
I joined them, for I went their way;
They both had golden curls.

And looked alike, these maidens fair,
Alike as two small pins;
I asked them (they seemed such a pair),
"Pray tell me are you twins?"

"Not yet," and they looked wondrous wise,
And turned from me to go;
"We shall be twins when mamma buys
Our caps next week, you know."

Nan's Heathen.

Nan pushed back her little blue sun-bonnet and gazed at the picture pasted on the hoarding wall. There were several pictures on the alluring show-bill, but this one particularly attracted Nan's attention. The turban and feathered head, the long braids of hair, the necklace of bears' claws, and the dark, wild face excited her wonder. She had raised being tardy by stopping to gaze at it on her way to school in the morning, and now on her homeward walk, she could look as long as she pleased.

"I 'spect he's an Indian. Maybe he's one of those dreadful cannon-balls that eat folks up, like he's a squaw; anyhow, he's a heathen," she said, a little confused in her knowledge of races. "I do wish I could see a live heathen."

She slowly spelled out the words of the advertisement—at least she could spell the shorter ones—and so she gained some idea of what it was all about: "'Bar b-a-r-i a n;' that must be the name of him, I guess."

One thing she knew already—the exhibition was to be in Hill's meadow, for she had seen the tents erected there; and she discovered, by her careful spelling that the price of admission was twenty five cents. That sum was nothing to Nan. Had she not a bright new quarter that Uncle John had given her because he thought her little face looked sober at the prospect of having mamma go away from home for two whole days?

"I asked mamma what to do with it, and she said, 'Whatever you please, dear,' just before she went away; so, if I want to go," concluded Nan rather doubtfully, with an other look at the picture, "why she said, whatever I pleased."

There was no one to go with her. Whether anyone would have taken her to the exhibition of curiosities if mamma had been at home was a question which she did not care to consider very closely. She decided that she was quite old enough to go alone; but it required considerable shutting of her eyes and facts in one direction and stretching of probabilities in another to convince herself that what she wanted to do was exactly right. She questioned Hannah cautiously.

"Don't you think it would help folkes to understand about Sunday-school lessons and everything to see a real live heathen?"

"I 'spose so," answered Hannah absently. She was busy with her baking, and was trying to calculate how many yards of calico would take to make her a dress.

"As I have the money, and mamma said I might do what I pleased, and Hannah says it'll be real instructive to see such a thing," reasoned Nan, trying to argue down her own misgivings.

She did not think it would be instructive to confide her plan to Hannah, however. So after the early dinner, a little figure stepped away from the house unseen, and plunged alone toward the show ground. It seemed very grand to be alone at first, but was a grandeur that lasted only until she found herself in the midst of a surging, pushing crowd that nearly swept her off her feet. It was a rough crowd, too—laughing, jostling, swearing and threatening; and Nan would gladly have escaped, if it had been possible even before she reached the tent.

Since she was only a little mite of humanity, she was tossed among the throng that shut her in on every side, and she was borne forward when she was carried through the narrow door without her precious quarter having been demanded

But she did not rejoice over that, or even remember it at the time: she was too sorely bewildered and frightened. Her "pansy" was the pride of her heart, was sadly crushed. She could see nothing, and she was nearly stifled. She began to cry, and was at last some one noticed her.

"Hello, here's a child! Take care, there! This little girl is 'most crowded to death."

"Little girl?" repeated a gruff but good-natured voice. "Here give her to me; I'll put her high enough above the crowd," and "Norway Giant," who had been marching about for the gratification of the spectators, suddenly stooped and lifted her to his shoulders. "There, now, sissy! What's the matter? Who do you want to find?"

"The barby-an," faltered Nan, feeling that she must give some reason for her presence.

"Barbara Ann: Did she come with you? Where is she? questioned the giant; and Nan knew that she had made some mistake.

"No: I came alone. I wanted to see the heathen," she explained timidly.

"The heathen? Well, I guess that pretty well fits all of us—specially the 'Fat Woman,' laughed the giant, winking at the bearded monstrosity, who chuckled in response. "I'll put you up where you can see all there is to be seen;" and he placed Nan on the platform among the "curiosities." Herself, frightened and forlorn she stood there. The "Learned Pig" thrust his nose against her, the Albino smiled at her, and suddenly a dreadful suspicion seized her that these people might mean to keep her always. What if she had to live in a place like this and never saw home or mamma again! At last the crowd near the door seemed a little, and watching her chance, she sprang to the ground and fled as if the whole company were after her.

She found the household in commotion; everybody was looking for her. Her mother had returned, and with a glad cry Nan sprang into her arms and sobbed out all the story.

"I see, mamma," she said a little later, "I just thought about it all while I stood there—how a heathen is somebody that don't know about God or do His will, and how I acted as if I didn't myself, or I wouldn't have been there where I knew I oughtn't to go. So I guessed I had some heathen in my own heart."

"If my little Nannie has learned that," said mamma gently, "she has learned what she will need to know—that we have room for a good deal of missionary work in our own hearts."

HOUSEHOLD.

Common-Sense Receipts.

WHIPPED RASPBERRY CREAM.—Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth with four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and add four tablespoonfuls of preserved (or canned) raspberry juice. Beat until it is very stiff. Lemon flavoring may be added if desired.

CASSINOLE OF BANANA.—Soak one ounce of gelatine in half a pint of cold water for an hour. Then add one scant pint of boiling water and stir until the gelatine is dissolved. To this add a cupful of sugar, and two bananas sliced thin. Turn into a mould and set on ice. Serve with cream.

CHILI SAUCE.—Very nice. Six ripe tomatoes, two onions and one pepper (the onions and pepper chopped fine) one tablespoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar, two scant cups of vinegar, one tablespoonful each of cloves, cinnamon and allspice. Stew gently until done and bottle tight.

APPLE-CUSTARD PUDDING.—Line a buttered pudding-dish with slices of stale sponge cake, or light, white bread; then make a filling as follows: one pint of sweet milk, one pint of smooth apple sauce well seasoned, three eggs well beaten, and enough cinnamon to flavor. This quantity will make two small puddings.

A NICE DRESSING FOR FOWLS.—Take one pint of soaked bread or crackers rolled very fine, add two teaspoonfuls of salt, a tablespoonful of Bell's Spiced Seasoning, (instead of sage etc.,) one tablespoonful of butter or fat salt pork chopped very fine, and one egg thoroughly worked in, this will give stuffing enough for a moderate sized turkey or chicken.

COFFEE CAKE.—One cupful of seeded and chopped raisins; one cupful of sugar; half a cupful of butter; half a cupful of cold, strong coffee; half a cupful of molasses; two and a half cups of sifted flour; two eggs well beaten; one teaspoonfull of powdered cloves; half a teaspoonfull of cinnamon; one and a half teaspoonful of baking powder.

BAKED APPLES.—Wash, and then wipe dry, five firm apples, and cut out the blossom ends; pack them in a large pudding-dish; pour a cupful of water over them, cover the dish closely, set in a moderate oven, and let them steam until they are tender, and crack open; then put into a cold dish, and pour over them the juice left in the baking dish. Serve cold with powdered sugar and cream.

FRIED CHICKEN.—Cut the chicken in small pieces, and season them with pepper and salt, and dust with meal; then fry them in butter, lay them on paper, and cover to keep them warm; then pour the grease out of the frying pan, and put into a teacup full of cream, a blade of mace, a little salt and pepper, a salt poon full of flour, and a teaspoonfull of butter, mixed together; let these simmer together a few minutes; place the chicken on a hot dish, and pour the sauce over it.

SCALLOPED TURKEY.—Butter a deep dish, line it with bread crumbs, and put in the bottom a layer of bread crumbs seasoned with butter, pepper, and salt, then a layer of cold turkey chopped fine, and so on until the dish is full, adding the stuffing and gravy of the turkey; then beat together two eggs, add to them two tablespoonfuls of milk, butter, salt, pepper and rolled cracker crumbs; spread thickly over the top of the turkey; bake half an hour, keeping it covered for twenty minutes, then remove the cover and brown.

Household Dont's."

Don't stand when you can sit just as well.

Don't put off the mending from week to week.

Don't you know that vinegar will clean the isinglass in the stove doors?

Don't you know your oilcloth can be washed in buttermilk or kerosene.

Don't give little children two languages to learn—first baby-talk, then afterward true pronunciation.

Don't hesitate to place a piece of zinc on the live coals in the stove; it will clean out the stovepipe.

Don't throw away the nice woolen stockings when the feet are worn out, but cut them down for the children.

Don't fail to be clean and tidy in every nook and corner, but don't be a slave to a shining stove and carpet.

Don't do unnecessary work because your grandmother did. There was not half so much to be done in her day.

Don't cherish the idea that you will catch cold if you feel a bit of fresh air, or know there is an outlet for heated impure air.

Don't throw away old suspender rings, but sew them to the corners or kitchen holders, serving a better purpose than loops to hang by.

Don't flirt dirt from one piece of furniture to another and call it dusting, but take it up carefully in a dusting cloth and shake it from the window.

Don't say "micky" for milk, "ridey" for ride; baby will understand "hand mamma your little dress" as readily as if you said "bring his little dess to mamma."

Don't talk servants or family matters to callers, and don't tell them the exact date of their last call. They will be likely to make the interval longer the next time.

Don't fail, in conversation, to occasionally pause and give the listener an opportunity to speak, and don't mistake polite listening, prolonged, for interest in your subject.

To Clean Marble.

To clean marble chimney-piece you should make a strong soap ley, mixed with quick lime, of the consistency of milk, and lay it on the marble for twenty-four hours. Then wash it off, and then polish it with fine putty-powder and olive oil. To clean papier mache, use a soft sponge and cold water—without soap—dredge it with flour while damp, and after leaving it thus for a short time, wipe it off, and polish the article with a silk handkerchief. To clean picture-frames and gilt cornices, dissolve a little cream of tartar in spirits of wine, and wet the gilding carefully, quickly wiping it dry again; but lightly, so as not to rub off the gilding.

White Feathers.

You may clean white feathers by placing them in a hot lather for some minutes, and shake them about in it, repeating the action to dry them. Curl them with a blunt penknife, commencing from the right hand side of the feather, taking up about six flues, and gently drawing the knife underneath them against your thumb; continuing this all round the feather, drawing some of the flues over them, so as to hide it. Curling over a hot iron will render the curl more lasting.

A duck of a man generally makes a goose of a husband.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Parnell the agitator and Parnell the Armagh tenant evictor are brothers and between them public attention is being strongly called to the bad features of the land question in Ireland.

Two English idiots recently reported to have been married on an iceberg, or some similarly Arctic spot, are rivalled by the Georgian pair of cheerful ditto who were made one while standing on a gravestone.

There has been a general "kiss and make up" among the family of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, and now everything in that particular world wags as merrily as if there had never been hard thoughts and bitter speeches.

Cremation is growing in popular favour in the New England States. A company was recently formed in Boston with a capital of $25,000. The New Englanders sensibly believe that what has to be done had better be done quickly

There is a growing feeling in the United States about the disadvantages of railroad rule. The people are beginning to turn in their sleep. When they get fully awake the magnates, who have so long ruled the roost, will be surprised.

The coffee and sugar planters of Mexico offer a bounty of $25 a head for Chinese laborers. John will find it good policy to go where he would be appreciated. There would seem to be money-making possibilities here.

Western civilization does not agree with the Egyptian obelisk set up in Central Park, New York, and so the New Yorkers, having set their wits at work, are now scraping it off and coating it with paraffine to prevent, it possible, further disintegration.

British politicans during the present crisis are settling right down to the work of speaking plain Anglo-Saxon both to and about their opponents, and when they get fairly started on that task all that this side of the Atlantic can teach them is not worth knowing.

A little severity of the same kind might prove beneficial in other places besides Chicago where a sewer-builder was recently fined $200 for neglecting to place warning lights at night to mark dangerous openings in the roadway, the consequence being that a carriage was overturned and its occupants thrown out.

U. S. Commissary General Macfeely must have a feeling heart. Perhaps, also, at one time he has suffered the horrors of dyspepsia. At any rate he now recommends that the law provide for the enlistment of cooks and bakers for the army as a means of preserving the health and promoting the comfort and efficiency of the troops.

"A fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind." A proposal has been mooted to raise a subscription in this country in behalf of the Japanese editor recently fined 27 yen for neglecting to credit the clippings he took from contemporaries. How much a yen is we have not the remotest idea, and frankly confess ourselves too lazy at this moment to find out.

Dr. Dio Lewis is considered somewhat of an authority on certain matters, and when he says that cutting the hair short at the back of the head induces baldness, the girls should think twice before being carried away by the short-haired craze, which, however, we are happy to be assured, is fast dying out. Girls are much too inherently sensible of what becomes them to allow such a fact to be other than very short-lived.

Promoted.

A little form stood by my side,
The eager look I noted—
"O teacher when vacation's o'er,
Say, shall I be promoted?"

"Nay, little one, you have been ill,
The tasks would be severe,"
Then coaxingly, "Would you not like To tarry longer here?"

"It is not you I wish to leave,
You're always good and kind,
But when my mates are going on
'Tis hard to stay behind."

The blue eyes filled with sudden tears,
I stroked the ringlets shining,
But well I knew the tired feet
Would stumble in the climbing.

The weeks flew by, and once again,
In their accustomed places,
I saw the children of my charge,
With welcome in their faces.

But one I missed; no earthly care
May be to thee devoted;
Thy wish is granted, happy child,
And thou hast been promoted.

O sad, reproachful eyes of blue,
O tears, that dimmed their shining!
O tiny, feet, that struggled on,
Nor faltered in the climbing!

But One, the Teacher great and wise
Hath rightly gauged thy power.
O, may thy high and lofty place,
Through grace, at last be ours.

Death of the Young Wife.

The doctor has just told him and he has gone into the little parlor and closed the door. All the room is suggestive of her who lies dying in the chamber above. Her bird is singing in its cage at the window as merrily as if sorrow were unknown in the world. The room is flooded with the warm sunlight, full of life and radiance, little in consonance with the desolate heart of the man standing there alone. Her birds, her books, her lounging chair, the touch and design that make a home, are hers. Her living presence seems to animate the common things, and makes them gracious and loving like herself. And it is only a brief twelve month since she stood there a bride, and listened to her husband's proud welcome to their home. Now she lies yonder—dying dying.

And he, how can he bear it? How do men bear in their undisciplined character the mighty shock of such grief as this? Oh, if he could only lean his head on his mother's shoulder and sob out his sorrow, as he used to do when a boy. But he knows of that unwritten law which forbids a man to cry or wear his grief on his sleeve for the daws to peck at. He must meet it alone, and

"Know how sublime a thing it is To suffer and be strong."

And all the while the scalding drops of anguish are forcing themselves to his eyes, searing them as with a red-hot iron, while he stands there trying to look in the face of this awful intruder, who has come an unbidden guest into his house.

"She wants you; she has sent for you, says one of the household, sobbing bitterly; and he goes, with vague, mechanical steps up the stairs to their room and into her presence.

"Have they told you? Do you know? she asks in a whisper. "Oh, love, we are going to be separated. God is taking me from you."

"He cannot be so cruel," he says bluntly and unreconciled, and he takes her into his arms as if to defy death to part them. The hours wear on, the clock ticks in the death chamber:

"Forever—never,
Never—forever."

He does not heed it; his eyes are fastened upon that beloved face, changing from its bloom and beauty into the ashen pallor which the shadows of the unseen forecast. Presently she opens her troubled eyes and fixes them upon his haggard face.

"Read to me, dear" she whispers faintly. He knows what she wishes him to read. That is one of the beautiful intuitive qualities which made of their lives a perfect harmonious sphere—a congenial union, rich in love and mutual faith, and to which there can be no finality of death or limitation. So he brings her bible and turns the leaves in search of some text of comfort, such as they have often read together.

But which one? There are so many, and all are good. He is not compelled to decide. The blessed Book opens to the most precious one of all, that has comforted so many home sick hearts, the sweetest of the heavenly madrigals:

"The Lord is my shepherd
I shall not want"

She repeated it after him.

At intervals she broke forth into snatches of speech:

"Though I walk through the valley
Of the shadow of death,
I will fear no evil."

"It is dark in the valley—dark—dark," he heard her murmur.

"Oh, love, there shall be no night there?" he answers brokenly, feeling how poor a comforter he is.

He holds her hand and she sleeps, and dreams such dreams as the dying have, and death goes on relentlessly with his work. Her bird breaks out into a joyful strain of music in its cage below; sounds of life come into the darkened chamber; watching friends are near; soon she opens her eyes and there is a bright, glad smile in them.

"It is light beyond," she says and sleeps again.

He does notice how cold her hand has grown; how still the room is. Nor does he resist when they loosen his clasp and lead him away telling him with tearful pity that it is all over.

What is all over? The love that has blessed his manhood with its crown of completeness? The companionship that made heaven and home synonymous terms? Are these ended forever?

When he sees her again she is wearing her wedding-dress. Her soft pretty hair is arranged as she liked it best. Her eyes are closed and her lips unresponsive to his kisses.

And over her bosom they crossed her hands.
"Come away," they said "God understands.
—Detroit Free Press.

"A California blacksmith is dangerously ill, with glanders, contracted while shoeing a horse." And a Pennsylvania woman is suffering from a sprained ankle, contracted while "shooing" a hen. There seems to be a fatality about this shoeing business.

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.

Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages Handsomely bound in cloth.

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 368 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
371 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
370 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 350 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 352 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for anyone, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
332 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

There books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

eneral verdict of the smokers of Ca hat "Myrtle Navy" is the finest t ey have ever used. There can be n upon this point for it is proved b gible evidence. The large demand tobacco proves it to be true, a racter of the demand gives furth
It has never been as if the opium one month and down the next.
a sustained and constantly increa and. The unsurpassed quality cco accounts for this.

lemen of leisure—Tramps.

erial Cough Drops will gi and Instant Relief to those suffer lds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., a luable to orators and vocalists. P druggists and confectioners. R.
ATSON, Manufacturers, Toron

he rage—A mad dog.

000,000 IN THE BRITISH COUNT
RY!—A large part of this vast m to the people of America. Cox
Southampton Buildings, Hol
Eng., have just published a List s to this enormous wealth. Re ollar and they will forward you th
LIST; and if you find by it that y led to any money or property, cl
m. Cox & Co. will show you the w

A.P. 258

FOR SALE—100 ACRES, 2 MILES FR
atford Clay. Address, Box 154, Stratf

SALE — SEVERAL FIRST-CLASS
OVED Farms—easy terms of pay
RTEN, Leamington, Essex County.

S WANTED FOR THE BEST SE
Patented Articles in Canada to-day. S or Sample and Agents' Terms. DIXON
uelph.

N'S EXTRA REFINED CIDER—
, Half Barrels and Kegs always in st r fied Cider, prepared especially for fa ties. Orders promptly filled; also cook non cider. ALLEN'S VINEGAR WORKS, T

.C.A. INFLAMMATORY RHEU
W, Gout, Neuralgia, and Lumbago effe d by a remedy invented by one who was d by it after being three years on crut tics; abundant testimonials as to its ben ots in above-mentioned diseases; rem to any address. S. J. LANCASTER, Petro

G OFFER To introduce them, we
GIVE AWAY 1,000
ating Washing Machines. If you want us your name, P.O and express office at on NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N.Y.

NAME, ADDRESS AND TEN CE
ded Bengough's Shorthand and Stenc
Toronto, will bring copy Cosmopolit der, best journal in America. Price, $1.
Calendar.

HINERY FOR SALE ENGINES A
ollers. Saw and Shingle Mills, Planing fits, Stave and Heading Machines, w
Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descrip
, and mention what you want. (Mon
c.) H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

TER STAR AUGU
$10 Per Day
WELL BORIN
perior; 20 feet per hour, hard or horse-po boring and rock drilling machine; cred prices and diplomas. Send for Catalogue.
RY STREET, HAMILTON CANADA

PLEASANT SEWIN
—USE ONLY—
berton's Spool Cotton
d FULL Length, and to run smooth as chine. See that CHAPPERTON'S name
For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

CS Beautiful Colored Designs
Flowers, Birds, Animals
Etc., printed on Burlap (Ch
to be worked in rags, yarn,
and retail. Large discount to dealers
Send to manufacturer for catalogue.
R. W. ROSS, Guelph, O

IES PARK & SON
ork Packers, Toronto

acon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon
Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dri
ak'fast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Po Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Po tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of dge Salt in Stock

Line Royal Mail Steamship
during winter from Portland every Tue Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpo Londonderry to land mails and passeng nd and Ireland Also from Baltimore, nd St. John's, N.F., to Liverpool fortnig nnver months. The steamers of the Gl sail during winter to and from Halif
Boston and Philadelphia; and duri een Glasgow and Montreal, weekly;
Boston weekly, and Glasgow and Philad ightly
ght, passage, or other information apply
nacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co
Shea & Co., St John's, N.F.; Wm. Thom
, St. John, N.B.; Allan & Co., Chicag
lden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toron
Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Pa
H. A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

BUY THE IPROVED CONBOY
rriage Tops
EY ARE THE MOST STYLISH
NIENT, AND MOST DURABL
TOP IN THE MARKET.
are over Twenty Thousand of the w in use, and are giving be tion than any other.
manufacturer of these Celebrate e Tops, owns more patents for ents, and makes a greater variet y other firm in Canada or the States.
RE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADI
E BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CAN
PASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY W
APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.
TORY & SALEROOM
to 418 King St. West,
TORONTO.

The Standard.

MARKDALE DECEMBER 3, 1885

THE DAIRY INTERESTS.

The cheese and butter making operations for the season of '85 being about closed, it is now a proper time to count the costs, and if possible, to devise plans by which a greater profit may be realized from the dairy during the coming year.

It is a fact patent to every observing farmer, that year by year the dairy interest is receiving increased attention, and while the results have been, on the whole, satisfactory, when compared with the profits from grain crops, yet there's room for improvement. As far as the cheese manufacturing is concerned, Canada holds a prominent and enviable position. Canadian cheese commands the highest price in foreign markets, not so the butter, however. Why is this? We think the reason is plain, viz., cheese is manufactured on scientific principles; factories are built for the purpose, the machinery used is made for the business, and of the most improved kind; every gallon of milk is tested on entering the factory as to its purity; and last, but not least, the manufacturer or foreman, must be a practical cheese maker, who has gone through his apprenticeship and thoroughly learned his business. We venture to say that if Canadian cheese was made in the same manner as the great bulk of butter, our reputation in foreign markets would be in as bad a state to-day as it is for butter. There are certainly many good butter makers in the country, yet how extremely difficult a matter it is to secure even a small supply of palatable butter for home consumption. Why should this be the case? The fact of the matter is, farmers cannot afford to provide proper ways and means for the manufacture of butter. It would require a very considerable outlay, and the profits from six or even a dozen cows would not warrant such an expenditure, hence the difficulty cannot be overcome in this way. What means can then be adopted? We believe that until the country is dotted with creameries or butter factories, as it is now with cheese factories, the present very unsatisfactory state of affairs must continue. Cheese factories have wrought a wonderful improvement in the dairy business, and will continue to fill a felt want, yet we find from statistics that there is more butter made than before cheese factories were known, even in our immediate vicinity. Our Markdale cheese factory has turned out this season nearly 1,400 boxes, or 90,205 lbs., yet there is as much butter marketed this season as there was before the cheese factory was established, showing clearly that more attention is being paid to this class of farming. The butter factories would not therefore conflict with cheese making, but would save farmers the expense of each providing for himself a proper way for the manufacture of butter, as a little more than the expense which one farmer would require to make, would answer a whole neighborhood, and besides, the quality of butter would be so improved as to add fully one-third to the price realized, which would far more than pay for all the cost of manufacture. It cannot be expected that a tub of butter can be made with uniform color and taste, which requires four or five weeks to make it, while on the other hand, a creamery would turn out a dozen or twenty tubs at one churning.

This question is of vital importance to the farmer, and none the less to the merchant, and we trust they may discuss the matter, not only verbally, but through the press. Our columns are open, and we will be glad to have your opinion.

New and Renewed Subs.

David Wark, Calkensvill, Mich., Jan. '87.

Jas. Norris, Markdale, Jan. '86.

W. G. Richards, Markdale, Jan. '86.

John Hutchinson, Vandeleur, Sep. '86.

James Greenaway, Lily Oak, (new) Jan. '87.

Robt. Montgomery, (new) Markdale, Jan. '86.

W. G. Dunbar, Williamsford, Dec. '85.

THE Sunday School Papers published by Mr. Blackett Robinson, Toronto, are well adapted for Canadian schools. They are three in number, beautifully illustrated, well printed and at low prices. Send for specimen numbers, which are sent free of postage on application.

EIGHT AT ONCE.

Execution of Indian Murderers at Battleford.

THE LAST TRAGEDY IN CONNECTION WITH THE LATE REBELLION.

BATTLEFORD, Nov. 27.—Eight Indians concerned in the Frog Lake massacre were hanged here at 8.15 this morning. There was no hitch whatever.

The court sentenced eleven to death, but on Saturday night a respite came for Charlebois, alias Ducharme, and Dressy Man, who killed a crazy woman in Big Bear's camp; and Louison Mougrain, who shot a mounted policeman at Pitt, had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.

At 7.30 o'clock each man was pinioned, and guarded on either side, marched to the scaffold, taking his place on the trap. When they were asked if they had anything to say, Wandering Spirit began to speak in his native tongue, acknowledging that he deserved death. He warned his people not to make war on the whites, as they were their friends. He told of the Frog Lake massacre and took the burden of the crime upon himself. He was followed by Miserable Man, who spoke in the same strain. When he had concluded the savages, who had remained quiet throughout the speeches, except to exclaim "How!" at various periods during Wandering Spirits address, when they coincided in his views. Then they began to chant their death song to show that they did not fear death. All the while the priests could be heard reciting prayers. The chanting of the savages continued even after the white caps had been adjusted, and in the midst of their song the bolt was drawn and all fell together, everyone apparently dying instantly.

Dr. Rolph examined the bodies and pronounced life extinct. After hanging fifteen minutes the bodies were cut down and put in coffins and handed over to the coroner and jury. All the arrangements had been calculated with precision, and as a result the execution occurred without any mishap.

The Indians who stood at a distance and witnessed the affair were very quiet, and the silence was only broken by the wailing of the wives of the condemned men. The savages generally set out for their reserves after the execution, and those who remain show no special signs of excitement.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Afflictions, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Dability and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Saturday, Dec. 12th, at Queen's Hotel, Williamsford, valuable village property, grain warehouse, &c. Geo. Noble, auctioneer; William Lucas, trustee.

Friday, Dec. 4th, at one o'clock, Mr. Thomas Campbell will sell on his premises adjoining Markdale, a large quantity of live stock, farm implements, &c. He has rented his farm, and will sell without reserve. See posters for particulars. Geo. Noble, auctioneer.

Friday, Dec. 11th, on lot 18, con. 1, Euphrasia, an extensive sale of farm stock, implements, &c. Terms, 12 months on approved paper on sums over $5. Mrs. Mary Stevens, proprietoress. W. J. Shepherdson, auctioneer,

BRONCHITIS.

Bronchitis comes from Colds and irritations of the Throat; Hoarseness, Cough and Sore Throat are its characteristics. These troubles may be remedied by a timely use of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

YOU INVITE DISEASE when you neglect a regular action of the bowels, and incurable disease may result. Regulate the bowels and the entire system with Burdock Blood Bitters, which acts upon the Bowels, Stomach, Liver and Blood.

Farmers' Institutes.

With the object of encouraging the formation of Farmers' Institutes in the Province, and of securing a degree of permanency for them, the Commissioner of Agriculture obtained from the Legislative Assembly last session authority to make a grant of twenty-five dollars yearly to one such institute in each electoral district. The grant however, is conditioned upon an equal sum being voted by the County Council of the county within which the electoral district is situated, and subject to the following regulations, framed and approved by the commissioner:

1. That each institute shall be composed of not less than fifty members, who shall each pay a fee of not less that twenty-five cents annually.

2. That there shall be an executive, or board of management, consisting of a president, a vice-president, a secretary and five or more directors, and a majority of the board shall be practical farmers.

3. That the institute shall hold at least two meetings each year, in different parts of the electoral district, for the discussion of agricultural subjects.

The proposition of the commissioner was submitted to the various county councils of the province by a circular issued last May, and the hope expressed that action would be taken upon it at the June sessions.

It is understood that in many counties the necessary appropriation has been made and that already a number of institutes have been organized; but in order that any institute may benefit by the grants of this year it is essential that two meetings be held before the close of the year, as provided in No. 3 of the commissioner's regulations.

The professors of the agricultural college will be able to assist at a limited number of those meetings in December, at twelve or fifteen in January, 1886, and at others occasionally, as their duties at the college may allow.

A. BLUE,
Assistant Commissioner.

Farmers' Institutes.

FINAL ARRANGEMENT OF THE PROGRAMME FOR THE WINTER MONTHS.

Guelph, Nov. 27.—It has now been finally arranged that the professors of the Ontario Agricultural College will assist in holding farmers' institutes during the coming winter as follows:—

Eastern division—At Newmarket on the 22nd and 23rd December; Collingwood, January 4th and 5th; Lindsay, 6th and 7th; Bobcageon, 8th and 9th; Almonte, 11th and 12th; Renfrew, 13th and 14th; Iroquois, 15th and 16th; Gananoque, 18th and 19th; Belleville, 20th and 21st; Picton, 22nd and 23rd; St. George, 29th and 30th.

Western division—At Brantford on the 22nd and 23rd December; Drayton, January 4th and 5th; Lamlash, 6th and 7th; Owen Sound, 8th and 9th; Markdale, 11th and 12th; Seaforth, 13th and 14th; Simcoe, 15th and 16th; Middlemarch, 18th and 19th; Thamesville, 20th and 21st; Watford, 22nd and 33rd; Georgetown 29th and 30th.

All correspondence as to details will be attended to by Mr. Mills, the president of the college.—Mail.

New Advertisements.

A Proclamation—American Agriculturist.

New Stationery & Fancy Goods Store—Mrs. Williams.

Furs & Skins—Geo. W. Goernflo, Hamilton.

Horse for Sale.—A. Turner & Co.

Berkshire Boar—B. Coleman.

Strayed—Jas. Greenaway.

Farm for Sale—James Boyd.

Notices of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, twenty five cents.

MARRIAGES.

PEDLAR—MCKEE.—By Rev. A. Wilson, on the 25th ult., at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Richard Pedlar, to Miss Margaret R. McKee, all of Artemesia.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 80	to	0 89
Barley	35	to	56
Peas	50	to	54
Oats	25	to	27
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	4 00	to	4 25
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	19	to	18

TO THE PUBLIC.

—:o:—

We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

—:o:—

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885. 265-tf

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE

Office & Infirmary: MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but if further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT.

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

1842.)--A PROCLAMATION.--(1886.

Know Ye, Know Ye All! Men, women and children—that the great staff of editors, who, headed by Dr. George Thurber, have kept the American Agriculturist at the front for twenty-five years, are now re-enforced by Chester P. Dewey and Seth Green, the Fish Culturist. We propose to add to the hundreds of thousands of homes, in which the

American Agriculturist

is read, and revered from the Atlantic to the Pacific as an old time friend and counselor, We are accordingly enlarging the

Hearth, Household, and Juvenile Departments,

and adding other features, so that it is to be from this time onward, essentially a Home Periodical, as well as being devoted to Agriculture and Horticulture. Every person who immediately sends us $1.50, the subscription price, and 15 cents for postage on book, making $1.65 in all, will receive the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for 1886, and the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST LAW BOOK, just published,—a Compendium of every-day Law for Farmers, Mechanics, Business men, Manufacturers, etc., enabling every one to be his own lawyer. It is a large volume, weighing one pound and a half, and elegantly bound in Cloth and Gold. The American Agriculturist

WANTS THE EARTH

to yield bigger returns by increasing its great army of readers. We distributed 60,000 Presents to those who aided in the work last year, and we are planning to give 100,000 Presents to workers this year. Send for Confidential Terms for workers, then you forward your subscription. Subscription price, $1.50 a year: single numbers, 15 cts. ☞ Send 6 Cents for mailing you grand double number of the American Agriculturist just out, and sample pages with table of contents of Law Book.

Canvassers -:- Wanted -:- Everywhere.

Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN HORICULTURIST, 751 Broadway, New York

DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't. 273-75 SAM'L BURRHAM, Sec'y.

The American Agriculturist

For December, 1885,

is the largest number issued during its half century existence. It contains a large number of full page and smaller illustrations, executed by Edwin Forbes, Bennett, and other well-known artists. D. D. T. Moore writes on "Seasonable Duties of Farmers;" Seth Green descants on "Farmers and Fish Culture;" Chester P. Dewey discourses upon "The Milk Supply of Cities;" Jos. Harris writes about "Our Apple Harvest;" Mason C. Weld discourses upon "Cross breed Beef Cattle;" Dr. Geo. Thurber contributes numerous articles on horticulture. Henry Stewart writes on "Fruit in Southern States;" Andrew S. Fuller tells how to secure early fruitage from grafts and cuttings of fruit trees; D. W. King presents drawings of a cheap house adapted to either village or country. The Household and Children's Departments are unusually interesting, while the Humbug Department exposes several new frauds. There are numerous illustrations and descriptions of Farm Contrivances, Noted Horses, Celebrated Cattle, Pigs, Sheep, etc., etc. Terms, $1.50 per year; Single numbers, 15 cts.

KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Much is blamed upon the Kidneys when people are ill and suffer from weak and painful back, etc. If you regulate the Liver and Blood with Burdock Blood Bitters, the Kidneys will soon resume a right action. Burdock Blood Bitters cleanses the whole system, Kidneys included.

Qualification of Voters.

The qualifications of an elector under the Franchise Bill of the Parliament of Canada are as follows:

1 Tenancy, $20 per annum.

2 Owner occupant or tenant—cities. $300; towns, $200; counties, $150.

3. Sons of owners, if value of property sufficient to otherwise qualify.

4. Fisherman owner of real property and fishing appliances worth $150.

5. Income or earnings amounting to $300.

And for the Legislature of Ontario the following parties are entitled to vote:

1. Every householder.

2. Owner, tenant and occupant in cities and towns assessed for $300.

3. Owner tenant or occupant in townships and villages $10.

4. All sons of owners or tenants in cities or towns assessed for $400.

5. All sons of owners or tenants in townships or villages assessed for $200.

6. Incomes assessed for $250.

7. Wage earners, $250.

A LIVING QUESTION.

Question—'Is this life worth living?' Answer—'It all depends upon the liver?' If torpid or inactive it causes a dull, tough, languid feeling. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure gives health and buoyancy. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

Scalding Pigs in a Hogshead.

A hogshead or big barrel, is often the handiest thing a farmer has to scald his pigs in. When it is inclined to one side, and the pigs are slid into it from a wood sled, used for a scraping table, it works very well, but the small quantity of water it will hold when in this position soon gets cold, or too cool, and long delays are often caused if many pigs are to be scalded. To avoid this delay, and use the hogshead in an upright position, a lever may be rigged like a well sweep, using a crotched stick for the post, and a strong pole for the sweep, a white oak stick—such as every farmer who can do so, should have laid up to season. The iron rod on which the sweep moves must be strong and stiff. A trace chain is attached to the upper end, and if the end of the chain has a ring instead of a hook it will be quite as convenient. In use, a table is improvised, unless a strong one for the purpose is at hand, and this is set near the barrel. A noose is made with the chain about the leg of the pig, and he is soused in, going entirely under water, lifted out when the bristles start easily, and laid upon the table, while another is made ready.—American Agriculturist for December.

FLUID LIGHTNING.

All sufferers from the terrible torment, neuralgia, can be made happy in one moment by a single application of Fluid Lightning briskly rubbed on painful parts, and without using any disgusting medicine day after day with little or no result. Fluid Lightning so cures as effectually Toothache, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Headache, and is only 25 cents per bottle at Hill Bro's.

UBLIC.

R SHOP in connection
ement of Mr. Kay, well
purpose turning out a llence at prices which

ly & Expeditiously.

y Goods, Boots & Shoes
the shoddy men who

TRIAL.
cents per barrel.
ROWN & CO.
265-tf

N, V. S.,
eterinary College.

Horses Examined
For Soundness and Certificates
Given.

EPT & DISPENSED
HARGES MODERATE.
MARKDALE.

NCE'S
ye-Glasses
ARTICLES
RKET.
t in stock.
prove Genuineness.

have been received from the
Vice-President of the Medical llege of Physicians and Sur-ty of Laval University; the ncil of Nova Scotia, &c., &c. ent to prove their qualities

Chemists and Druggists,
ONT.
y can be obtained.
c principle.

TION.--(1886.
l children—that the great staff of e American Agriculturist at the by Chester P. Dewey and Seth ndreds of thousands of homes, in

culturist
an old time friend and counselor.
g the hlie Departments,
me onward, essentially a Home and Horticulture. Every person price, and 15 cents for posting
AGRICULTURIST for 1886, and t published,—a Compendium of anufacturers, etc., enabling every g one pound and a half, and el-turist

EARTH
aders. We distributed 60,000
d we are planning to give 100,- dential Terms for workers, when 0 a year: single numbers, 15 cts.
r of the American Agriculturist,
ntents of Law Book.
:- Everywhere-
, 751 Broadway, New York.
M'L BURRHAM, Supt.

The American Agriculturist

For December, 1885,

is the largest number issued during its half century existence. It contains a large number of full page and smaller illustrations, executed by Edwin Forbes, Bennett, and other well-known artists. D. D. T. Moore writes on "Seasonable Duties of Farmers;" Sam Green descants on "Farmers and Their Culture;" Chester P. Dewey discourses upon "The Milk Supply of Cities;" Jos. Harris writes about "Our Apple Harvest;" Mason C. Weld discourses upon "Cross breed Beef Cattle;" Dr. Geo. Thurber contributes numerous articles on horticulture. Henry Stewart writes on "Fruit in Southern States;" Andrew S. Fuller tells how to secure early fruitage from grafts and cuttings of fruit trees; D. W. King presents drawings of a cheap house adapted to either village or country. The Household and Children's Departments are unusually interesting, while the Humbug Department exposes several new frauds. There are numerous illustrations and descriptions of Farm Contrivances, Noted Horses, Celebrated Cattle, Pigs, Sheep, etc., etc. Terms, $1.50 per year; Single numbers, 15 cts.

KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Much is blamed upon the Kidneys when people are ill and suffer from sick and painful backs, etc. If you regulate the Liver and Blood with Burdock Blood Bitters, the Kidneys will soon resume a right action. Burdock Blood Bitters cleanses the whole system, Kidneys included.

Qualification of Voters.

The qualifications of an elector under the Franchise Bill of the Parliament of Canada are as follows:

1 Tenancy, $20 per annum.

2 Owner occupant or tenant—cities, $300; towns, $200; counties, $150.

3. Sons of owners, if value of property sufficient to otherwise qualify.

4. Fisherman owner of real property and fishing appliances worth $150.

5. Income or earnings amounting to $300.

And for the Legislature of Ontario the following parties are entitled to vote:

1. Every householder.

2. Owner, tenant and occupant in cities and towns assessed for $300.

3. Owner tenant or occupant in townships and villages $10.

4. All sons of owners or tenants in cities or towns assessed for $400.

5. All sons of owners or tenants in townships or villages assessed for $300.

6. Incomes assessed for $250.

7. Wage earners, $250.

A LIVING QUESTION.

Question—'Is this life worth living?' Answer—'It all depends upon the liver.' If torpid or inactive it causes a dull, tough, languid feeling. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure gives health and buoyancy. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

Scalding Pigs in a Hogshead.

A hogshead or big barrel, is often the handiest thing a farmer has to scald his pigs in. When it is inclined to one side, and the pigs are slid into it from a wood sled, used for a scraping table, it works very well, but the small quantity of water it will hold when in this position soon gets cold, or too cool, and long delays are often caused if many pigs are to be scalded. To avoid this delay, and use the hogshead in an upright position, a lever may be rigged like a well sweep, using a crotched stick for the post, and a strong pole for the sweep, a white oak stick—such as every farmer who can do so, should have laid up to season. The iron rod on which the sweep moves must be strong and stiff. A trace chain is attached to the upper end, and if the end of the chain has a ring instead of a hook it will be more as convenient. In use, a table is improvised, unless a strong one for the purpose is at hand, and this is set near the barrel. A noose is made with the chain about the leg of the pig, and he is soused in, going entirely under water, lifted out when the bristles start easily, and laid upon the table, while another is made ready.—American Agriculturist for December.

FLUID LIGHTNING.

All sufferers from the terrible torment, Neuralgia, can be made happy in one moment by a single application of Fluid Lightning briskly rubbed on painful parts, and without using any disgusting medicine day after day with little or no result. Fluid Lightning also cures as effectually Toothache, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Headache, and is only 25 cents per bottle at Hill Bro's. 1

Sir John A Man Of Iron.

The efforts of our esteemed contemporary, the Herald, to save Riel, have proved abortive, for he was hanged this morning. Its last resources, an examination of some of the books "on the subject of treason and rebellion" in the British museum library by its London correspondents, was no more successful than its numerous editorial articles or the treats of the French sympathizers in Canada. The Canadian Premier must be an iron man to read the Herald through every morning, as he undoubtedly does, an yet go on as if he never saw a copy of it. But the truth probably is that he felt, as most unprejudiced observers must, that a man who has stirred up two rebellions, neither of which had the smallest chance of success, ought either to be made the head of the political community, or permanently removed from human society. Riel, in his first affair in 1869, committed a most foul murder on an unarmed prisoner, came near causing a great deal of bloodshed, and put the Dominion to great expense, and dragged a large number of young men from their homes for two or three months. Yet he was forgiven and allowed to go about his business. He has now repeated the offence, this time getting the Indians to join him, or, in other words, letting loose bands of savages or defenceless frontier settlements. They committed one dreadful massacre at Frog Lake, and, under his leadership, engaged in three or four fights with the troops. The general result was that on the Government side 67 men were killed and 119 wounded. The killed were mostly young business men who were serving in the militia. It a man ought ever to be hanged for taking other men's lives and making their homes desolate Riel certainly deserved his fate. To dignify his operations with the name of war is absurd. Doubtless the half-breeds have grievances, and Riel is a little of a crank, but cranks have to be kept in order if civil society is to be kept together. Any crank who has sense enough to head an armed revolt has sense enough to be hanged when he does it twice.

A LIVER CURE.

One single trial of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will convince the most skeptical and confirm better than thousands of testimonials that it is a sure cure. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Dec.

Brown Crushed.

Yesterday a constable found two stylishly dressed young women and a young man fighting on Queen street and lodged them in No. 2 police station, where they give their names as Fred and Maggie Collins and Jennie Carlyle, and this morning they were each fined $1 and costs or thirty days. As Collins had about $60 with him the magistrate sent Detective Brown into the corridor to warn Collins against keeping the company of the women if he wanted to keep his money.

Brown rushed into the corridor, and grabbing Mr. Collins, remarked, "Look here, young fellow, you want to steer clear of these women or you may get into trouble again."

Maggie eyed Brown curiously for a moment and sweetly lisped, "Sir, he ith my huthband."

Brown was crushed.—Toronto News.

HORSEMEN, ATTENTION!

When your horse is galled, scratched or cut, or has an ugly sore, bathe twice daily, and apply McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is undoubtedly the finest healing and cleansing application for it. Be sure you get McGregor & Parke's. Sold for 25c. per box, at Hill Bro's. 1

FOR SALE,

A FIRST-CLASS Driving Mare, eight years old, sound and true. Apply at Medical Hall.

273-74 A. TURNER & CO.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

I HAVE just purchased a fine Berkshire Bear, 15 months old, for service at my premises. Charges, $1.00 cash.

273-77 B. COLEMAN.

STRAYED,

FROM the premises of the undersigned, lot 16, con. 10, Holland, last week, one red cow with piece cut off both horns; year old bull spotted red and white; yearling heifer, red; and a red and white bull calf. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery, will be suitably rewarded.

JAMES GREENAWAY,
Williamsford P.O.

273-75

Farm for Sale.

150 ACRES North ½ of lot No. 18, con. 8, Euphrasia, 100 acres cleared and under cultivation, 60 acres of which is fit for reaper and mower, fenced with cedar rails, well watered, log house and frame barn. The uncleared portion is hardwood, with sufficient cedar for fencing purposes. Soil clay loam, and almost free from stone. This is a desirable farm and will be sold on easy terms. Church and school convenient. Distance from Markdale, 9 miles; from Rocklyn, 3 miles. For further particulars apply to

JAMES BOYD,
273-tf Rocklyn P. O.

FURS AND SKINS.

I WILL pay the highest price for all kinds of Furs & Skins and Wild Game that is shipped to me. Send for price-list.

GEO. W. GOERNELO,
273-2m Hamilton, Ont.

Card of Thanks.

Friends in Need are Friends in deed.

I BEG herewith to return my sincere thanks to the citizens of Markdale and vicinity for their many expressions of deep sympathy and practical assistance in my late misfortune.

Yours very respectfully,
MRS. H. GILL.

Flouring Mills to Rent.

THE well known "Speeton Mills," within one an a half miles of Flesherton, to rent on very reasonable terms.

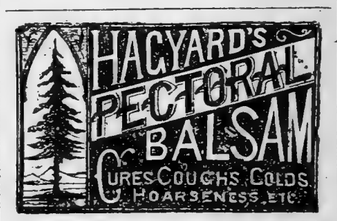
Apply to the executors,

JOHN W. ARMSTRONG,
WILLIAM CLAYTON,
JOHN BOLAND,

Flesherton, Nov. 25, 1885.

Store to Rent in Makaale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or



JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

BARRHEAD -:- MILLS

Now In Full Blast.

Having raised my mill-dam five feet and thoroughly overhauled my grist mill, I am now in a position to turn out all work in a satisfactory manner.

Bring along your logs and we will give you your lumber home with you; also Shingles cut on short notice. Gristing and Chopping done better than heretofore.

270 W. J. ROWE.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 181 & 183 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 273-1y

NEW STATIONERY

—AND—

Fancy Goods

EMPORIUM.

Mrs. Williams has opened a new stock of Stationery and Fancy Goods in

DUNLOP'S OLD STAND

MARKDALE

PAPER,
ENVELOPES,
PENCILS,
SLATES,
PENS,
INK,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
POCKET BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
TOYS, &c., &c.

Head quarters for the celebrated

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

TEACHER WANTED.

FOR S. S. No. 16, Euphrasia township, duties to commence 1st January. Applications received up to noon 5th December. State certificate held and salary wanted.

D. B. ELLIS,
Kimberley P. O.
271-73 Sec.-Treas.

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.

270-77 J. HANSON.

Peerless Oil!

Ahead of All Competitors.

Highest Honors & Gold Medal at Toronto.

SIX GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YEARS—BEST RECORD IN THE WORLD.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Ask for PEERLESS and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.,

Queen City Oil Works,
TORONTO, ONT.

TENDERS.

SEALED tenders will be received at this office, up to noon the 7th December for Sexton for the new Methodist Church. Specifications of duties may be seen at this office. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

C. W. BUTLEDGE,
271-72 Sec.-Treas.

ESTRAY.

A WHITE ewe lamb came to the premises of Samuel Douglas, lot 1, con. 9, Euphrasia, about the 20th October. The owner can have it by proving property, paying expenses.

SAMUEL DOUGLAS,
Markdale, P. O.
272-73

SavE MoneY

By buying your

Watches,
Clocks,
Jewelry,
Spectacles,
Pipes, &c.

—AT—

JAS. G. RUSSELL'S

FLESHERTON.

A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.

217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

HIGH SCHOOL

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the next Entrance Examination to High Schools for the County of Grey, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd and 23rd days of December, 1885, at the Town of Owen Sound, the Village of Markdale and the Village of Thornbury respectively. It is requested that the probable number of Candidates from each locality shall be notified to me one month antecedent to the first of the above dates.

THOMAS GORDON,
Inspector W. Grey.
Markdale, 27th October, 1885. 16-402

SAVE MONEY! CHEAP READING!!

THE STANDARD

AND THE

RURAL CANADIAN,

From now till 1st January, 1887,

FOR THE SMALL SUM OF $1.50.

By an arrangement with the publisher of the Rural Canadian, now in its ninth year of publication, we are enabled to offer both papers for $1.50. The regular price of the two is $2.

The Rural Canadian is a monthly illustrated magazine for the Farm and Home. The following are the leading Departments:—Farm and Field; Horses and Cattle; The Dairy; Sheep and Swine; Garden and Orchard; Bees and Honey; Poultry and Pets; Home Circle: The Grange Record; Rural Notes; Household Hints; Young Canada; Scientific and Useful. The music given from month to month is worth the price of several years' subscription.

The Bobcaygeon Independent styles the Rural "The agricultural authority of the Dominion."

The Cobourg World says: "One of the best papers of the kind published on the continent."

☞ SUBSCRIBE NOW

And get

BALANCE OF YEAR FREE.

NOTICE.

THE High School Entrance Examination will be held at Durham, in the Public School building on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd & 23rd of December, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. each day. Candidates are requested to send their names to the undersigned on or before the 1st December.

JAMES WINTERBORNE,
Head Master, Durham Public School.

STRAYED

FROM the premises of the subscriber, last June, 3 yearling steers, two red, with little white spots, one having its ears partly frozen off the third brindle. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery will be suitably rewarded.

W. J. BROWN,
Harkaway, P. O.

A Cyclone in Mid-Ocean.

BY THOMAS S. COLLIER.

Hist!

The night was dark, with heavy black clouds lying close down to the water, along whose restless mass of foaming, phosphorlit waves the wind soughed with that peculiar tone which surely foretells of a deepening of the tempest.

We were riding out a cyclone in the middle Indian ocean, and the bell had struck four, telling that the first watch was half gone, when this word was uttered close to my ear.

The voice was that of my chum, Jack Walsh, as good a sailor as ever trod a deck. Standing by my side during the two preceding hours, he had watched with me while the Northern Light, the ship of whose crew we formed a part, drove wildly on through the mad tumult of the waters.

"Hist! that was a gun."

A cold shudder swept over me, and for a moment my heart stood still, for if the sullen boom we had heard was, as Jack said, the report of a gun, it meant but one thing, which was, that near us somewhere amid that turmoil of wind and wave men like ourselves were battling against a death that stared them in the face.

And we were not the only ones who had heard and recognized the message, for as we stood straining our eyes to see if we could discover the vessel that was signaling the mate on watch joined us.

"Did you hear a gun?" he asked.

"Yes," answered Jack.

"And could you tell the direction of the sound?"

"No but it must have been somewhere to the windward."

"Let us watch for the next discharge, for if anything can be done to save life the Northern Light will not prove a laggard in the work."

Again our eyes turned to the rough ocean lying about us and we watched the dark expanse with an intentness that was painful.

"There!"

It was Jack again, and as he spoke a sudden light flashed and faded along the waves, and the dull boom sounded out again, nearer to us, and clearer than before.

"Quick! answer with our starboard gun, and let the poor devils know that friends are near. I will go aft and tell the captain.

Jack and I struggled over to the gun, which was loaded, and removing the tarpaulin that covered it, threw back the lock and pulled the lanyard. The sharp report that followed brought the watch below up from their snug quarters in the fo'castle, and the next moment we heard the captain's voice shouting out the orders that quickly brought the ships head close to the wind, and held it there for the Northern Light worked like a yacht.

The wind allows no leisure to those who battle with it, and knowing this we worked on, giving no heed to the vessel we sought to help. Enough for us was the knowledge that our officers were determined to clear the way for aresene, if this were possible.

When the ship was laid to we turned our eyes to the windward, and just at the moment that a broad glare of light shone out illuminating a large vessel tossed on the crest of a large and angry wave.

We could see that she was not of Canadian build, and that her fore and mizzen masts were gone, and that she was laboring heavily. We knew, too, though we could not see this, that the seas had made sad havoc with the hull, and though we could not distinguish the faces of those moving about in the circle of light we felt that they were filled with anxious forebodings.

"Burn a red light," cried the captain, "and men lay aft to mainmast."

We did so, and even before we were all gathered at the place named, the second mate had the red light blazing on the quarter.

"My men," said Capt. Skewet, as he joined us at the main fife-rail, "you have all seen the ship yonder, and know that her people are in danger. It is a bad night, and a worse sea, what shall we do?"

"Save them if we can, and make the effort at any rate," said Jack Walsh, and several of the men responded.

"Yes, that is the way."

"I knew you would be true to the flag and the reputation our sailors have won, and now I want twelve volunteers for the life-boat."

We all volunteered.

"Thank you, my men, but some of us must stay behind to keep ship, and be ready to help those who go in the boat. I shall go with them, and if you agree will choose the crew."

We all cried out for him to do this, and he said: "You, Walsh, will act as coxswain," and then he took half of the crew from each watch, and when all was chosen, told us to man the boat.

The Northern Light carried a new and thorough life-boat, with a patent apparatus for lowering, but even with this the danger of tempting the sea and wind on such a night would have been apparent to the veriest landsman.

Still while we looked with anxious eyes to the dark and restless turmoil about us, we grasped our oars firmly, and waited for the word that would place our lives almost within the jaws of death.

We heard the captain give directions concerning a whip to be placed on the cross-jack yard, and a line that was to be boomed out from forward, and then he climbed into the boat, and the first and second mates took the falls and at his command, lowered away promptly. Fortunately the boat had swung on the lee side, and we got away safely, but now came the struggle, for the wind and sea were both against us and often we seemed powerless to stem their strength.

The captain helped, and Walsh kept a steady hand on the steering oar, and we knew that, though making but little headway, we were nearing the stranger, for the wind was drifting her down toward us.

"Here she is," cried the captain, "and a sailor commands her, for see, he has brought her to, and formed a lee for us to work in.

A bright blaze flashed out, and burned steadily, and as its radiance ran on and showed us, a cheer came from the ship and a voice hailed, "What shall I do?" it asked.

With a rapid glance our captain took in the situation, the main yard was still across, and preventer brace was up.

"Let me have the end of your main preventer," he cried, "and keep the standing part fast, to bows, and look out for the line."

The order was promptly obeyed, and the people of the ship were as quick to do what had been shouted to them, and in a little time the end of brace was grasped by four strong hands.

"Now let the strokes lay in their oars, and the rest of the crew keep theirs going; watch your line, my men, and keep the boat steady, and you, Walsh, manage her, for I must look out for the people."

Clear answers told him that all was as he wished, and then he shouted to the captain of the wreck: "Now throw me a line from your bulwark and let your people slide down it. How many have you?"

"There are but eight left, and two are women."

"Send them on."

"Aye, aye! I will, look out."

A rope fell across my arm as the word came, and I grasped it.

"Now hold it firm," cried the captain, "and I will look out for the people."

This was to the after oarsmen, of whom I was one, and we grasped the line with a firm hold.

"Here comes one," said the captain, "by Jove, that skipper is a trump."

The words were barely uttered before a woman's form came swiftly down the line, sitting in a bight attached to a block that had a whip ready to haul it back, and it was this arrangement that had elicited our captain's approval.

"Cut the sling," shouted the commander of the wreck, "I have others ready?"

It took but a short time, following this direction, to get all of the stranger's people into the boat, and when the captain, who came last, slid down the rope and was hauled in by our skipper, the later said: "Now stand by to put off, get out your oars strokes. The bows will keep theirs in, and be ready to take our line; stand by to let go from the wreck. Now, give way with the starboard oars! Give way together! Let go!"

And swinging around, the boat swept out from the protection she had found in the lee of the drifting ship, and began her strife with the sea once more.

And now came the hardest part of our toil, for with her heavier load the stout craft was less buoyant, though she rode the sea well and seemed to know that more human trust relied on her strength than had put faith in such a craft before.

Capt. Skewet had taken his position by side of Walsh, and kept his eye on the light that shone a lurid guideon the bow of Northern Light.

Suddenly a heavy squall struck us, and the wind swirled and shrieked about us until it seemed that it would wrench the oars from our hands.

"Bend to it, boys," cried the captain, and then, as we put all of the strength we possessed in our effort we heard him say to Walsh: "My God! I have lost the light.'

A shudder, cold as the keen wind that brings the first snow, chilled us. What if we should be swept past the ship, and carried on into the seething hell beyond. There was but one end to such a fate, and that was death.

The darkness had grown in density, but the great force of the wind helped us, beating down the sea. We knew that this would last but a short time, and that a madder frenzy of the water would follow, and oh, how we longed for a gleam that would help us.

The tension of mind that was ours in those few moments is seldom equaled.

Where was the Northern Light?

Had we passed her?

There was no reply to those questions, unless it was the high shrieking of the squall.

Then, in one of those rapid transitions that seem the result of divine love and care, the sky changed, and, as if torn by the wind, a huge rift parted the clouds, letting the clear radiance of the full moon shine through.

It showed us two things that will never be forgotten—one the Northern Light, lying just ahead; the other the wreck, which, as the moonlight came, suddenly settled by the head, lurched, and disappeared from sight forever.

The squall was sweeping by, but it had served us well, for before the wave rose again we had run to leeward of the ship, the man watching having seen us, and our human freight was quickly transferred to the deck.

The comparative smoothness that had been brought about by the fierce rush of the wind, enabled us to secure the boat with less trouble than we had expected, and just as the day broke, finished the work, and as the cyclone had swept by us, we were able to set sail and keep away on our course.

The people we had rescued were the captain, mate, three seamen, and three passengers of the French ship St. Laurent, bound from Havre to Batavia. The remainder of her crew had been lost when the foreyard went by the board, or were carried away by a sea that followed this accident. In falling, the yard had hit the hull, and this accident caused the leak that sunk the ship.

I have been in several trying scenes since then, but never in one that so thrilled me with the nearness and the power of death.

An Apt Quotation.

A valued lady correspondent in Hamilton relates the following incident, which actually occurred:—

"A little Oakville boy, whose father was away from home, thought he would please him by writing him a letter. He got all the materials ready, and then paused, totally at a loss for something to say. All at once a bright thought struck him. He would astonish his father by writing something out of his new primer and let him see how well he was getting on. So opening the book at random he laboriously copied out the following:—'Is it an ass? It is an ass.' Your son, ROBBIE."

"Yes, my boy, you are correct. The file of a minister of the gospel is very laborious. Between traveling in Europe in summer, going to the White mountains in hay-fever time, and arranging his lecture tour for the winter, he has hard enough work to find time to write an occasional sermon. Hey? O yes, son, there are preachers who don't go to Europe, you bet your boots. Some of them only know of Europe as a land a little farther away than heaven, because they do expect to go to heaven some time. But I wasn't speaking of some preachers. I was thinking of some others."

THE FARM.

Timely and Practical.

HAND-RAISED PIGS.—It is said that it will surely pay to try to rear a young pig by hand, if its mother dies, or if, as sometimes happens, there are more pigs than teats. The pig thus raised will never be any better than a runt, and the additional care given it, if divided among the remainder of the litter, will pay far better.

KEEPING APPLES AND POTATOES IN SAND.—Dry sand is recommended for keeping apples and potatoes in a sound condition. Into a barrel, filled with either of them, sand is poured until all the interstices are filled with it. Parties who have tried this method, say the contents of the barrels are preserved until Spring in a better condition than by any other means they have ever tried.

CELLARS IN THE FALL.—Professor Budd, makes the seasonable suggestion that cellars in which fruit is stored between picking time and the setting in of Winter, should not be opened during the day, but the windows opened during the night, when the air is cooler. The warmer air of the day-time has its moisture precipitated by the cold objects in the cellar, and dampness is engendered.

A WINTER POULTRY-HOUSE.—In building your poultry house for next Winter, you of coarse want to make it warm; but don't forget that fowls need a good supply of fresh, pure air, or disease will attack them. If you are making your walls double, do not fill in with sawdust or tanbark. Leave an air chamber between, making the outside wall close by strips, and the inside ones by felt or paper. Let your ventilator be near the top of the house.

A HINT AS TO HOGS.—An experienced feeder of swine advises that when hogs are taken from grass, or other bulky diet, to be fattened, the change to a more concentrated food should be gradual, as too sudden a change is often attended with serious results. The animal should at first have light food. Bran and other mill stuff, made into slop and given with grain, is good, and if the refuse from the orchard or potato field is given, that, too, will be beneficial, especially if cooked and mixed with the bran, etc.

CARE OF LIVE STOCK.—The farmer should bear in mind that the comfort of his animals is always of first importance and in the line of direct success, observes a writer on stock husbandry. Feed, water and shelter are of equal importance in providing for the comfort of any kind of stock in the Northern States. There the Winters are severe, the water is frozen up, the feed is often buried beneath the snow, and in no way can the stock thrive without shelter and having feed stored and fed to them in the dry state.

LOOK TO YOUR FLOCKS.—Sheep need extra care now, in order that they may reach the cold season in full vigor, especially where wool is the object. If kept in a poor pasture till late, and brought to the barn in thin flesh, it will cost much more to get them into condition than it would to have kept them so. Cotton seed or linseed meal, mixed with an equal weight of bran, giving about a quarter of a pound a day to each sheep, in addition to hay or straw, is one of the best foods to grow wool. Barley, rye and oats are also good, but corn alone is too starchy.

WINTERING TURKEYS.—Turkeys that survive Thanksgiving and Christmas will not require as warm quarters through the Winter as other fowls. However cold the weather, they should be allowed to run out of doors every day, except, perhaps, in very stormy weather. If confined in warm quarters, and not allowed to run out of doors, they usually show signs of indisposition, lose their appetite, become dumpish and inactive, and not unfrequently die. They are very hardy birds and easily wintered. About all they require is a place to roost at night, where they will be out of the wind, with plenty to eat and drink, and their liberty during the day.

DRYING SEED CORN.—The old plan of hanging the seed-corn to the joists of the kitchen by the husks, which had been stripped back and plaited together for the purpose, always seemed to make "seed that would grow," because it was thoroughly dried, says a contemporary. Not many farmers' wives will allow their kitchens to be cluttered up this way nowdays; and so we suggest that the corn be hung in the smoke-house and regularly smoked, like hams. This will secure its thoroughly drying, which is the essential point, and the smoke will tend to keep birds and insects at a respectful distance when planted. But, whatever plan you may adopt, be sure that the seed is thoroughly dried before it is reached by cold weather.

CARE FOR THE COLTS.—Now is the time to make the young colts grow into valuable horses, or so stunt their growth that their value, in comparison with their cost, will be almost nominal, says the Stockman. The colt, if properly cared for now and through the Winter, will grow right along, and come out in the Spring in condition to make rapid headway in development. On the other hand, if it is not properly fed and cared for at this season of its existence, it will soon become "pot-bellied" and stunted; and, if it does not die before Spring, will at least never grow into as valuable a horse as it otherwise would. Nothing on the farm, in fact, pays in cash returns better than so treating the young colts that they will develop into the most valuable animals that their peculiar conformation will allow of.

SCALES ON THE FARM.—Every farmer should have scales whereon to weigh his own produce. In discussing this matter a contemporary pertinently observes that there are many farmers who do not properly estimate the value of being able to weigh upon the farm whatever may be produced thereon, especially that portion to be sold. The dealer in stock who comes to your farm to buy, is estimating and weighing daily, and becomes so expert that he can guess the weight of an animal within a few pounds. The majority of farmers cannot do this. The dealer is going to buy as cheap as he can. He asks the farmer his price. The answer is often made that he does not know what it is really worth; what will he pay for it? The reply is, he cannot buy and sell; you must set its price. If the farmer is really ignorant of its value the dealer soon discovers the fact and acts accordingly.

Heaves, Ringbone, Spavin,

Perfectly Cured by Chapman's Celebrated Formulas. Receipts, with full directions, mailed for One Dollar. CHAPMAN Chemist, London, Ont.

PERFUMED DISINFECTANT SACHETS, placed in Drawers, Trunks, Wardrobes, etc.—They drive away and destroy Moths and other insects, imparting a delightful and delicate perfume to the clothing, carried or worn upon the person they are by their powerful concentrated disinfectant properties, a perfect means of protection against infection of disease, giving off at the same time a most delightful odor; made entirely of satin in assorted colors, very pretty, unique, and neat Every one should have them. Price 10c each—three for 25c Thymo-Cresol Soap, the great English disinfectant toilet soap, awarded the gold medal, London, Eng., 1884. Large cakes, price 15c, or 35c. per box of 3 cakes, sent postage paid to any address upon receipt of price Address THYMO-CRESOL COMPANY, 759 Craig St., Montreal. Circulars and descriptions of our English Thymo-Cresol preparations mailed free on application Agents wanted. Write for terms.

Christmas Cards

BY MAIL

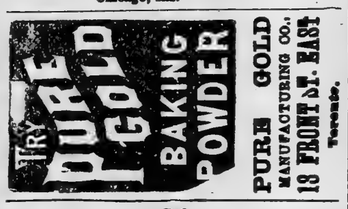
At less than wholesale prices. All well assorted. No two alike, Postage prepaid. BIRTHDAY CARDS may be included. NOT FRINGED. FRINGED.

25 CARDS, good value, for		$ 25	$1 50
25	" larger, "	50	2 25
25	" very fine, "	1.00	3 25

☞ Orders may be proportionately mixed. Cash to accompany order, Address,

Matthews Bros. & Co., Toronto

Free Lands and Cheap Homes



FOR THE MILLION

Along the line of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in Central Dakota and Northern Nebraska. New sections are being opened up and rapidly settled in these wonderfully productive regions, and the "first comers" will have "first choice" of location.

For full information (which will be sent you free of charge) about the free lands and cheap homes, apply to

JOHN H. MORLEY,
Western Canadian Pass. Agent, C. & N. W. R.,
9 York St., Toronto, Ont.

R. S. HAIR, General Pass. Agent,
Chicago, Ills.

ONLY $15. ONLY $15.

'SUN" TYPE-WRITER!

This is not a rubber stamp, but a genuine metal type manifolding machine. Just the thing for clergymen, teachers, business men and others having limited correspondence. As a guarantee that the machine is as represented, I agree to receive it any time within 6 months at price paid in exchange for the Celebrated Remington Perfected Type-Writer.

GEORGE BENGOUGH, Sole Agent,
34 King Street East, Toronto.

CAUTION

EACH PLUG OF THE

MYRTLE NAVY

IS MARKED

T. & B.

IN BRONZE LETTERS

None Other Genuine.

CANADA PERMANENT

LOAN & SAVINGS CO.

Incorporated, A. D. 1855.

Subscribed Capital	$6,000,000
Paid up Capital	2,000,000
Reserve Fund	1,100,000
Total Assets	3,000,000

OFFICE:
Company's Buildings, Toronto Street, Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first-class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to

J. HERBERT MASON,
Managing Director.

CUT THIS OUT!

The New Co-Operative

Sewing Machine

—IS THE—

BEST IN THE MARKET

NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE

Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine now

Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photographs and samples of sewing.

☞ Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial.

An lad wantin a machine will do well to write us

THE CO-OPERATIVE

Sewing Machine Co.

12 JAMES ST SOUTH, HAMILTON

IMPORTANT TO ALL WHO DESIRE MORE LIGHT.

THE HARVEY SAFETY LAMP

Is superior to every other domestic light used, NOT EXCEPTING GAS. This is a Central Draught Burner in GLASS BOWLS in various ornamental designs on metal and glass stands. It consumes but half the quantity of oil that the so-called electric lamp uses. It is the brightest oil lamp ever invented Manufacturers also of the "Solar Star Lamp," in Brass and Nickel. This lamp took FIRST PRIZE and SILVER MEDAL at Toronto's Industrial Exhibition 1885.

HARVEY SAFETY LAMP.—We have been favored with a view of this new petroleum light, and we are strongly convinced of its superiority as a coal oil burner over any lamp yet placed on the market. The air chamber in which the wick-case is suspended has openings at the collar permitting a constant circulation of air downward around the wick-case, thence upward through the wick-case, thus giving a direct central draught. By this arrangement the wick-case is isolated from the oil, a small tube conveying sufficient oil through to the wick. This lamp is constructed upon thoroughly practical and scientific principles, and the result attained is a beautiful, soft white light, which for economy, brilliancy and steadiness is not surpassed by either gas or electricity.—[Toronto Truth.

☞ Correspondence with dealers, and inspection invited.

OFFICE: 9 Adelaide St. West, Toronto

HARVEY & TRUAX

R. HAY & CO.

TORONTO.

LIQUIDATION SALE.

Owing to the failing health of the senior member of our firm we have been obliged to abandon the contemplated continuance of the business.

The manufacturing premises, machinery, &c., have already been sold.

The entire stock of furniture, upholstering material, &c., amounting to over $80,000.00 must be disposed of as speedily as possible.

The furniture is all our own manufacture, and the reputation earned by the firm during the last 50 years is a sufficient guarantee of its quality.

The liquidation being peremptory, dealers and the general public are now afforded such an opportunity as has never occurred heretofore in Canada.

Toronto, 12th Nov., 1885. R. HAY & CO.

FROM THE

BOOT & SHOE MANUFACTURERS

OF MONTREAL.

Whereas the reports of the epidemic in Montreal have, for obvious reasons, been greatly exaggerated, we, the undersigned Boot and Shoe Manufacturers of Montreal, beg to inform the trade and the public generally that our manufacturing establishments are entirely outside and far removed from what is known as the infected District; that the extraordinary precautions taken by us render it extremely improbable that contagion can be carried in our goods; that every employee in our establishment has been vaccinated and re-vaccinated (their families also being vaccinated), and that a thorough examination of the homes of our operatives has been made by competent physicians; and that it is acknowledged by the Medical Faculty that the combination of chemicals used in the tanning, colouring, and finishing of the leather used in Boots and Shoes is in itself a potent disinfectant.

We have also complied with every requirement of the ONTARIO BOARD OF HEALTH, and after close examinations of our factories by Dr. Covernton, their Chief Inspector, we have received his certificates.

(Signed,

AMES, HOLDEN & CO.,
JAMES LISTON & CO.,
JAMES PORHAM & CO.,
JAMES WHITHAM & CO.,
GEO. T. SLATER.

SHARPE & MACKINNON,
JAMES McCREADY & CO.,
R. McCREADY & CO.,
COCHRANE, CASSILS & CO.,
G. BOIVIN.

AN EGYPTIAN P

Story of Love and Wild Adventure, foun
tions in the Career of Ar

the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RE ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER X.

AFFLED VENGEANCE—MATCH-MAKING EX-TRAORDINARY.

aving read this ominous warning our aine crumpled up the paper whereon it written and thrust it into her pocket.
d terribly frightened her, but she deter-ed to tell her mother nothing about it il they had arrived home, so as not to m her needlessly.

ive minutes later they were seated in r well-horsed chariot, but as they were ing into the next street a loud howl er than cry of "Look out there!" caused coachman to curb his horses back almost o their haunches, to escape being run by a four-horsed, painted and gilded page, as grand and tawdry as a London
Mayor's carriage, which flashed past ough the animals that drew it were runaway, yet not so quickly as to prevent e from noticing not only a hideous and ntic black man, dressed in a costume of e, and scarlet, and gold, who was seated e the dusky complexioned and turbaned hman on the box, but also an unveiled le face glaring out upon her from the ext window of the game-pie shaped ve-
, with a face white as a hes, eyes of e, and red, parted lips, the upper of h curled in a sneer above teeth that med like pearls, but which seemed to be ling against each other in a paroxysm potent rage. A moment later galloping es, dusky driver, monster eunuch, and ering vehicle were gone, and only the mbrance of the beautiful but vengeful that had glared through the rattling ow at her, remained to the fair girl;
ut what the mere recollection was ter-enough in itself, for she had recognized an instant by the eyes, and the eyes as that of the lady whom her lover, k Donelly, had saved from the crocoand who had bestowed on him as a rethe ill-omened opal ring.

is she who sent me that cruel threat, written in French, too, so that by no bility I could misunderstand it. Oh, that woman has stolen Frank's heart
me, and not content with that victory, me for even having once possessed it.
ge 'tis that he can care for such a being, though she is so beautiful. I'm sure as a man I should fear her almost as I w, being only a girl."

h were Nellie's thoughts as the coachrestarted his horses and whipped them trot; but they would have taken a terrified form still had she observed nessed the meaning of some swift and anic signs that the ennuch Aga had to some tall, swarthy Bedouins who d part of the motley crowd that had ted to see the Opera House disgorge ght's quota of tired pleasure seekers, y indicating their especial carriage by mb motions and also the paying of eesh.

Bedouins, in their picturesque desert and carrying those arms, which they lay aside, even on entering a mosque, e slipped out of the press and by short with which they were familiar gained ighborhood of the Gate of Victory, they watched and waited.

Mount Carmel equipage meanwhile ly though by a more roundabout route) its way in the same direction, lighted by the moon, for the only street lamps
o are those that immediately front eat public buildings, the principal and the few places of amusement, so dark night's carriages have to trust ir own lamp and pedestrians to their s, which are universally carried; yet of all this, robberies and other crimes, ring periods of popular tumult,
the hot Eastern blood boils over, are unknown.

was not destined to be the case on esent occasion, however, for as the carriage neared the Gate of Victory, is a very lonely and deserted spot in ht time, a group of half a dozen men ly rushed out from its shadow, brand-knives and uttering guttural Arabic , surrounded the carriage, signifying s that death would follow resistance.
, while a couple laid hold of the heads, two more menaced the coach-d footman with leveled rifles, and the ing two burst into the carriage, seized ified occupants, and grasping them
r throats, would, there can be no have slashed them across with their harp knives but for a shrill warning
m their companions of "Cavan! Ca(the gendarmes or police) followed rush of their retreating feet, wherewith muttered ejaculations of chagrin rm, they hastened to make themcarce in turn, happily leaving their unaccomplished.

ladies were in almost a fainting con-when three horsemen surrounded the e in turn, whilst he who was the most clad dismounted, and throwing his one of the others, thrust his head the vehicle and in soothing accents the occupants that all danger was telligence took almost immediate the elder lady, who became profuse hanks to (as she termed him) "her r," but Nellie did not speak, for she sufficiently recovered to do so.

however, recognized in their rescuer ache, the war minister, and instinct t that she had escaped from one y to fall into another, which appre-caused her to lose her senses en-re is nothing to fear," said Arabi, ring the mother become fussily

"Permit me to place her in a more ition, so. Now time will do the t would be more strange if she had ed."

what are we to do?" moaned Mrs.
wringing her hands.

ps the best thing would be to drive home, I and my two orderlies accomyou as a guard. Under our protection you

Ahmed A
"Now Trezarr, lency's of many tha
"It is
dear mad
Then he a
as well as
"If you
sponse, an window a English a quite intel
No the more whip cantered a ridge, with holster fla
"How
makes me with a sig
least terro
"I am d grieve th
the same p ful child's
"It is w
you would
"I think
fear that n
fluence her was a time
alas, it was
"What
ply?' stam and cold a stirots of h grew strong be possible
so far"—a resolved th
the sentenc
given him,
"Mrs. T
the conver lovely daug was natura fered to ma that if she take anoth
but, alas, r affection, se with her, a affection, a cause of my
"Your e was contra now at an e may still ho
"If her m
I will hope.
"I will be able to conv worthy of m mother, but my daughte
well, on whi
alted rank carry weight things as we
"And all
ed. What a
You have b have one wi
ed; but she an elder sist that I will her. I will all my be say the wor
You perceiv not do."
"I believ bottom of m
I will help y
Carmel are e see, we have you not com be delighted
"I will no
night, never their own, w ty of kingdo
now in addit wife and her then, dear m in your hand
in safer cust
With thes
Mrs. Trezarr
ed the back
like manner,
now stationa and trotting the double g galloped Cai orderlies, wi
at his anticip
Meanwhile borne indoor res ore her t long these e
plete success
She then t to bed fell i sleep which had she know made betwee during the re

A MATRIMONI

Nellie Trez
ered on the fo
the breakfast
ache was her
Mrs. Trezz
she wanted a baud.
Directly th
therefore, to pense with hi
he quitted th trenches with "Paul ther
to marry our
"Eh, what most shocking
very great m don me, but I

AUTION
EACH PLUG OF THE
YRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T. & B.
IN BRONZE LETTERS
ne Other Genuine.

ANADA PERMANENT
N & SAVINGS CO.
Incorporated, A. D. 1855.
ribed Capital.......... $3,000,000 up Capital.......... 2,200,000
ve Fund.......... 1,100,000
Assets.......... 8,000,000
OFFICE:
any's Buildings, Toronto St. Toronto.
Company has now on hand a large of English money which it is pre- lend on first-class securities at low interest. Apply to
J. HERBERT MASON, Managing Director.

T THIS OUT!
he New Co-Operative
wing Machine!
—IS THE—
IN THE MARKET
STAND! NEW FURNITURE
Improved Attachments
price for similar machine $60
r price only $25 each.
ying send us stamp for our elegant ... amples of sewing.
ines guaranteed for three years and ...
wantin a machine will do well to write ...
HE CO-OPERATIVE
ing Machine Co.
MES ST. SOUTH, HAMILTON

SIRE MORE LIGHT.
TY LAMP
NOT EXCEPTING GAS.
... in various ornaconsumes but half amp uses. It is the
... also of the "Solar took FIRST PRIZE
tion 1885.
... with a view of
... of its superior-
... the market. The has openings at the
... around the
thus giving a direct
... is isolated from
to the wick. This
... scientific principles,
... which for econo-
either gas or elec-
... invited.
st, Toronto
TRUAX.
& CO.

SALE:
our firm we have been obliged to already been sold.
&c., amounting to over $80,000.00
e reputation earned by the firm ality.
e general public are now afforded Canada.
HAY & CO.

IE
FACTURERS EAL.
al have, for obvious reasons,
nd Shoe Manufacturers of Mon-erally that our manufacturing rom what is known as the in-ken by us render it extremely
; that every employee in our (their families also being vac-es of our operatives has been ledged by the Medical Faculty g, colouring, and finishing of t disinfectant.
t of the ONTARIO BOARD OF by Dr. Covernton, their Chief & MACKINNON,
McCREADY & CO.,
EADY & CO.,
NE, CASSILS & CO., IN.

AN EGYPTIAN ROMANCE

A Story of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

By the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPIDER," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER X.

[illegible] VENGEANCE—MATCH-MAKING EXTRAORDINARY.

Having read this ominous warning our heroine crumpled up the paper whereon it was written and thrust it into her pocket. It had terribly frightened her, but she determined to tell her mother nothing about it until they had arrived home, so as not to alarm her needlessly.

Five minutes later they were seated in their well-horsed chariot, but as they were turning into the next street a loud howl rather than cry of "Look out there!" caused the coachman to curb his horses back almost on their haunches, to escape being run into by a four-horsed, painted and gilded carriage, as grand and tawdry as a London Lord Mayor's carriage, which flashed past though the animals that drew it were running away, yet not so quickly as to prevent Nellie from noticing not only a hideous and gigantic black man, dressed in a costume of white, and scarlet, and gold, who was seated beside the dusky complexioned and turbaned coachman on the box, but also an unveiled female face glaring out upon her from the street window of the game-pie shaped vehicle, with a face white as a hen's, eyes of fire, and red, parted lips, the upper of which curled in a sneer above teeth that gleamed like pearls, but which seemed to be grinding against each other in a paroxysm of impotent rage. A moment later galloping horses, dusky driver, monster eunuch, and careering vehicle were gone, and only the remembrance of the beautiful but vengeful face that had glared through the rattling window at her, remained to the fair girl; but what the mere recollection was terrible enough in itself, for she had recognized in an instant by the eyes, and the eyes only, as that of the lady whom her lover, Frank Donelly, had saved from the crocodile, and who had bestowed on him as a reward the ill-omened opal ring.

"It is she who sent me that cruel threat, written in French, too, so that by no possibility I could misunderstand it. Oh, that woman has stolen Frank's heart from me, and not content with that victory, hates me for even having once possessed it. Strange 'tis that he can care for such a being, though she is so beautiful. I'm sure if I was a man I should fear her almost as I [illegible], being only a girl."

Such were Nellie's thoughts as the coachman started his horses and whipped them into a trot; but they would have taken a more terrified form still had she observed and guessed the meaning of some swift and mimic signs that the eunuch Aga had made to some tall, swarthy Bedouins who formed part of the motley crowd that had collected to see the Opera House disgorge its night's quota of tired pleasure seekers, [illegible] indicating their especial carriage by dumb motions and also the paying of [illegible].

The Bedouins, in their picturesque desert garb and carrying these arms, which they never lay aside, even on entering a mosque, at once slipped out of the press and by short cuts with which they were familiar gained the neighborhood of the Gate of Victory, where they watched and waited.

The Mount Carmel equipage meanwhile [illegible] though by a more roundabout route) [illegible] its way in the same direction, lighted by the moon, for the only street lamps [illegible] are those that immediately front [illegible] public buildings, the principal [illegible] the few places of amusement, to [illegible] night's carriages have to trust [illegible] lamp and pedestrians to their [illegible] which are universally carried; yet [illegible] periods of popular tumult, [illegible] hot Eastern blood boils over, are [illegible].

[illegible] not destined to be the case on [illegible] occasion, however, for as the [illegible] the Gate of Victory, [illegible] a very lonely and deserted spot in [illegible] time, a group of half a dozen men [illegible] rushed out from its shadow, brandishing knives and uttering guttural Arabic [illegible] surrounded the carriage, signifying [illegible] that death would follow resistance. [illegible] while a couple laid hold of the [illegible] heads, two more menaced the coachman and footman with leveled rifles, and the [illegible] two burst into the carriage, seized [illegible] occupants, and grasping them [illegible] throats, would, there can be no [illegible] have slashed them across with their sharp knives but for a shrill warning [illegible] their companions of "Cavan! Cavan!" (the gendarmes or police) followed [illegible] rush of their retreating feet, whereupon, with muttered ejaculations of chagrin [illegible] alarm, they hastened to make themselves scarce in turn, happily leaving their task unaccomplished.

[illegible] ladies were in almost a fainting condition when three horsemen surrounded the [illegible] in turn, whilst he who was the most [illegible] had dismounted, and throwing his [illegible] to one of the others, thrust his head [illegible] the vehicle and in soothing accents [illegible] the occupants that all danger was [illegible].

[illegible] intelligence took almost immediate [illegible] on the elder lady, who became profuse [illegible] thanks to (as she termed him) "her [illegible]," but Nellie did not speak, for she [illegible] not sufficiently recovered to do so. [illegible], however, recognized in their rescuer [illegible] Pasha, the war minister, and instinct [illegible] felt that she had escaped from one [illegible] only to fall into another, which apprehension caused her to lose her senses en[illegible].

"There is nothing to fear," said Arabi, observing the mother become fussily [illegible] "Permit me to place her in a more [illegible] position, so. Now time will do the [illegible]. It would be more strange if she had [illegible] fainted."

"[illegible] what are we to do?" moaned Mrs. [illegible], wringing her hands.

"Perhaps the best thing would be to drive [illegible] home, I and my two orderlies escorting you as a guard. Under our protection you have really nothing to fear. I am Ahmed Arabi Pasha."

"Now I feel quite safe," exclaimed Mrs. Trezarr, "and I avail myself of your excellency's offer with sincere gratitude and very many thanks."

"It is really not worth mentioning, my dear madam," replied the war minister. Then he added; "Shall I direct your people as well as my own?"

"If you would be so good," was the response, and Arabi put his head out of the window and gave the requisite orders in English and Arabic respectively, the former quite intelligible, though not fluent.

So the sleek English horses were once more whipped up and the Egyptian orderlies cantered along, one on each side of the carriage, with their swords drawn and their holster flaps unbuttoned.

"How secure this method of travelling makes me feel," ejaculated Mrs. Trezarr, with a sigh, "I no longer experience the least terror."

"I am delighted to hear it and am only grieved that I cannot always extend to you the same protection, if only for your beautiful child's sake."

"It is well that she does not hear you, or you would make her vain."

"I think not, madam. Indeed, I much fear that nothing that I could say would influence her in the slightest degree. There was a time when I hoped otherwise, but, alas, it was only a fond dream."

"What can your excellency's words imply?" stammered Mrs. Trezarr, feeling hot and cold at the same moment, as all the instincts of her typical matchmaking mamma grew strong within her. "Surely it cannot be possible that you honored my daughter so far"—and here she came to a dead stop, resolved that the war minister should finish the sentence, which, the cue having been given him, he was not slow to do.

"Mrs. Trezarr," said he, still carrying on the conversation in French, "to see your lovely daughter was to love her, to love her was naturally to attempt to win her. I offered to make her my wife. I vowed to her that if she would accept me I would never take another, and, by Allah, I wouldn't; but, alas, rank, wealth nor a true and ardent affection, separate or united, had any weight with her, and much I fear that a previous affection, a pre-engagement even, was the cause of my discomfiture."

"Your excellency, that pre-engagement was contrary to her parents' wishes, and is now at an end. I think, therefore, that you may still hope."

"If her mother will become my ally, verily I will hope."

"I will become the ally of any one who is able to convince me that he is in every way worthy of my child. I am not a mercenary mother, but I would naturally like to see my daughter, my only daughter, married well, on which account your excellency's exalted rank and reputed wealth certainly carry weight with them. Yet there are other things as well."

"And all these other things shall be added. What are they? What do you require? You have but to speak and it is done. I have one wife already, that cannot be helped; but she shall be unto your daughter as an elder sister. A third I will never take, that I will vow unto you as I vowed unto her. I will even disolve my harem and sell all my beautiful slaves; or, should she but say the word, give them their liberty instead. You perceive there is nothing that I will not do."

"I believe your excellency from the very bottom of my heart, and through believing I will help your suit. The doors of Mount Carmel are ever open to your excellency, and see, we have already arrived at them. Will you not come into supper? Mr. Trezarr will be delighted to make your acquaintance."

"I will not afford myself that pleasure tonight, nevertheless, their time is not always their own, who have to watch over the safety of kingdoms or principalities, and I have now in addition to guard that of my future wife and her excellent parents. Farewell, then, dear madam I will leave my cause in your hands, assured that it could not be in safer custody."

With these words and a low bow he raised Mrs. Trezarr's finger tips to his lips, treated the back of Nellie's snow white hand in like manner, and then alighting from the now stationary carriage remounted his horse and trotting down the drive and out through the double gates on to the Choubrah road, galloped Cairo-wards, followed by his two orderlies, with a heart burning with delight at his anticipated conquest.

Meanwhile the still insensible Nellie was borne indoors and every effort was made to restore her to consciousness, and before very long these efforts were crowned with complete success

She then took a glass of wine, and going to bed fell into a tranquil and refreshing sleep which would hardly have visited her had she known of the compact that had been made between her preserver and her mother during the return drive to Mount Carmel.

CHAPTER XI.

A MATRIMONIAL COUNCIL OF WAR—THE FOOT ON A PIKE.

Nellie Trezarr was not sufficiently recovered on the following morning to appear at the breakfast table, though a racking headache was her sole indisposition.

Mrs. Trezarr was not sorry for this, as she wanted a confidential talk with her husband.

Directly the covers were removed, she, therefore, told the servant they'd dispense with his attendance, and no sooner had he quitted the room than she opened the trenches with:

"Paul there is a great man who is anxious to marry our dear Nellie."

"Eh, what?" exclaimed Mr. Trezarr, almost choking himself with sardine. "A very great man did you say, my dear? Pardon me, but I like the sound of the adverb."

"Believe me, Paul, I am not dealing in the exaggerations to which I know that many of my sex are prone. The candidate for Nellie's hand is he who saved both our lives last night; therefore, I think that he has a fair chance to one of them."

"Well, but who is he? I did't understand you clearly last night. You were too incoherent."

"You will readily guess when I tell you that he is the greatest man in Egypt."

"The Khedive? Then your old scheme is on the eve of fulfilment, my dear?"

"Not so, for since the fete at the palace, when Nellie left my side at the very moment when a brilliant destiny seemed to be awaiting her, the Khedive has completed his number of legitimate wives, and, of course, no child of mine can be anything but the lawful wedded wife even of a monarch. But the candidate for Nellie's hand takes rank next to the Khedive, and 'tis said that he is even more popular and powerful. In six months he has risen from a simple colonel to the rank of pasha, general, and war minister. There, now that you know his titles you must also know his name."

"Aye, as that of one who, if he has risen with the speed of a rocket, will drop to earth again with the velocity of the stick. I have it from the very best authority, my dear, that if that daring rebel escapes secret assassination he will be banished to the White Nile, and it is a common Egyptian proverb that from the White Nile no one ever comes back. England and France have demanded his banishment, I tell you, and even the Khedive durst not refuse to obey the orders of the Joint Control, added to which he will be only too glad to get rid of the fellow himself, though I'll be bound he'll do it by a prompter method than that which is proposed."

On receiving this explanation Mrs. Trezarr looked as annoyed as most ladies do when they have a pet scheme knocked on the head. She muttered discontentedly:

"It's a thousand pities that they can't leave such a man alone. Every one speaks of his piety and his charity, and he assured me over and over again that if Nellie would but become his wife he would never take unto himself another, and that would be wonderful and most exemplary forbearance in a rich and powerful Mohammedan, I am sure."

"But I tell you, Euphemia, that Ahmed Arabi will be neither rich nor powerful for long, and the instant that he has been put out of the way, either by assassination or by banishment, the rapacious Khedive will seize upon all that he is now possessed of and confiscate it as being the property of a rebel; so that Nellie would be returned on our hands a pauper, and, indeed, I don't feel quite sure that she couldn't be sold with the other members of the pasha's harem, though I rather think not—yes, I incline to think not, Euphemia."

"It's very annoying, Paul, and this is a most unfortunate country. Then beauty lasts for so brief a while in such a climate that unless you realize upon it quickly nothing could be a less profitable investment," grumbled Mrs. Trezarr, who sometimes made use of commercial similitudes out of compliment to her husband's profession.

In the same language he made reply: "Nothing in the matrimonial market could be worse than Amhed Arabi, the Egyptian, whose race is assuredly almost run. Why, I would a hundred times sooner give Nellie to your pet bete noir, the young Irish dragoon, though his expectations in the future seem to be very hazy."

Before Mrs Trezarr could frame an answer to this last observation of her liege lord the servant re entered the room with a visiting card upon a silver salver.

Mr. Trezarr frowned as he held it up and read "Captain Donelly, Fourth Royal Irish Dragoon Guards," but the frown rapidly changed to an expression of surprise mingled in no small degree with alarm as he perused the few words that were written below in pencil: "Comes as a friend to warn you of great and impending danger to both property and life."

He passed the card on to his wife and said briefly to his servant:

"Admit the gentleman."

A minute or two later Frank Donelly entered the room with a courteous bow.

"Mr. Trezarr," he said, declining the seat that was somewhat kindly offered to him, "my affection for your daughter brings me hither to beseech you to shield her, and as a necessary consequence all who are dear to her, from peril. There is every reason to fear that a crisis is at hand. The Chamber of Notables have openly ignored the Anglo-French control. Dervish Pasha, the Sultan's ambassador from Constantinople, is supposed to be intriguing with the war minister, and the negro regiments of Ali Bey Fehmy and Abdullah Bey have secretly, during the night, relieved the supposed loyal regiments at the Citadel, and the Kase-en-Nil barracks."

"Is that all?" demanded Mr. Trezarr with an assumption of unconcern that he was far from feeling.

"Not quite all, but I would rather not say anything further before a lady," responded Frank.

"Oh, you need have no scruples whatever on that score, Captain Donelly, since I believe that I have quite as much courage as my husband," said Mrs. Trezarr, somewhat scornfully.

The dragoon glancing from one to the other, came to the same conclusion, and therefore no longer hesitated to speak out.

"What I have already told you was communicated to me not two hours ago by our consul general, but that which I am about to relate I beheld last night with my own eyes when, a love for exploring led me into the more exclusively native portion of this immense city. It was a white man's severed foot stuck on a pike, in the middle of an open space, with an empty purse attached thereto and the toes pointing towards Alexandria and the sea. On one side of the foot was nailed a scroll whereon was written in Arabic, 'The way home,' and another strip of papyrus attached to the purse bore the words, 'Twas empty when you came and the Egyptian is not fool enough to let you carry it away full.' If the severed and going foot, the empty purse and the two sentences in Arabic do not imply that the white population of Cairo are threatened with pillage and murder, I have failed to read the riddle aright."

As Frank Donelly concluded his terrible revelation, Mr. Trezarr sank into a chair, where, whipping out a yellow silk handkerchief, he began to puff and blow like an excited porpoise, while he mopped up the perspiration that had begun to gather thickly on his brow.

His better half bestowed on him a smile of contempt, and then turning to Frank Donelly, said very graciously:

"We are much obliged to you for the information that you have brought us, and no time shall be lost in taking advantage of it. We will not detain you a moment longer, however, since it would detain you in doing that service unto others which you have rendered unto us, so good morning, Mr. Donelly."

It was a polite and yet a most decided dismissal, so Frank had no choice but to depart, which he did with a silent bow, for he could not trust himself to speak.

Not until his footsteps had ceased to sound upon the stairs did Mr. Trezarr find words to gasp out:

"What were you so abrupt with the young man for? Why were you in such a hurry to get rid of him at a time when he might have been so very useful to us?"

"Because the path is so slippery that I prefer a stronger staff to lean on, Paul."

"Oh, confound your talking in riddles, madam. Can't you manage to speak plainly?"

"If you wish it I will do so, even though plain speech will not be altogether flattering to your discernment. My stronger stick is Arabi Pasha, the war minister, who, from Mr. Donelly's report, I believe to be far more likely to supplant the Khedive on the throne of Egypt than to be sent by him to the White Nile. Why, the negro regiments that have just been marched into Cairo are, as all the world knows, in favor of Arabi to a man, whilst the Egyptian parliament has almost openly declared for him by ignoring the Anglo-French control, and if the Turkish ambassador is also coquetting with him, what can the act mean but that his master, the Sultan, is prepared to bow to the inevitable and accept him as a Khedive in Tewfik's place?"

"If you are right, even in all respects, I don't see how any of them will make him your walking-stick.

"Oh, you man of no imagination, will he not protect us for the love that he bears unto our child? Go and apply to him boldly as minister of war for armed protection both for our house and bank, and be confident that both will be cheerfully accorded. When you send in your card at the war office I'll guarantee that you won't be left to deal with underlings, but will be ushered into the presence of the great man himself, who will make all things smooth and safe for us, whoever else suffers."

"By Jove, wife, I believe you have given me good wholesome advice, and I will act up to it in the hope that it will save our lives and our riches as well. But I'll be hanged if I'll give my Nellie to Arabi Pasha until his future is more fixed and certain. Humpty Dumpty isn't as yet perched so firmly atop of the wall but that Humpty Dumpty may have a great fall, and I don't suppose you would overmuch care for our child to topple down with him?"

"Of course I should not, but a promise is only the herald of a gift and not the gift itself, and a promise made to a great minister and general is by no means a promise to a degraded rebel and outlaw. Arabi Pasha has other things to think of for the present than marriage with even so lovely a girl as our Nellie, and when the greater game has been played out we shall know whether he is the winner or the looser and can arrange our own business for the second one accordingly. Do you not follow me, Paul?"

"Yes, and agree with you as well. Therefore if you will just touch the bell I will order the carriage and drive straight away to the war office to ask for protection."

"You will do well. Ah, there's a carriage coming up the drive now. I declare, Paul, the mountain is coming to Mohammed, and therefore there is no longer any need for Mohammed to go unto the mountain. His excellency, the war minister, calls to inquire how Nellie and I do after our last night's fright. I think you had better leave me to ask the favor now, Paul, for the difference is that you would be almost, but I quite, certain of having it granted. You will come into the room after a little while, of course."

Mr. Trezarr promised that he would, and was by no means sorry for his wife to take the major part of the trouble and responsibility on to her own broad shoulders. He therefore suffered her to proceed to the sumptuous reception rooms alone.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A striking picture is never dangerous.

The tide in the affairs of men, which, when taken at its flood, leads on to fortune, is, no doubt, the "tied" to a rich girl.

John E. Owens, the comedian, who has been seriously sick on his farm near Towsontown, Md., is getting better. He has been much distressed during his illness at the persistence of the papers in calling his town Towzer, and the recent general correction of the press has no doubt materially contributed to his recovery.

The Duke of Abercorn was a peer and a great landowner of the best type. He had been a prominent figure in society for more than fifty years, and he was certainly one of the most popular men of his time. Prince Albert was particularly fond of him, and often consulted him with advantage about both public and private matters. The Duke and Duchess of Abercorn both figure prominently in "Lothair," and they are great favorites of Lord Beaconsfield, who regarded them as ideal specimens of the "high nobility."

An ingenious kind of hand weaving machine or loom has been invented in Germany, by means of which silk, wool yarn, cords, strips of fabric, &c., can be woven into pieces that may be applied to various useful purposes in the household. In using this machine the warp threads are first arranged parallel either on the back of two chairs or secured to the knobs of two doors. The warp threads are then passed through the heddles, arranged on a suitable frame, and the end of the warp threads are tied together and fastened to the back of the chair upon which the person operating the loom sits, and the other end of the threads are held in a suitable clamp on the table. The heddle frame or comb is raised by means of the left hand, whereby the threads are separated, and then the shuttle is passed through the warp threads, the latter are shifted, the shuttle passed through in the inverse direction, and so on.

PERSONAL.

The Duke of Westminster purchased for his daughter-in-law, the Countess of Grosvenor, the house lately occupied by Sir Moses Montefiore.

Ruskin and Kate Greenaway are at work together on a Christmas book which is to bear the title, "Dame Wiggins of Lee and her Seven Wonderful Cats."

More than $18,000 is already in hand of the $20,000 wanted to build a Y. M. C. A. building at Bournemouth, England, in memory of the late Earl Cairns.

The age of President Grevy is a much discussed question in France. It is commonly said to be 71, but there is good ground for believing that he was born in 1807.

Mme. Patti has been ordered by her physicians to take a month's complete rest. This will cause the collapse of her projected tour through Belgium and Holland.

Mr. Spurgeon is in better health than usual and hopes, by observing moderation in the use of tobacco and his diet, to avoid the necessity of going to the south of Europe this winter.

Prof. Bernhard Studer, the 92-year-old Swiss geologist, has received from the Council of the Confederation a splendid silver cup, presented to him in recognition of his renowned services to science.

Ferdinand Ward, according to the Boston Transcript, received his financial education at church fairs, where returns of two or three thousand per cent. on the original investments are not thought at all remarkable.

Louis Phillippe, once King of the French, is now declared to have been the son of a French sailor. His reputed father and mother had a daughter born to them. Wanting a son, fearing a failure, they changed children with a fisherman.

In Mr. Walter Rye's "History of Norfolk," just published, it is stated that the Bulwer family gets its name from a progenitor who was a herdsman or "bull-ward." In a like manner the illustrious Howards come from a swineherd or "hog-ward" and the Townshends from one "Johd ate Townsend," a small tenant-farmer. Verily, the claims of a long descent and Norman blood are pretty poor stuff.

Mr. James French, Toronto, who a couple of years ago sent a present of two barrels of Canadian apples to the Queen, is now sending a barrel to ex-Premier Gladstone. The staves of the barrel are of polished ash and other hardwoods. He will later on send to Mr. Gladstone the primest roast of Canadian beef that can be found and two turkeys, one for himself and another for the Prince of Wales.

A strange occurrence is reported from Birkdale, near Southport. A retired sea captain named Clarke, was seized with a fit and apparently expired. A doctor was called, who examined the man, and pronounced life to be extinct. He could not give a certificate, but the friend referred to the police. Two officers were called in, and full particulars taken for the information of the coroner when something caused a doubt in the mind of one of the constables, and he tried to restore animation. For some time it was ineffectual, but ultimately the man was brought round, and is now very little worse for his experience, though he narrowly escaped death through want of attention.

The following is the pretty story of the betrothal of Prince Waldemar of Denmark and the Princess Marie d Orleans: The preliminaries of the betrothal were concluded and yet the young people had never met, so a meeting was arranged and Prince Waldemar went to call upon the Princess accompanied by the Danish ambassador, Count de Moltke. As they approached the residence of the Duke and Duchess de Chartres they noticed a group of young girls at one of the upper windows. "That young lady in blue," quoth the Prince, looking up, "has a very sweet countenance. I hope the Princess Marie will resemble her." It was his betrothed herself, who had yielded to an unroyal but most natural desire to take as early a glance as possible at her future husband.

The lucky young French sportsman who has won the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire with Plaisanterie repeating Foxhall's triumphs, is said to have netted $70,000 by the double event. This may seem good, but there have been occasions within the last twenty years when the owner of the Cesarewitch alone has landed $300,000 upon his champion. Mr. Merry and Lord Hastings were each credited with that sum as the amount of their gains by betting when Lioness and Lecturer were successful in 1863 and 1866; the late Baron Mayer de Rothschild drew $150,000 admittedly out of the the ring when Corisande won in 1871; and rumor put the stake netted by the owner of Rosebery in 1879 at $500,000. It is only on a handicap, and on not more than four in the year—namely, the Lincolnshire handicap, the City and Suburban, and Cesarewitch, and Cambridgeshire—that a great stake can be won.

Lieutenant Greely receives more honor out of his own country than in it. The British Association at its meeting in Montreal gave him a most enthusiastic reception, and Captain Bedford Pym, the gallant Arctic explorer, assisted by the most distinguished members of the Geographical Section, entertained him with lavish English hospitality. The Lieutenant has now been honored by the Scottish Geographical Society, and, with Mr. Gladstone, has been guest of Lord Rosebery at Dalmeny Castle. Englishmen find much to admire in the intrepid American who has deprived them of their advanced position in Polar exploration. His own country is less appreciative. His return was greeted by the publication of sensational and revolting charges of cannibalism. Promotion has been denied him, and notwithstanding his impaired health, he narrowly escaped being ordered to rejoin his regiment in the West. From first to last he has been coldly received and shabbily treated. Perhaps when he returns from England with certificates of good character from the geographical societies he will be more highly regarded by his own countrymen.

The height of fashion—A dude's collar.

There are said to be 90,000 Waltham watches sold in England every year, and the Elgin Company are going in for a share of the trade.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued every Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,

(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON, Q. C. S. MASSON. W. MASSON.

N. B.—Private Company's funds to invest at from Six to Eight per cent.

Alexander Brown,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,

Fashionable Tailor,

OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.

A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON.

Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.

195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE, - - ONT.

J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

CITY HOTEL, MARKDALE.

The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage, Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostler.

D. McLANE,
Proprietor.

Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

WILLIAM STUART,

KIMBERLEY,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.

Nov. 5, '85–1y

WM. G. CUTHRIE,

Flain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

303

JOSEPH GIBSON

CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture,

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,

TAILOR,

Sydenham Street.

MARKDALE.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Also agent for the celebrated

CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted 9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

PUMPS,

Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.

Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's

PATENT LOAD LIFTER

For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,

UNDERTAKER,

MARKDALE,

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—

PICTURE FRAMING

Done on short notice.

ROBT. ASKIN.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

Peck's Sun

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

GEORGE W. PECK
Editor and Proprietor.

The Funniest Paper in America

What Vaccination is to Small-pox PECK'S SUN is to the blues.

PECK'S SUN is one of the most widely read and popular papers in the country to-day, and stands without a peer in its specialty.

The Originator of the celebrated BAD BOY PAPERS.

Specimen Copies Free To Any Address.

Bear in mind that by sending a Postal Card to this office a Sample copy of Peck's Sun will be mailed you Free.

Don't neglect to send at once, and tell your neighbors to.

$1 Worth of Fun for 1C.

Address GEORGE L. LORD,
Business Manager, Milwaukee, WIS.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.

44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR,

Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address,

PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,
751 Broadway, New York.

We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—ED. STANDARD,

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	54	..	18
55	..	52	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

J. W. FORD.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

Sample Bottles 10c; Regular size $1.

For sale by all dealers.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND

MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,

MANUFACTURER OF

MARBLE AND GRANITE

MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,

Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED

3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

H. B. HARRISON.

MARKDALE

HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.

OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 30pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Orangeville { Arrive	9 50 "	7 20 "
Orangeville { Leave	10 05 "	7 25 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 37 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 26 "
Flesherton	11 56 "	9 12 "
Markdale	12 15 "	9 31 "
Berkeley	12 51 "	10 07 "
Williamsford	12 03pm	9 22 "
Chatsworth	12 12 "	9 32 "
Owen Sound	12 28 "	9 48 "
	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 55pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 30 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 50 "
Berkeley	6 14 "	3 59 "
Markdale	6 27 "	4 12 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 27 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 51 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	5 17 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 45 "
Orangeville { Arrive	8 12 "	5 57 "
Orangeville { Leave	8 35 "	6 20 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 50 "
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 25 "

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 A.M. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for November, 15th at 7 p. m. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 7, 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from 8 to 9. Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T. Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in their Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Baird, Secretary.

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.

1956

NEW GROCERY STORE

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed Store.

Having just received a

Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF

Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c.

Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public patronage.

193 J. PLEWES.

THE CELEBRATED DR. CHASE'S MANDRAKE AND DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Side, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a disordered liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood. 500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful receipts pronounced by medical men and druggists invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. SOMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Toronto

Mar

VOL. 6.--No. 274.

Merry Xmas TO ALL.

"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."

—MY LINE OF—

Xmas -:- Cards

Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.

FINE ASSORTMENT

SILVERWARE,

In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.

Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.

W. A. BROWN,

A reliable Jeweller

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

GABRIAL DUMONT has been re-visiting Manitoba.

EGREMONT is to have a creamery next year.

HANOVER roller rink has been successfully opened.

TWO WEEKS from next Monday will be nomination day.

A good Young Driving Mare for sale; apply to A. Turner.

THE thermometer registered 10° below zero Monday morning.

TWO WEEKS from next Wednesday will be annual school meeting.

OVER fifteen inches of snow fell during the storm of last week.

CALL and see Williams' Christmas goods, just opened. Dunlop's block.

MR. H. FOSTER, late of Williamsford, left for British Columbia on Monday.

MR. JAS. CLELAND, of Meaford, is a candidate for Mayor of that town for '86.

A. TURNER & Co. are to the front with an immense stock of Christmas goods.

ROLLED FLOUR, Bran, Shorts, Chopped Stuff, same price at Benson's as at mill.

THE Poultry show in Toronto this week promises to be the best ever held in Canada.

A SEVERE snow storm set in last Friday, continuing more or less until Sunday evening.

THE pews in the new Methodist church will be let on Thursday, the 31st, at 2 o'clock p. m.

THOSE who have promised us firewood will please fetch it along now while there is sleighing.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

WANTED.—A boy to learn the baking business; apply to Robt. Montgomery, Markdale.

REV. MR. MCNAIR, of York Co., has received a call from the Presbyterian congregation of Durham.

IT is reported that Jessie Wing of Euphrasia has left for parts unknown, having many unpaid debts.

SEE the large assortment of Xmas cards and Xmas Gifts at W. A. Brown's Model Jewellery Store.

OATS, Potatoes, Apples, Corn and Oatmeal, Breakfast Cereals, Bulk Oysters, Cranberries, at Benson's cheap.

ADIAN PACIFIC R. R.
WEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
effect Monday, November 2nd, 1885.
GOING NORTH

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
....Leave	7 20am	4 50pm
l Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
) Arrive	9 50 "	7 03 "
) Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
ville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
ne	10 45 "	8 04 "
k	11 10 "	8 30
ton	11 36 "	8 55
le	11 51 "	9 10
y	12 03pm	9 23 "
sford	12 12 "	9 32 "
orth	12 28 "	9 49 "
ound	1 00 "	10 26 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
mond	5 20am	2 35 pm
orth	5 50 "	3 10 "
sford	6 05 "	3 30 "
e	6 14 "	5 40 "
on	6 27 "	3 52 "
k	6 42 "	4 06 "
ne	7 06 "	4 31 "
ille Jun	7 31 "	4 57 "
) Arrive	8 00 "	5 23 "
) Leave	8 12 "	5 35 "
Junction	8 35 "	5 55 "
.....Arrive	9 07 "	6 30 "
	10 45 "	8 35 "

dale Church Directory.
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
es every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m.
Meeting every Wednesday evening at
k. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm.
S. S. Superintendent.
CHRIST CHURCH.
es for November, 15th at 7 p. m.; 30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th,
d 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 7.
Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent.
rd, Superintendent.
ETHODIST CHURCH. es every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer every Thursday evening from 8 to 9.
sley Cassan, Pastor; W. A. Brown, perintendent. Ladies' Aid in con-
Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.
Society Directory.
ale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every Monday evening at 8 o'clock in their cDougall's block. Visiting brethren ale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in ll, McDougall's block, every alternate evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from of neighboring lodges solicited.
DALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their Friday on or before full moon each
Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blakely,
y.
. C. RICHARDS,
DER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHI-
T, Markdale.
124tf
GROCERY STORE
IN CONNECTION WITH
s' Flour and Feed tore.
ving just received a ee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF
s,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c.
will be sold VERY CHEAP.
spectfully solicit the public's ge.
J. PLEWES.

THE CELEBRATED
Dr CHASE'S
MANDRAKE
DANDELION
LIVER
CURE
HAVE YOU
plaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness,
Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back,
s, or any disease arising from a derange-CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure n remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
alified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is nplaint rests solely with the fact that it is ed from nature's well-known liver regulators
E AND DANDELION, combined with many aluable roots, barks and herbs, having a effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and
500,000 SOLD half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Book
in Canada alone. We want every man, nd child who is troubled with Liver Com-try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure able Household Medical Guide and Recipe
pages), containing over 200 useful recipes
d by medical men and druggists as invalu-
worth ten times the price of the medicine.
CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive
Price, 25 cents.
ASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS, 25 cts. per box.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
ANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Bowmanville

Markdale Standard

VOL. 6.--No. 274. MARKDALE, ONT., DEC. 10, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

Merry Xmas
TO ALL.

"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."

—MY LINE OF—

Xmas -:- Cards

Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.

FINE ASSORTMENT

SILVERWARE,

In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.

Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.

W. A. BROWN,

A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Otherlæ ms.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

GABRIAL DUMONT has been re-visiting Manitoba.

EGREMONT is to have a creamery next year.

HANOVER roller rink has been successfully opened.

TWO WEEKS from next Monday will be nomination day.

A good Young Driving Mare for sale; apply to A. Turner.

THE thermometer registered 10 below zero Monday morning.

TWO WEEKS from next Wednesday will be annual school meeting.

OVER fifteen inches of snow fell during the storm of last week.

CALL and see Williams' Christmas goods, just opened. Dunlop's block.

MR. H. FOSTER, late of Williamsford, left for British Columbia on Monday.

MR JAS. CLELAND, of Meaford, is a candidate for Mayor of that town for '86.

A. TURNER & Co. are to the front with an immense stock of Christmas goods.

ROLLED FEED, Bran, Shorts, Chopped Stuff, same price at Benson's as at mill.

THE Poultry Show in Toronto this week promises to be the best ever held in Canada.

A SEVERE snow storm set in last Friday, continuing more or less until Sunday evening.

THE pews in the new Methodist church will be sold on Thursday, the 31st, at 2 o'clock p. m.

THOSE who have promised us firewood will please fetch it along now while there is sleighing.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

WANTED.—A boy to learn the baking business; apply to Robt. Montgomery, Markdale.

REV. MR. MCNAIR, of York Co., has received a call from the Presbyterian congregation of Durham.

IT is reported that Jessie Wing of Euphrasia has left for parts unknown, leaving many unpaid debts.

SEE the large assortment of Xmas Cards and Xmas Gifts at W. A. Brown's Model Jewellery Store.

OATS, Potatoes, Apples, Corn and Oatmeal, Breakfast Cereals, Bulk Oysters, Cranberries, at Benson's cheap.

I WILL not be undersold by any one in my line, and don't you forget it, for I belong to the brass band—W. J. B.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system.

MISS BURCH has moved into one of Haskett's new stores, where she will continue the ladies dress and mantle making, &c.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF.—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet.

A SUITABLE Holiday present for $1., the STANDARD, any address to the end of '86. Send it to a friend at home or at a distance.

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when worms are the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms.

BENSON has opened this week, crate of Delph, China, and Glassware, of all description which I will sell cheaper than any one in town.

PARTIES wanting a gallon or bottle of good Liquor will do well to call at Benson's and get their Xmas & New Year's Whisky without water.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

MR. JOHN SHIELDS, of Manitowaning, and formerly of Markdale, has, we understand, leased Mr. Thomas Campbell's farm for a term of years.

I HAVE got better and will sell cheaper Liquors of all kinds than any one in town, and will give Whisky without water. Come and get a flask on trial free.

THE ladies of Erskine Presbyterian Church, Meaford, held a very successful social at the residence of Mr. Jas. Stewart last week, at which they netted $33.60.

W. A. BROWN is agent for the celebrated Lazarus Spectacles, and has a full stock on hand. They are the real pebble, and will suit any sight, and fully warranted.

ELI J. ARNOLD of Central Ontario Junction, C. P. R., will accept our thanks for renewal of subscription for '86, and also for remittance same time of $2 for Mrs. Gill aid fund.

THE Markdale Presbyterian Church has been enclosed with a fence, matting put down in the church and other improvemets made which adds much to its comfort and appearance.

MONEY TO LOAN.—Messrs. Masson & Masson, Barristers, have a large quantity of private and Companies funds to loan at from 6 to 8 per cent. Office open all through the week.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—Secure your notice for annual school meeting all ready printed at this office. The annual meeting comes on the last Wednesday of the year, 30th inst.

LOOK out for our annual grand display of Christmas and Fancy Goods. Our stock is being selected from the best collections in the city, under personal supervision. A. Turner & Co.

WE have a number of old outstanding accounts which must be settled or we will be under the painful necessity of placing them in the hands of the clerk of the court for collection.

A tea-meeting will be held in Pleasant Valley Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, the 16th inst. Admission 25 cents. A good programme is prepared and an enjoyable time expected.

KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Much is blamed upon the Kidneys when people are ill and suffer from weak and painful back, etc. If you regulate the Liver and Blood with Burdock Blood Bitters, the Kidneys will soon resume a right action. Burdock Blood Bitters cleanses the whole system, Kidneys included.

TEACHER WANTED for third department Markdale School, Female holding 3rd class certificate, for '86; Apply, stating salary, on or before Monday, 21st Dec.. to B. Coleman, Sec., Markdale P. O.

MR. WM. STRAIN, of Flesherton, and Mr. Jas. Bell, of Glenelg, returned last week from Philadelphia, where they had gone to attend the funeral of Mrs. Bunting, sister of Mr. Bell, and sister-in-law of Mr. Strain.

By an arrangement with the publishers of the Rural Canadian, we are enable to club that valuable farm journal to all prepaid subscribers to the STANDARD for the small sum of $1.50, thus effecting a considerable saving to the readers. Renew your subscription now and get the Rural free for the balance of this year.

SOLD.—The Shelburne Cheese Factory was sold by auction at the Royal Hotel, yesterday, for the sum of $600, Mr. J. F. Miller was the purchaser. Mr. J. C. Whitten bought the Badjeros Factory for $180.—Free Press.

FROST BITES or Chilblains require similar treatment to a Burn. There is no better remedy for either than Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the well-known household remedy for Pain, Rheumatism, and all Inflammatory Complaints.

MCGREGOR & PARKE'S Carbolic Cerate is invaluable for Wounds, Sores, Salt Rheum, Cuts, Burns, Scalds and Festers, as a healing and purifying dressing. Do not be imposed on with other useless preparations, recommended to be as good. Use only cGregor & Park's Carbolic Cerate. Sold by Hill Bro's. 2

REMOVED.—Miss Burch has removed to Haskets new block where you will find stylish and cheap Millinery. Wools of all kinds, Xmas Goods, Cards, etc. Dress and Mantle Making executed in the latest style. A call respectfully solicited.

The discovery of the instantaneous process of taking photographs has been quickly followed in the medical world by a perfect and instantaneous remedy for all acute aches and pains, as Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism, etc. This valuable remedy is called Fluid Lightning, and is sold at 25 cents a bottle by Hill Bro's. 2

THE STOMACH is the grand central of the living system, the first organ developed in animal life, and the first to suffer from excesses. Regulate its diseased action by Burdock Blood, Bitters, which restores health to the stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys, and blood.

LAST CALL.—Saturday, the 12th Dec., I will be at the Markdale House from one o'clock p. m. to receive taxes for Ward No. 2, Artemesia. This is the last warning, so those interested will please govern themselves accordingly. John H. Anderson.

KILLED.—A brakesman named Patrick Ryan, of Orangeville, was killed on Monday last by falling between the cars on the Alton grade, south of Orangeville. The train passed over him. Conductor Hassard had charge of the train.—Shelburne Free Press.

A HANDY RELIEF for Pains, Aches and accidental injuries is an almost universal requirement. Such a ready remedy is best found in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, that cures Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Colds, and all Pain, Lameness and Soreness, whether internal or external.

CREDIT TO WHOM CREDIT, &c.—We are pleased to notice the improved tone of the Flesherton Advance during the year now closing. Though the sheet is reduced somewhat in size, yet it is crisp and newsy, and should receive a wide circulation. More power til yer elbo, Mr. Fawcett.

Wet feet invariably produces a cough, which, if allowed to stand, weakens the lungs, and in time brings on consumption. By having a little of West's Cough Syrup in the house you can cure your cough like magic. It is infallible for all throat an lung diseases, hoarseness, whooping cough, influenza, coughs and colds. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Druggists. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle. Dec. 3

MR. JENKINS, of the Chronicle, "cannot imagine" why we suppress certain names, in an item which appeared in the STANDARD recently. We did'nt learn the names of those who should be exposed, but that of the unfortunate one, and the traveller, neither of which had any right to be published.

JUST opened out this week at Benson's, the finest stock of Briar and Wooden Pipes, also Xmas Goods, Toys, &c., finest stock of Biscuits & Candies in town, which will be sold cheap; a China Cup & Saucer for 75 cents, that you will pay $1.25 up town for. Call and secure the bargains this month, will continue for 30 days.

THE Professional dead beat is decidedly the most despicable, detestable, deplorable, demoralized, degenerate decoction of depraved humanity. Persons who once possessed intelects of more than average brilliancy, but have been blunted and morally wrecked by the use of intoxicating liquer, go to fill the ranks of this profession largely.

ANOTHER.—Mr. Jas. Lunny, of Griffin's Corners, succeeded on Saturday last in shooting a fine buck, in Glenelg Tp. The carcase was brought to Durham on Monday last, and sold to Mr. Thos. Colgan, who shipped it to a friend in Toronto. Mr. Lunny has been lucky in his shooting exploits as this is his second deer this season.—Grey Review.

MR. P. MCCULLOUGH, Barrister, Solicitor, &c., has taken rooms over McFarland's store where he may be found and consulted in matters pertaining to his profession. Mr. Mc. is a brother to Dr. McCullough of Walter's Falls and cousin to Dr. McCullough of Chatsworth, both of whom are popular and successful practitioners. We wish our "limb of the law" equal success.

JUDAS, BOYS, the like of the liquors Benson has in stock at present in his new store, beats anything ever struck Markdale, 5 & 7 year old Whisky, and old man Benson says, "Divil the drop of water will ever go in the Whisky as long as he is around, for you know the old man likes a good drop himself. Call and see them, they are fine boys, and get the only pure Liquor in Markdale.

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

"I say Aunt Chloe, you is getting around right smart." "Yes indeed I is, honey. I was pestered and sick abed with Rheumatism for six years and done tried this West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment the people are talking so much about, and I was sure enough cured. It done saved this old nigger's life." Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

AMONG the forthcoming Books of special interest is the "History of the Presbyterian Church in the Dominion," by Rev. Professor Gregg, D. D., of Knox College, Toronto, who has been gathering information for the work for the past dozen years. From the well-known ability of the author, the care with which every fact has been verified, and the interests which naturally attaches to the history of a great denomination, we have no doubt the publication of this work will prove the literary event of the year. The publisher is Mr. Blackett Robinson, 5 Jordan Street, Toronto, who will be glad to hear of a reliable agent in each congregation.

THE government provided for every possibility in the Riel case. It is said that Chief Sherwood, of the Dominion police, who carried the death warrant to Regina, also bear a commission appointing him sheriff; so that, in case Sheriff Chapleau should refuse to hang Riel and resign his position at the last moment, Chief Sherwood could step in and do the job. There are some long headed politicians at Ottawa, and, it might be remarked, some sore-headed ones, too.

A sensible exchange with a vast amount of experience hits the nail on the heavy end when it says:—"It is worth remembering that no paper is printed especially for one person any more than a hotel is run especially to please one guest. People who become greatly displeased with something they find in a newspaper should remember that the very thing that displeases them is exactly the thing that will please somebody who has just as much interest in the paper as they have."

CHURCH OPENING.—The new Markdale Methodist church dedicatory services will be held on the 20th and 27th December. The Rev. Dr. Williams, Chief Superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada, will conduct the morning and evening services on the 20th, and Warring Kennedy, Esq., of Toronto, the 2:30 p.m. service of the same day. Rev. Dr. Griffin of Guelph, the morning and evening services on the 27th, and Rev. J. E. Howell, M. A., Superintendent of Owen Sound District, at 2:30. A grand tea-meeting will also be held on Christmas Day.

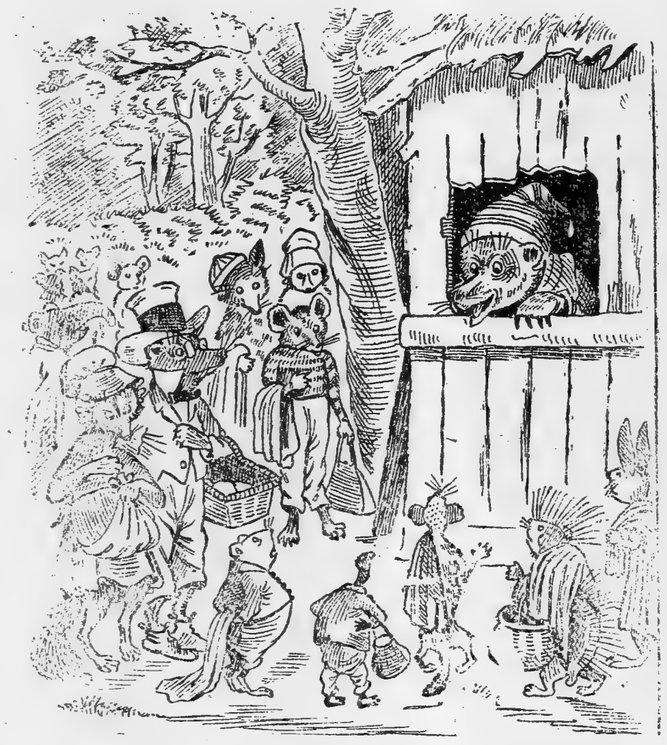
CANADA'S CHRISTMAS.—This is a beautifully illustrated Canadian Christmas Paper, published by the "Grip" Printing and Publishing Co., Toronto. It contains 16 large pages, 8 of which are filled with magnificent lithographic illustrations of Canadian Christmas Scenes and Winter Games. The double-page lithographic cartoon, by BENGOUGH, contains correct portraits of a hundred well known Canadian politicians. It is, alone, worth the whole price of the paper. The other eight pages are filled with entertaining reading matter. Buy your own Canadian Christmas Paper, only 15 cents; for sale by all booksellers.

OUR readers are all well acquainted with Mr. John Gilkinson, who formerly resided in this town. He has always been noted as a thorough horseman, and we are sure his many friends here will wish him success in his latest venture. The Tara Leader says: Mr. J. Gilkinson, of this village, is now proprietor of "Clear Grit," having purchased him from Mr. J. R. Trimble, of Markdale, three weeks ago. "Clear Grit," is about the prettiest little stallion in Ontario, and has taken more first prizes than any other horse owned in the Dominion. Mr. Gilkinson paid a big figure for the animal, but he is sure of a good return. —Meaford Mirror.

IMPROVEMENTS.—The recent extensive improvements which have been going on in Armstrongs' saw mill in this village will be about complete this week. The changes consist of a large addition to space with other important improvements in the building, the addition of a 50 horse-power boiler and a 40 h. p. engine of the celebrated "Goldie & McCullough" make. The other machinery being all first-class and of the most improved patterns, the mill, when complete, will be one of the most extensive and perfect in the county. The object in making the above changes are to give the public better work with greater dispatch.

THE Canadian Pacific Railway are breaking the record every day. Now the North Shore Railway has been transferred to them, their time bill has been arranged that through connections to Quebec and Points in the Lower Provinces can be made from Ottawa. Toronto, Detroit, and all points West, via St. Martin Junction, 12 miles North of Montreal, thus avoiding tedious waiting at connecting points and enabling passengers to reach their destinations in as short a time as possible. We have no hesitation in saying that for comfort, excellence of road, and the politeness and attention of their servants, the Canadian Pacific Railway stands pre-eminent as the Model Road of Canada, and although one may feel inclined to smile at their streamers advertising the road, a trip will convince any unprejudiced mind that the road, equipment, scenery and punctuality are superlative in every sense of the word.

YOUNG FOLKS.



THE WOLF AND THE BEAR.

The Bear was feeling ill one fall;
So neighbor Wolf made haste to call,
To tell what best would suit his case,
And bring the color to his face.
New Doctor Wolf was shrewd of mind—
A sharper of the sharpest kind.
And when his eyes had travelled o'er
Old Bruin's tempting winter store,
Said he: "Your pulse is low indeed;
A change of life you sorely need.
A trip across the ocean blue
Might brace your failing strength anew,
Or Greenland's climate might impart
A smoother action to your heart.

But living high, I plainly see,
Is what will dig the pit for thee.
Unless you change your present style,
You'll hardly see the summer smile.
Take good advice, and fling aside
Your salted pork and mutton dried;
The pickled feet and sausage give
To those who'd rather die than live.
Of roots and herbs your meals prepare,
For health is found in simple fare."

It seemed to give the Bear delight
To learn the way to live aright.

So off the crafty Doctor ran

To tell his friends about the plan—
How Bruin now would feast no more
On stews and roasts as heretofore,
But freely scatter to the wind
Provisions of the choicest kind.

As well as even-balanced brain;
And when he heard the rack and rout,
He raised the sash, and, peeping out,
A sober face he tried to show
While thus he hailed the crowd below.
Said he, "With pain occurs the thought,
You've lost your evening's rest for naught;
For, truth to tell, depart you will
With bag and basket empty still,
As I've decided to pursue
My former course the season through,
And change my diet by-and-by—
When gone my present large supply."

A moral here uncovered shines
For those who read between the lines;
The brightest hopes will often fade,
However well the plans are laid.

No sooner had the bats of night
Commenced their wild, uncertain flight
Than from the mountain and the glen,
From rocky lair and earthy den,
The beasts came trooping, great and small,
To give the ailing Bear a call.
With bag and basket well supplied,
And apron strings securely tied,
They gathered round to get their share
Of food that might be scattered there.

Now Bruin had a humorous vein,

The last new wrinkle in overcoats has been found in creasing.

The right hand is the cleverest member of the body. It never gets left.

Mrs. McEwen—"Did you tip the waiter, Henry?" Mr. McEwen—"Yes; didn't you see me give him a quarter just before he went for the check? But he tipped me back." Mrs. McEwen—"A waiter tip you, Henry!" Mr. McEwen—"Certainly. He tipped me the wink when he handed me an eighty-five cent check for a dollar-and-a-half luncheon."

Struck With Lightning.

Neatly describes the position of a hard or soft corn when Putnam's painless Corn Extractor is applied. It does its work so quickly and without pain that it seems magical in action. Try it. Recollect the name—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Sold by all druggists and dealers everywhere.

Mother: "My little girl goes to sleep so nicely every night when I sing to her. Isn't that so, Mamie?" Mamie: "Yes, that's so." (Turning to her aunt.) "Don't tell mama, but I only make out that I am asleep to get her to stop singing, she sings so awful bad."

Regular customer (disposed to be facetious)—"I guess you'll have to trust me for this paper till morning." Clerk—"Oh, that's all right, Mr. Brown." Regular Customer—"But suppose I was to be killed between now and to morrow." Clerk—"Well, the loss would not be much, sir."

Customer—"Aren't you afraid to leave all these clothes hanging out on the sidewalk with nobody to watch them? I should think you would be afraid somebody would steal them." Dealer—"Shteal dose glothes? Mein himmel, no! (Confidentially) Vy, mein friend, I sell you, I sell deze glothes so cheap that id doesn't pay to shteal them."

A man died the other day who never had but one love. Don't be incredulous, girls. He fell in love with himself early in life and never fell out again.

It is said on good authority that just before the outbreak of cholera in Toulon the swallows suddenly disappeared from the locality. An officer in the Bengal Cavalry said in reference to this that during a cholera epidemic in India he had noticed that, though many of the dead remained unburied, all of the carrion-eating birds had disappeared.

"Have you found religion yet, my friend the Rev. Sam Jones inquired of one of his hearers. "No," was the reply. "What your occupation, may I ask?" "I'm a detective." "H'm!" observed the great revivalist, "that accounts for it."

A new explosive has been invented that is said to be about the same as twin brother to an earthquake. The nation doesn't need sure death at a mile and a quarter half as badly as it does some sort of a reliable contrivance for getting a boy up in the morning.

The megaloscope is a new apparatus lately brought to the notice of the Academie des Sciences. It is armed with an incandescent light, and is used to explore the stomach, bladder, and other cavities of the body. By its means, an objective lens may be carried into the cavity and a magnified image of its interior be obtained for the physician's inspection.

Never Open Your Mouth

except to put something to eat into in, is an excellent motto for the gossip and the sufferer from catarrh. But while the gossip is practically incurable, there is no excuse for anyone's suffering longer from catarrh. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is an unfailing cure for that offensive disease. It heals the diseased membrane, and removes the dull depressed sensations which always attend catarrh. A short trial of this valuable preparation will make the sufferer feel like a new being.

The footmen who wait solely upon the Queen of Sweden and her daughter wear a very quaint uniform, consisting of tunic, petticoat and breeches edged with gold lace. Their attire includes a wonderful headdress, consisting of a kind of embroidered skull-cap from which arises three ostrich feathers, none of which is less than three feet high.

Don't take that "cocktail in the morning." If you have a "swelled head," nauseated stomach, and unstrung nerves resulting from the "convivial party last night." The sure and safe way, to clear the cobwebs from the brain, recover zest for food, and tone up the nervous system, is to use Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets." Sold by all druggists.

The Manchester Gallery of Paintings is to be lighted with electricity.

The only reliable cure for catarrh is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Ex-President Arthur is so bothered by persons who request him to sign all sorts of documents and petitions that he has made it his ruler, as a matter of self-protection and in justice to every one, not to sign any petition.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not all grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influence, produces a better quality than any others. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

Extinguishing a lamp is like a small supper; it is a light blow-out.

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS—Opium, morphine and kindred habits. Valuable treatise sent free. The medicine may be given in tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the person taking it, if so desired. Send two 3c stamps for full particulars and testimonials of those who have been cured Address M. V. Luban, agency, 47 Wellington street east, Toronto, Canada.

The daughters of a millionaire always have fine figures.

Imperial Cough Drops will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto.

A.P.257

FOR SALE — SEVERAL FIRST-CLASS IMPROVED Farms—easy terms of payment. O. G. MARTEN, Leamington, Essex County.

PATENT RIGHT FOR SALE—LAMP GLASS cleaner and dish washer combined; patented September, 1885; send 25c. for sample and particulars JNO. W. C. O'KEEFE, Box 35, Arnprior, Ont.

YOUR NAME, ADDRESS AND TEN CENTS, mailed Bengough's Shorthand Business Institute Toronto, will bring you a copy of Cosmopolitan Shorthander, best journal in America. Price, $1.00. Send for Calendar.

MACHINERY FOR SALE ENGINES AND Boilers, Saw and Shingle Mills, Planing Factory Outfits. Stave and Heading Machines, Waterwheels, Chopping Mills, etc. Send for descriptive catalogue, and mention what you want. (Mention this paper.) H. W. PETRIE, Brantford, Ont.

ALLEN'S EXTRA REFINED CIDER—Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs always in stock. Allen's Clarified Cider, prepared especially for Scott Act counties. Orders promptly filled; also cash paid for common cider. ALLEN'S VINEGAR WORKS, Norwich, Ont.

SCIATICA, INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM, Gout, Neuralgia, and Lumbago effectually cured by a remedy invented by one who was himself cured by it after being three years on crutches with sciatica; abundant testimonials as to its beneficial effects in above-mentioned diseases; remedy expressed to any address. S. J. LANCASTER, Petrolia, Ont.

A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE Hillmer's Rye Water has proved itself a success by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the undersigned certificates. It cured me, 3 years blind, oculist failed, O. Fortin; it has cured me, oculist would not try me, Alexander Wand, 6 years blind, Chas. Amiott; 4 years, Ellis Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, John Lecreix. Ask your druggists for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 204 St. Paul St., Montreal.

A BIG OFFER To introduce them, we will GIVE AWAY 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office, at once. THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N.Y.

RUGS Beautiful Colored Designs of Flowers, Birds, Animals, Etc., printed on burlap (Cloth) to be worked in rags, yarn, &c. Wholesale and retail. Large discount to dealers and Agents. Send to manufacturer for catalogue.

R. W. ROSS, Guelph, Ont.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE BEST SELLING Patented Article in Canada to-day. Send 25 cents for Sample and Agents' Terms. DELOUCHE & Co., Guelph.

JAMES PARK & SON,

Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon, Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of Irish Fine Dairy Salt in Stock

FOR PLEASANT SEWING

—USE ONLY—

Clapperton's Spool Cotton

Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers

TO PRINTERS.

FOUR (4) FIRST-CLASS COTTRELL POWER Presses For Sale, for hand or steam power. Selling only to make way for faster presses.

S. FRANK WILSON,
"TRUTH" OFFICE,
TORONTO, ONT.

Free Lands and Cheap Homes

FOR THE MILLION

Along the line of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in Central Dakota and Northern Nebraska. New sections are being opened up and rapidly settled in these wonderfully productive regions, and the "first comers" will have "first choice" of location.

For full information (which will be sent you free of charge) about the free lands and cheap homes, apply to

JOHN H. MORLEY,
Western Canadian Pass. Agent, C. & N. W. R.,
9 York St., Toronto, Ont.
R. S. HAIR, General Pass. Agent,
Chicago, Ills

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday, and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N. F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow Royal mail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly. Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St. John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Allen, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan Portland, Boston, Montreal.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

BY MAIL

At less than Wholesale Prices. All well assorted. No two alike. Postage prepaid. BIRTHDAY CARDS may be included.

		Not Fringed.	Fringed.
25 CARDS, good value, for		$ 25	$1 50.
25 "	larger, "	50	2 25.
25 "	very fine, "	1.00	3 25

☞ Orders may be proportionately mixed. Cash to accompany order. Address,

Matthews Bros. & Co., Toronto

CAUTION.

EACH PLUG OF THE

MYRTLE NAVY

IS MARKED

T & B.

IN BRONZED LETTERS.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.

CUT THIS OUT

The New Co-Operative

Sewing Machines

—ARE THE—

BEST IN THE MARKET.

NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!

Latest Improved Attachments

Agents price for similar machine $50

Our price only $25 each.

Before buying send us stamp for our elegant photograph and sample of sewing.

☞ Machines guaranteed for three years and sent on trial

Any lad wantin a machine will do well to write us

THE CO-OPERATIVE

Sewing Machine Co.

99 JAMES ST. SOUTH HAMILTON, ONT.

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER

Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. 13 FRONT ST. EAST.

HOWARD IRON WORKS, - BUFFALO, N.Y.

—MANUFACTURERS OF—

PAPER CUTTERS AND BOOKBINDERS' MACHINERY.

—SEND FOR CATALOGUE—

J. H. VIVIAN, AG'T FOR CANADA

27 & 29 ADELAIDE ST. EAST, TORONTO, ONT.

R. Hay & Co.

TORONTO.

LIQUIDATION SALE.

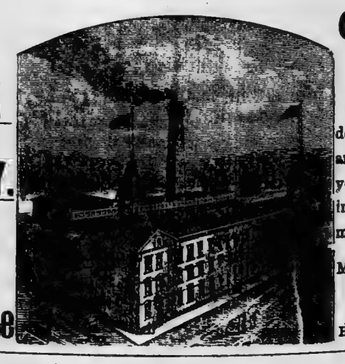
Owing to the failing health of the senior member of our firm we have been obliged to abandon the contemplated continuance of the business.

The manufacturing premises, machinery, &c., have already been sold.

The entire stock of furniture, upholstering material, &c., amounting to over $30,000 must be disposed of as speedily as possible.

The furniture is all our own manufacture, and the reputation earned by this firm during the last 50 years is a sufficient guarantee of its quality.

The liquidation being peremptory, dealers and the general public are now afforded such an opportunity as has never occurred heretofore in Canada.



Toronto, 12th Nov., 1885.

R. HAY & CO.

MERIDEN BRITANNIA COMPANY.

FINEST

Electro Plate

CAUTION

—

Goods stamped "Meriden Silver Plate Co." are not our make. If you want reliable goods insist on getting those made by the

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.

HAMILTON

Important to All Who Desire More Light

THE HARVEY "SAFETY LAMP"

is superior to every other domestic light used, NOT EXCEPTING GAS. This is a Central Draught Burner in GLASS BOWLS in various ornamental designs on metal and glass stands. It consumes but half the quantity of oil that the so-called electric lamp uses. It is the brightest oil lamp ever invented. Manufacturers also of the "Solar Star Lamp" in Brass and Nickel. This lamp took FIRST PRIZE and SILVER MEDAL at Toronto's Industrial Exhibition, 1885

HARVEY SAFETY LAMP.—We have been favored with a view of this new petroleum light, and we are strongly convinced of its superiority as a coal oil burner over any lamp yet placed on the market. The air chamber in which the wick-case is suspended has capacity at the collar permitting a constant circulation of air downward around the wick-case, thus giving a direct current upward through the wick-case into the central draught. By this arrangement the wick-case is isolated from the oil, a small tube conveying sufficient oil through to the wick. This lamp is constructed upon thoroughly practical and scientific principles, and the result obtained is a beautiful soft white light which for economy, brilliancy and steadiness is not surpassed by either gas or electricity.—Toronto Truth.

☞ Correspondence with dealers, and inspection invited.

OFFICE: 9 Adelaide St. West, Toronto

HARVEY & TRUAX.

The Old Story.

BY A. A. M.

...k of the slime on her golden hair,
...k as her bosom muddy and bare,
...k as her body lying there,
...e as the face of the landing stair.

...t brought the poor wanderer here,
...e stared at by crowds with a pitying leer?
...e one she loved was her life, was her all,
...d left her alone with the shame of her fall.

...r child! thy burden was hard to bear,
...d the bearer was sorely laden with care.
...king for rest, she sought it in vain,
...e cruel to keep the poor lone one in pain.

...e ran to the river she fled for relief,
...d the kindly waters buried her grief;
...o trace habited her, no tale of her shame,
...e a note, not a letter, not even a name.

And they'll say that her life had been guilty;
That she'd sinned from her youth until now,
Poor child, she was not yet twenty,
Yet she sinned and died. Why? How?

Poor, broken, bleeding heart,
Thy trials at last are o'er.
And now no cruel earthly dart
Can pierce thy bosom more.

Perhaps in some peaceful region
Thy weary heart's at rest,
And there by that white robed legion,
Thy erring soul's caressed.

Caressed by their heavenly fingers,
Far off on that golden shore,
Where never pain nor misery lingers,
Safe and pure for evermore.

CHRISTMAS NIGHT AMONG WOLVES.

A Thrilling Tale of Pioneer Life in Ontario.

...t a few days since, my eye fell upon a ...ing description of a contest with wolves. ...details stirred some bitter memories of ...past. The very name of wolf, causes a ...der to creep over me, and brings back ...ain of most bitter associations. A dark, ...rible vision falls upon the inward soul, ...freezing incidents being as vividly portrayed as when enacted long years ago. ...eader, indulge an old friend in a brief ...of facts. Draw your chair closer to the ...and I will tell you a story of Christmas ...t which will stir your blood.

...t you know Carry Mason? Why do I ...the question, for years have gone by ...e she died. I knew her and loved her. ...o could know her and not love her?

...Carry! I turn back into the past when ...world was all a paradise and she its ...liest angel. She was beautiful—how ...utiful! No thing on earth was ever ...e so. I will not attempt to describe her. ...light cloud tracing the summer sky, was ...more graceful; no snow-flake ever ...er; no warbling bird or dancing stream, ...more happy or gleeful. And yet she ...a spirit which soared, and her blue eye, ...mild as the depths of a summer sky, ...ld melt in tears or flash indignantly at ...ht of wrong. She was surpassingly ...utiful in form, and angelic in mind. ...h was the guiding star of my youth—the ...ly flower which beamed out in the then ...derness. Do you wonder that I loved ...? I love her now as embalmed in mem- ...around me in the winter of life. The ...ry Mason of earth, is dead. I know ...t. But the Carry Mason of Heaven, ...e, and I love her as I love the things ...Heaven. Years have swept by and ...ed the snow among my locks and my eye ...s dimly out upon the world; yet that ...bright dream lingers as freshly in the ...rt as when treasured there in the spring ...of life.

...Closer with your chair. Heap on more ...l, for chills creep over me as that blast ...s by. I can hear the snow sift thickly ...inst the window pane. I know that a ...k, white snow-shroud is silently weav- ...over the leafless, bladeless, flowerless ...th. So has time woven a shroud over all ...bright hopes of my youth.

...The drifts are piling up! Away back of ...village church, the heaps lie upon the ...ves of the dead. Carry lies there. I ...the spot now, even as I watch the blaze ...l listen to the wind without. The snow ...re gathered is not purer than the spirit ...Carry.

...That was a fierce one! The night winds ...e a language. I understand it. Long ...ong years I have sat here and listened. ...they go past, they whisper, and I wan- ...in thought until the ashes gather on the ...ing hearth.

...How the winds shriek and wail! They ...e a touching moan. It makes me sad ...hear them sigh, and I people the night ...with spirits of grief. Now a faint, ...an dirge goes by. There! hark to a ...ick which leaves a freezing sense of some ...ful crime committed. And yet the ...ds are company for me. They have ...n my sole companions for years. ...let the winds murmur, for I should miss ...r faintest whisper.

...Forty-eight years ago! ...Time has fled fleetly. It seems but a day, ...d yet I look in the glass across the table ...see the withered features of an old man. ...t myself that is old? I draw my hand ...r a face of wrinkles and then lay it upon ...mooth bald head. Around the ears, are ...e, white locks, and a well worn staff ...ten in the firelight. ...Years have gone by, while the heart has ...n dreaming all though there was no ...ter after the spring time of youth. ...Forty-eight years ago, as I said, my ...her's family settled in one of the counties ...central Ontario. All was a wilderness, ...d, grand, beautiful. We located fifteen ...s from the farthest pioneer "clearing." ...e shadows were around us, the tall trees ...d the picturesque hills. ...Many a summer's day have I toiled up ...hill sides and looked out upon a sea of ...es as it swayed and rolled in the summer ...ze, or watched the waning sun as it ...ared to bathe the whole wilderness in ...od of gold and crimson. All was very ...utiful. ...The axe had opened a space in the forest, ...d a cabin of that good old time, afforded ...shelter. It looked new and comfortable, ...d its chimney-smoke curled gracefully ...d and vanished with the shadows of the ...ght. The blackened heaps smoked and ...kled, and deep in those wild-wood ...ches, the wilderness blossomed and ...ded in the presence of yellow harvests. ...sturdy home was there. The birds sang ...cheerily there, and the deep river near the ...e murmured sweetly at nightfall. There ...e gentle whisperings in the old trees, ...they bowed their heads in the winds, a ...y anthem floated up from the vast ...ples where Nature breathed fresh and pure from ...

flowers blo...
and the dee...
gaze on the ...
'Twas a ...
ness!
The sprig...
a great day...
chased land...
a warm we...
by the rea...
comfortabl...
dense wood...
watched th...
sun went d...
the next ...
smoke that...
knew that ...
side where ...
ever bloom...
And so I w... as I watch...
its beautif...
and listene...
steps.
Across t...
Mason. B... had droppe... stream, I ... tell her so...
hidden hon...
The leav... swept thr...
little for ...
fast, but o...
our hearts ...
hope. Wi...
birds retur...
I was ha...
A Chris...
Did you e...
are large h...
be found.
Carry an... parts. A...
and in twi...
soon passe...
merry and...
on a fronti...
the wide h...
frolic rang...
the moo...
ed for hor...
But we he...
the stout ...
Carry gr...
The wind ...
pines, and...
nestled cl...
less glee.
dow would...
The road...
of pines, ...
even the s...
swayed an...
and the sn...
ed the hor...
briskly th...
Again C...
nothing s...
startled as...
struck into...
happiness, ...
danger.
Again th...
was a sorr...
cheek grow...
rush quick...
Clear, w... unearthly ...
of fiends, ...
chilling ech...
storm, whe...
of threats.
Merciful ... around us...
and the st...
hungry th...
other on to...
For a m... felt Carry ... and I arou...
but wh...
weapon, a...
the path b...
but one o...
ahead.
That wa...
as I thoug...
the happy ...
through m...
At that ...
up by the ...
devil in a ...
flesh crawl...
run to the ...
though th...
Two orbs ...
I could he...
Firmly ...
sharply to...
The hor...
the inferno...
est, and th...
ed strides ...
was fearfu...
pace. T... saw a de...
as we spo...
vice like ...
her shaw...
shriek she...
I saved he...
seat.
God!
eaten aliv...
I becam...
ed to the...
We went ...
and roots ...
threatened...
sleigh.
Home w... world to ...
As the...
turned al...
fearful pr...
It was a d...
of upsetti...
river.
There ...
land whe...
was a mil...
than by ...
tempt it w...
On we s...
neck with...
jaws shut...
persons.
hoped!
How ma...
We ne...
life.
Heaven...
ed ahead ...
A demon ...
A few ...
to feel tha...
ed more ...

AUTION.
EACH PLUG OF THE YRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T & B.
IN BRONZED LETTERS.
NE OTHER GENUINE
UT THIS OUT
The New Co-Operative
ewing Machines
—ARE THE—
ST IN THE MARKET
NEW STAND! NEW FURNITURE!
est Improved Attachments
nts price for similar machine $
Our price only $25 each.
re buying send us stamp for our elegant plate
and sample of sewing.
Machines guaranteed for three years and sent o ind wantin a machine will do well to write
THE CO-OPERATIVE
ewing Machine Co.
PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER
Pure Gold Co.
MANUFACTURERS
13 FRONT ST. EAST
- BUFFALO, N.Y.
ERS OF—
ERS AND MACHINERY.
ALOGUE—
FOR CANADA.
ST. TORONTO, ONT.
& Co.
O.
N SALE.
er of our firm we have been obliged to ess.
ave already been sold.
erial, &c., amounting to over $30,000.
d the reputation earned by the
its quality.
the general public are now afforded Canada.
. HAY & CO.
CAUTION
Goods stamped M
den Silver Plate Co.
are not our make.
you want reliable go inalst on getting th
made by the
MERIDEN BRITA
NIA CO.
HAMILTON
Desire More Ligh
ETY LAMP"
used, NOT EXCEPTING GAS. es Bowls in various orna-ns. It consumes but half tric lamp uses It is the acturers also of the "Solar amp took FIRST PRIZE and ibition, 1885
een favored with a view of ly convinced of its superior-laced on the market.
pended its opening at the
and we ward around the k-case, thus giving a direct wick-case i- is led from hrough to the wick. This al and scientific principles, hite light which for compac-sed by either gas or elecspection invited.
West, Toronto
TRUAX.

The Old Story.

BY A. S. M.

Look at the slime on her golden hair,
Look at her bosom muddy and bare,
Look at her body lying there,
Close at the foot of the landing stair.

What brought the poor wanderer here,
To be stared at by crowds with a pitying leer?
Some one she loved was her life, was her all,
Had left her alone with the shame of her fall.

Poor child! thy burden was hard to bear,
And the bearer was sorely laden with care.
Seeking for rest, she sought it in vain,
'Twas cruel to keep the poor lone one in pain.

In her misery to the river she fled for relief,
And the kindly waters buried her grief;
Left no trace behind her, no tale of her shame,
Not a note, not a letter, not even a name.

And they'll say that her life had been guilty;
That she'd sinned from her youth until now,
Poor child, she was not yet twenty,
Yet she sinned and died. Why? How?

Poor, broken, bleeding heart,
Thy trials at last are o'er.
And now no cruel earthly dart
Can pierce thy bosom more.

Perhaps in some peaceful region
Thy weary heart's at rest,
And there by that white robed legion,
Thy erring soul's caressed.

Caressed by their heavenly fingers,
Far off on that golden shore,
Where never pain nor misery lingers,
Safe and pure for evermore.

CHRISTMAS NIGHT AMONG WOLVES.

A Thrilling Tale of Pioneer Life in Ontario.

But a few days since, my eye fell upon a thrilling description of a contest with wolves. The details stirred some bitter memories of the past. The very name of wolf, causes a shudder to creep over me, and brings back a train of most bitter associations. A dark, horrible vision falls upon the inward soul, the freezing incidents being as vividly portrayed as when enacted long years ago. Reader, indulge an old friend in a brief tale of facts. Draw your chair closer to the fire, and I will tell you a story of Christmas night which will stir your blood.

Did you know Carry Mason? Why do I ask the question, for years have gone by since she died. I knew her and loved her. Who could know her and not love her?

Carry! I turn back into the past when the world was all a paradise and she its loveliest angel. She was beautiful—how beautiful! No thing on earth was ever more so. I will not attempt to describe her. As light cloud tracing the summer sky, was never more graceful; no snow-flake ever purer; no warbling bird or dancing stream, ever more happy or gleeful. And yet she had a spirit which soared, and her blue eye, as mild as the depths of a summer sky, could melt in tears or flash indignantly at a tale of wrong. She was surpassingly beautiful in form, and angelic in mind. Both was the guiding star of my youth—the lovely flower which beamed out in the then wilderness. Do you wonder that I loved her? I love her now as embalmed in memory around me in the winter of life. The Carry Mason of earth, is dead. I know that. But the Carry Mason of Heaven, lives, and I love her as I love the things of Heaven. Years have swept by and whitened the snow among my locks and my eye looks dimly out upon the world; yet that fair bright dream lingers as freshly in the heart as when treasured there in the spring time of life.

Closer with your chair. Heap on more coal, for chills creep over me as that blast goes by. I can hear the snow sift thickly against the window pane. I know that a thick, white snow-shroud is silently weaving over the leafless, bladeless, flowerless earth. So has time woven a shroud over all the bright hopes of my youth.

The drifts are piling up! Away back of the village church, the heaps lie upon the graves of the dead. Carry lies there. I see the spot now, even as I watch the blaze and listen to the wind without. The snow here gathered is not purer than the spirit of Carry.

That was a fierce one! The night winds have a language. I understand it. Long, long years I have sat here and listened. As they go past, they whisper, and I wander in thought until the ashes gather on the waning hearth.

How the winds shriek and wail! They have a touching moan. It makes me sad to hear them sigh, and I people the night with spirits of grief. Now a faint, solemn dirge goes by. There! hark to a shriek which leaves a freezing sense of some fearful crime committed. And yet the winds are company for me. They have been my sole companions for years.

Let the winds murmur, for I should miss their faintest whisper.

Forty-eight years ago!

Time has fled fleetly. It seems but a day, and yet I look in the glass across the table and see the withered features of an old man. Is it myself that is old? I draw my hand over a face of wrinkles and then lay it upon a smooth bald head. Around the ears, are thin, white locks, and a well worn staff rests in the firelight.

Years have gone by, while the heart has been dreaming as though there was no winter after the spring time of youth.

Forty-eight years ago, as I said, my father's family settled in one of the counties in central Ontario All was a wilderness, wild, grand, beautiful. We located fifteen miles from the farthest pioneer "clearing." The shadows were around us, the tall trees and the picturesque hills.

Many a summer's day have I toiled up the hill sides and looked out upon a sea of green as it swayed and rolled in the summer breeze, or watched the waning sun as it lingered to bathe the whole wilderness in a flood of gold and crimson. All was very beautiful.

The axe had opened a space in the forest, and a cabin of that good old time, afforded us shelter. It looked new and comfortable, and its chimney-smoke curled gracefully up and vanished with the shadows of the sunset. The blackened heaps smoked and crackled, and deep in those wild-wood solitudes, the wilderness blossomed and smiled in the presence of yellow harvests. A happy home was there. The birds sang its earliest morn, and the deep river near the door murmured sweetly at nightfall. There were gentle whisperings in the old trees. As they bowed their heads in the winds, a holy anthem floated up from the vast temples where Nature breathed fresh and pure from the hand of God. The wild flowers bloomed even by the very door sill, and the deer stopped in the forest edge to gaze on the smoke of the chimney top.

'Twas a beautiful home in the old wilderness!

The spring brought us neighbors. 'Twas a great day when a settler came in and purchased land across the river. He received a warm welcome from pioneer hearts, and by the ready agency of pioneer hands, a comfortable log-cabin peeped out from the dense woodland of the opposite bank. I watched the smoke from its open roof as the sun went down, and eagerly looked for it the next morning. But it was not the smoke that I cared so much about. I only knew that it curled upward from the fireside where dwelt as beautiful a creature as ever bloomed away from the busy world. And so I watched the smoke and dreamed as I watched—until the moon threw down its beautiful pathway of shimmering silver, and listened for the sound of familiar footsteps.

Across the river was the home of Carry Mason. Before the mellow haze of autumn had dropped its dreamy hue on leaf and stream, I had learned to love her, and to tell her so in the still moonlight of that hidden home.

The leaves faded and the winter winds swept through the forest. But we cared little for that. The snow fell thick and fast, but our cabin homes were bright and our hearts were alive with happiness and hope. When the spring opened and the birds returned we were to be married.

I was happy.

A Christmas party in a new country. Did you ever attend one, reader? There are large hearths and open hearts there to be found.

Carry and I were invited to attend the party. A rude "jumper" had been built, and in this we started. Ten miles were soon passed, and we found ourselves in as merry and happy a throng as ever gathered on a frontier. The huge fire crackled on the wide hearth, and old fashioned fun and frolic rang out until a late hour.

The moon had gone down when we started for home, and the snow began to fall. But we heeded it not, for we talked fast as the stout horse sped on the forest path.

Carry grasped my arm and whispered hist! The wind shrieked over the tops of the dark pines, and I laughed at her fears. But she nestled closer to my side, and talked with less glee. In spite of all my efforts, a shadow would creep over my own spirits.

The road wound among a dense growth of pines, which shot upwards and veiled even the sky from our path. The old pines swayed and moaned in the increasing storm, and the snow fell fast and thickly. I touched the horse with the whip, and he moved briskly through the woods.

Again Carry grasped my arm. I heard nothing save the storm, and yet I was startled as the horse gave a quick snort and struck into a gallop. With a heart full of happiness, I had not yet dreamed of any danger.

Again the horse snorted in alarm. There was a sound above the storm. I felt my cheek grow white and cold, and the blood rush quickly back to my heart.

Clear, wild, terrific, it burst out in an unearthly howl like a wail from the world of fiends. I heard it. Its dismal, heart-chilling echoes had not died away on the storm, when it was answered from a score of throats.

Merciful God! A pack of wolves were around us! In these dark woods at night, and the storm howling overhead, a score of hungry throats were fiercely yelling each other on to the feast.

For a moment, my senses reeled. But I felt Carry leaning heavily on my shoulder, and I aroused myself.

But what hope was there? I had no weapon, and the maddened devils were in the path before and behind us. There was but one chance, and that was to push ahead.

That was a slim chance, and I grew sick as I thought of Carry. The quiet cabin and the happy hearth at home, flashed swiftly through my brain.

At that moment, a dark shadow glided up by the side of our sleigh, and so wild and devilish a yell, I never heard since. My flesh crawled on my bones. A cold shiver ran to the heart and kept over my head as though the hairs were standing on end. Two orbs glared out like demon lights, and I could hear the panting of the eager beast.

Firmly grasping the lines and shouting sharply to the horse, we shot away.

The horse needed no urging. At the act, the infernal chorus again burst out in earnest, and their dark forms leaped in lengthened strides on either side of us. The speed was fearful, and yet the yelling devils kept pace. Turning to speak to Carry, I saw a dark form leap into the path, and as we sped ahead, his teeth shut with a vice-like snap, missing Carry, but stripping her shawl from her shoulders. With a shriek she clung to me, and with my arm I saved her from being dragged out of the seat.

God! It was horrible! We were to be eaten alive!

I became maddened—reckless. I shouted to the horse, now reeking with foam. We went at a fearful rate. The stumps, and roots and uneven places in the road threatened every instant to wreck our sleigh.

Home was three miles ahead! O, for a world to give for home!

As the road struck the river bank, it turned shortly almost on the brink of a fearful precipice. Here was a new danger. It was a difficult place, and not only danger of upsetting, but of being hurled into the river.

There was a path across this angle of land where logs had been drawn out. It was a mile nearer this way to the clearing, than by the river. But I durst not attempt it with the sleigh.

On we sped! that infernal pack neck and neck with us, and every now and then, jaws shutting like steel traps close to our persons. Once around that angle, and I hoped!

How madly I shouted to the noble brute! We neared the turn in that race for life.

Heavens! the infernal devils had crossed ahead and hung in dark masses ahead. A demon instinct seemed to possess them.

A few rods more! The wolves seemed to feel that we had a chance, for they howled more devilishly than ever.

With a swoop the horse turned in spite of me. The left runner struck high on the roots of a pine, and the sleigh swung over like a flash, burying us in the new snow. Away sped the horse, and my heart sunk as I heard his quick foot steps dying out towards home!

But I had no time to think. In truth, I can remember nothing distinctly. It all seems a nightmare which I can never forget.

The maddened pack had followed the horse, and shot by us as we were thrown out upon the bank, for a number of rods. In an instant, they were upon us. I gave one long, desperate shout, in the hope of arousing the folks at the cabins. I had not time to shout again. Their hot breath burned upon me, and their dark masses gathered around like the shadows of doom. With a broken limb, I wildly kept them at bay for a moment; but fierce and closer surged the gnashing teeth. Carry lay insensible on the ground before me. There was one more chance. A stunted pine grew upon the outer edge of the bank, and shot out nearly horizontally over the river below, full a hundred feet from the surface.

Dashing madly in the teeth of the pack with my cudgel, I yelled with the waning energy of despair, grasped Carry with one arm, and dashed recklessly out upon the pine. I thought not of danger—I cared not. I braved one danger to escape a greater. I reached the branches, and breathed freer, as I heard the fierce howl of the baffled pack.

I turned my head, and, God of mercy! a long shadow was gliding along the trunk to our last refuge. Carry was helpless, and it required all the strength of intense despair to hold her and remain upon the slippery trunk. I turned to face the wolf—he was within reach of my arm! I struck with my fist, and again those fearful jaws shut with a snap as my hand brushed his head. With a demoniac growl he fastened upon the shoulder of Carry! O for help—for a weapon—for a foothold upon earth, where I could have grappled with the monster.

I heard the long fangs crunch into the flesh, and the smothered breathing, as the wolf continued to make sure of his hold. O it was horrible. I beat him over the head, but he only deigned a munching growl. I yelled, cursed, wept, prayed; but the hungry devil cared not for curses or prayers. His companions were still whining, and venturing out upon the pine. I almost wished the tree would give way.

The wolf still kept his hold upon Carry. None can dream how the blood hissed and swept through my knotted veins. At last the brute, hungry for his prey, gave a wrench and nearly threw me from the pine. Carry was helpless and insensible. Even the crunching teeth of the monster did not awaken her from the deathly swoon into which she had fallen.

Another wrench was made by the wolf, and Carry's waist slipped from my aching grasp, leaving me but the hold upon the skirt of her dress. The incarnate devil had not released his hold, but as if aware of danger beneath, retained his grip on the shoulder of Carry.

The end had come! My brain reeled. The long body of the wolf hung downward like a dark shadow into the abyss, fast wearing out my remaining strength. The blood gushed warmly from my nostrils, and lights danced and flashed across my eyeballs. The overtaxed muscles of the hand would relax and as instantly close convulsively upon the eluding skirt. I heard a tearing of stitches! The black mass beneath writhed and wrenched, as if to deepen the hold. A sharp cracking mingled with the humming of noises in my head, and the dress parted at the waist! I shrieked, as I heard the swooping sound of the fall of the black devil and his victim, as they shot down, down into the darkness. I heard something like the bay of the old house dog and the firing of guns—and heard no more.

* * * * * * *

Weeks and months passed away, before the fearful delirium of that Christmas night left me. I returned to consciousness in my father's cabin, an emaciated creature, as helpless as a child. My youth had passed away, and I was prematurely old The raven black locks of twenty, had changed to the silvery ones of eighty years of age. Look at this arm that clung to Carry! It is withered. I never have raised it since that night. In my dreams I feel again that fearful night, and awake, covered with the cold, clammy sweat that gathered upon me while on that pine.

The neighing of the horse, as he dashed into the clearing, had aroused the people at home. The empty and broken sleigh told a brief story. The howling of the wolves arose on the blast, and with guns and the old house dog, they rushed to the scene. They found me senseless upon the trunk, covered with blood, and a wolf feeling his way towards me. In turning at the sound of their approach, he slipped and went down upon the ice.

Our people looked long for Carry Mason but did not find her until next morning. They then went down on the ice, and found her corpse. The wolves had not picked her crushed bones—I thanked God for that—The fall had partially broken the ice, and the oozing water had frozen and fastened her long black hair as it had floated out. The wolf had not released his death grasp, and his teeth were buried in her pure, white shoulder.

The spring sunshine, and birds, and green leaves had come again, as I tottered out. My sisters led me to a grave on the river's bank—the grave of all my youthful hopes, and of all that I loved. The wild flowers were already starting on the sacred mound. I wept over and blessed them, for they were blooming upon the grave of Carry.

Such was the fate of my first and only love.

There never was but one Carry Mason, and she was sacrificed to the wolves forty-eight years ago this Christmas night.

A profit without honor—the gambler's.

A man started on his bridal tour, and discovered when the conductor came round that he had bought only one ticket. The minister had just pronounced the couple "one," but no railroad company is going to cheat itself by recognizing any such authority in contradiction of mathematical facts.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Christmas Fare.

The pleasures of Christmas commence at the first note of preparation for the eventful day, and its influence lasts long after the fun, frolic, and feasting have become dim memories.

It is emphatically a day of good cheer and merry-making. In many homes it is a day of family reunion, and a time when old friends and merry young people gather in old homesteads, and sit around generous wide-spread boards telling mirth-provoking stories of the long ago, and enjoying the happy present.

What was once a day of fasting has now become a day of feasting, and the dinner is considered the crowning event of the day. It is fitting that at such times the larder should groan with plenty, and the table show in all its appointments that a time of pleasure and festivity is at hand. The largest turkey, the yellowest pumpkin, the reddest cranberries, and the choicest fruit to be found in the markets, together with the most savory cakes, richest puddings, and spiciest of pies, are brought forward to do honor to the occasion.

Turkey and pumpkin pie have from time-honored custom become an indispensable part of the bill of fare for Christmas dinner. They are, however, ably sustained by a variety of other dishes, to all of which the welcome guest is expected to do justice to an extent which is not demanded of him at any other time.

Any kind of soup can be served for a first course. If oyster soup is chosen, it can be made after this recipe, and a most excellent result be secured:

Cut two medium-sized bunches of celery into small pieces, add one quart of water, and stew briskly for fifteen minutes. Strain the juice from two quarts of oysters; remove all bits of shell from the oysters; add one pint of water to the oyster juice; place it over the fire, and add also one level teaspoonful of salt, half that quantity of pepper, one-half pound of butter, and four tablespoonfuls of milk into which one tablespoonful of flour has been mixed smooth. As soon as it boils, drop in the oysters and add the water from the celery, straining it off carefully so that no bits of celery drop in. Serve as soon as it boils up.

Roasting is the general way of serving the Christmas bird, and variety is chiefly made for filling and gravy.

A medium-sized turkey will require two and a half or three hours' roasting; a large one will need to be cooked an hour longer. When placed in the oven the pan should be covered over the bottom to the depth of an inch with water, and more added from time to time as it cooks away. The turkey must be basted frequently with the gravy in the dripping-pan, and at least once with cold butter.

A good plain stuffing is made by cutting a loaf of stale bread into small pieces, adding enough salt and pepper to season it high, and water sufficient to moisten thoroughly, but not to make it so wet that it will not mould up into a firm ball. Stuff the turkey with this, filling the body and the opening for the craw.

The above forms the basis of several kinds of filling, which are variously flavored with sage, sweet marjoram, or thyme. It is well to omit all such herbs unless it is known that they will suit the taste of all the company, for it is better to have only a plain stuffing than to make it unpalatable to even one or two.

A nice stuffing is made by moistening two cupfuls of bread crumbs and the same quantity of crackers, rolled, with boiling milk, adding salt, pepper, and two hard-boiled eggs chopped fine, and mixing lightly but thoroughly.

Whole oysters mixed with bread-crumbs make a most excellent stuffing, which is liked by almost every one. Select small oysters, free them from all bits of shell, and drain them dry; add one-third as much bread-crumbs, moistened, as oysters; a liberal supply of melted butter, salt, and pepper.

A very good addition to the above is a cupful of very finely chopped celery.

It must be borne in mind, however, that variety is always more acceptable than sameness, and if celery is used in the oyster soup, it should not also appear in the stuffing, nor flavor the chopped cabbage.

White or brown gravy may be made, but the latter is to be preferred. For white gravy pour off into a pan a cupful of the clear gravy; add one cupful of boiling water, two teaspoonfuls of flour mixed smooth in one cupful of milk, and the juice of one large lemon. Stir all together until it has boiled for five minutes. To make brown gravy, pour off all the contents of the dripping-pan excepting about two cupfuls of the brown gravy at the bottom; to this add one cupful of boiling water, and two teaspoonfuls of flour stirred smooth in half a cupful of cold water. Cut up the liver and gizzard, and add them to the gravy when ready to pour into the bowl. This gravy should be thin, smooth, and very brown.

The taste of mince-pies is as varied as their contents, and they are good, bad, or indifferent according to the way the ingredients are proportioned. Mince-meat should not be spiced too highly. It is better to take a small quantity of each of a variety of spices than to depend on a larger supply of one or two kinds to give flavor.

A mince-meat which has been much praised by every one who has tasted it, is made as follows:

Take three pounds of cooked lean beef, two pounds of beef suet, five pounds of apples, two pounds of currants, three pounds of raisins, one pound of citron, three pounds of sugar, one heaping teaspoonful of cinnamon, same of ginger, same of nutmeg, one scant half teaspoonful of cloves, same of mace, same of allspice, one level teaspoonful of salt, two wine glassfuls of strong brandy, four of sherry, the juice of two lemons, one pint of water in which the fresh peel of two lemons has been boiled for three minutes, and into which has been stirred one tumbler of currant or gooseberry jelly, and as much cider as is needed to make the mince-meat sufficiently juicy. The meat, suet, apples, and raisins must be chopped as fine as possible, and the citron cut into small thin bits. All bits of skin and gristle must be carefully removed from the beef and the suet, and the suet especially must be minced to a powder.

To insure the spices being evenly distributed, mix them with the dry sugar, then mix sugar and meat together before adding the rest of the ingredients. Mix all together thoroughly, and set over fire until heated through.

Pumpkin for pies should be fine-grained and have a deep rich color. If squash is used in place of pumpkin, the pies will have a much richer flavor than if made out of the vegetable by whose name they are called.

Peel and cut the squash or pumpkin into long strips, and steam until tender; then put through a fine sieve. For each pie allow one egg, half a cupful of squash, one cupful of boiling milk, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, and a quarter of a teaspoonful each of nutmeg and cinnamon. Beat together the squash, sugar, egg, and spice; then pour on the boiling milk, stirring quickly all the time.

Cranberries should always be served with roast turkey. They are much better when prepared as follows than when stewed in the ordinary way: Put them on the fire in a large kettle with cold water sufficient to cover them well, cover closely, and stew until tender; then put through a sieve to remove the skins, return to the fire, and add enough sugar to sweeten to taste. Remove from the fire as soon as the sugar is thoroughly dissolved, which, unless it is in lumps, will be as soon as the fruit boils.

CHRISTMAS NIGHT IN THE RANKS.

The Spectre Assassin of the Picket Line

One Christmas night, when Custer's men picketed the Shenandoah Valley against Early, a man was found dead on his post, assassinated. A powerful blow, from a long, keen knife had finished him so suddenly that he had not time to fire his carbine or cry out.

Who had done this bloody deed? Men asked the question of each other, but no one could answer it. It could not have been a comrade—no enemy was near by. That gloomy winter's night, as the pickets were posted along the front of forest and thicket, the officer whispered to each man as he left him on his post:

"Remember the murder of last night! Let nobody approach from the woods."

When the relief had passed out of hearing the lonely watch began A soldier may pace a beat or take up his station in a shadow of a tree to watch and listen for the enemy who has fought him in open day and keep his nerve, but the feeling that an assassin may creep upon him and strike him to the heart makes quite another man of him.

The wind blows up betimes in fierce gusts, roaring and sobbing among the leafless trees, and again it dies away, until there is scarcely a rustling in the bushes. The fierce gusts rouse the picket to intense watchfulness, and the low rustling makes his heart beat faster. Was it on this post the picket of the night previous was murdered? He does not know, but as the thought flashes through his mind his eyes scan the earth at his feet, as if blood would not sink into the soil. It must have been this post. There is that tongue of the thicket reaching out into the field to furnish cover for an assassin, until within fifty feet of his victim. Then advantage could be taken of the broken ground to come still nearer, and one whose eyes were not looking for an assassin, would fail to detect him until he rose up to strike.

The night grows blacker, and the rush of wind whirls a snow-flake against the soldier's cheek. He starts as if struck with a missile. If storm be added to gale and darkness what chance has he against those who may prowl with murder in their hearts? He is a man of nerve and he fights against the timidity creeping into his heart. One who rides against a battery belching grape and canister should not fear a single man, if it be in storm and darkness.

What! The relief coming! He would have made oath that he had not been on his post more than an hour. Yes, it must be the relief. They are coming from the right direction, and there seems to be the right number. The assassin if he meditated further bloodshed had been baffled. His is the first post to be relieved. The relief advances and he calls out:

"Halt! Who comes there!"

"Relief guard, with the countersign!"

"Advance, officer of the guard!"

The officer steps forward, and as he bends over to whisper the word the picket drops his carbine, throws up his hands and sinks to earth.

Forward to post No. 2 Forward from that to No. 3 and down the line until No 8, the last is reached, The wind waves and shrieks among the groaning trees, and the snow flies in great white clouds, but the spectres move on and on—from post to post—from man to man. The snow deadens every footfall, there is never a whisper among them. Silently, swiftly, grimly—without a clank of saber to alarm—without shot to arouse, they move down the face of the forest, and at each post it is the same:

"Halt! Who comes there!"

"Relief guard, with the countersign!"

"Advance officer of the guard!"

Now and then the stricken picket utters a half-sob or a groan as the knife seeks his life, but there is no sound to be heard above the storm. The reserve, sheltered in their tents, half a mile away, would scarcely hear the report of a carbine.

And the spectres came with noiseless tread, moved down the front of half a mile without the echo of a foot-fall, and departed as if taken up on the wings of the gale. An hour later another relief guard passed that way. Sabers clanked, men growled and cursed, and the officer at their head stumbled over a form in his path and reached his feet to cry out:

"Dead! Murdered! The assassin has been here again!"

And they drove on with the storm, fearing yet hoping, and post No. 2 yielded up its corpse. Then deep imprecations and cries for vengeance are caught up by the wind and sent along the path to the next corpse, and the next, and the next, but as the guard gathered around the eighth there was never a whisper or word. Some men, with vengeance in their eyes looked toward the forest for trace or sign. Others, whose faces were whiter than the snow driving around them, looked across the fields, hoping to see or hear a movement to give them the clue to a pursuit.

There was no sign—no sound. The spectres had done their work and vanished. In after days men spoke of that dreadful night in low voices, and some wondered if the dead of the battle-field had risen to make war again. Others replied by one whispered word:

"Guerrillas!"

The Standard

MARKDALE DECEMBER 10, 1885

A PUBLIC LOSS.

The majority of the public wherein this paper circulates are by this time, no doubt, aware of the demise of the famous imported heavy draught Clydesdale Stallion, "Garfield." Apart from the serious loss to his owners, Messrs. Trimble & Pickell, the public at large are the heaviest loosers in an indirect sense, for the class of "Garfield's" horses ever find a ready market at very remunerative prices, and as it is now an evident fact that Ontario farmers must pay more attention to stock raising, and that class which obtains the readiest sale and highest prices in the market, is that which we must adopt. The stock of "Garfield" stood without a compeer in his class in the country for use or market. Now that he is gone, with such a heavy loss to the owners, it is questionable whether he will be replaced by another unless an effort is made by the stock raising public to in some way assist in sharing the expense and risk in purchasing another. A proposal has been suggested to Messrs. Trimble & Pickell that those desirous of propogating first-class stock or saleable horses, should subscribe a certain sum towards defraying the expense of purchasing another horse of the same class, for the district travelled by "Garfield," which proposition they have had under consideration, and have decided to make a proposal to the public which will be found in another column of this paper. "Garfield's" original cost was two thousand five hundred dollars for fitting, travelling, wages and feed until his death, in all thirty-two hundred dollars; from this may be deducted the amount on the season book, which, with necessary allowances, will net from eight hundred to one thousand dollars at most. It will therefore be seen that they are loosers to the extent of at least two thousand two hundred dollars, and in view of this we think they have a just claim on the public, and we trust that they will receive such assistance as their enterprise merits. It would be quite unecessary to anticipate any probable failure on the part of Messrs. Trimble & Pickell in faithfully carrying out any agreement entered into with the public such as their proposal contains, as their integrity and reputation is a sufficient guarantee for its due performance.

Jottings From Euphrasia.

COUNCIL MEETING—MUNICIPAL PROBABILITIES—SCHOOL MATTERS, AND OTHER ITEMS.

From the Mirror.

The township council held a regular meeting at Rocklyn on Saturday last. The business transacted was chiefly of a routine character—passing accounts, etc. A deputation was present in reference to the re-arrangement of a couple of school sections in the neighborhood of Harkaway, and numerously signed petitions bearing upon the subject were presented. The council took no action but decided to await the report of the arbitrators, which should have been presented ere this. The deputy-returning officers, were appointed. They will be the same as last year except at Rocklyn, where Mr. George Crabtree replaces Mr. Thos. Abercrombie, and at Kimberley, where Mr. Thos. Ellis succeedes Mr. James Yelland.

Though no opposition candidates have definitely announced themselves some of the present members are already on the warpath. It is now almost certain that Mr. Robert Myles will not enter the contest, and it is therefore probable that Mr. Alex. Erskine will oppose Mr. Gilray for the reeveship.

Mr. Fawcett is likely to be opposed for the deputy-reeveship by Mr. James Erskine. Perhaps both of them will run. In this connection it has been stated that the reeve of Meaford intends taking a trip through this township to talk against Mr. Fawcett because that gentleman did not vote in favor of having the June session of the County Council held at Meaford. If Mr. Fawcett did wrong the people are quite capable of finding it out without the assistance of Mr. Robert J. Agnew. It might be as well for him to mind his own business. Mr. Thompson may make it interesting enough for him at home.

Messrs. Hurd, Shepherdson and Boyd will seek re-election as councillors. The Thornbury Standard states that Mr. James Webster of Beaverdale mills is likely to be a candidate for this position. The ratepayers of Euphrasia have always shown a preference for young men of good education and business habits. Mr. Webster is just such a man, but is not yet much acquainted throughout the township. The real contest will likely be for the deputy-reeveship. In 1883 when Mr. Fawcett first became a candidate for this position, the fight was three-cornered. Mr. Erskine was elected, the vote standing: Erskine, 268; Fawcett, 230; Hurlburt, 45. In 1884 the fight was a streight one, and Mr. Fawcett was elected by a majority of 56. Last January it was again a streight fight, and Mr. Erskine was defeated by 42. It may be that next January the sixteen ladies, whose names now appear on the voters' list, will hold the balance of power. In this event the result would likely be about a tie. Mr. Erskine is a well-to-do bachelor, while Mr. Fawcett is well known as a prominent ladies' man.

THE PEDAGOGUES.

Mr. W. J. Boyd has given notice to the trustees of the Fairmount school that he will retire at the end of the year. His successor has not yet been appointed. Miss Kate Wilson intends giving up teaching, at least for a time. Miss Brennan will likely be re-engaged for the Beaverdale school. Mr. Chas. R. Sing has been re-engaged at Rocklyn. At Epping there has been considerable excitement respecting school matters lately. Mr. Wm. Guy handed in his resignation as trustee on account of permanent removal from the section. Mr. Thomas Jordan did likewise, his object being to become an applicant for the position of teacher, his Class I certificate having been revived by a recent amendment to the school law. At a meeting held recently Messrs. Samuel McKnight and Thos. Gilray were elected to fill a vacancies thus created. It now transpires that Mr. McKnight has a son who wants to be teacher. Mr. Henry Ball, the present incumbent, is a brother of Mr. Richard Ball, the old trustee, and he seeks re-appointment. And a correspondent in last week's Standard seems to think that one of the recently elected trustees can control the other. If I was a betting character and had any money, I'd bet an even amount on all three applicants, as against each other, and I'd put up an amount equal to the total of these three amounts on an outsider.

It is understood that the Beaverdale mill will be re-built in the spring, and that in the meantime Mr. Webster will procure portable machinery so as to keep the business running.

Mr. J. C. Patersen, of Blantyre, has joined the firm of J. W. Paterson & Bro., Montreal and Toronto, and they have recently purchased a paper mill at Lindsay. Mr. Paterson will remove to that town shortly. The product of the mill will be used exclusively for tarred paper, and will not be sufficient to meet the extraordinary trade of the firm in this article.

THE STANDARD to any address the balanse of the year free, by enclosing $1 for 1886.

FOUND GUILTY.—The man, Hutchison who was arrested for robbing the Thornbury Post Office was tried at Barrie and found guilty and sentenced to five years in penitentiary.

DEAD.—W. H. Vanderbilt, the great American Railroad King, died suddenly on Tuesday at his residence in New York. Paralysis was the cause of his sudden demise.

TO THE PUBLIC.

—:o:—

We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

—:o:—

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885. 265-tf

P. McCullough.

BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, &c.

OFFICE—OVER McFARLAND'S STORE,

MARKDALE.

Money to Loan. 274

The Canadian Horticulturist,

Published monthly by the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, and now entering on its ninth year, is the only horticultural publication conducted with special reference to the peculiarities of our Canadian climate. It numbers among its contributors our ablest horticulturists.

The subscription is only ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, which entitles the subscriber to a copy of the Annual Report of the Fruit Growers' Association for the year 1885 containing the discussions at the three meetings held during the year carefully reported by a short hand writer, AND IN ADDITION, whichever of the following articles the subscriber may designate namely (1) three plants of the Ontario Strawberry, or (2) a yearling tree of the Russian Yellow Transparent Apple, or (3) a plant of the Lucretia Dewberry, or (4) a yearling vine of the Early Victor Grape, or (5) two plants of the Milboro Raspberry, or (6) a package containing three papers of seeds, viz: Gypsophila paniculata. Aquilegia cœrulea and Delphinium, mixed colors.

A sample copy will be sent to any person on application. If you take any interest in the cultivation of any kind of fruit or of vegetables or flowers, and wish to have the experience of our best cultivators and to keep abreast of the times in these matters take the Canadian Horticulturist.

Subscriptions may be sent direct to the Editor,

D. W. BEADLE, St. Catharines. 274-77

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Afflictions, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Dability and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, France or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

A LIVING QUESTION.

Question—'Is this life worth living?' Answer—'It all depends upon the liver?' If torpid or inactive it causes a dull, tough, languid feeling. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure gives health and buoyancy. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

A LIVER CURE.

One single trial of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will convince the most skeptical and confirm better than thousands of testimonials that it is a sure cure. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Dec.

BRONCHITIS.

Bronchitis comes from Colds and irritations of the Throat; Hoarseness, Cough and Sore Throat are its characteristics. These troubles may be remedied by a timely use of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

YOU INVITE DISEASE when you neglect a regular action of the bowels, and incurable disease may result. Regulate the bowels and the entire system with Burdock Blood Bitters, which acts upon the Bowels, Stomach, Liver and Blood.

THE Sunday School Papers published by Mr. Blackett Robinson, Toronto, are well adapted for Canadian schools. They are three in number, beautifully illustrated, well printed and at low prices. Send for specimen numbers, which are sent free of postage on application.

WHAT, WHEN & WHERE

—TO PURCHASE—

CHRISTMAS & NEW YEARS

PRESENTS.

WHAT TO PURCHASE.

Something Useful.

Pair of Warm Bed Blankets, — — — $3.50
Handsome Persian Lamb Cap — — — 4.00
Ladies' Fur Cap, Silk Lined, — — — 2.00
Gent's Cashmere Muffler, Silk Striped, — — 60
Child's Lovely Wool Hood — — — 50
Man's Lined Fur Top Kid Glove — — — 1.00

15 yds. Navy Blue, Seal Brown, Grenate, or Bronze Silk, $13.50, worth $18.00.

15 yds. Black Gro Grain Silk, heavy, choice goods, $1.00 per yard, regular price, $1.35.

One Rich Brocaded Ulster, $8.50.

Gent's Handsome Tie, 25 cents up.

Ladies' Wool Opera Shawls, large size, $1.50.

Rich Velvet Shawl, $4.00, old price $6.50.

Suit Gent's Underwear, all Wool, Double Breasted, best quality, $1.40.

20. lbs. Superior Japan Tea, Fresh, Imported, $7.50.

Lovely Trimmed Hat, $2.50.

One Velveteen Dress, $5.00.

One Damask Silk Handkerchief, 40 cents.

One box (28 lbs.) Valencia Raisens, $1.75.

Pair nice warm Overshoes, $1.50.

One all Wool Overcoat, $5.50, worth $8.00.

Boy's Suit, $5.00, worth $7.50.

China Teacup & Saucer, 40 cents.

Glass Bread Plate, 20 cents.

Glass Butter Dish, very handsome, 40 cents.

Large Glass Preserve Dish, colored, 70 cents.

Ladies' Hand Satchels, in Plush, Leather, and Velvet, from 50 cents up.

Pocket Knives, Braces, Gloves, Hosiery, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs, ULSTERINGS, TWEEDS, CARPETS.

WHEN TO PURCHASE.

At once, before the choice lots are sold.

WHERE to PURCHASE.

—AT—

W. J. McFarland's,

The old, reliable House, who has stood the battle and the breeze for 25 years.

Wishing my thousands of customers all the joy and happiness the season brings,

Faithfully yours,

W. J. McFARLAND.

To The Stock Raising Public.

In view of the heavy loss we have sustained by the death of our Imported Heavy Draught Clydesdale Stallion, Garfield, after only one season's use, and for the purpose of replacing him by another of the same class of equal merit if not better, it has been suggested to us by some of the prominent stock raisers of this section of the country, that we devise some scheme whereby an appreciative public could assist in sharing the burden of expense and placing us in a position of eventually making good at least in part our loss, and at the same time secure the benefits to the country that the services of a first-class horse would entail.

After careful consideration, and through the suggestions of those who take an interest in such enterprise, we have decided to submit for the consideration of the public the following proposition; viz: To give those who desire an opportunity to assist without eventually loosing anything we suggest that parties who are likely to use such a horse for the coming season for breeding purposes, become subscribers to the extent of $12 for each season mare and pay the cash in advance or give a note for thirteen dollars, payable ten months after date, of which we will give in return a due-bill as a lien on the service of the horse for one year: For those not having mares and yet disposed from public enterprise or sympathy for our loss to help in the undertaking and who become subscribers to the amount of twelve dollars in cash or note as above we will give the privilege of transferring their right of service to any other person they choose or using the horse the following year.

It will be seen that this proposal offers a substantial premium to those who may take advantage of it, as the service of the horse to all outsiders will be sixteen dollars for the season.

With the view of carrying out the above; agreements will be prepared at once by the undersigned and held open for examination or subscription.

TRIMBLE & PICKELL.

New and Renewed Subs.

E. J. Arnold, Big Springs, Jan. '87.
Wm. Croft, (new) Rockwood, Jan. '87.
Jas. Brown, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Robt. Montgomery, (new) Markdale, Jan. '87.
D. R. Ellis, Kimberly, Jan. '86.
Thos. Brown, Jr., Berkeley, Jan. '86.
Rev. D. Perry, Williamsford, July '86.
Wm. Mutrie, Markdale, Jan. '87.

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Saturday, Dec. 12th, at Queen's Hotel, Williamsford, valuable village property, grain warehouse, &c. Geo. Noble, auctioneer; William Lucas, trustee.

Friday, Dec. 11th, on lot 18, con. 1, Euphrasia, an extensive sale of farm stock, implements, &c. Terms, 12 months on approved paper on sums over $5. Mrs. Mary Stevens, proprietoress, W. J. Shepherdson, auctioneer,

Rev. J. G. Fallis, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended but with little or no effect till advise to give cGregor's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of if not the best medicine extant for dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. 2

BIRTHS.

ROSS—In Glenelg, on the 28th of Nov., the wife of Mr. Geo. Lamb, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

SIMMONS—SIMMONS,—At the residence of the bride's father, on the 2nd inst., by Rev. J. Wilson, Mr. Fisher, to Miss Simmons, both of Osprey towhship.

GILLESPIE—GILLESPIE,—By Rev. D. Perry, on the 9th inst., at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. Andrew Richie, to Miss Letitia Gillespie, all of Holland.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 80	to	0 89
Barley	35	to	56
Peas	50	to	54
Oats	25	to	27
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	4 00	to	4 25
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Chopl	17	to	18

To The Stock Raising Public.

In view of the heavy loss we have sustained by the death of our Imported Heavy Draught Clydesdale Stallion, Garfield, after only one season's use, and for the purpose of replacing him by another of the same class of equal merit if not better, it has been suggested to us by some of the prominent stock raisers of this section of the country, that we devise some scheme whereby an appreciative public could assist in sharing the burden of expense and placing us in a position of eventually making good at least in part our loss, and at the same time secure the benefits to the country that the services of a first-class horse would entail.

After careful consideration, and through the suggestions of those who take an interest in such enterprise, we have decided to submit for the consideration of the public the following proposition, viz: To give those who desire an opportunity to assist without eventually loosing anything we suggest that parties who are likely to use such a horse for the coming season for breeding purposes, become subscribers to the extent of $12 for each season mare and pay the cash in advance or give a note for thirteen dollars, payable ten months after date, of which we will give in return a due-bill as a lien on the service of the horse for one year: For those not having mares and yet disposed from public enterprise or sympathy for our loss to help in the undertaking and who become subscribers to the amount of twelve dollars in cash or note as above we will give the privilege of transferring their right of service to any other person they choose or using the horse the following year.

It will be seen that this proposal offers a substantial premium to those who may take advantage of it, as the service of the horse to all outsiders will be sixteen dollars for the season.

With the view of carrying out the above; agreements will be prepared at once by the undersigned and held open for examination or subscription.

TRIMBLE & PICKELL.

New and Renewed Subs.

E. J. Arnold, Big Springs, Jan. '87.
Wm. Croft, (new) Rockwood, Jan. 87.
Jas. Brown, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Robt Montgomery, (new) Markdale, Jan. '87.
D. R. Ellis, Kimberly, Jan. '86.
Thos. Brown, Jr., Berkeley, Jan. 86.
Rev. D. Perry, Williamsford, July 86.
Wm. Mutrie, Markdale, Jan. '87.

Standard Sale Register.

☞ Parties getting their sale bills printed at this office will receive a free notice similar to the following in the STANDARD.

Saturday, Dec. 12th, at Queen's Hotel, Williamsford, valuable village property, grain warehouse, &c. Geo. Pickle, auctioneer; William Lucas, trustee.

Friday, Dec. 11th, on lot 18, con. 1, Euphrasia, an extensive sale of farm stock, implements, &c. Terms, 12 months on approved paper on sums over $5. Mrs. Mary Stevens, proprietoress, W. J. Shepherdson, auctioneer,

Rev. J. G. Fallis, Dutton, certifies: "For some years my wife has been troubled with Dyspepsia, and has tried one thing after another recommended but with little or no effect till advise to give cGregor's Speedy Cure a trial. Since taking the first bottle I have noticed a decided improvement, and can with confidence recommend it to be one of if not the best medicine extant for Dyspepsia. This invaluable medicine for Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Kidney Complaint, is purely vegetable. Sold at Hill Bros. Trial bottles given free. 2

BIRTHS.

LAMB—In Glenelg, on the 28th of Nov., the wife of Mr. Geo. Lamb, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

FISHER—SIMMONS,—At the residence of the bride's father, on the 2nd inst., by Rev. A. Wilson, Mr. Fisher, to Miss Simmons, both of Osprey township.

RICHIE—GILLESPIE,—By Rev. D. Perry, on the 9th inst., at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. Andrew Richie, to Miss Letitia Gillespie, all of Holland.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 85
Spring Wheat	0 80	to	0 89
Barley	35	to	56
Peas	50	to	54
Oats	25	to	27
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	4 00	to	4 25
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

Hurrah for Christmas!

SANTA CLAUS,

In making his annual tour, has delivered at the

"MEDICAL -:- HALL"

A very large stock of most attractive goods for the Holiday season. Below are a few of the many lines just opened out:—

Cups & Saucers, Albums, Vases,
Toilet Sets, Cigar Cases, Poets,
Writing Desks, Work Boxes, Jewel Cases, Dolls--Wax & China,

CHILDRENS' TOYS AND PICTURE BOOKS

In great variety.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

The celebrated H. & F. Cards awarded the Gold Medal at the London Industrial Exhibition, 1884. The finest and cheapest Cards in the market.

PRAYER BOOKS, HYMN BOOKS, BIBLES AND TESTAMENTS.

Call and examine our Stock.

A -:- MERRY -:- CHRISTMAS -:- TO -:- ALL.

A. TURNER & CO.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

I HAVE just purchased a fine Berkshire Boar, 15 months old, for service at my premises. Charges, $1.00 cash.

273-77 B. COLEMAN.

FURS AND SKINS.

I WILL pay the highest price for all kinds of Furs & Skins and Wild Game that is shipped to me. Send for price-list.

GEO. W. GOERNFLO,
273-2m Hamilton, Ont.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, being lot 1, con. 8, Euphrasia, 3 miles from Markdale, 70 acres cleared and balance good hardwood bush; soil, clay loam; well watered with running stream; well fenced and in good state of cultivation; good frame house, also frame barn and cedar log stable. Will be sold together or in two parts of 100 acres each. Terms made known on application to

THOMAS MANN,
274-77 Markdale.

ESTRAY.

CAME into my premises, on or about the 1st of October, one year old steer, red and white. Any person proving property and paying expenses, can take him away.

WM. HAMPTON.
Holland, Dec. 3, '85. *274-76

PURE BRAZILLIAN PEBBLE SPECTACLES, manufactured by Frank Lazarus, late of the firm of Lazarus & Morris, formerly of Hartford County, now of No. 28, Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London, Eng., can be had of W. A. Brown, Watchmaker, &c., Markdale.

Mr. Lazarus would beg to notify his numerous friends and patrons, that he has no connection with any other firm in the Dominion, and only his Pebbles can be procured as above. Frank Lazarus, Manufeaturer Optician, 28 Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London W., England. 274-6m

Farm for Sale.

150 ACRES North ½ of lot No. 18, con. 8, Euphrasia, 100 acres cleared and under cultivation, 60 acres of which is fit for reaper and mower, fenced with cedar rails, well watered, log house and frame barn. The uncleared portion is hardwood, with sufficient cedar for fencing purposes. Soil clay loam, and almost free from stone. This is a desirable farm and will be sold on easy terms. Church and school convenient. Distance from Markdale, 9 miles; from Rocklyn, 3 miles. For further particulars apply to

JAMES BOYD,
273-tf Rocklyn P. O.

Store to Rent in Makaale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

Flouring Mills to Rent.

THE well known "Speeton Mills," within one and a half miles of Flesherton, to rent on very reasonable terms.

Apply to the executors,

JOHN W. ARMSTRONG,
WILLIAM CLAYTON,
JOHN BOLAND,

Flesherton, Nov. 25, 1885.

BARRHEAD -:- MILLS

Now in Full Blast.

Having raised my mill-dam five feet and thoroughly overhauled my grist mill, I am now in a position to turn out all work in a satisfactory manner.

Bring along your logs and we will give you your lumber home with you; also Shingles cut on short notice. Gristing and Chopping done better than heretofore.

270 W. J. ROWE.

NEW STATIONERY

—AND—

Fancy Goods

EMPORIUM.

Mrs. Williams has opened a new stock of Stationery and Fancy Goods in

DUNLOP'S OLD STAND

MARKDALE

PAPER,
ENVELOPES,
PENCILS,
SLATES,
PENS,
INK,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
POCKET BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
TOYS, &c., &c.

Head quarters for the celebrated

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.

270-77 J. HANSON.

Peerless Oil!

Ahead of All Competitors.

Ighest Honors & Cold Medal at Toronto.

SIX GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YEARS—BEST RECORD IN THE WORLD.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Ask for PEERLESS and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.,

Queen City Oil Works,
TORONTO, ONT.

ESTRAY.

A WHITE ewe lamb came to the premises of Samuel Douglas, lot 1, con. 9, Euphrasia, about the 20th October. The owner can have it by proving property, paying expenses.

SAMUEL DOUGLAS,
272-74 Markdale, P. O.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

FOR SALE,

A FIRST-CLASS Driving Mare, eight years old, sound and true. Apply at Medical Hall.

273-74 A. TURNER & CO.

SavE MoneY

By buying your

Watches,
Cocks,
Jewelry,
Spectaces,
Pipes, &c.

—AT—

JAS. G. RUSSELL'S

FLESHERTON.

A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.

217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the next Entrance Examination to High Schools for the County of Grey, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd and 23rd days of December, 1885, at the Town of Owen Sound, the Village of Markdale and the Village of Thornbury respectively. It is requested that the probable number of Candidates from each locality shall be notified to me one month antecedent to the first of the above dates.

THOMAS GORDON,
Inspector W. Grey.
Markdale, 27th October, 1885. 16-402

SAVE MONEY! CHEAP READING!!

THE STANDARD

AND THE

RURAL CANADIAN,

From now till 1st January, 1887,

FOR THE SMALL SUM OF $1.50.

By an arrangement with the publisher of the Rural Canadian, now in its ninth year of publication, we are enabled to offer both papers for $1.50. The regular price of the two is $2.

The Rural Canadian is a monthly illustrated magazine for the Farm and Home. The following are the leading Departments:—Farm and Field; Horses and Cattle; The Dairy; Sheep and Swine; Garden and Orchard; Bees and Honey; Poultry and Pets; Home Circle: The Grange Record; Rural Notes; Household Hints; Young Canada; Scientific and Useful. The music given from month to month is worth the price of several years' subscription.

The Bobcaygeon Independent styles the Rural "The agricultural authority of the Dominion."

The Cobourg World says: "One of the best papers of the kind published on the continent."

☞ SUBSCRIBE NOW

And get

BALANCE OF YEAR FREE.

NOTICE.

THE High School Entrance Examination will be held at Durham, in the Public School building on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd & 23rd of December, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. each day. Candidates are requested to send their names to the undersigned on or before the 1st December.

JAMES WINTERBORNE,
Head Master, Durham Public School.

STRAYED,

FROM the premises of the undersigned, lot 16, con. 10, Holland, last week, one red cow with piece cut off both horns: year old bull spotted red and white, yearling heifer, red; and a red and white bull calf. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery, will be suitably rewarded.

JAMES GREENAWAY,
273-75* Williamsford P. O.

THE FARM.

Warbles in Cattle.

One of my cows has, some one asks, lumps on her back, in each of which is a small hole. On the lump being pressed, sometimes a small worm will come out. These lumps are called in this district warbows. What is the cause of and remedy for them?

The lumps are produced by the sting of the female gadfly, the insertion of the ova, and its gradual growth into the maggot stage, when it presses upon and thins the skin, and eventually escapes, shortly to produce the troublesome fly which in July and August, especially in damp woodland localities, harass the cattle. Much injury is thus caused to the hides. The obvious remedy, as pointed out by Miss Ormerod, the honorary consulting entomologist of the Royal Agricultural society of England, is to destroy this cattle pest at some stage of its growth, and this is evidently most readily done when it is comparatively accessible and quiescent on the backs of the cattle. The lumps should accordingly be rubbed with concentrated brown carbolic acid, or a little acid diluted with water injected with a sharp pointed syringe into the swelling, or a dressing of mercurial ointment should be cautiously applied. The mercury, however, needs cautious using, as it is apt to be absorbed, and if freely applied causes generally irritation and mercurial poisoning. Some such cases were last spring reported in the English agricultural papers.

Cows and Curry-Comb.

It is probable that not one farmer in a hundred, says the Live Stock Monthly, ever thinks of using such a thing as the curry-comb and brush on his cows, although those instruments are used regularly in the horse stable. Yet there is just as much necessity for keeping the skin of the cow in good condition as that of the horse. No matter whether the cow is suffered to run at large in the pasture all the time, or is kept in the stable or corral and fed, the process of currying and brushing will consume but little time, and the farmer will be amply repaid for his trouble, both in the better appearance and increased yield given by the cows for their good treatment. That a currying is necessary for the health and is grateful to the animals may be seen by the habit which cows have of "brushing" each other for a half-hour at a time with the spiny surface of their tongues. The evident signs of satisfaction which they give when undergoing this process should furnish a hint to the observant farmer which needs but little trouble to act upon. In some parts of Europe where cows are kept in the barn nearly all the time, their coats are as carefully combed and attended to as is the hair of a child's head, and it is regarded as a matter of necessity. No doubt this suggestion may be laughed at by many who are accustomed to let both horses and cows go almost uncared for from one year's end to another, but the fact nevertheless remains that keeping a cow's skin in good order and cleanly is of as much importance to her well-being as keeping her well supplied with nutritious food.

Timely Suggestions.

Two recipes for tanning skin with the fur on, a subject about which we have frequent inquiry, are given by the Shoe and Leather Reporter:

"Take two parts each of alum and salt and one of saltpeter, all well pulverized. Clear the flesh of fatty matter. Sprinkle it white with the mixture. Fold in edges and roll up; remain four days; then wash with clean water, then with soap and water. Pull the skin when drying, to make it soft. Another recipe is: Lay the wet skin on a smooth slab or hard board; scrape with a dull knife until all loose flesh and film is removed; then wash off in soft water. Take a glass or stone jar, put in an ounce of oil of vitriol and a gallon of rain or river water. Let it steep in this for about half an hour. Take it out, work it with the hands until dry, when it will be pliable and soft. The more worked the softer. Use no grease."

A visit to a friend's house where the cistern water is very foul showed that everybody doesn't yet know the advantage of drawing from near the top, instead of the bottom, to have the water always sweet. By use of short pieces of common, fireman's hose, joints are easily made in pipe which are water-tight, and by use of a float the end of the pipe can always be kept near the top. My overflow pipe also connects with the bottom of the cistern by a close-fitting tin pipe with inch holes at the bottom. Thus, in case of hard showers, the cistern is thoroughly rinsed out.

The importance of having cows calve in the fall, so as to have the heaviest flow of milk in the winter, when milk and butter are high, cannot be too well understood. Some farmers value fall calves as highly as spring calves, for the reason that they are ready to turn on grass as soon as it comes in the spring, and so get the full benefit of a summer's pasture.

Referring to the necessity for supply of articles of adornment and taste for boys and girls on the farm, Dr. Hanaford proposes an association of, say, fifteen farmers, more or less, to invest in a library of really good and instructive books and valuable papers, to be taken home in turn for brief periods.

Farmers who have been in the habit of drawing potato vines to their barnyards to be worked up into manure had better omit the practice this year, especially in places where the potato rot has been prevalent. The rot is undoubtedly produced by a fungus growth which originates in the leaf, and carrying this to the manure heap is the most certain mode of spreading it over the farm.

"I will give any man $100,000 who will produce anything that will prevent a wall of pressed brick from turning white," says a prominent Chicago architect.

The Sunday movement is spreading in Europe. In Switzerland is a paper devoted to the reclamation of the Sabbath as a day of rest. It is called Le Jour de Repos.

In a flood at Serreveza a woman was swept into the river, but her skirt caught upon a hook in the wall, and she was held safely thus for three hours when rescuers came.

A Chinese banker, Han Qua of Canton, is said to be the wealthiest man in the world. He pays taxes upon estate of $450 000,000, and is estimated to be worth $1,400,000,000.

FOREIGN ECHOES.

George Barnes, once famous as the Mountain Evangelist of Kentucky, is now a missionary in India for the Church of England.

Bobo, the chimpanzee lately brought to Paris by a friend of De Brazza, the explorer, has died from the effects of the unusually cold weather which set in early in the fall.

A census of the homing pigeons in France is to be taken this winter, in order that the War Department may know how many can be depended upon for use in case of an emergency.

English entomologists are excited over the addition of a new butterfly to the British fauna, making a total of sixty-five species. The species is Lycena argiades, a common dweller in southern Europe.

The dairymen of Prussia—where farming seems to struggle under quite as great a depression now as in Great Britain—are fighting artificial butters and demanding that the Government compel the makers to call their goods by their right name.

A London project is to make plates by photo-engraving of the American illustrated magazines, print them on a common quality of paper, and get them on the foreign market at half price within four days after the issue there of the originals.

According to the Southern Practitioner, the City of Mexico being entirely without sewers or drainage, the mortality is at the high rate of 50 per 1,000 of population annually. In Guanajuato, a city of 58,000 inhabitants, the death rate is said to be 74 per 1,000.

The telephone has been introduced into many of the hotels and cafes of Belgium, and guests are allowed to make use of it without charge. Under the circumstances the user makes a point of ordering some refreshment, so that the proprietor gets his money back.

The expression "galvanizing a corpse" has ceased to be exclusively metaphorical. M. Kargovaty, a Frenchman, has discovered a method of preserving bodies by giving them a metal coating. We may, according to our means, become silver-plated, nickel-plated, or galvanized with zinc or copper. The process has been thus far tested successfully on eleven human bodies and more than one hundred times on the carcasses of animals.

M. Renan is about to come before the world as a dramatic author; though, as the "Pretre de Nemi" is in five long acts, and is moreover, announced as a "philosophical drama," it can hardly be intended for stage representation. He says that he has aimed at two objects in the work, the first being to exhibit the workings of democracy, as he conceives them, in antiquity, while the second, which he declares he has had before him in all his writings, is to demonstrate the impossibility of the existence of society without religious belief of some sort or other.

Prince Alexander of Bulgaria's household is very limited in number. There are four servants, all of the sterner sex—Germans—whom the Prince brought with him from his old home in Hesse, besides a hall porter and the Resto-Baja, who is a martial-looking Montenegrin, with smartly turned up moustache. The Aides-de Camp are former comrades of his Highness, the most prominent among them being Baron Corvin, who was Captain of the company in the Russian garde-du-corps in which the Prince served as Lieutenant. A friend of his boyhood, Herr Mengens, occupies the position of private secretary to the Prince.

A very simple, though somewhat expensive, arrangement of telephone wires has been introduced in a Glasgow merchant's office by which, it is stated, the annoyances of induction are prevented. The office is connected with the proprietor's dwelling house, some thirty miles distant, by a private line. To prevent disturbance from induction of other wires, and the wires, he employs a return wire, and the wires are simply arranged in a spiral or helical form, as follows: Suppose each post to be provided with four insulators, arranged at the four angles of a square, the sending wire is attached to insulator 1 on the first post, 2 on the second, 3 on the third, 4 on the fourth, 5 on the fifth, and so on. The return wire is attached to the insulators at the opposite corners of the square, or what would correspond to that position, thus forming the helix.

It seems that the want of entire success with steel sleepers on some of the English railways has led to the substitution of an article which, it is thought, will meet the deficiencies hitherto experienced. According to the new system, the metallic sleeper is rolled to the requisite trough-like section. Under each rail is a sole plate to strengthen it there. The chair is formed of two jaws made of steel plate, stamped into form and ribbed centrally so as to give strength to resist the pressure of the wedge. The jaws, sole plate, and sleeper are united by rivets passing through the three thicknesses. The iron sleepers that these are intended to take the place of were sufficiently elastic and did not rust sensibly, but, being seriously weakened by the large holes necessitated by the character of the fastenings, and these holes being situated on other side of the rail just where the strain on the sleepers was greatest, the latter were continally breaking there, thus rendering it obvious that the acknowledged advantages of metal sleepers must be realized under an improved system.

Henry Labouchere is going over to Dublin to conduct his own defence in the suit brought against him by Alderman Harris, a distinguished Hebrew discounter of that city. There is a good deal of curiosity to see whether he will hold his own against the lights of the Irish bar as he hashown himself well able to hold it against their English brethren. At all events, there will be a lot of fun, as the Irish lawyers are infinitely wittier and gayer. Labouchere is very popular in Ireland.

The Diocesan Synod of Armagh lately discovered the practice existing in various parts of the north of Ireland of drinking ether instead of whiskey. The habit prevails largely, and has given rise to several cases of insanity. The cause of the preference for ether is that it is a cheaper intoxicant. The synod recommends that the traffic in this and other noxious drugs be restricted; so north of Ireland men well soon have to fall back again on whiskey.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

During the past week the club museum received the following valuable relics:

A skull supposed to be 12,000 years old, and to have belonged to an Indian princess. Any of her relatives can have the skull at any time by producing the proper indentification papers and paying the Librarian $2.

A two-inch auger which was picked up on the battle-field of Lundy's Lane. How many soldiers were killed by this deadly weapon is not known for sure, but the Librarian has placed the number at 200 for convenience sake.

A boot-jack dug out of a mound in Nova Scotia, and supposed to have retired from active business several thousand years ago.

The public-spirited citizens who forwarded the above curios will please consider themselves duly thanked by a large majority.

ABOUT MOTTOES.

"I doan' go much on mottoes an' sich," said Brother Gardner as he opened the meeting in the usual degree and winked to Samuel Shin to raise the alley window.

"I once knowed a man who sot out in life wid de motto: 'Excelsior.' He was proud of it, an' he stuck to it, an' de las' time I saw him he was in de poo'-house. He got so tired of luggin' dat motto around dat he couldn't work ober three days in de week.

"I once knowed a man who had de motto: 'Time is Money' hung in ebery room in his house. He invariably rushed in his co'n ten days too airly, an' den tried to aiverage up things by plantin' his taters twenty days too late. De only occashun when he got even wid time was when he jumped his clock half an hour ahead. De only time when he had a decent crap was when he lay sick an' his wife worked de truck patch.

"I once knowed a man who carried de motto of 'A Penny Saved am a Penny Aimed' in all his pockets, an' no pusson eber found him wid a dollar in cash to his name. He was all on de save an' nuffin on de airn.

"Doan' you git de ideah inter yer heads dat a motto or a maxim am gwine ter feed an' clothe ye an' whoop up rent and doctor bills. It's mo' in de man dan in de maxim. I kin show ye forty pussons in my nayburhood who sot on deir noses all summer an' keep deir eyes on de maxim: 'Industry am de Road to Wealth.' I kin show ye forty mo' who hang up de motto of 'Providence will Purvide!' and sot down fur Providence to do so. If de wife airns a dollar dat's Providence.

"Stidy work at fair wages, wid a domestic wife to boss de kitchen, am motto enuff for any of us. If anything furder am wanted let us strive to be honest, truthful, charitable an' virtuous. We needn't hang out a sign on de fences dat we am str vin', but jist git dar' widout any Fo'th of July fireworks to attract public attenshun. Let us now purceed."

GRANTED.

A communication from the office of the Mayor of Pekin, Ill., asked permission to name a street in that city largely inhabited by colored people "Brother Gardner Avenue."

"While I doan' want to rob Gerrit Smith or Charles Sumner of opportunities," said the President, "I doan' want to seem capshus about small matters. Permishun am darfore granted."

DON'T KNOW 'EM.

A communication from the office of the Attorney-General of Indiana inquired if the "Honorable Egg and Chicken Destroyers" of Indianapolis were a branch of Lime-Kiln Club. Several of them lately arrested for grave offenses had claimed that such was the case.

Brother Gardner instructed the Secretary to reply in the most positive cardinal ink that the Lime-Kiln Club didn't even know the society mentioned, and that, further, it didn't care to.

SQUELCHED.

Prof. Boneblack Dawson then bobbed up and offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, Dat in our opinion, de continuashun of freedom, peace an' good-will in dis kentry demands de immediate annexashun of de Isle of Cuba, either by purchase or de fo'ce of arms."

"What's dat?" sharply queried the President. "Let de Seckretary read dat resolushun agin!"

It was re-read, and Brother Gardner looked across at the Professor and said:

"Purfessor, did you write dat?"

"Yes, sah."

"Does you seem to feel dat way?"

"I does, sah."

"Werry well, de Committee on Annexashun will conduct you to room 'B' on the second flo' an' poultice your head wid a branmash! You's got 'em bad an' it am our solemn dooty to cure you if a remedy kin be found. Remove de patient!'

The puzzled and wondering Professor was speedily taken in charge and removed, and when he had disappeared the President continued:

"When a man who airns an aiverage of fo' dollars a week, an' who may possibly hev trabbled as far as Toledo an' back, gits de ideah in his head dat he fully realizes de wants an' needs of dis kentry, an' dat all de wheels would stop if he let go de handle, sunthin' should be done fur him right away. He's bad off."

A DESERVED REBUKE.

The Chairman of the Committee on Pomology was then asked for his quarterly report and he replied that he had none to make.

"Brudder Seek-no-Further Smith, didn't I 'pint you an' Bell-Flower Jones an' Huckleberry Hawkinson dat committee 'way back last summer?" asked the President.

"Yes, sah."

"Does dis club know, from any pints furnished by you, whether dar' was peaches, plums an' apples 'nuff to go 'round? Has you furnished any statistics about de yield of de huckleberry? Am we long or short on de cranberry crop? Did dis meshun stop short at 5,000,000 watermelyons? Am de persimmon gwine to turn out glorious, or only so-so? Will de peanut abound dis winter, or has we got to turn to popcorn to keep our jaws gwine?"

"I dunno, sah. We didn't hev no time to look up sich things," replied the defaulter.

"Oh, you didn't! Well, you'll hev a good deal mo' time on ye hands arter dis meetin'! De sentence of dis court am dat your committee be upsot, an' dat each one of you pay a fine of $6 000 an' doan' come widin thirty-eight feet of de stove dis hull winter long. Let other committees take warnin' by your downfall."

REPARATION.

Sir Isaac Walpole desired to call attention to the fact that some member dropped a bogus dime into the collection box at the last meeting, and also to the further fact that the weekly collections had been steadily decreasing for the last month. He didn't know whether political excitement or the approach of the melancholy season was the cause for it, but such action would soon place the Committee on Ways and Means in a very embarrassing position.

"I reckon I'll walk around wid you dis eavenin' an' stretch my legs a bit," said the President, and he descended and accompanied Sir Isaac on his tour.

It was wonderful how the cash account looked up, and how ready and willing each member was to give. Even Elder Toots, who generally gets off on a cent, dropped in a dime and scorched his pockets for more. The collection counted up over $12, and there wasn't a lead nickel in the whole lot.

How to Give Christmas Presents.

After the momentous question of what to give at Christmas has been decided, comes the one of how the gifts shall be bestowed.

The time-honored stocking as a receptacle for the gifts bestowed by Santa Claus heads the list. The child who has never had the pleasure of timidly taking a first look at his laden stocking, strangely changed from the gaunt slenderness in which he had left it the night before, on a humpy, knobby plumpness very suggestive of interior richness, and of gayly drawing out the topmost bundles, and tremblingly investigating the far regions of the toe, has missed one source of joy that should have fallen to his lot.

A pleasant fashion is to put a sprig of cedar on the front of each stocking near the top. The children, no matter how cold and stormy the weather, enjoy gathering the green themselves the day before Christmas, and trimming off a spray for each stocking.

When the stockings are hung at bed-time, each is dressed with a tiny sprig of cedar, and after the children have wound up their frolic with a Christmas song, they go to bed to dream of the next morning's pleasures.

When two or three families are to be gathered together for the holiday season, an appropriate holder for the gifts is a large stocking, roomy enough to hold all the presents, large and small, excepting, of course, such things as a rocking-horse and a piano, or such of their cousins in size as may be included in the collection.

The stocking should be made of bright-colored cambric, cut the shape of a stocking, but of a short and stubby one, and trimmed with green. It is hung in its place by the mantle-piece before the younger members of the party are obliged to say good-night. The gifts are given into the charge of one or two persons to be placed in the stocking, which is emptied of its treasures on Christmas morning at as early an hour as wide-awake juveniles and nap-loving elders can agree upon. Each gift is done up into a neat package, plainly marked with the name of the person for whom it is intended. Some one appointed to unload the stocking, and two or three assistants from among the children distribute the packages as the names are read.

Of Christmas trees there are all sizes, shapes, and kinds. The tree may tower to the ceiling in a richly furnished parlor, or it may reach the height of a few feet only in some cottage, but it is very doubtful if the lofty specimen will afford more pleasure than its lowly neighbor.

It does not take much work to make a tree look gay and festive. From branch to branch are hung chains of gilt and silver paper, made by cutting the paper into narrow strips three inches long, and pasting half the strips into rings by joining the ends together, then all into a long chain by slipping the other strips through the rings already made, and joining the ends as before. Wreaths of bright berries are placed on the topmost boughs. Hollow egg shells, colored light shades, or those covered with gold and silver paper, are hung on the tips of branches by tying a thread around a tassel made of tissue-paper cut into very fine strips, passing the thread through the holes in the egg, and tying other end around the branch. The best effect is obtained by making the holes in the side instead of the end of the shells. Tiny horns of colored paper, are also hung, large end down, from the branches; wherever they can be placed with safety, are put small candles. When the presents are arranged to show to the best advantage, and the candles lighted, the tree makes a pretty sight to both young and old.

In a certain family this Christmas the gifts are to be presented in the following manner:

A week before Christmas each member of the family will find tied on his or her door-knob in the morning an invitation from Santa Claus to be present in the front parlor on Christmas morning at seven o'clock. Each note is to be written on bright-colored paper, cut into fancy shape, and each different. The notes will be securely sealed, addressed in a scraggy hand which can not be traced to any one about the house, and so is calculated to provide the children with the mystery they so much injoy. The friends who are to spend Christmas at the same house will receive similar invitations.

The parlors when opened on Christmas morning are to be dimly lighted, and will disclose the sleigh in which Santa Claus is making his rounds and the jolly old gentleman himself, who, after a few remarks of greeting, calls on some one of the grown up people present to carry the gifts, which he finds among his load of furs and bundles, to the expectant company seated at a respectful distance.

Santa Claus is to be dressed in a fur coat and cap, and will have a full white beard and wig. The last have been manufactured at home out of wool and cotton. Small bells, sewed along the sleeves of his coat, which ring whenever he moves, will add much to the effect. The sleigh will be brought in whole or piecemeal, as best suits the size of the doors, and after it is in will be arranged in the back parlor close to the folding-doors leading into the front parlor, and in such a position that the horses are supposed to have stopped just after they had got out of sight. The sleigh is to be provided with fur robes, and filled with the gifts, some done up in packages, and others left without any wrappings. As soon as Santa Claus has filled his arms with the last of the presents the sleigh is to be quietly drawn from sight and taken out, and when Santa Claus hands the last bundle to his assistant he will discover that his team has started on without him, and with a grand flourish and good-by's and loud "whoas!" he will run out after it.

A Christmas pie afforded much [illegible] at a family party. Most of the [illegible] been given in the morning, but one [illegible] person present had been reserved [illegible] dish, which was in the shape of a [illegible] fashioned pie, though really not a pie [illegible]

The presents, which were all [illegible] was a ring, one a locket, another a [illegible] lace, a third a five-dollar gold piece [illegible] chase some books a certain boy had [illegible] necessary to complete his happiness [illegible] done up in small packages, tied with [illegible] and covered up in the time white [illegible] which the bowl was filled. The [illegible] rounded up on top, hiding the [illegible] and was decorated with a wreath of [illegible] around the edge, and a sprig of holly [illegible] in the centre.

It was passed around the table, and [illegible] person allowed to put in his finger [illegible] draw out one package. Each package [illegible] on it the name of the person for whom [illegible] was intended, and as few, if any, knew [illegible] own, there was considerable passing [illegible] gayly tied packages, which added [illegible] fun.

Another Christmas pie, which looks [illegible] ly like a real pie, and gives no evidence [illegible] it contains anything more than a pie [illegible] crust made without shortening. After [illegible] under crust is placed in the dish, filled [illegible] with cotton, or anything that will keep [illegible] the upper crust, which is then put over [illegible] top, but not fastened to the lower crust [illegible] edge. After the crust is baked, the pie [illegible] lifted off, the gifts placed in the pie, the [illegible] laid on again, and a twist of dough laid [illegible] the edge to hold the two crusts together. The whole is then set in the oven just [illegible] enough to harden the twist, but not [illegible] enough to heat the pie through. The pie [illegible] then taken out of the dish, and sent to [illegible] destination, with a message that it is not to be cut until brought on the table at Christmas dinner.

A pretty arrangement is to line the [illegible] with tin-foil, and place above that a layer of damp cotton, on which are arranged the cut flowers.

Associations of Christmas.

BY E. E. HARPER, D. D.

All the bells which swing in the [illegible] towers of Christendom, are now pouring their music forth to hail this happy morn. Palace and cottage, the swelling city and the castled steep, catch and return the echoes. The young yield themselves to festive mirth, and the aged are happy as they ere they depart this earth. The light of the dying light up; and immortal [illegible]

This should be the happiest day in the year. It has a source of gladness all its own. This is not the greeting of childhood nor the gathering of childhood and age more around the family hearth. It is the interchange of kind wishes, or the [illegible] ling of glad voices over the [illegible] board. It is not that bright promise [illegible] greets the glance of the father in the [illegible] of his boy, nor those smiles of infant [illegible] over which the mother hangs in [illegible] nor is it that sacred tie which [illegible] brother's pride to a sister's confiding [illegible]

It is a love beyond this, beyond all [illegible] human heart hath known. It was [illegible] back in the depth of ages. No [illegible] splendour encircled its cradle; no [illegible] ophy taught it lessons of wisdom; no [illegible] tems of humanity matured it into [illegible] strength. Yet at its word sorrow [illegible] its tears, and despair smiled—the [illegible] leaped like the roe, the deaf listened [illegible] wonted harmonies, the blind caught [illegible] of transcendent beauty, the dumb [illegible] for joy, and the dead left the dark [illegible] the grave.

But this love was unrequited: it [illegible] persecuted and betrayed. The form in which it dwelt was mangled on the cross, and it prayed for those who did the deed. Even its divinity death had no power; it [illegible] from out the gloom of the grave; [illegible] its light over the hills of Palestine, over [illegible] isles of Greece, and through the [illegible] imperial Rome. The divinities of [illegible] stition saw it and fled; while the [illegible] tems of philosophy, like shadows [illegible] break of morn, melted away in its light.

Ages have passed away, nations [illegible] peared, the storms of revolution and [illegible] swept over the wrecks of human [illegible] but this Divine light still streams [illegible] glows this day over the city of David [illegible] hailed in the baronial halls of England [illegible] gleams amid the relics of Rome; it [illegible] along the icy cliffs of Greenland; it [illegible] over the dark bosom of Africa; it [illegible] the isles of the northern seas; it [illegible] splendours along the banks of the Ganges.

It is this light which cheers our hearts [illegible] which sanctifies the hearth of our [illegible] which fills this day the swelling city [illegible] quiet hamlet, and the aisles of the [illegible] est with hymns of gratitude and [illegible] This is that light which came from [illegible] that love whose mission of mercy [illegible] all lands, and which will yet reach [illegible] rows of every human heart.

The voices of the angels, as in Bethlehem, still peals the anthem, PEACE ON EARTH AND GOOD WILL TO MEN; and the [illegible] Christ stands now as it stood eighteen hundred years ago, unworn by age, and [illegible] ing its sacred light through the earth. [illegible] pentant multitudes through the past [illegible] turned to it, and forsaken the paths of [illegible] and error. Good men in all ages have [illegible] to it the eye of faith, and [illegible] glories in their dying hour. Martyrs [illegible] stake, the scaffold, and the block, have [illegible] ed to it and forgotten their pangs in [illegible] their pains! No wonder, then, that [illegible] angels watched that hour when the [illegible] was born—that they hymned, in [illegible] numbers, that love which inclined the [illegible] of God to veil his divinity in mortal [illegible] and which made him the hope and joy [illegible] a lost world!

It is this event for which these Christmas bells are in chime. It is this event that has given such beauty and brightness to the morn. It is this event that has poured a tide of happiness and love through the myriads of hearts that beat in Christian lands. May this happiness, dear reader, be thine; may this love be the light of thy soul; may this Saviour be to thee the chief among ten thousand. Take absolute confidence in His fidelity will repay; He will be your stay and strength when other supports fail; He will sustain thee when the [illegible] life goes out, and graciously remember you in that day when He shall number His jewels.

EGYPTIAN RO

...y of Love and Wild Adventure, founded ... tions in the Ca...eer of Arabi ...

Author of "NIHA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED ... ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER XII.

...ICHE AND THE SUGAR PLUM CASTLES IN THE AIR.

...Donelly had left the presence of Mrs. Trezarr burning with indignation which was perhaps all the more intense ...cause they had given him no opportunity of showing it, for chilly politeness as ...h politeness, does not afford even ...ith temperament a valid excuse for ...into a rage.

...e quitted the house, however, with ...e resolve never to enter it again, and ...t have cherished and made him. If ...e with this determination for a ...of several hours but for the happen... most unexpected and welcome inci...

...rmining to leave the Mount Carmel ...d gain the Choubrah road through ...oor in the wall instead of by the ...rriage entrance, a proceeding which ...ve a couple of hundred yards of dis...e perforce passed directly under... certain window, and as he did so the ...s gently raised and a rose was ...at his feet.

...'s first action was to glance up at the ... and recognize the pale but lovely ...ance of Nellie Trezarr, and his next ...ick up the rose and kiss it as he ...pward for the second time whilst ...ndeavoring to think of some fitting ...say.

...was the lady who thought of the fit... first, and it took the form of "O, ...the summer house. I will be there ...y. I must speak with you."

...oung dragoon had not expected such ...g, but it pleased him mightily, as ... a bow and pantomimic motion ex... of delight and obedience, and at ...ode off in the direction of the spot ...d, a graceful little kiosk, shaded by ... and magnolias and very nearly bur...ath the creamy blossomed lasmine, ...ttains to such perfection in Egypt. ...ly had been the occupant of the ki... summer house for more than a very ...utes when he descried Nellie cross... lawn towards it with a hurried and ...ly nervous gait, clad in soft, cream-... Indian muslin, and her long unbound ...ting like a golden cloud around her ...d shoulders.

...ghtly guessed that she would sooner ... did not advance to meet her, and ...e remained tranquilly where he was. ...ute later and Nellie stood before

...d of extending a hand, however, ...d with both clasped behind her back, ...he said with lips that trembled with ...n whilst she spoke:

"...ould not let you go away, Frank, ...t bidding you farewell. This is the ...e that you will ever see me."

"...t time that I shall ever see you?" ...llie, what do you mean by that?"

"...t what I say, Frank Donelly, and ... Oh, you won't care much, so don't ...t to look so grieved, for if you could ...rily stay away from me during a ...nth, forever will make little dif...

"And yet I did want to say good

...d knows, Nellie, that if I've stayed ...om you for a month it has been the ...difficult and disagreeable task that ...er accomplished all my life through, ...so, that I did it entirely for your ...If a man loves a girl he should think ... happiness before his own, and I ...have been hardly studying your hap... by creating a kind of home war be...you and your parents."

..."a home war is likely to break out ...your interference, and I m such a ...ward that I've resolved to run away ... even risking an engagement."

..."llie, for heaven's sake tell me exact ...plainly what you mean?"

..."are not, because you would be dis...with me for what I have done."

..."t at all, because I know that you ...perpetrate nothing to create disgust ... disapproval."

..."at, not if I was to do so mean a ...to listen at keyholes, for instance?"

..."y, I should not admire such an act in ...tract, but I am very sure, dear Nel... you would not commit such an ap... underhand action without weighty

...k Donelly, I shan't tell you plainly ...r I did or whether I did not, because ...make myself look small; but what ...uction may have been, the result is ...ave learned that mamma intends me ...ry Arabi Pasha, the war minister ...t, though papa as yet opposes the ..., she, having the stronger will of the ...ll twist him around her little finger, ...less I escape whilst there is yet time, ...wise."

..."e is terrible. This is a ten times ...nger than any that I had anticipat... ...n't give me a half confidence, Nellie; ...all—everything, and without re...

...ve already done so. Curiosity took ...e door, but shame drew me quickly ...shame lest the servants should dis... ...hat I was about. But the war min... ...ved mamma's and my life last night ... crowd of Bedouin robbers, and I ... what he would have said to mamma ...my swoon in the carriage, and that ...ld discuss it with papa at breakfast, ... I made a bad head-ache an excuse ...ding in my room, and then I did ...morable thing which I just hinted ... which I now confess in full; but I ...ained at the door five minutes at ..., for one of the men servants was ... about and had already twice espied ...ding on the mat, and I think I'd ...d of very shame if he had discover... ...ve a third time."

..."re still some cases in which the ...fine the means, Nellie, and we will ..., yours is one of them. Well, I am ..., my darling, because, to escape ...you will accept me. We will be ...next to immediately."

..."Indeed, ... you, knowing ...

..."Love anot... have taken lea... know that to ...

..."Can you ... don't love the ... this deadly w... murder by me... than you do ... strong claim u... been enraged ... in the theatr... want to kill m... me—for very ... Bedouins who ... her agents."

..."Nellie, ... and I bewilder ... and I am awa... the stre last ni... nor hold speec... the very nigh... Palace, and ... from the time ... took you a w... gift, the opal ... much terror a...

..."You did ... that is why sh... of it, and I d... least. See, ... sent me."

And as she ... som and hardi... symbolical wa... the "Dove" ... her acceptance ... the vestibule ... ing night.

As Frank ... and anxious e... which he in va...

Then findu... intently, he ...

"By George ... man is capable ... defeat her ma... crafty Arabi a... question which ... succeeding the... feared that yo... answer would ... your happines... that 'twas for ... back. Now, h... stances have e... you of two evi... secretly elope... wife."

"Why sec... that is secret ...

"Nellie, it ... fight a certain ... man with his ... could prevent ... are under age. ... for I did not ... them, but to ... of great powe... likely to let yo... ers after he ha... sent that you ... trothal accordi... binding as a ... comprehend y... of yourself co... your parents. ... think it prope... seize upon you... position at p... with the will."

"Oh, Frank ... into danger, ... know that if I ... rifice my li... has never fai... one of her ne... this case. My ... fore in fight, ... hours will tak... and I do no... England by s... nearly alw...

"Your sch... darling, my o... formations. I ... must go to ge... journey to A... hours' one t... simply some ... P & O. mail ... thence at five ... and can be e... leaving Cairo ... case of a do... ment, such as ... ladder, a car... kind of thing."

"How can ... concerning m... get married,

"A note on ... one and the c... form the ot... came out in, ... fellow, who ... We'll be ma... hour of gettin... to breakfast a... of Egypt ma... dear Nellie, t... it cannot fail. ... actly at a qu... time every on... asleep. Com... sad?"

"'Tis at th... ents, from wh... ed."

"That sor... every ten, so... sides, I feel ... be in England ... of course me... the parental ... thing."

With this ... young dragoo... qualified cons... they proceede... castles in the ... was destined ... to knock over...

A Christmas pie afforded much a a family party. Most of the gifts een given in the morning, but one for erson present had been reserved for ish, which was in the shape of a huge shioned pie, though really not a pie at The presents, which were all small as a ring, one a locket, another a bit of ce, a third a five-dollar gold piece to ase some books a certain boy ish ecessary to complete his happiness— one up in small packages, tied with nd covered up in the fine white sand hich the bowl was filled. The sand unded up on top, hiding the packa nd was decorated with a wreath of round the edge, and a sprig of holly the centre.

It was passed around the table, and erson allowed to put in his finger raw out one package. Each package it the name of the person for whom as intended, and as few, if any, drew wn, there was considerable passing ly tied packages, which added to n.

Another Christmas pie, which looks like a real pie, and gives no evidence contains anything more than a pie made by lining a large dish with a rust made without shortening. After nder crust is placed in the dish, it is ith cotton, or anything that will keep e upper crust, which is then put over p, but not fastened to the lower one ge. After the crust is baked, the ted off, the gifts placed in the pie, the id on again, and a twist of dough laid e edge to hold the two crusts together he whole is then set in the oven just ough to harden the twist, but not ough to heat the pie through. The en taken out of the dish, and sent to estination, with a message that it is not cut until brought on the table at Christ nner.

A pretty arrangement is to line the ith tin-foil, and place above that a damp cotton, on which are arranged t flowers.

Associations of Christmas.

BY E. B. HARPER, D. D.

All the bells which swing in the wers of Christendom, are now heir music forth to hail this happy alace and cottage, the swelling city e castled steep, catch and return the hoes. The young yield themselves stive mirth, and the aged are happy e they depart this earth. The f the dying light up; and immortal heers even the gloom of the grave.

This should be the happiest day in ear. It has a source of gladness all wn. This is not the greeting of friends r the gathering of childhood and age ore around the family hearth. It is e interchange of kind wishes, or the ng of glad voices over the banquet ard. It is not that bright promise reets the glance of the father in the his boy, nor those smiles of infant er which the mother hangs in transport r is it that sacred tie which binds rother's pride to a sister's confiding It is a love beyond this, beyond all man heart hath known. It was born ck in the depth of ages. No lendour encircled its cradle; no phy taught it lessons of wisdom; ms of humanity matured it into rength. Yet at its word sorrow s tears, and despair smiled—the aped like the roe, the deaf listened to nted harmonies, the blind caught transcendent beauty, the dumb r joy, and the dead left the dark prison e grave.

But this love was unrequited; it rsecuted and betrayed. The form in dwelt was mangled on the cross, and prayed for those who did the deed. divinity death had no power; it om cut the gloom of the grave; light over the hills of Palestine, over es of Greece, and through the perial Rome. The divinities of saw it and fled; while the dark s of philosophy, like shadows at ak of morn, melted away in its light. Ages have passed away, nations ared, the storms of revolution and ept over the wrecks of human great t this Divine light still streams on. ows this day over the city of David; iled in the baronial halls of England eams amid the relics of Rome; it ong the icy cliffs of Greenland; it er the dark bosom of Africa; it e isles of the northern seas; it lendours along the banks of the Gang It is this light which cheers our hich sanctifies the hearth of our hich fills this day the swelling city, iet hamlet, and the aisles of the deep t with hymns of gratitude and devo is is that light which came from at love whose mission of mercy l lands, and which will yet reach the ws of every human heart.

The voices of the angels, as in ill peals the anthem, PEACE ON D GOOD WILL TO MEN; and the rist stands now as it stood eighteen ed years ago, unworn by age, and g its sacred light through the earth. ntant multitudes through the past rned to it, and forsaken the paths of d error. Good men in all ages have it the eye of faith, and ries in their dying hour. Martyrs ke, the scaffold, and the block, have to it and forgotten their persecutors eir pains! No wonder, then, that gels watched that hour when the s born—that they hymned, mbers, that love which God to veil his divinity in d which made him the hope ost world!

It is this event for which these lls are in chime. It is this event ven such beauty and brightness rn. It is this event that has ide of happiness and love yriads of hearts that beat nds. May this happiness, ine; may this love be the ul; may this Saviour be to nong ten thousand. This choice n His fidelity will repay. y and strength when other l; He will sustain thee when e goes out, and graciously that day when He shall wels.

AN EGYPTIAN ROMANCE.

y of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPOT," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER XII.

LISE AND THE SUGAR PLUM CASTLES IN THE AIR.

k Donelly had left the presence of d Mrs. Trezarr burning with indignation, which was perhaps all the more in- because they had given him no opportunity of showing it, for chilly politeness as it is politeness, does not afford even Irish temperament a valid excuse for y into a rage.

k quitted the house, however, with resolve never to enter it again, and ght have cherished and made himself le with this determination for a of several hours but for the happen- a most unexpected and welcome incident.

ermining to leave the Mount Carmel and gain the Choubrah road through e door in the wall instead of by the carriage entrance, a proceeding which saved a couple of hundred yards of distance, he perforce passed directly under a certain window, and as he did so the was gently raised and a rose was at his feet.

k's first action was to glance up at the w and recognize the pale but lovely ance of Nellie Trezarr, and his next pick up the rose and kiss it as he upward for the second time whilst endeavoring to think of some fitting to say.

It was the lady who thought of the fitting first, and it took the form of "O, the summer house. I will be there tly. I must speak with you."

young dragoon had not expected such ting, but it pleased him mightily, as a bow and pantomimic motion ex- of delight and obedience, and at strode off in the direction of the spot ted, a graceful little kiosk, shaded by s and magnolias and very nearly bur- eath the creamy blossomed jasmine, attains to such perfection in Egypt. ly had been the occupant of the kiosk summer house for more than a very minutes when he descried Nellie crossing the lawn towards it with a hurried and ntly nervous gait, clad in soft, cream- Indian muslin, and her long unbound ating like a golden cloud around her shoulders.

rightly guessed that she would sooner he did not advance to meet her, and ore remained tranquilly where he was. inute later and Nellie stood before ead of extending a hand, however, ood with both clasped behind her back, she said with lips that trembled with on whilst she spoke:

would not let you go away, Frank, out bidding you farewell. This is the time that you will ever see me."

The last time that I shall ever see you? Nellie, what do you mean by that?"

ust what I say, Frank Donelly, and re. Oh, you won't care much, so don't d to look so grieved, for if you could arily stay away from me during a month, forever will make little dif- And yet I did want to say good od knows, Nellie, that if I've stayed from you for a month it has been the difficult and disagreeable task that ever accomplished all my life through, also, that I did it entirely for your If a man loves a girl he should think happiness before his own, and I d have been hardly studying your hap by creating a kind of home war be- and your parents."

uch a home war is likely to break out out your interference, and I'm such a coward that I've resolved to run away out even risking an engagement."

ellie, for heaven's sake tell me exact plainly what you mean?"

dare not, because you would be dis with me for what I have done."

ot at all, because I know that you perpetrate nothing to create disgust disapproval."

hat, not if I was to do so mean a as to listen at keyholes, for instance?"

hy, I should not admire such an act in tract, but I am very sure, dear Nel- you would not commit such an ap- nderhand action without weighty ns."

ank Donelly, I shan't tell you plainly I did or whether I did not, because to make myself look small; but what- my action may have been, the result is I have learned that mamma intends me arry Arabi Pasha, the war minister, that, though papa as yet opposes the she, having the stronger will of the will twist him around her little finger, unless I escape whilst there is yet time, wise."

This is terrible. This is a ten times danger than any that I had anticipat- Don't give me a half confidence, Nellie; all—everything, and without re-ave already done so. Curiosity took the door, but shame drew me quickly —shame lest the servants should dis- what I was about. But the war min- saved mamma's and my life last night a crowd of Bedouin robbers, and I what he would have said to mamma g my swoon in the carriage, and that uld discuss it with papa at breakfast, so I made a bad head-ache an excuse maining in my room, and then I did honorable thing which I just hinted and which I now confess in full; but I mained at the door five minutes at , for one of the men servants was g about and had already twice espied anding on the mat, and I think I'd ed of very shame if he had discover- there a third time."

There are still some cases in which the ifies the means, Nellie, and we will yours is one of them. Well, I am d, my darling, because, to escape you will accept me. We will be next to immediately."

"Indeed, no, Frank. I will not marry you, knowing that you love another better."

"Love another better! Nellie, you must have taken leave of your senses or you would know that to be impossible."

"Can you then honestly deny that you don't love the terrible woman who sent me this deadly warning and then attempted my murder by means of hired assassins, better than you do me? If she had not some strong claim upon you, why should she have been enraged at your daring to look at me in the theatre last night—so angry as to want to kill me? Aye, so angry as to kill me—for very sure am I that the armed Bedouins who attacked our carriage were her agents."

"Nellie, my darling, you both astound and bewilder me. I know what you mean, and I am aware also that she was at the theatre last night, but I have neither seen nor held speech with her for weeks, and on the very night of the fete at the Gezirah Palace, and within a quarter of an hour from the time when your mother found and took you away from me, I returned her her gift, the opal ring, which had caused you so much terror and uneasiness."

"You did this and for my sake! Then that is why she hates me. Oh, I am so glad of it, and I do not fear her hate now, in the least. See, Frank, this—this is what she sent me."

And as she spoke Nellie drew from her bosom and handed to the young dragoon the symbolical warning from the "Eagle" unto the "Dove" which had been forced upon her acceptance by the huge black hand in the vestibule of the opera house the preceding night.

As Frank Donelly received it a perturbed and anxious expression came into his face, which he in vain endeavored to hide.

Then, finding that she was regarding him intently, he said, with a forced laugh:

"By George, I believe an Oriental woman is capable of any iniquity; but we will defeat her machinations, and those of the crafty Arabi as well. I now put to you the question which I should have put the day succeeding the fete at the palace, had I not feared that your returning me an affirmative answer would have marred rather than made your happiness. I swear to you, Nellie, that 'twas for your welfare only that I held back. Now, however, that changed circumstances have entirely altered the case, I urge you of two evils to choose the least, and to secretly elope with me and become my wife."

"Why secretly, Frank? Everything that is secret seems to me to be also wrong."

"Nellie, it is sometimes legitimate to fight a certain dark complexioned gentleman with his own weapons. Your parents could prevent our marriage because you are under age. Now, don't look indignant, for I did not apply the demoniac simile to them, but to Arabi Pasha, who is a man of great power, and one who would not be likely to let you slip from between his fingers after he had obtained your parents' consent that you should be his wife; for a betrothal according to his creed, is almost as binding as a marriage, and he would not comprehend your having any right to dispose of yourself contrary to the expressed will of your parents. He would for these reasons think it properly legitimate and proper to seize upon you and slay me, and he is in a position at present to couple both deeds with the will.

"Oh, Frank, I am very loth to lead you into danger, but what is to be done? I know that if I remain here mamma will sacrifice my happiness to her ambition. She has never failed to win papa over to a single one of her pet schemes yet, nor will she in this case. My only hope of safety lies therefore in flight, but I can escape alone. Two hours will take me by train to Alexandria, and I do not despair of getting away to England by some ship or other, for there is nearly always one on the point of sailing."

"Your scheme is my own, my precious darling, my own at least with some slight variations. Instead of your going alone we must go together; in lieu of two hours' journey to Alexaedria, it must be a three hours' one to Port Said, and in place of simply some vessel or other, it must be the P & O. mail ship Poonah, which sails from thence at five o'clock to-morrow morning, and can be easily caught by the night mail leaving Cairo at midnight. It must be a case of a downright old-fashioned elopement, such as we read of in novels, with a ladder, a carriage in waiting and all that kind of thing. What say you, Nell?"

"How can I allay my parents' anxiety concerning me, and how and when can we get married, Frank?"

"A note on your toilet table will effect one and the chaplain of the Poonah will perform the other. She is the vessel that I came out in, and I know him to be a good fellow, who would oblige me in anything. We'll be married within a quarter of an hour of getting aboard, and we'll sit down to breakfast as man and wife with the land of Egypt many a mile astern of us. My dear Nellie, the whole thing is so easy that it cannot fail. I will be at your window exactly at a quarter past eleven, by which time every one in the house will be sound asleep. Come, darling, why do you look so sad?"

"'Tis at the thought of leaving my parents, from whom I have never yet been parted."

"That sorrow comes to nine girls out of every ten, sooner or later, Nellie, and, besides, I feel quite sure that they will both be in England before long, where we shall of course meet them on land, and receive the parental blessing and all that sort of thing."

With this and similar assurances the young dragoon officer won the fair girl's unqualified consent to all his proposals, when they proceeded to the building of bright castles in the air, which an untoward fate was destined in the briefest possible while to knock over.

CHAPTER XIII.

IN WHICH THE IRISHMAN TRUSTS TO THE SWORD AND THE EGYPTIAN TO FINESSE.

All things being at last arranged, even down to the minutest details, Frank hinted to Nellie that it would be more prudent for them to part, for that, were they seen together, or should it even be discovered that they had met, suspicion might be aroused and, as usual, steps be taken which would render an elopement impossible.

Nellie saw the sense of his line of argument, and yielded to it at once.

She rose to go and Frank sprang to his feet to bid her farewell and then take himself off to town.

The sudden action caused his sword to clatter in his sheath, and, strange to say, the fair girl for the first time noticed that he wore one.

She took alarm at once and said:

"Why do you wear a sword when not in uniform, and when simply coming out to pay a morning call? Is there any real need for it? Is Cairo at all disturbed?"

"The canaille is disposed to be a trifle insolent; that is all, or very nearly all, Nellie. And then you know a sword is a kind of emblem of respectability in a semi-barbarous city like Cairo. Those are some of the reasons why I buckled mine on this morning."

Frank Donelly's chief reasons were far more serious ones, but he did not dare to give them utterance, for he knew that did Nellie once get it into her head that danger menaced her parents, nothing would induce her to leave them whilst it remained.

He was delighted to think that his innocent subterfuge was accepted by her without question, but as a further precaution against her putting to him any more awkward questions he hurried their parting over, and felt glad when he beheld her steering her way towards the house so as to gain the rear thereof by the route of a thick shrubbery and a door in a wall which he knew led into the kitchen garden.

Not so delighted was he, however, when, upon entering the kiosk shaped summer house in turn, he soughtas quickly as possible to regain the Choubrah road and his hotel (the world famed Shepherd's, which, with its lovely gardens, stands in the very outskirts of Cairo), he espied Arabi Pasha, the war minister, coming directly toward him across the lawn, and already so near that to avoid him was a matter of sheer impossibility.

Perceiving that his retreat was cut off, Frank determined to stand his ground, but to avoid a quarrel if possible, since it would be dangerous to provoke so powerful, and as he suspected, so unscrupulous a foe as this daring soldier of fortune.

He saw his heavy brows meet in a frown and his naturally thick lips contract into mere lines as he bit them to restrain the fierce promptings of his passion. Then he readjusted his swordbelt, apparently so that the hilt of the weapon should come handy to his grasp, and the sight made the young Irish dragoon mutter fiercely to himself:

"If he appeals to that argument I think I'll be able to out-reason him."

By the time that he had come to this conclusion Ahmed Arabi confronted him.

He touched the edge of his red tarbouch in salutation and then said in French:

"I came hither through being told that I should in all probability find Miss Trezarr here."

"Your excellency has been misinformed on that point, yet, nevertheless pray pass in and convince yourself," replied Frank, stepping on one side.

The Egyptian at once did so, but to discover nothing but an empty room.

The sight did not afford him the satisfaction that Captain Donelly had hoped that it would have done. But the Oriental nature is pre-eminently suspicious, and there were certainly even more than sufficient grounds in the present case to cause that suspicion.

"Though Miss Trezarr is not here at present she has been here," said he.

Thereat Frank merely shrugged his shoulders, for he scorned to give utterance to a falsehood, though he never-the-less wished to avoid confessing to the truth.

Arabi Pasha was not, however, to be put off with a shrug, and therefore retorted sharply;

"I have said that Miss Trezarr has been here, and you do not seem to be able to deny it."

"Your excellency, I fail to see that I am under any obligation to affirm or deny it."

"You may see it clearer when I inform you that I am making inquiries concerning my affianced wife," answered Arabi, with the redness of anger showing through the bronze of his cheek.

"I can assure your excellency that I have seen nothing of your affianced wife."

"Liar, you came here to meet her, and she has been in your company within this past quarter of an hour," roared the Egyptian, his anger getting the upper hand of his discretion as he observed the flashing eyes and curling mustached lip of the young officer, as well as the contemptuous sneer that he had laid on the last three words of his speech.

But the epithet "liar," proved as a lighted match to a barrel of gunpowder, for the Celtic blood was every whit as hot as the Egyptain and the weight of the insult was so heavy that prudence kicked the beam.

Frank Donelly, in short, first of all seized the war minister by the throat and hurled him back against the wall of the little summer house, and next drawing his sword exclaimed in menacing tones:

"Your excellency will not leave this place until you have apologized for that insult, or else have placed it out of my power to demand the apology. Come, sir; either retract or defend yourself. You wear a sword and I presume you can use it."

"My sword and my life belong alike to my country, and the one may not be drawn or the other risked in an idle quarrel," answered the war minister, folding his arms on his breast whilst confronting his rival with an apparently undaunted mien, though the red flush had suddenly died out of instead of deepening on his cheeks.

It would have been well for all parties concerned had Frank Donelly thereupon sheathed his weapon and walked away. But an Irishman's temper when once heated takes a little time to cool, and Frank's was yet at boiling point.

"Coward!" he hissed between his clenched teeth. "you dare not cross swords with me."

"I have already told you as much, young man, so methinks that you are the greatest coward of the two in this bullying and menacing a man who is obliged to devote his sword and his life to nobler purposes than common brawls."

What reply the dragoon could have made to this unskilful retort of the Egyptian's it is impossible to say, for at this juncture in through the door of the kiosk-like summer house burst, sword in hand, the war minister's two white orderlies, whose duty it was never to lose sight of their master for more than a few seconds at a time; and by these herculean fellows, who were negroes of the Soudan, with faces, throats and hands as black and shining and polished as ebony Frank Donelly's arms were pinionnd in an instant and held as in a vice.

"Inshallah, methinks it is I who now possess the power to force an apology from you," said the war minister, calmly. "But," he added, "I will be magnanimous, for the winner of so great a prize (you know well to what I allude) can well afford to forgive the chagrin of the loser. Moreover, that which I refused to threats I grant as a free offering—my regrets for my hasty speech. So saleni aleicoom, and may God be with you. Let the Feringhee gentleman go in peace."

His last words were addressed to his two black orderlies, who at once released the young Irishman's arms, though to place themselves in such a position between them and their master as to be able instantly to frustrate any attack that might be made upon the latter.

But Frank Donelly had no longer either a desire or an excuse for such an attack. The proverbial coals of fire had been heaped upon his head, and though they burned and tortured him exceedingly, as such coals always do, it would have been most ungracious to have received them discourteously, or to have made any effort to get rid of them. The young officer therefore bowed, sheathed his sword and hurriedly retired, leaving Mount Carmel by the route that he had originally intended, and thereafter making his way along the Choubrah road citywards as quickly as possible, for rapid movement is always the best antidote for a troubled mind, and Frank's was particularly troubled and sore.

"He has interviewed Nellie's parents, dazzled them into sanctioning his suit and entertaining his abhorred proposals. Then they referred him to the dear girl herself, and failing to discover her in the house, directed him to what they knew to be her favorite haunt—the kiosk summer house. How fortunate it was that I saw her and that we had time to arrange all our plans before we were interrupted. As it is, she can suffer only a few hours of persecution at the most, and then we will have left it and its origin alike behind."

Such were Frank's reflections, mingled, however, with many an anxious fear that something might now occur to frustrate all their plans, for he felt that he was no match as far as scheming went, with an Oriental, especially one who possessed the almost unbounded power of Arabi Pasha.

He would have felt infinitely more uneasy still could he but have heard what passed between the war minister and his black orderlies after he had quitted them.

"Youssoof and Mansour," the pasha had said to them impressively, at the same time laying a hand on the shoulder of each, "that Feringhee dog from whom you have just preserved me is staying at the Hotel Shepherd. Now attend, the dinner hour there is at seven, the meal lasts an hour, and as a Feringhee would almost as soon lose his life as his dinner, exactly at eight, or, to be quite safe, a few minutes previously, he must be lured forth on some specious pretext or other, be made prisoner and consigned to a dungeon from which by no possibility will he be able to escape. Do you clearly understand me?"

"Would not a grave be the safest dungeon, excellency?" demanded Mansour.

"It is the only prison house from which escape is impossible," chuckled Youssoof.

"No, he must not be made away with," answered the war minister slowly. "I will have no shedding of blood for any less holy purpose than the winning of freedom and the destruction of tyranny. He must be beguiled into some dark way or turning and then a gag must be secured in his mouth and the loose covering and face mask of a woman be thrown over him as a disguise, and in that plight he must be conveyed through the native quarter to the citadel and handed over to the custody of his excellency Suleiman Zogheib Effendi, the governor, whom I will see during the day as to his disposal. Your task will be accomplished with his safe delivery."

He then stood in apparent deep reflection for a minute or two, when he muttered:

"I dare not lose any more time on such an important day as this," and with evident regret hurried toward his carriage, followed by the orderlies

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The Boot and Shoe Trade of Montreal.

During the past ten years the leather business has been developing as one of our great national industries; and it is probable that in a few more years Canada will have acquired no mean reputation abroad as a manufacturer of leather, and leather goods. These industries have developed greatly in the province of Quebec, owing partly to the cheapness of labor and its facilities for tanning the raw leather. Out of 60 tanneries for tanning sole leather, about two thirds are in the province of Quebec. Montreal alone has 25 tanneries, and out of $10 000,000 worth of leather made annually in Canada, Montreal dealers and manufacturers take over $5,000,000. There are some 35 boot and shoe factories in the city, a leather-board works, five factories for making trunks, valises, satchels, etc., and the total hands employed over 5,000, besides those to whom work is given out to do at their homes. These boot and shoe establishments produce 15,000 pairs every day or $5,500,000 worth a year; about six per cent. of which are now sent to foreign countries.

A correspondent of this paper, noting these facts, and anxious to see how boots and shoes were turned out in this wholesale fashion, visited one of the large factories of the city. The establishment in question—long known to the trade of Canada as J. & T. Bell—happened to be the oldest in Canada. To give an idea of the vitality of some of these Montreal firms, it may be mentioned that this firm has been in continuous existence since 1824. It was founded by the late Alexander Bell, whose brother Joshua had started in the boot and shoe line in 1819. Joshua and Thomas, sons of Alex. Bell, continued in the steps of their father, each on his own account. It is not often that brothers, having embarked on their own account, join hands in business again, but these two separate firms were amalgamated in 1845, and the result is, the firm of J. & T. Bell stands to this day as one of the leading boot and shoe establishments in Canada engaged on the finer class of goods. The factory and warerooms comprise seven flats, the establishment turning out several thousand pairs per week. A fine corliss engine occupies the basement, and the first floor is taken up with machines for cutting and shaping the soles of boots. A complete sole is cut out at each stroke of the machine, and another machine presses the sole into the shape of the foot. There are other machines for splitting the sole and for making it of uniform thickness; and again another machine cuts a groove in the edge of the sole so that the sewing can afterwards be done. On another flat the uppers are cut and passed in to another department to be sewn together. The sewing is done by machinery, of course, and this firm were the first to introduce shoe machinery of any kind into Canada, having as early as 1845 imported a Singer machine from New York to sew uppers with. From this time dates the adoption of machinery in the boot and shoe trade of Canada. Dennis Barron, a man who has been in the employ of the firm for 43 years, mentioned the introduction of the machine as a great curiosity in the shop, adding that the circumstance was emphasized in his memory by receiving in the same case a Bible as a present from Mr Bell. Judging from this incident, and the fact that many of the other employees have been with the firm for periods of 20 and 25 years—several girls having come as children and left only on the occasion of their marriage—there must have been a great deal of good will existing between the firm and its employees. Speaking of machinery, the change that has taken place in this respect in the boot and shoe trade is wonderful. Almost everything that was done by hand thirty years ago is now performed by machines, except the lasting process, and even this is now largely done by machinery on some of the lower grades of boots in the States. Although thirty years comprehends the era of machinery in this line the most important improvements have been effected within the last fifteen years. Making the button holes for button boots, for instance, was done by hand till within a few years ago. This once tedious process is now done on a peculiar machine, which will button-hole 60 pairs of boots, or a total of 1200 button holes a day. Another comparatively new machine will stitch and trim the edges of uppers at one operation, and does its work in the most exact manner. Still another machine does the "skiving" or beveling of the edge of an upper, and here again the machine work is an improvement on the hand process, being done quickly and evenly, whereas by hand it required a certain "knack" which many otherwise excellent workmen could not attain. There is one curious machine which turns an edge of leather in upon itself, and with the help of cement, will make a sort of hem complete in one operation. Another triumph of skill in this class of work is the machine which will sew in the sole of a boot in less than half a minute, and others are the heel trimmers, scourers and burnishers. The last named machine consists of a steel burnisher heated from within by a jet of gas, and moving round the heel, pressing hard to the heel as it moves back and forth and giving a perfect polish to it as it travels by an automatic motion over every part of the heel. One of these sets of burnishers will do 7 cases, or 420 pairs of boots a day. There are also buffing-machines which by means of sandpapered cylinders impart a finished and velvety feel and appearance to the soles of the boots; and many other contrivances which are an improvement on manual labor in point of speed and perfection of work, comprising in all some 30 or 40 different kinds of machines. On being asked as to the effects of the small pox epidemic on the business, Messrs J. T. Hagar and John Stephens, the managing partners of the firm, said that as far as their own trade was concerned they had had a very satisfactory season; and now had samples prepared for their travelers to start out for the coming season, with every prospect of a good trade. They had a wider range of goods than before, having gone into men's as well as ladies, boots and shoes, which had been their sole specialty for some seasons past. While they worked only on the better class of goods and employed therefore the better class of workmen, they had taken extra precautions against small-pox, even though it was the opinion of some medical men that contagion could not be carried in boots and shoes owing to the disinfecting nature of the chemicals used in preparing the leather. They had withdrawn all work such as binding, etc., formerly done by work people outside, and had everything done on their own premises, and they had not only had all their employees vaccinated, but had caused an inspection of their premises to be made by an independent physician, and have had subsequent weekly visits to the factory made by a doctor who sees that none of the employees or their families are suffering from the disease. Hence with all these precautions, of which their customers have been aware, they have not suffered in business. Happily, also the disease has of late greatly abated, and this, together with the precautions taken by Montreal merchants generally, will restore general confidence in trade. Your correspondent was pleased to learn that it is the intention of two or three of the principal boot and shoe manufacturers here to send samples of their products to the Colonial and Indian Exhibition to be held in London next year. They will certainly do Canada credit.

It is said that a man who eats onions will always keep a secret. This is partly due to the fact that the man who eats onions is rarely allowed to get within whispering distance of his fellow-men.

A correspondent wants to know if it is proper to urge a young lady to sing at an evening gathering, after she has refused once. It is proper to urge a little, but not too much, lest she should change her mind.

An exchange says: "A Ketnucky man recently wandered into church while service was being held." It is supposed that some Hallow e'en jokers had removed a lager beer sign and placed it over the door of the church. It is an outrage to fool a Kentucky man that way!

The Markdale Standard

Is issued every Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,

(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),

BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.

OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly

J. MASSON, Q. C. S. MASSON. W. MASSON.

N. B.—Private Company's funds to invest at from Six to Eight per cent.

Alexander Brown,

ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.

Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.

Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.

N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.

DENTIST,

GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.

122-47.

SAMUEL WARDELL,

WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,

Fashionable Tailor,

OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.

A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON.

Builder and Contractor

In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.

195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

MANSION HOUSE,

MARKDALE,

Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE, - - - ONT.

J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.

PRICEVILLE, Ont.

Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

EUGENIA HOTEL.

EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.

J. McAleer, - - Prop.

The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

CITY HOTEL,

MARKDALE.

The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage, Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostler.

D. McLANE,
Proprietor,

Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

WILLIAM STUART,

KIMBERLEY,

Issuer of Marriage Licences. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.

Nov. 5, '85-1y

WM. G. CUTHRIE,

Plain & Ornamental Plaster

Opposite the new

Presbyterian Church Markdale.

Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.

303

JOSEPH GIBSON

CONTRACTOR.

Contracts taken for all kinds of

BRICK AND STONE WORK,

Plain Ornamental Plastering.

Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.

Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.

126-ly.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL.

ROBERT S. RAE,

TAILOR,

Sydenham Street.

MARKDALE.

JOHN NOBLE,

MARKDALE

GENER'L BLACKSMITH

HORSE SHOEING

A SPECIALTY.

Also agent for the celebrated

CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA

Grist, Saw and Lath Mills

Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.

GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND

Chopping Done Every Day.

Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.

LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.

Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted

9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,

MARKDALE,

Manufacturer of all kinds of

=PUMPS,=

Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.

Iron Pumps Supplied

Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.

Also Agent for Sargent's

PATENT LOAD LIFTER

For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.

☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,

UNDERTAKER,

MARKDALE,

FUNERAL FURNISHINGS

supplied on the shortes notice.

A Splendid Hearse

for hire at moderate rates.

—All kinds of—

PICTURE FRAMING

Done on short notice.

ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.

Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.

For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,

GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Goderich.

J. J. DALTON.

DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.

44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR,

Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address,

PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,
751 Broadway, New York.

We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—ED. STANDARD.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression. Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 161 & 163 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 270-1y

Victor Roller Mills,

MARKDALE.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	33	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.

219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.

The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

J. W. FORD.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.

WILL CURE OR RELIEVE

BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,

And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE

Woolen Mills.

Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.

248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND MARBLE WORKS

H. B. HARRISON,

MANUFACTURER OF

MARBLE AND GRANITE

MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,

Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.

JUST RECEIVED

3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble

☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.

H. B. HARRISON.

MARKDALE

HARNESS EMPORIUM

ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.

THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor

Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

CANADIAN PACIFIC L...

OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, ...

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	...
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	...
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	...
Orangeville } Arrive	9 50 "	...
Orangeville } Leave	10 05 "	...
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	...
Shelburne	10 45 "	...
Dundalk	11 10 "	...
Flesherton	11 36 "	...
Markdale	11 51 "	...
Berkeley	12 05pm	...
Williamsford	12 12 "	...
Chatsworth	12 28 "	...
Owen Sound	1 00 "	...

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 30pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 00 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 15 "
Berkeley	6 14 "	3 24 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 37 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	3 52 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 16 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 41 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 10 "
Orange } Arrive	8 12 "	5 22 "
ville... } Leave	8 35 "	5 45 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 17 "
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 55 "

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; W. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for November, 15th at 7 p. m. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from 8 to 9. Rev. Wesley Cassin, Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in the Hall on Friday on or before full moon of each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Black, Secretary.

W. C. RICHARDS,

BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.

NEW GROCERY STO...

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed ...

Having just received a ...

Choicee, Fresh and Sel...

STOCK OF

Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &...

Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public patronage.

193 J. PLEWES.

THE CELEBRATED DR. CHASE'S MANDRAKE DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Side, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a disordered liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a safe and certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver correctives, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, which have a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.

500,000 SOLD

Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE.

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide or Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over one thousand pronounced by medical men and druggists to be invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure remedy. Price, 25 cents.

TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS.

EDMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, ...

Merry Xmas

TO ALL.

"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."

—MY LINE OF—

Xmas -:- Cards

Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.

FINE ASSORTMENT

SILVERWARE,

In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.

Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.

W. A. BROWN,

A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cts a line for the first insertion and five cts a line each subsequent insertion.

A Merry Christmas and a happy New Year to all our subscribers.

THE county council is in session this week.

NEXT WEEK the days will commence to lengthen.

TORONTO is to have two tobogan slides this winter.

MR. JOHN MCDUFFIE is home from British Columbia.

THE Owen Sound Advertiser wants a tobogan slide in town.

WM. H. VANDERBILT left each of his eight children $10,000,000.

I BELIEVE Haskett keeps the best chopping Axe to be found.

Breeches of promises—trousers put up as collateral for a loan.

Misplaced switch—when a woman's false hair gets into the hash.

MRS. ANGUS PLEWES is visiting friends at Edgar, Simcoe Co.

MRS. JOHN TRELFORD of Allenford is visiting her parents in Markdale.

A fine assortment of Xmas goods at J. R. Trimble's cheap for cash.

TEACHER wanted for S. S. No. 19, Euphrasia. See adv. in this paper.

IF ther's any virtue in a horse-shoe the Dufferin Post is in for good luck.

THE sleighing has been excellent the past week and business rushing.

FRED ALLEN of Allenford is spending a few days with friends in this place.

MRS. DONNELLY and daughter leaves to-day to visit friends in Simcoe Co.

IT is now claimed that pork is brain food, being the product of many pens.

MR. JOHN LYONS has been indisposed for over a week, but is slowly recovering.

"Whiskey, like confidence men, ruins a great many people by "getting into them."

"Misfortunes never come singly." remarked Jones when the twins arrived.

MRS. LOVE and daughter of Mafford have been visiting friends in Markdale this week.

WE had a friendly call from Mr. J. R. Fawcett of the Advance, on Friday last.

NEXT sittings of Division Court No. 1 will be held in Flesherton on the 2nd January.

SNOW is coming in, in large quantities, but somehow the printer's wood pile is nowhere.

ANADIAN PACIFIC R. R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
...ing effect Monday, November 2nd, 188...
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
...onto....Leave	7 20am	4 45p
...dwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
...nge- } Arrive	9 50 "	7 05 "
...ille } Leave	10 05 "	7 23 "
...ngeville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
...elburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
...ndalk	11 10 "	8 26 "
...sherton	11 36 "	8 55 "
...rkdale	11 51 "	9 10 "
...keley	12 03pm	9 23 "
...liamsford	12 12 "	9 32 "
...tsworth	12 28 "	9 49 "
...n Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail
...n Sound	5 20am	2 35p
...tsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
...liamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
...keley	6 14 "	3 40 "
...rkdale	6 27 "	3 52 "
...sherton	6 42 "	4 06 "
...ndalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
...lburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
...ngeville Jun	8 00 "	5 23 "
...nge } Arrive	8 12 "	5 35 "
...lle } Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
...dwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
...onto.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 55 "

...arkdale Church Directory.
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
...ervices every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m...
...yer Meeting every Wednesday evening ...
...'clock) Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; W...
...wn, S. S. Superintendent.
CHRIST CHURCH.
...rvices for November, 15th at 7 p. m...
...10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th ...
...0 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and ...
... 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent...
... Ford, Superintendent.
METHODIST CHURCH.
...rvices every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. a...
...m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer ...
...ting every Thursday evening from 8 to ...
... Wesley Casson, Pastor; W. A. Brown ...
... Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in con...
...ion; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.
Society Directory.
...arkdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets eve...
...rnate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the ...
... McDougall's block. Visiting brethren ...
...ome.
...arkdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets in ...
...r Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate ...
...day evening at 8 o'clock. A visit fro...
...hren of neighboring lodges solicited.
...ARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in the ...
... on Friday on or before full moon ea...
...th. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blaik...
...retary.
W. C. RICHARDS,
...UILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCH...
...TECT, Markdale.
...EW GROCERY STOR...
IN CONNECTION WITH
...ewes' Flour and Feed tore
Having just received a
...cicee, Fresh and Selec...
STOCK OF
...eas,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c
...ich will be sold VERY CHEA... respectfully solicit the public...
...ronage.
J. PLEWES.

THE CELEBRATED
Dr CHASE'S
MANDRAKE
DANDELIO
LIVE
CURE
HAVE YOU
...r Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bilio...
...ndice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the B...
...iveness, or any disease arising from a d...
..., Dr. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a ...
...certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
...unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver C...
...r Complaint rests solely with the fact that ...
...pounded from nature's well-known liver regu...
...NDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with ...
...r invaluable roots, barks and herbs, have ...
...erful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels ...
...d. 500,000 SOLD
...r one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe B...
...e sold in Canada alone. We want every ...
...man and child who is troubled with Liver C...
...nt to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE.
...apped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver ...
... valuable Household Medical Guide and Re...
...k (84 pages), containing over 1000 medical rec...
...nounced by medical men and druggists as the ...
..., and worth ten times the price of the medicine ...
...RY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A sure and pe...
...edy. Price, 25 cents.
...RY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS, 25 cts. per ...
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
...ROMANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Bel...

Markdale Standard

VOL. 6.--No. 275. MARKDALE, ONT., DEC. 17, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

Merry Xmas
TO ALL.
"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."
—MY LINE OF—
Xmas -:- Cards
Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.
FINE ASSORTMENT
SILVERWARE,
In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.
Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.
W. A. BROWN,
A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all our subscribers.

The county council is in session this week.

Next week the days will commence to lengthen.

Toronto is to have two tobogan slides this winter.

Mr. John McDuffie is home from British Columbia.

The Owen Sound Advertiser wants a tobogan slide in town.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt left each of his eight children $10,000,000.

I believe Haskett keeps the best Chopping Axe to be found.

Breeches of promises—trousers put up as collateral for a loan.

Misplaced switch—when a woman's false hair gets into the hash.

Mrs. Angus Plewes is visiting friends at Edgar, Simcoe Co.

Mrs. John Trelford of Allenford is visiting her parents in Markdale.

A fine assortment of Xmas goods at J. R. Trimble's cheap for cash.

Teacher wanted for S. S. No. 19, Euphrasia. See adv. in this paper.

If ther's any virtue in a horse-shoe the Dufferin Post is in for good luck.

The sleighing has been excellent the past week and business rushing.

Fred Allen of Allenford is spending a few days with friends in this place.

Mrs. Donnelly and daughter leaves to-day to visit friends in Simcoe Co.

It is now claimed that pork is brain food, being the product of many pens.

Mr. John Lyons has been indisposed for over a week, but is slowly recovering.

Whiskey, like confidence men, ruins a great many people by "getting into them."

"Misfortunes never come singly," remarked Jones when the twins arrived.

Mrs. Love and daughter of Mosford have been visiting friends in Markdale this week.

We had a friendly call from Mr. A. R. Fawcett of the Advance, on Friday last.

Next sittings of Division Court No. 5, will be held in Flesherton on the 22nd January.

Wood is coming in, in large quantities, but somehow the printer's wood pile is nowhere.

J. J. Irwin, veterinary surgeon, has a large practice and is building up a good reputation.

Specks to suit any sight, from 25 cents to $2.50, at Brown's Jewelry Store, Markdale.

National Pills are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

Mr. J. R. Trimble is attending the great Trade Sales going on in Toronto. Look out for bargains.

Mamie Bowes and Emma Wright are home from Collingwood High School, for the holidays.

Another consignment of Gents' Overshoes and Ladies' Shoes just to hand at J. R. Trimble's.

Wanted.—A boy to learn the baking business; apply to Robt. Montgomery, Markdale.

Subscribers at a distance will kindly renew promptly if they wish to receive the Standard right along.

If you are after Stationery or Holiday Goods, go straight to Williams', Dunlop's block.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McKee returned this week from visiting their daughter in County Simcoe.

J. R. Trimble is offering the balance of his stock of Ladies' Furs at greatly reduced prices for spot cash.

$50,000 to loan on farm security. Terms easy; interest light, and square dealing. Apply at this office.

Isaac Ireland a pump maker of Mt. Forest, dropped dead of heart disease, in his shop last week.

See the large assortment of Xmas Cards and Xmas Gifts at W. A. Brown's Model Jewellery Store.

The pews in the new Methodist church will be let on Thursday, the 31st, at 2 o'clock p. m. Terms cash.

Over one hundred conversions is the result of revival services held recently in Meaford Methodist Church.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

If you are after a Boss Cross-cut saw be sure and go to Haskett's, Markdale. I got one there, and it's a dandy.

Mr. Thos. Hanbury of Dundalk is a candidate for the reeveship of Proton, and ought to be elected by a large majority.

Worms often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system.

To Remove Dandruff.—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet.

J. R. Trimble wishes all his customers, young and old, rich and poor, a merry Xmas and happy and prosperous New Year.

There will be no service in the Markdale Presbyterian church next Sabbath, in view of the opening of the new Methodist church.

J. R. Trimble has just received a large assortment of choice groceries in all lines, suitable for Xmas and New Year trade.

A Crying Evil.—Children are often fretful and ill when worms are the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms.

The cheapest place in town to get Toys, Stationery, School Requisites, Holiday Goods, &c., is at Williams' next door to the barber shop.

Will. Armstrong had a severe attack of inflammation of the bowels on Sunday night last. We are pleased to learn he is now recovering.

Good Threshing.—R. Wiley and W. Best threshed 250 bushels barley in two hours for W. J. Black with horse-power machine last week.

Two year old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

Christmas is near at hand, and you bet Hanbury is well prepared for it. He has the finest stock of Wines & Liquors ever brought into Markdale.

We will suppose all our subscribers wish to continue the paper, if they do not notify us to the contrary, and will continue to send it regularly after the year is out.

It is not necessary for Hanbury to advertise any such fraud inducement as "trial flasks given free," to sell his Liquor. He sells the pure stuff, and it advertises itself.

Mrs. Montgomery has just received a fresh lot of all kinds of Christmas candies, nuts, biscuits, cakes of all kinds, at Dunlop's block, next door to City Hotel.

How is it Hanbury can sell two barrels of Liquor while other people in the trade is selling one? Well, the reason is very easily solved: He sells it just as he buys it.

School Trustees.—Secure your notice for annual school meeting all ready printed at this office. The annual meeting comes on the last Wednesday of the year, 30th inst.

We have a number of old outstanding accounts which must be settled or we will be under the painful necessity of placing them in the hands of the clerk of the court for collection.

A large and well selected stock of Christmas Candies, which Hanbury says he will sell cheaper than any one in town; also lots of fresh Oysters, which he will dish up to you in any style.

Wm. Mason has a number of fine rigs ready for the road. Those in need of such should call and examine. Mr. Mason's reputation is the best recommend we can offer for the quality of his vehicles.

The Toronto World, one of the most independent and reliable papers in Canada, has applied for incorporation. The capital is placed at $50,000. We heartily wish our esteemed journal success.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt's wealth is computed at $190,650,000, which brings an annual income of $10,343,000. This is at the rate of 28,000 per day, $1,200 per hour, or nearly $20 per minute

Teacher Wanted for third department Markdale School, Female holding 3rd class certificate, for '86; Apply, stating salary, on or before Monday, 21st Dec., to B. Coleman, Sec., Markdale P. O.

The Canker Worm or the Blood is Scrofula, that gnaws upon the vitals and consumes the body. Consumption is but Lung Scrofula. Burdock Blood Bitters is one of the best known combinations to cure Scrofula.

Re-opened.—Mr. Rooke has moved into new premises East of the Markdale House, where he has a bran new oven, and everything in first-class shape and is again on hand with bread and cakes, &c., for the million.

A tea-meeting will be held on the evening of New Year's day in the Babtist Church, 10th con., Glenelg, when addresses will be delivered by several reverend gentlemen, and music by the choir. Admission, 25 cents.

An Ontario farmer, John Rutherford, of Roseville, swept the board with his exhibit of sheep at the Chicago Fat Stock Show. With twenty five head he took twenty-four prizes, the cash value of which was $500.

The Dufferin Post of last week was a very creditable issue. The general design was in keeping with the originality of S. G., one of the proprietors. The Post is one year old under its present management, and is spicy, crisp and sparkling.

Removed.—Miss Burch has removed to Haskets new block where you will find stylish and cheap Millinery. Wools of all kinds, Xmas Goods, Cards, etc. Dress and Mantle Making executed in the latest style. A call respectfully solicited.

Mr. S. J. Coleman returned from Leeds Co. this week.

The annual tea-meeting of the Markdale Presbyterian Church will be held on the evening of New Year's day in Haskett's Hall. A good program is being prepared and a splendid time may be expected.

The Professors of the agricultural college have changed the dates of Farmers' Institute meetings printed two weeks ago. The meeting in Markdale for Centre Grey will be held on 8th and 9th January. Professors Brown, Greensides and Baree will be present.

Accident.—John, son of Mr. Johnston Freeborn, near Williamsford, was kicked in the face by a horse one day last week. He was badly cut, necessitating several stitches. The boy is under the care of Dr. McCullough of Chatsworth, and is fairly progressing.

Somewhat Late.—A Markdale citizen had a field of find potatoes raised on Tuesday, the 1st Dec.—[Markdale Standard. How raised and where from, brother Rutledge?--[Shelburne Economist. They were raised in the usual manner from the ground where they grew, brother Smith.

In connection with the church opening next Sunday, everything is in readiness. The Rev. Dr. Williams, who was to officiate, has had a severe attack of congestion of the lungs, so that he cannot attend, but an able substitute has been secured in the person of Rev. John Shaw of Toronto, ex-President of the Toronto Conference.

A year ago last summer a few leading men of Chatsworth put their heads together and determined to build a town hall, which they did at a cost of $1,091.50. They have since paid for it all but $200, all being raised from entertainments, hall hire, &c., accept $150 which was subscribed. That's what we call commendable and well directed enterprise.

Honor Roll for S. S. No. 5. Glenelg, for November.—4th class—Asa Robson, 158; Charlie Robson, 151; Marion McNab, 120. 3rd class—Katie Martin, 223; Sara Hastie, 249; Mary Ann Edge, 177. 2nd class—John Peart, 263; Willie Jack, 262; Nellie Neil, 188. Sen. 1st class—Annie Davis, 290; Jennie McArthur, 179; Tommie Blair, 98. Jun. 1st class—Ellen McNally, 183; Tommie Glencross, 146; Charlotte McNally, 143. Agnes J. White, teacher.

"Little Sweethearts" is the title of a wonderful picture by the great artist, Millais. It is of bewitching beauty that words fail to describe. It is published by the FAMILY HERALD AND WEEKL STAR, Montreal, and is carrying the hearts of the people by storm. State and Provincial Governors, Senators, Members of Parliament, and all classes of people the continent over, have deluged the Publishers with congratulations and compliments. A postal card to the Publishers of The Family Herald, Montreal, will get you terms and particulars.

Dangerous Hole.—The bottomless pit on the gravel road 2½ miles north of Markdale, known as "Allen's sink hole," is now in a very dangerous condition to the travelling publick. Travellers who are aware of it go round by the back line two and a half miles out of their way in order to avoid it, but those who may strike it unknowingly are in great danger. The road has went down over two feet under water, and many have recently narrowly escaped serious injury in crossing it. This whole has swallowed thousands of dollars of township and county money, but all to no purpose, and we firmly believe that until a floating bridge is constructed and placed over it, the authorities may continue to expend money without any hopes of a permanent job. Something must be done, however, and that right early.

The new Methodist church at Corbetton was opened last Sunday and a successful tea-meeting held on the following evening. The church and shed cost about $900 in all, and was all provided for and a few dollars over when the opening was complete. The collections at dedicatory services was $50, and the proceeds of tea $108. The building is veneered with brick, and altogether very comfortable.

You are sowing the seeds of Consumption by neglecting that Cough. Much misery and lingering sickness can be avoided by using West's Cough Syrup, as it will completely cure you. Hoarseness, Influenza, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all Throat and Lung Diseases vanish like magic before West's Cough Syrup. Sold at A. Turner & Co.' Drug Store. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle. Dec. 17

Victoria R. B. Preceptory No. 282, met in Lodge Room of Markdale L. O. Lodge, Dec. 11th, when the following Sir Knights were elected to office for the year 1886:—Jas. Brodie, W. Preceptor; Wm. Brady, D. Preceptor; John McFaden, Chaplain; Thomas Elliott, Registrar; James Elliott, Treasurer; Joseph Gibson & Thomas Gilray, Lecturers; John Gillespie & James Bryan, Censors; Geo. Ritchie & Jas. Nelson, Standard Bearers; J. H. Carson, Pursuivant; Thomas McArthur, Tyler. Committee—James Trickey, Jas. Erskin, Wm. Rutledge, Thos. McConnell, Thos. Abbot, Rich. Abber, Thos. Abercrombie. This Preceptory is in a prosperous condition, having a membership of 21, and over $100 in the treasury.

West's Cough Syrup will cure coughs, colds, influnnza, consumption in its early stages, hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma, and all throat and lung difficulties quicker and more effectually than any remedy on the market. There is no compound known to medical science that can equal it. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Druggists, at 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle. Dec. 10

Conscientious.—The editor of the Parkdale Times was in Markdale last week, and on leaving, found a watch between the hotel and the station. Not having time to make any enquiries as to the owner, he left it with Mr. Cæsar, the station agent, who promptly found the owner, Mr. Richardson of the Medical Hall, Markdale. Mr. R. wished to reward the finder, and wrote him, receiving a post card on return mail with the following reply: "Dear Sir—Yours of 7th inst received. I'm glad to hear claimant has been found for watch. Your indebtedness to me is nil. May you go and do likewise in the event of you being fortunate to a fellow-sufferer in relieving his anxiety, as I hope I am in your case. Truthfully yours, G. Powlers."

By an arrangement with the publishers of the Rural Canadian, we are enable to club that valuable farm journal to all prepaid subscribers to the Standard for the small sum of $1.50, thus effecting a considerable saving to the readers. Renew your subscription now and get the Rural free for the balance of this year.

Monday and Tuesday, January 4th and 5th, are the days appointed on which will be held the promotion examinations throughout this inspectorate. A great deal might be said about these examinations. It is admitted by all who carefully consider the matter, that they are of much importance, and it is greatly to be regretted that, some action has not been taken to have a set of papers prepared for the whole county. We think that the inspectors of the county are the persons to take action in the matter, and have it brought before the County Council, to see if that eminent body would apportion a grant to defray the expenses of such. This is done in a great many other counties in the province, and we see no reason why it should not be done in this.

Regularity of the main spring of life, and regularity of the bowels is one of the most essential laws of health. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels in an natural manner, curing Constipation and preventing serious disease.

HEALTH.

The Sick-Room.

How to manage a sick-room so that it shall be as wholesome, as comfortable and as cheerful as the possibility of the case admits, is a study which will probably never receive the attention it merits until the "art of nursing" shall be fully recognized as forming a legitimate and important branch of the art of healing.

No error of management in a sick-room is so common as a neglect of proper temperature and ventilation; yet upon these very subjects physiolgists have written more pages, and physicians spent more breath, than upon all kindred topics put together. Of course no inflexible rule can be formulated upon these points. An open window may be salvation to a man in the burning stage of a fever; at the same time it is fatal to one in the sweating stage. With all due regard for the thermometer, good sense and enlightened and careful observation should regulate there essential conditions.

Every one admits the necessity of keeping the air of the sick-room as pure as possible, yet how seldom, except in cases of contagion, do we see disinfectants about a sick-bed. Chloride of lime and carbolic acid are cheap and effective and something of the kind should always be used wherever fresh air cannot be freely admitted.

There should always be a towel-rack in the room, or just outside, where moistened cloths can be quickly dried. Cloths wet in pure water even give out an unpleasant odor if left lying in a heap to mold or dry as they best can. Keep one stand or table for food or drinks and another for medicines. A clean newspaper often renewed makes a better covering for such tables than a cloth. Have a basin of water always at hand, that whenever a spoon or wineglass is used, it can be rinsed immediately and ready for use. Guard against irritating noise, creaking doors, chairs or shoes, also against too much light and cross lights. Holes in window-shades and gaps in shutters are often first-class nuisances. Many an invalid is tortured by a single point of piercing light, which seems, like a faithful eye, to pursue him everywhere, and to which in spite of himself he is ever returning.

A little daily change in the arrangement of furniture, a little planning for such pleasant surprises as an invalid can bear, in the way of food, company and amusement, will often be more effectual in hastening the convalescence of a patient that all the tonics that have been used in the building up of infirm humanity since the days of Esculapius.

A soft tread, a mild, persuasive word, a magnetic hand, a tact— or shall we say a genius?—for detecting the interior aspects of disease, are invaluable adjuncts of good nursing. Clatter of firearms, rattle of dishes and newspapers, loud talking and whispering, are about equally abominable.

Growing plants are usually interdicted in a sick-room, but cut flowers are great brighteners of its somberness.

Fear and Disease.

Som emotions accelerate the heart, quicken the action of the brain, give new strength and elasticity to the step, and greatly enliven the spirits—the effect being of brief duration. Others, like hope, for instance, have a similar effect much lower in degree, but much more prolonged. Still others have an opposite effect.

Among the last is fear. Many cases are on record in which it has resulted in sudden death. Under its influence, as is well known, the face often becames pale, the heart beats violently, the breath is obstructed, the limbs tremble, the appetite is lost, and all other emotions are overcome.

We speak of the man as paralyzed with fear. There is literal truth in this. The effect is due to the influenceof the emotion on some one of the cerebral centres—the gangliga, or nerve masses, near the base of the brain, which govern the action of the various vital organs. This influence is, for the time, of a paralyzing nature.

Hence the capillary blood-vessels near the surface are collapsed, and the blood is driven back on the heart, burdening both it and the lung; while the secretion of the gastric juice is arrested by a paralysis of the great nerve—the pneumogastric—which supplies the stomach with its working force. Such a case is an extreme one, but it is the same in kind with fear in every degree. It lowers the tone of the system. It lessens the vitality. Even this condition is a diseased one, and if protracted, the system would, sooner or later, give way under it.

But the particular point we wish to make is that fear exposes even the most robust to the attacks of infectious diseases. The diseases are caused by minute organisms which enter the body through the stomach or the lungs. They may be harmless, if the stomach digests them, or if the body has its full power of resistance to infection.

But just here is the danger from fear—it lessens the normal resistance of the system, and especially arrests the power of the stomach to secrete the gastric fluid. Inputs the system, for the time being, where it is left by debilitating disease, by drinking habits, by over-eating, by excesses, by too continuous watching, or by anxious worry.

If therefore, the cholera invades America, or smallpox prevails, don't let us invite an attack by fear; but repel it by keeping about our daily vocations with a cheerful trust and a hand of help for others—having, of course, done our whole duty in the matter of hygiene.

Filters.

Many people pin their faith to filters, and think that so long as they pass their drinking water through an earthenware jar with some mysterious filtering medium inside, the source of the water or the condition of their cisterns does not in the least matter. This is a similar delusion to the belief, which passes freely current, that if you add spirits to unwholesome water you rob it of its noxious qualities, or at least diminish them. We do not deny the usefulness of filters, but we desire to point out that they must not be exclusively relied upon. Water filtration has in its way had as much nonsense written about it as water analysis. The great point is to keep the water itself as pure as possible. Where pollution is suspected, let the water be boiled for a considerable period. It may afterward be aerated by pouring it several times from a height of two or three feet from one vessel to another, or by artificial means. If a filter be used, it should be of the simplest possible construction, and the filtering medium should be readily removable for cleansing purposes. If a filter be not very frequently and very thoroughly cleansed, it pollutes rather than purifies the water.

Cholera Morbus.

At a recent gathering of medical men in Philadelphia Dr. W. S. Janney, late Coroner of that city, made the startling statement, that "no healthy man or woman ever dies in this climate from cholera morbus." He repeated the remark to the editor of the Medical and Surgical Reporter, saying that the records of the Coroner's office would substantiate his words. He explained that by "healthy" he meant a person with organic diseases and of average strength and vitality. "Such a person," he said "when dying with symptons of cholera morbus, always dies from poisoning (usually arsenic,) and the case is one of suicide or homicide." The ex-Coroner first examined into these cases when a stout, healthy man of his acquaintance died after an illness of thirty-six hours with cholera morbus. He had been attended by four reputable physicians, one of whom had signed the death certificate. Yet he instituted an investigation, and found enough arsenic in the deceased to kill a dozen men. He afterwards met with five or six similar cases. Dr. Barthlow, in a conversation with the editor of the Reporter, said that he had not the least doubt of the correctness of Dr. Janney's assertion. Another prominent physican stated his belief in these views, and referred the causes of such attempts to poison with arsenic to connubial uncongeniality.

Courage.

Who is afraid? Everybody! There is not a creature living who does not suffer from fear, reasonable or unreasonable; upon the whole, there is not more fear in the world then there is need of. It is indispensable. We could no more do without fear than a watch could do without its mainspring.

Some good and brave boys suffer from the fear of being afraid; others, from the fear of being thought afraid. Having learned to admire courage and courageous deeds of heroes, when they find themselves alarmed at anything, they say to themselves:—

"Am I really a coward, then? If I am afraid of a cow, a dog, a dark room, or a clap of thunder, what a sorry figure I should cut if I had been a soldier!"

But let us reflect a moment. A boy—even a man—ought to be afraid of a big, strange dog coming toward him, with a red mouth open, panting and glaring. Perhaps he ought not to run away, because that is a dangerous kind of strategy; but he ought to be so much afraid of the dog as to keep a sharp lookout until he discovers the intentions of the brute.

Courage does not consist in not being afraid, but in meeting danger we are afraid of. That person is brave who does a duty he mentally dreads, and many a gallant fellow has gone into peril trembling and pale with alarm. But he went

When the late J. P. Kennedy, of Baltimore, formerly Secretary of the Navy, was fifteen years of age, the country being then deeply agitated by the prospect of war with England, he made up his mind that when it came, he would join the army. One thought held him back: He was awfully afraid of the dark, having been terrified by ghost stories in his childhood.

In order to cure himself of his fears, he used to go at midnight to an extensive forest near his father's house, and walk about until morning. This he did until he was as much at ease in the woods at two o'clock in the morning, as he was in his father's garden after breakfast. Although at first he saw enemi esand ghosts at every step, he persevered until even these startling experiences ceased to alarm him. When the war was declared in 1812, he went to the front, took part in the battle of Bladensburgh, and ran away, with the rest of his regiment!

But his running away was glorious, too! "We made a fine scamper of it," he says. "I lost my musket in the melee, while bearing off a comrade whose leg was broken by a bullet." Another proof that even heroes run away sometimes. If heroes, why not boys? Every good soldier knows that there are times when discretion is the better part of valor.

The Countersign.

'Twas near the break of day, but still
The moon was shinging brightly;
The west wind as it passed the flowers
Set each one swaying lightly.
The sentry slow passed to and fro,
A faithful night-watch keeping,
While in his tents behind him stretched
His comrades all were sleeping.

Slow to and fro the sentry paced,
His musket on his shoulder,
But not a thought of death or war
Was with this brave young soldier;
Ah, no! his heart was far away
Where, on a western prairie,
A rose-twined cottage stood That night
The countersign was "Mary."

And there his own true love he saw,
Her blue eyes kindly beaming;
Above them, on her sun-kissed brow,
Her curls like sunshine gleaming,
And heard her singing as she churned
Her butter in the dairy,
The song she loved the best. That night
The countersign was "Mary."

"Oh! for one kiss from her!" he sighed.
When up the lone road glancing,
He spied a slender little form
With faltering steps advancing,
And as it neared him silently
He gazed at it in wonder;
Then dropped his muskes in his hand,
And challenged, "Who goes yonder?"

Still on it came. "Not one step more.
Be you man or child or fairy,
Unless you give the countersign.
Halt! Who goes there?" "'Tis Mary,"
A sweet voice cried, and in his arms
The girl he left behind him
Half-fainting fell. Over many miles
She'd bravely toiled to find him.

"I heard that you were wounded, dear,"
She sobbed, "My heart was breaking.
I could not stay a moment, but,
All other ties forsaking,
I travelled, by my grief made strong,
Kind heaven watching o'er me,
Until—unhurt and well?" "Yes, love,"—
"At last you stood before me."

"They told me that I could not pass
The lines to find my lover
Before day fairly came; but I
Pressed on ere night was over.
And as I told my name I found
The way free as our prairie."
"Because, thank God! to-night," he said,
The countersign is 'Mary.'"

Don't growl when the doctor orders bark.

INCIDENTS IN THE ROCKIES.

Deserted Cabins and there Former Occupants.

There are things in some of the deserted cabins in the Rocky Mountains that speak in sad tones to the man of imagination, and tell him stories of blasted hopes, of fruitless struggles, and, it may be of death. The mountains are full of deserted cabins. They stand on the edges of remote parks, they are hidden in thickly wooded ravines, they stand, isolated and lonely, on the timbered flanks of rugged foothills, with the tall pines swaying and sighing above them. On the shores of highland lakes, overhung by great cliffs, and where the sound of rippling water blends with the mysterious noises of an unbroken forest, there will be found a cabin. And in open valleys, rugged and gray with sage brush, and desolate, a cabin is sure to be found. It may be old and partly decayed, but it shows that man once lived, and toiled, and suffered, in the highland valley of desolation. Ah, the stories that the deserted cabins of the Rocky Mountains could tel if they could speak! I have seen many of these huts, and they always interested me.

Some years ago I was traveling in the westerly spurs of the Bitter Root Mountains. One day, towards evening, an autumn storm swept over the range. The snow filled the air. The extent of vision was about fifty yards. I supposed I was in an unknown region, probably one that had never been trodden by white men. I rode out of the timber into a tiny park. Standing among the trees that fringed its edge was a log hut. The chinking had fallen from between the logs, and there was a large hole in its roof; but it would shelter myself and my horse from the storm. I entered it and led my horse in. There was not a thing in the cabin, excepting pieces of beaver and bear skins, two blocks of wood, and a small corroded, brass crucifix, which hung on a nail above where the bunk should have been. I built a fire on the damp, old hearth, and sat supperless looking at the crucifix. I knew the story of its owner just as well as though it had been told to me. A Hudson Bay Company employee, probably a French Canadian, had built the cabin and had passed the winter in trapping in those highland solitudes. The crucifix was the emblem of his faith, and, in addition, it reminded the lonely trapper of the highest civilization he knew of—that which surrounded Fort Garry, and that lined the banks of the Red River of the North, dark-eyed, bright faced half-breed women, with whom he had danced at frontier balls—hovered around the crucifix. Often during the long winter nights he had gazed on the crucifix and sighed or smiled as his mood might have been. One day the trapper went forth and never returned. He perished in a storm, he was killed in a contest with a bear, he was waylaid by Spokane Indians, at any rate he never returned. The large quantity of torn, moth-eaten fur that littered the cabin showed that he had not marketed his catch. After the furs had been torn and mothe'en and rendered valueless, the cabin had been plundered of cooking utensils by predatory visitors.

Three years ago I found a small well-built cabin that stood in a deep and thickly wooded ravine by a tiny stream of ice water. A few old sluice boxes and the denuded bed rock of a small placer mine told the story of a miner, who thought he had struck it rich, building a house and working for one season, and then abandoning the claim. There was no blazed trail leading to this house. This indicated that the owner of the cabin did not hanker for visitors, and made me suspect that the diggings must have prospected well. I tried the gravel. It prospected fairly, but it was so high lying that water in sufficient quantities to work the ground rapidly and thoroughly could not be got on to it. The mine was worthless. I went to the house, and as I passed around one end I saw that the window had been broken inward. That was odd. Why should any one break into a house through a window when the door was fastened by a latch only? Curious about the broken window, I looked through it into the house. On the floor lay two dead mountain lions. I opened the door and examined the dead animals. They, judging from the condition of their skins, had got into the house the previous winter when the snow was deep and the weather intensely cold. The broken window showed how they had got in. Why they sought refuge in the cabin, and what killed them, I do not know.

Another cabin stood on the headwaters of a creek by a deep spring of ice water. This cabin was about fifteen miles from my highland house. I found it one day while deer hunting. It had not been occupied for years. There were holes in its roof, and some of the lower wall logs were badly decayed. In a box, pushed far back under a double bunk, were thirty or forty pieces of white china table ware, and a dozen plated forks. There was nothing else in the house. On my return home I told my wife of the china, and she, womanlike, coveted it. I promised to go for it in a few days and did so but it was gone. Another hunter or miner had found the cabin, and, being a prompter man than I, had packed the box on his horse and carried it off.

The Fatal Watch.

The late Dr. McLean sometimes, in feeling the pulse of his patients, held his watch in his hand and counted the pulsations. On one occasion, when doing this, his watch stopped suddenly in his hand, and his patient, contrary to his expectation, died. He related this to a party of gentlemen, among whom was Davy Harris, a well-known citizen of our county, long time clerk of our inferior court. Not long after, Harris was taken sick, and sent for the Doctor. When the Doctor arrived, he was a great deal better, and was sitting on the piazza at Major Burt's, where he lived. The Doctor felt his pulse, and unconsciously pulled out his watch. Harris, remembering the incident, said: "Don't pull that watch out on me." The watch stopped. In forty-eight hours he was a corpse.

While King Humbert of Italy was shooting recently in the park at Monza his gun missed fire, and when he put in another cartridge and fired he received such a shock that he thought the gun had burst and broken his arm. It was found that the first ball had not issued from the gun, and the second occioning a block, it was only the excellence of the gun that prevented it from bursting.

WATER STAR AUGUR and Post Hole WELL BORING

has no superior 20 feet per hour, hand or horse-power combined boring and rock drilling machine; send for circulars: 2 gold prizes and diplomas. Send for Catalogue.
68 MARY STREET, HAMILTON CANADA.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton
Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry Goods Dealers.

CANADA PERMANENT
LOAN & SAVINGS CO.
Incorporated, A.D. 1855.

Subscribed Capital	$8,000,000
Paid up Capital	2,200,000
Reserve Fund	1,100,000
Total Assets	5,000,000

OFFICE:
Company's Buildings, Toronto St., Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a large amount of English money which it is prepared to lend on first-class securities at low rates of interest. Apply to
J. HERBERT MASON,
Managing Director.

Christmas Cards
BY MAIL

At less than wholesale prices. All well assorted. No two alike, Postage prepaid. BIRTHDAY CARDS may be included.

		Not Fringed.	Fringed.
25 CARDS, good value, for		$ 25	$1 50
25 " larger,	"	50	2 25
25 " very fine,	"	1.00	3 25

Orders may be proportionately mixed, Cash to accompany order, Address,
Matthews Bros. & Co., Toronto

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.
Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's, N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston weekly, and Glasgow and Philadelphia fortnightly.
For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St John's, N.F.; Wm Thompson & Co., St. John, N B; Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden, New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co., Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia: H. A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal.

PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER
Manufacturing Co., 18 FRONT ST. EAST Toronto.

CAUTION
EACH PLUG OF THE
MYRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T. & B
IN BRONZE LETTERS
None Other Genuine.

A BIG OFFER To introduce ... GIVE AWAY ...
Operating Washing Machine ... send us your name, P.O. and express office ... THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N.Y.

BRITISH AMERICA BUSINESS COLLEGE, ARCADE, ST., TORONTO. Finest rooms in America ... in every department. Teachers ... getic, and know what they teach. ... leading business men of Ontario; its graduates ... ing positions of trust in every city, town and ... Canada. Send for new circular. C. O'DEA, ...

JAMES PARK & SON
Pork Packers, Toronto
L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, ... Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham ... Beef, Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, ... Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family ... Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands ... ish Fine Dairy Salt in Stock

FREE LAND AND
Cheap Homes for the M...
Along the line of the Chicago and North... Railway in Central Dakota and ... Nebraska. New sections are being opened ... rapidly settled in these wonderfully ... regions, and the "first comers" will ... choice" of location.
For full information (which will be sent ... charge) about the free lands and cheap ... to JOHN H. MORLEY, Western Canadian Pass. Agent, C. & N. ... E. S. HAIE, 9 York St., Toronto, ... General Pass. Agent, Chicago, Ill.

OUR FREE
120-Page
Catalogue
For 1886 is Now Ready

Illustrating nearly a thousand different styles of goods suitable for Xmas Presents
and at lower prices than ever before offered to the public. If you want to save money send for address for our CATALOGUE.
We have a variety in ... and elegant designs, set with Diamonds, Rubies, Pearls, & other precious stones, in Brooches, Rings, Bracelets, Scarf Pins, Collar Buttons, &c., and an endless variety of Gold & Silver Jewelry.
OUR OWN MAKE
And Manufactured in Our Establishment.
Shall be pleased to give estimates for description or style of Jewellery ordered to order. All our goods are fully guaranteed to be the quality of gold stamped and marked with our initials, thus:
"C. S. 18 Kt."
In Silverware we have to offer Largest and Most Complete Stock in the Dominion, all the Latest Designs and Quality made.
CATALOGUE FREE
Manufacturer, Importer, Wholesale & Retail Dealer.
CHAS. STARK
52 CHURCH ST., TORONTO

FROM THE
BOOT & SHOE MANUFACTURERS OF MONTREAL.

Whereas the reports of the epidemic in Montreal have, for various reasons, been greatly exaggerated, we, the undersigned Boot and Shoe Manufacturers of Montreal, beg to inform the trade and the public generally that our manufacturing establishments are entirely outside and far removed from what is known as the infected District; that the extraordinary precautions taken by us render it extremely improbable that contagion can be carried in our goods; that every employee in our establishment has been vaccinated and re-vaccinated (their families also being vaccinated), and that a thorough examination of the homes of our operatives has been made by competent physicians; and that it is acknowledged by the Medical Faculty that the combination of chemicals used in the tanning, colouring, and finishing of the leather used in Boots and Shoes renders itself a potent disinfectant.

We have also complied with every requirement of the ONTARIO BOARD OF HEALTH, and after Close examinations of our factories by Dr Covernton, their Inspector, we have received his certificates.

(Signed,)

AMES, HOLDEN & CO.,
JAMES LINTON & CO.,
JAMES POPHAM & CO.,
JAMES WHITHAM & CO.,
GEO. T. SLATER.
SHARPE & MACKINNON.
JAMES McCREADY & Co.
R. McCREADY & Co.,
COCHRANE, CASSILS & Co.
G. BOIVIN.

IMPORTANT TO ALL WHO DESIRE MORE LIGHT
THE HARVEY SAFETY LAMP

is superior to every other domestic light used, NOT EXCEPTING GAS. This is a Central Draught Burner in GLASS BOWLS in various ornamental designs on metal and glass stands. It consumes but half the quantity of oil that the so-called electric lamp uses. It is the brightest oil lamp ever invented. Manufacturers also of the "Solar Star Lamp," in Brass and Nickel. This lamp took FIRST PRIZE and SILVER MEDAL at Toronto's Industrial Exhibition. 1885.

HARVEY SAFETY LAMP.—We have been favored with a view of this new petroleum light, and we are strongly convinced of its superiority as a coal oil burner over any lamp yet placed on the market. The air chamber in which the wick-case is suspended has openings at the collar permitting a constant circulation of air downward around the wick-case, thence outward through the wick-case, thus giving a direct central draught. By this arrangement the wick-case is isolated from the oil, a small tube conveying sufficient oil through to the wick. This lamp is constructed upon thoroughly practical and scientific principles, and the result obtained is a beautiful, soft white light, with a fair economy, brilliancy and steadiness is not surpassed by either gas or electricity.—Toronto Truth.

Correspondence with dealers, and inspection invited.
OFFICE: 9 Adelaide St. West, Toronto
HARVEY & TRUAX

N EGYPTIAN R...
...ry of Love and Wild Adventure, found... ...tions in the Career of Ara...
...Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED ..." ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER XIV.

A FORESHADOWING OF DESTINY.

...he opinion of more than one important ...w historic personage the war minister ...nated far too much important time that ...ing alrea y, and as he re-entered Cairo, ...d joy because Nellie's parents had ...ed her to him in marriage directly ...Egyptian matters should have become ...ettled, he met Ali Bey Fehmy and ...lah Bey, the colonels of the negro ...ents that had revolted against the Khe... both mounted on powerful horses and ...countenances expressive of distrust and ...hension.

...alem Alek, where in the name of Allah ...he prophet have you been?"

...shallah, and at such a time, too, when ...e all hanging on to life by our eyelashes ..."

...ch was the dual greeting, uttered in ...lish so that neither the negro orderlies ...he servants should understand. Arabi ...n saw that something untoward had ...ened, but he did not allow his face to ...y the slightest trace of discomposure ...replied:

...o man can be in two places at once, ...there is more than one matter to be at... ...d to. In the name of the only prophet, ...is it that disturbs you?"

...You know the Circassian officer who at... ...ted to assassinate you, aye, and against ...n the crime was clearly proved and who ...entenced to death accordingly?"

...in excited tones from Abdullah Bey, ...Arabi replied with a smile:

...I didn't remember him, who should? ..., what of him, my good friend?"

...The sentence has been revoked and he ...been sent away to simp'e banishment, ...companied even by military degrada...

...What think you of that?"

...Not being vindictive, I am glad that the ...rtunate has escaped so easily."

...shallah, the man is nothing. The hid... ...influence that prompted the action is the ...that we look at. Even a straw shows ...h way the wind blows, and this straw ...s that a gale is about to blow on us ...the direction of England and France. ...worse, far worse, remains to be told. ...ish Pasha, that son of burnt fathers, ...veered round again like a weather vane, ...has gone over a second time by joint ...trol."

...is in excited tones from Ali Bey Fehmy, ...dullah Bey at once striking in with:

...It is too true. And now comes the worst ...l. The interview between the Turkish ...assador and the consuls general of Eng... ...and France took place at midnight, ...verily they love darkness rather than ...t whose deeds are treacherous and evil, ...the result was that the Khedive as... ...bled the Ulemas and such of the notables ...he could bribe or affright by special sum... ...n at the palace an hour before dawn, ...to them declared that he had dismissed ...from the ministry and from all rank ...command in the army as well, and that ...night you should be on your way to the ...dan or the White Nile. He added that ...was the Khedive el-Mise, the sole govern... ...power in Egypt, and that he wished it ...be generally known that his good friends, ...French and English, could land tens of ...usands of soldiers and quell with fire, ...and steel any uprising of the populace ...the army against his lawful and undivided ...thority."

...This is serious," exclaimed Arabi. "From ...om got you this intelligence?"

...From Giraffer, the Aga, who, as you ...w, is in our pay,' answered Abdullah.

..."And," added Ali Bey Fehmy, "Giraffer, ... Aga, counseled immediate flight, be... ...se that the machinations of our foes were ...time not to be defeated. Abdullah and ...e to share your fate. ...d, as you see, are ...dy mounted to evade it, but we could ...depart without giving you a warning."

..."Now, by the holy prophet, I thank you ...h, since the more who desert me, the ...er I shall have to reward when I become ...edive-el-Mise, in the place of that wretch... ...usurper Tewfik. Let those who abandon ...in the hour of peril quake and tremble, ...ever; for though I may forgive a foe, I ...never pardon a false friend. Where ...Toubs Pasha and Suleiman Bey? I'll ...ch for it that they'll never blanch from ...helm for such a coat's paw of adverse ...d as this. I have good news that will ...outweigh your bad. But go, go, I have ...ficient men of stout heart left. I can do ...about you."

..."We are as brave as most men. We are ...only prudent," said Abdullah sheepishly.

..."And if you can convince us that our ...udence is ill-timed, we will throw it to ...winds," added Ali Bey Fehmy. "At all ...nts, as you see, we could not leave Cairo ...about you."

..."A fact which alone induces me to take ...n again into my favor," replied the polite ...old minister. "Yes, I at all events ...l grateful for your devotion, and in tribu... ...therefore I will tell you my news. Know ...that Gambetta, the warlike minister of ...nce, who would fain have served Egypt ...he served Tunis, has fallen from power, ...d a man of peace has filled his place, who ...ll have naught to do with our oppression ...d spoliation. On the other hand, England ...ll not dare to fly alone in the teeth of ...s Austria and Germany, by whose con... ...e I am supported."

..."But how and when did you learn this ...m France?" demanded both his audi...

..."By private wire not an hour and a half ...e, and I doubt if even the French consul ...in possession of the intelligence as yet. I ...am therefore, go at once to the Khedive, ...it is my intention to board the lion in ...den."

..."You will be rushing to certain destruc...," pleaded Ali Bey Fehmy.

..."But if you abandon your idea of running ...away and instead gallantly support me. ...I see the time to strike the blow that ...will give freedom unto Egypt. I am still ...Khedive, and as such it is your bounden ...duty to obey my orders, and none can pun...

BIG OFFER To introduce them, we GIVE AWAY THE
Operating Washing Machine. Send us your name, P.O. and express office and we
THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N.Y.

BRITISH AMERICA
BUSINESS COLLEGE, ARCADE, YONGE
TORONTO. Finest rooms in America. Practical every department. Teachers penning and
, and know what they teach. Endorsed by ing business men of Ontario; its graduates positions of trust in every city, town and village ada. Send for new circular. C. O'DEA, Secretary

AMES PARK & SON
Pork Packers, Toronto.
C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. O. Bacon
gow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dry
Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork led Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of Pure ine Dairy Salt in Stock

THE LAND
AND
eap Homes for the Millio
g the line of the Chicago and Northwestern way in Central Dakota and Northern raska. New sections are being opened up tly settled in these wonderfully productive ons, and the "first comers" will have the ce of location.
r full information (which will be sent you free)
ge) about the free lands and cheap homes, apply
JOHN H. MORLEY,
Western Canadian Pass. Agent, C. & N. W. R.
. HAIR, 9 York St., Toronto, Ont.
General Pass. Agent, Chicago, Ills

OUR FREE
20-Page
Catalogue
for 1886 is Now Ready.

ustrating nearly a thousand different styles of goods suitable for mas Presents
d at lower prices than ever fore offered to the public.
u want to save money send for dress for our CATALOGUE.
We have a variety in new d elegant designs, set with iamonds, Rubies, Pearls, & other cious stones, in Brooches gs, Bracelets, Scarf Pins, Cuff Buttons, &c., and an endless
riety of Gold & Silver Jewelry
OUR OWN MAKE
Manufactured in Our Establishment hall be pleased to give estimates for any cription of Jewellery to be made rder. All our goods are fully guaranteed to be the quality of gold stamped and ked with our initials, thus:
"C. S. 18 Kt."
n Silverware we have to day the gest and Most Complete Stock in the inion, all the Latest Designs and Best lity made.
CATALOGUE FREE.
Manufacturer, Importer, Wholesale and Retail Dealer.
HAS. STARR
2 CHURCH ST., TORONTO
THE NUFACTURER TREAL.
nic in Montreal have, for ted, we, the undersigned beg to inform the trade nufacturing establishments
what is known as the Infec cautions taken by us render can be carried in our goo ment has been vaccinated eing vaccinated), and that f our operatives has been s acknowledged by the Medi nemicals used in the tanni used in Boots and Shoes is uirement of the ONTARIO BOARD factories by Dr Covernton, their C
SHARPE & MACKINNON,
AMES McCREADY & CO.,
. McCREADY & CO.,
OCHRANE, CASSILS & CO.
. BOIVIN.
DESIRE MORE LIGHT
FETY LAMP
t used, NOT EXCEPTING GAS.
ASS BOWLS in various ornands. It consumes but half ectric lamp uses. It is the facturers also of the "Solar his lamp took FIRST PRIZE
l Exhibition, 1885.
been favored with a view of gly convinced of its superior-placed on the market. The pended has openings as the t air downward around he k-case, thus giving a direct e wick-case is isolated from ll through to the wick. This tical and scientific principle, white light, with no smonased by either gas or oil.
Inspection invited.
. West, Toronto
TRUAX

AN EGYPTIAN ROMANCE

Story of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

The Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPIDER," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER XIV.

A FORESHADOWING OF DESTINY.

In the opinion of more than one important and now historic personage the war minister had waited far too much important time that evening already, and as he re-entered Cairo, full of joy because Nellie's parents had consented here to him in marriage directly after Egyptian matters should have become somewhat settled, he met Ali Bey Fehmy and Abdullah Bey, the colonels of the negro regiments that had revolted against the Khedive, both mounted on powerful horses and with countenances expressive of distrust and consternation.

"Salem Alek, where in the name of Allah have you been?"

"Inshallah, and at such a time, too, when we are all hanging on to life by our eyelashes."

Such was the dual greeting, uttered in English so that neither the negro orderlies nor the servants should understand. Arabi soon saw that something untoward had happened, but he did not allow his face to betray the slightest trace of discomposure as he replied:

"A man can be in two places at once, but if there is more than one matter to be attended to. In the name of the only prophet, what is it that disturbs you?"

"Do you know the Circassian officer who attempted to assassinate you, aye, and against whom the crime was clearly proved and who was sentenced to death accordingly?"

This in excited tones from Abdullah Bey, but Arabi replied with a smile:

"If I didn't remember him, who should? But, what of him, my good friend?"

"The sentence has been revoked and he has been sent away to simple banishment, accompanied even by military degradation. What think you of that?"

"Not being vindictive, I am glad that the fortunate has escaped so easily."

"Inshallah, the man is nothing. The hidden influence that prompted the action is the thing that we look at. Even a straw shows which way the wind blows, and this straw shows that a gale is about to blow on us from the direction of England and France. Or worse, far worse, remains to be told. Ibrahim Pasha, that son of burnt fathers, has veered round again like a weather vane, and has gone over a second time by joint control."

This in excited tones from Ali Bey Fehmy, Abdullah Bey at once striking in with:

"It is too true. And now comes the worst of all. The interview between the Turkish ambassador and the consuls general of England and France took place at midnight, and verily they love darkness rather than light whose deeds are treacherous and evil, and the result was that the Khedive assembled the Ulemas and such of the notables as he could bribe or affright by special summons at the palace an hour before dawn, and to them declared that he had dismissed you from the ministry and from all rank and command in the army as well, and that ere night you should be on your way to the Sudan or the White Nile. He added that it was the Khedive el-Misr, the sole governing power in Egypt, and that he wished it to be generally known that his good friends, the French and English, could land tens of thousands of soldiers and quell with fire, sword and steel any uprising of the populace or the army against his lawful and undivided authority."

"This is serious," exclaimed Arabi. "From whom got you this intelligence?"

"From Giraffer, the Aga, who, as you know, is in our pay," answered Abdullah.

"Ah!" added Ali Bey Fehmy, "Giraffer, the Aga, counseled immediate flight, because that the machinations of our foes were at this time not to be defeated. Abdullah and I are to share your fate, and, as you see, are already mounted to evade it, but we could not depart without giving you a warning."

"Now, by the holy prophet, I thank you all, since the more who desert me, the greater I shall have to reward when I become Sultan-el-Misr, in the place of that wretched usurper Tewfik. Let those who abandon me in the hour of peril quake and tremble, however; for though I may forgive a foe, I will never pardon a false friend. Where are Ibrahim Pasha and Suleiman Bey? I'll wager for that they'll never blanch from the helm for such a cat's paw of adverse wind as this. I have good news that will far outweigh your bad. But go, go, I have sufficient men and a stout heart left. I can do without you."

"We are as brave as most men. We are merely prudent," said Abdullah sheepishly.

"And if you can convince us that our presence is ill timed, we will throw it to the winds," added Ali Bey Fehmy. "At all events, as you see, we could not leave Cairo without you."

"A fact which alone induces me to take you again into my favor," replied the polite and oily minister. "Yes, I at all events feel grateful for your devotion, and in tribute thereto I will tell you my news. Know then that Gambetta, the warlike minister of France, who would fain have served Egypt as he served Tunis, has fallen from power, and a man of peace has filled his place, who will have naught to do with our oppression and spoliation. On the other hand, England will not dare to fly alone in the teeth of both Austria and Germany, by whose counsels I am supported."

"But how and when did you learn this about France?" demanded both his auditors.

"By private wire not an hour and a half ago, and I doubt if even the French consul is in possession of the intelligence as yet. I will, therefore, go at once to the Khedive, for it is my intention to beard the lion in his den."

"You will be rushing to certain destruction," pleaded Ali Bey Fehmy.

"Not if you abandon your idea of running away and instead gallantly support me. Now is the time to strike the blow that shall give freedom unto Egypt. I am still war minister, and as such it is your bounden duty to obey my orders, and none can punish or blame you for so doing. Abdullah Bey, the third regiment of the line is on guard at the Gezireh palace. Go and let it be relieved within half an hour by your negroes. Here is the pencil'ed ordered for the change. Ali Bey Fehmy, a portion of your troops are at the citadel and the rest occupy the Kan-en-nil barracks. Let them remain under arms and be ready to obey instantly any order that they may receive from me. Now, my friends, don'ts you see that when I present myself before the Khedive he will be virtually my prisoner, and that is a coup de etat that I am meditating. Aye, an hour hence I will be the virtual ruler of Egypt, and, by Allah and the prophet, should either England or France dare dispute that rule with me I will answer them through a free parliament like unto their own; or, until time has been given for such to be found, by the voice of the people, which has been declared to be even the voice of God."

This joint speech and explanation, in conjunction with those that had gone before, effected a great change in the feelings and resolutions of the colonels of the two negro regiments, whose nerves had been somewhat unstrung by the apprehensions of secret assassination or a death by poison for a long while, and whom the prospect of banishment to the burning Soudan, or the still more deadly district of the White Nile, from which not one exile in a hundred lives to return, had terrified still more than the fears of a speedier doom had done.

They declared to Arabi that they were still with him heart and soul, and that the commands which he had given them should be immediately obeyed, with more to the same effect.

The war minister received these overtures of reconciliation and renewed allegiance with an air of lofty complaisance, and when they were over he touched the rim of his tarbouch and directed his carriage to proceed, so that a quarter of an hour later he was set down at the outer door of his pink-walled, yellow jalousied palace.

Alighting, he ordered the carriage to await him, and passing the cook, who had already opened the door, entered the selamlic or great hall, which was tenanted by a solitary individual who was smoking a long chibouk and sipping coffee.

In this personage he immediately recognized Toulba Pasha, and he drew a good augury from the perfect calmness of his expression and demeanor.

The marble flags being covered with thick Persian rugs, the smoker, who was gazing stolidly in an opposite direction, did not perceive the approach of his host until he was close upon him.

Toulba Pasha then rose to his feet and smiled.

"Your cheerful countenance does not betoken you the bearer of evil tidings."

"My tidings are evil or good according as they may be received and acted upon."

"Then doubtless they are the same as I have just received from Abdullah and Ali Bey."

"Sa mahala; no doubt about it. I read it in your eyes, and also what you are going to do."

"I am going to change my attire, and proceed to the palace, there to throw down the gauntlet at the Khedive's feet and tell him to his face who is master of the situation."

"Then while you are talking of the situation I will be attending to it. I can see that you have heard all and that there is no need for me to trouble you with a twice told tale. Besides, every moment is precious; every moment is worth its weight in diamonds."

"You think so? Then not one of those diamonds shall be lost. The Khedive must put up with the coat I have on. Lend me your pistols Toulba. I know that you always carry a brace, and you can replenish the loss from my armory, since you seem to be in no hurry."

"I am in no hurry. On the face of the clock the short hand follows the long, but though it seems to lag behind it ever tells the same hour. I am to-day the short hand and you the long, but mayhap I shall do as much work, though I traverse less ground."

The war minister seemed to be quite satisfied with this reply, and left Toulba clapping his hands for another cup of coffee.

Arabi Pasha thrust the brace of tiny silver barreled and gold inlaid pistols into the breast pocket of his blue military frock coat, whilst Toulba touched with his right hand first the floor and then, in rapid succession, his heart, his lips and his brow, a common form of greeting or farewell from an inferior to a superior in Egypt, which signifies, "My respect, my heart, my speech and my thoughts are all yours."

The war minister simply bowed in reply, as though this act of homage on Toulba's part was but his right, and then hurrying forth from his cool and spacious hall, he re-entered his carriage, the sais, or running footman, slamming the door after him, and in guttural Arabic passing on the destination to the coachman, "The Gizereh Palace."

Then, as he was whirled away amidst a cloud of dust from his home, Arabi Pasha could not help looking back and wondering whether he should ever enter in at its portals more, and for a moment the great scarlet hibiscus flowers seemed to take the form of English soldiers in armed possession of the place, and he shuddered lest the thought should be a foreshadowing of destiny.

CHAPTER XV.

A PRISONER IN HIS OWN PALACE.

Through streets so narrow that two vehicles could not have passed each other therein, and where the running sais in advance was a necessity in addition to a fashion, past open places, oases of dusty palm trees amidst a desert of ruins (for fully a third part of Cairo is in ruins), and where camels, sheep and goats lay huddled together panting for air, past doors devoid of houses, and houses apparently destitute of doors, and long lines of shop windows with nothing in particular displayed therein save the proprietors seated cross-legged on bare tables and long pipes, and then on into wider thoroughfares, where Europe at East seems to nod heads with Africa, and Brown, Jones or Robinson, mounted on another donkey as big as himself, gallops frantically about, each moment in danger of colliding with some stately Arab horseman, or a slow pacing animal laden with a mountain of cotton, or some fairer but almost as bulky burden mounted on a painted ass that is led by an armed eunuch, and then the glittering shops of Moscow street and the fantastic treasure stalls of the Khan Khalil bazaar being also left behind, the beauties of nature begin to mingle in the scene, and suburban gardens and pleasant villas, alternating with mud huts and stately palaces whose foundations are laved by the yellow Nile, with lilies and lotus flowers starring its bosom, greet the wearied gaze, with in the near distance yet more palace and towering groves of palm, all backed by the dimly outlined pyramids and the far away Arabian hills glowing with softened shades of violet and ultramarine.

But Arabi Pasha, the war minister, had no eyes for the inanimate beauties of nature. He was risking his all on one cast of the die. He was about to thrust his head into the lion's mouth with as yet nothing but threats at his command to prevent its being bitten off, and perchance those very threats might cause it be be bitten off.

But, then, what was to be done else? In heart Arabi did not desire to depose the Khedive. He had no ambition beyond that of giving liberty to his country. His aim was to destroy despotism rather than the despot. If Tewfik would consent to rule as a constitutional sovereign, through a parliament chosen by the people, he might so rule, but he would also have to banish the European bloodsuckers, who, enjoying constitutional liberty themselves, strained every nerve to deny it to Egypt, simply because it was more easy to guide one individual in leading strings than an entire nation.

Then came the anxious question, what if the Khedive refused to yield an inch and dared him to do his worst? No success of his he felt would be final without the blessing of the Sheik-ul-Islam as head of the Mohammedan Church, or the sanction of the Sultan as the chief and suzeraine of Egypt; and though the Princess Zeench had promised to secure him the latter, yet felt he by no means certain that she would keep her word, for not only did he in some degree doubt her power, but to a much greater extent her present will, since he had noted the fierce expression in her eyes at the opera house on the preceding evening, eyes whose every glance he had read like a printed book, though they alone of all the face were visible.

"France I no longer fear," muttered Arabi to himself, "but if England can by secret pressure induce Turkey to oppose our national armies and uphold the authority of the usurper Tewfik, then indeed may I well despair of ultimate success. However, sufficient for the day is the evil thereof."

On gaining the palace the war minister was by no means sorry to perceive that the change in the guard had been already effected, and the prompt and hearty manner in which Abdullah Bey's coal black negroes of the Soudan saluted him, both at the main guard house and at the various sentry boxes, convinced him that he had nothing to fear from open violence, at all events, and that the Khedive was already practically a prisoner in his own palace.

Into that palace he therefore stalked with somewhat the air of a conqueror.

The gorgeously clad officials, both great and small, seemed hardly to know whether they had best treat him with lofty scorn or servile humility, but their doubts and fears caused the majority to incline to the latter course and the minority to choose a kind of middle one.

But the war minister took not the slightest outward notice of either, but stalked on through the marble-floored, porphyry-columned halls in the direction of the reception rooms, as though the palace were his own and there was no one to say him nay.

At last he reached the immense curtain which screened the Hall of Audience, and where also two of the negro soldiers had been posted, whilst he observed that half a dozen more occupied the guard room on the right.

From that guard room a young officer now came forth, lowering his sword-point in salutation, whilst simultaneously the back of his left hand flew up to the border of his tarbouch.

"The tiger is safely caged," thought Arabi, but what he said was:

"Pray inform his highness that his servant, the minister of war himself, desires an audience with him," and he looked excessively meek as he uttered the words.

Thereupon the officer sheathed his sword and clapped his hands, and in reply to the summons the cloth of gold curtain was partly drawn back, revealing the richly uniformed person of one of the palace officials.

"The Pasha is refused audience," said he.

But hardly had the words escaped his lips when a scurrying of feet was heard within, and the other end of the curtain was raised by a similarly uniformed official, who said in a much more humble tone, "The Khedive will receive his excellency in his private room."

The war minister smiled at the contradictory orders, but followed him who had brought the last, and a few moments later was ushered into the presence of Prince Tewfik, who was seated on a pile of gold-embroidered cushions, in a small room whose walls were richly painted and to a certain height hung round with a kind of arras or tapestry.

"Ahmed-ebu, Arabi, your slave, solicits the favor of touching your highness's august slippers with his unworthy lips," said the war minister, giving the customary greeting.

But the humility of the speech was so opposed to every action of the speaker that the words far more enraged than appeased him to whom they were addressed.

Springing to his feet he hissed forth the two words: Insolent traitor."

Thereupen the war minister folded his arms and said calmly, yet firmly:

"Perhaps your highness will condescend to inform me in what I am a traitor to my country."

"You are worse than a traitor to your country, for you are a traitor to your sovereign."

"My character and my objects have been falsely represented to your highness. I will be loyal to my sovereign as long as he is loyal to the country that Allah hath raised him to rule over, and no man's loyalty is longer required of him, for what saith the Koran: 'The ruler is he who is just, and he who ceases to be just may no longer be ruler.' Have I not quoted the prophet rightly, your highness?"

The Khedive grew perfectly livid with anger. He half drew his scimitar from its sheath, at the same time exclaiming:

"Who made you judge of my actions?"

"The cries and moans of the downtrodden people, the waxing fat of their oppressors, the taxing of the poor and the immunity of the rich, the idle luxury of an Oriental court a gagged press, irresponsible ministers and a bullied Parliament, and a swarm of greedy European locusts, encouraged by your highness to settle here and eat the bread of the children of the soil, and who are paid excessive salarics for simply systemizing financial oppressions. Does your highness wish me to continue the nation's indictment against you?"

"The nation's indictment? Say rather your own and that of your fellow-conspirators."

"If your highness speaks truly, my fellow-conspirators must be many in number, for I am backed by twenty-five thousand of the most influential representatives of every class and section of the population, whilst the poor of Egypt are with me to a man. Your highness, I have only to add that I stand before you now as your servant, and that it will be your own actions that will transform me into your master."

"Tell me what actions will prevent you from becoming my master," sneered Tewfik.

"The act of being a just ruler instead of being a tyrant. The act of being a king instead of a puppet that is made to dance as the European showmen pull the strings, and finally the act of ruling through a Parliament that is chosen by the people. Sire, the movement that I head is no military rebellion, as it suits the purposes of France and England to declare it to be, and that you know full well. It is a great national struggle for freedom; aye, for very life, for the nation is starving."

"Then let the nation look to me for bread," said the Khedive, laughing.

"And receive instead a stone, coupled with the bastinado, for being unable to digest the hard food. Your highness, the time for promises has gone by."

"I'll make you a promise that I will perform. It is that I will have your head."

"Then I will make your highness a promise which verily I will perform before I lose my head, and since plain speech deserves plain speech in return, your highness must pardon me if I use it. I know all that has been secretly done behind my back in the darkness of the night, and now hear what I am prepared to do openly under the light of God's sun. My troops hold the city, and my troops keep guard within the palace as well. The lifting of a finger would lay your highness's head at my feet, but restore me before high noon to all my secretly confiscated honors, and give the English and French consuls notice to quit Egypt before nightfall, dismiss your present ministers and nominate others at my choosing, give permission for the immediate reassembling of the national Parliament that was illegally dissolved by your highness for simply ignoring the Anglo-French control, and I will remain now as ever one of your highness's most faithful and devoted servants."

"Impertinent dictator, I will do none of these things," roared the Khedive.

"Then, Sire," retorted Arabi, firmly, "you must consent to abide the results, for I will perform my duty to my country at all hazards. Your highness cannot interfere with that duty, for I hold you a prisoner in your own palace, and should France or England, through their consuls, only dare to attempt it, I will bring the one to reason by threats to burn the accursed canal that has been Egypt's ruin, and the other by seizing and imprisoning every Englishman that is to be found in Egypt. Woe, woe to all your Feringhee parasites, oh! Khedive, if you venture to force my hand down upon my sword hilt!" and with this warning Arabi Pasha swept out of the council chamber.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

WINTER WRINKLES.

A swell affair—The soap bubble.

An artist in black—A designing widow.

Ferdinand Ward wishes he were one of the rascals who are to be turned out.

What is the difference between a Catholic sister and a Catholic woman? Nun.

When a person is in everybody's mouth he naturally has a high appreciation of the popular taste.

Shakespeare was not a broker; but does any one know of another man who has furnished so many stock quotations?

If there is anything below the clouds that will make an angel red around the eyes is to see a near-sighted old bachelor try to thread a needle.

The man who went to the country last Summer for "rest and change" says the waiters got most of his change and the landlord the rest.

Grocer—"Half a pound of tea? Which will you have, black or green?" Servant—"Shure aythur will do. It's for an old woman that's nearly bloind."

It is a singular and touching coincidence that both poker players and women raise the blind for the same purpose. They want to see what their neighbors have got.

The rage now in Paris is to be married at midnight. This is a wise move. It accustoms the bride to waiting up until "the wee sma' hours" for her husband's return.

The principal reason, my son, why those thin wafers you got at the church fair are called oyster fritters is because you fritter away so much time looking for the oyster.

All doctors agree that to enjoy good health the mind must be kept in a cheerful condition. But no doctor can give a man points that will make him joyous when his collar don't fit.

A woman will cling to a man with the snakes in his boots through the most trying adversity; but, if you want to see her lose reason and stampede in a hurry, show her a mouse unexpectedly.

Young housewife consulting with cook about the dinner for a party)—"As a second course we will have eel." "How much ought I to get ma'am?" Young wife—"I fancy about ten yards will be sufficient."

"Compared with the average young man," exclaimed Ethel, warmly, "Mr. Thompkins is very much above par." "He wasn't last night," chimed in Bobby who had seen the whole thing; "he was under."

The world is full of people who go about fighting windmills and wasting effort in struggling with imaginary evil, but the man who attends to his own business and pays cash for groceries is the one with whom prosperity loves to roost.

Young Mr. Lemon Peale was heard to remark at the recent chrysanthemum exhibition: "Ah, Miss De Bisque, the chrysanthemum is just like yourself—it comes so late." "Indeed, and like yourself also, Mr. Peale—it has no scents to speak of."

Follower at the head of the funeral procession—"Eh, d'ye see yon wee Tam McGowkie, the r-r-e? He maun be i' th' front, ye mind, whatever's gaun on." His Companion—"I' the front? Aye, mun (viciously), he'd be i' the hearse if he could."

"I tell you, Fanny, I am bound to succeed. I have the aptitude. It is close attention to little things which makes a man succeed." "Ah, indeed! Well, that explains it." "Explains what, Fanny?" "Why you pay so very close attention to your moustache."

A ROBBER'S EXTRAORDINARY CAREER.

How, Single-handed, he Tied Up Seventeen Men to Trees.

The other day, in one of the jails of New Zealand there died a man who for many years had been an object, first of terror, then of interest, to the colonies.

The early years of Henry Garrett are shrouded in a veil of mystery, but in 1842 he received a sentence in England of ten years penal servitude. As at that time penal servitude also meant transportation, Henry was removed to the colony of Norfolk Island. In that Pacific region he disported himself for his full term, for it is not until 1855 that he again appears. In that year Garrett, having reached Australia, boldly conceived and as boldly carried out a most daring bank robbery. Garrett determined to carry out the scheme single-handed, and proceeded with the utmost coolness to do his little job in broad daylight. Posting a notice on the outside of the bank at Ballarat he had selected for his operations that the establishment would be closed for an hour, he went in shut the front door after him, and, presenting a loaded revolver at the heads of the surprised and somewhat disconcerted officials he demanded the contents of the safe. Receiving this, he quietly locked the clerks in the building, departed smiling by the back door, with a profit of £8,000, as the reward of his commercial enterprise.

With this sum Henry escaped to England but being followed by a detective he was caught in the streets of London. The trick by which he was captured was rather a mean one. The detective thought that he recognized his man, but not being quite sure that he was the right one, he gave a loud "coo-ee" from the sidewalk and the unsuspecting Australian, doubtless thinking to help a fellow colonist in distress, turned sharply around and is as sharply nabbed. Sent back to Australia, he was tried, and received a sentence of ten years' penal servitude. Upon the expiration of his term he shook off the dust from his prison shoes and crossed over to the neighboring colony of New Zealand.

Among many well-planned robberies, with the skilful execution with which he distinguished himself, chiefly conspicuous was the feat he accomplished of "sticking up" seventeen men, not far from Dunedin, and relieving them of their valuables. The process of "sticking up" is charmingly simple. The operator pounces out from his ambush upon an unsuspecting party of travellers, and, with loaded revolver raised, he cries out, "Bail up!" whereupon—every body knowing what is meant—all the men instantly throw their hands in the air. Any one making an effort to get at his side arms is shot. It requires a certain amount of courage to do this simple trick well. Mr. Garrett, as usual, single-handed managed his seventeen men himself. In a short time he had them all tied to trees, and then at his own convenience he emptied their pockets. With the kindliness of heart which was so pleasing a characteristic of our amiable bushranger, he made a good fire, boiled a billy of water, and gave them all tea. Moreover, knowing the solace of tobacco, he filled—from their own pouches—the pipes of such of the party who smoked and lighted them. Then wishing them a kindly "Good-night, good-night!" Mr. Garrett vamosed.

Shot Because He Felt Like It.

Daniel and George Moore, aged 16 and 14 years, confessed that they were the murderers of George L. Gumbel. They said their father was dead and their mother was a widow living in Indianapolis. Four weeks ago they left home to visit an aunt in Dallas county, Mo., and while in Dallas county one night they broke into a house and stole a 32-calibre revolver. The other evening they went to Mansfield and visited several places, begging for something to eat. A number of the people gave them food, and a few gave them small sums of money. Next morning they met Gumbel at the depot, and the three went east, following the railroad track.

The younger boy was the first to confess. He said they were walking some distance in the rear of the German, and his brother said to him: "I am going to shoot that man." He asked him what for, and his brother replied, "Because I want to." Then the brother walked up to the man, placed the revolver within two or three feet of the back of his head, and fired. While making this confession the boy cried bitterly. The elder boy denied the story at first, but when informed that his brother had told all about it he corroborated his brother, except that he denied rifling the dead man's pockets. When asked why he killed the man, and if they had quarreled, he said there had been no trouble of any kind, that he had never seen the man until that morning, and that he just felt like killing him, and so shot him.

After the murder the boys went on toward Lebanon. That night they slept in a barn, three or four miles west of Lebanon, and next morning they went on to that place, where they were arrested. The elder boy seems entirely unconcerned.

The Standard.

MARKDALE DECEMBER 17, 1885

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all our subscribers.

MUNICIPAL.

The municipal atmosphere in the various surrounding municipalities is unusually calm, yet there is often the greatest calm before a storm.

GLENELG.

In Glenelg there is likely to be important changes, but they generally leave the question open until the nomination, when all fall into line. The latest word is, that Mr. Charles Moffat and the present deputy reeve will be candidates for reeveship. Mr. Dunsmore is spoken of as a probable candidate for deputy. Edward Rutledge is spoken of as a proper person to represent Markdale ward in the council, and if he will consent to take the field, will be elected without doubt He is one of the first settles of the township, and is a staunch progressive farmer, and has the respect and confidence of the whole community.

HOLLAND.

Holland council met at Holland Centre on Monday last, and as far as we could learn there is yet no probability of any opposition to the present board. Should the ratepayers unite in the direction of economy they have now a good chance to save the township $100 in election expenses.

ARTEMESIA.

As far as we can learn Artemesia is in about the same position as Holland, and the old council may all be re-elected by acclamation.

OSPREY.

Our correspondents in Osprey either wish to keep matters quiet, or they have nothing to report on the probability of municipal changes.

EUPHRASIA.

MUNICIPAL matters in Euphrasia are more quiet than usual at this advanced stage of the season. Mr. Gilray, the reeve, will not likely have any opposition, whether or not however, he will be re-elected. Mr. Fawcett, the deputy, will have opposition. Several names are mentioned, but who the opposition will be, is hard to say just yet. W. J. Shepherdson has been named, and at first declined the request of various ratepayers to take the field, but later he has been so pressed by leading ratepayers from the four quarters, as well as the centre, of the township that he has decided to leave the matter open until nomination, and then if it is the determination of the people to elect him, he will accept the nomination. If he should, he would doubtless be elected by a large majority. His municipal experience has been short, but he is an apt scollar, and has improved his time, and besides he is popular all over the township.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the Standard.

DEAR SIR,—As I have been blamed for writing to the Insurance Co. in connection with the burning of the town hall of Euphrasia I wish to deny having done so, or being in any way connected with it. I enclose copy of letter from the said Co. which I wish you to print, and by so doing I hope my detractors will apologize, or take back water.

Yours truly,
W. J. BLACK.

Epping, Dec. 14, '85.

MONTREAL, Nov. 21th, 1885.

W. J. Black, Esq.,
Epping, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your favor of the 21st received. We beg to say we never received any letter regarding the town hall and the hotel built within a few feet of the same from you.

Yours Faithfully,
STEWART BROWN,
Manager.

THE Sunday School Papers published by Mr. Blackett Robinson, Toronto, are well adapted for Canadian schools. They are three in number, beautifully illustrated, well printed and at low prices. Send for specimen numbers, which are sent free of postage on application.

Something About Christmas.—A Bear Story.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—As no one has committed suicide, broken his leg, or eloped with a certain gentleman's "Betsy Jane," and as no events of interest to your readers has come within the range of my observation, I will give you a few thoughts about Christmas. Christmas is near at hand, and we fancy we smell the aroma of roast goose rising on the crisp frosty air. Several prophets predict a green Christmas; but, in the face of the fact that prophets are always correct, let us hope that in this case a green Christmas has been predicted by very green prophets. Wait a moment, I must tell you a bear story which I had almost forgotten. The other day, while a Glen elger was walking through his bush, he was attracted by a crackling of brush, and espied a few paces ahead, a large black object. Could it be a bear? It certainly seemed like one. Being unarmed, our hero speedily retreated, and marshalled a company of intrepid volunteers for a bear hunt. Arrived at the scene of action, the self-constituted leader harangued his followers and all pressed forward to conquer or die. The savage animal, finding himself surrounded, determined to make a bold rush for life, so, springing forward, he burst through the crowd, and, with a loud bark, Nap ran home, and the soldiers, after holding a council of war, sneaked ditto.

Yours, &c.,
FACT.

McGREGOR'S SPEEDY CURE.

It is popularly admitted everywhere that McGregor's Speedy Cure is the safest, most reliable and far cheapest remedy for Constipation, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Impure Blood, Loss of Appetite, and all similar troubles. It is not necessary to take a great quantity before any result is produced. A few doses will convince you of its merits. Trial bottle given free at Hill Bro's. 3

"I say Aunt Chloe, you is getting around right smart." "Yes indeed I is, honey. I was pestered and sick abed with Rheumatism for six years and done tried this West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment the people are talking so much about, and I was sure enough cured. It done saved this old nigger's life." Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

The Following for Instance.

THE following is one of Benson's locals which was sent in with others for publication two weeks ago; this particular one was minus the name of the proprietors, and has subjected us to various puns from our exchanges. "I have got better and will sell cheaper Liquors of all kinds than any one in town, and will give Whiskey without water Come and get a flask on trial free."

ROUND TO SUCCEED.

In last week's Markdale Standard we found the following announcement, and as no name was mentioned in connection with it we presume it is a new dodge of Bro. Rutledge's to increase his subscription list. Following is the item: "I have got better and will sell cheaper Liquors of all kinds than any one in town, and will give Whiskey without water. Come and get a flask on trial free."

The MIRROR is pleased to hear you are better Mr. Standard but is rather surprised that you have so soon gone back on your Scott Act principles. It does not sound well for a man who so strongly advocated the Scott Act as did you a short time ago, to announce that you will sell cheaper and purer whisky than any other dealer. And then to say you will give a trial flask free caps all. What has brought about the change?—[Meaford Mirror.

SURELY NOT.—The editor of the Markdale Standard says:—"I have got better and will sell cheaper Liquors of all kinds than any one in town, and will give Whiskey without water Come and get a flask on trial free." Surely not, brother Rutledge! The compositor must have omitted the liquor seller's name and this made it appear as though it were your own "budge."—[Shelburne Economist.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

Beware of any druggist who will try to induce you to take anything in place of McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. It is a marvel of healing for Sores, Cuts, Burns, etc. No family should be without it. It has no equal. Get cGregor & Parke's, and have no other. Only 25c. per box at Hill Bro's. 3

CAUTION.

Any liniment or other medicine that cannot be taken internally is unsafe for ordinary use. Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the prompt pain reliever, is safe and reliable for all aches and pains, and swallowed as well as applied.

East Grey Conservative Association.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

A meeting of the above association was held in Markdale on Friday, the 11th inst., when a fair attendance was present.

The following officers were elected:—President, Thos. Kells, Vandeleur P. O.; Vice-President, Thos. Gilray, Epping; Recording Secretary, John Lyons, Markdale; Corresponding Sec., W. H. Dodson, Rocklyn, for North; I. Traynor, of Dundalk, for South; Treasurer, Wm. Douglas, Markdale.

MUNICIPALITIES.

Artemesia, J. Brodie, Vandeleur; Collingwood, Thos. McMurchy. Thornbury; Euphrasia, Wm. Pringle, Duncan; Holland, A. Freeborn, Berkeley; St. Vincent, N. Read, Bay View; Sullivan, John Sparrow, Chatsworth; Proton, John Abott, Dundalk; Osprey, A. McGirr, Feversham; Melancthon, R. Slack, Melancthon; Meaford, H. Chisholm, Meaford.

AMONG the forthcoming Books of special interest is the "History of the Presbyterian Church in the Dominion," by Rev. Professor Gregg, D. D., of Knox College, Toronto, who has been gathering information for the work for the past dozen years. From the well-known ability of the author, the care with which every fact has been verified, and the interests which naturally attaches to the history of a great denomination, we have no doubt the publication of this work will prove the literary event of the year. The publisher is Mr. Blackett Robinson, 5 Jordan Street, Toronto, who will be glad to hear of a reliable agent in each congregation.

THE BEST COUGH CURE.

The best remedy for Cough and all Throat and Lung troubles, is one that loosens and dislodges the tough mucous, clears the bronchial tubes, and allays irritation. This is what Hagyards Pectoral Balsam does in every case.

Kimberley.

From a Correspondent.

Municipal matters are unusually quiet. The present council will seek re-election; and, as they have the township affairs in good shape, it is almost a certainty they will be re-elected.

Mr. T. Abercrombie had three sheep killed one night last week

A Tea-meeting will be held here on New Year's day. The proceeds will go towards veneering the new church.

Mr. T. Bradbury has started in the shoemaking business here. He was not able to attend to all the work, so he had to employ help.

Our school teacher, Mr. S. Gaudin, has been engaged for another year. He is a good teacher, and we could not well do without his services, although his salery is high.

Mrs. Thurston, mother of James Filleman and the late Rev. Leroy Thurston, past away from this life last week. She was 83 years of age, and as intelligent and sociable a woman as your correspondent has ever had the pleasure of being acquainted with.

A LIVER CURE.

One single trial of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will convince the most skeptical and confirm better than thousands of testimonials that it is a sure cure. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Dec.

A LIVING QUESTION.

Question—'Is this life worth living?' Answer—'It all depends upon the liver?' If torpid or inactive it causes a dull, tough, languid feeling. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure gives health and buoyancy. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

A SENSATION.

An unparalleled sensation is being created all over Ontario by the wonderful and unequalled manner in which Neuralgia, Toothache, Rheumatism, Backache, Headache, is removed by but one application of Fluid Lightning. No offensive, disgusting drugs need be taken for days. It is an instant cure. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 3

BIRTHS.

ABBY—In Berkeley, on the 8th inst., the wife of Mr. R. T. Abby, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

KINGHORN—INKSTER—At the manse, Priceville, Wednesday, the 9th instant, by the Rev. D. McLeod, B. A., Mr. John Kinghorn, Artemesia, to Miss Annie Inkster, daughter of Mr. John Inkster, Osprey.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 84
Spring Wheat	0 80	to	0 85
Barley	40	to	65
Peas	55	to	56
Oats	28	to	29
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 15
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

TO THE PUBLIC.

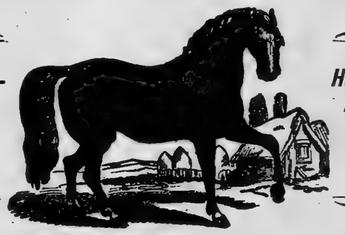
We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL

N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.



WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885. 265-6

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE

Office & Infirmary:
MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE.

B. LAURANCE'S
Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but it further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., - - Chemists and Druggists.

MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

1842.)--A PROCLAMATION.--(1886.

Know Ye, Know Ye All! Men, women and children—that the great staff of editors, who, headed by Dr. George Thurber, have kept the American Agriculturist at the front for twenty-five years, are now re-enforced by Chester P. Dewey and Seth Green, the Fish Culturist. We propose to add to the hundreds of thousands of homes, in which the

American Agriculturist

is read, and revered from the Atlantic to the Pacific as an old time friend and counselor. We are accordingly enlarging the

Hearth, Household, and Juvenile Departments,

and adding other features, so that it is to be from this time onward, essentially a Home Periodical, as well as being devoted to Agriculture and Horticulture. Every person who immediately sends us $1.50, the subscription price, and 15 cents for postage, and book, making $1.65 in all, will receive the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for 1886, and the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST LAW BOOK, just published,—a Compendium of every-day Law for Farmers, Mechanics, Business men, Manufacturers, etc., enabling every one to be his own lawyer. It is a large volume, weighing one pound and a half, and elegantly bound in Cloth and Gold. The American Agriculturist

WANTS THE EARTH

to yield bigger returns by increasing its great army of readers. We distributed 60,000 Presents to those who aided in the work last year, and we are planning to give 100,000 Presents to workers this year. Send for Confidential Terms for workers, when you forward your subscription. Subscription price, $1.50 a year; single numbers, 15 cts.

☞ Send 5 Cents for mailing you grand double number of the American Agriculturist just out, and sample pages with table of contents of Law Book.

Canvassers -:- Wanted -:- Everywhere.

Address PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, 751 Broadway, New York

DAVID W. JUDD, Pres't, 273-75 SAM'L BURNHAM, Sec.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Afflictions, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N Y.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding 3rd class certificate or well recommended permit, for S. S. No. 19, Euphrasia, duties to commence 1st January, '86. Apply at once, stating salary, and references to

CHAS. DEVITT,
Epping P. O.

Epping, Dec. 10, '85. 275-77

STRAYED.

ON the premises of the subscriber, lot 21, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the 1st November, a heifer about three years old, red and white. The owner is requested to prove property pay expenses, and take her.

JAMES E. SPARLING,
275-77* Goring P. O.

SHOOTING MATCH.

THERE will be a Shooting Match and Raffle at "Queen's Hotel," Holland Centre, on Christmas Day. All are cordially invited.

JOHN FITZGERALD,
Proprietor.

Money to Loan.

6 to 6½ per cent. All business strictly confidential. Apply to

JOHN R. BAINES,
Lot 30, Con. 4, Holland,
275-88 Glascott P O.

BERKSHIRE BOAR,

FOR service at McBride's, near Eachead, mills. Terms 75 cents cash or $1.00 if not so paid.

275-80 ROBT. McBRIDE.

MONEY

To Loan on real estate security. Simple interest, low rates, and easy terms.

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
275 Standard Office.

VICTORIA R. B. PRECEPTORY,

No. 282,

Meets in Lodge Room of Markdale L. O. L. No. 1045, first Friday in each month. Visiting Sir Knights always welcome.

275 JAMES BRODIE, W. P.
THOMAS ELLIOTT, Registrar.

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the undersigned about October last one heifer. The owner can have the same by proving property and paying expenses.

RALPH ONEY,
Epping P. O.
Lot 15, con. 4, Euphrasia, 275-77*

ESTRAY.

CAME into my premises, on or about the 1st of October, one year old steer, red and white. Any person proving property and paying expenses, can take him away.

WM. HAMPTON.
Holland, Dec. 3, '85. *274-76

NEW GROCERIES.

RESTAURANT & HOT MEALS.

The undersigned has much pleasure in informing his old friends, and the public generally, that he has opened out a general

Grocery Store,

Where all kinds of Groceries can be obtained, which for price and quality cannot be undersold. A trial will convince.

In connection with the above, Hot Meals will be served at seasonable hours; and lunch at any busines period called upon, thus giving free will to choose what you please. A call is respectfully solicited.

Canned & Green Fruit
In every variety.

OYSTERS served, either hot or cold, either by the quart or plate, at prices which will astonish those who have dealt in those articles in the past.

Temperance Drinks,

Cigars, Tobaccoes, of the best brands.

PREMISES—Opposite Mansion House Hotel Sheds, Sydenham Street, Markdale.

MRS. S. MORROW.
Markdale, Dec. 10, '85. 275-77

UBLIC.

ER SHOP in connection
gement of Mr. Kay, well
d purpose turning out a cellence at prices which ply & Expeditiously.

ny Goods, Boots & Shoes
h the shoddy men who

TRIAL.

cents per barrel.

ROWN & CO.

265-tf

N, V. S.,

Veterinary College.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

KEPT & DISPENSED

CHARGES MODERATE.

MARKDALE.

LNCE'S
Eye-Glasses

ARTICLES

RKET.

ot in stock.

o prove Genuineness.

s have been received from the
Vice-President of the Medical
ollege of Physicians and Sur-
ulty of Laval University; the
uncil of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

ient to prove their qualities

Chemists and Druggists,
ONT,
ey can be obtained.
ic principle. ☞

TION.--(1886.

d children—that the great staff of he American Agriculturist at the d by Chester P. Dewey a ndreds of thousands of homes, in

culturist

an old time friend and counselor.
ng the nile Departments,

ime onward, essentially a Home
and Horticulture. Every person
n price, and 15 cents for postage
AGRICULTURIST for 1886, and st published,—a Compendium of Manufacturers, etc., enabling every ng one pound and a half, and ele-lturist

EARTH

eaders. We distributed 60,000 nd we are planning to give 100,- fidential Terms for workers, whe
50 a year: single numbers, 15 cts.
er of the American Agriculturist, ontents of Law Book.

Everywhere.

T. 751 Broadway, New York
AM'L BURNHAM, Sec'y.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Afflictions, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding 3rd class certificate or well recommended permit, for S. S. No. 19, Euphrasia, duties to commence 1st January, '86. Apply at once, stating salary, and references to

CHAS. DEVITT,
Epping P. O.

Epping, Dec. 10, '85. 275-77

STRAYED.

TO the premises of the subscriber, lot 21, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the 1st November, a heifer about three years old, red and white. The owner is requested to prove property pay expenses, and take her.

JAMES E. SPARLING,
Goring P. O.

275-77*

SHOOTING MATCH.

THERE will be a Shooting Match and Raffle at "Queen's Hotel," Holland Centre, on Christmas Day. All are cordially invited.

JOHN FITZGERALD,
Proprietor.

Money to Loan.

6 to 6½ per cent. All business strictly confidential. Apply to

JOHN R. BAINES,
Lot 30, Con. 4, Holland,
Glascott P O.

275-88

BERKSHIRE BOAR,

FOR service at McBride's, near Barrhead, mills. Terms 75 cents cash or $1.00 if not so paid.

275 80 ROBT. McBRIDE.

MONEY

To Loan on real estate security. Simple interest, low rates, and easy terms.

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
Standard Office.

275

VICTORIA R. B. PRECEPTORY, No. 28...

Certain Lodge Room of Markdale L. O. L. No. 1645, first Friday in each month. Visiting Sir Knights always welcome.

JAMES BRODIE, W. P.
THOMAS ELLIOTT, Registrar.

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the undersigned about October last one heifer. The owner can have the same by proving property and paying expenses.

RALPH ONEY,
Epping P. O.

Lot 15, con. 4, Euphrasia, 275-77*

ESTRAY.

CAME into my premises, on or about the 1st of October, one year old steer, red and white. Any person proving property and paying expenses, can take him away.

WM. HAMPTON.

Holland, Dec. 3, '85. *274-76

NEW GROCERIES.

RESTAURANT & HOT MEALS.

The undersigned has much pleasure in informing his old friends, and the public generally, that he has opened out a general

Grocery Store,

where all kinds of Groceries can be obtained, which for price and quality cannot be undersold. A trial will convince.

In connection with the above, Hot Meals will be served at seasonable hours; and Lunch at any busines period called upon, thus giving free will to choose what you please. A call is respectfully solicited.

Canned & Green Fruit

In every variety.

OYSTERS served, either hot or cold, either by the quart or plate, at prices which will astonish those who have dealt in those luxuries in the past.

Temperance Drinks,

Cigars, Tobaccoes, of the best brands.

PREMISES—Opposite Mansion House Hotel Sheds, Sydenham Street, Markdale.

MRS. S. MORROW.

Markdale, Dec. 10, '85, 275-77

Hurrah for Christmas!

SANTA CLAUS,

In making his annual tour, has delivered at the

"MEDICAL -:- HALL"

A very large stock of most attractive goods for the Holiday season. Below are a few of the many lines just opened out :—

Cups & Saucers, Albums, Vases,

Toilet Sets, Cigar Cases, Poets,

Writing Desks, Work Boxes, Jewel

Cases, Dolls--Wax & China,

CHILDRENS' TOYS AND PICTURE BOOKS

In great variety.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

The celebrated H. & F. Cards awarded the Gold Medal at the London Industrial Exhibition, 1884. The finest and cheapest Cards in the market.

PRAYER BOOKS, HYMN BOOKS, BIBLES AND TESTAMENTS.

Call and examine our Stock.

A -:- MERRY -:- CHRISTMAS -:- TO -:- ALL.

A. TURNER & CO.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

I HAVE just purchased a fine Berkshire Boar, 15 months old, for service at my premises. Charges, $1.00 cash.

273-77 B. COLEMAN.

FURS AND SKINS.

I WILL pay the highest price for all kinds of Furs & Skins and Wild Game that is shipped to me. Send for price-list.

GEO. W. GOERNFLO,
Hamilton, Ont.

273-2m

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, being lot 1, con. 8, Euphrasia, 3 miles from Markdale, 70 acres cleared and balance good hardwood bush; soil, clay loam; well watered with running stream; well fenced and in good state of cultivation; good frame house, also frame barn and cedar log stable. Will be sold together or in two parts of 100 acres each. Terms made known on application to

THOMAS MANN,
Markdale.

274-77

ESTRAY.

A WHITE ewe lamb came to the premises of Samuel Douglas, lot 1, con. 9, Euphrasia, about the 20th October. The owner can have it by proving property, paying expences.

SAMUEL DOUGLAS,
Markdale, P. O.

272-74

PURE BRAZILLIAN PEBBLE SPECTACLES, manufactured by Frank Lazarus, late of the firm of Lazarus & Morris, formerly of Hartford County, now of No. 28, Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London, Eng., can be had of W. A. Brown, Watchmaker, &c., Markdale.

Mr. Lazarus would beg to notify his numerous friends and patrons, that he has no connection with any other firm in the Dominion, and only his Pebbles can be procured as above. Frank Lazarus, Manufacturer Optician, 28 Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London W., England. 274-6m

Farm for Sale.

150 ACRES North ½ of lot No. 18, con. 8, Euphrasia, 100 acres cleared and under cultivation, 60 acres of which is fit for reaper and mower, fenced with cedar rails, well watered, log house and frame barn. The uncleared portion is hardwood, with sufficient cedar for fencing purposes. Soil clay loam, and almost free from stone. This is a desirable farm and will be sold on easy terms. Church and school convenient. Distance from Markdale, 9 miles; from Rocklyn, 3 miles. For further particulars apply to

JAMES BOYD,
Rocklyn P. O.

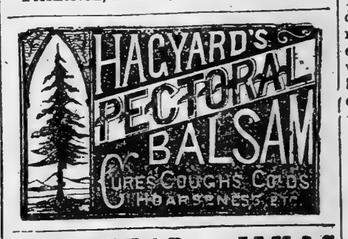
273-tf

Store to Rent in Makaale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

143-tf.



Flouring Mills to Rent.

THE well known "Speeton Mills," within one an a half miles of Flesherton, to rent on very reasonable terms.

Apply to the executors,

JOHN W. ARMSTRONG,
WILLIAM CLAYTON,
JOHN BOLAND,

Flesherton, Nov. 25, 1885.

BARRHEAD -:- MILLS

Now In Full Blast.

Having raised my mill-dam five feet and thoroughly overhauled my grist mill, I am now in a position to turn out all work in a satisfactory manner.

Bring along your logs and we will give you your lumber home with you; also Shingles cut on short notice. Gristing and Chopping done better than heretofore.

270 W. J. ROWE.

NEW STATIONERY

—AND—

Fancy Goods

EMPORIUM.

Mrs. Williams has opened a new stock of Stationery and Fancy Goods in

DUNLOP'S OLD STAND

MARKDALE

PAPER,
ENVELOPES,
PENCILS,
SLATES,
PENS,
INK,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
POCKET BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
TOYS, &c., &c.

Head quarters for the celebrated

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.

270-77 J. HANSON.

NEW GROCERY STORE

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a

Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF

Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,

Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

193 J. PLEWES.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

FOR SALE,

A FIRST-CLASS Driving Mare, eight years old, sound and true. Apply at Medical Hall, 278-74 A. TURNER & CO.

SavE MoneY

By buying your

Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Spectaces, Pipes, &c.

—AT—

JAS. G. RUSSELL'S
FLESHERTON.

A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.

217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

HIGH SCHOOL
ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

NOTICE is hereby given that the next Entrance Examination to High Schools for the County of Grey, will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd and 23rd days of December, 1885, at the Town of Owen Sound, the Village of Markdale and the Village of Thornbury respectively. It is requested that the probable number of Candidates from each locality shall be notified to me one month antecedent to the first of the above dates.

THOMAS GORDON,
Inspector W. Greg.

Markdale, 27th October, 1885. 16-402

SAVE MONEY! CHEAP READING!!
THE STANDARD
AND THE
RURAL CANADIAN,

From now till 1st January, 1887,

FOR THE SMALL SUM OF $1.75.

By an arrangement with the publisher of the Rural Canadian, now in its ninth year of publication, we are enabled to offer both papers for $1.50. The regular price of the two is $2:

The Rural Canadian is a monthly illustrated magazine for the Farm and Home. The following are the leading Departments:—Farm and Field; Horses and Cattle; The Dairy; Sheep and Swine; Garden and Orchard; Bees and Honey; Poultry and Pets; Home Circle: The Grange Record; Rural Notes; Household Hints; Young Canada; Scientific and Useful. The music given from month to month is worth the price of several years' subscription.

The Bobcaygeon Independent styles the Rural "The agricultural authority of the Dominion."

The Cobourg World says: "One of the best papers of the kind published on the continent."

☞SUBSCRIBE NOW

And get

BALANCE OF YEAR FREE.

NOTICE.

THE High School Entrance Examination will be held at Durham, in the Public School building on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 21st, 22nd & 23rd of December, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. each day. Candidates are requested to send their names to the undersigned on or before the 1st December.

JAMES WINTERBORNE,
Head Master, Durham Public School.

STRAYED,

FROM the premises of the undersigned, lot 16, con. 10, Holland, last week, one red cow with piece cut off both horns; year old bull spotted red and white; yearling heifer, red; and a red and white bull calf. Any person giving such information as will lead to their recovery, will be suitably rewarded.

JAMES GREENAWAY,
Williamsford P. O.

278-75*

THE FARM.

Notes and Suggestions.

Nine million acres of land in Germany are devoted to the cultivation of the potato. The product last year amounted to 23,000,000 tons.

Three hundred barrels of apples are converted into jelly every day at Albany, N. Y., for exportation to Germany.

A British Consular report states that Ancona, Italy, exports to England 5,200 tons of eggs every year though the trade only began ten years ago.

France has several agricultural schools for girls. At one of these, situated near Rouen, there are said to be 300 girls from six to eighteen years of age. The farm consists 400 acres.

The papers of Canton, Dak., speak of a girl thirteen years old, in that vicinity, who ploughed eighty-two acres of land with a pair of horses and a common stubble plough.

Manure is one of the things of which a farmer can never have to much. The more he uses the better his crops will be, and the broader becomes the foundation which he lays for permanent prosperity.

A farmer in Indiana is said to have cultivated a pumpkin vine this season which produced 18 pumpkins, ranging in weight from 53 pounds to 115 pounds. The entire lot weighed 1,467 pounds, three specimens aggregating 319 pounds.

If the major portion of a given farm be flat, moist pasture land, no discreet farmer or breeder would think of stocking up mainly with horses or sheep. On the other hand, if the grazing surface be largely hilly or broken, it would be the height of indiscretion to select cattle, especially heavy cattle, for such land.

Soldiers are given the brightest, sharpest and most effective weapons—so every farmer should have the very best machines and implements for the war which he has to wage against vegetable aggressors and insect depredators in the field, the orchard and the garden, and every farmer's wife should have every appliance for economizing muscle.

Bread is a luxury among the peasantry in parts of southern Austria, Italy, and in Roumania. In a village not far from Vienna, the staple food of the people is sterz, a kind of porridge made of ground beech-nuts. A porridge made of boiled maize, called polenta, forms the chief article of food in northern Italy. The same thing, somewhat differently prepared, under the name of mamaliga, is the common article of food in Roumania.

Every one who has fowls should provide a dust-box. Fine road dust is best, but coal ashes, sand, pulverised loam, or clay, even, are all very good, and with a sprinkling of flour of sulphur or Stoddard's carbolic powder, constitute as good a bath as can be desired. This should be placed in a sunny exposure of the room, and kept dry and clean, so that the fowls may enjoy its benefits when they choose.

The long evenings can nowhere be so profitably spent as on the farm, giving a taste for reading and study. Many a young farmer or son of a farmer has a chance to improve his mind during the next six months, if only he will apply himself diligently and systematically. One or two good books on grain-growing, or live-stock, or fruit culture, well studied during the winter evenings, cannot fail to tell on the results of work in all future years.

We have met with the following cheap mode for painting out-door structures: Make four gallons of paste of rye flour, like the paste used for papering rooms, and then mix in one gallon of common oil paint. This will cover as much surface as five gallons of paint alone. For the second coat add two gallons of oil; and three for the third. These three coats will last about as long as three coats of oil paint. A good paint for brick is made of fresh lime wash and sulphate of zinc.

Marketing Poultry.

Our Canadian markets are full of half-fattened, half dressed, poorly packed poultry, which are sold at half price, at little profit to dealers, and at a serious loss to producers. Why is this? It is because our poultry is in too many cases a sort of by-product; not a regular farm crop, seldom calculated upon as one of the regular sources of a farmer's income. It is quite worth while for poultry raisers to take pains. Buyers do not want the poor stuff sent to market. A lean chicken is not as tender as a well fattened year old fowl; and a thin young gobbler, cannot compare in flavor with one two or three years old, and well fattened. The very choicest birds may be ruined by the way they are killed and sent to market. Tons come with their crops full of corn and other grain, and their entrails full of half digested food. This ferments and the odor from it taints the whole fowl, even though the weather remains cold, and there is no danger of "sweating," or "souring." When good, healthy young fowls or turkeys, are shut up in cages with slatted bottoms, regularly fed all they can digest, and given fresh water daily, or better, milk, they will gain very fast. When they are fat it is time to market them, either dead or alive, If the distance is not great, poultry will often sell better alive than dead, but transporting live fowls very far in baskets and crates, adds to expenses. The fowls get sickly and dirty after a few days, and there is danger of serious loss in case the market should fall, and then the sale for such stock is very slow. Some die and all lose in weight. When killed on the farm, poultry should always be starved thirty-six hours before they are killed. During this time they should remain perfectly quiet and if possible in the dark. At the end of this time, the food will all have digested, and the bowels will be empty or nearly so. Then, if they are hung up by the feet, bled by the mouth, dry-picked while warm, singed over an alcohol flame, and laid on a table to cool, being formed up nicely into shape, and wrapped or wound with strips of muslin to keep them so while they cool; in twelve hours they may be packed. It is well to have clean oat-straw to line the boxes in which they are packed for shipment, and the boxes themselves should be light, strong and tight. Clean barrels are very good. The manner of packing depends upon the size of the box or barrel, and the character of the birds. It should be uniform and systematic, and always in distinct layers and very close. They must, of course, be thoroughly cold before they are packed.

Evenings on the Farm.

There is no more pleasurable way of spending an evening on the farm, than in the study of some subject of natural history connected with the farm work. There is an extensive variety of subjects to choose from, and all are of such interest that no difficulty can be experienced in making a choice. Moreover, as a method of cultivating social intercourse, these subjects may be studied and discussed among a few friends, invited for the purpose, who should come prepared to take part in the conversation.

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

Just before the hour for opening the meeting Brother Gardner sent a note to Sir Isaac Walpole that he was unavoidably detained for a time, and Sir Isaac was asked to go ahead and open the meeting. He took the President's desk and said:

"Judge John Abrahams, de cull'd poet an' reader of Tennessee, arrove heah dis arternoon. He wants to read one of his pieces of poetry to us. If dar am no objeckshuns he will be brung in."

"I object, sah!" promptly responded Shindig Watkins.

"Will de gem'lan state his objeckshuns?"

"Yes, sah. It allus gibs me de headache to h'ar anyone read poetry."

"As de objeckshuns am not sustained," said the Chairman as he looked over the audience, "Builder Watkins has leave to inhabit de ante-room fur de nex' ten minits, an' de readin' will go on."

HE READS.

The Judge was brought in. At first he seemed to be thoroughly self-possessed, and had a very pompous manner, but before he reached the platform he showed unmistakable signs of stage fright. Sir Isaac observed it and helped him to recover somewhat by asking after his wife's health, and if his paper collar was a fit, and several other questions calculated to soothe and encourage. By and by the Judge braced up and went to the front with:

THE FALL OF ROME.

BY JUDGE J. ABRAHAMS.

A cull'd man in Tennessee—
In Tennessee—in Tennessee,
He bought a dog fur fifty cents
An' used to nuss him on his knee.
De dog he growed an inch a day,
In Tennessee—in Tennessee—
An' you jist orter——

The Judge came to a sudden stop. He drank a glass of water. He scratched his head and looked helpless.

"What has dat poem got to do wid de fall of Rome?" kindly asked Sir Isaac.

"Dat's—dat's what I can't tell!" replied the Judge, his agitation increasing every instant.

"Hadn't you better put off readin' the rest of it until next fall?"

"I reckon I had, sah. My head swims, an' I feel sort o' overwhelmed."

He retired amidst great applause, and Sir Isaac quietly observed:

"In de fust place, doan' sot out to chop wood wid a hoe; in de next place, doan' specks 'dat poo' whisky am gwine to take de place of brains, eben in sich a matter as writin' a poem."

A BROTHER GONE.

The Secretary announced a communication from Mobile giving the news of the death of the Hon. Separator Cumback, an honorary member of the club at that point. It seems that Brother Cumback was called upon to sit up with a sick man who died during the night. In order that none of the medicine might be wasted Brother Cumback imbibed the contents of several phials. In less than ten hours he was a corpse.

"What ackshun will de club take?" asked Sir Isaac.

"I move you, sah," replied Giveadam Jones, "dat, while we put de usual emblem of mournin' on de usual doah knob, we furder resolve dat he hadn't orter done it."

The motion was seconded and adopted.

NEW RULES.

The Librarian and the Keeper of the Museum jointly submitted the following new rules to govern for the winter!

1. All members shall wipe their feet before entering the rooms.

2. All convorsation must be in suppressed tones. Anyone refusing to suppress his tone is libable to a fine of $10.

3. Any person carrying away books from the library or relics from the museum will be liable to expulsion from the club.

4. No one must handle the skull of Alexander the Great or the accordion supposed to have belonged to Cato.

5 Where two members happen to want the same almanac at the same time, preference shall be given to the Baptist Church.

6 No religious or political discussions will be permitted.

On motion of Pickles Smith the question of adopting the new rules was tabled for one week.

HE APPEARS.

At this juncture Brother Gardner appeared and took his accustomed place. He seemed somewhat flurried and had to wait for his second wind before saying:

"When I started fur dis hall to-night I was followed by an assassin. While I was on de pint of passin' a lonely alley I was jumped on by wretches lyin' in wait to take my life. Now, I doan' say as de good man am gwine frew dis life wid out recivin' a scratch, but I do declar' dat de Lawd seems to be on his side when it comes to de pinch. After I got settled down to bizness, an' got a foothold in de mud, I jist planted dem assassins right an' left, an' when I went back home to change my clothes de three of 'em war' lyin' dar yit."

ADOPTED.

The Rev. Backoff Johnson then offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, Dat dis club has heard of de attempted assassinashun of its President wid a feelin' of horror. Whither am we dritin'? Whar' am de police? While we congratulate ourselves dat de plans of de wicked came to naught, we feel it our soleum duty to declar' our convickshum dat sumthin' must be done in dis kentry, an' dat right speedily, to make human life more safe."

Waydown Bobee said he would feverishly support the resolution. Three brick-bats had been hurled through his windows within the last fortnight, and he was anxiously inquiring where this thing would end. The club adopted the resolution by a unanimous vote.

SUSTAINED.

At a meeting held in July last Prof. Swingback was fined $16 for leaving the hall without permission during a session. he explained that he dropped his jack-knife out of the window and ran down to secure it, but the fine was not remitted. He then appealed from the decision, and the committee of six now reported:

"Dis committee has come to de seclusion dat de President was right an' dat Prof. Swingback was wrong. We sustain de President in sustainin' de fine."

The professor himself rose up with a melting smile and apologized for having appealed. His conscience had troubled him ever since that occasion, and he now desired to borrow $16 of sixteen different members, and pay the fine and have the affair off his mind.

The remainder of the business was then locked up in room marked "G," and the meeting adjurned for one week.

A FATEFUL DREAM.

A Vision of the Night and Its Sad Fulfilment.

Writing of dreams and their fulfilment, a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat relates this actual incident:

We were eating breakfast one morning, when our nearest neighbor, the miller's wife, came in. She was pale and excited, and to our great astonishment she at once told us that her husband would be drowned that afternoon. She said:

"Only last night I dreamed that my husband was drowned in the mill-race, and that a man, riding a white horse, had come about dusk, and told me the news. So impressed was I with the dream, that I warned my husband not to go near the mill to-day, and I told him my dream, but he only laughed at my fears, and said that we no longer lived in dark ages."

We thought at first that she must be crazy, but at last she so far convinced the folks that she was not, that they consented to have me stay with her during the day, and I accompanied her to her home, she muttering all the way:

"I warned him, but he only laughed at me. I know he will never return home."

As evening came on, her anxiety increased. The approaching darkness seemed to her the shadow of death, and her face grew paler as the last sun-tinted cloud in the West gave way to the all-ruling twilight. Although I put no faith in the woman's prediction, yet her strange murmuring had had an effect upon me, and it was with something almost like disappointment that I saw the night close in, and no messenger appear. For I was young, then, and fond of the exciting and marvellous, without stopping to inquire the cause. And so it was with a sudden shock that I again looked out of the window, more carefully this time, and saw a white horse come galloping over the hill at its utmost speed. The woman saw my emotion and quickly flew to the window.

Down the short hill, over the stone bridge in the hollow, and up the long slope to the house, we watched it come, together, and it would have been hard to tell which was the most excited; for although no personal feelings moved me, yet I was in a state of the utmost uncertainty as to the outcome, while the woman, although agitated by the terrible grief, yet had not a doubt as to what the message would be. And it was no surprise to either of us, to see the man stop at the gate and walk slowly up the avenue leading to the house.

The lady met him at the door. As I watched her standing there in the twilight, swaying back and forth in her agony, with her hand on the door knob for support, I felt a great throb of pity at my heart, and at the same time a certain awe for the two who were playing so great a part in the drama of death.

The fact that the news had been expected all day, and had been foretold in a dream, which I knew of only as belonging to the mysterious past of King Arthur and Froissart's Chronicles, placed the characters before me on an equality with the magicians of old Granada. I shrank back, feeling that the cold wind which came in through the open door, had carried me back hundreds of years, and placed me in a different age.

Even the calm, prosaic farmer, with his snow-white hair, and flowing beard, seemed like some old seer, as he passed his hand over his forehead, and tried to collect his scattered thoughts. The silence became terrible.

The pale-faced sufferer was growing impatient.

"Speak!" she said, "I can bear it now as well as any other time."

And then the farmer looked up.

"Ah, yes; I remember, I remember, now, madam," and his voice was low and measured; "Madam, your husband wants the calves turned into the little pasture back of the barn;"

Then he turned and rode away as swiftly as he came.

And still there are some people who do not believe in dreams!

The Day You Said Yes.

BY JOHN S. HENDERSON.

Arrah! Kathleen, me darlin', it's you that's the charmer,
The pet of the village, the pride of the place;
Shure there's many a young, handsome, well-to-do farmer
Would tramp it from Dublin to look at your face.
Them eyes black as sloes, them dark shining tresses,
And them swate droopin' eyelids that near drove me mad—
Shure, Kathleen, you've kilt me with them soft caresses,
And conquered complately your poor Irish lad.

Now, wasn't it quare how I met you, me darlin',
When poor Kitty Coyle, you remember, was wakin',
An' how that swate blaguard they call "Johnny Farlane"
Said he knew more 'id come from our talkin' than spakin'.
Shure it's courtin' we were when we should have been prayin',
And laughin' and glancin' when tears should be shedding;
But you know, Kathleen, darlin', there runs an ould sayin',
"Begin as the wake an' you'll end in the weddin'."

Here, Kathleen, me darlin's meself; will you take me?
A poor honest lad of the Gem of the Sea;
For, Kathleen, it's only yourself that can make me
The happiest man in ould Ireland so free.
What word's that, me darlin', you're murmurin' so tender?
Is it "Yis?" Yis it is! Oh, I'm muthered wid joy!
Ah, Kathleen! wid pleasure we'll always remember
The day you said "Yis" to your poor Irish boy.

YOUNG FOLKS

One Little Rhyme.

One little grain in the sandy bars;
One little flower in a field of flowers;
One little star in a heaven of stars;
One little hour in a year of hours—
What if it makes or what if it mars?

But the bar is built of the little grains;
And the little flowers make the meadows gay;
And the little stars light the heavenly plains
And the little hours of each little day
Give to us all that life contains.

Bo-Peep.

That's what a lady, sojourning for a while in the Bavarian Tyrol, called the pretty herd girl that she learned to love upon slight acquaintance. Bo peep's herd was not composed of sheep, however—only cows. I have no doubt you would consider her life a dreary one—sleeping, eating, dreaming, all through the summer, with only cows for company. But upon the mountain-side, where the herd was gathered, she had one compensation for her isolation—all was so pure and lovely that the "trail of the serpent" was entirely forgotten.

While she watched her herd she was away from all tumult and surrounded by scenes of inexpressible loveliness. The sunshine bathed the lovely hills. The Alpine flowers starred the mountain side. The blue sky smiled above her and the faint echo of the church bells in the valley below seemed like voices from another world.

One summer day the lady above alluded to undertook, without informing her friends, to climb the mountain alone, in search of a rare flower that she desired for her collection. She had the misfortune to drop her alpenstock, to slip and fall, badly spraining her ankle, so that she could not rise. Even in her pain she enjoyed the place of her rest. Noble trees guarded her, and a gentle wind fanned her with its low sweet breath. But after awhile the pain grew worse, and as twilight approached, she fairly sobbed aloud. What should she do? Must she lie there suffering all night? Why did not her friends come in search of her? "But I deserve it all," she said; "I'd no business to wander off alone." She called aloud with all her strength. Far above her the herd-girl was listening.

"What is that sound?" she questioned herself; but only the murmur of the mountain stream answered her. "Hark! I hear it again. Is it the wind stirring the tree tops? Or can it be a bird's call?"

Very soon she became positive it was neither—it sounded more like a human voice in distress.

"Come, Dolly," she called to her faithful bell-cow, "we look up the lost cows—we must treat the lost human traveller as well."

With Dolly she walked down the mountain and plunged into a belt of woods, calling: "We're coming, coming, coming." Her call received a quick glad response. Back and forth rang the words like chimes: "Here, hear," and "Coming, coming," until at last before the fallen lady knelt the herd girl—a vision of beauty, with her fresh, glowing cheeks, her bright eyes and her Tyrolean hair, garlanded with Alpine blossoms.

"You're hurt, dear heart," she said, pityingly, taking the lady's hand within her pretty brown one.

"Yes; I've sprained my ankle, and don't know what to do," came the answer, wearily.

"But I do," the herd-girl said decidedly. "Put your arms around my neck, and dear old Dolly will carry you up the mountain."

"But I am too heavy for your young arms," expostulated the lady.

"Try me and see. You are a hothouse flower, fair and frail, and I am a mountain blossom, strong and sure," she said, cheerily.

Very soon the "hothouse flower" was on the back of the bell-cow, riding slowly up the mountain, while the "mountain blossom," strong and sure, walked by her side, supporting the bruised limb as best she could.

Arriving at the herd-girl's tent, the girl lifted the lady from Dolly's back as gently as if she had been a child, and laid her down upon a sort of hammock bed. No one could have tended the spraned ankle more gently or efficaciously than did the herd-girl. She bathed it with a liniment composed of mountain herbs, and bandaged it with strips torn from the whitest of aprons.

All night long the lovely girl-nurse bent over her patient in tireless watching, although the lady protested against it, as it was entirely unnecessary. Toward morning hostess and guest both fell asleep, with their faces both together and their hands interlocked.

At early dawn the lady was almost sorry to see several of her party coming up the mountain after her. They began to utter profuse expressions of sympathy when they were told that she had sprained her ankle, but she only laughed as she answered:

"I would suffer the same pain again willingly for another bit of such sweet experience as I have had. I did not find the flowers for which I was looking, but I found the sweetest mountain blossom in all the Tyrols—my strong, sweet, tender-hearted Bo-peep, who in her quiet way is following in her Master's steps."

The Victor's Crown

Should adorn the brow of the inventor of the great corn cure, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It works quickly, never makes a sore spot, and is just the thing you want. See that you get Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the sure, safe and painless cure for corns.

He—"Well, here's good news at last. Tom's letter says that after years of quarrelling he and Martha have stopped all discord and come to a perfect understanding." She—"I'm so glad." He—"Yes, I guess Tom is; they've separated."

He (solemnly)—"You had a very narrow escape last night, Miss Julia." She—"Why what do you mean?" He—"Well, you see, I had a dream about you. I thought I was just about to kiss you when the housemaid rapped at the door and I woke up." She (after a short pause)—"That girl must go."

At a dinner table a gentleman remarked that A——, who used to be given to sharp practice was getting more circumspect. "Yes," replied Judge Hoar, "he has reached the superlative of life. He began by seeking to get on, then he sought to get honor, and now he is trying to get honest."

Longfellow's Birthday Book is a beautiful present to give any lover of poetry. But there is a little book published in pamphlet form, with no pretensions to literary merit, that would be as appropriate and might be the means of saving a life. It is called Dr. R. V. Pierce's treatise on diseases of women, for whose peculiar troubles the "Favorite Prescription" is especially designed. It is profusely illustrated with wood cuts and colored plates, and will be sent to any address for ten cents in stamps, by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Rev. Mr. Tennant has just died in Arkansas at the age of 115 years. He had preached for ninety years.

If you are bilious, take Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the celebrated "Little Liver Pills." Of all druggists.

Frank Siddalls, the great soap man, started his immense business of crushing obtaining all materials on four months time.

An Inventor's Advice.

George Stevenson when advising young men how to get on would finish by saying, "Do as I have done—persevere." For fifteen years he plodded and worked before giving the finishing touches to his locomotive. In as many days those persevering in the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," have experienced great relief and found themselves on the high road to health. Liver Complaints, impure blood, chronic lung diseases and many others yield to its healing influences never to return. All druggists.

Dio Lewis says that wearing large, clumsy heavy boots and blue hand-knit stockings will improve a woman's complexion.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best tobacco leaf in the world, it does not always grow equal qualities. The production even of adjoining counties is often quite different, the one producing leaf which at once deteriorates if grown in the other. The leaf of the "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the choice sections of the State, which, through some combination of local influence, produces a better quality than any others. This is shown by its always commanding a higher price than any other smoking leaf.

Editor Stead is allowed to have a Bible in his cell and Fred. Ward's keeper is named Scripture.

Imperial Cough Drops will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto, Ontario.

A mew-sing entertainment—Cat concert.

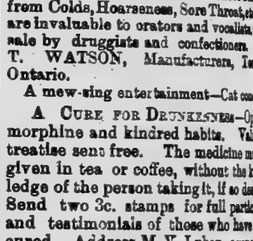
A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS—Opium, morphine and kindred habits. Valuable treatise sent free. The medicine may be given in tea or coffee, without the knowledge of the person taking it, if so desired. Send two 3c. stamps for full particulars and testimonials of those who have been cured. Address M. V. Luban, agency, Wellington street east, Toronto, Canada. A.P. 95

NURSERY STOCK—BEST QUALITY at Low Prices; Norway Spruce a specialty; wholesale and retail; write for prices of what you want. WILSON'S NURSERIES, Chatham, Ont.

Heaves, Ringbone, Sparin,

Perfectly Cured by Chapman's Celebrated Veterinary Receipts, with full directions, mailed for One Dollar. CHAPMAN, Chemist, London, Ont.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE BEST SELLING Patented Article in Canada to-day. Sample 25 cents for Sample and Agents' Terms. Dixon & Co., Guelph.



YOUR NAME, ADDRESS AND TEN CENTS mailed Bengough's Shorthand and Business Institute, Toronto, will bring copy Correspondence Shorthander, best journal in America. Price $1. Send for Calendar.

BUSINESS CHANCE—FOR SALE—First-Class equipped Butcher Business in the City of Guelph; does a good trade; a splendid chance; will sell for good reasons for selling. For particulars address A. LAMPREY, Real Estate Agent, Guelph.

ALLEN'S EXTRA REFINED CIDER—Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs always in stock. Allen's Clarified Cider, prepared especially for the Act counties. Orders promptly filled; also cure for common cider. ALLEN'S VINEGAR WORKS, Chatham, Ont.

SCIATICA, INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM, Gout, Neuralgia, and Lumbago cheerfully cured by a remedy invented by one who was himself cured by it after being three years on crutches with sciatica; abundant testimonials as to its beneficial effects in above-mentioned diseases; pamphlet expressed to any address. S. J. LANCASTER, Fonthill, Ont.

GUELPH BUSINESS COLLEGE, Guelph, Ont. That man only is rightly educated who knows how to use himself, who possesses such practical knowledge and such manual skill as will enable him to compete successfully with his fellows in the business of life. To impart such education, to prepare such men is the design and purpose of this institution. For terms, etc., call at the college or address M. MacCORMICK, Principal.

BUY THE
IMPROVED CONBOY
Carriage Tops

AS THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH, CONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.

There are over Twenty Thousand of these Tops now in use, and are giving better satisfaction than any other.

The manufacturer of these Celebrated Carriage Tops, owns more patents for improvements, and makes a greater number than any other firm in Canada or the United States.

THEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING CARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT BE SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IN ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.

FACTORY & SALESROOM
407 to 413 King St. West
TORONTO

RACE AGAINST TIME

had been stationed on the main line of great Central Railway for something than a year, attending to all the day night duties at that point with such an illing regularity, that no thought of possible accident had ever occurred to me.

the duties were not especially arduous, the responsibility was far greater. re was an express day and night, both s, for which the main line had to be alre clear; a local express each way, ch ran on the turnout, and waited for through train to pass; a mail train t and morning which had right of way; ordinary passenger, and half-a-dozen, reps, accommodation and freight.

to see that the main line was always ed at the proper moment, that the turnwas always ready when it should be, t the branch where the local made up e open, and, in short, that everything in condition for prompt and satisfactory rking, kept me almost constantly at my , though, as I have already said, the ies were not especially arduous.

n order to be handy to my business, I d in a cottage close by, from the open of which, looking eastward, I could see coming train for a mile away, and notwhether the signals of "danger" or afety" were in their proper positions. One morning, just after the local had made and gone, my wife came running to me h an alarmed face. Our little girl was sing. She had seen her only a few minbefore the departure of the train, and made a hasty search for her as soon as discovered her absence. She feared she ow not what.

calmed her with a few brief words, and, rrying around to the station-building, be a careful examination of every possible ce where I deemed it likely the child ght be. (She was only five years old.) search resulted in my finding her fast ep on the sunny side of a pile of railroad , with her doll, half as large as herself, g beside her.

That night I had a singular dream.

I thought I was in the middle of a vast in, through which stretched, broad and ar before me, the double track of a main e. Like ours, yet unlike, for every few s I could see open switches and blood- signals, that gave me an agony of appreension. As I looked again at the line, my es fell upon an object—a small form lying on one of the rails. My child! With a ghty effort I awoke, turned over, and nt to sleep, and dreamed the same thing ain, with the addition that I seemed ounted on a winged horse, and riding for to close the switches.

In a awoke, bathed in perspiration, roused myself sufficiently to get up and sit my little darling's crib, of course to d her safe. I walked the floor in my ocking feet for awhile, looked at the ock, and again turned in, to dream for the third time the same thing; to start suddenly d broadly awake, as if the voice which used the Thane of Cawdor had hissed in y ear, as in his, "Sleep no more."

To awake, and find the first gleam of the coming day glowing gray on the eastern all.

However, a visit to all the switches—mine, not those of the dream—a dash, headforemost, into a cool, deep, running stream ear, and awarm breakfast, seemed to clear way whatever remained of the lingering ffects of my nocturnal visions, and I felt ke myself once more.

Between the passage of the down mail which stopped, and the through express which did not, there was an interval of an our and a half, that was essentially my wn. But that morning a despatch had ome for one of the directors, who lived hree miles to the south of us, and as it so happened, the agent, who was busy, requested me to take it, offering the use of his fast mare, which stood in harness under the shed —an animal remarkable for its speed and ndurance, as I ascertained thereafter.

I had been to the director's house on one or two similar occasions, and neither the gent nor myself deemed the time necessary to go and come any consideration when an hour and a half was at my disposal. Besides, had such a course been necessary, he could ave taken the keys and acted for me. But here was no thought of that.

I drove leisurely over, enjoying the ride much, for the mare, "Fanny," was in excellent spirits, and the air was clear and bracing.

I had delivered the despatch, received a brief word of thanks, and was already turning homeward, when the director came himself toward the paling, calling out to me by name.

I reined up.

"There is some mistake here, Jennings," he said, with some excitement, waving the despatch. "This should not have been sent to me, but to our agent." On reflection: "He knows the contents, I suppose."

On reflection, I couldn't say, and so stated.

"Then go back to your post at once, and give it to him. A special train of excursionists for Hampstead Beach will pass at 9.30. Look out for it."

He turned leisurely and sauntered up the walk toward the house, while, without a word, I started the mare into a trot.

A special train at half past nine!

I drew a taut rein with my right hand, and took my watch from my pocket with my trembling left.

Nine twenty-two! Three miles of a straight road—less, perhaps, a quarter of a mile of detour to the station, when I should reach the track—and the main line open to me westward for the passage out of the mail! Three miles, and eight minutes in which to accomplish it!

In my youth I had known something about horses, and that knowledge did not fail me now. I drew out the long whip—seldom used, as I have noticed—and touched the mare quietly on the flank.

How can I describe that ride?

I have been where charger met charger in the swirl and dust of battle, and men and horses have gone down together, but in that there was fellowship—association. In this—but no words can fitly describe the fierce emotions of that solitary ride against time, where hundreds of innocent lives, all unconscious of the peril toward which they were speeding, hung trembling in the balance.

I recall now the tempest which swayed my shrinking soul, as, outwardly calm and rigidly erect, with every muscle strong as steel, I held
and, by vo noble anima ness of the occasion.

Trees, ho men, staring flew past in was off, my wind, my li ting low cri
mare; and ground com mile or mor

Up to thi drawn taut
this point h
which I wa

If I could
at the cross
If not—I sh

I recalled
how a thou switches—s eyes for the steady gaze
a glance up for the com

Not in sig

Stay! th

But there
our onward nerve as wa stretches a while every
and the co
noisier as it

I stand u
er speed;
but my voi

Ha! Joy

A whistle red flag! t train is sswe en yards fr

(Time—a —seven m
firmed after

I compli to the stat
time to rec
my sleepy i from the sh
where she w golden cu

That d ful enough

I am an and higher that line.
for me. I greatly imp

My golde woman, an tle darling walk.

And if y mare, Fan
Time, and membran chord, and fortable old whole famil

So I end

Dreams
Nor, on false.

Help oth out and dr tressed fri
with a ligh

Love is most gener
one that in negs of som

Words to warm a kindness a to children

Politene
the rough vents their never thro coarse peo

No way
ism easy,
iron labou crested as of which

There a live long man's des measure lived lon deeds, an

The mo is the lett which sho that he him not his own a fore, of a just. and

He tha not abroa insignific not think you have countries where is ge where beauty o

So long ciples of as it is and circu couraged
but as th
the love language as is the

No tra female th
per. Ho out it.
in our pa
Let a ma worn by ing is a w
It is surs
happy, a

Dr. Jo adopted
all. Wh been abl
of study answered alder, be be practi do not a can accom
it; and,
the thing success.

Longfellow's Birthday Book
a beautiful present to give any lady. t there is a little book published in pam- llet form, with no pretensions to literary erit, that would be as appropriate, and ight be the means of saving a life. It is led Dr. R. V. Pierce's treatise on diseas of women, for whose peculiar troubles e "Favorite Prescription" is especially signed. It is profusely illustrated with ood cuts and colored plates, and will be nt to any address for ten cents in stamps, the World's Dispensary Medical As- ciation, Buffalo, N. Y.

Rev. Mr. Tennant has just died in Ar- nsas at the age of 115 years. He had eached for ninety years.

If you are bilious, take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the original Little Liver Pills." Of all druggists.

Frank Siddalls, the great soap man, arted his immense business of credit, aining all materials on four months' ne.

An Inventor's Advice.
George Stevenson when advising young on how to get on would finish by saying, Do as I have done—persevere." For teen years he plodded and worked before ving the finishing touches to his locomo- e. In as many days those persevering n e use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical scovery," have experienced great relief d found themselves on the high road to alth. Liver Complaints, impure blood, ronic lung diseases and many others yield its healing influences never to return. l druggists.

Dio Lewis says that wearing large, thick, avy boots and blue hand-knit stockings l improve a woman's complexion.

Though the soil of Virginia grows the best bacco leaf in the world, it does not all ow equal qualities. The production even adjoining counties is often quite different, one producing leaf which at once deter- ates if grown in the other. The leaf of e "Myrtle Navy" is the product of the oice sections of the State, which, through me combination of local influence, produce better quality than any others. This is own by its always commanding a higher ice than any other smoking leaf.

Editor Stead is allowed to have a Bible his cell and Fred. Ward's keeper is med Scripture.

Imperial Cough Drops will give stive and Instant Relief to those suffering m Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and Invaluable to orators and vocalists. For e by druggists and confectioners. R. & WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto, tario.

A mew-sing entertainment—Cat concerts

A CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS—Opium, orphine and kindred habits. Valuable atise sent free. The medicine may be ven in tea or coffee, without the know- dge of the person taking it, if so desired. nd two 3c. stamps for full particulars d testimonials of those who have been red. Address M. V. Luban, agency, 47 ellington street east, Toronto, Canada. A.P. 258

NURSERY STOCK — BEST QUALITY AND Low Prices; Norway Spruce a specialty; whole- e and retail; write for prices of what you want. ELSON'S NURSERIES, Cobourg, Ont.

Heaves, Ringbone, Spavin, ffectly Cured by Chapman's Celebrated Formula. ecipts, with full directions, mailed for One Dollar. APMAN, Chemist, London, Ont.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE BEST SELL- ING Patented Article in Canada to-day. Sent cents for Sample and Agents' Terms. Discount To , Guelph.

OUR NAME, ADDRESS AND TEN CENTS mailed Bengough's Shorthand and Business tribute, Toronto, will bring copy Cosmopolitan Typewriter, best journal in America. Price, $1.50 d for Calendar.

BUSINESS CHANCE—FOR SALE—THE BEST equipped Butcher's business in the City of Guelph; e a good trade; a splendid chance; will sell cheap nd reasons for selling. For particulars address J. AMPREY, Real Estate Agent, Guelph.

ALLEN'S EXTRA REFINED CIDER—Sold rels, Half Barrels and Kegs always in stock. en's Clarified Cider, prepared especially for Soda counties. Orders promptly filled; also cash paid common cider. ALLEN'S VINEGAR WORKS, Bond h, Ont.

SCIATICA, INFLAMMATORY RHEUMA- TISM, Gout, Neuralgia, and Lumbago effectually cured by a remedy invented by one who was him- cured by it after being three years on crutches. sciatica; abundant testimonials as to its being al effects in above-mentioned diseases; pamphlet ressed to any address. S. J. LANCASTER, Preston.

GUELPH BUSINESS COLLEGE, Guelph, Ont. That man only is rightly educated who knows to use himself, who possesses such practical owledge and such manual skill as will enable him com pete successfully with his fellows in the battle s of life. To impart such education, to prepare h men is the design and purpose of this institu- n. For terms, etc., call at the college or address MacCORMICK, Principal.

BUY THE
IMPROVED CONBOY
Carriage Tops
S THEY ARE THE MOST STYLISH ONVENIENT, AND MOST DURABLE TOP IN THE MARKET.
There are over Twenty Thousand of them now in use, and are giving better satisfaction than any other.
The manufacturer of these Celebrated arriage Tops, owns more patents for his provements, and makes a greater variety than any other firm in Canada or the nited States.
HEY ARE FOR SALE BY ALL THE LEADING ARRIAGE BUILDERS AT PRICES THAT CANNOT SURPASSED BY ANY THAT IS ANY WAY APPROACH THEM IN QUALITY.
FACTORY & SALEROOMS
407 to 418 King St. West,
TORONTO.

A RACE AGAINST TIME

I had been stationed on the main line of the great Central Railway for something more than a year, attending to all the day and night duties at that point with such an unfailing regularity, that no thought of possible accident had ever occurred to me.

The duties were not especially arduous, but the responsibility was far greater. There was an express day and night, both ways, for which the main line had to be always clear; a local express each way, which ran on the turnout, and waited for the through train to pass; a mail train night and morning which had right of way; one ordinary passenger, and half-a-dozen, perhaps, accommodation and freight.

To see that the main line was always cleared at the proper moment, that the turnout was always ready when it should be, that the branch where the local made up was open, and, in short, that everything was in condition for prompt and satisfactory working, kept me almost constantly at my post, though, as I have already said, the duties were not especially arduous.

In order to be handy to my business, I lived in a cottage close by, from the open door of which, looking eastward, I could see my coming train for a mile away, and note whether the signals of "danger" or "safety" were in their proper positions.

One morning, just after the local had made up and gone, my wife came running to me with an alarmed face. Our little girl was missing. She had seen her only a few minutes before the departure of the train, and had made a hasty search for her as soon as she discovered her absence. She feared she knew not what.

I calmed her with a few brief words, and, hurrying around to the station-building, began a careful examination of every possible place where I deemed it likely the child might be. (She was only five years old.) The search resulted in my finding her fast asleep on the sunny side of a pile of railroad ties, with her doll, half as large as herself, lying beside her.

That night I had a singular dream.

I thought I was in the middle of a vast plain, through which stretched, broad and clear before me, the double track of a main line. Like ours, yet unlike, for every few yards I could see open switches and blood-red signals, that gave me an agony of apprehension. As I looked again at the line, my eyes fell upon an object—a small form lying upon one of the rails. My child! With a mighty effort I awoke, turned over, and went to sleep, and dreamed the same thing again, with the addition that I seemed mounted on a winged horse, and riding for life to close the switches.

I awoke, bathed in perspiration, and aroused myself sufficiently to get up and visit my little darling's crib, of course to find her safe. I walked the floor in my stocking feet for awhile, looked at the clock, and again turned in, to dream for the third time the same thing; to start suddenly and broadly awake, as if the voice which roused the Thane of Cawdor had hissed in my ear, as in his, "Sleep no more!"

To awake, and find the first gleam of the coming day glowing gray on the eastern wall.

However, a visit to all the switches—mine, not those of the dream—a dash, headforemost, into a cool, deep, running stream near, and a warm breakfast, seemed to clear away whatever remained of the lingering effects of my nocturnal visions, and I felt like myself once more.

Between the passage of the down mail which stopped, and the through express which did not, there was an interval of an hour and a half, that was essentially my own. But that morning a despatch had come for one of the directors, who lived three miles to the south of us, and as it so happened, the agent, who was busy, requested me to take it, offering the use of his fast mare, which stood in harness under the shed—an animal remarkable for its speed and endurance, as I ascertained thereafter.

I had been to the director's house on one or two similar occasions, and neither the agent nor myself deemed the time necessary to go and come any consideration when an hour and a half was at my disposal. Besides, had such a course been necessary, he could have taken the keys and acted for me. But there was no thought of that.

I drove leisurely over, enjoying the ride much, for the mare, "Fanny," was in excellent spirits, and the air was clear and bracing.

I had delivered the despatch, received a brief word of thanks, and was already turning homeward, when the director came himself toward the paling, calling out to me by name.

I reined up.

"There is some mistake here, Jennings," he said, with some excitement, waving the despatch. "This should not have been sent to me, but to our agent." On reflection: "He knows the contents, I suppose?"

On reflection, I couldn't say, and so stated.

"Then go back to your post at once, and give it to him. A special train of excursionists for Hampstead Beach will pass at 9:30. Look out for it."

He turned leisurely and sauntered up the walk toward the house, while, without a word, I started the mare into a trot.

A special train at half past nine!

I drew a taut rein with my right hand, and took my watch from my pocket with my trembling left.

Nine twenty-two! Three miles of a straight road—less, perhaps, a quarter of a mile of detour to the station, when I should reach the track—and the main line open to me westward for the passage out of the mail! Three miles, and eight minutes in which to accomplish it!

In my youth I had known something about horses, and that knowledge did not fail me now. I drew out the long whip—seldom used, as I have noticed—and touched the mare quietly on the flank.

How can I describe that ride?

I have been where charger met charger in the swirl and dust of battle, and men and horses have gone down together, but in that there was fellowship—association. In this—but no words can fitly describe the fierce emotions of that solitary ride against time, where hundreds of innocent lives, all unconscious of the peril toward which they were speeding, hung trembling in the balance.

I recall now the tempest which swayed my shrinking soul, as, outwardly calm and rigidly erect, with every muscle strong as steel, I held the mare firmly up to her work and, by voice and touch, electrified the noble animal with almost human consciousness of the necessities and peril of the occasion.

Trees, houses, fences, gardens—sometimes men, staring in wild-eyed astonishment—flew past in one unbroken flight. My hat was off, my hair and beard streaming in the wind, my lips compressed, save when emitting low cries of encouragement to the noble mare; and thus I reached a low rise of ground commanding a view of the line for a mile or more on either hand.

Up to this moment from the time I had drawn taut rein and glanced at my watch, this point had been the objective goal for which I was riding.

If I could reach it before the whistle blew at the crossing below, there would be hope. If not—I shuddered at the alternative.

I recalled afterward, and many times, how a thought of my dream—a long line of switches—swept across me then! how my eyes for the first time swerved from their steady gaze at my horse's head, and flashed a glance up and down the whole visible line for the coming special!

Not in sight—thank God!

Stay! there is smoke on the horizon.

But there is no stay in the wild rush of our onward course. With as unflinching nerve as when she started, the gallant mare stretches away down the gentle declivity, while every moment the distance lessens, and the on coming train gets larger and nolsier as it nears us.

I stand up in the wagon; I urge to greater speed; I wave scarf and hand; I shout, but my voice is beyond my control.

Ha! Joy unutterable! I am seen!

A whistle!—the agent runs out with a red flag! two whistles! Down brakes! The train is saved, and comes to a halt not a dozen yards from the open switch. It was time.

(Time—as they say in the racing-calendar—seven minutes and a half. This I confirmed afterward.)

I complete the last quarter of the detour to the station more leisurely, but am in time to receive from the arms of the agent my sleepy little girl, whom he has snatched from the shadow of that misplaced switch, where she was lying fast asleep, with her golden curls directly on the rail.

That dream again! Shall I ever be thankful enough?

I am an older man now, and have other and higher interests in railroads, but not on that line. That experience was too much for me. I left soon after, and my fortunes greatly improved.

My golden-haired little darling is now a woman, and happily married, and has a little darling of her own just beginning to walk.

And if you would like to see the gallant mare, Fanny, that won the Race against Time, and an affectionate place in my remembrance evermore, come out to the orchard, and you will see her enjoying a comfortable old age, petted and caressed by the whole family.

So I end as I began:

Dreams are not always true.

Nor, on the other hand, are they always false.

PEARLS OF TRUTH.

Help others, and you relieve yourself. Go out and drive away the cloud from a distressed friend's brow, and you will return with a lighter heart.

Love is the most terrible and also the most generous of the passions; it is the only one that includes in its dreams the happiness of some one else.

Words of praise are almost as necessary to warm a child into a genial life as acts of kindness and affection. Judicious praise is to children what the sun is to flowers.

Politeness is a sort of guard which covers the rough edges of our character and prevents their wounding others. We should never throw it off even in our conflicts with coarse people.

No way has been found for making heroism easy, even for the scholar. Labour, iron labour, is for him. The world was created as an audience for him; the atoms of which it is made are opportunities.

There appears to exist a greater desire to live long than to live well. Measure a man's desires, he cannot live long enough; measure by his good deeds, and he has not lived long enough; measure by his evil deeds, and he has lived too long.

The most difficult province in friendship is the letting a man see his faults and errors, which should, if possible, be so contrived that he may perceive our advice is given him not so much to please ourselves as for his own advantage. The reproaches, therefore, of a friend should always be strictly just, and not too frequent.

He that does not fill a place at home cannot abroad. He goes there only to hide his insignificance in a larger crowd. You do not think you will find anything there which you have not seen at home? The stuff of all countries is the same. What is true anywhere is true everywhere. And, let a man go where he will, he can find only so much beauty or worth as he carries.

So long as dress does not violate the principles of beauty or the laws of health, so long as it is made conformable to position, use, and circumstances, so long is it to be encouraged, not only as a source of enjoyment, but as the fulfilment of a serious duty—for the love of dress, which is to the body what language is to thought, is as true an instinct as is the love of what is beautiful and good.

No trait of character is more valuable in a female than the possession of a sweet temper. Home can never be made happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Let a man go home at night, wearied and worn by the toils of the day, and how soothing is a word dictated by a good disposition! It is sunshine falling on his heart. He is happy, and the cares of life are forgotten.

Dr. John Hunter, the eminent surgeon, adopted a rule which may be commended to all. When a friend asked him how he had been able to accomplish so much in the way of study and discovery in his busy life, he answered, "My rule is, deliberately to consider, before I commence, whether the work be practicable. If it be not practicable, I do not attempt it. If it be practicable, I can accomplish it if I give sufficient pains to it; and, having begun, I never stop until the thing is done. To this rule I owe all my success."

PERSONAL.

Having retired from the Paris stage, Mlle. Kiraus will presently by marriage become a Princess.

Mme. Sophie Menter, the famous pianist, is now enjoying the possession of a fortune of $3,000,000, left to her by a Russian admirer.

The death of the venerable Lord Buckinghamshire leaves Lord Stradbroke senior peer—ninety-one years old—though Lord Brougham comes in a good second at ninety.

By the retirement of Mr. Samuel Morely, the city of Bristol, England, will lose a man who has represented it in Parliament for seventeen years with distinguished acceptability.

Count von Moltke, whose nearness to death is occasionally cabled, is really wonderfully healthy and vigorous for his years and he has just celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday, surrounded by his family on his Silesian estate.

The Duke of Abercorn, who died the other day, was the senior Knight of the Order of the Garter, a position now held by Lord Granville. The vacant stall will probably be given to the late Duke's son-in-law, the Duke of Buccleuch.

Thebaw, represented as the raw head and bloody bones of Burmah, is really a handsome young fellow of 26, the youngest and brightest of the forty-eight sons of his late lamented father, who rejoiced in the name of Mengdung Meng.

Philippe Daryl, a French essayist and critic, says of Oliver Wendell Holmes: "Everybody who speaks English on the planet has been enjoying for the past thirty years the superior productions of this Boston Frenchman. And yet the Latin world remains ignorant of him."

The American beauties, Miss Chamberlain and Miss Winslow, who went from London to Hamburg to astonish the natives and casual visitors, were astounded to find themselves forestalled by four American sisters named Walker who walked away with the palm for beauty.

M. Cortes, the distinguished microscopist has been experimenting upon the effects of various condiments upon the tissues of the oyster. He recommends lemon juice as the most valuable of these relishes, as it has the property of destroying the animalculæ which infest the stomach of that mollusk.

Queen Eleanor's Cross at Waltham is to be restored. It was designed by Pietro Cavallini in 1291 and finished in 1294. It is in memory of the consort of Edward I. who accompanied her husband to Palestine and sucked the poison from a dagger wound in his arm. She was the mother of the first English Prince of Wales.

The Boston Traveller (Rep.) says that "a gentlemen who recently met Hon. James G. Blaine found that gentleman in the enjoyment of excellent health, in good spirits, and happy in his literary work. He is engaged at his task three or four hours a day, takes long walks daily, and shows no signs of disappointment over his defeat last year. Indeed, in talking of that event, he says that he thinks he is happier than he could be in the Presidential chair."

The comparative importance of English statesmen, from the newsman's point of view, may be seen in the fact that according to announcement the London Central News reports all speeches of Lord Salisbury, Lord R. Churchill, Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Chamberlain verbatim; Lord Spencer, Lord Hartington, Lord Granville and Sir Charles Dilke to the extent of one column each, and Sir M. Hicks-Beach, Sir R. A. Cross, Sir W. Harcourt, Mr. Trevelyan and Mr. Childers half a column each.

In La Temperance, Dr. Magnus Huss, the celebrated Swedish physician, is quoted as saying that people of the northern States of Europe who abuse alcohol degenerate visibly and afford more frequently than others examples of monstrosities at birth. In London, at the beginning of the eighteenth century, there was an alarming decrease of the birth rate which, on inquiry, was shown to be caused chiefly by drunkenness.

Dr. Alvarez, a Paris homeopathist, brought suit against the Princess of Medina Cœli for 600,000 francs for medical services, stating that he was entitled to more than the usual compensation on account of the great wealth of his patient. The court awarded him 84 000 francs, he to pay costs. Most physicians would consider $17,000 a handsome fee, but this doctor was much chagrined over the result. A few days before he had refused a much larger sum to compromise the matter.

Disraeli and Gladstone.

It has been said, and with undoubted truth, that the man who is an artist, whatever be his calling, seeks relief in his art when fortune turns unkind and he has failed in other pursuits. While Mr. Disraeli sat in the Cabinet as prime minister of England he did little in fiction, but he contrived, after a fashion, to construct scientific frontiers and glittering political pageants after the epic and grand manner which had exercised his imagination in his books. But no sooner had he realized his last fail, and before the bitter critic could declare that there "was a Disraeli," he hied away to his closet, drew forth Endymion, refurbished that person, wrote some flashing chapters, and pregnant epigrams, and gave his book to the world. The fame of his novel was a food for his ambition when the sweetness and glory of power had passed away from him. We have another case in point in England now. No sooner does Mr. Gladstone fall from the united assault of the vaunted guardian of the stability of the empire and the vaunted apostle of its dismemberment, than he soothes his bruised ambition by the balm of literary work. It is not surprising, therefore, though a very thoughtful and cultivated weekly contemporary thinks it is, to find him in the pages of the Nineteenth Century setting his lance against modern irreligious science in a contribution entitled the "Dawn of Creation and Worship." In this paper he takes occasion to speak of a certain noble house, illustrious in the history of England as having for its head in the long ago a person "who was a driver of pigs." This must settle the question, we suppose, that the illustrious Howard is nothing more at the fountain head than a Ho(g)ward, from whose name we have positely dropped the "g."

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

We still wait for the evidence that will convince us that some of the medical students had not a leading hand in the Hallowe'en outrage.

The school-master is about in these days, but does he insist, as the old-time teacher used to do, that "an honest man's the noblest work of God?"

If some system of vaccination could be discovered which would prevent the spread of the annexation-fever among the nations of the world it might prove a blessing.

The Japanese can make silk handkerchiefs which sell as low as a shilling each in England. This is rightfully regarded as a serious menace to the English silk trade.

Cook County, Illinois, has hardly elapsed from barbarism yet if the tales told about the treatment of the insane in her asylum are to be believed. The brutal methods of mediævalism are said to flourish there in pristine vigor.

Fair Belva Lockwood is recounting her Presidental candidature experiences to audiences in the far wild west at fifty cents a head. She is perhaps trying to catch a husband now, that being the next best thing to the Presidency.

The clam is a hard-shelled animal who keeps himself resolutely shut against the introduction of new ideas, and who is hardly worth your trouble after you have opened him up. What a number of human clams there are in the world! Don't be a clam.

Prophecies as to the ultimate humiliation of the Bulgarians are as yet premature. At present writing the tide of success seems to have turned. Before the two little powers have done worrying one another the big ones will no doubt have their hands in.

A greater nuisance than the girl with the immense chapeau concealing all in front of her, or the pretentious fools who make a point of coming late so as to command some attention, are those concert-goers who spoil other people's pleasure by persistent whispering.

Undertakers are said to find the winter time their best business season, because more wealthy people die then, owing to their overheated houses, and the custom of bundling themselves in furs, two things which make them more liable to take cold whenever they are exposed.

It is said by well-informed English papers that the agricultural laborer is bitterly opposed to the church influence in the elections. Hodge has had some reason for combining the parson with the squire, as the two forces which have always been most opposed to yielding him his political rights.

Nothing in the late Gen. McClellan's career interested average British opinion so much as the yarn that got started about his being a more or less distant connection of a Lord Clyde. He rose one hundred per cent in English estimation when that was told and sank correspondingly when it turned out to be only a yarn after all.

Many men will steal books who would be shocked at the idea of committing the smallest infraction of the eighth commandment in any other way. And a first cousin to him who deliberately steals books is he who borrows and never returns. We wish a good many people would cultivate a proper delicacy of conscience in this matter.

To find out how much ill-breeding there is among the wealthier classes of Toronto, and no doubt of other Canadian cities and towns as well, one has only to take the testimony of some of the ladies who give time and trouble in collecting subscriptions for various charitable institutions. In houses where better things might be expected they are often treated as if they were beggars asking charity for themselves.

A good way of spending one evening every week or fortnight during the winter months is for a number of young people to form a club for the special study of some author. A Shakespeare club, for instance, or a Browning club, undertaking to study certain plays of the great dramatist or Aurora Leigh, and meeting for the purpose in one another's houses, would prove itself not only a very pleasant but a very profitable institution.

Reading a somewhat stirring poem which appeared in one of the leading dailies last week, we were rather startled by the first line of the last stanza, which read as follows:

"All are born free and equal." God-like lie of all the host That build false beacons on the line of life's terrific coast."

"God-like," as an epithet applied to anything in the shape of a "lie," has the charm of novelty, at any rate, if not of great fitness.

It is the hardest thing in the world to convince some people who blame all their misfortunes or want of success on what they call their "bad luck" that the "bad luck" in nine cases out of ten is just their own term for shiftlessness, carelessness, laziness or mere stupidity. The time spent by some folks in bemoaning their bad luck, if put to good use, would go far to deprive them of any good excuse for indulgence in such folly.

The case of a clergyman who seems to have very little respect for his own sacred functions is reported. A man died who conceived he had been badly treated in his father's will, and, wishing to remind the world of the fact, left directions to his minister to preach his funeral sermon on the words, "And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on." The clergyman, whoever he was, actually forgot himself so much as to carry out this piece of unworthy death-bed spite.

The latest subject of dispute between the leading party papers of Ontario is the amount and genuineness of the excitement in Quebec Province over Riel's execution. One side declares that the excitement, if not very great to outward seeming, is seething far down in the breast of the habitants and is ready to burst out on the first favorable opportunity in a way that will prove as sudden as it will be terrible. The other party insists, in an equally strong way, that there is no such excitement and never was. We should like to see the subject that these party papers won't dispute about.

The most sensible move yet in connection with these Pacific Ocean Islands has been made by the Hawaiian Government, who wishes the other Powers to allow them to unite the different groups of these Islands into local representative governments whose integrity shall be guaranteed by the contracting Powers, and to whom consuls shall be sent by them to protect their respective interests. In this way it is hoped these Islands would be kept forever open to commerce, and neutral in case of any war that may arise. It is gratifying to think that so much favor has been shown to this scheme by those Powers to whom it has already been submitted.

Stories are floating through the newspapers to the effect that certain Metis believe Riel has come upon the world again. One half-breed was walking along the prairie, after night, and just as the moon had risen, the great leader approached him and said, "I am not dead; take my hand: it is as warm as yours." He gave no explanations, but after talking much to the effect that God had spared him to the North-West people, disappeared. It is not stated whether the earth swallowed him, or that he disappeared as did the witches from the heath of Forres like the explosion of a bubble. Be all this as it may, many Metis and Indians believe that the great leader is upon the earth and living.

It has been well remarked, and can hardly be too often repeated, that eternal fame awaits the judge who will compel the average lawyer who always fancies that he shows his brains in browbeating witnesses, to treat these witnesses with proper respect. In nine cases out of ten witnesses come into court against their own will to testify concerning the crimes or disputes of their neighbors. But the treatment they frequently receive from the attorneys is most shameful, and could hardly be exceeded if they were the criminals themselves. A change is very much needed in this respect. In the exercise of no other business or profession is a man permitted to behave himself like a bully and a cad and why it should be so in law nobody can tell.

The American girl is an institution which demands and receive a great deal of attention. The latest addition to the literature on this subject comes from the Paris Figaro which says: "How captivating the American girl is in society! From the moment when she made her first appearance in the saloons of Paris she created a perfect furor. Her engaging manners, her freedom from restraint, her familiar shake-hand at once conquered that class of young men, more numerous than most people imagine, who frequent doubtful society on account of their excessive timidity when in good society. What can be more pleasant to an embarrassed youth in company than to have the conversation started and carried on by a pretty, chatty girl, totally devoid of false modesty and awkwardness, and having rarely, if ever, an arriere-pensee of marriage? Nor can we conceive anything more pleasing for a young man than to be chaffed and brightened up, so to speak, by pretty girls—for such the American girl always is—who have none of that stiffness and gaucherie, neither the hands, nor feet, nor love of gaudy colors so characteristic of their Anglo-Saxon great-grandmothers."

A Misuse of Clemency.

We think that the circumstances are few under which journals of repute ought to interfere in the solemn decisions of justice; but occasions do arise when silence would be blameable. We believe that, in the commutation of the death penalty in the case of Loison Mongrain, the murderer of Policeman Cowan, we have a case in point. Cowan was one of a reconnoitering party sent out by Inspector Dickens from Pitt when that Fort was surrounded by the Crees under Big Bear. This chief had come under the ramparts and coolly invited Inspector Dickens to surrender his arms and accompany him to the lodges, as Factor Maclean and others had done, promising his protection in the event of compliance. "If you do not come" Big Bear said, "my young men will burn down the Fort and do your people harm." Inspector Dickens, of course, sent the presuming savage about his business. Meanwhile, Cowan and another policeman were quietly riding along the prairie towards the fort. Perceiving their approach a number of Big Bear's men seized weapons, and as the two horsemen drew near opened a murderous fire upon them. One man rode on and reached the fort, though hit with several bullets; but the other, Cowan, fell from his horse upon the prairie. He lay bleeding and moaning here for half an hour, when Mongrain came up and pointed a gun at his head. The wounded man put up his hand, as if warding the gun away, and said, "Don't, brother," but the heartless murderer fired, and not only once, but twice, into the head of the helpless man. The murderer was apprehended, tried, and found guilty, and on sentencing him to death Judge Rouleau said:

"After the verdict of the jury, I can do no more than pronounce judgment. By the evidence given you have been found guilty of murder under the most shocking circumstances. When the wounded man was lying helpless on the ground and lifting up his hands pleading for his life, you cruelly shot him. I never heard of anything more cruel than that a man who saw another lying wounded and defenceless should kill him. The law provides that sentence of death be passed upon you, and the sentence of the court is, that you be hanged on the 27th of November."

If ever man deserved death under the law, it surely was this miscreant; yet we learn that the Privy Council has considered his case, and commuted the death penalty.

A couple stood before a jeweler's, the other evening, when the young lady remarked: "Gawgie, don't you think there is something perfectly lovely about those clocks?" "What do you admire so much about them?" he asked. "Why don't you see they—they name the day." The future will tell if Gawgie tumbled.

"What great blessings do we enjoy that the heathen know nothing about?" inquired a Sunday-School teacher. "Soap!" was the answer that came out like the crack of a pistol from the small boy at the foot of the class.

The late Dowager Lady Chesterfield's husband was so hard up that he was obliged to let Chesterfield House, and was unable to finish Bretby, his country seat, and his son had to sell Chesterfield House: but Lady Chesterfield, who had a life interest in the property after her son's death, finished Bretby and left $590,000, besides clearing the estate.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued every Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

P. McCullough.
BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, &c.
OFFICE—OVER McFARLAND'S STORE,
MARKDALE.
Money to Loan.
274

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly
J. MASSON, Q. C. S. MASSON. W. MASSON.
N. B.—Private Company's funds to invest at from Six to Eight per cent.

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

CITY HOTEL,
MARKDALE.
The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage, Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostler.
D. McLANE,
Proprietor,
Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WILLIAM STUART,
KIMBERLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.
Nov. 5, '85-1y

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

WM. G. CUTHRIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.
Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.
303

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.
Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at the STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
=PUMPS,=
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S
YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM.
FREEMAN'S
WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE.
THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.
For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,
GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

J. J. DALTON.
DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.
44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR,
Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address,
PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,
751 Broadway, New York.
We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—ED. STANDARD,

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression. Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 181 & 183 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 270-1y

Victor Roller Mills,
MARKDALE.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.		Flour.		Bran & Shorts.
62	..	40	..	13
61	..	39	..	14
60	..	38	..	14
59	..	37	..	15
58	..	36	..	16
57	..	35	..	17
56	..	34	..	18
55	..	32	..	19
54	..	31	..	20
53	..	30	..	20
52	..	28	..	20
51	..	26	..	20
50	..	25	..	20

J. W. FORD.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.
BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.
Sample Bottles 10c; Regular size $1.
For sale by all dealers.
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R'Y
OWEN SOUND BRANCH
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 30pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 15 "
Orangeville } Arrive	9 50 "	7 00 "
Orangeville } Leave	10 05 "	7 20 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 30 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 00 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 25 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 50 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 05 "
Berkeley	12 08pm	9 22 "
Williamsford	12 22 "	9 36 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 42 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 00pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	2 30 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	2 45 "
Berkeley	6 4 "	3 04 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 27 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	3 42 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 06 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 31 "
Orangeville Jun	8 09 "	5 09 "
Orangeville } Arrive	8 12 "	5 12 "
Orangeville } Leave	8 35 "	5 35 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 05 "
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45 "	7 45 "

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a.m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; W. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for November. 15th at 7 p.m. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.
Services every Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from Rev. Wesley Cassin, Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T. Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in the Hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Bishop, Secretary.

Peerless Oil!
Ahead of All Competitors.
Highest Honors & Gold Medal at Toronto.
SIX GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YEARS—BEST RECORD IN THE WORLD.
Satisfaction Guaranteed.
Ask for PEERLESS and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by
SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.,
Queen City Oil Works,
TORONTO, ONT.

THE CELEBRATED DR. CHASE'S MANDRAKE AND DANDELION LIVER CURE
HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a disordered liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with some other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.
500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. It would every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Receipt Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful receipts pronounced by medical men and druggists as invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.
TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS 25 cts. per box.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
T. CHAMBERLAIN & CO., Sole Agents, Buffalo.

Merry Xmas
TO ALL.
"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."
—MY LINE OF—
Xmas -:- Cards
Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.
FINE ASSORTMENT
SILVERWARE,
In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.
Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.
W. A. BROWN,
A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all our subscribers.

NEXT Monday will be nomination day.

NEXT Wednesday is annual school meeting.

TROT out your Village Police Trustee candidates.

W. J. MCFARLAND shipped 6,000 lbs. poultry last Monday.

MR. A. G. HUNTER of Dundalk gave us a friendly call last week.

MR. F. PORTER is spending his Christmas holidays at Sand Hill.

MCFARLAND has built up an immense Tea trade by selling pure Teas only.

THE Chatsworth News of last week was the best number we have yet seen.

THE new "roller process" will be in operation about the 1st January in Markdale.

THE best place in town for all kinds of horse clothing is Mathews' Harness establishment.

NEXT sittings of Division Court No. 5, will be held in Flesherton on the 22nd January.

A SPECIAL job lot of Mens' Overcoats at McFarland's about half price. See them, see them.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

SUBSCRIBERS at a distance will kindly renew promptly if they wish to receive the STANDARD right along.

$50,000 to loan on farm security. Terms easy; interest light, and square dealing. Apply at this office.

SEE the large assortment of Xmas Cards and Xmas Gifts at W. A. Brown's Model Jewellery Store.

THE pews in the new Methodist church will be let on Thursday, the 31st, at 2 o'clock p. m. Terms cash.

MR. H. J. MIDDAUGH, of Durham, has purchased "Chestnut Jim," from Alex. Hannah, of Flesherton, Station.

IMPORTANT.—All parties indebted to Wm. McLeod are hereby requested to call and settle before the 1st January.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

A TEA-MEETING will be held on the evening of New Year's day in the Baptist Church, 10th con., Glenelg, when addresses will be delivered by several reverend gentlemen, and music by the choir. Admission, 25 cents.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R. L
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1885

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto....Leave	7 20am	4 50pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Orange- Arrive	9 50 "	7 03 "
ville Leave	10 05 "	7 22 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 34 "
Melburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Mundalk	11 10 "	8 20 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 35 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 16 "
Berkeley	12 03pm	9 22 "
Williamsford	2 12 "	9 32 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 40 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 00 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 35pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 10 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 30 "
Markdale	6 4 "	3 50 "
Flesherton	6 27 "	4 12 "
Mundalk	6 42 "	4 26 "
Melburne	7 06 "	4 51 "
Orangeville Jun	7 32 "	5 17 "
Orange- Arrive	8 00 "	5 50 "
ville Leave	8 12 "	5 55 "
Cardwell Junction	8 55 "	6 35 "
Toronto....Arrive	9 07 "	6 55 "
	10 45 "	8 35 "

Markdale Church Directory.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm. Bown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services for November. 15th at 7 p. m. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 6th 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 7. 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from 8 to 9. Rev. Wesley Cassen, Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T Hill. Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in their hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No 141 meets in their Hall. McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

Markdale L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in their hall on Friday on or before full moon each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Blakey, Secretary.

Peerless Oil!

Head of All Competitors.

Highest Honors & Gold Medal at Toronto.

GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YEARS—BEST RECORD IN THE WORLD.

Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Ask for PEERLESS and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.,

Queen City Oil Works,

TORONTO, ONT.

THE CELEBRATED Dr. CHASE'S MANDRAKE DANDELION LIVER CURE

HAVE YOU

Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Weakness, or any disease arising from a deranged Liver, Dr. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a sure certain remedy.

NATURE'S REMEDY

The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is complaint rests solely with the fact that it is founded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with many other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a direct effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Liver.

500,000 SOLD

One-half million of Dr. Chase's Recipe Books were sold in Canada alone. I want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.

SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE

Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Recipe Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful recipes, experienced by medical men and druggists as invaluable and worth ten times the price of the medicine.

CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive cure. Price, 25 cents.

CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS 25 cts. per box.

SOLD BY ALL DEALERS

T. MANSON & CO., Sole Agents, Stratford

Markdale Standard

VOL. 6.--No. 276. MARKDALE, ONT., DEC. 24, 1885. { COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH. }

Merry Xmas TO ALL.

"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."

—MY LINE OF—

Xmas -:- Cards

Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.

FINE ASSORTMENT

SILVERWARE,

In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.

Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.

W. A. BROWN,

A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

Notices in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all our subscribers.

NEXT Monday will be nomination day.

NEXT Wednesday is annual school meeting.

TROT out your Village Police Trustee candidates.

W. J. MCFARLAND shipped 6,000 lbs. poultry last Monday.

MR. A. G. HUNTER of Dundalk gave us a friendly call last week.

MR. F. PORTER is spending his Christmas holidays at Sand Hill.

MCFARLAND has built up an immense Tea trade by selling pure Teas only.

THE Chatsworth News of last week was the best number we have yet seen.

THE new "roller process" will be in operation about the 1st January in Markdale.

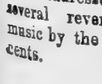
THE best place in town for all kinds of horse clothing is Mathews' Harness establishment.

NEXT sittings of Division Court No. 5, will be held in Flesherton on the 22nd January.

A SPECIAL job lot of Mens' Overcoats at McFarland's about half price. See them, see them.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

SUBSCRIBERS at a distance will kindly renew promptly if they wish to receive the STANDARD right along.



$50,000 to loan on farm security. Terms easy: interest light, and square dealing. Apply at this office.

SEE the large assortment of Xmas Cards and Xmas Gifts at W. A. Brown's Model Jewellery Store.

THE pews in the new Methodist church will be let on Thursday, the 31st, at 2 o'clock p. m. Terms cash.

MR. H. J. MIDDAUGH, of Durham, has purchased "Chestnut Jim," from Alex. Hannah, of Flesherton, Station.

IMPORTANT.—All parties indebted to Wm. McLeod are hereby requested to call and settle before the 1st January.

House and lot for sale on George Street, Markdale. For particulars apply to Peter McArthur, Traverston P. O., or to this office. 266-tf

A TEA-MEETING will be held on the evening of New Year's day in the Babtist Church, 10th con., Glenelg, when addresses will be delivered by several reverend gentlemen, and music by the choir. Admission, 25 cents.

A RAPID thaw set in on Tuesday and has split the sleighing.

SIX couple of our young folks took a sleigh ride to Dundalk on Tuesday evening and had a jolly time.

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF.—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet.

WE had a pleasant call from Mr. Thos. Hanbury of Dundalk, he and Mrs. H. having attended the church opening last Sunday.

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when worms are the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

THE Markdale Village Trustees ran their funds so close they had to write their notices of Nomination and Election with pen and ink. Marvellous economy.

MRS. MONTGOMERY has just received a fresh lot of all kinds of Christmas candies, nuts, biscuits, cakes of all kinds, at Dunlop's block, next door to City Hotel.

WE mentioned last week that Mr. S. J. Coleman had returned, but have since learned that he has with him his bride. We extend our congratulations to the happy pair.

PARTIES wishing to secure a pew in the New Methodist church will require to attend at 2 o'clock p. m. on Thursday the 31st inst. No pews will be rented before that hour.

NOTICE is given in the Gazette, by Messrs. McMichael, Hoskin & Ogden, Solicitors, of an intended application to the Legislature for a charter to build a railway from Southampton to Meaford.

EVERY preparation is being made for a crowd at the Christmas tea in the new church and it is intended to have sufficient system and order enforced to ensure comfort and avoid confusion.

THE annual tea-meeting of the Markdale Presbyterian Church will be held on the evening of New Year's day in Haskett's Hall. A good program is being prepared and a splendid time may be expected.

TWENTY-TWO car-loads of new rails were distributed along the C. P. R. between Teeswater and Wingham siding one day last week. They are intended to replace the old T. G. & B. rails.—[Walkerton Herald.

NOTICE.—W. J. Rowe has his Saw Mills running again having been idle owing to a break this last week, he is now running day and night to keep up with the orders and give you your lumber home with you now.

THE Christ Church Snnday School Xmas Tree entertainment will be given in the Orange Hall on Wednesday evening, the 28th inst. The entertainment will commence at half-past seven o'clock. Admission, 15 cents.

CONCERT.—A grand concert will be held in the Orange Hall, Maxwell, in aid of the St. Mary's Church Organ Fund, on Monday, the 28th Dec. The chief performers will be from Markdale. Refreshments at 6 o'clock. Admission, 25 cents.

ORANGE SOIREE.—Temple Hill L. O. L. No. 394 will give a grand soiree in their new hall, 9th line Euphrasia, on the evening of New Year's Day, when several reverend and other gentlemen are expected to address the meeting. Tickets, 25 cents.

THE opening services of the new Methodist church will be continued next Sunday when Rev. Dr. Griffin of Guelph will preach morning and evening, and Rev. J. E. Howell, M. A., at 2:30. The attendance is expected to be even grater than it was last Sabbath the pews are all free on those occasions.

A MAN named Elvidge Knocked Mr. Jenkins, of the Chronicle, down in Durham recently for publishing an item which the former took offence at. Jenkins entered a suit against Elvidge, and he was fined $8. and costs. 'Dye see how it works?

REGULARITY of the main spring of life, and regularity of the bowels is one of the most essential laws of health. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels in an natural manner, curing Constipation and preventing serious disease.

THE annual tea-meeting of Ebenezer Church 11th line Euphrasia, will be held on New Year's Day. They always have a good time, and this on is expected to be no exception to the rule. Tea served from 5 o'clock p. m. Admission 25 cents.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS'.—The promotion examinations in South Grey will be held on the 4th and 5th of Jan., 1886. The teachers' will please make this known, arrange for, and secure a general attendance of their pupils on the days specified. W. Ferguson, I. P. S.

THE Professors of the agricultural college have changed the dates of Farmers' Institute meetings printed two weeks ago. The meeting in Markdale for Centre Grey will be held on 8th and 9th January. Professors Brown, Greensides and Baree will be present.

WE are pleased to hear from our patrons, when renewing their subscription, that they cannot think of doing without the STANDARD, notwithstanding the hard times. It is not worth while economising in this particular, as the paper only costs two cents per week.

TEA-MEETING.—There will be a tea-meeting at Kimberley in the new Methodist Church on New Year's Day, commencing at 5 o'clock, when a number of good speakers will be present, including Dr. Sproule, M. P. Proceeds in aid of the building fund. Admission, 25 cents.

THERE is no medicine on the market that can equal West's Cough Syrup in the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, Influenza, Hoarseness, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung troubles, it has no equal. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Druggists. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle. Dec. 24

TEA-MEETING.—The annual tea-meeting of the Methodist church, Williamsford Station, will be held on the evening of New Year's day, when addresses will be delivered by Rev. J. E. Howell, M. A., Superintendent of Owen Sound District; Rev. J. Hart, of Chatsworth, and others. Tea served from 5 to 7 in Handley's Hall. Admission 25 cents.

THIS is the season of the year when the newspaper man is bored with numerous and long-winded address' and reports of presentations. Those matters are always particularly interesting to those immediately concerned, but the public generally are not by any means partial to such litrature. We hope therefore our patrons who anticipate the publication of such in our columns, will be very brief in order to escape the waste basket.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.—A meeting of Centre Grey Farmers Institute will be held in Markdale on the 8th and 9th January when Professors Brown, Grenside, and Barre, from the Agricultural College, will deliver addresses on subjects of deep interest to the farmer. Those meetings will be free, and every farmer in the neighborhood should make it a point to be present. The meetings commence at half past one.

"I say Aunt Chloe, you is getting around right smart." "Yes indeed I is, honey. I was pestered and sick abed with Rheumatism for six years and done tried this West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment the people are talking so much about, and I was sure enough cured. It done saved this old nigger's life." Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

THE CANKER WORM OR THE BLOOD is Scrofula, that gnaws upon the vitals and consumes the body. Consumption is but Lung Scrofula. Burdock Blood Bitters is one of the best known combinations to cure Scrofula.

Fluid Lightning does not take a day or an hour to remove Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache, Lumbago or Rheumatism, but will do it instantly, and without carrying your head in a poultice for a day or using greasy liniment. Try a 25c. bottle from Hill Bro's. 4

IF you intend purchasing Xmas Cards, or handsome and useful articles of Silver Plate for table use, you should come in Xmas eve and see my assortment. Fair prices and plain figures. W. A. Brown, Jeweller.

MARY, why is it you persist in getting that mixed, colored trash of Tea, and dosing us all with it, when by going to McFarland's you can get Tea warranted absolutely pure and sweet as a rose. He is importing a special brand called Triumphant which is bound to crowd all others out. The next time you want Tea get a can of McFarland's "Triumphant Tea."

LOST.—A buffalo robe, without lining, made of two pieces, had $15 marked on one corner with black paint, lost between Markdale and Noble's stone house sideroad, late in October last. Any person who will return it, or give such information as will lead to its recovery will be suitably rewarded. John Boland, Vandeleur P. O.

The virtue of Carbolic Asid for healing cleansing and purifiyng is well known; but from the many modes of applying it, the public is uncertain how best to use it. To meet that want, McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate is prepared, and may be used with confidence. Do not be misled. Take only McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Sold by Hill Bro's. 4

ENTERPRISE EXTRAORDINARY.—The souvenir number of the Shelburne Economist came to hand last week, and is a cracker. It is dated 1985, as much as to say "this is the state of perfection to which progressive news papers will have arrived at that date." The number speaks volumes for the taste and enterprise of Mr. Smith, the publisher, while the excellence of the material (type, &c.), would put some of the city offices in a back seat. We wish the publisher and his excellent journal the success so richly merited.

PLEASANT VALLEY.—The tea-meeting which came off at Pleasant Valley Methodist church on Wednesday of last week was largely attended and a pleasant time spent. The program was lengthy, varied and well rendered. A number of readings, recitations and dialogues were rendered by young people of that neighborhood in a manner which did them great credit. W. A. Brown, of Markdale, occupied the chair very creditably, and the Methodist choir of this place gave several fine selections of music. Revs. Casson and Grandy were present and did their part. Proceeds $28.

GUN ACCIDENT.—About a week ago Mr. John McNally, of Traverston, Glenelg, went out shooting. He loaded his gun with buckshot and then tried to insert a bullet, which struck part way down the barrel, the consequence was that when he fired the gun off it burst about a foot from the lock. A piece of the barrel struck Mr. McNally on the thumb inflicting a very ugly gash, which, owing to the powder getting into the wound has been very painful, and at last accounts was not healing up properly. We hope Mr. Mc. may recover without losing his thumb.—[Grey Review.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Afflictions, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Euphrasia Council.

The council met pursuant to adjournment at Dodson's hotel on 28th Nov., 1885. Members all present. Minutes of last session of council read and confirmed. The treasurer was ordered to obtain immediate settlement from Mr. Jordan of balance due on roll of 1884.

$4.00, charged to J. W. Knott for statute labor, was struck off roll, as it was made to appear that said labor was performed.

$8.27 was struck off Daniel Patton's taxes, being an error produced through discrepancy between assessment roll and notice.

By-law 355, to close and dispose of part of the original allowance of road between lots 6 & 7, in the 3rd & 4th concessions, was carried through the different stages and passed.

The following named gentlemen were appointed deputy-returning officers to hold the next municipal election, viz: Thomas Ellis, Nicholas Hewson, George Crabtree, Daniel Silverthorn, James Struthers, Esq., and Nathaniel Curry.

By-law No. 356, confirming the appointment of deputy-returning officers appointing the agricultural hall as place of nomination, and appointing polling places in the several polling subdivisions, was carried through the different stages and passed.

The treasurer war ordered to remit to Creasor & Morrison, barristers, Owen Sound, $3.00, fee for legal advice.

The reeve's orders were issued on the treasurer to pay as follows, viz:

George Hutchinson $25, building bridge on blind line at lot 18; George Emery $50.20, work on 12 & 13 side-line, con. 1 & 2; Thomas Londry $8.75, work on 15 & 16 side-line, con. 4; James Reekie $1.75, repairing road scraper; William Dales $10, work on 24 & 25 side-line; Charles Howard $13, work on 6 & 7 side-line; James Wiley $1.44, plank for use on road; William Pringle $10, work on 9 & 10 side-line; E. McConnel $15, work on 6 & 7 side-line; Dougald Campbell $30, building culverts on 12 & 13 side-line; Thomas Ellis $61.40, work on 6 & 7 side-line, con. 4; W. Hewgill, Esq., $5, work on town line Collingwood; John Ferris $15, work on 6 & 7 side-line; Joseph Burns $3, work on 12 & 13 side line; John Pritchard $1, work on 24 & 25 side-line, con. 9; Joseph Hawken $6, building culvert on 12 & 13 side-line; William Charters $2, repairing culverts; A. Grier, Esq., $5.50, forming union School Section.

Council adjourned until Thursday, 24th December next, then to meet at McConnel's Hotel for the dispatch of business.

ROBERT DUNLOP,
Tp. Clerk.

Attained its Majority

To our readers who see in agriculture an art to be followed by the light of intelligence rather than speculation, we commend for their approval the FARMER'S ADVOCATE AND HOME MAGAZINE. This journal has been established 20 years, is edited an owned by a practical farmer of 50 years' experience, and as an educator of farmers in matters pertaining to agriculture, stock, dairy, apiary, &c., &c., combined, the FARMER'S ADVOCATE stands without a peer. It is got up in neat shape for binding, neatly printed on fine paper, and each number is well illustrated with original practical drawings. In addition to its fund of information for the farmer, its Home Magazine Department pleases all the members of the family, young and old, who find in it a large amount of profitable and entertaining reading. This month sample copies are sent free to applicants.

IMPURE BLOOD.—Boils, blotches, pimples and festering sores are indications of impure blood that should never be neglected, or ill health and perhaps incurable disease may result. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood by acting on the four cardinal points of healt—the Stomach, Bowels, Liver and Blood.

On a Thames Steamer.

A short time ago I went for a trip down the Thames on one of the company's steamers, and during the journey found considerable amusement in watching the characters on board. Two persons in particular attracted my notice. One was a middle aged gentleman, stout, rather surly and taciturn, who paid no attention to any living being on board, except a huge Newfoundland dog that sat panting and lolling out his tongue, or roaming among the passengers, pushing them out of the way, frightening the children, and convincing nervous ladies that he was going mad by the vigor with which he struck out his legs while rolling on his back upon the deck. His master eyed these pranks with a sly smile, and seemed to enjoy the terror occasioned by the antics of his burly friend.

The other persons whom I especially noticed, was a pretty and well dressed lady, and she had with her a little girl about 7 years old, who called her "mamma." The lady was evidently possessed of nerve. Indeed she seemed to be possessed by them, and their name was legion. Endless were the petty annoyances to which they subjected her; infinite the dilemmas in which they involved her. But her keenest sufferings in this small way were caused by the unwieldy gambols of Tiger, the Newfoundland dog, and her incessant and puerile exclamations of terror, indignation and spite against the good-natured brute kept up the sly, malicious smile upon the lips of his apparently unnoticing master. The little girl on the contrary, had, to the increased alarm of the weak mother, made friends with the monster, and for a long time amused herself with throwing bits of biscuit for him to catch, which feat, notwithstanding the incorrectness of her aim, he managed to accomplish, by making a boisterous plunge to one side or the other; and when at last she timidly offered him a piece out of her hand, and he acknowledged the compliment by licking her face, the little darling fairly screamed with delight. Her mother screamed, too, but it was one of the hysterical screams in which she was fond of indulging, and was followed by an outburst of anger at Tiger's familiarities.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "If that horrid creature should be mad he'll have killed my child! And how dirty he is, too! Look at your dress, Mable; see what a state it is in! How dare you play with that animal?"

This transition rom hydrophobia to a soiled dress was too much for Tiger's master, and he burst into a long, loud laugh.

"I wish, sir," said the lady snappishly, "that you would call away that dog, instead of setting him on to annoy every body who is not accustomed to have such dirty animals about them."

The gentleman said nothing, but bowed and walked forward; and I soon after saw him smoking a cigar, while Tiger played the agreeable in his own rough fashion to people who knew how to read the expression of his honest and intelligent physiognomy.

Little Mabel, deprived of the attraction which had fixed her attention to the interior of the boat, began to seek amusement in watching the foaming water as it rushed from the paddle wheels and danced in long lines lazily behind them. She knelt on an overcoat which a fellow passenger had kindly lent as a cushion for her little knees and leaned quietly over the side, watching the roaring water; so her mother was for a time relieved from the thousand-and-one vexations which had hitherto beset her.

We were now within a few miles of Gravesend. The tide was just at the full and the broad expanse of the river lay around us in all its majesty; and to those who have never beheld the Hudson or the Mississippi, old "Father Thames" is majestic, aye, and if we place in the balance the historic, political and commercial importance of the transactions of which his broad breast is and has been the highway, our "time-honored" river will not lose its diginty even when compared with those giant floods of the West.

Such thoughts as these, however, did not trouble Mable's little head, which began, I could see, to grow giddy with the continual whirl beneath her. A large seaweed that was dashed up by the paddle caught her attention. It sank, then rose, whirled round in a short eddy and then darted out in the long eddy and was left behind the steamer. She leaned forward to watch its progress; further, further, till her little neck was stretched; presently she lost her balance and toppled over into the roaring flood. In a moment all was confusion on board. Men were shouting for ropes and boats; to stop the steam; cries of "A child overboard!" "Who can swim?" and a thousand other cries and questionings. But above all arose the poor mother's heart-rending shrieks, too painfully in earnest now; and she alone, forgetting in the fond, instinctive devotion of maternal love that even could she reach her child she could only sink with her, endeavored to leap into the water to save her.

Suddenly Tiger, followed closely by his master, came tearing along the deck, knocking the people to right and left; they sprang into the boat that hung at the stern, everybody giving way before the determined energy of both man and dog. Tiger looked anxiously in his master's face and uttered a short low bark.

"Wait," said the latter in reply, "where was she seen last?"

"There, sir," replied a sailor promptly, "there, beside that piece of plank."

"How many times has she risen?"

"Twice."

The gentleman drew a long breath and said to his dog, in a low voice, "Look out!"

And Tiger did look out, with wild, flashing eyes and limbs that trembled with anxiety. What a moment that was! Every one else was passive; every other attempt was laid aside, and all stood in mute expectation, those who were near enough watching for the rising of the child, and those who could not see the water keeping their eyes fixed upon Tiger. In an instant a cry was raised, as a golden-tressed head was seen to emerge from the water. The noble dog had seen her first though, and ere the warning cry reached his ears, he had dashed from the boat with wonderful activity and was swimming toward the little sufferer as though he knew that life and death depended on his efforts.

His master marked his progress anxiously. His face was pale as death, and it was only by rigidly compressing them that he could control the nervous quivering of his lips. "He has her!" he exclaimed, as Tiger rose to the surface after a long dive, holding little Mable by the back of her hair in such a manner that her face was out of water. "He has her and she is saved." Down with the steps, and on them stood a couple of active sailors, encouraging the brave dog by shouts and gestures, and ready to receive his precious burthen when he should approach them. Slowly he came on, wistfully eyeing the steps, and now and then glancing up at his master, who was leaning over the side and encouraging him with his well known voice.

"How you are!" cried one of the sailors, seizing the little girl. She was handed from one sailor to another, and at last deposited in the arms of an active looking gentleman, whom everybody seemed instinctively to recognize as a surgeon, and by him carried below.

"Now, come up, there's a brave fellow!" said a sailor, retreating to make way for Tiger to climb upon the steps. But the poor creature whined piteously, and after one or two fruitless struggles to raise himself out of the water, remained quite quiet. "Help him! help him! he is exhausted!" cried his master, fighting his way through the crowd to the rescue of his brave favorite. By the time, however, that he had reached the top of the ladder the sailors had perceived the condition of the dog, and with some difficulty dragged him from the water. With their assistance he crawled feebly up, then languidly licked his master's hand and stretched himself on the deck. It would be difficult to say which received the most attention—the little girl under the hands of the surgeon, and all the women, who had squeezed themselves into the cabin under the firm conviction that they were exceedingly useful, or the noble dog from the kind but rough attention of the steamer's men, under the supervision of his master.

Both the invalids were soon convalescient and Tiger was sitting up receiving with quiet dignity the caresses of his friends, when Mable's mother came running upstairs; and throwing herself on her knees before him and clasping him affectionately in her arms, laid her cheek upon his rough head and wept.

"He's a dirty animal," said the gentleman, who could not forget her former slighting remark. "He'll make your dress in such a state! besides, he may be mad!"

She cast her eyes with an expression of meek reproach (they were very fine eyes, and I think he felt it, for his features softened immediately). "Oh pray, pray, give him to me!" she began.

"Give Tiger to you!" he repeated, in derision. "Why, what would you do with him? I'll tell you, you'd pet and pamper the poor beast till he was eaten up with disease, and as nervous as a fine lady. No, no; you'd better give little Mabel to me," Tiger and I could take much better care of her than you can."

"Perhaps so, sir," she replied, with the gentle manner that had come over her since the accident, 'but still I could not spare her. She is my only child, and I am a widow."

"I must go," muttered the gentleman to himself. "Whew! a widow Has not the immortal Weller assured us that one widow is equal to twenty five ordinary women? It's not safe, morally safe, to be in the same boat with her." He walked away. But who may wrestle against fate? When the boat returned to London Bridge, I saw him carrying Mabel ashore, with the pretty widow leaning on his arm.

Isabella, Once Queen of Spain, and her Husband

The late King's father, Don Francisco, has been exiled since the revolution, and he lives very quietly at Epinay, in the enjoyment of a respectable allowance from the civil list. He never sees his royal consort, and his royal consort never sees him. Whenever they change the Spanish Minister at Paris—and they change him pretty often—the new incumbont pays a ceremonial visit to Epinay. Don Francisco immediately after pays another visit to the Embassy, invites the Minister to dinner, and then never sees him again.

The ex-Queen Isabella is a far more interesting figure, and her character is to some extent rehabilitated in Vasili's vivacious pages. She is prodigally generous. She gives money right and left, often without the slightest sense of its value. Once, in her day of power, she ordered a Minister to send 20,000 francs to a man of letters in distress. The minister thought she needed a lesson, and he had the twenty thousand piled in the smallest coin of the kingdom, and then waited for her Majesty to pass. "What is all this money?" said the Queen, as she caught sight of the glittering heap. "It is the 20,000 francs for the man of letters, your Majesty." The Queen smiled, to show that she understood the lesson; but she sent the money all the same.

In spite of her three millions of reals from the civil list, she is always in debt, and this used to give intense dissatisfaction to her son. "He preaches, scolds, counsels, blames, and pardons—always winds up in the same way." On ascending the throne Alfonso would not hear of her coming to Madrid; and when at last she overcame his scruples he himself drew up the list of her suite. She has never obeyed any one else; and her independence of character, according to the chronicler, has endeared her to the Spanish people, and made them quite forget the disagreeable incidents that attended their momentary quarrel with her.

She is grotesquely ignorant of politics, and when some one once spoke to her on the march of modern ideas and the necessity of comprehending one's epoch, she replied: "Of course, I know the times change; and you see I never drive out with my mule now."

A Good Corn Sheller for 25c.

A marvel of cheapness, of efficacy, and of promptitude, is contained in a bottle of that famous remedy, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. It goes right to the root of the trouble, there acts quickly but so painlessly that nothing is known of its operation until the corn is shelled. Beware of substitutes offered for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—safe, sure and painless. Sold at druggists.

A bucket-shop should be managed by a pale man.

OVER THE OCEAN.

The London Times of Oct. 22 had seven yards of political speeches.

The Military Journal of St Petersburg publishes a Ministerial decree ordering that each of the battalions of chasseurs shall have a midwife on the staff.

The French doctor who sent poisoned game to a rival, "by way of a practical joke," has been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment with hard labor.

Four artisans have been appointed Justices of the Peace in England this year through the instrumentality of Mr. Trevelyan as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

James Russell Lowell has given to Harvard Library about 600 volumes of rare historical books and works of belles lettres, chiefly Spanish, which he picked up in England.

The Colonelcy of the Royal Horse Guards, vacant by the death of Lord Strathnairn, has been held by thirteen dukes, three marquises, four earls, two viscounts, two barons, one knight, and one commoner.

The necessity of maintaining, as at present, eighteen palaces when Queen Victoria resides but in one, and that for only three months in the year, is likely to occupy the next Parliament.

The much-abused clerk is not the only person liable to accidents with poisons. A recent case is cited in Jennerette, La., in which a father of two sick children gave the medicines prescribed for each of them to the other, thus killing both children.

The cotton crop of Central Asia has been unusually good this year. Many owners of cotton mills in Russia seem to prefer Central Asia to American cotton, and have established direct relations with the planters of Bokhara, Tashkend, and Khiva.

The historic park of Hamilton Palace, Scotland, will soon be broken up for a coal field, the gardens are leased to a nurseryman, and the palace will probably soon be dismantled. The Duchess of Hamilton lately paid the place what was probably a farewell visit of two days.

The removal of the impediments to the navigation of the Danube at the "Iron Gate" is to be carried out at last, in conformity with the stipulations of the treaty of Berlin. The Hungarian Government has decided to have the work executed. The cost is estimated at $6,000,000.

Suicide is increasing in Berlin to a frightful extent. In one day lately there were ten cases of self-murder. There have been several instances quite recently of stock jobbers and other speculators moving in the upper ranks of society who blew their brains out in a fit of despair at financial misfortune.

The lady secretary of the Anti-Vivisection League of England argues, in a letter to M. Pasteur, that cauterization removes all danger of hydrophobia. Her son once and she herself five or six times have thus escaped the malady, and both offer to be bitten by any mad animal in M. Pasteur's laboratory on condition of being allowed to treat the wounds themselves.

The expression "cool as a cucumber" now rests upon a solid scientific basis. In a recent study upon the heat of fever, an English investigator, while seeking for certain analogies in plants, took the temperature of the popular esculent at various stages of its growth, and found it to be about one degree below that of the surrounding atmosphere. But the rule holds good for the young cucumbers only. Venerable specimens were two degrees warmer.

The national printing press at Vienna is now busily preparing the first serial number of the great work, "Austria-Hungary, in Word and Picture," which has been edited under the personal direction of the Crown Prince. This first issue appeared on the 1st of December, and will be followed by others from fortnight to fortnight until the whole work is completed—that is to say, in eight years at the earliest, but possibly not before ten years has elapsed.

In a recent lecture on leprosy—a disease which has been widely discussed of late—Prof. Hutchison of the London Hospital stated that it is not contagious, nor is it an hereditary disease, though it may, of course be transmitted. He believed leprosy to be caused by eating fish which has been somewhat decomposed, or has been salted. Healthy fish in any quantity will not cause it, but a small quantity so poisoned will. When leprosy prevailed in England the inland consumption of fish was very large. He cites two cases of cure of the disease, one of which was treated by himself.

One of the most remarkable of clocks has just been constructed in London for a banking establishment. It is on the twenty-four hour principle, and is notable as possessing probably the simplest method which was been yet restorted to for indicating time according to the new enumeration. The clock in question has only one hand, the long minute hand, and the figures around are placed as heretofore. Instead, however, of indicating the hours, they indicate the minutes only, which are marked from 5 to 60. The hours are shown on a sunk dial revolving under the upper dial, a space being left in the upper dial into which the next hour figure comes forward instantaneously upon the minute hand, completing its circuit of sixty minutes—that is, in a word, the solitary hand marks the minutes, and the sunk space shows the hour.

M. Hildemacher, a well known Paris painter, has been the victim of his own misplaced confidence. On the occasion of his son's marriage he gave a luncheon to a large number of guests at his residence on the Boulevard Magenta. About 150 persons presented themselves, and, although many of them were unknown to the artist or his wife and the newly married couple, they were nevertheless admitted, the mutual impression being that they were the invited guests of the bride's family. In the course of the evening the hostess missed her purse. A search was made to ascertain whether some strangers had not found their way into the gathering, but the thieves had decamped About one half of the company had left, and those who remained were all intimate friends of the two families. When they were informed of what had occurred, several of those yet remaining discovered that their pockets had also been picked, and two portfolios with securities and bonds of value had also disappeared.

WINTER WRINKLES.

A go-between—Ham in a sandwich.

Contempt of court—Painting the front gate.

A Door Belle—A pretty and attractive maid-servant.

According to the Darwinian theory our ancestors were all tail-bearers.

An exchange says: "Listen to your wife." How can one help one' self?

Butcher—"Porterhouse steak, madam?" New Landlady "No, boarding-house."

"What is your idea of love, Mr. Sinnick?" "Three meals a day and well cooked."

Women swallow flattery as babies swallow buttons, without any idea of the trouble that may follow.

A new word has been coined which has probably come to stay—hellogram—meaning a message by telephone.

A soft answer turns away no wrath from a girl when she is serious on the popping question and means business.

When Clara heard that one of her friends had married the three-armed man from California she exclaimed: "What killing!"

"If you sit in the chimney corner all your days your true love will find you out" is an old adage. She will if you happen to be married to her.

There is no great difference between the average young lady possessed of a musical education and the squeaking toy. They have to be pressed to sing,

A Hamilton boy earned a nice Bible by committing ten hundred verses to memory and then he traded his Bible for a shotgun and he accidentally shot his aunt in the leg.

"A genuine patriot," said an election orator recently, "must at all times be ready to die for his country, even though it should cost him his life." (Thundering applause.)

"Isn't my photograph excellent?" said a somewhat spunky wife to her husband. "Well, my dear," replied he, "I think there's a little too much repose about the mouth."

Spoodle was saying that when he was abroad he was presented at court. "The deuce you were!" exclaimed Fogg. "How did it happen? How much did they fine you?"

A poet says a kiss is "the meeting of souls." Hence we presume that a kiss in the dark happens only when two souls accidentally run against each other by reason of lack of light.

A teacher asked a boy who was the meekest man? "Moses, sir," was the answer. "Very well, my boy; and now, who was the meekest woman?" "Please, sir, there never was any meekest woman."

A clergyman, endeavoring to console a rich miser in his dying hours, asked him: "In looking over your past life, what do you regret the most at this time?" "That I didn't die twenty years ago, when funerals were cheaper."

Mr. Blackfriar (just from London)—"Yawr Americanisms are most perplexing, yaw know. What on earth is a 'big boy' and a 'drop' letter? Yawr a 'ed of us there, yaw know; we've no 'drop' letters in England." Miss Kate—"I thought it was a drop letter in England."

That was a cautious old tramp who, upon being asked whether he would have a drink of whiskey as he was beginning a job of sawing wood, or would he have it when he had finished it, answered: "Well, mum, I think I'll take it now. There has been a pile of sudden deaths lately."

Minister (fashionable church wedding)—"Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Let us unite in prayer." Bride (kneeling, whispering)—"Remember, George, we are to pass down the right aisle, and do try and not be awkward. You mortify me to death sometimes."

Patroness—"Oh, professor, tell me how my daughter is getting along with her swimming lessons? I am anxious that she should master the art, as we may go to Newport next Summer." Professor—"She is doing beautifully, madam. She is worry of her muzzer. In fact, she can swim like a—like a goose."

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.

Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages

Handsomely bound in cloth.

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 358 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
373 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
370 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 350 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 352 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for any one, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
382 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the tenth part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 63 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending papers to Great Britain or the United States, and subscriptions for those points count as ordinary subscriptions.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

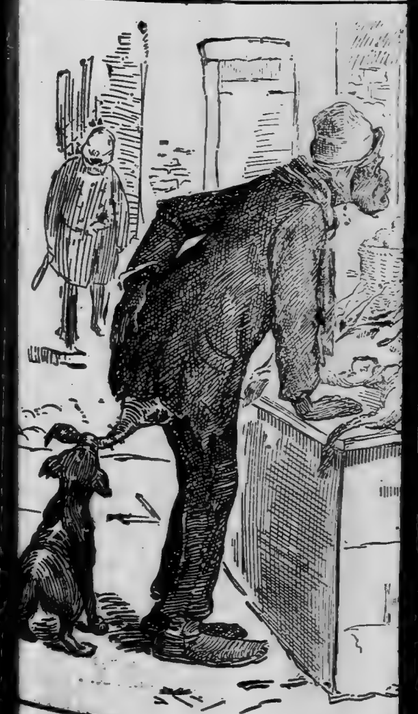
When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

FALLING STARS.



Recollections of a Wonderful Night in 1833.

I have read many descriptions of what was called the falling stars or meteoric shower of 1833, says a correspondent, and recently the account of an old man who saw the shower or meteoric rain in Alabama, an account of which was copied from the Birmingham Age by the News. I do not call myself old, yet I was five years of age when the event alluded to occurred, and witnessed it, as I remember, without fear. The impress is still fresh on my mind, though I have never read a description that agrees with what I saw, except when spoken of as sublimely grand! I will try to describe it as seen by me in Beaufort district, South Carolina—150 miles up the Savannah river, and about six miles from Matthew's Bluff. At the residence of my aunt, at some hour before day (the date I do not remember), Uncle Fred came to my bed and took me in his arms to the front piazza, where he stood me on my feet to witness the rain of apparent liquid fire. I had no fear, for he was with me, and I had no appreciation of the terror it might have for those who dreaded the judgment.

It was a rain of fire, not stars. The stars, or sparks, only occurred at the end of the lines of fire. Imagine a rain of molten iron striking the earth, each drop bursting into sparks. Nothing else will compare. I could not now describe it, if experience with foundries and smiths' shops had not afforded the comparison. The fire fell in streams like the heaviest fire rain I ever witnessed, and swayed to and fro just as the water is by the motion of the clouds or wind. The only stars I saw were just as one sees when molten iron is rushing into or from the ladle, or when iron with a welding heat is withdrawn from the forge, or such as is seen when the liquid metal drops upon the earth, or such as is seen in the wake of an exploded rooket. The strangest to me was, no such sparks or stars appeared except at the end of the line of fire rain, which stopped about five feet from the earth, as far as I can judge. The piazza had three steps from the ground. I could not have been more than three feet high and the line of fire rain burnt into sparks on the level with my eyes. None that I saw struck the earth, but after sparkling on this line disappeared, to be succeeded by others in quick succession. I recollect distinctly observing the house around the yard, and the road led directly from the gate, and wondering why none of the fire or sparks reached the earth. It was not as light as day, but a lurid light greater than I have ever seen since. Objects were perfectly discernible, though not as well as by daylight. I do not recollect seeing anything above the line of my vision—such as the tops of trees and houses. The fire rain was too thick to see through After staying as long as was deemed prudent in my night-clothes, my uncle returned me to bed. How long it was before daylight I do not know. I do know I slept till called to breakfast. I met an old gentlemen some years ago who was in camp on the Texas prairies, who witnessed the meteoric shower of falling stars and whose account tallied more nearly with mine than any I have ever read or heard. He did not have my experience with molten metal, but when he heard my comparisons with the sparks as from a smith's forge, heartily indorsed me.

The Herder's Wily Enemy.

The coyote is the Oregon herder's wily enemy. He is constantly on the warpath, and takes no pains to conceal the fact. If a sheep wander away from the camp at night the coyote is apt to find it out before the herder does, and at once proceeds to feast upon the finest of the flock. If very hungry he will kill one and devour nearly the whole of it; then summon his confederates, and lead them to the slaughter for more. The sheep soon scatter in frightened herds all over the range. The coyotes will then quit, as though aware that a more vigilant watch will be kept, and will turn their attention to some neighboring herd until the previous night's raid shall be in some measure forgotten. Coyotes are constantly being killed off, either by being shot or poisoned. The latter mode is more effective, but is attended with serious danger to the shepherd dogs, which in spite of the utmost precaution often hunt up the poison and eat it.

AN ANXIOUS MOMEN

ay, Boss, I doan' feel like 'vestin' in tu'key wid d so ye' 'vinge me by callin' him off. Gideon's Ban doan' he think ye'n't comin' roun';

"Three meals a day and wel
n swallow flattery as babies swalons, without any idea of the trouble follow."

word has been coined which has come to stay—hellogram—message by telephone.

nswer turns away no wrath from n she is serious on the popping and means business.

Clara heard that one of her friends ied the three-armed man from she exclaimed: "What bliss!"

u sit in the chimney corner all your true love will find you out," adage. She will if you happen to d to her.

s no great difference between the oung lady possessed of a musical and the squeaking toy. They e pressed to sing.

ilton boy earned a nice Bible by ng ten hundred verses to memory he traded his Bible for a shotgun cidentally shot his aunt in the leg.

uine patriot," said an election or-tly, "must at all times be ready his country, even though it should his life." (Thundering applause.)

my photograph excellent?" said a spunky wife to her husband.
ny dear," replied he, "I think ittle too much repose about the was saying that when he was was presented at court. "The were!" exclaimed Fogg. "How pen? How much did they fine says a kiss is "the meeting of Hence we presume that a kiss in happens only when two souls ly run against each other by rea-of light.

er asked a boy who was the meek-
"Moses, sir," was the answer.
ell, my boy; and now, who was st woman?" "Please, sir, there any meekest woman."

yman, endeavoring to console a in his dying hours, asked him:
ng over your past life, what do the most at this time?" "That twenty-years ago, when funereaper."

ackfriar (just from London)—
mericanisms are most perplexing.
What on earth is a 'big bug' op' letter? Yawr a 'ed of us know; we've no 'drop' letters
." Miss Kate—"I thought H letter in England."

s a cautious old tramp who, upsked whether he would have a hiskey as he was beginning a job wood, or would he have it when nished it, answered: "Well, nk I'll take it now. There has of sudden deaths lately."

(fashionable church wedding)— od hath joined together let no under. Let us unite in prayer."
eling, whispering)—"Remember,
e are to pass down the right aisle,
y and not be awkward. You to death sometimes."

s—"Oh, professor, tell me how ter is getting along with her lessons? I am anxious that master the art, as we may go to ext Summer." Professor—"She autifully, madam. She is worry
zer. In fact, she can swim like oose."

...OF WORKS
...the evangelist. This
...illustrations from

...ON IN THE WORLD
...LIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.

S WITH MEN AND BOOKS
...LIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
...in cloth, in green and gold.
...cost for the tenth
...useful information.

COTTAGE HEARTH
...printed monthly magazine, made
...is $1.50 a year. Anyone
...to the WEEKLY
...dollar each will
...above capital magazine
...will be sent free
...Hearth Co., Boston,

EVENING M... for 3 months is
...DAILY OR EVEN-
...is equal to ... EKLIES for a year;
EVENING for one year is equal to ons for the combined "Mail and e Bargain" will count just the y subscriptions.

O extra charge for sending papers
n or the United States, and sub-
those points count as ordinary

o a prize a club must consist of at ribers, and as many more as pos-
say, the sending in of one sub-
DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY
entitle the sender to a prize, but
ption to both DAILY and WEEKLY
riptions to either one or both, will

tion to THE MAIL for two years,
n advance, will count as two sub-subscription for three years at

is sent in to the MAIL office a new
ntaining a larger list of prizes.

are all handsomely bound in
are by excellent authors, and
in any family.
we prepay all postage on the
the books.
ecimen number and illus-
list to THE MAIL, Toronto.

FALLING STARS.

Recollections of a Wonderful Night in 1833.

I have read many descriptions of what was called the falling stars or meteoric shower of 1833, says a correspondent, and recently the account of an old man who saw the shower or meteoric rain in Alabama, an account of which was copied from the Birmingham Age by the News. I do not call myself old, yet I was five years of age when the event alluded to occurred, and witnessed it, as I remember, without fear. The impress is still fresh on my mind, though I have never read a description that agrees with what I saw, except when spoken of as sublimely grand! I will try to describe it as seen by me in Beaufort district, South Carolina—150 miles up the Savannah river, and about six miles from Matthew's Bluff. At the residence of my aunt, at some hour before day (the date I do not remember), Uncle Fred came to my bed and took me in his arms to the front piazza, where he stood me on my feet to witness the rain of apparent liquid fire. I had no fear, for he was with me, and I had no appreciation of the terror it might have for those who dreaded the judgment.

It was a rain of fire, not stars. The stars, or sparks, only occurred at the end of the lines of fire. Imagine a rain of molten iron striking the earth, each drop bursting into sparks. Nothing else will compare. I could not now describe it, if experience with foundries and smiths' shops had not afforded the comparison. The fire fell in streams like the heaviest fire rain I ever witnessed, and swayed to and fro just as the water is by the motion of the clouds or wind. The only stars I saw were just as one sees when molten iron is rushing into or from the ladle, or when iron with a welding heat is withdrawn from the forge, or such as is seen when the liquid metal drops upon the earth, or such as is seen in the wake of an exploded rocket. The strangest to me was, no such sparks or stars appeared except at the end of the line of fire rain, which stopped about five feet from the earth, as far as I can judge. The piazza had three steps from the ground. I could not have been more than three feet high and the line of fire rain burst into sparks on the level with my eyes. None that I saw struck the earth, but after sparkling on this line disappeared, to be succeeded by others in quick succession. I recollect distinctly observing the scene around the yard, and the road led directly from the gate, and wondering why none of the fire or sparks reached the earth. It was not as light as day, but a lurid light greater than I have ever seen since. Objects were perfectly discernible, though not so well as by daylight. I do not recollect seeing anything above the line of my vision—such as the tops of trees and houses. The fire rain was too thick to see through. After staying as long as was deemed prudent in my night-clothes, my uncle returned me to bed. How long it was before daylight I do not know. I do know I slept until called to breakfast. I met an old gentleman some years ago who was in camp on the Texas prairies, who witnessed the meteoric shower of falling stars and whose account tallied more nearly with mine than any I have ever read or heard. He did not have my experience with molten metal, but when he heard my comparisons with the sparks as from a smith's forge, heartily endorsed me.

The Herder's Wily Enemy.

The coyote is the Oregon herder's wily enemy. He is constantly on the warpath, and takes no pains to conceal the fact. If the sheep wander away from the camp at night the coyote is apt to find it out before the herder does, and at once proceeds to feast upon the finest of the flock. If very hungry he will kill one and devour nearly the whole of it; then summon his confederates, and lead them to the slaughter for ... The sheep soon scatter in frightened droves all over the range. The coyotes will then quit, as though aware that a more vigilant watch will be kept, and will turn their attention to some neighboring herd until the previous night's raid shall be in some measure forgotten. Coyotes are constantly being killed off, either by being shot or poisoned. The latter mode is more effective, but is attended with serious danger to the shepherd dogs, which in spite of the utmost precaution often hunt up the poison and eat it.

Eloping With her Father's Groom.

Society circles in Cork are agitated over an elopement scandal which resembles the Schilling-Morosini case. A young man named Hodnett was employed last summer as a groom by Mr. Long, a wealthy landowner living a few miles from Cork. One portion of Hodnett's duty was to attend Miss Marienne Long upon her daily rides through her father's estates and the surrounding country. In this way the groom and the girl became very intimate. The young man was handsome and the young lady was impulsive. The result was an elopement, which occurred early in November, and the groom became a bridegroom in Dublin.

As soon as the disappearance of Hodnett and the young heiress became known, the police were set upon their track and Mr. Long paid liberally for the services of special detectives. The runaways were finally captured in Dublin, where Hodnett had obtained employment as managing director of a jaunting car. The young lady was sent back to her father's care, and Hodnett has just been sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The severity of this punishment is due to the new law which was passed in consequence of the exertion of Mr. Stead, the Pall Mall Gazette editor, who is himself in jail for committing the grave error of exposing vice in high places

Miss Long is only 15 years old. Under the old law, by which a female was competent to consent to seduction at 13 years of age, Hodnett would have gone free. Now the girl must be 16 years old before her consent can be pleaded in mitigation or excuse in a court of justice. There was, however, no loophole of escape for Hodnett, but his youthful bride is still true to him, and vows that she will be his wife again as soon as ever he gets out of that horrid prison.

THE WORLD OVER.

The population of Paris is said to be increasing at the rate of 29 per 1,000.

Russia has 33,400 doctors, of whom 380 are women. The dentists number but 500, and the pharmacists 2,600.

One of the curiosities of Oxford is a much admired portrait of Fuller, an eminent painter, taken by himself when drunk.

Wildcat hunting is one of the successful pastimes near Norwich, Conn., just now. One killed the other day, after a long fight with dogs, weighed sixteen pounds.

The King of Bavaria's debts are estimated at $4,500,000, and it has been arranged to appropriate $500,000 a year from the royal civil list until all his debts are paid.

The botanist, Asa Gray, whose 75th birthday was celebrated a short time ago, has sent an autograph letter of thanks to each of the 150 botanists who contributed to the memorial vase presented to him.

The Lancet announces that Prince Charles Theodore of Bavaria, who has devoted himself to the practice of medicine, is expected in Paris for the purpose of becoming initiated into M. Pasteur's recent discoveries for the treatment of hydrophobia.

Who Hoyle Was

"According to Hoyle" is a common phrase, and "Hoyle's Games" are widely known; but many card-players labor under the impression that Hoyle was a reformed gambler, who turned his attention to bookmaking as a means of keeping out of the poor-house. Edmond Hoyle was a Londoner, who died in 1769, aged 97. He was among the first who took a special interest in whist, did much to perfect the game, and after it became a craze devoted several years to teaching it at a guinea a lesson. He was paid $2,000 for his first treatise on whist, published in 1743, when he held a government office in Ireland. Towards the close of his life he revised it and included other popular games.

"Beans Regarded as Food" is the headline in an exchange. That is the way beans should be regarded. Any one who would regard beans as a beverage would be away off.

The man who lays down the law to his wife and tells her that under oath to his lodge he is forbidden to receive Christmas presents may miss getting a token of his wife's affection, but he will save money by the loss.

AN ANXIOUS MOMENT

"I say, Boss, I doan' feel like 'vestin' in tu'key wid dat dog ob you'n a'chawn' 'way at ...; so yo' 'blige me by callin' him off. Gideon's Ban! how dem teef of his'n do lasherate! ... doan' boddah yo'se'f comin' roun'; es whistle him off, Boss, right where yo' is.'

THE FARM.

Ducks.

It is both economical and sensible to raise ducks. A great deal of the coarse vegetable food used in a family, with small potatoes and a little grain, is all that will be required to keep a small flock in thrift the year through. Ducklings mature early in their lives; one would not feel the time passing before they are ready for market. At five or six months old they will, with ordinary care, dress ten or twelve pounds per pair, and give besides a nice lot of feathers, which can be sold at a fair price, or be used to increase the family stock of beds and pillows. Ducks are easily kept from the shell after they have passed the critical period like chicks and poults, are industrious foragers, and thrive rapidly. Their keen appetites, capacious craws, and strong digestive organs enable them to assimilate any kind of coarse or refuse food. They are at home in the stubble field, gleaning what the reaper left behind, will turn into a pasture and be contented on grass, and they are happy in a pond or brook or marsh, diving in the mud, searching for animal, fish, or insect food, larvæ, and vegetation. They do not require an expensive domicile for their use. Being generous feeders they grow right along when once they get a start, and their predisposition to mature early is one of the best recommendations in favor of the general cultivation of ducks for the market or table.

Growing Beef.

Satisfactory profit from beef production will usually result from one of two great causes: The production of animals of fair to good quality at less than the average cost, or producing animals of very high quality, even at comparatively large cost. The latter course is and will be followed by some breeders and feeders, usually men of intelligence, large experience, and abundant capital. The great mass of the fat cattle which will reach our markets will not be of this class. It is not wise for many farmers with their present surroundings to attempt the production of such cattle. Preparing for market beeves which have been well but cheaply reared and fattened, and which, if not thoroughly ripened or finished, give wholesome, nutritious, and palatable beef for the great mass of middle-class consumers, may give larger net profits to many farmers than would attempt with ordinary facilities and little expeience to produce beeves of the very highest quality.

For some years to come in the west a large number of grass-fed cattle may be expected to be sent to market during the summer and autumn months from the great grazing regions of the prairie country. So far as it is practicable it is wise for feeders on the farms of the older states to send their cattle to market when they will not be in competition with these grass cattle. It is doubtful whether the farmers of Illinois, for instance, can compete with the western cattle without fairly liberal grain feeding. It also seems true, however, that the once common plan of almost unlimited corn feeding for a year or more to cattle in open fields has ceased to be profitable.

Timely Suggestions.

If the cattle are shedding tears in the barnyard you are losing money.

The three greatest enemies of the horse are idleness, fat, and a dumb blacksmith.

The cow that is forced to find her only shelter on the lee side of a wire fence should not be expected to furnish milk and butter for the family and enough surplus to exchange at the store for needed groceries.

The best grass for an orchard is undoubtedly orchard grass with red clover, or red clover alone. Plenty of seed should be used. Cut when weeds make their appearance, afterward pasture with hogs or sheep.

Walnut, hickory, and other nut-bearing trees make excellent shade-trees along the roadsides and in pastures. Of fruit-trees, the best, and in fact the only one which could be recommended for a shade-tree in such locations, is the cherry.

Make a snow-plow. It will be handy. It is made of inch plank in the shape of the letter A. The sides may be ten or twelve inches high. Brace well and use one horse to draw it. Paths are thus much easier and sooner made than by shovelling, and the children must not wade to school through untrodden snow.

Most farmers feed corn to everything. Corn to the cows, corn to the calves, corn to the colts, corn to the pigs. What were oats made for? Corn is good to fatten grown-up animals and to be a part food to fatten young ones. Very little of it should be used for food for young animals, as it does not contain enough of the elements to make a perfect body.

Your Friends will Never Tell You, but perhaps somebody, who isn't your friend, will, that your presence is rendered offensive by the foul, fetid smell of your breath. Every word you utter, though it be the very echo of wisdom and poetry, disgusts your hearers, and your laugh is productive of anything but mirth to them. It is a duty you owe, not only to yourself, but to society to remove this cause of offense. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will heal the diseased mucous membrane, will bring relief to yourself and others. Do not hesitate to employ it.

"Plenty of room at the top," remarked a dealer as he opened an apple barrel and found it only half full.

"One Nail Drives Out Another," is a French saying that finds exemplification in the way one disease will substitute itself for another and graver one in very many cases. Liver disease for instance will soon induce blood disorders, throat ailments, skin affections and eventually, because on impoverished blood, consumption itself, unless, indeed, it be treated in its incipienc and early progress by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" which acts as a specific in these ailments, accomplishing a rapid cure by its powerful alterative action upon the great organs of the body.

The man who has nothing on his mind usually has room for no more than that.

Young or middle-aged men suffering from nervous debility and kindred weaknesses, should send ten cents in stamps for large treatise giving successful treatment. World's Dispensary Medical Association Buffalo, N. Y.

The most popular mid-Winter wrap for ladies bids fair to be the ulster, newmarket or over-coat of seal or seal plush, cut to resemble a man's overcoat.

An earthquake in Algeria has partly destroyed four towns, besides killing thirty-two and injuring twelve persons.

Wild coffee, which proved to be of good quality when roasted and made up, has been found growing in Butte county, Cal.

In the manufacture of tobacco from the leaf, sugar or molasses and gum of some kind are used. In the manufacture of the "Myrtle Navy" brand the sugar used is the finest white loaf, known in the trade as granulated. This is a sugar in which there is seldom any adulteration, but to guard against the possibility of it, all sugar used in the factory is submitted to a careful test of its purity. The gum used is the pure gum arabic.

There is no occasion for a man with a cold in his head to be idle. He's up to his sneeze in business.

Imperial Cough Drops will give Positive and Instant Relief to those suffering from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, etc., and are invaluable to orators and vocalists. For sale by druggists and confectioners. R. & T. WATSON, Manufacturers, Toronto.

A. P. 259.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE BEST SELLING Patented Article in Canada to-day. Send 25 cents for Sample and Agents' Terms. DELOUCHE & Co., Guelph.

PATENT RIGHT FOR SALE—LAMP GLASS cleaner and dish washer combined; patented September, 1885; send 25c. for sample and particulars. JNO. W. COONEY, Box 35, Arnprior, Ont.

BUSINESS CHANCE—FOR SALE—THE BEST equipped Butcher business in the City of Guelph; does a good trade; a splendid chance; will sell cheap; good reasons for selling. For particulars address, J. A. LAMPREY, Real Estate Agent, Guelph.

YOUR NAME, ADDRESS AND TEN CENTS, mailed Bengough's Shorthand and Business Institute, Toronto, will bring copy Cosmopolitan Shorthander, best journal in America. Price, $1 00: Send for Calendar.

A BIG OFFER To introduce them, we will GIVE AWAY 1,000 Self Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office at once. THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N. Y.

ALLEN'S EXTRA REFINED CIDER—Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs always in stock. Allen's Clarified Cider, prepared especially for Scott Act counties. Orders promptly filled; also cash paid for common cider. ALLEN'S VINEGAR WORKS, Norwich, Ont.

Neuralgia Positively Cured

In twenty minutes, without fail. Chapman's Celebrated Neuralgia Powders. Sample mailed twenty-five cents. Chapman, Chemist, London, Ont.

SCIATICA, INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM, Gout, Neuralgia and Lumbago effectually cured by a remedy invented by one who was himself cured by it after being three years on crutches with sciatica; abundant testimonials as to its beneficial effects in above-mentioned diseases; remedy expressed to any address. S. J LANCASTER, Petrolia Ont.

GUELPH BUSINESS COLLEGE, Guelph, Ont That man only is rightly educated who knows how to use himself, who possesses such practical knowledge and such manual skill as will enable him to compete successfully with his fellows in the business of life. To impart such education, to prepare such men is the design and purpose of this Institution. For terms, &c., call at the College or address, M. MacCORMICK, Principal.

A SUCCESS AGAINST ALL PREJUDICE Williams' Eye Water has proved itself a success by all who have used it according to directions, if their eyes were curable, as will be seen by the undersigned certificates. It cured me, 8 years blind, occulist failed O. Fortin; it has cured me, occulist would not try me, Alexander Wand; 6 years blind, Chas. Amiott; 4 years, Elie Dufour; 33 years blind and now I see, John Lecroix. Ask your druggists for it. Wholesale—Lyman Sons & Co., 384 St. Paul St. Montreal.

JAMES PARK & SON, Pork Packers, Toronto.

L. C. Bacon, Rolled Spice Bacon, C. C. Bacon Glasgow Beef Hams, Sugar Cured Ham, Dried Beef Breakfast Bacon, Smoked Tongues, Mess Pork, Pickled Tongues, Cheese, Family or Navy Pork, Lard in Tubs and Pails. The Best Brands of English Fine Dairy Salt in Stock.

BRITISH AMERICAN BUSINESS COLLEGE, ARCADE, YONGE ST., TORONTO. Finest rooms in America. Practical in every department. Teachers pushing and energetic, and know what they teach. Endorsed by the leading business men of Ontario; its graduates are filling positions of trust in every city, town and village of Canada. Send for new circular. C. O'DEA, Secretary.

FOR PLEASANT SEWING
—USE ONLY—
Clapperton's Spool Cotton

Warranted FULL Length, and to run smooth on any Sewing machine. See that CLAPPERTON'S name is on the label. For sale by all Dry Goods dealers.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again, I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you. Address DR. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

TO PRINTERS.

FOUR (4) FIRST-CLASS COTTRELL POWER Presses For Sale, for hand or steam power. Selling only to make way for faster presses.

S. FRANK WILSON,
"TRUTH" OFFICE,
TORONTO, ONT.

Allan Line Royal Mail Steamships.

Sailing during winter from Portland every Thursday and Halifax every Saturday to Liverpool, and in summer from Quebec every Saturday to Liverpool, calling at Londonderry to land mails and passengers for Scotland and Ireland. Also from Baltimore, via Halifax and St. John's N.F., to Liverpool fortnightly during summer months. The steamers of the Glasgow lines sail during winter to and from Halifax, Portland, Boston and Philadelphia; and during summer between Glasgow and Montreal, weekly; Glasgow and Boston, weekly; and Glasgow and Philadelphia, fortnightly.

For freight, passage, or other information apply to A. Schumacher & Co., Baltimore; S. Cunard & Co., Halifax; Shea & Co., St John's, N. F.; Wm. Thomson & Co., St. John, N. B., Allan & Co., Chicago; Love & Alden New York; H. Bourlier, Toronto; Allans, Rae & Co Quebec; Wm. Brockie, Philadelphia; H. A. Allan, Portland, Boston, Montreal

FREE LANDS AND CHEAP HOMES

FOR THE MILLION.

Along the line of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in Central Dakota and Northern Nebraska. New sections are being opened up, and rapidly settled in these wonderfully productive regions, and the "first comers" will have "first choice" of location.

For full information (which will be sent you free of charge) about the free lands and cheap homes, apply to JOHN H. MORLEY,
Western Canadian Pass. Agent, C. & N. W. R.
R. S. HAIR, 9 York St. Toronto, Ont.
General Pass. Agent, Chicago, Ills.

The 'Caligraph' WRITING MACHINE STANDS AT THE HEAD.

It combines a degree of Rapidity, Neatness of Work, and Manifolding Power which is not found in any other. It received (as may be seen at the office) the Highest Awards in 1881, '83, '84 and '85, at the Toronto Industrial and Prov. Dominion Exhibitions the Remington Type-Writer being entered each year; also highest award given "type-bar" machines at New Orleans World's Fair. Messrs. Blake & Co. use four Caligraphs. Stenographers supplied. Machines and Supplies Sold. For circulars and list of users, address,

A. J. HENDERSON, Gen. Agent,
15 Adelaide St. East, Toronto.

CONSUMPTION.

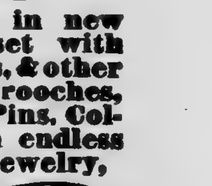
I have a positive remedy for the above disease; by its use thousands of cases of the worst kind and of long standing have been cured. Indeed, so strong is my faith in its efficacy, that I will send TWO BOTTLES FREE, together with a VALUABLE TREATISE on this disease to any sufferer. Give express and P. O. address.
DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

TRY PURE GOLD BAKING POWDER
Pure Gold MANUFACTURING CO,
13 FRONT ST EAST TORONTO.

CAUTION.

EACH PLUG OF THE
MYRTLE NAVY
IS MARKED
T. & B.
IN BRONZE LETTERS.
NONE OTHER GENUINE

OUR FREE
120-Page Catalogue
For 1886 is Now Ready,



Illustrating nearly a thousand different styles of goods suitable —FOR—
Xmas Presents,

and at lower prices than ever before offered to the public. If you want to save money send P.O. address for our CATALOGUE.

We have a variety in new and elegant designs, set with Diamonds, Rubies, Pearls, & other precious stones, in Brooches, Rings, Bracelets, Scarf Pins, Collar Buttons, etc., and an endless variety of Gold & Silver Jewelry,

OUR OWN MAKE

and Manufactured in Our Establishment.

Shall be pleased to give estimates for any description or style of Jewellery to be made to order. All our goods are fully guaranteed to be the quality of gold stamped and marked with our initials thus:

"C. S. 18 Kt."

In Silverware we have to-day the Largest and Most Complete Stock in the Dominion, all the Latest Designs and Best Quality made.

CATALOGUE FREE.

Manufacturer, Importer, Wholesale and Retail Dealer.

CHAS. STARK,
52 CHURCH ST., TORONTO

MERIDEN
BRITANNIA
COMPANY.
FINEST Electro Plate

CAUTION

Goods stamped Meriden Silver Plate Co., are not our make. If you want reliable goods insist on getting those made by the

MERIDEN BRITANNIA CO.,
HAMILTON, - ONT.

The Standard.

MARKDALE DECEMBER 24, 1885

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all our subscribers.

MARKDALE AS A MARKET.

A good, steady, reliable market is one of the most valvable conveniences an agricultural community can possess, and Markdale has, for over twelve years, filled the bill in such a manner as to secure and retain the reputation of being a first-class market in every sense of the word. One great reason why this is the case, is because the chief buyers have been resident merchants whose interests are identical with the growth and prosperity of the village, and who have been the backbone of the place all the way through to the present, viz: W. J. McFarland and Hill Bro's. These buyers have always paid the highest prices which outside markets would warrant, while at the same time, they have not practised the unjust means often resorted to in many other markets, viz., running up prices for a day or two in order to get a rush, and then drop them when they get a large quantity of produce out. This is often done by buyers who shift from place to place, seldom remaining in one place more than one season, thus wholly disinterested as to the reputation of the market in years to follow.

Then again, our village has superior advantages on account of the large steam elevators, so convenient to the market, and where produce can be unloaded with ease and dispatch, so that we need not wonder the distance farmers are driving in order to secure those advantages. Last week there were from 75 to 100 loads per day, many of them from more than half way to Collingwood, and some from a few miles from Thornbury, and all leaving well pleased with the result of their trip. The above are some of the reasons why Markdale presents so much of a city appearance, a constant hum of business.

CHURCH OPENING.

The occasion of the dedicatory services has been looked forward to with anxiety and expectancy by the Methodist people of the district, the first Sabbath of which is now a thing of the past. The roads in the country were very heavy owing to the severe storm of the previous day. The weather on Sunday was, however, all that could be desired.

The morning service was fairly attended, when Rev. John Shaw, of Toronto, ex-President of the Toronto Conference, conducted the service and performed the dedicatory services, assisted by Rev. W. Ayers, of Flesherton; Rev. T. Grandy, of Euphrasia Mission, and Rev. W. Casson, the pastor. The service was appropriate and impressive.

The afternoon service was even better attended than the morning, when Warring Kennedy, Esq., of Toronto, preached an able and practical sermon.

In the evening the church was crowded to its utmost capacity, fully 800 being present. Rev. Mr. Shaw again preached giving an able and very impressive discourse. The church was very comfortable and the very best of order prevailed throughout. Many expressions of pleasure and even astonishment were heard from strangers as to the beauty and par-excellence of the edifice both inside and out.

MUNICIPAL.

Municipal matters in Euphrasia are warming up, and promises yet to be up to the average in point of interest. Mr. Alex. Erskine is in the field for councillor, and in all probability Mr. W. J. Black will also be a candidate. It is pretty generally understood that Fawcett and Shepherdson will have a straight fight for the deputyship. The former is a hard man to beat but from what we can learn, he will have more than a match in the popular auctioneer.

GLENELG.

In our own township ther's nothing startling. Edward Rutledge will more than likely be a candidate for councillor, while the editor of the STANDARD is being pressed to accept the nomination for deputy-reeve. Geo. Lamb is also mentioned as a probable candidate for councillor.

Holland, Artemesia and Osprey are still quiet. In Proton, S. Rogers and Thos. Hanbury are the candidates for reeve.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents

To the Editor of the Standard.

Berkeley, Dec. 19th, 1885.

At a social given at No. 5 school house, Holland, on Thursday, Dec. 17th, by the teacher (Miss Stewart), a very pleasant time was spent. After the wants of the inner man was attended to by a sumptuous lunch, the chair was taken by Mr. R. Clark, trustee, and a very lengthy program was proceeded with, in which the children of the school performed their respective parts with satisfaction to the audience and credit to their teacher. At the conclusion the pupils of the section presented Miss Stewart with a handsome photo album and other articles of china and glassware accompanied by the following

ADDRESS:

DEAR TEACHER,—Another year of school work has gone round, and brought us again to our festive season. We recall, with joy, former occasions of this kind since you have been with us, but this one brings pleasures mixed with pain, knowing it will be the last spent with you in this capacity. And now, after having labored faithfully as teacher with us for four years, you are about to leave us, we wish, in a slight degree, to show our appreciation of your services; you will therefore accept those tokens that, when far away, they may remind you of our affection for you. Our well wishes for your future prosperity go with you, and may God, in whom you trust, ever bless and direct you, and grant that we may all meet again (teachers and scholars) in that better land where we shall part no more.

Signed in behalf of the pupils of No. 5 School Section,

MARTHA FREEBORN,
JEMIMA MCKENNA,
FRANK HAMILTON.

Miss Stewart replied in a few well chosen words, assuring the children of her affection and earnest good wishes for their future welfare, hoping that her successor would hold the same place in their esteem as she had done. After which the meeting dispersed, every one feeling that they had enjoyed a good time.

PARTICIPATOR,

Presentation.

On Monday evening last a number of the young people in the section where Miss Might has been teaching for the last two years, met at her home and, after a hospitable reception presented her with a handsome silver cruet-stand and the following address:

Miss Jennie Might:

DEAR FRIEND,—It is with feelings of deep regret that we have assembled here to-night to say farewell, knowing that you are so soon to leave our midst where your genial manner and untiring efforts to further the interests of all around you have endeared you to us, and when your presence will long be missed. But rest assured that wherever you may go, you will always have the best wishes of the party here assembled. We beg you to accept this gift from us as a slight expression of affection and respect for you, and we hope it will serve to remind you of your many friends in Glenelg from whom you shall always receive a hearty welcome whenever you can come amongst us.

We all join in wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Signed in behalf of assembly,

LIZZIE A. TOREY,
ALEX. SMITH.

In reply, Miss Might warmly thanked the friends present for their kindness and manifestation of respect, and expressed a desire to assist in anything tending to their welfare.

After a bountaous tea was dispensed with, she favored the company with some choice pieces of music. The company dispersed after wishing her success in her new duties.

Miss Might goes to Peterborough to attend the Collegiate Institute there She bears the respect and well wishes of her many friends.

CAUTION.

Any liniment or other medicine that cannot be taken internally is unsafe for ordinary use. Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the prompt pain reliever, is safe and reliable for all aches and pains, and swallowed as well as applied, Farmers' Institute.

The Secretary of the Farmers' Institute has received notice from Prof. Mills that the dates of the meetings arranged for this county have been changed, and they will take place as follows:—Durham, 6th and 7th January; Markdale, 8th and 9th; Owen Sound, 11th and 12th, all commencing at 1.30 p. m. The object of the Institute is to bring out local talent as much as possible, and for the Professors to keep up the interest. With that view, Prosessors Brown, Grenside and Barre are prepared to assist by lectures or brief discussions on any of the following subjects, leaving it for the Institute here to select:—

Brown—(1) Permanent pastures for Ontario. (2) Some new things in Dairying. (3) The cheapest fattening of cattle. (4) The practical management of forest trees. (5) Modern farming and special fertilizers. (6) Breeds of sheep for Ontario.

Grenside—(1) Horse-shoeing. (2) Points of horses and breeds. (3) How to buy a horse. (4) Diseases of stock—their causes and prevention.

Barre—Buter making.

A LIVER CURE.

One single trial of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will convince the most skeptical and confirm better than thousands of testimonials that it is a sure cure. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Dec

New and Renewed Subs.

W. F. Whitby, Corvallis, Oregon, June '86.
Mrs. Donnelly, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Miss Might, Peterboro, (new), July '86,
B. Coleman, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Geo. Hill, Markdale, Jan. '86.
Mrs. Might, Markdale, July '86.
Geo. G. Walker, Markdale, Jan. '87.
John Whitby, Markdale, Jan. '87.
P. McCullough, Markdale, (new), Jan. '87.
Geo. Steer, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Len Cox, Markdale, Jan. '87.
J. W. Armstrong, Flesherton, Jan. '87.
T. Gilray, Epping, Jan. '86.
W. J. Black, Epping, Jan. '87.
Boyd Thompson, Eugenia, Jan. '86.
Geo. Lamb, Glascott, Jan. '87.
John Buskin, Vandeleur, Jan. '87.
Joseph Myers, Markdale, (new) Jan. '87.
R. McBride, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Thos. Elliott, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Wm. Walker, Markdale, Jan. '87.
E. Gilbert, Kimberley Jan. '86.
John Ford, Annan, Jan. '87.
Wm. Love, Berkeley, Jan. '86.
Thos. McAfee, Rocklyn, Sept. '86.
James Quinn, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Jas. Brady, Markdale, Sept. '86.
Wm. Burnett, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Wm. Croft, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Geo. Mundle, Kimberley, Jan. '86.
Robt. Stafford, Berkeley, Jan. '86.
John Boland, Vandeleur, Jan. '87.

A LIVING QUESTION.

Question—'Is this life worth living?' Answer—'It all depends upon the liver?' If torpid or inactive it causes a dull, tough, languid feeling. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure gives health and buoyancy. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

Artemesia Grange No. 259.

At the annual meeting of this Grange, hold on Friday, Dec. 18th, the following were elected officers for the year, 1886, viz:

Bros. J. Boland, Master; T. Kells, Overseer; J. Brodie, Secretary; R. Buchanan, Treasurer; I. Graham, Lecturer; J. Hauson, Chaplain; J. Buchanan, Stewart; D. Thompson, Assistant Stewart; W. Heath, Gatekeeper. Sis. J. Boland, Ceres; J. Warling, Pomona; E. Brodie, Lady Assistant Steward. J. Buchanan and J. Graham, Auditors. J. Graham, Delegate to Division Grange.

The meetings of the Grange are held on Friday before the full moon in each month.

COM.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 80	to	$0 84
Spring Wheat	0 80	to	0 85
Barley	40	to	65
Peas	55	to	56
Oats	28	to	29
Butter	13	to	14
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	5 00	to	5 15
Flour	4 00	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

TO THE PUBLIC.

We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885. 265-6

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE

Office & Infirmary: MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE.

B. LAURANCE'S

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses

—ARE THE ONLY—

GENUINE ENGLISH ARTICLES

—IN THE—

CANADIAN MARKET.

Real Pebbles are kept in stock.

Tests are given to Purchasers to prove Genuineness.

They are recommended by and testimonials have been received from the President, Vice-President, Ex-President and Ex-Vice-President of the Medical Association of Canada; the President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Quebec; the Dean of the Medical Faculty of Laval University; the President and Ex-Presidents of the Medical Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

These recommendations ought to be sufficient to prove their qualities but if further proof is needed, call on

A. TURNER &Co., - - Chemists and Druggists,

MARKDALE, ONT,

The only place in town where they can be obtained.

☞ Spectales fitted on scientific principle. ☜

The Canadian Horticulturist,

Published monthly by the Fruit Growers' Association of Ontario, and now entering on its ninth year, is the only horticultural publication conducted with special reference to the peculiarities of our Canadian climate. It numbers among its contributors our ablest horticulturists.

The subscription is only ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, which entitles the subscriber to a copy of the Annual Report of the Fruit Growers' Association for the year 1885 containing the discussions at the three meetings held during the year carefully reported by a short hand writer, AND IN ADDITION, whichever of the following articles the subscriber may designate namely (1) three plants of the Ontario Strawberry, or (2) a yearling tree of the Russian Yellow Transparent Apple, or (3) a plant of the Lucretia Dewberry, or (4) a yearling vine of the Early Victor Grape, or (5) two plants of the Milboro Raspberry, or (6) a package containing three papers of seeds, viz: Gypsophila paniculata. Aquilegia caerulea and Delphinium, mixed colors.

A sample copy will be sent to any person on application. If you take any interest in the cultivation of any kind of fruit or of vegetables or flowers, and wish to have the experience of our best cultivators and to keep abreast of the times in these matters take the Canadian Horticulturist.

Subscriptions may be sent direct to the Editor,

D. W. BEADLE, St. Catharines. 274-77

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.

44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR

Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address, PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, 751 Broadway, New York.

We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—Ed. STANDARD.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

I HAVE just purchased a fine Berkshire Boar, 15 months old, for service at my premises. Charges, $1.00 cash.

B. COLEMAN.

273-77

ESTRAY.

CAME into my premises, on or about the 1st of October, one year old steer, red and white. Any person proving property and paying expenses, can take him away.

WM. HAMPTON.

Holland, Dec. 8, '85. 274-5

Holland Council.

Council of the township of Holland met in Holland Centre, Dec. 14, '85, at Fitzgerald's Hall. Members all present; reeve in the chair. Minutes of former meeting read and approved. Moved by deputy-reeve, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that by-law No. — respecting Shea and Jackson devia tion, be registered.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by deputy-reeve, that Robt. Bradly be refunded 89 cents for taxes overpaid.

Moved and seconded, that the following bills be paid: C. W. Rutledge; John Rutherford, McIlroam & Neelands, S. H Breese, Geo. Crowther.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that the account of trustees of police village Chatsworth, for holding court, be paid by order of the Judge.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that W. L. P. Eagan be refunded $5.28, being taxes overpaid.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that Andrew Freeborn be instructed to look after the culvert on Ewert's deviation, 70 sideroad, and report to the council at its next meeting.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr Howey, that by-law No. 9, for the appointment of returning officers, be read first, second and third times, and engrossed on the minutes.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that Widows McGregor, Matthews, Jackson and Graham be exempted from this year's taxes.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by Mr. Howey, that the collector's roll be extended to the 3rd Monday in June, 1886.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that Mrs. Sinclair be granted the sum of $5, she being indigent.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Howey, that we adjourn sine die.

CARSON PRICE,
Clerk.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.

The reason why Hagyard's Yellow Oil is so popular with the people as a household remedy for pain, is in the fact that while many liniments only relieve, Yellow Oil both relieves and cures Rheumatism and all aches, pains, soreness and lameness.

Eugenia L. O. L. No. 1118.

The members of L. O. L. No. 1118 held their regular monthly meeting in their Lodge room on Wednesday evening, 16th inst., at which a large amount of business was transacted. This lodge is in a very flourishing condition financially and otherwise. After the routine of business, the election of officers was gone through with, with the following result:

Bros. H. Williams, W. Master; A. Sadill, W. D. Master; W. J. Hoath, Chaplain; J. Linton, Rec.-Secretary; H. Williams, Fin.-Secretary; F. Bowerman, Treasurer; J. Williams, D. of Ceremonies; E. Brodie, Lecturer. Committee—Bros. John Bowerman, Joseph Bowerman, J. Cooper, R. Williams and J. Weber. Auditors—J. Brodie and E. Brodie. This Lodge meets on Wednesday on or before the full moon in each month.

COM.

Mrs. Robert Hooper, of Kinloss, county of Bruce, in a letter, says: "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints for a number of years, and am glad to say to the public as well as friends that McGregor's Speedy Cure brought me around, and I am now all right, thanks to McGregor's Speedy Cure. Hundreds of like testimonials are frequently received, and are daily proving that this is truly a wonderful remedy, curing sluggish Liver, Bilious Headache and Costiveness, where all else fails. Sold at Hill Bro's. Trial bottles given free. 4

THE BEST COUGH CURE.

The best remedy for Cough and all throat and Lung troubles, is one that loosens and dislodges the tough mucous, clears the bronchial tubes, and allays irritation. This is what Hagyards Pectoral Balsam does in every case.

SHOOTING MATCH.

THERE will be a Shooting Match and Raffle at "Queen's Hotel," Holland Centre, on Christmas Day. All are cordially invited.

JOHN FITZGERALD,
Proprietor.

BERKSHIRE BOAR,

FOR service at McBride's, near Barrhead, 3 miles. Terms 75 cents cash or $1.00 if not paid.

ROBT. McBRIDE.

PUBLIC.

KER SHOP in connection
nagement of Mr. Kay, well nd purpose turning out a excellence at prices which eaply & Expeditiously.

Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes
nish the shoddy men who

A TRIAL.
0 cents per barrel.
BROWN & CO.
265-tf

IN, V. S., rio Veterinary College.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

S KEPT & DISPENSED
. CHARGES MODERATE,
MARKDALE.

ANCE'S
Eye-Glasses
NLY—
SH ARTICLES MARKET. kept in stock.
s to prove Genuineness.

onials have been received from the d Ex-Vice-President of the Medical he College of Physicians and Sur-Faculty of Laval University; the at Council of Nova Scotia, &c., &c.

sufficient to prove their qualities

Chemists and Druggists,
E, ONT,
e they can be obtained.
entific principle.

MERICAN AGRICULTURIST.
0 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.
th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR,
nd three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy glish or German) and Premium List of Oldest and Best Agricultural urnal in the World. Address, BLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,
751 Broadway, New York.
We will club the Agriculturist with the NDARD giving the two for $2.—ED. STAND.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

HAVE just purchased a fine Berkshire Boar, 15 months old, for service at my mises. Charges, $1.00 cash.
-77 B. COLEMAN.

ESTRAY.

AME into my premises, on or about the 1st of October, one year old steer, red white. Any person proving property and ing expenses, can take him away.
WM. HAMPTON.
Holland, Dec. 3, '85.

Holland Council.

Council of the township of Holland met in Holland Centre, Dec. 14, '85, in Fitzgerald's Hall. Members all present: reeve in the chair. Minutes of former meeting read and approved.

Moved by deputy-reeve, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that by-law No. — respecting Shea and Jackson devia tion, be registered.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by deputy-reeve, that Robt. Bradly be refunded 89 cents for taxes overpaid.

Moved and seconded, that the following bills be paid: C. W. Rutledge, Wm. Rutherford, McIlroam & Neelands, S. H Breese, Geo. Crowther.

Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that the account of constables of police village Chatsworth, for holding court, be paid by order of the Judge.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by Mr. Galbraith, that W. L. P. Eagle be refunded $5.28, being taxes overpaid.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that Andrew Freeborn be instructed to look after the culvert on Ewert's deviation, 70 sideroad, and report to the council at its next meeting.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr Howey, that by-law No. 9, for the appointment of returning officers, be read first, second and third times, and engrossed on the minutes.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that Widows Mcgregor, Matthews, Jackson and Graham be exempted from this year's taxes.

Moved by Mr. Williscroft, seconded by Mr. Howey, that the collector's roll be extended to the 3rd Monday in Jan. 1886.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Williscroft, that Mrs. Sinclair be granted the sum of $5, she being an indigent.

Moved by Mr. Galbraith, seconded by Mr. Howey, that we adjourn sine die.

CARSON PRICE,
Clerk.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.
The reason why Hagyard's Yellow Oil is so popular with the people as a household remedy for pain, is in the fact that while many liniments only relieve, Yellow Oil both relieves and cures Rheumatism and all aches, pains, soreness and lameness.

Eugenia L. O. L. No. 1118.

The members of L. O. L. No. 1118 held their regular monthly meeting in their Lodge room on Wednesday evening, 16th inst., at which a large amount of business was transacted. This lodge is in a very flourishing condition financially and otherwise. After the routine of business, the election of officers was gone through with, with the following result:

Bros. H. Williams, W. Master; A. Madill, W. D. Master; W. J. Hoath, Chaplain; J. Linton, Rec.-Secretary; J. Williams, Fin.-Secretary; F. Bowerman, Treasurer; J. Williams, D. of Ceremonies; E. Brodie, Lecturer. Committee—Bros. John Bowerman, Joseph Bowerman, J. Cooper, R. Williams and J. Weber. Auditors—J. Brodie and E. Brodie. This Lodge meets on Wednesday on or before the full moon in each month.

Com.

Mrs. Robert Hooper, of Kinloss, county of Bruce, in a letter, says: "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints for a number of years, and am glad to say to the public as well as friends that McGregor's Speedy Cure brought me around, and I am now all right, thanks to McGregor's Speedy Cure. Hundreds of like testimonials are frequently received, and are daily proving that this is truly a wonderful remedy, curing Sluggish Liver, Bilious Headache and Costiveness, where all else fails. Sold at Elliott Bro's. Trial bottles given free. 4

THE BEST COUGH CURE.
The best remedy for Cough and all Throat and Lung troubles, is one that loosens and dislodges the tough mucous, clears the bronchial tubes, and allays irritation. This is what Hagyards Pectoral Balsam does in every case.

SHOOTING MATCH.

THERE will be a Shooting Match and Raffle at "Queen's Hotel," Holland Centre, on Christmas Day. All are cordially invited.

JOHN FITZGERALD,
Proprietor.

BERKSHIRE BOAR,

FOR service at McBride's, near Barrhead, 2 miles. Terms 75 cents cash or $1.00 if not so paid.
275-80 ROBT. McBRIDE.

Hurrah for Christmas!

1885.  1885.

SANTA CLAUS,

In making his annual tour, has delivered at the

"MEDICAL -:- HALL"

A very large stock of most attractive goods for the Holiday season. Below are a few of the many lines just opened out:—

Cups & Saucers, Albums, Vases,
Toilet Sets, Cigar Cases, Poets,
Writing Desks, Work Boxes, Jewel
Cases, Dolls--Wax & China,

CHILDRENS' TOYS AND PICTURE BOOKS

In great variety.

CHRISTMAS CARDS.

The celebrated H. & F. Cards awarded the Gold Medal at the London Industrial Exhibition, 1884. The finest and cheapest Cards in the market.

PRAYER BOOKS, HYMN BOOKS, BIBLES AND TESTAMENTS.

Call and examine our Stock.

A -:- MERRY -:- CHRISTMAS -:- TO -:- ALL.

A. TURNER & CO.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding 3rd class certificate or well recommended permit, for S. S. No. 19, Euphrasia, duties to commence 1st January, '86. Apply at once, stating salary, and references to

CHAS. DEVITT,
Epping P. O.
Epping, Dec. 10, '85. 275-77

FURS AND SKINS.

I WILL pay the highest price for all kinds of Furs & Skins and Wild Game that is shipped to me. Send for price-list.

GEO. W. GOEBNFLO,
273-2m Hamilton, Ont.

ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the undersigned about October last one heifer. The owner can have the same by proving property and paying expenses.

RALPH ONEY,
Epping P. O.
Lot 15, con. 4, Euphrasia, 275-77*

STRAYED.

TO the premises of the subscriber, lot 21, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the 1st November, a heifer about three years old, red and white. The owner is requested to prove property pay expenses, and take her.

JAMES E. SPARLING,
275-77* Goring P. O.

PURE BRAZILLIAN PEBBLE SPECTACLES, manufactured by Frank Lazarus, late of the firm of Lazarus & Morris, formerly of Hartford County, now of No. 28, Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London, Eng., can be had of W. A. Brown, Watchmaker, &c., Markdale.

Mr. Lazarus would beg to notify his numerous friends and patrons, that he has no connection with any other firm in the Dominion, and only his Pebbles can be procured as above. Frank Lazarus, Manufacturer Optician, 28 Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London W., England. 274-6m

Farm for Sale.

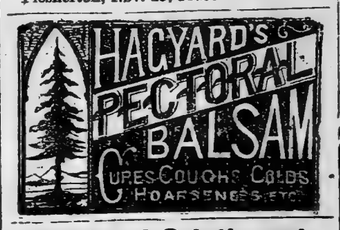
150 ACRES North ½ of lot No. 18, con. 8, Euphrasia, 100 acres cleared and under cultivation, 60 acres of which is fit for reaper and mower, fenced with cedar rails, well watered, log house and frame barn. The uncleared portion is hardwood, with sufficient cedar for fencing purposes. Soil clay loam, and almost free from stone. This is a desirable farm and will be sold on easy terms. Church and school convenient. Distance from Markdale, 9 miles; from Rocklyn, 3 miles. For further particulars apply to

JAMES BOYD,
273-tf Rocklyn P. O.

Store to Rent in Makoale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent, Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
143-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner



Flouring Mills to Rent.

THE well known "Speeton Mills," within one and a half miles of Flesherton, to rent on very reasonable terms.

Apply to the executors,

JOHN W. ARMSTRONG,
WILLIAM CLAYTON,
JOHN BOLAND,

Flesherton, Nov. 25, 1885.

Scale of Cristing at BARRHEAD -:- MILLS.

WHEAT.	WEIGHING.	OFFAL.
62 lbs.	41 flour.	18 lbs.
61 "	40 "	13 "
60 "	39 "	14 "
59 "	38 "	15 "
58 "	37 "	16 "
57 "	36 "	17 "
56 "	35 "	18 "
55 "	34 "	19 "
54 "	33 "	20 "
53 "	32 "	20 "
52 "	30 "	20 "
51 "	28 "	20 "
50 "	26 "	20 "
49 "	24 "	30 "

Remember I give you all your small wheat home with you, which is considerable.

270 W. J. ROWE.

NEW STATIONERY

—AND—

Fancy Goods

EMPORIUM.

Mrs. Williams has opened a new stock of Stationery and Fancy Goods in

DUNLOP'S OLD STAND

MARKDALE

PAPER,
ENVELOPES,
PENCILS,
SLATES,
PENS,
INK,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
POCKET BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
TOYS, &c., &c.

Head quarters for the celebrated

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.
270-77 J. HANSON.

NEW GROCERY STORE

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a

Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF
Teas, Sugars, Tobacco, &c,

Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

193 J. PLEWES.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc., of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

191 ANDREW McGILL.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

MONEY

To Loan on real estate security. Simple Interest, low rates, and easy terms.

C. W. BUTLEDGE,
275 Standard Office.

SavE MoneY

By buying your
Watches, Clocks, Jewelry, Spectaces, Pipes, &c.
—AT—
JAS. G. RUSSELL'S
FLESHERTON.
A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.
217-269

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

SAVE MONEY! CHEAP READING!!

THE STANDARD
AND THE
RURAL CANADIAN,
From now till 1st January, 1887,
FOR THE SMALL SUM OF $1.75.

By an arrangement with the publisher of the Rural Canadian, now in its ninth year of publication, we are enabled to offer both papers for $1.50. The regular price of the two is $2.

The Rural Canadian is a monthly illustrated magazine for the Farm and Home. The following are the leading Departments:—Farm and Field; Horses and Cattle; The Dairy; Sheep and Swine; Garden and Orchard; Bees and Honey; Poultry and Pets; Home Circle; The Grange Record; Rural Notes; Household Hints; Young Canada; Scientific and Useful. The music given from month to month is worth the price of several years' subscription.

The Bobcaygeon Independent styles the Rural "The agricultural authority of the Dominion."

The Cobourg World says: "One of the best papers of the kind published on the continent."

☞ SUBSCRIBE NOW
And get
BALANCE OF YEAR FREE.

NEW GROCERIES.

RESTAURANT & HOT MEALS.

The undersigned has much pleasure in informing his old friends, and the public generally, that he has opened out a general

Grocery Store,

where all kinds of Groceries can be obtained, which for price and quality cannot be undersold. A trial will convince.

In connection with the above, Hot Meals will be served at seasonable hours; and Lunch at any busines period called upon, thus giving free will to choose what you please. A call is respectfully solicited.

Canned & Green Fruit
In every variety.

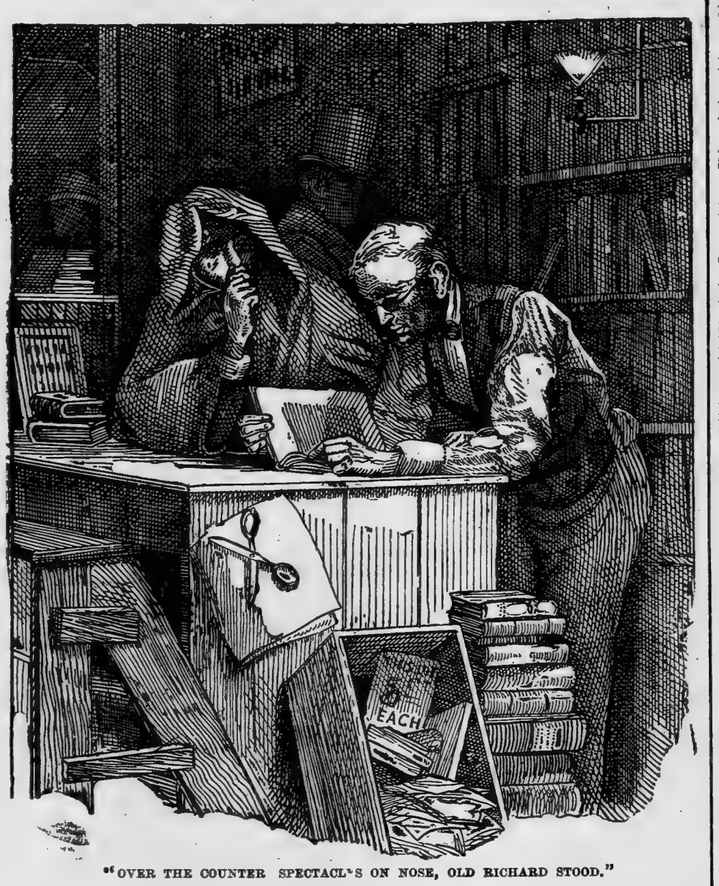
OYSTERS served, either hot or cold, either by the quart or plate, at prices which will astonish those who have dealt in those luxuries in the past.

Temperance Drinks,
Cigars, Tobaccoes, of the best brands.

PREMISES—Opposite Mansion House Hotel Sheds, Sydenham Street, Markdale.

MRS. S. MORROW.
Markdale, Dec. 10, '85. 275-77

FARM FOR SALE.



200 ACRES, being lot 1, con. 8, Euphrasia, 3 miles from Markdale, 70 acres cleared and balance good hardwood bush; soil, clay loam; well watered with running stream; well fenced and in good state of cultivation; good frame house, also frame barn and cedar log stable. Will be sold together or in two parts of 100 acres each. Terms made known on application to

THOMAS MANN,
274 77 Markdale.

THE BOOK OF GOLD.

A CHRISTMAS STORY.

By J. T. TROWBRIDGE.

"OVER THE COUNTER SPECTACLES ON NOSE, OLD RICHARD STOOD."

I.—CHRISTMAS-EVE.

One snowy Christmas-eve it came to pass,
As Richard Ray was turning down the gas
In the old book-shop, casting into gloom
The dusty rows on rows that lined the room,
And antique folios piled on shelf and floor,
Two strangers meeting, halted at his door,
And entered singly.

Short and slight the first,
In short black coat with ample cape reversed
Above his head to shield him from the snow—
A quaintly improvised capote; below,
A strange bright face, large-eyed, intense, peered out:
A man of forty years or thereabout.

Lightly the snow-flakes from its folds he shook,
And from his cloak produced a ponderous book,
"A fine old Burton! I dare swear," quoth he;
"There's not another such this side the sea.
Since I am here to turn an honest penny,
I ought to laud my wares; but what can any Reasonably fair and candid villain say
In praise of friends he's plotting to betray?
My rare old Robert Burton! there he lies!"

Scanning the shop-man with deep wondrous eyes,
Full of unspeakable great thoughts. "How much?
This leather fellow at your Midas-touch
Should turn to gold; and gold I need, Heaven knows."

Over the counter, spectacles on nose,
Old Richard stooped: "Ah, surely; so it is!
I ought to find a purchaser for this:"
And named a price that touched the stranger's pride.

"What! sell a life-long friend so cheap?" he cried.
"I'd sooner seek an air-hole in the ice
And drown myself!" he vowed—and took the price.
Then, with a smile so quaint it well might move Another's tears: "Who knows but this may prove
The nucleus of a fortune? Thanks!" he said,
Flung the black cape once more above his head,
And went his way.

In dark and silent mood,
Aside, meanwhile, the second stranger stood:
A tall fair youth, but anxious-eyed and wan;
Brows nobly arched, but all their freshness gone,
Withered and parched by fires that raged within—
The hidden fires of suffering and of sin.

Why he had entered there I scarce can tell.
He neither came to purchase nor to sell;
But, as a hunted wretch, in desperate straits,
Remorse and terror knocking at his gates,
Seeks any corner, Maurice Allanburn,
Harassed, beset, not knowing where to turn,
Had paused at Richard's door. If all were told,
Perhaps he would have clutched the old man's gold.
For Allanburn, a pious widow's son,
Affianced, loved, even to the verge had run
A secret course of ruinous excess,
Till he was ready, in his dire distress,
To fling himself on any frantic deed,
To mount unbridled violence as a steed,
And leap the abyss, or perish utterly.

"Dishonor I will never live to see:
When all has failed, then this!" he said, and pressed
A hidden vial sewed into his vest.
"The swift news of my death shall overtake
The rumor of disgrace, and kindly break
Their poor hearts first."

What hope is there? Suspected
Already by the house he serves; detected,
He fears, and tracked by spies this night; the end
Is menacingly nigh. And now the friend,
With whose forged name he has been forced to borrow
Some thousands in his absence, comes to-morrow.
Gold, only gold, much gold this very night,
Or ignominious and precipitate flight—
Naught else can save him; and he will not fly.

"There's none so wretched, so insnared, as I!"

So Maurice stood and watched, aloof in shade,
The shop man and the stranger at their trade.
"What furious need of gold to such as he?"
He mutters. "I could laugh at poverty,
And welcome toil, no matter where or what,
With but a crust by honest labor got.
Has he staked all upon some reckless game—
The hopes of youth, an honorable name?
Is life itself, and more than life, at stake—
A mother's love, a girl's heart to break?
If not, let him be happy."

With the air
Of one who had a common errand there,
Maurice drew near, and cast an absent look
Over the pages of a little book
Which lay upon the counter, till by chance
A single sentence riveted his glance.

Turn back, turn back; it is not yet too late:
Turn back, Oh youth! nor seek to expiate
e ds by worse, and save the hand from shame
By plunging all thy soul into the flame.

He started, read again, and still again,
With a strange fascination. But just then—

"An admirable book," the old man said;
"Right Thinking and Right Living: 'twill be read,
And, I predict, be famous, centuries hence.
The author is a man of wit and sense—
Charles Masters. Out of print, I think, just now.
Only a shilling. Thank you," with a bow,
"A merry Christmas to you, and good-night;"
And Richard Ray once more turned down the light.

And with a quick glance up and down, to learn
If he is spied and followed, Allanburn
Goes forth again into the the whirling storm.

The crowd sweeps by: the shop-girl's flitting form;
The brisk mechanic coming from his work;
The prosperous merchant, and the honest clerk;
The happy poor man, with his pack of toys,
The Santa Claus of his own girls and boys;
The fatherless apprentice lad, who stops
To feast his eyes before the glittering shops—
No Christmas gifts for him, but he can fill
His dreams with presents, and be happy still
The sleighing parties, in their fairy shells,
The muffled drivers and the jingling bells;
The cherry newsboy, shouting through the storm
(Blowing his finger-tips to keep them warm)
The last great forgery, the awful crime.
"Whose turn," thinks Maurice, "will it be next time?"
And hears in fancy, "Shocking suicide!"—
His own dread fate by all the newsboys cried.

In groups, or friendly couples, or alone,
Each with a hope and purpose of his own,
He sees them pass; and thinks what pleasant things
The season to the humblest fireside brings,
Happy alike who give and who receive;
And all his memories of Christmas eve—
The expectant stockings by the chimney hung;
The sweet conspiracies of old and young;
The Christmas-tree, with its surprising fruits—
Toys, candies, picture-books, the boy's first boots;
The days of innocence and hope and joy;
The fond proud mother, and the proud fond boy:
And many a fault and many a broken vow
Rush over him; and he beholds even now
In their suburban home that mother wait,
And listen for his footstep at the gate,
While with light hand some graceful task she plies,
Preparing still for some sweet surprise.
And Maurice stifled in his throat the cry,
"There's none so wretched and so base as I."

Her image haunts him, waiting there in vain,
And conscience urges with its stinging pain;
And Maurice, entering at a well-known door,
As on like errands, many a time before,
Snatches his pen and sets himself to write:

"Mother do not expect me home to-night;
Important business."

Flashing through the wire,
The words will find the widow by her fire;
And she will sigh, "His work is never done.
Ah, Laura, what a husband you have won!

So faithful, so industrious, so sedate!
No wonder he is pale and worn of late,
with so much business on his hand"—the while
He hastens to the bar-room to beguile
His misery for a moment, and impart
Fresh resolution to his faltering heart.

He meets a friend; puts on an easy air
Of gaiety, and sees through his despair
A sudden gleam. "Ah, Murdock, you're my man!
Lend me a trifle—any thing you can;
For Christmas gifts have ruined me, and I
Have still to purchase"—forging lie on lie.

The loan obtained, they chat and clink their glasses;
And Maurice notes a short slight man who passes,
Advancing to the bar with eager pace,
In short black mantle, and strange bright face.

The wondrous eyes and the great soul within Glow with deep fervor as he calls for gin.
He lifts with nervous hand the glass and drinks,
And pays with Richard's coin. And Maurice thinks:
"Was this his fearful need, his mad desire,
To quench a fiery thurst with fiercer fire?
No hope for him! but I may yet restore
All I have periled, by one venture more."

Straight to a gaming palace he repairs;
Climbs with quick step the too familiar stairs;
The hot hope mounting to his head like fumes
Of maddening wine, he walks the gilded rooms,
The scene of half his losses. Seated there,
To Heaven, or Chance, or Fate, he breathes a prayer,
To look with favoring eyes upon his sin,
The last, he vows, if he may only win.
Not for his own, but for his mother's sake,
For Laura's, he implores; and his last stake
On the green cloth with trembling hand lets fall,
Wins, loses, wins again, and loses all.

And all is over. Mother's eyes no more
Shall meet him with glad welcome at the door.
No more for him the rose of love shall bloom,
And trance the senses with its charmed perfume;
Beauty delight, or social pleasure blow
The heart's dull embers to a heavenly glow.
The world its myriad industries shall ply,
And all its vast concerns full-sailed sweep by;
And Friendship shall endure, and Hope shall trim
Her deathless lamp, but never more for him.

So Allanburn upon that Christmas-eve,
His ruined youth despairing to retrieve,
Locked in his melancholy lodging sits
And meditates, or walks the room by fits,
And writes his everlasting sad farewells
To those he loves, until the Christmas bells
Peal joyously upon the stormy air—
Peal sweet and clear, and through the tumult bear
The golden tidings of the reign of Peace.
"For love is born: let wrong and sorrow cease!
Sorrow no more! hope evermore!" they ring;
"Hope evermore! love evermore!" they sing.
To all the world; and all the world is blest:
To all the world but one, for whom no rest,
No respite from despair and anguish, save
A shameful death and a dishonored grave.

And after death? He will not pause to think:
Resolved to leap, why falter on the brink?
Folded his letters, with a strangely steady,
Cold hand he seals them, and now all is ready.
He reaches for the vial at his breast,
And finds instead, forgotten in his vest,
The little book placed there some hours ago.
The leaves fall open in his hand, and, lo!
Before him, like a flaming sword that turns
All ways, once more the fiery sentence burns.

Turn back, turn back; it is not yet too late:
Turn back, O youth! nor seek to expiate
Bad deeds by worse, and save the hand from shame.
By plunging all thy soul into the flame!

He started to his feet, dashed down the book,
And too and fro across the chamber took
Quick frenzied strides; then hurriedly prepared
The deadly draught, and in the mirror glared
At his own spectre, ghastly pale and grim,
With glass uplifted, coldly mocking him.

"'Tis but a shadow, and what more am I Come, Nothingness! and, World and Life, good-bye!"
He raised the glass—the shadow did the same;
He closed his eyes, and suddenly, like flame,
Leaped forth the warning to his inner sight,
In living letters read by their own light:

Turn back, turn back; it is not yet too late.
Be it Charles Masters, Providence, or Fate,
Something has stayed his hand. From off the floor
He takes the little book and reads once more.

When all is lost, one refuge yet remains,
One sacred solace, after all our pains;
Go lay thy head and weep thy tears, O youth!
Upon the dear maternal breast of Truth.

Still as he reads, the Christmas bells he hears,
And in their frozen sources start his tears.

Dismiss the evil counsel of Deceit,
Fling off the mask, and downward to thy feet
Let the false vesture of concealment fall,
And, owning all thy wrong, atone for all.

At every word he feels the searching steel
That probes the quivering heart, but probes to heal.

Every false path, though fair and long it seem,
Leads to some pit; and happy thou may'st deem Thy wayward youth, whose lesson comes not late—
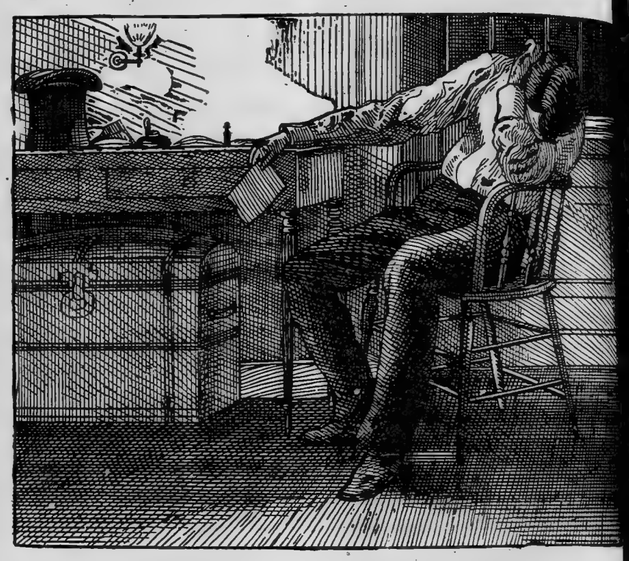
O fortunate, when most unfortunate!

So Allanburn, with soul absorbed, intent,
Read on; and each prophetic word seems meant
For his own heart; such broad bright wisdom shines,
Such swift conviction lightens in the lines.
And all the while the holy bells are ringing,
The spirits of the Christmas bells are singing,
Filling the stormy world with hymns of peace.
"For Love is born: let wrong and sorrow cease!



Sorrow no more! hope evermore!" they ring;
"Hope evermore! love evermore!" they sing.
And all the rock of self is cleft and shaken;
And deep within, sweet blessed springs awaken
Of comfort and new courage, not to die
This coward's death, and like a traitor fly
The demons he has conjured, but to live,
Strong in the strength which only truth can give.

Tired Nature lets her starry eyelids [illegible]
A wintry quiet falls on all the town,
A tingling frost is in the silent air,
His own breath whitens on his head of hair.
As Allanburn, with homeward-hasting [illegible]
Awakes the echoes of the icy street.

The shops, on Christmas-eve ablaze with light,
Are closed and dark on this cold Christmas night.
But in the homes about him Maurice knows
What pleasure sparkles and what comfort glows:
The dance, the song and story, told or sung,
Smiles from the elders, laughter from the young;
Enraptured childhood with its picture page;
The homely games, uniting youth and age;
Scenes which the curtained windows may conceal:
And all the joys which friends and kindred feel
In that glad time—with sympathizing heart
He seems to see and hear and take a part
In all; and now his eager fancy runs
Before to his own home and little ones.

There waits the partner of his home and life,
Their mother and (ecstatic thought!) his wife,
The ever-faithful Laura. Fondly there
His own good mother from her easy-chair
Watches the baby Maurice on the floor,
Upbuilding still, to see it fall once more,
His toppling house of blocks; or turns to smile
On little Laura by her side the while,
Bending in the warm light her glowing head,
Hushing her doll and putting it to bed.

The last house falls in ruins; in the bar
Are packed at last the bright new Christmas blocks;
The doll's asleep, the cradle put away;
And so the happy children end their play
And in imagination now he sees

"'HOPE EVERMORE! LOVE EVERMORE!' THEY SING."

II.—CHRISTMAS NIGHT.

And Maurice lived. And as a traveler—lost
By night upon some trackless prairie, crossed
By wind-driven, leaping flames, while ever nigher
Sweeps the red-maned wild hurricane of fire
With hoof of thunder and devouring breath,
And all the air is lit with lurid death—
Kindles before his feet the crisp dry grass,
And burns the path where he will safely pass;
And the flames die behind him, and the morn
Beholds him far on blackened plains forlorn;
But life is left, and hope; so Allanburn,
By frank avowal of his guilt and stern
Self-condemnation, quelled the rage of men,
Forestalled his foes, and won his friends again,
As 'twere before he lost them.

Desolate
And long the labor seemed, to re-instate
Fallen fortune and lost honor to restore;
But will and heart were strong, and ever-more
He kept the little volume by his side—
His savior once, and now his secret guide
And solace in the long ennobling strife,
Incarnating its wisdom in his life.

To lose with high endeavor is to win;
And they but fail who build success on sin,
Whose gilded walls of happiness shall stand
As baseless palaces on sea-washed sand.

Each day's experience taught him to construe
Its old dry truths with meanings fresh and new.

Be then thy conscience as the eternal rock,
Wave-buffeted, unmoved by every shock
Of roaring condemnation, hate, and wrong:
Set thou thereon thy pharos high and strong

Thus as he played his arduous daily part,
He learned its lofty precepts all by heart.

Let two allied and equal laws control
Thy being—law for body and law for soul;
As the steam-chariot, with obedient wheel,
Flies safely on its parallels, of steel.

Nor prudent virtues only; riding thance,
It taught him faith and wise beneficence.

Religion is no leaf of faded green,
Or flower of vanished fragrance, pressed between
The pages of a Bible; but from seeds
Of love it springeth, watered by good deeds.

So passed the whirling years, some nine or ten;
And now the Christmas-time brings round again
Its innocent revels, and draws near its close,
When homeward through the city Maurice goes.

Two cherubs in white night-gowns on their knees,
Mingling their curls before the mother's chair,
Lisping with dewy lips their evening prayer.
How sweet the picture! Suddenly the pair
Rises to dash it; and he starts aghast,
Seeing his own pale spectral image stand
Within a mocking mirror, glass in hand.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

She Was Fond of a Certain Him Hero.

"It is a beautiful song," he said, as the flute-like tones of her voice and the tum-tum of the piano accompaniment died away in the frescoes of the ceiling, "but I am not partial to secular music. I love the grand old hymns best."

"Indeed!" she said, as she ran her fairy fingers up and down the seven octaves.

"Yes," he exclaimed enthusiastically, "the grand old hymns for me."

"Well," she murmured, as a rosy blush stole over her damask cheeks and long, silken lashes shaded the bright and beautiful eyes, and a sigh soft as the perfumed zephyr that rustles the leaves in the umbrageous grove at eve when the diamond dewdrop trembles on the petals of the modest rose slightly stirred her bosom, "Well, I do not know that I can blame you, for I am fond of a certain him myself."

Then a season of osculation ensued, over which we regretfully drop the curtain.

A magician who can eat fire is easily satisfied. He is a light eater, you know.

Is the vegetarian sufferer from corns a toe-martyr?

Philippopolis presents a peculiarly propitious appearance for a place of "p's."

A ghost without a head is reported at Lancaster. Some brave man ought to put a head on it.

Next Easter Sunday falls on the 25th of April, a fact which has not occurred since 1734, and will not occur again before 1886.

You always feel surprised when you see a shooting star, do you not? That is because you did not know the sky was loaded.

Tigers will lie for hours in a single spot without attracting attention. And so will a large percentage of the reportorial staff of the average newspaper.

The other day, in New York city, Henry Ward Beecher was robbed of a valuable watch. While walking along, thinking of eternity, some one robbed him of his time.

An Omaha man offers $10 for every Indian killed in that city. Some may think that is a low price, but a little figuring will show that it averages about 7 cents a pound.

We presume the reason a young man looks upon his best girl's father, who has kicked him out of doors, as a pirate, is that the old man by the action acknowledges himself a freebooter.

W. J. ROWE

N EGYPTIAN RO

ry of Love and Wild Adventure, founded tions in the Career of Arabi

Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER XVI.

LL BE HER MISTRESS, AND THAT WILL CONTENT ME."

the feeling that he had drawn the and thrown away the scabbard, Arabi left the palace. As he passed out e open air and the sunshine he met Pasha, still looking calm, smiling scrutable.

was the man whom he desired most and he immediately drew him aside. ttle measures have failed," said he, e must have resource to strong."

ead as much from your face, also that ve committed us to the strong."

s, it is too true. The Khedive is nd stubborn, and so we must be de-d."

forsaw such a result and have al-provided for it. Tewfik has favored ranger rather than his own people. ell, as he has sown the storm, so let p the whirlwind. Egypt will rise night and cast off the viper that she rtured in her bosom, the Alban an who would take the bread of her n and cast it unto dogs. I hail thee, Arabi, as our future Khedive."

ll me only as the running safe who the approach of Prince Halim, our ate ruler according to the law of the and the Koran."

Prince Halim is a shadow and no ow if he still lives."

e be the chosen of Allah, Allah will im to us at the proper hour; mean-r a year, a month, a week and a ll keep the silver throne empty and yself with the ivory footstool."

ay be a wise plan, for the unselfish rs wins respect, love and rever-t meanwhile would to Allah that the Sultan would sanction our up-nd why should he not, for the Khe-e of late sent but little tribute Stamboul?"

instant a little Nubian page, at-picturesque and scanty costume satin and silver lace that left his d glossy black limbs almost entire-approached the two conspirators, his woolly head so that his great ar and nose rings might jingle and vidence of his proximity.

gaudy butterfly look did that with-noise, and Arabi Pasha turning garded him eagerly and keenly. apely boy's lips expanded in a grin aled rows of teeth as white as boil-han with a salaam he advanced and closed fist in the war minister's he withdrew it, however, it had thing behind, and Arabi Pasha, hastily at something, discovered it pal ring.

s at once blazed as brightly, aye, ridly too, as the red fire that seem-am forth from the very heart of the making a rapid sign to the boy to m at a little distance he returned e Pasha and said in an excited it me here, and perchance I will return with that which we most re-The clouds of doubt and apprehen-n to be rolling away, leaving a clear d them. No more at present, for e that chafes at delay or tardy obethese words he darted once more lbi's side, and a minute later was the Nubian page through an oran-t almost deserved the name of a much space did it cover, and so ere the trees planted.

y had got to the other end of it, the page came to a full stop, seiz-r minister by the arm, and first sign that he dared go no further, ted towards a tree that was much an any of the rest, and intimated mimic actions (for the poor little d had his tongue cut out in his fancy) that a second guide would behind it.

war minister gave him a handful ilver and passed on, to discover d guide to be Elmar, the buffoon, ded with the usual feminine dis-

d the loose capacious raiment, ered him from the crown of the e nails of the foot, and caused him ke a perambulatory cotton bale, word, and side by side with the al female jester and story teller, intimating the waddle that char-iddle-aged Egyptian women, who walk on the flat of their feet, and legs wide apart, presently enter-m of the Khedive.

reader has accompanied him thith- and Frank Donelly likewise, need to give a second description te. Suffice it, therefore, to say unch-guarded curtain was at last en the war minister found him-presence of the Princess Zeeneh. ith the Princess Zeeneh, for El-uf-nou, had not entered the cham-im, and each moment the patter ding feet sounded farther away. ouse reclined on a pile of crimson ions and was attired in a black ely fitted, sleeveless and very odice, embroidered with silver, full pink satin Turkish trousers d all over with little silver cres-fastening tightly around the ded her little naked, ivory white which was thrust half way into ther, bead-embroidered slipper ther entirely uncovered. The hair was cut straight across her r the manner of our European , and plaited behind in an in-tail, falls, which seemed to en-f her superb form and limbs ng snakes, and which were stud-rings of tiny gold coins. also looked up at the war minis-as follows:

time that we met and conversed my final bargain?' and n.me of All such an assur a true Mohar performed my

Arabi Pasha It was as he s Sultan's sanc movement of and the head, was of greater thousand men ment he excla

"Your hig nation—you a you have kep mine. Aye, by the blessed Life, and by t brothers, Hass for this great will grant wha lovely princess

"Thou must solemn an oa will consume t ty. Thou lov deny it not, fo cusation in you lie like the to natured and yo

Arabi Pasha faction at this terrible fear h the princess oath to grant h part him from

But the beat lighting up of secret exultati Satanic smile a

"Yes, I will royal rank will others, and she be a slave of t lisque and no m her mistress, a

Had a spear the tenderest p countenance co sharper expre

He read the with respect to in an in tant, and that will were simple, an press? He kne to Nellie Trezan ual persecution, ty, madness. been murdered

"You hesitat tically. "Do he or does it happe likes not the da Why, what m things when I a position to seize of your bow and inghee women a make you all po

And lifting up she drew from and held it, tow cold and icy sm

But he hesita indeed like a ma stone.

The princess "What, do y have been a su demanded. "I alba's side, and a minute later was the Nubian page through an oran-

"A native bef how young, inn me the letter an ness desires. again."

The princess n Arabi the letter lows:

His majesty th to express his p you, my son, an tenance of the i a duty which to Moslems, it is tian to strive ear tion of his power vent Egypt fro into the rapacio the vilayet of and his majesty your excellency and to put forth great a catastro you are to remem you and to none

Done by his m der his majesty

A d

"It is sufficie exclaimed the w document first to ere he placed it in

"And I am a thee and on her,"

"Thou knowest my life and heart, Go, my portion of yours has still to dare not fail me. pleased with trifle again that I shall will content me,

CHA

WHAT MAY OCCUR

If there is any b brawny tigress as her stricken and p was there both g lithe, quivering li ocess, as she gave with which we con

N EGYPTIAN ROMANCE.

...y of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelations in the Career of Arabi Pasha.

...e Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPOT," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC.

CHAPTER XVI.

...IC BE HER MISTRESS, AND THAT WILL CONTENT ME."

...the feeling that he had drawn the ...d had thrown away the scabbard, Arabi ...left the palace. As he passed out ...the open air and the sunshine he met ...Pasha, still looking calm, smiling ...ntable.

...was the man whom he desired most ... and he immediately drew him aside. ...ake measures have failed," said he, ...we must have resource to strong." ...read as much from your face, also that ...have committed us to the strong."

...Alas, it is too true. The Khedive is ...ard-born, and so we must be de-...ed.

...dreaded such a result and have al-...provided for it. Tewfik has favored ...stranger rather than his own people. ...well, as he has sown the storm, so let ...reap the whirlwind. Egypt will rise ...night and cast off the viper that she ...nurtured in her bosom, the Albanian ... who would take the bread of her ...and cast it unto dogs. I hail thee, ...Arabi, as our future Khedive."

...Bill me only as the running safe who ...the approach of Prince Halim, our ...ate ruler according to the law of the ...and the Koran."

...Prince Halim is a shadow and no ...ower if he still lives."

...to be the chosen of Allah, Allah will ...him to act at the proper hour; mean-...for a year, a month, a week and a ...will keep the silver throne empty and ...myself with the ivory footstool."

...may be a wise plan, for the unselfish ...always wins respect, love and rever-...but meanwhile would to Allah that ...the Sultan would sanction our up-..., and why should he not, for the Kha-...as of late sent but little tribute ...to Stamboul?"

...this instant a little Nubian page, at-...in a picturesque and scanty costume ...satin and silver lace that left his ...and glossy black limbs almost entire-..., approached the two conspirators, ...his woolly head so that his great ...ear and nose rings might jingle and ...evidence of his proximity.

...his gaudy butterfly look did that with-...noise, and Arabi Pasha turning ...regarded him eagerly and keenly.

...display boy's lips expanded in a grin ...ealed rows of teeth as white as boil-..., then with a salaam he advanced and ...closed fist in the war minister's ...

...he withdrew it, however, it had ...something behind it, and Arabi Pasha, ...hastily at something, discovered it ...opal ring.

...eyes at once blazed as brightly, aye, ...vidly too, as the red fire that seem-...gram forth from the very heart of the ...and making a rapid sign to the boy to ...on at a little distance he returned ...Pasha and said in an excited ...

...wait me here, and perchance I will ...return with that which we most re-... The clouds of doubt and apprehen-...ion to be rolling away, leaving a clear ...mind them. No more at present, for ...one that chafes at delay or tardy obe-...

...these words he darted once more ...Pasha's side, and a minute later was ...by the Nubian page through an oran-...that almost deserved the name of a ...so much space did it cover, and so ...were the trees planted.

...they had got to the other end of it, ...the page came to a full stop, seiz-...war minister by the arm, and first ...a sign that he should go no further, ...pointed towards a tree that was much ...than any of the rest, and intimated ...pantomimic actions (for the poor little ...had had his tongue cut out in his ...infancy) that a second guide would ...behind it.

...war minister gave him a handful ...silver and passed on, to discover ...guide to be Elmar, the buffoon, ...ded with the usual feminine dis-...

...the loose capacious raiment, ...vered him from the crown of the ...heels of the foot, and caused him ...like a perambulatory cotton bale, ...ard, and side by side with the ... female jester and story teller, ...by intimating the waddle that char-...middle-aged Egyptian women, who ...walk on the flat of their feet, and ...leg wide apart, presently enter-...harem of the Khedive.

...reader has accompanied him thith-..., and Frank Donelly likewise, ...no need to give a second description ...unts. Suffice it, therefore, to say ...eunuch-guarded curtain was at last ...when the war minister found him-...the presence of the Princess Zeeneh. ...with the Princess Zeeneh, for El-...buffoon, had not entered the cham-...him, and each moment the patter ...pressing feet sounded farther away. ...princess reclined on a pile of crimson ...cushions and was attired in a black ...closely fitted, sleeveless and very ...bodice, embroidered with silver, ...full pink satin Turkish trousers ...ed all over with little silver cres-...and fastening tightly around the ...revealed her little naked, ivory white ...of which was thrust half way into ...leather, bead-embroidered slipper ...other entirely uncovered. The ...black hair was cut straight across her ...after the manner of our European ...dange, and plaited behind in an in-...small tails, which seemed to en-...round her superb form and limbs ...dashing snakes, and which were stud-...strings of tiny gold coins.

...ly she looked up at the war minis-...spoke as follows:

...last time that we met and convers-ed my final words to you were, 'Is it a bargain?' and yours to me were, 'In the name of Allah and of the prophet, yes.' such an assurance is never lightly given by a true Mohammedan, and I have already performed my part of the contract."

Arabi Pasha's eyes flashed with triumph. It was as he suspected. She had won the Sultan's sanction for the great national movement of which he was the mainspring and the head, and he felt that that sanction was of greater value than an army of fifty thousand men. Carried away by his excitement he exclaimed:

"Your highness you have saved the nation—you are the preserver of Egypt. As you have kept your word, so will I keep mine. Aye, by Allah and his only prophet, by the blessed Koran, which is the Book of Life, and by the sacred heads of the martyr brothers, Hassan and Hooseyn, I swear that for this great thing which thou hast done I will grant whatever thou desirest. Speak, lovely princess, and thy servant will obey."

"Thou must obey after the taking of so solemn an oath or the flames of El Sirat will consume thy perjured soul to all eternity. Thou lovest a Feringhee girl. Nay, deny it not, for I read the truth of my accusation in your eyes, and the eyes cannot lie like the tongue. Well, I will be good-natured and you shall possess her."

Arabi Pasha could not conceal his satisfaction at this answer, for a sudden and a terrible fear had crept into his heart that the prineess would take advantage of his oath to grant her whatever she desired to part him from Nellie Trezarr forever.

But the beautiful Oriental watched the lighting up of his whole countenance with secret exultation and indulged in a truly Satanic smile as she made reply:

"Yes, I will be thy wife, Arabi, and my royal rank will make me supreme over all others, and she, this Feringhee girl, shall be a slave of thy harem, a beautiful odalisque and no more, and as such I shall be her mistress, and that will content me."

Had a spear been thrust suddenly into the tenderest part of his body Arabi Pasha's countenance could not have exhibited a sharper expression of pain.

He read the princess's fiendish intentions with respect to her younger and fairer rival in an instant. "I shall be her mistress and that will content me." The words were simple, and yet what did they not express? He knew that they would signify to Nellie Trezarr atrocious tyranny, perpetual persecution, in the end, in all psobability, madness. Far better for her had she been murdered by the Bedouins.

"You hesitate," said the princess, sarcastically. "Do her parents refuse her to you, or does it happen that she loves another, or likes not the darkness of your complexion? Why, what matters any of all of these things when I am about to place you in a position to seize upon, as the lawful captives of your bow and spear, as many of the Feringhee women as you like? This letter will make you all powerful in the land of Egypt.

And lifting up one of her superb wraps she drew from underneath it a folded letter and held it towards the war minister with a cold and icy smile.

But he hesitated to take it. He looked indeed like a man who had been turned into stone.

The princess' eyes flashed.

"What, do you not then care for what I have been at such trouble to obtain?" she demanded. "If the document is of so little value you will not regret should the flame of my chibouk consume it," and as she uttered the words she puffed the perfumed blazes into a red flame and applied the corner of the all important document thereto.

At the prospect of its destruction, however, a cold perspiration broke out on the war minister's contracted brow, and he exclaimed breathlessly:

"A native before an individual, no matter how young, innocent or fair she be. Give me the letter and all shall be as your highness desires. I swear it unto you yet again."

The princess made no answer, but handed Arabi the letter open and he read as follows:

His majesty the Sultan has ordered me to express his pleasure and his pardon to you, my son, and to say that as the maintenance of the integrity of the Caliphate is a duty which touches the honor of all true Moslems, it is incumbent on every Egyptian to strive earnestly after the consolidation of his power therein, in order to prevent Egypt from passing out of his hands into the rapacious grasp of foreigners, as the vilayet of Tunis has already passed, and his majesty reposes all confidence in your excellency to exert all your influence and to put forth every effort to prevent so great a catastrophe from happening. and you are to remember that, he looks only to you and to none other.

Done by his majesty's humble servant under his majesty's eye and authority.

AHMED PASHA RALIB,
A de-de Camp and Secretary.

"It is sufficient, and Egypt is saved!" exclaimed the war minister, pressing the document first to his lips and then his brow ere he placed it in his pocket.

"And I am avenged on my brother, on thee and on her," responded the princess. "Thou knowest much, oh, Arabi, lord of my life and heart, but thou knowest not all. Go, my portion of our compact is performed yours has still to be accomplished, and you dare not fail me. 'Tis said that women are pleased with trifles. It may be so, for I say again that I shall be her mistress, and that will content me,"

CHAPTER XVII.

WHAT MAY OCCUR BEHIND A HAREM CURTAIN

If there is any beauty in the grace of the brawny tigress as she crouches purring over her stricken and prostrate foe, so assuredly was there both grace and beauty in the lithe, quivering limb of the Egyptian princess, as she gave utterance to the words with which we concluded our last chapter.

She never altered her elegant pose upon the soft, yielding cushions, nor suffered a frown or a sneer to distarb the cold, unimpassioned lovalinass of her face, so that the flash of her large, dark lustrous eyes and corresponding thrill that passed through her entire form, causing a momentary twitching of her little plump pink toes, alone shewed how every nerve and fibre in her frame participated in the triumph that she had obtained.

Many writers have described their emotional heroines as all soul, but we can only describe this beautiful yet terrible woman as all malignity or all hate.

Arabi Pasha would fain have made some answer to her last speech, so simple in sound yet so cruel in significance, but the Princess Zeeneh, perceiving his intention, clapped her little hands till the large and shapely arms quivered from shoulder to elbows, and in an instant the curtain was raised and there stood Elmar the buffoon as an effectual check to all further converse of a confidential nature and in token also that the interview was over and that she was waiting to conduct him whom she had brought hither once more beyond the man-forbidden precincts of our harem.

The princess pointed towards the curtain but spoke no word, and the disguised war minister had no option but to bow and retire.

Elmar the buffoon now hurried him along as though she had some cause for anxiety, but Arabi could not guess wherein it lay unless it had something to do with the more than usual racket and riot created by the wives and slaves of the Khedive, who, as a rule, possessing not the slightest mental culture, are addicted to all kinds of romp- and noisy games and sports.

But the buffoon's real reason for haste was now made apparent enough, for as they reached a vast and tesselated-floored apartment that had a door at either end, one of these doors opened and there came hopping through it a crowd of young girls who had evidently just emerged from the bath, for some of them were more than partially clad, and some were almost or even entirely nude, whilst their long unbound hair, which in many cases reached almost to their heels, dripped moisture on the floor as they came along, laughing, singing, romping, and sometimes caressing each other as though they had not a care in the world.

Suddenly, however, there was a sound of a blow on naked flesh, followed by a little panting and half stifled cry, and Arabi Pasha, glancing in the direction thereof, beheld one of the females belaboring another with a something which she held in her hand.

A second look sufficed to show that the belaborer was a little skinny woman, past the prime of life, and the belabored a glorious young creature not more than half way through her teens, with the most exquisitely rounded limbs and flesh of the most dazzling purity and whiteness.

The elder woman had dragged from off her victim the solitary garment that had concealed her nakedness, and having taken three turns of her magnificent golden hair around her own coarse, long arms, had commenced to strike her as hard as he could with the sole of a yellow satin shoe, which she grasped firmly in her right hand, at the same time exclaiming in tones of excessive passion:

"You wretched Zobeide, you splashed me purposely in the bath. You did it once, you did it twice, you did it thrice, you great sleek, saucy, white-fleshed Zobeide, and now that I have got thee, by the prophet I will take it out of thee for not having that respect that is due to the Valide Khanoum, the chief wife of the Khedive-el-Muse, the great sovereign of Egypt."

And then the hag-like woman laughed like a hyena and took a yet firmer grasp of her yellow satin slipper and of the glorious golden tresses, and down on the glossy shoulders fell blow after blow, each followed by a twist, a writhe, a moan or a cry, whilst the other girls and women stood still and laughed, and even clapped their hands at the sight, for not only was it politic to applaud all that the Valide Khanoum or head wife did, but the beautiful Circassian slave Zobeide was the youngest of them all, the last arrival amongst and the present supreme favorite of their lord and master the Khedive, who, it was believed, had imported her from Stamboul at a cost equivalent to five thousand dollars, which is a high price as times go even for the most lovely specimens of the peerless race, and on this account most of the other girls were jealous of, whilst some hated her.

Oh, how the blows of the lithe, pliant leather must have stung that porcelain clear and ivory soft skin; but the delicate pink splotches that rose to its stainless snows won no mercy from the strong heart of the Valide Khanoum, whose anger was as yet far from satiated.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

His Wonderful Escape.

Capt. Sterling of the schooner Mercury, which arrived at Chicago the other night from Ludington, tells an exciting story of the marvellous escape of a seaman who was washed overboard in mid-lake during the recent fearful storm. About midnight a tremendous sea struck the vessel, which was laboring heavily, and carried John Anderson over the side. It was impossible to round to, and his companions gave him up for lost. Capt. Sterling, who was at the wheel, was thunderstruck a few minutes later to see the man holding on to the port quarter fender and endeavoring to climb over the side. Capt. Sterling sang out to the mate to take the wheel, and rushing to the fender rope, reached over and pulled Anderson on board.

The man says that the sea which washed him overboard carried him about fifty feet from the vessel in the direction in which she was sailing. He is a good swimmer, and when he came up on the crest of the wave he saw the vessels lights shining faintly through the driving snow storm, and struck out as best he could to get as near them as possible. In his life-and-death struggle he was materially assisted by the undertow, or back sea, which, being strong, dragged him toward the vessel. At this moment another wave swept over him, and as he came to the surface his head struck the side of the schooner. He retained his presence of mind and began reaching for the fenders, which, he knew, were hanging over the side. Fortunately he succeeded in grasping the last one on the port side and was helped on board more dead than alive.

BRILLIANTS.

I know some who greatly need to look to their own salvation. I refer to these who are always criticising others.

Many church members think that if they do nothing wrong and make no trouble they are all right. Not at all, sir, not at all.

Anybody who calls off the thoughts of the church from soul-saving is a mischief-maker, I have heard it said of a minister, "He greatly influences the politics of our town." Well, it is a very doubtful good, a very doubtful good indeed.

Christian life is action; not a speculating, not a debating, but a doing. One thing, and one only, in this world has eternity stamped upon it. Feelings pass; resolves and thoughts pass; opinions change. What you have done lasts—lasts in you. Through ages, through eternity, what you have done for Christ, that and only that, you are.

He in whose heart the law was, and who alone of all mankind was content to do it, His sacrifice alone can be the sacrifice all-sufficient in the father's sight as the proper sacrifice of humanity. He who through the Eternal Spirit offered Himself without spot to God; He alone can give the spirit which enables us to present our bodies a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God. He is the only High Priest of the universe.

It seems as if the day was not wholly profane in which we have given heed to some natural object. The fall of snowflakes in a still air, preserving to each crystal its perfect form; the blowing of sleet over a wide sheet of water, and over plains; the reflections of trees and flowers in glassy lakes; the musical, steaming, odorous south wind, which converts all trees to windharps.

The Lord's Supper is the right of every trusting soul that needs the help of God, and recognizes Him. Anybody burdened with sin, anybody discouraged in endeavors to right himself, anybody that wants to live a nobler and purer life, has a right to come here and claim at the hand of the Lord, and take His body, symbolically, and His blood, symbolically, for the sake of that work in the soul for which Christ came into the world. All ye that need come, and come freely.

You live in an age when sympathy and humanity may be said to be the great idea of the public—to make justice more surely just; to make mercy more surely merciful; to alleviate disease and poverty; to cleanse the ways of society; to repress vice and crime; to treat even the prisoner with more lenity and humanity, and bring him up from his degradation. These are the great thoughts that are throbbing in the breast of universal humanity. What part have you had in them? Have you done anything, thought anything in these directions? Yet, how large have been the instrumentalities put into your hand to contribute to such great movements.

SUSPENDED ANIMATION.

Some Extraordinary Cases Reported From an English Town.

An extraordinary case of suspended animation is reported from Dalton in-Furness. A girl named Newell, after an illness of three weeks' duration, apparently died. She was placed in a coffin, and the hour that had been fixed for the funeral was drawing near, when she gave signs of returning vitality. A doctor was summoned, and the young woman is now said to be recovering. A little more than a year ago a somewhat similar phenomenon occurred at Wembdon, near Bridgewater. A laborer named George Chilcot fell down suddenly on the 5th of September, 1884, and when picked up seemed to be dead. It was supposed that he had died from heart disease, and preparations were made for the man's funeral. The Vicar of Webdon, however, saw the body and was not entirely satisfied that death had taken place. He therefore refused to bury the supposed corpse, but allowed it to be placed in its coffin. On the 8th movements of the body were observed, a doctor was called in, and Chilcot was taken back to his home. At the end of eight days he recovered consciousness, and finally he regained to a great extent his normal health. These and dozens of well authenticated instances which might be cited seem to suggest that soon after animation has apparently departed it may often be within the power of science to revive it. Newell and Chilcot began to recover unaided by any artificial stimulous, and in spite of the disadvantageous conditions in which they were left, and it is but natural to suppose that other apparent corpses might be, as it were, called back to life, if help were at hand. There are probably many illnesses in which the patient should not be despaired of until long after the breathing has ceased and the pulses have stopped beating.

A Codicil Written on the Battlefield.

The will of the Right Hon. John Edward Leveson, Viscount St. Vincent, late of Norton Disney, Lincolnshire, a Captain in the Sixteenth Lancers, who died on Jan. 22 last, at Abou Klea, in the Soudan, was proved on the 22d ult., the value of the personal estate amounting to over £11 000. The codicil was made by the deceased after he was wounded; it is written on one of the pages of his pocket army book, following some notes as to camels, sketches, and other military memos., and the book is filed in the principle registry of the Probate Court. The codicil is in pencil in the form of a letter, but not witnessed. Being, however, written by the deceased himself, he being at the time engaged in actual military service in the face of the enemy, and intended by him to operate should he die, it has full and binding effect in law. It is as follows:

"DEAR MAMMA: In the event of my dying under the operation about to be performed, I should like Pte. Teaffey, Hosmer, and Knight to have an annuity of £15 each. I should like a tablet put in Norton Church with a small descrip ion from 'Army List,' or elsewhere, of my military life. Your affte. son. ST. VINCENT.

"TO LADY ST. VINCENT."

Jones (who is not friendly to Johnson)—Yes! He resembles his father, who is about as small a man as I ever met?

Mr. Oldboss (to young rival, before young lady to whom they are both attentive)—Why, bless me, Charley, how you've grown!

HEALTH.

Clogged With Waste.

As the sewers of our cities carry off the waste incessantly poured into them, so the incessant waste of our bodies is gathered up by our veins, and gotten rid of by the lungs, liver, kidneys and skins. If these eliminating organs get clogged up in any way, the waste accumulates in the blood, generating disease, and if their proper action is not restored, resulting in death.

This waste, however, is not generally eliminated in the form in which it is thrown into the veins, but undergoes chemical changes into various salts and acids. Among these are uric acid, and its salts known as urate. The real trouble in Bright's disease is that the diseased kidneys, being unable to do their proper work, the uric acid accumulates in the circulation, and poisons the whole system. It is somewhat the same, but in a lower degree, in minor ailments, such as "bilious attacks" and many so-called "colds."

Now a cold may be not a cold at all, any more than small-pox is a cold, though indistinguishable from it at the beginning. It may be due simply to overeating of animal (nitrogenous) food, either habitually or from a particular excess; or to a temporary lack of accustomed exercise while the full, but not otherwise excessive, amount of nitrogenous food is kept up.

In these cases, the liver, which should prepare the nitrogenous elements of food for assimilation, and effect other changes on our waste and redundant elements, to enable the kidneys to eliminate them, is overburdened and unequal to the exigency. At length there is a feeling of depression, soreness, headaches, bad breath, and a furred tongue, and people say they have a "bilious attack."

Further, when the circulation is more or less loaded with urates, a slight chill, which might be otherwise harmless, closes up the pores of the skin, and thus throws back on the struggling kidneys the large share of eliminating work belonging to the latter. The person is said to have taken a hard cold, but the trouble is in the overloaded circulation. The symptoms, when the whole culminates in the "attack," are essentially the same. The system now unloads, during the enforced rest of the digestive organs, and with the aid of medicine.

Sometimes a somewhat similar condition results where one does not drink enough to meet the needs of the system. Much of the power of mineral springs is due not so much to any ingredient contained in the water, as to the water itself. Says a writer in the Medical and Surgical Reporter, to whom we are indebted for some of the above points. "The whole system becomes thoroughly washed out; every particle of tissue has the effete, waste material all soaked out and flooded away."

Health Hints by an M. D.

While everybody should use salt with their food, it does not follow that salted food is good. Salted food contains an excess of salt, and its continued use is an evil. But salt taken with the food assists digestion, supplies to the system certain needed elimical elements, dissolves albumen and has a healthy influence. The difference between salted food and food with salt is the difference between too much and enough.

The old lady who had lived many years with her husband without quarreling, when asked the secret of their happy life, said: "I always feed him well. When I was young I won his heart, and now I am old I have won his stomach, and he is never cross." Nothing is more conducive to a happy, cheerful spirit than good feeding. With a great many people the heart is approached through the stomach.

Both work and play are necessary for healthy development. By work we maintain the body in a sound state. Play is exercise not consciously directed as work is, but just as necessary. Work develops the particular organ of body or mind employed. Play brings the other parts of the body into action, and preserves an even balance of the system. It is useful for all people; but is absolutely essential for the young.

Clothing ought to vary not only with the season or the weather, but with respect to the active or passive state of the wearer. He who walks must be clothed differently from he who drives, and she who dances from he who plays the fiddle. Circumstances alter cases in this respect; and we cannot properly dress by any hard and fast rule.

Light is one of the greatest of blessings. Do not exclude it from the house. Never mind the color of the carpets and furniture. Let the sunlight in freely. It is a good disinfectant! it is a good stimulant; its presence cheers and enlivens; it brings health and happiness.

Rest brings repair of body and mind. Those who are habituated to full and regular sleep recover most readily from sickness. Sleep reduces fever, quickens nutrition, soothes pain, encourages the healing of wounded surfaces. The man who neglects sleep, whether it be for study, for work, or dissipation, is ruining his health and injuring both body and mind.

Many moderate drinkers of intoxicating liquor profess to believe that their indulgence improves their condition and keeps them in health. Now, their are certain symptoms of good health that the habitual drinker seldom shows. If he has a clean tongue, a good appetite, a slow and steady pulse, a clean hand, a cool skin, a steady hand, a firm walk, and sound refreshing sleep at night, then his liquor drinking is not doing him any harm, even if it is not doing good. It is safe to say that moderate drinking when associated with those conditions is not harmful; but then, how many moderate drinkers can show them?

"How do you tell a fool when you see one, Mrs. Jones?" asked a wearisome old bachelor of a lively young widow. "I usually tell one to leave," she replied, and the bachelor didn't ask for a diagram.

The glory of this world passes; attention should be fixed on that which is to come. Without that belief how could we bear the dark days of trouble, how face the weird mystery of pain, unless we felt that suffering had a purpose, and that each stone in the great temple of souls needed to be chiseled, and that each blow was dealt by the unerring hand of the Great Sculptor. In that faith we could suffer in silence.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column.....	$50.00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column.....	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space.....	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the option of the publisher.

—JOB PRINTING.—

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

P. McCullough,
BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, &c.
OFFICE—OVER McFARLAND'S STORE,
MARKDALE.
Money to Loan.
274

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East,
199-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly
J. MASSON, Q. C. S. MASSON. W. MASSON.
N. B.—Private Company's funds to invest at from Six to Eight per cent.

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.

J. P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

CITY HOTEL,
MARKDALE.
The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage, Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostler.
D. McLANE,
Proprietor,
Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

EUGENIA HOTEL
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WILLIAM STUART,
KIMBERLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licences. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.
Nov. 5, '85-1y

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to,
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

VICTORIA R. B. PRECEPTORY,
No. 282,
Meets in Lodge Room of Markdale L. O. L. No. 1045, first Friday in each month. Visiting Sir Knights always welcome.
JAMES BRODIE, W. P.
275 THOMAS ELLIOTT, Registrar.

Money to Loan.
6 to 6½ per cent. All business strictly confidential. Apply to
JOHN R. BAINES,
Lot 30, Con. 4, Holland,
275-88 Glascott P O.

J. J. DALTON.
DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

WM. G. CUTHRIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.
Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.
303

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.
Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM
FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE.
THE north half of lot number 15, concession 12, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.
For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,
GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Godrich.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made eqtensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
9ly. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression. Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 181 & 183 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 270-1y

Victor Roller Mills,
MARKDALE.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62 ..	40	13
61 ..	39	14
60 ..	38	14
59 ..	37	15
58 ..	36	16
57 ..	35	17
56 ..	34	18
55 ..	32	19
54 ..	31	20
53 ..	30	20
52 ..	28	20
51 ..	26	20
50 ..	25	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62 ..	40	13
61 ..	39	14
60 ..	38	14
59 ..	37	15
58 ..	36	16
57 ..	35	17
56 ..	34	18
55 ..	32	19
54 ..	31	20
53 ..	30	20
52 ..	28	20
51 ..	26	20
50 ..	25	20

J. W. FORD.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.
WILL CURE OR RELIEVE
BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, JAUNDICE, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, HEARTBURN, HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, DROPSY, FLUTTERING OF THE HEART, ACIDITY OF THE STOMACH, DRYNESS OF THE SKIN,
And every species of disease arising from disordered LIVER, KIDNEYS, STOMACH, BOWELS OR BLOOD,
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO.

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

CANADIAN PACIFIC
OWEN SOUND
TIME TABLE
Taking effect Monday, November
GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.
Toronto....Leave	7 [illegible]
Cardwell Junction	9 07
Orangeville { Arrive	9 50
Orangeville { Leave	10 05
Orangeville Jun	10 17
Shelburne	10 45
Dundalk	11 10
Flesherton	11 36
Markdale	11 51
Berkeley	12 [illegible]
Williamsford	12 12
Chatsworth	12 28
Owen Sound	1 00

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.
Owen Sound	5 20pm
Chatsworth	5 50
Williamsford	6 05
Berkeley	6 14
Markdale	6 27
Flesherton	6 42
Dundalk	7 06
Shelburne	7 31
Orangeville Jun	8 00
Orangeville { Arrive	8 12
Orangeville { Leave	8 35
Cardwell Junction	9 07
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45

Markdale Church Directory.
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10:30 Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for November, 15th at 7 p. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.
Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Meeting every Thursday evening from Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; W. A. S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid connection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.
Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 meets their Hall, McDougall's block, every Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets Hall on Friday on or before full month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. Secretary.

Peerless O
Ahead of All Competi
Highest Honors & C
Medal at Toron
SIX GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YE
BEST RECORD IN THE W
Satisfaction Guara
Ask for PEERLESS and you get it, as there are im The genuine is only made by SAMUEL ROGERS &
Queen City Oil Wo
TORONTO, ONT.

THE CELEBRATED Dr. CH MANDRAKE DANDE
LIV CUR
HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Jaundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in Costiveness, or any disease arising from liver, Dr. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Complaint rests solely with the compounded from nature's well-known MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach Blood.
500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's were sold in Canada alone. We woman and child who is troubled with plaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's is a valuable Household Medical Guide Book (84 pages), containing over 1000 pronounced by medical men and druggists able, and worth ten times the price of the TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A certain remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
E. GOMARSON & CO., Sole Agents

Mar

VOL. 6.--No. 277.

HAPPY NEW YEAR
TO ALL.
"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."
—MY LINE OF—
NEW YEAR'S -:- CARDS.
Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.
FINE ASSORTMENT
SILVERWARE,
Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.
Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.
W. A. BROWN,
A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

THE prospects for a green New Year's is excellent.

CHRISTMAS day was beautiful and fair.

MUNICIPAL matters are booming this week.

PROF. JAMES is now lecturing in this vicinity.

MR. GLADSTONE WAS 77 years old on Tuesday.

A BRASS BAND has been organized in Chatsworth.

MR. JOSIAH PANE is up on a visit from Warsaw.

W. L. DAVIS has been home a few days from Meaford.

PURE Honey in one pound cans very cheap. A. Turner & Co.

MRS. CIPHER, of Allenford is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Brown.

MR. and Mrs. Woodland of Durham were in Markdale last week.

MR. and Mrs. J. R. Trimble visited friends in St. Mary's last week.

MR. J. HUGHES, of Orangeville, spent a few days in Markdale last week.

MESSRS. Allen McDougall and Thos. McNea arrived from Fort William on Monday.

USEFUL, ornamental and durable New Year's gifts to be had at McFarland's.

NEXT sittings of Division Court No. , will be held in Flesherton on the 22nd January.

REV. P. and Mrs. Flint, of Singhampton, have been visiting friends in this locality.

IT leads the van in the triumphal march of progress—McFarland's Pure Triumphant Tea.

MASTER JOE ALLEN and Mr. John Trelford, of Allenford, paid Markdale a flying visit last week.

OUR esteemed young friend, Mr. Joe Jaques, now of Calgary, is visiting friends in this district.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

THE Markdale roller rink is up, floored and closed in, and will be open in about ten days.

IF you are in arrears you need not be surprised if next week's paper should not come to hand.

SUBSCRIBERS at a distance will kindly renew promptly if they wish to receive the STANDARD right along.

REV. J. W. and Mrs. Savage, of Aurora, have been the guests of W. J. McFarland the past week.

A FEW ch... at the Medic...

THE publi... there will ... issued for 18...

WE are c... quantity of ... next week, ...

$50,000 ... Terms easy ... dealing. A...

GET a bo... and make y... 25c. W. A.

OUR bras... town this e... old year out...

OUR rem... Toys will ... clear out st...

THE pew... church will ... 31st, at 2 o'...

IMPORTAN... Wm. McLe... call and se...

A COMMU... came too l... being more... us.

MR. A. C... Mrs. Burto... visiting th... Ennis.

THE sing... Allen's sw... is now pa... traffic.

WORMS o... Freeman's ... Worms, a... system.

MR. R. ... was home ... We were ... so well.

MESSRS. ... Hockley, ... veterinary ... recently.

TO REMO... scalp with ... Soap. A ... for the toi...

A TRIUM... portation ... flavor—W... umphant ...

THE soc... basement ... was well ... Proceeds ...

MANY a... do nothin... when she ... nothing w...

CHRIST ... Tree ente... grand suc... ed and t... gifts.

A FEW ... be sold a... clear out ... Hall. A...

A CA... often fre... the cause ... safely ex...

A wife one... "My own... Who ever ... Who did ...

THE s... last Sun... powerful ... and profi...

Two y... for sale, ... R. Freet... ford. A...

THE O... Stock A... annual e... on the 5... next.

THE ... is now f... store; p... get as m... ation to ... other w... afford ...

GANADIAN PACIFIC R.
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
aking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.
oronto....Leave	7 30am	4
ardwell Junction	9 07 "	6
range- { Arrive	9 50 "	6
ville { Leave	10 05 "	7
rangeville Jun	10 17 "	7
helburne	10 45 "	8
undalk	11 10 "	8
lesherton	11 36 "	8
arkdale	11 51 "	9
erkeley	12 03pm	9
illiamsford	12 12 "	9
hatsworth	12 28 "	9
wen Sound	1 00 "	10

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	M
wen Sound	5 20am	2
hatsworth	5 50 "	3
illiamsford	6 05 "	3
erkeley	6 14 "	3
arkdale	6 27 "	3
lesherton	6 42 "	4
undalk	7 06 "	4
helburne	7 31 "	4
rangeville Jun	8 00 "	5
range } Arrive	8 12 "	5
ville { Leave	8 35 "	5
ardwell Junction	9 07 "	6
oronto....Arrive	10 45 "	8

Markdale Church Directo

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10:30
rayer Meeting every Wednesday evenin
o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor;
rown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for November, 15th at 7 p.
nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7, December
:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 a
th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward Incumb
W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.
Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m
p. m. Sunday School at 2:30.
eeting every Thursday evening from
ev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; W. A. B
S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in ction; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.

Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 78, meets ternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in all, McDougall's block. Visiting bre
elcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No. 141 mee eir Hall, McDougall's block, every alte onday evening at 8 o'clock. A visi rethren of neighboring lodges solicite

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in all on Friday on or before full moon onth. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. B ecretary.

Peerless Oi
Ahead of All Competito
Highest Honors & C
Medal at Toronto
SIX GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YEAR
BEST RECORD IN THE WOR
Satisfaction Guarante

Ask for PEERLESS and be ou get it, as there are imita
The genuine is only made by

SAMUEL ROGERS & C
Queen City Oil Work
TORONTO, ONT.

THE CELEBRATED
Dr CHASE'S
MANDRAKE
DANDE
LIVE
CURE

HAVE YOU
iver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Bil aundice, Headache, Dizziness, Pain in the ostiveness, or any disease arising from a d iver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found nd certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact th ompounded from nature's well-known liver re
MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined wi ther invaluable roots, barks and herbs, h owerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bo Blood.
500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Reci were sold in Canada alone. We would ask woman and child who is troubled with Live
plaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Li s a valuable Household Medical Guide and Book (84 pages), containing over one useful pronounced by medical men and druggists as ible, and worth ten times the price of the m TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and emedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS 25 cts.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
E. SOMARSON & CO., Sole Agents, P

Markdale Standard

VOL. 6.--No. 277. MARKDALE, ONT., DEC. 31, 1885. {COPIES OF THE STANDARD FIVE CENTS EACH.}

A HAPPY NEW YEAR
TO ALL.
"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."
—MY LINE OF—
NEW YEAR'S -:- CARDS.
Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.
FINE ASSORTMENT
SILVERWARE,
In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.
Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.
W. A. BROWN,
A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

THE prospects for a green New Year's is excellent.

CHRISTMAS day was beautiful and fair.

MUNICIPAL matters are booming this week.

PROF. JAMES is now lecturing in this vicinity.

MR. GLADSTONE was 77 years old on Tuesday.

A BRASS BAND has been organized in Chatsworth.

MR. JOSIAH PANE is up on a visit from Warsaw.

W. L. DAVIS has been home a few days from Meaford.

PURE Honey in one pound cans very cheap. A. Turner & Co.

MRS. CIPHER, of Allenford is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Brown.

MR. and Mrs. Woodland of Durham were in Markdale last week.

MR. and Mrs. J. R. Trimble visited friends in St. Mary's last week.

MR. J. HUGHES, of Orangeville, spent a few days in Markdale last week.

MESSRS. Allen McDougall and Thos. McNea arrived from Fort William on Monday.

USEFUL, ornamental and durable New Year's gifts to be had at McFarland's.

NEXT sittings of Division Court No. 5, will be held in Flesherton on the 22nd January.

REV. P. and Mrs. Flint, of Singhampton, have been visiting friends in this locality.

It leads the van in the triumphal march of progress—McFarland's Pure Triumphant Tea.

MASTER JOE ALLEN and Mr. John Trelford, of Allenford, paid Markdale a flying visit last week.

OUR esteemed young friend, Mr. Joe Jaques, now of Calgary, is visiting friends in this district.

NATIONAL PILLS are a favorite purgative and anti-bilious medicine; they are mild and thorough.

THE Markdale roller rink is up, floored and closed in, and will be open in about ten days.

IF you are in arrears you need not be surprised if next week's paper should not come to hand.

SUBSCRIBERS at a distance will kindly renew promptly if they wish to receive the STANDARD right along.

REV. J. W. and Mrs. Savage, of Aurora, have been the guests of W. J. McFarland the past week.

A FEW choice Pomes for sale cheap at the Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

THE public will regret to learn that there will be no "Ayers Almanac" issued for 1886 in Canada.

WE are compelled to leave over a quantity of interesting matter until next week, for want of space.

$50,000 to loan on farm security. Terms easy; interest light, and square dealing. Apply at this office.

GET a bottle of "Silver Cream," and make your silverware shine—only 25c. W. A. Brown, sole agent.

OUR brass band will sernade the town this evening, and will play the old year out and the new one in.

OUR remnants in fancy goods and Toys will be sold at cost price to clear out stock. A. Turner & Co.

THE pews in the new Methodist church will be let on Thursday, the 31st, at 2 o'clock p. m. Terms cash.

IMPORTANT.—All parties indebted to Wm. McLeod are hereby requested to call and settle before the 1st January.

A COMMUNICATION from "Farmer" came too late for insertion, the paper being more than full before it reached us.

MR. A. COMFORT, of Binbrooke, and Mrs. Burtch, of St. Catharines, are visiting their sister, Mrs. R. W. Ennis.

THE sink hole on the gravel road in Allen's swamp has been repaired, and is now passable and safe for public traffic.

WORMS often destroy children, but Freeman's Worm Powders destroy Worms, and expel them from the system.

MR. R. H. WHITBY, of Orangeville, was home a few days about Christmas. We were pleased to see him looking so well.

MESSRS. J. B. and Samuel Irwin, of Hockley, visited their brother, the veterinary surgeon, in this place recently.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF.—Cleanse the scalp with Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap. A delightful medicated soap for the toilet.

A TRIUMPH of enterprise in the Importation of pure Teas of excellent flavor—W. J. McFarland's Pure Triumphant Tea.

THE social on Monday night in the basement of the Methodist church was well attended and richly enjoyed. Proceeds $10.18.

MANY a poor woman thinks she can do nothing without a husband, and when she gets one finds she can do nothing with him.

CHRIST Church S. S. Christmas Tree entertainment last night was a grand success. The hall was crowded and the tree heavily laden with gifts.

A FEW choice Photo Albums will be sold at greatly reduced prices to clear out stock in that line at Medical Hall. A. Turner & Co.

A CRYING EVIL.—Children are often fretful and ill when worms are the cause. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup safely expels all Worms.

A wife once kissed her husband, and said she:
"My own sweet Will, how dearly I love thee!"
Who ever knew a lady, good or ill,
Who did not dearly love her own sweet Will?

THE sermons by Rev. Dr. Griffin last Sunday were masterly and very powerful, and the audience delighted and profited by each discourse.

TWO YEAR old Bull, with pedigree, for sale, cheap for cash or good mark. R. Freeborn, one mile from Williamsford. Also two good Colts. 268-tf

THE Owen Sound Poultry and Pet Stock Association will hold their annual exhibition at the Town Hall on the 5th, 6th and 7th of January next.

THE "Canadian Almanac" for 1886 is now for sale at Turner & Co's Drug store; price 15 cents. You cannot get as much practical useful information for the same money in any other way. No progressive man can afford to be without it.

MR. J. S. PLEWES, of Shelburne, brother of our Mr. Angus Plewes of Victor Roller Mills, expects to have his new roller mill in operation next week.

I WILL give bargains on the few nice New Year's cards left. You can prove this statement by calling early "New Year's Eve," W. A. Brown, Jeweller.

MR. FRANK PORTER, the efficient principal of the Markdale public school, is spending the Xmas vacation in town with his brother, Mr. T. Porter.—[Dufferin Post.

THE annual school meeting was well attended and matters generally satisfactory. Mr. John Lyons was elected trustee without opposition; Mr. Edward Rutledge was the retiring one.

A FOUR-YEAR-OLD girl in Markdale received a doll on Christmas morning among other toys, and her little brother asked what she would call it, when she promptly replied, Colorado: call her Ada.

WARNING.—All parties indebted to me by account are hereby notified that if a settlement is not made before the 9th January the same will be placed in other hands for collection. John McKenna.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR
To all our readers
WITH COMPLIMENTS OF
THE EDITOR.

A DAIRYMAN was awakened by a wag in the night with the announcement that his best cow was choking. He forthwith jumped out to save the life of Crummie, but lo! he found a turnip stuck in the mouth of the pump!

A TEA-MEETING will be held on the evening of New Year's day in the Babtist Church, 10th con., Glenelg, when addresses will be delivered by several reverend gentlemen, and music by the choir. Admission, 25 cents.

ORANGE SOIREE.—Temple Hill L. O. L. No. 394 will give a grand soiree in their new hall, 9th line Euphrasia, on the evening of New Year's Day, when several reverend and other gentlemen are expected to address the meeting. Tickets, 25 cents.

REGULARITY of the main spring of life, and regularity of the bowels is one of the most essential laws of health. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels in an natural manner, curing Constipation and preventing serious disease.

THE annual tea-meeting of Ebenezer Church 11th line Euphrasia, will be held on New Year's Day. They always have a good time, and this on is expected to be no exception to the rule. Tea served from 5 o'clock p. m. Admission 25 cents.

WE have a number of subscribers who are in arrears over a year whose names will be dropped off our list next week and their accounts placed in court for collection. They appear to be determined to beat us out of the amount, at least some of them.

A LIVING QUESTION.

Question—'Is this life worth living?' Answer—'It all depends upon the liver?' If torpid or inactive it causes a dull, tough, languid feeling. Dr. Chase's Liver Cure gives health and buoyancy. Sold by A. Turner & Co, Dec.

NOTICE.—All persons are hereby warned against purchasing a promissary note for $38.10 in favor of John Boland against Alex. Mercer, Jr., and Jas. Mercer, due the 12th November, 1885, as the same is paid, but the note lost. Markdale, Dec. 29, 1885. J. J. Graham.

TEA-MEETING.—There will be a tea-meeting at Kimberley in the new Methodist Church on New Year's Day, commencing at 5 o'clock, when a number of good speakers will be present, including Dr. Sproule, M. P. Proceeds in aid of the building fund. Admission, 25 cents.

THERE has been fowl work perpetrated on a grocer in Meaford recently, a number of dressed geese being sold which were afterwards found to be stuffed, some of them to the tune of three lbs., with pigs liver and such. The dishonest and avaricious customer is known, but not named.

COMMENDABLE ENTERPRISE. — The Dundalk Herald Christmas number was a sixteen page edition, and was indeed creditable to Mr. Hall, the ambitious editor. It certainly cost a great amount of labor and expense to issue such a number, and we trust it has proved a successful venture financially.

IMPURE BLOOD.—Boils, blotches, pimples and festering sores are indications of impure blood that should never be neglected, or ill health and perhaps incurable disease may result. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood by acting on the four cardinal points of healt—the Stomach, Bowels, Liver and Blood.

BURGLARS entered the brick school house, 7th. line, St. Vincent, on Friday night the 11th. inst., and took away the clock, and in trying to get at the contents of drawers, broke up the teacher's desk, besides other damages. Doubtless it was the same party who raided Meaford houses on the Saturday nights following.—[Meaford Monitor.

Nothing succeeds like success. West's Cough Syrup to-day stands without a rival, and we have never seen such remarkable cures in Consumption in its early stages, Hoarseness, Influenza, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung diseases. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Druggists. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle. Dec. 31

NOTICE.—A public meeting of the Reformers of East Grey will be held in the Township Hall, Flesherton, on Tuesday, 19th January, 1885, at one o'clock p. m., for the purpose of re-organization, &c., &c. Dr. Landerkin, M. P., South Grey, is expected. Friends of Reform and Good Government are cordially invited. Wm. Brown, Sec. Reform Association, East Grey.

Convenience.—If you wish to subscribe for or renew your subscription for any of the following papers, you can do so at this office and thus save the trouble and risk of mailing:—Globe, Mail, News, Daily World, Montreal Star, Farmers' Advocate, or American Agriculturist. The balance of this year free to all new subscribers for 1886 for any of the above weeklies or monthlies.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.—A meeting of Centre Grey Farmers Institute will be held in Markdale on the 8th and 9th January when Professors Brown, Grenside, and Barre, from the Agricultural College, will deliver addresses on subjects of deep interest to the farmer. Those meetings will be free, and every farmer in the neighborhood should make it a point to be present. The meetings commence at half past one.

"I say Aunt Chloe, you is getting around right smart." "Yes indeed I is, honey. I was pestered and sick abed with Rheumatism for six years and done tried this West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment the people are talking so much about, and I was sure enough cured. It done saved this old nigger's life." Price 25 cents and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by A. Turner & Co. Dec.

READER.—If you are a subscriber for the STANDARD, examine your address label and if your subscription expires with this number, or has expired some time past, please make an effort to have it renewed.

"I WISH you would pay a little attention to what I am saying, sir," reared a lawyer to an exasperating witness he was examining. "Well, I am paying as little attention as I can," was the calm reply.

THE annual tea-meeting of the Markdale Presbyterian Church will be held on the evening of New Year's day in Haskett's Hall. A good program is being prepared and a splendid time may be expected.

THE CANKER WORM OF THE BLOOD is Scrofula, that gnaws upon the vitals and consumes the body. Consumption is but Lung Scrofula. Burdock Blood Bitters is one of the best known combinations to cure Scrofula.

AT the December meeting of the Markdale Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 1045, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Thos. Elliott, W. M.; Wm. Brady, Dep. M.; Jas. Elliott, Chaplain; R. W. Blakely, Rec. Sec.; Jas. Nelson, Fin. Sec.; Thos. J. Lackey, Treasurer; Wm. Walker, Director Ceremonies; James Bryan, Lecturer. W. J. Blakely, Robt. Clark, John Clark, Wm. Levi, Jas. Lyons, Committee.

ASSIGNED.—We very much regret that Mr. John Noble, blacksmith of this village, has been compelled, owing to financial difficulties, to make an assignment. Mr. Noble has done an extensive business in Markdale for the last 15 years, but unfortunately he has always been to lenient with his customers, many accounts running from year to year without a settlement, and a large percentage never paid at all, and this is all the thanks he now gets for his leniency. Mr. Noble is one of the most obliging and industrious business men of the place, and we trust he will soon be in a position to resume business.

CAUTION.

Any liniment or other medicine that cannot be taken internally is unsafe for ordinary use. Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the prompt pain reliever, is safe and reliable for all aches and pains, and swallowed as well as applied.

REWARD.—Mr. Peter Neil requests us to state that he attended the last meeting of Council in Glenelg to ask that body to offer a reward for the apprehension of the party who broke a mare's leg, some time ago belonging to him. When the matter was laid before the council, the Reeve wrote a motion offering $200, and Mr. Patrick Neil remarked that he would be willing to give anything, upon which Mr. Peter Neil remarked that he was surprised at him, (Patrick) telling parties in Durham that the mare broke her leg by accident, and forthwith offered to pay any man $100, who would prove that the mare's leg was not broken as indicated by what was found in the field. As the matter now stands a reward of $300 is offered.—[Grey Review.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Afflictions, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

McGREGOR & PARKE.

Of Hamilton, Ont., are the manufacturers of the greatest healing and purifying compound known for Sores, Burns, Cuts, Scalds, Salt Rheum, Frost Bites, etc. It is called McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. Be sure and get the genuine McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate sold by Hill Bro's. at 25c. a box. 5

THE FARM.

Wire Fences.

A great deal of dissatisfaction seems to be felt towards barbed wire fences. When it first made its appearance, it was thought by many to be just the thing, considering its cheapness, ease of building, and its aprarent durability. But after watching it from the first, I conclude that it is very unsatisfactory; and I have concluded that unless some other device is got out, I shall still build fences of pine stumps, and hemlock boards and chestnut posts. I know of no animal that should be fenced in with barbed wire fence. Horses and cattle get injured and killed by it quite often, and it pulls the wool from sheep, and in my opinion, it is a barbarous kind of fence that should by all means be abandoned. Pine stumps do not make the most ornamental fence there is, by any means, but it is durable, and will stop any kind of stock. Boards and chestnut posts also, make a good and durable fence, and it occupies but little space, looks well, and as yet, I know of nothing more satisfactory when the material can be obtained at a fair price. No barbed wire for me.

Is Hay Cheap Food?

Most dairymen suppose, says the National Live-Stock Journal, that hay is the cheapest food for their cows, and think it a misfortune to be short of hay—which is, in a sense, true, for every one should try to produce all the hay required for his stock—but it is seldom true that the market price of grain is higher than hay. If we consider the relative nutrutive value of hay and grain, or product of grain, we find that good meadow hay or clover is no cheaper at $13 to $14 per ton than good wheat bran or middlings at $20 or $21 per ton, or cornmeal at $22 or $23 per ton, or linseed cake or meal at $32 to $38 per ton. This does not mean that cornmeal, middlings, or oilmeal would be just as appropriate for the complete food of a cow as hay. We know that such concentrated food would be quite dangerous to feed a cow without some coarse fodder, but it means that the nutriment in these foods will be as cheap to make up any deficiency in the ration at those prices as hay at the price mentioned. Therefore, when hay is dear in the dairy districts, instead of buying hay the dairyman should buy grain in some form to help him out. The grain will be cheapest, and his cows come through in much better condition for the milking season than if they had all the good hay they could eat. All a cow requires over twelve or fifteen pounds of hay should be made up in grain food. Twelve pounds of hay and eight pounds of middlings per day will winter a 1,000-pound cow much better than thirty pounds of hay per day. But the ground feed should be mixed with out hay, moistened, so the ground feed will adhere to it, and must be eaten with the hay and raised and remasticated. Fine feed, fed alone, is not raised and remasticated, but goes on to the fourth stomach without further mastication.

Why Some Farmers Fail.

They will not make compost.
They breed to and from scrubs.
They do not curry their horses.
They have no shelter for stock.
They put off greasing the wagon.
They are wedded to old methods.
They give no attention to details.
They have no method or system.
They see no good in a new thing.
They let their fowls roost in trees.
They weigh and measure stingily.
They leave their plows in the field.
They hang their harness in the dust.
They take no pleasure in their work.
They never use paint on the farm.
They prop the barn door with a rail.
They milk the cows late in the day.
They starve the calf and milk the cow.
They think small things not important.
They let their gates sag and fall down.
They do not keep up with improvements.
They don't know the best is the cheapest.
They do not read the best books and newspapers.
They think the buyer of a successful neighbor's stock at good prices is a fool, and the seller very "lucky."
They sell hay, grain and straw off the farm instead of turning them into meat, cheese and butter, and increasing their supply of manure.

To which solid truths we beg to add:—
They don't conduct their farm on business principles.
They think that pinching and scrimping is economy.
They don't know that a cheap implement is usually a very dear one.
They make their homes so cheerless and unattractive that no one about it can work with vim or energy.
And lastly they do not take their local paper.

The British in Egypt.

One sign of the permanency of the British occupation of Egypt is, that classes for the study of the Arabic language by non-commissioned officers and privates have been opened in Alexandria and Cairo, under the authority of the British War Office and at the expense of the British Military Department in Egypt. This is as it should be, for petty officers and men must often suffer much inconvenience when their duty brings them in contact with the natives, who are ignorant of any tongue but their own. British soldiers are not famous for picking up languages, and this free instruction in the Egyptian vernacular will be of great benefit to them. Perhaps if a few lessons in French were added it would be a great gain to the foreign soldiers, for this is the language of the European portion of the inhabitants, and without at least colloquial knowledge of it the resident feels himself completely at sea. English is being more spoken than it used to be, and is gaining ground every day, but it will never supplant French as the language of society, diplomacy and the law courts. American Paper.

For the Babies

It is not necessary to buy corn cures. Men and women should remember that Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is the only safe, sure and painless corn remover extant. It does its work quickly and with certainty. See that the signature N. C. Polson & Co. appears on each bottle. Beware of poisonous imitations.

HOLIDAY FUN.

Presents of mind—Christmas books.

A cold Christmas makes a plump plumber.

Many a round bill is squared about Christmas time.

Never look a Xmas gift in the mouth unless it is a pitcher of beer.

The only Christmas present we expect to get is in the future tense.

Christmas teaches the newly-married man how many new relatives he has.

Your presence at home on Christmas Day is preferable to no presents at all.

You cannot find a boy who has not "told dad what he wanted for Christmas."

No, my dear children; you do not always find stockings on the limbs of Christmas trees.

Fashion note: This is the season of the year when every one is looking for something new in stockings.

One of the chief uses of the Christmas card is to take the place of something which would cost a good deal more.

A boy who "could not speak a word" was considered a family treasure until it was discovered that he could whistle.

Christmas poets have an easy time of it. Joys, toys, holly, jolly, chimes, times, merry, berry—the rhymes flow like wine from bottle.

There is not so much difference between them after all. A green Christmas makes a fat churchyard, and a white Christmas causes a good deal of sleighing.

It looks well to trim the house with holly on Christmas, but when a husband has both heels through his stockings his thoughts persist in calling up darning-needles.

The tariff question is a hard one to solve, yet it sinks into the most insignificant insignificance when placed alongside the question, can the small boy get too much watermelon?

The small boy is censured for frightening horses into costly and sometimes fatal runaways. But it should be remembered that while he is scaring horses he is not working his gum shooter.

A pair of Christmas slippers should never be scorned. If they are too small they will come in for ear muffs and if too large may be sent to the girls' orphan home in Montreal.

A little boy, when told by his father that a certain deceased plumber had gone to Heaven, said he knew why, and when asked, replied: "'Cause there ain't no waterpipes to freeze in the other place."

A small boy who read that "Bunsler is the best fly-chatcher in the country, and commands a big salary," immediately went into a training for a similar position, he caught 200 flies in half an hour, and then came to grief by his mother grabbing him by the ear for mashing the insects on the window pane.

Practical.

Most people who have ever sketched natural objects have also met with pitying remonstrance from the severely practical, because they chose to represent the picturesque rather than the symmetrical. "What makes you draw a pictur' o' that tumbledown old shed?" says the farmer. "Come an' draw my new two story house an' welcome!" In regard to Shakespeare's house at Stratford-on-Avon, an amusing story is told which illustrates the same standard of judgment.

An enthusiastic and erudite party of visitors had invaded a local public house, in search of "material for reverence." To them was pointed out the oldest inhabitant, as "the man what knows more about Shakespeare's house than any soul in Stratford." Interrogated and duly propitiated, the venerable sage thus gave utterance,—

"Think I do know more about that house than any o' you writing gents! Why, sir, it was me was the man the committee pitched on to repair it, years ago; an' you should ha' seen what a toombled-dune old barn it was afore I tooched it!"

The erudite ones made a rapid exit.

Why She Pointed.

A school-teacher from "out West" tells the following laughable little incident: "On Christmas Day I was invited to dinner at the home of a farmer in the neighborhood. He had a large family of children, and I was not the only guest, several families in the neighborhood having been invited.

"Just before we went out to dinner, a ten-year old daughter of the family, a favorite pupil of mine, came into the room, and began silently counting the guests, pointing her finger at each person as she counted.

"As she stood near me, I thought to give her a little lesson in etiquette, and whispered,—

"'Don't point, Milly; it is not polite.'

"To my amusement and the chagrin of her mother, she instantly replied,—

"'Well, I guess ma told me, 'cause she's afraid there ain't mince pie enough to go round, and she hopes nobody won't take two pieces.'"

Afraid of Woman.

A new word, coined by Oliver Wendell Holmes, has made its appearance, and though it is not pretty to look at, it suggests pleasing possibilities. "Gynephobia" is the word, and it means a constitutional horror of woman. At first sight this might appear to apply only to such inveterate old bachelors as Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Bill, but this horror of the sex is apparently confined to such females as are suspected of having matrimonial designs upon themselves. If there are, as Dr. Holmes declares, men who suffer torture in the mere presence of woman, why would it not be well to use them for the purpose of inoculating those of our young men who develop too great a fondness for the fair sex? As for their elders, it would be a luxury for them to be thrown into this horror, and then to have it gradually overcome by the blandishments of the beautiful. The inoculation idea is a fruitful one.—American Paper.

King Thebaw, of Burmah, is 26 years old. His chin is rather heavy and sensual looking, but otherwise he is a rather good-looking man His complexion is fair, his forehead good, his mouth is firm and his eyes are clear and steady. He is tall and fairly well built.

A NEW YEAR'S SURPRISE.

BY ANNIE L. JACK.

Christmas in Canada! It is a holy day, celebrated in many a church by early prayers and sincere devotions, and in many a home by making it the children's day. And happy is that family where it is not all an enjoyment of selfishness, where the children are taught that "the poor you have always with you," and whose thoughts turn to the relief of those whose circumstances are worse than their own. In the city, Christmas eve is a mixture of pain and pleasure to all but the sheltered little ones, who have no brighter past to look back upon. Smiling mammas remember their own lost youth, and the fathers are recalled from business to the fact that they are growing old. "Why, really, Christmas has come round again." And they try on the new slippers the hands of love have been secretly working, and pay all the bills without a murmur. Then, if the snow falls thick and white on Christmas eve, and the morning finds all unsightly objects covered from sight, tin roofs glittering in the sunlight, and very brightly painted objects standing out in bold relief, it is a consumation that has been wished for, and the boy who has a pair of new snow-shoes is eager for a tramp, and the girl whose Santa Claus has given her skates must away to the rink—"For we must have an appetite for dinner," they say as a parting shot, as if that ever could fail in healthy youth on Christmas day, and the careless salute of "Merry Christmas" that falls so easily from our lips is given to every passer-by with whom the youthful athletes have the slightest acquaintance. "Merry Christmas!" We say it heartily in the morning among the dear ones we love, and echo it in the evening to any chance friend or neighbor. It is often careless, even insincere, yet we should miss it if the custom were suddenly dropped from our lives, for I doubt not it carries balm to many a weary heart. But if Christmas has it charms with what mingled sensations do we welcome the New Year, and how many and varied are the thoughts that fill our hearts? "A Happy New Year!" Rich and poor, young and old, deem that hearty wish a right to give to their fellow men and women, and as the years go by we feel that "We all are changed—God judges for us best;

God help us do our duty, and not shrink,
And trust in Heaven humbly for the rest."

I wondered how long I had been sitting in a a deep study this New Year's afternoon when all was quiet in my little home, and I had too much time to think over the changes that had come into my life. One year ago I was Philip Nelson's promised wife, and there was father and brother Alf to make life bright and happy for me—now father was gone. Alf had lately joined the North-West expedition and left me alone on the little farm with only the old serving man and his daughter Hannah, grim of visage but soft of heart, to me, her old master's only daughter. Friends I had few—but then I had my paint and brush, and had I not told Philip many times that I loved "art" best, and now I was to make this my mistress through life, for I could never care for any one else now that Philip was gone So all the spare time from my teaching I worked with easel and brush.

How beautiful is the winter in this Canada of ours, and when the sunset sparkled on the bay, with a radiance no electric light can imitate, it was a miracle of the New Year. Happy little boys and girls coasted past quietly, their tuques of blue and red nodding like flags of many colors, and here and there a bright colored blanket costume enlivening the scene. Then the twilight deepened, and Hannah came in to make up the fire. "You are having a lonesome New Year's, Miss Mary," she said, "there's some of your school children waiting outside to take you to the schoolhouse; the minister's there and his wife and the trustees, and they are having a little surprise party. Put on your cap and go down." Then Minnie Turner, and Joe Delisle two of my brightest scholars, came in and we started. I was half way there before I remembered that I had not had tea. "Oh it doesn't matter," said Minnie, and then stopped. But we saw bright lights in the schoolhouse, and were soon among a crowd, all talking at once. The table was set, and everybody sat down except the girls of the school who waited on us, and afterward the minister arose and I heard him confusedly, as if through a fog. What did he say?—could he be talking of me?—"In slight token of my services, a gold watch and chain?" I had so often wished for one, but could not afford it. I staggered to my feet when the applause subsided, and all I could say was: "If silence is golden, dear friends, you must accept my gold as I do yours, and I am sure you know all I could say. I shall ponder it in my heart, till that heart ceases to beat."

Then the trustees had something to say about my faithfulness, and I thought how often I had been discontented, and had comforted myself thinking it would not be for long that I should spend my life teaching A, B, C, and guiding dull heads through practise. Had I been faithful in small things? I sat and listened, and made many New year's promises, while naught, curly-headed Dick Dancy came and sat beside me and put his mischievous hand in mine, and kept it quite still for two seconds, and then my favorite scholar, Rachel Avery, sang my favorite hymn.

"Say, is thy lamp burning, my brother?
I pray thee look quickly and see,
For if it were burning, then surely
Some beams would fall bright upon me."

Oh, New Year resolves, traced upon the fair pages of life's book, often in tears, and blotted out again too often in sin or careless forgetfulness. I thought of all I might have done, as that rich contralto voice thrilled through my very soul, and made resolve that I would make amends for my listless apathy. Only one thing disturbed my peace of mind. Captain Swayne was there watching my every movement and his glances made me shudder. For he had brought me news of Philip's marriage, when the dreadful silence came between us, and my lover did not return from his trip across the sea. And when the good-nights were said, I begged of those who had invited me there, to return with me, but they were over-awed by his imperious manner, and left me to my fate, and he walked beside me, though there were others near me. On the bay we hear merry skaters, full of fun and merriment. The moonlight shone out clear, and all around the water edge were twinkling lamps whose light, half hid, half revealed the happy couples that moved about in gay winter costume. There were sleighs, too, here and there, with jingling bells that seemed to keep time to the hearts of the happy occupants. I had scarcely answered any of his pleasant remarks till we reached the gate when, almost abruptly, I wished him goodnight. There was an extra lamp burning, and I wondered at Hannah's extravagance; but then it was New Year's night and she wished to make my home-coming cheerful, no doubt. Captain Swayne followed me to the threshold, but I would not ask him in. "Miss Lacy—Mary," he said, "you must hear me to-night. You know I love you and have wanted you to be my wife." "I cannot," I answered, decisively "I will not marry." Did the door move! I [illegible] so, yet I had not touched it. "Why [illegible] ip Nelson discarded you," he began, [illegible] hand pushed him back from behind. [illegible] never did," said Philip's voice, and [illegible] court stepped back, looked long, [illegible] white as death in the moonlight, and [illegible] hurried away. "I heard your maiden [illegible] dearest," said Philip tenderly, and then [illegible] ried here to meet you first alone. That [illegible] has never told you what I entrusted to [illegible] —of my long illness and the reasons [illegible] kept me away. He wrote that you were [illegible] gaged, but something told me he was [illegible] and as soon as I could travel I came [illegible] with my own eyes. Hannah sent me to [illegible] schoolhouse just in time to hear your [illegible] and see your face as you sat down, then [illegible] came here and waited." The wind blew [illegible] ly as we moved into the warm sitting [illegible] and shut the door, while the sound of [illegible] tant laughter came now and then upon our [illegible] ears. I could only say, "Philip, my King [illegible] and then, hand clasped in hand, the [illegible] was "golden."

CHATEAUGUAY BASIN, QUE.

PEOPLE.

John Gurney, Mayor-elect of Norwich, England, is blind.

Edwin Booth has never seen any one play Hamlet since, as a mere boy, he saw his father.

Emperor William will celebrate the twenty-fifty anniversary of his elevation to the Prussian throne on the 3d of January.

The semi-centennial of Queen Victoria's accession to the throne will occur June 20, 1887, and it is understood to be the Queen's pleasure that the event shall be celebrated by a general jubilee throughout her dominions.

Reuben R. Thrall, of Rutland, Vt., is probably the oldest practicing lawyer in the world. He recently celebrated his 99th birthday, and has several cases now on the docket. Mr. Thrall is old enough to know better.

Rustem Pasha, who is assigned to London as Turkish Ambassador, is a Christian. He became famous as the Governor of the Lebanon for a number of years, keeping the peace till displaced by a Franco intrigue.

James H. Beard, the artist and humorist, is a large gentleman, well-proportioned, with iron-gray curls which fall to his shoulders he looks every inch the artist, and possesses a fund of humor which shows itself in all his pictures.

Dio Lewis says that wearing large, thick heavy boots and blue hand-knit stockings will improve a woman's complexion. There can be no doubt that they would keep the sun from her face; but, gracious! how a would look!

Miss Cordelia S. Waterman, who died at Bridgeport, a few days since, was worth $1,000,000 in her own right, and controlled property to the value of $5,000,000, mainly chiefly in California. She left no direct heirs and the property goes to a score or more of nephews and nieces.

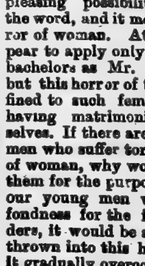
Gerrit Hendricks, a Dutch Mennonite, who came here with three others in 1663, was a direct ancestor of the late Vice-President. These four Hollanders, on the 12th of April, 1688, signed and published a protest against slavery, which they found existing in Eastern Pennsylvania, wherein they declared: "Ye Quakers do here handle men like they handle ye cattle."

GRAND PREMIUMS

FOR TWO SUBSCRIBERS TO

The Weekly Mail

We have had a large number of letters from people who sent in Clubs last year and received the prize books, in which they say, "We had no idea that the prizes would be such good, well bound, valuable books. If your subscribers only knew what good value in prizes you were offering, there is not one of them who would not send in a club." This year we are offering a much more attractive and in every way better list of prizes.



Anyone sending in TWO Yearly Subscriptions to THE WEEKLY MAIL, at the regular rate of One Dollar a year each, will receive as a present a choice of one of the following valuable Books, which will be forwarded postage prepaid.

1 A WOMAN'S REASON
By W. D. HOWELLS
Author of "A Chance Acquaintance," "Our Wedding Journey," etc., etc. 370 pages. Well printed on fine paper, and handsomely bound in extra cloth, black and gold.

2 BESSIE'S FORTUNE
By MARY J. HOLMES
400 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with handsome stamps, black and gold.
A charming story by this ever popular authoress

3 QUEENIE HETHERTON
By MARY J. HOLMES
411 pages. Bound in cloth extra and gold. One of the best stories ever published, with handsome designs.

4 WITHOUT A HOME
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "A Young Girl's Wooing," etc., etc. 420 pages Handsomely bound in cloth.

5 A YOUNG GIRL'S WOOING
By E. P. ROE
Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Without a Home," etc. 368 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth in black and gold. A most entertaining and popular story and one which should be read by every member of the household.

6 HIS SOMBRE RIVALS
By E. P. ROE
372 pages. Handsomely bound in cloth, in black and gold. This book has had an immense sale in the United States, and is one of the best efforts of this popular author.

7 THE EARL'S ATONEMENT
By BERTHA M. CLAY
320 pages. Bound in cloth extra. An entertaining story of modern society life.

8 HAWORTH'S
By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT
Author of "That Lass o' Lowrie's." 320 pages. Bound in cloth extra.

9 INFELICE
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
Has deservedly won a splendid reputation. Her "St. Elmo" is a powerful picture of a bad man with latent traits of goodness, which are developed by the gentle influence of a pure woman. Her "Infelice" is a thrilling story of the stage, and shows a clear analysis of human nature.

10 ST. ELMO
By MISS AUGUSTA J. EVANS
450 pages. Bound in cloth extra, with gold stamps.

11 SPY OF THE REBELLION
By ALLAN PINKERTON
A true story of the spy system of the United States army during the late rebellion; revealing many secrets of the war hitherto not made public. Compiled from official reports prepared for President Lincoln, General McClellan and Provost Marshal General, by Allan Pinkerton, who was Chief of the United States Secret Service. 340 pages. Illustrated.

12 COMMON SENSE IN THE HOUSEHOLD
By MARION HARLAND
320 pages. Bound in oil-cloth. This is acknowledged by everyone to be the best, most complete, and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

13 EVE'S DAUGHTERS
Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother, by Marion Harland, author of "Common Sense in the Household."
340 pages. In cloth binding, neat. A book that should be found in every household.

14 OUR DEPORTMENT
Or the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society, including forms for letters, invitations, etc., etc. Also valuable suggestions on home culture and training. Compiled from the latest reliable authorities by John H. Young, A.M. 380 pages. Illustrated and handsomely bound extra cloth, with gold and black stamps.

15 FOUR GREAT PREACHERS
A collection of choice sermons by Spurgeon, Moody, Talmage and Beecher, with short biographical sketches of these celebrated divines. 352 pages. Printed in good clear type, and handsomely bound in extra English cloth.

16 MOODY'S SELECT WORKS
By D. L. MOODY
412 pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This is a collection of anecdotes and illustrations from Mr. Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

17 GETTING ON IN THE WORLD
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
340 pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. This is one of the most popular books, by a writer who combines knowledge with the ability to impart it in a most attractive form. There is no better book for a young man, in fact for any one, to read than "Getting on in the World."

18 HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS
By WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.
352 pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. "Worth any day ten times its cost for the book part it contains." Full of useful information.

19 THE COTTAGE HEARTH
A large, finely printed monthly magazine, made up of attractive literature, pure in tone and illustrated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone sending THREE or more subscriptions to the WEEKLY MAIL at the regular rate of one dollar each will receive as a present the above capital magazine for one year. Specimen copies will be sent free on application to The Cottage Hearth Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.

RULES.

1.—The full prices of the papers subscribed for must in all cases accompany the order. The prices are WEEKLY MAIL, $1.00 a year, 50 cents for 6 months; DAILY MAIL, $7.00 a year, $3.50 for 6 months, $1.75 for 3 months; EVENING MAIL, $2.50 a year, $1.25 for 6 months, 65 cents for 3 months.

2.—In counting up your subscriptions to see how many prizes you are entitled to: A subscription to the DAILY or EVENING MAIL for 3 months is equal to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVENING for 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; and a DAILY or EVENING for one year is equal to 4 WEEKLIES.

3.—Subscriptions for the combined "Mail and Sewing Machine Bargain" will count just the same as ordinary subscriptions.

4.—There is NO extra charge for sending premium and easiest understood Cookery Book ever published. The directions are exact, and the quantities, qualities, times, etc., are given with such exactness, that success is certain to the housekeeper who uses it.

5.—To entitle to a prize a club must consist of at least two subscribers, and as many more as possible; that is to say, the sending in of one subscription to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY MAIL would not entitle the sender to a prize, but a yearly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, or several subscriptions to either one or both, will be all right.

6.—A subscription to THE MAIL for two years with the money in advance, will count as two subscribers; or, a subscription for three years as three subscribers.

When this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new list will be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

These books are all handsomely bound in Cloth. They are by excellent authors, and will be welcome in any family.

Remember, we prepay all postage on the papers and on the books.

Send for specimen number and illustrated prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, Canada.

THE EGYPTIAN R

...tory of Love and Wild Adventure, founded ... in the Career of Arabia Pa...

...the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RE... ETC, ETC, ETC.

...ck blow and its consequent writhe and ... seemed to add to her fury indeed, and ... the lovely Circassian endeavored at ... to use her hands as a shield, two Turk... girls sprang forward and seizing her by ...wrists twisted them behind her back ... held them there so that she was power... to protect herself in any way.

...Not until the lovely sufferer's shrieks be... so loud that there was danger of their ...ing beyond the confines of the harem ... the Valide Khanoum desist.

Then she laughed and drew her slipper ...to her foot again, with the remark:

"That will teach thee not to play tricks ...thy lord and master's chief wife and the ...d of the harem, my white swan of a Zo... And beware how thou provokest me ..., for though a Valide Khanoum may not ...t a slave with anything that is not ...d and flat and thin, so that the marks ...y entirely fade out within a few hours, ...the most she can have her well nigh ...led to death, which, of the two punish...nts, is far worse than that which thou ...s received."

...The Circassian made no reply, for she ...sobbing at the sight of her violated ...oliness, and, indeed, it was enough to ...ke angels weep. But the other girls, ...ny of whom were almost as beautiful as ...els, laughed instead as Zobeide walked ...ng with downcast face in their midst, her ...g yellow hair now almost shrouding her ...re form.

...Another minute and the again noisy and ...ghing procession passed away from view ...ough the opposite door, and the road ... once more clear for the disguised pasha's ...reat.

...One might feel inclined to blame him for ... having interposed in the Circassian ...'s behalf, but how would he have done ...without the danger of betraying his sex, ...ich if discovered would by Mohammedan ...w have made him subject to the penalty, ...death, and Elmar, the buffoon as his ...ide and conductor likewise, indeed in all ...obability an entire batch of the lovely ...rem slaves would have been sent to hard ...or in the galleys on the mere suspicion ...at his surreptitious visit had been to one ...the other of them, for a good excuse for ...eding a harem and so making room for ...h favorites is often eagerly seized upon ...Eastern potentates, who now do not ...re to make use of the famous old fashion... method of the sack and the bowstring. ...He had therefore bitten his lips and dug ...nails into the palms of his hands in ...der to restrain himself, and during the ...ole while of the lovely Circassian's ...nishment the thought had been uppermost ...his mind that as the Valide Khanoum of ...e Khedive's harem was persecuting this ...r girl, so would the Princess Zeeneh be ...le to persecute and torture Nellie Trezarr ...en he had accomplished his terrible vow ...d made the former his head wife and the ...ter his slave.

...True, the soul of a harem lady's slipper ...not more than the sixteenth part of an ...ch in thickness, and though a blow there...m will sting and burn like fire for a few ...conds, it can make no mark even on the ...st delicate skin that will last for an hour ... two; but the mere shame and indignity ...such a punishment would be felt, and almost ...re to kill a highly educated and sensitive ...uropean girl; and then there were other ...rem punishments, he had been told, ...hich left no mark whatever on their vic...ms, such as being held under water in the ...ths until almost suffocated, or tickled ...s the Valide Khanoum had just hinted at) ...til brought to almost the verge of insan...y; indeed, he had heard of unfortunate ...ls being tickled to death by rivals who ...re jealous of their superior favor with ...eir common lord and master, such a mur...r sometimes taking hours in the perpet...tion, and the victim's cries being muffled ... not entirely still by stuffing her mouth ...ll of feathers or the pressing of a cushion ...reover.

...His mind, occupied with such painful ...oughts and fearful anticipations as these, ... followed Elmar the buffon in silence ...der the great cloth of gold curtain, on ...ch side of which a gigantic eunuch stood ...a guard, naked scimetar in hand, and one ... them on this occasion asked the jester ...his companion was.

...But Elmar was quite ready with a reply. ..."She is a medicine woman and a sorcer...," said she, in an awed kind of whisper, ...she suffered the war minster to pass on, ...d these imposters being a common class of ...sitants to harems, the eunuch merely ob...rved that she had almost the walk of a ...an, and looked another way, for he had ...eard that medicine women and sorceresses ...ere possessed the evil eye, and he had no ...esire that the biting influences of such an ...ptic should fall upon him.

...A few minutes later, therefore, Arabi ...asha was let out through the little, low...rched, oddly painted door that was em...asoned all over with texts from the El ...oran, and having handsomely remunerat... the buffon, he lost no time in hastening ...rough the orange grove and rejoining ...oulba Pasha, otherwise "His Brains."

..."You have been long gone. May the ...ext time have been worth the outlay."

..."The time has been well spent, for what...er I do I shall do under the sanction and ...thority of His Majesty, the Sultan, the ...preme ruler of Islam."

CHAPTER XVIII.

IN WHICH THE HELL BROTH BEGINS TO BOIL AND LIFT THE CAULDRON LID.

...For a minute or more after Arabi had ...oken the two pashas continued to regard ...ch other in silence.

...The news was almost too good for Toulba ...readily believe it.

...He did believe it, however, for he knew ...s confederate to be the very mirror of ...ith.

..."It is well," said Toulba, "and it makes

t," I answered, decisively "I will ... arry." Did the door move! I ... yet I had not touched it. "When Phil... Nelson discarded you," he began—but ... nd pushed him back from behind. "... er did," said Philip's voice, and my ... t stepped back, looked long, with ... hite as death in the moonlight, and the ... rried away. "I heard your maiden speech, ... arest," said Philip tenderly, and then hur... d here to meet you first alone. That ... s never told you what I entrusted to him ... of my long illness and the reasons that ... pt me away. He wrote that you were ... ged, but something told me he was false ... d as soon as I could travel I came to see ... th my own eyes. Hannah sent me to the ... hoolhouse just in time to hear your speech ... d see your face as you sat down, then ... me here and waited." The wind blew chill ... as we moved into the warm sitting room ... d shut the door, while the sound of dis... nt laughter came now and then upon our ... rs. I could only say, "Philip, my King," ... l then, hand clasped in hand, the silence ... s "golden."

CHATEAUGUAY BASIN, QUE.

PEOPLE.

John Gurney, Mayor-elect of Norwald ... gland, is blind.

Edwin Booth has never seen any one play ... mlet since, as a mere boy, he saw his ... her.

Emperor William will celebrate the twen... fifty anniversary of his elevation to the ... ussian throne on the 3d of January.

The semi-centennial of Queen Victoria's ... cession to the throne will occur June 20 ... 7, and it is understood to be the Queen's ... easure that the event shall be celebrated ... a general jubilee throughout her domin... s.

Reuben R. Thrall, of Rutland, Vt., ... bably the oldest practicing lawyer in the ... rld. He recently celebrated his 90th ... thday, and has several cases now on the ... ket. Mr. Thrall is old enough to know ... ter.

Rustein Pasha, who is assigned to Lon... n as Turkish Ambassador, is a ... ristian. He became famous as the Gover... of the Lebanon for a number of years ... ping the peace till displaced by a French ... rigue.

James H. Beard, the artist and humorist ... large gentleman, well-proportioned, with ... n-gray curls which fall to his shoulders ... looks every inch the artist, and possesses ... nd of humor which shows itself in all his ... tures.

Dio Lewis says that wearing large, thick ... vy boots and blue hand-knit stockings ... l improve a woman's complexion. There ... be no doubt that they would keep the ... from her face; but, gracious! how she ... uld look!

Miss Cordelia S. Waterman, who died at ... igeport, a few days since, was worth $1,... ,000 in her own right, and controlled ... perty to the value of $5,000,000, made ... efly in California. She left no direct ... rs and the property goes to a score of ... e of nephews and nieces.

Gerrit Hendricks, a Dutch Mennonist ... o came here with three others in 1683 ... a direct ancestor of the late Vice-Presi... t. These four Hollanders, on the 13th ... April, 1688, signed and published a pro... against slavery, which they found ex... ng in Eastern Pennsylvania, wherein they ... lared: "Ye Quakers do here handle men ... e they handle ye cattle."

MOODY'S SELECT WORKS

BY D. L. MOODY

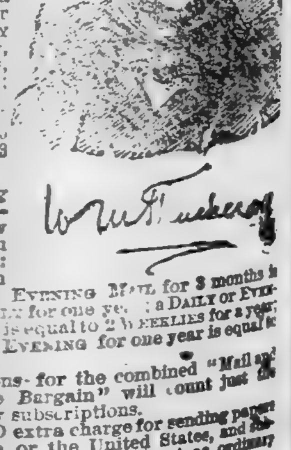
... pages. With portrait of the evangelist. This ... collection of anecdotes and illustrations from ... Moody's Speeches and Sermons.

GETTING ON IN THE WORLD

BY WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.

... pages. Bound in cloth, in blue and gold. ... is one of the most popular books, by a ... r who combines knowledge with the ability ... part it in a most attractive form. There is ... tter book for a young man, in fact for any... o read than "Getting on in the World."

HOURS WITH MEN AND BOOKS



BY WILLIAM MATHEWS, LL.D.

... pages. Bound in cloth, in green and gold. ... th any day ten times its cost for the tenth ... t contains." Full of useful information.

THE COTTAGE HEARTH

... rge, finely printed monthly magazine, made ... attractive literature, pure in tone and ... rated. Its price is $1.50 a year. Anyone ... THREE yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY ... at the regular rate of one dollar each will ... e as a present the above capital magazine ... e year. Specimen copies will be sent free ... plication to The Cottage Hearth Co., Boston, ... U.S.

... ULES.

The full ... s of the ... s subscrib... ... for 3 ... s. ... counting ... subscrip... ... see how ... prizes you ... entitled to: ... ription ... DAILY OR EVENING MAIL for 3 months is ... to a WEEKLY for one year; a DAILY or EVEN... ... 6 months is equal to 2 WEEKLIES for a year; ... DAILY OR EVENING for one year is equal to ... KLIES.

... subscriptions for the combined "Mail and ... g Machine Bargain" will count just the ... s ordinary subscriptions.

... here is NO extra charge for sending papers ... at Britain or the United States, and sub... ons for those points count as ordinary ... riptions.

... o entitle to a prize a club must consist of at ... two subscribers, and as many more as ... that is to say, the sending in of one sub... ion to the DAILY MAIL or to the WEEKLY ... would not entitle the sender to a prize, but ... ly subscription to both DAILY and WEEKLY, ... eral subscriptions to either one or both, will ... right.

A subscription to THE MAIL for two years, ... he money in advance, will count as two sub... rs; or, a subscription for three years as ... subscribers.

... en this list is sent in to the MAIL office a new ... ill be sent containing a larger list of prizes.

... se books are all handsomely bound in ... They are by excellent authors, and ... e welcome in any family.

... member, we prepay all postage on the ... rs and on the books.

... d for specimen number and illus... ... l prize list to THE MAIL, Toronto, ... da.

AN EGYPTIAN ROMANCE.

A Story of Love and Wild Adventure, founded upon Startling Revelati ns in the Career of Arabia Pasha.

By the Author of "NINA, THE NIHILIST," "THE RED SPOT," "THE RUSSIAN SPY," ETC., ETC., ETC.

Each blow and its consequent writhe and ... seemed to add to her fury indeed, and ... the lovely Circassian endeavored at ... to use her hands as a shield, two Turk... girls sprang forward and seizing her by ... wrists twisted them behind her back ... held them there so that she was power... to protect herself in any way.

Not until the lovely sufferer's shrieks be... so loud that there was danger of their ... piercing beyond the confines of the harem ... the Valide Khanoum desist.

Then she laughed and drew her slipper ... to her foot again, with the remark:

"That will teach thee not to play tricks ... thy lord and master's chief wife and the ... of the harem, my white swan of a Zo... beide. And beware how thou provokest me ... again, for though a Valide Khanoum may not ... a slave with anything that is not ... broad and flat and thin, so that the marks ... entirely fade out within a few hours, ... the most she can have her well nigh ... to death, which, of the two punish... ments, is far worse than that which thou ... received."

The Circassian made no reply, for she ... sobbing at the sight of her violated ... loveliness, and, indeed, it was enough to ... make angels weep. But the other girls, ... many of whom were almost as beautiful as ... angels, laughed instead as Zobeide walked ... along with downcast face in their midst, her ... long yellow hair now almost shrouding her ... entire form.

Another minute and the again noisy and ... laughing procession passed away from view ... through the opposite door, and the road ... once more clear for the disguised pasha's ... retreat.

One might feel inclined to blame him for ... not having interposed in the Circassian ... girl's behalf, but how would he have done ... without the danger of betraying his sex, ... which if discovered would by Mohammedan ... law have made him subject to the penalty, ... of death, and Elmar, the buffoon as his ... guide and conductor likewise, indeed in all ... probability an entire batch of the lovely ... harem slaves would have been sent to hard ... labor in the galleys on the mere suspicion ... that his surreptitious visit had been to one ... or the other of them, for a good excuse for ... weeding a harem and so making room for ... fresh favorites is often eagerly seized upon ... by Eastern potentates, who now do not ... care to make use of the famous old fashion... ed method of the sack and the bowstring.

He had therefore bitten his lips and dug ... his nails into the palms of his hands in ... order to restrain himself, and during the ... whole while of the lovely Circassian's ... punishment the thought had been uppermost ... in his mind that as the Valide Khanoum of ... the Khedive's harem was persecuting this ... poor girl, so would the Princess Zeenah be ... able to persecute and torture Nellie Trezarr ... when he had accomplished his terrible vow ... and made the former his head wife and the ... latter his slave.

True, the soul of a harem lady's slipper ... is not more than the sixteenth part of an ... inch in thickness, and though a blow there... from will sting and burn like fire for a few ... seconds, it can make no mark even on the ... most delicate skin that will last for an hour ... or two; but the mere shame and indignity ... of such a punishment would be felt, and almost ... sure to kill a highly educated and sensitive ... European girl; and then there were other ... harem punishments, he had been told, ... which left no mark whatever on their vic... tims, such as being held under water in the ... baths until almost suffocated, or tickled ... as the Valide Khanoum had just hinted at) ... until brought to almost the verge of insan... ity; indeed, he had heard of unfortunate ... girls being tickled to death by rivals who ... were jealous of their superior favor with ... their common lord and master, such a mur... der sometimes taking hours in the perpet... ration, and the victim's cries being muffled ... if not entirely still by stuffing her mouth ... full of feathers or the pressing of a cushion ... thereover.

His mind, occupied with such painful ... thoughts and fearful anticipations as these, ... he followed Elmar the buffon in silence ... under the great cloth of gold curtain, on ... each side of which a gigantic eunuch stood ... on guard, naked scimetar in hand, and one ... of whom on this occasion asked the jester ... who his companion was.

But Elmar was quite ready with a reply.

"She is a medicine woman and a sorcer... ess," said she, in an awed kind of whisper, ... as he suffered the war minster to pass on, ... and these imposters being a common class of ... visitants to harems, the eunuch merely ob... served that she had almost the walk of a ... man, and looked another way, for he had ... heard that medicine women and sorceresses ... often possessed the evil eye, and he had no ... desire that the bliting influences of such an ... optic should fall upon him.

A few minutes later, therefore, Arabi ... Pasha was let out through the little, low... arched, oddly painted door that was em... blazoned all over with texts from the El ... Koran, and having handsomely remunerat... ed the buffon, he lost no time in hastening ... through the orange grove and rejoining ... Toulba Pasha, otherwise "His Brains."

"You have been long gone. May the ... spent time have been worth the outlay."

Such was Toulba's greeting and Arabi's ... response took the form of:

"The time has been well spent, for what... ever I do I shall do under the sanction and ... authority of His Majesty, the Sultan, the ... supreme ruler of Islam."

CHAPTER XVIII.

IN WHICH THE HELL BROTH BEGINS TO BOIL AND LIFT THE CAULDRON LID.

For a minute or more after Arabi had ... spoken the two pashas continued to regard ... each other in silence.

The news was almost too good for Toulba ... to readily believe it.

He did believe it, however, for he knew ... his confederate to be the very mirror of ... truth.

"It is well," said Toulba, "and it makes me almost sorry that I've done what I have."

"What in the name of Allah and the prophet may that be?"

"Applied the match to the powder magazine before there was perhaps any pressing occasion, but I thought after you had left me this morning that as we were risking much for the people, the people might risk something for us; so I sent my trusty agents in amongst them, and had Tewfik dared to detain you a prisoner, in another hour all Cairo would have demanded you at the palace gates, and had he refused to give you up terrible would have been the vengeance that the crowd would have taken on him and his Feringhee favorites."

"You don't mean to tell me you have slipped the leash from off the bloodhounds' necks?"

"I have woke them up, and if you listen you will hear their distant growlings."

"You did ill. You should have let such sleeping dogs lie. If you have been mixing fire with their food they will next bite human flesh to cool their teeth. They have been pulling hard at their chains for a week past, and if you have cast them off, Toulba, we shall have a European massacre before twenty-four hours are over."

"In the name of Allah and the prophet, why not, since it is no more than the Feringhees deserve?

"Because we should give their divers nationalities good excuses for avenging them, and their vengeance might take the shape of dividing Egypt as lawful spoil. No, no; let us get back the million acres that England and France have already filched for what they are pleased to term the creditors of the state, let us rescue Egypt to the Egyptians and frighten these European jackals from the land, so that they shall no longer fatten on the bread which they take from its people, and to effect all this the fewer drops of their blood that we shed the better, Toulba."

"Inshallah, be it as you wish. What is it that we should first do?

"I must at once to the war office, where I may expect animmediate invasion of consuls, some to cajole and some to threaten. The joint control, you may depend upon it, is at an end with Gambetta s overthrow, so France will attempt to humbug and England to bully and Germany Austria and Russia will aim chiefly at widening the breech between them whilst estranging both nations still farther from us. I shall have to play with all these petty diplomats as with chessmen on a board and the more violently that rogues can be made to quarrel between themselves the better for the honest man whom they all want to rob. You will thus perceive Toulba, that my time will be fully occupied."

"Good, your excellency, and now you'll be kind enough to set me my work."

"You will require quiet to the city. Let the people know I am free and laboring hard in their service, tell them that they must be patient for a little while or that they will ruin all my fine projects by their over zeal; also that on no account must Ferringhee blood be shed, because thereby we shall draw all the Feeringhee nations down upon us to avenge their brethren, and that they will cast us into worse bondage than ever. Take these written instructions to Ali Bey Fehmy Kasr-en-Nil barracks. (Here out came pocketbook and pencil.) They are to instruct him to have the streets patrolled day and night so that any outbreak of the populace may be checked in the bud.

"He had better serve out no ball cartridges to his negroes, nor allow them their bayonets either, for the blood of the Soudan is hot, and were but one Egyptian life to be taken for a European's in your name, I would not guarantee your present popularity continuing for a single hour. You know the fickle humor of the mob."

The war minister bit his lip, for he knew there was much truth in what Toulba said.

"You are right," he remarked after a minutes reflection. "The favor of the people must be preserved at all hazards. For this reason, a little rough horseplay with the Ferringhees may be allowed and some trifling pillage and smashing of windows as well. But these things must not be permitted to go too far, so wherever more than a score of rioters gather together, they must be dispersed in a firm but good tempered manner by the soldiery. There, there, where is the need of cautioning you further? Act as you think best, and I'm sure that you will not go far wrong. We have each our separate and widely different work to perform, and the moment that I set about mine the better."

With these words Arabi waved his subordinate an adieu and rebetook himself to his carriage, whilst with equal haste Toulba remounted the beautiful white Arab stallion that had borne him to the palace and dashed Cairowards at a gallop.

. . . . .

He found the city in a ferment.

The native population were on the buzz, like an angry swarm of bees.

Arabs in long white burnouses, Fellaheens in nothing but blue cotton shirt and drawers, street gamins as naked as they came into the world, all clamoring for they hardly knew what and ripe for any kind of mischief were mingled up with portly traders wearing yellow or red turbans, yasmacked women, ragged camel and donkey drivers, untidy soldiers in dirty linen uniforms and gaunt, wild-eyed dervishes andsantons stripped to the waist, with little copper chains around their necks and long white beards flowing over their bronzed hair-matted chests, these latter running hither and thither, stirring up the hatred of the mob against the Ferringhee, the unbeliever, the accursed of Allah, the scorners of the prophet and so on.

These foul looking birds of prey were the agents which Toulba Pasha had employed to raise the populace in favor of his chief, and he could realize now, as he listened to their wild and impassioned rhetoric, and beheld them foaming at the mouth in the intensity of their excitement, how much easier it is to set a stone rolling down a mountain side than it is to stop it when once it has obtained the height of its velocity.

The European population had already taken the alarm at this eruption of the native element into their own more especial quarters of the vast city.

The magnificent shops, some of which were equal to that of Paris, London or New York, were already closed whilst the banks and principal hotels were evidently being prepared for a possible seige.

Here and there on the pavement lay the glass of shattered windows and of broken lamps, and the chimney pot hats of civilization frequently coursed each other along the dusty streets like gamboling dogs, hats which the desert wind, though it was blowing half a gale, had never torn from their owners' heads, but which the hands of the nation had smitten down, not only through hatred of the owners, but of the headgear itself, because the stiff brims prevented that bowing of the forehead into the earth which they considered as due five times a day to the majesty of the Almighty.

It would have been well had the infuriated mob confined their attentions to the headdress of the Ferringhee but unfortunately in more than one instance it had already been directed against their persons, for here and there a knife or other rude weapon was brandished in air that was blood covered, and as Toulba Pasha urged his horse along with what speed he was able, owing to the crowded condition of the streets, he beheld a well known usurer who was trying to slink along unperceived to his place of business, suddenly set upon with loud and bitter curses, jostled into a side alley, and there dispatched with a score at least of stabs, his belly being finally cut open and his bowels dragged forth.

It was so ghastly a sight that even the fierce Toulba felt sick at heart.

But another ten minutes brought him to the barracks, and half an hour later the black soldiers of Ali Bey Fehmy's regiment were patroling the streets and restoring them to something like order.

The hell broth had, however, already begun to boil and to lift the lid, and every European in Cairo felt that ere long it might boil over, and, streaming down on the outside of the cauldron, put out the fire of their lives; for they soon learnt that the war minister was master of the whole situation, and their protector, the Khedive, virtually a prisoner in his own palace; and though they felt that if they were massacred their respective countries would avenge them, such a conviction failed to give entire satisfaction or, indeed, in the majority of instances, any satisfaction at all.

True, the temporary quietude that was brought about by the patroling of the negro infantry restored some faint degree of confidence to their breasts, but even this was lost again when every European house, shop, bank and other places of business and residences were entered by the soldiery to search for arms, an order having gone forth that no European should be allowed to retain any species of life-destroying weapons in his possession, lest he should be tempted to use it against superior numbers and so court his own destruction.

"But how shall we protect our lives and those of our wives and children if they are really menaced?" was the question often put, but the answer always took some such form as: "We are appointed to defend you That is our business. You have nothing to do with such things."

And those who were so addressed could see that their defenders hated them every bit as much as the populace did, and that the unwelcome commands of their officers alone induced them to do that for which in heart they were wholly disinclined.

So the trusty weapons, if they could not be concealed, were given up, with many and sore misgivings, their owners mutely and almost despairingly wondering what would happen next.

Mr. Trezarr adopted another method for his own, and his family's safety, for after having made his bank as temporarily secure as possible, he took advantage of the soldiery patroling the streets to drive direct to the war office, in order, firstly, to obtain special written permission from the minster to carry whatever weapons he liked and to arm his servants, also secondly, to remind him of the offer of military protection, both for his home and bank, which his wife had won from him in the morning.

"Military protection for the bank you shall have, my dear, sir," replied Arabi blandly, "but for your private mansion it is now out of the question. Circumstances have altogether altered cases, and if I were to grant such a faver unto you, how could I refuse it to others? Added to which I have at present barely enough troops in the city to keep the mob under, for the same always rises to the surface in times of popular commotion. As I am most anxious, however, for the safety of my affianced wife, and of course her parents as well, you had better, servants and all, remove to my palace, where you will be quite secure from all harm."

This offer of the war minister Mr. Trezarr at once accepted.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

A prince among millionaires has passed away in the death of Vanderbilt. No one seems to know how much wealth he leaves; but it seems to be generally agreed that the amount cannot be short of two-hundred and odd millions. Not the President of the the United States, or any king in Europe, held so much power in his hands as had this magnate of Wall Street.

Lady Dufferin, who was so popular in Canada, has succeeded likewise in making herself the beloved of the Hindoo people. It is contrary to the cults of certain eastern people to permit male physicians to attend to women in sickness; and to supply the want so long, and so paintully felt, the Countess has for a long time been advocating the establishment of medical colleges for the training of females. In this philanthropic endeavour she is strongly supported by the High Priest of Bangal

We imported the sparrow from his home in a temperate clime, and he has claims upon our charity. The opinion exists that he is a destroyer of parasites and garden insects, but a single look at his beak ought to be sufficient to dispel that illusion. He is, as far as science knows, simply a useless member of the creation. We sometimes forget, however, that he is a domestic bird, and that in wintry weather he will remain as close to human habitation as the pigeon. Since we brought the little creature to a country where the snow covers his natural food supply, we should not forget him, when disposing of our crumbs.

One of the novelties of the religious community in London, England, is the appearance in the pulpit of a lady preacher. Miss Finkelstein is the name of the interesting parson, and she is said to have come from the Holy Lands. On Sunday last she occupied the pulpit of Mr. Joseph Parker, City Temple. She is described as plump and rosy, wearing very fascinating and coquettish garments. Her hat was high, a jaunty feather waving from the top; and her tightly cut jacket appears to have revealed the charming curves and the imperious graces of her figure. The female portion of the congregation appears to disapprove of the portly parson, but there is no word of protest by the other sex.

Atheism gives to its believers but little cheer and comfort in lieu of the hope of immortality of Christianity. Col. Bob Ingersoll, now recognized as the ablest exponent of the Agnostics, in one of his recent New York lectures thus gives about all the reason for the hope that is within him of the life which is to come:—"You ask me what about immortality? I answer frankly, I don't know. Immortality is the grandest thought that has ever found space and scope in the human brain. Let us hope for the best. That's all I can say." A dark and doubtful creed, truly! Christianity inspires its believers with the grandest hope of the great hereafter, and inspired by it men have cheerfully laid down their lives on earth when duty appeared to point to such a sacrifice. Atheism would strip men of all such confident assurance, and in its stead substitute the "I don't know" to the anxious enquirer.

The New York Tribune is not to-day the grand, outspoken journal that it was in the days of Horace Greely, its great founder, but its editorial columns yet contain many wholesome utterances. Writing recently of the real wrong done to the nation by some of its best citizens it well said:—"It is not by the political rascals and vote swindlers that the very existence of self-government in this country is threatened, but by reputable, decent and good citizens. Does any one ask how? Because they sustain the men who commit fraud. Because, however notorious and shameless frauds may be, the reputable men of the Democratic party still uphold them and are indifferent to them, or expend their first natural indignation in strong words, and then forget all about them, and support the same men next time. Unless good citizens change their mode of treating men who are guilty of political frauds, no improvement can be expected. On the contrary, the country must travel the downward road with ever accelerating rapidity." We do not pretend to decide how well these remarks may apply to the good men of the Great Republic, but there need be no doubt that, with very little variation, they are well adapted to the position now taken by hundreds of otherwise very worthy men in Canada. It is truly astonishing how easily the honorable elector will wink at what is dishonorable and mean in his party candidate. Unfortunately the remark holds good of the electors of both parties here. Probably it does across the border as well. The best interests of the country must inevitably suffer from such a course, and true patriotism ought to prevent electors from supporting and countenancing wrong doing, no matter what party the men may be connected with who are guilty of it.

Mr. Vanderbilt's Will.

Mr. Vanderbilt's will will attract widespread interest as the most important in a financial sense ever offered for probate. It is drawn with the most painstaking care and contains indisputable evidence of the testator's deliberate purpose of providing equitably for all his heirs and avoiding grounds for dissatisfaction and litigation. Each of the eight children has a bequest of $10,000,000—$5,000,000 outright and the remainder held in trust by the four sons. The oldest son has an additional bequest of $2,000,000 and his oldest son one of $1,000,000. The widow has an annuity of $200,000 in addition to the residence where the millionaire died, and all the paintings, statuary and works of art. The remainder of the estate, after $1,000,000 has been reserved for public and charitable objects and a large number of minor bequests have been made, is divided equally between the two oldest sons, Cornelius and William K. Vanderbilt.

The practical management of this vast estate is thus left in the hands of the two heirs conspicuous for executive ability, conservative instincts and stability of character. Mr. Depew, who is one of the two administrators, has stated that the chief heirs have agreed to keep the railroad securities together under the management of the two oldest sons. This will impart unity to the control and direction of this immense property, and the irreproachable reputation which each of them bears is a guarantee that this trust will be executed in accordance with sound business principles.

Among the general bequests are generous gifts to Vanderbilt University, the Metropolitan Museum, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Protestant Episcopal Church, St. Luke's Hospital and many other institutions and societies. The bequests under this head aggregate $1,000,000. The great bulk of the fortune, however, remains for the use of Mr. Vanderbilt's children and grandchildren. There will be some regret felt by the public that the superb collection of art treasures has been retained exclusively for the enjoyment of the family. The paintings and sculpture are bequeathed to the widow, and upon her death are to revert to the youngest son, Mr. Vanderbilt's purpose, as the will explicitely declares, was that his magnificent residence and art treasures should be retained and maintained forever by a descendant bearing the family name.

The popular racket now is for ladies to embroider suspenders for gentlemen. The young clergyman will be covered with suspenders at Christmas. They will keep up his trousers so that the slippers worked for him last year can be seen.

HOUSEHOLD.

Choice Recipes.

ANGEL-FOOD CAKE.—Ten eggs beaten to a stiff froth, one and one-half goblets of granulated sugar, one goblet of flour, one teaspoonful of cream tartar. Mix all three and run it through a sieve three times. Stir this in the eggs very slewly. Begin with slow fire and increase as is needed.

QUEEN OF PUDDINGS.—One pint of breadcrumbs, one quart of sweet milk, one cup of sugar, butter size of an egg, yelks of four eggs, half the juce of a lemon. Bake as custard. Spread a layer of jelly over the pudding while hot. Beat the whites of four eggs well, add one cup of white sugar, juce of half a lemon. Cover with the frosting and bake until slightly brown. To be eaten cold.

JUMBLES.—One and one-half cupfuls butter, two cupfuls sugar, five eggs, one and one-half pints flour, one-half cupful of corn starch, one teaspoonful baking powder, one teaspoonful of extract lemon, one-half cupful of chopped pearuts, mixed with one-half cupful granulated sugar. Beat the butter and sugar smooth; add the beaten eggs, the flour, corn starch and powder, sifted together, and the extract; flour the board, roll out the dough rather thin, cut out with biscuit-cutter, roll in the chopped peanuts and sugar, lay on greased baking tins; bake in rather hot oven eight to ten minutes.

ROAST GOOSE.—After washing the goose rub it inside and out with salt and and pepper and fill it with mushrooms and two tomatoes or their equivalent of firm pieces of canned tomatoes, seasoning with salt, pepper, and a little lemon juice, sewing up the bird. Rost before a brisk fire for half an hour and have a pint of tomato juice and the juice of one lemon, seasoned with a little pepper and salt, ready to turn over the fowl at the expiration of the time; baste constantly with it, dredging every now and then with flour, so that the outside will be nicely browned.

FRIED OYSTERS.—Beat up the yelks of four eggs with three tablespoonfuls of sweet oil, and season them with a teaspoonful of salt and a saltspoonful of cayenne pepper; beat up thoroughly. Dry twelve fat oysters on a napkin; dip them in the egg-batter, then in cracker-dust, shake off the loose cracker-dust, dip them again in the egg-batter, and, lastly, roll them in fine bread-crumbs. Fry in very hot fat, using fat enough to cover them. The oil gives them a nice flavor.

POTATO CHIPS.—Select large potatoes, peel them, slice them on a plate or cabbage-cutter, which may be procured at any house-furnishing store, throw the slices into ice-water or very cold water, and let them soak awhile to draw out the starch; then remove to a clean towel and absorb all the water from them with the towel, throw them into a wire basket in hot lard, keep the slices separate, and when a delicate yellow drain them from the fat. Spread on brown paper to absorb the fat, sprinkle them lightly with salt and put in a dish. They may be eaten cold or hot, and are good for many days, as a little while in the oven will make them as good as new.

BREAKFAST MUFFINS.—Sift together one pound of flour, a teaspoonful of salt, and two tespoonfuls of baking-powder. Beat together a tablespoonful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of creamery butter, and the yelks of two eggs; add to the flour; beat the whites of the eggs, and add them also; add a little over half a pint of scalded cream; mix, half fill the hot buttered muffin-rings, and bake in a quick oven.

Woolen Underclothing.

Among the many means by which we seek to guard ourselves from the effects of chill there is one which hardly, even now, receives sufficient attention—the use of woolen underclothing, except in the hottest weather. The majority of persons of the male sex do, indeed, show their appreciation of its wholesome qualities; but there remains a considerable moiety of these, and a greater number of women and children, who prefer an undersuit of smooth, but relatively meager, linen. Yet the superior advantages of wearing wool next the skin are easily apparent. They do not depend merely on its greater warmth and closeness of application. It is further capable, according to its texture and by virtue of its composition, of better adaptation, in respect to temperature, to the needs of various climates and the changes of seasons than any other dress material. Moreover, it exhibits a special faculty for absorbing and distributing moisture. It is this property especially which renders it the natural next covering of the constantly perspiring skin. Women, as well as men, we repeat, but above all children and the aged, who are alike particularly apt to take cold, should certainly adopt a woolen material for their customary undergarment. It is easily possible to adjust the texture to the season, so that it shall be warm enough in winter and not too warm in summer.

Never Mind.

What's the use of always fretting,
At the trials we shall find
Ever strewn along our pathway?
Travel on and never mind.

Travel onward—working, hoping—
Cast no lingering look behind
At the trials once encountered—
Look ahead and never mind.

And if those who might befriend you,
Whom the ties of nature bind,
Should refuse to do their duty,
Look to heaven and never mind.

Friendly words are often spoken
When the feelings are unkind;
Take them for their real value.
Pass them on and never mind.

Fate may threaten, clouds may lower,
Enemies may be be combined;
If your trust in God is steadfast,
He will help you, never mind.

Du Pio Pico, the last Mexican Governor-General of Upper California, returned to his old quarters at Los Angeles soon after the country was acquired by the United States, and has lived there from that day to this. He has never been able to master a single sentence of the English language, and aside from adopting the style of dress of his conquerors, he remains just where their advent found him forty years ago.

The Standard.

MARKDALE DECEMBER 31, 1885

MONSTER TEA-MEETING.

The weather on Christmas day was all that could be desired, but the sleighing was very thin, the roads being entirely bare in many places, which kept a great many at a distance from attending the great Methodist tea-meeting in connection with the opening of the church. The basement of the church is a grand affair in itself, being the full size of the church, eleven feet clear to the ceiling; eight large windows—four on each side—besides two small ones at each end; two large class-rooms at one end, and kitchen and pantry at the other. There is seating room at tables for nearly 150, leaving abundance of space for numerous waiters to attend the tables. The two furnaces heat the basement as well as the whole of the church above at the same time. When the tables are cleared away the basement will seat about five hundred. There was an abundance of the very best of provisions, and the waiters did their part admirably, every man, woman and child being served to perfection. By half-past seven, over five hundred were fed; and the program was entered upon sharp on time in the auditorium. Here everything in connection with this grand edifice glistened with harmony and beauty, the various speakers, one after another, arriving at one conclusion, viz., that it was the most beautiful, complete and faultless church for the size they had ever seen. This was saying a great deal, as many of them are men of more than ordinary extensive experience.

The following is what the Flesherton Advance says about this church: "For magnificence and completeness of finish there is no church North of Toronto to compare to this. The contractor, Mr. Richards, has carried out his work in the most complete and satisfactory manner. The self-supporting roof work is the finest piece of work of the kind we have ever seen, and forms the principal source of attraction in the interior of this singularly beautiful and imposing edifice. The plastering, stucco work, painting, windows, lamps and everything else inside the edifice show exquisite taste and superior workmanship."

Mr. Richards is truly a master builder, and has in this structure far superseded the most sanguine expectations of the building committee. The cast iron work was all done by Moffat Bro's of this village, and reflects the highest credit on their taste and workmanship. The painting also does credit to R. O. Whitby, our resident esteemed young friend. In fact there is nothing to be seen about it that does not reflect the highest credit, first to the architect, M. B. Aylsworth, Esq., of Toronto, and afterwards to the contractor and those employed by him; furthermore, the harmony that prevailed throughout amongst the building committee, as well as with the congregation and extending to builder and designer was something remarkable in such an extensive undertaking. The chair was honored by M. Richardson, Esq., of Flesherton, who discharged his duties in his usual pleasing and appreciative manner. The speakers were Revs. Howell, of Owen Sound; Savage, of Aurora; Ayers, of Flesherton; Grandy, of Markdale; Casson, the pastor, and Dr. Freeman, of Milton. The music from the choir was one of the leading features of the entertainment. Markdale Methodist choir have an enviable reputation, but on this occasion especially, all lovers of fine music were delighted. Mr. Bowes, the leader, cannot get too much praise for his arduous duties and wonderful success in this particular direction. Prof. James gave two solos during the evening which was simply grand. His voice is not surpassed in the Province, and then by constant practice (being a music teacher) there is real harmony in his renderings. Altogether this was a grand success in every particular, far surpassing anything attempted in the past. About 600 were in attendance, and the proceeds from tickets amounted to $142.23 besides a subscription of $503.

SECOND SUNDAY.

The opening services were continued on Sunday, the 27th, when Rev. Dr. Griffin, of Guelph, preached two eloquent sermons, at 10:30 and 7 o'clock, and Rev. Mr. Howell, of Owen Sound, gave a stirring sermon at 2:30. The audiences were large and very attentive. Collections $60. This closed a very profitable series of opening services which will be long remembered, and looked back to with pleasure in years to come.

The proceeds were as follows:—

First Sunday collections.....	$142 23
Second Sunday collections....	60 00
Proceeds of tea meeting.....	142 88
Subscription at tea-meeting...	503 00
Social which followed.....	10 88
	$858 49

NOMINATIONS.

GLENELG.

In this township the nomination was held at the town hall, and was the largest and most respectable attendance we have yet seen on such an occasion. The old council gave an account of their stewardship very satisfactorily. Mr. Davis, the reeve, withdrew from municipal life and Mr. Charles Moffatt and Mr. J. A. McMillan are the candidates for that position, while Messrs. Brown of Markdale, Dunsmore, and McCuaig are in the field for deputy-reeve with about equal chances for success, while the following seven candidates seek election for councillor:—John Black, Geo. Binnie, Geo. Lamb, Patrick Neil, Edward Rutledge, Thos. Sullivan and Christopher Williams. The above John Black is not the clerk, as some might suppose. This part of the township having been without a representative for some years is now placed in the enviable position of having the balance of power, and if judiciously used, can elect a majority of the council for 1886.

MARKDALE POLICE.

The nomination of police trustees was held on Monday when the following were nominated and are the candidates for the fathership of the city, viz: Wm. Lucas, E. Davis, Wm. Douglas, T. Mathews, Geo. Steer, Geo. Haskett and S. J. Coleman.

ARTEMESIA.

Dr. Christoe the present reeve, and A. Elliott, are the candidates for reeve, and a hot contest is likely to ensue. The Dr. is a strong man, yet when the leading men of Flesherton are opposing him it will likely go hard with him. For councillors, J. McArthur is elected by acclamation for Priceville ward and John Boland for Markdale ward, while W. G. Pickell and Geo. Moore are the candidates for Flesherton ward, and W. T. McKee and S. Pedlar for Eugenia.

EUPHRASIA.

Euphrasia nomination was not as boisterous as usual. Contrary to the expectations of the people, Mr. Myles has come out as a candidate for the reeveship. Mr. Gilray will doubtless, however, be re-elected, and we think should be by all means. Shepherdson and Fawcett are hard at it for the second seat, and though the contest will be hot and heavy, Shepherdson will more than likely be elected. Jas. Boyd, J. Erskine, H. Hurd and Wallace Patton, are the candidates for councillors, the latter is expected to withdraw.

HOLLAND.

Mr. Cameron was elected by acclamation. Messrs. Shute and Norton are the candidates for deputy-reeve, and Messrs. Howey, Galbraith, Williscroft, John Murray and Wm. Hampton for councillors.

OSPREY NOMINATIONS.

Reeve, T. Gamey, A. McGirr; Deputy-Reeve, E. Potts, A. McIntyre. Councillor—J. Taylor, J. Winters, J. Hudson, R. Sprott, J. Speers, J. R. Sing, J. Duncan.

Meaford Road.

(From our correspondent.)

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mr. Adam Hislop, while working with a threshing machine, met with a very serious accident. It seems that while in the act of removing some straw from the cylinder his hand got caught and was badly mangled. He is at present doing well, but will never have the same use of his hand.

The most of the long and heavy lumber required to build the Markdale roller skating rink has been supplied from the Eclipse saw-mill, now under the superintendence of Mr. J. Warling.

Mr. Samuel Gilbert is back home again.

The late thaw has made business dull. Another supply of the beautiful would be very acceptable.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS.

There is now being manufactured here an article for instantly removing pain of any acute external nature, and it is certainly the most perfect cure for Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache and the like that has ever been tried. It is called Fluid Lightning from the rapid manner in which it acts, and is manufactured by McGregor & Parke. Sold in Markdale by Hill Bro's. 5

A Bitter Fight.

THE TORONTO NEWSPAPERS STRUGGLING FOR CIRCULATION AND SUPREMACY.

In this year of grace there is no keener competition than that between city newspapers. An example of the bitter fight for supremacy is afforded by the extraordinary offer made by THE TORONTO NEWS—the Democratic daily and weekly published by Edmond E. Sheppard. He offers his WEEKLY—and it is doubtless the most amusing and independent weekly in Canada—for one year for a dollar, and gives to each individual subscriber a dollar's worth of books FREE as a premium. There are 31 books to choose from, and with the list before us we are puzzled to know how it can be done, at the prices quoted are the lowest published rates for the books advertised. In THE NEWS office over a hundred thousand of these books are stored, and twenty-five thousand have already been disturbed.

The combination offer made by THE NEWS—three months of its Daily ($4 per annum) from the present date to April 1st, 1886—and nine months of the Weekly, i. e., from April 1st to December 31st, '86, for $1.75, and a dollar and seventy-five cents' worth of books as a premium is still more surprising, and is the finest offer ever made by a metropolitan publication to rural readers. The three months of the DAILY will include daily reports of the sessions of the Local and Dominion parliaments, and owing to the French Canadian crisis the coming session will be of the most thrilling interest of any since Confederation. More than this, farmers will find it to their advantage to take a daily paper in the winter months when the family have plenty of leisure to read and when the daily cattle and grain market reports are of much value to those having produce to sell.

Those taking THE DAILY TORONTO NEWS will get a four page paper five days out of the week and an eight page paper on Saturday. The Saturday number contains the political cartoon and the page of funny pictures, jokes, stories and sketches, which are such popular features of the WEEKLY, together with Talmage's sermon the serial story and the column of farm humor from the farmin' editor, which also appears in the WEEKLY. Everybody knows what the WEEKLY is.—It has a circulation of 25,000 and is the only paper in Canada which doesn't publish advertisements.

The political conduct of THE NEWS is Democratic. Many things appear in its editorial columns with which we may not agree, but its independence of tone, and fearless discussion of Canada's present and future must do good by exciting the electors to the enquiry: "Whether are we drifting?"

We have a personal letter from Mr. Sheppard, the publisher of THE NEWS, before us, assuring us that his extraordinary offers will be carried out to the letter, and we feel sure that they will. THE NEWS is not in competition with local papers, and we quote the publisher's words, coupled with our advice to try THE NEWS for a year:—"The man who is too mean to take his local paper is too stingy to be honest, too small to be respected, and too ignorant to hope to be honored by his fellow-citizens."

New and Renewed Subs.

Johnson McLoughry, Fleming, Man., Jan. '87

Josiah Payne, Warsaw, Jan. '86.
Jas. Arnold, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Mrs. Eliza Brown, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Andrew Irving, Markdale, Nov. '86.
Edward Lomas, Markdale, Jan. '87.
A. Nodwell, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Joseph Richardson, Markdale, Jan. '87.
Jas. Kerly, Priceville, Jan. '86.
Jas. Brown, Durham, an. '87.
E. E. Hicks, Rocklyn, Jan. '86
Peter Neil, (new), Pomona, Jan. '87.
Fred Stafford, Berkeley, Jan. '86.
Andrew McQuacker, Walter's Falls, Jan 87.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.

The reason why Hagyard's Yellow Oil is so popular with the people as a household remedy for pain, is in the fact that while many liniments only relieve, Yellow Oil both relieves and cures Rheumatism and all aches, pains, soreness and lameness.

Market Reports.

MARKDALE.

Fall Wheat	$0 78	to	$0 82
Spring Wheat	0 80	to	0 82
Barley	40	to	65
Peas	55	to	55
Oats	28	to	29
Butter	10	to	13
Eggs	17	to	18
Apples	40	to	60
Potatoes	20	to	25
Hay	9 00	to	0 00
Pork	4 50	to	4 75
Flour	4 60	to	4 75
Wool	17	to	18

TO THE PUBLIC.

—:o:—

We have opened a SHOEMAKER SHOP in connection with our business, under the management of Mr. Kay, well known as a superior workman, and purpose turning out a class of goods of unsurpassed excellence at prices which cannot be beaten.

Repairing Done Neatly, Cheaply & Expeditiously.

—:o:—

We continue to sell our genuine Dry Goods, Boots & Shoes &c., &c., at figures which astonish the shoddy men who make such loud "blowing."

GIVE US A TRIAL.

☞ N. B.—Salt only 70 cents per barrel.

WM. BROWN & CO.

Markdale, October 20, 1885. 283-6

J. J. IRWIN, V. S.,

Honorary Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College.

—o— —o—

Treats all Diseases of Domestic Animals.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

—o— —o—

VETERINARY MEDICINES KEPT & DISPENSED

CALLS PROMPTLY ATTENDED. CHARGES MODERATE.

Office & Infirmary: MILL ST., Opposite Standard Office, MARKDALE.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

I HAVE just purchased a fine Berkshire Boar, 15 months old, for service at my premises. Charges, $1.00 cash.

273-77 B. COLEMAN.

ESTRAY.

CAME into my premises, on or about the 1st of October, one year old steer, red and white. Any person proving property and paying expenses, can take him away.

WM. HAMPTON.

Holland, Dec. 3, '85. *274-76

Monthly Fairs.

Orangeville—The second Thursday in each month.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Markdale—Saturday before Orangeville.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

Chatsworth—Monday before Durham.

Holland Centre—Saturday before Chatsworth.

Priceville—Monday before Durham,

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Walkerton—Last Wednesday in every month.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

"WHAT SAY YOU TO A PIECE OF ROAST BEEF AND MUSTARD?"

Well, there is much to be said. The question being asked of the banqueter at the average boarding house, calls up reminiscences of close contiguity to the horns, and beefstake three cuts south thereof. He, of course, will pass unless it occurs to him that he needs a hinge for his trunk. Should there be any suffering, the effects of an indulgence is such sinuous fare, use McGregor's Speedy Cure, a sure and effectual remedy for Dyspepsia, Constipation and all affections of the stomach and liver. Sold by Hill Bro's. Trial bottles free. 5

A LIVER CURE.

One single trial of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure will convince the most skeptical and confirm better than thousands of testimonials that it is a sure cure. Medicine and Recipe Book $1. Dec.

HAMILTON the photographer is turning out excellent work, in fact his pictures compare favorably with the best city work.

The Canadian Horticulturist,

Published monthly by the Fruit Growers Association of Ontario, and now entering on its ninth year, is the only horticultural publication conducted with special reference to the peculiarities of our Canadian climate. It numbers among its contributors our ablest horticulturists.

The subscription is only ONE DOLLAR A YEAR, which entitles the subscriber to a copy of the Annual Report of the Fruit Growers' Association for the year 1885 containing the discussions at the three meetings held during the year carefully reported by a short hand writer, AND IN ADDITION, whichever of the following articles the subscriber may designate namely (1) three plants of the Ontario Strawberry, or (2) a yearling tree of the Russian Yellow Transparent Apple, or (3) a plant of the Lucretia Dewberry, or (4) a yearling vine of the Early Victor Grape, or (5) two plants of the Milboro Raspberry, or (6) a package containing three papers of seeds, viz: Gypsophila paniculata. Aquilegia coerulea and Delphinium, mixed colors.

A sample copy will be sent to any person on application. If you take any interest in the cultivation of any kind of fruit or vegetables or flowers, and wish to have the experience of our best cultivators and to keep abreast of the times in these matters take the Canadian Horticulturist.

Subscriptions may be sent direct to the Editor,

D. W. BEADLE, St. Catharines. 274-7

AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.

100 Columns and 100 Engravings in each issue.

44th YEAR. $1.50 A YEAR.

Send three 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy (English or German) and Premium List of the Oldest and Best Agricultural Journal in the World. Address,

PUBLISHERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,
751 Broadway, New York.

We will club the Agriculturist with the STANDARD giving the two for $2.—Ed. STANDARD.

HELLO!

New Grocery IN BERKELEY.

MRS. THOS. BROWN wishes to intimate to the inhabitants of Berkeley and surrounding country, that she has opened up a first-class Grocery Store, and hopes, by strict attention to business and selling away down below others in the village, to get a fair share of the patronage.

She has on hand SUGARS of all descriptions; TEAS of best grade; TOBACCO, all kinds; also No. 1 COAL OIL, SPICES, PICKLES, BROOMS, PAILS, OYSTERS and CANNED GOODS in season, and everything else kept in a first-class Grocery.

Come in and see for yourselves, and be satisfied that I mean what I say and will do what I advertise.

Mrs. T. Brown.

Berkeley, Dec. 29, '85.

BERKSHIRE BOAR.

FOR service at McBride's, near Berkeley mills. Terms 75 cents cash or $1.00 if not so paid.

276-80 ROBT. McBRIDE.

County Council.

From the O. S. Times.

THURSDAY.

The reports of County Property, Education, Finances and Printing Committees, were presented and passed.

FRIDAY.

Mr. McKenny presented report of Finance Committee, recommending payment of several accounts; also that $25 be granted to each of the Farmers' Institutes, and that the Treasurer purchase wholesale a stock of stationery for County Officials and Board of Examiners.

Mr. Frost read report on circular received from Department of Agriculture, in which it was recommended that the people of the county should take an interest in the coming Colonial Exhibition. Adopted.

Mr. Read presented report of Education Committee. It recommended a grant of $25 to the Teachers' Institute of each of the Ridings; also the payment of several accounts.

Council passed by-law respecting Peddlers through the final stages. The by-law imposes a license fee of $25 on all Peddlers, in accordance with the new Act.

The Council went into Committee and made some amendments in the Education report. On the adoption of the report being moved in Council, it was Moved by Dr. Christoe in amendment, seconded by Dr. Jamieson, That the report be referred back to Committee with instructions to insert the following:—That your Committee would recommend that the School Inspectorates of the county be changed. That the original ground which composed Inspector Gordon's Inspectorate be restored to him, excepting perhaps a slight reduction to equalize the work with another Inspector. That a duly educationally qualified Inspector be sought for the second Inspectorate, whose service shall commence with the New Year, or so soon thereafter as possible, thereby dispensing with the other Inspectors now employed—being deemed inefficient. That the Inspectors be paid by salary—such salary to include every change pertaining to the office. That a Committee of five be balloted for—to whom shall be committed the duty to ask for applications and decide upon a fitting man for the office, and also to arrange the Inspectorates and the salaries to be paid—their report to be submitted to new Council in January.

Dr. Christoe said it was thought no sympathy to Inspectors, for he had a high opinion of them personally, and the position he was forced to take was painful to him, but it was solely because the Inspectors (with the exception of Mr. Gordon,) were inefficient, and the education of the county was suffering. His idea was that if Mr. Gordon's old Inspectorate was restored to him, with the exception of Collingwood of Euphrasia, it would equalize the county, so that there would be two good Inspectorates, and they might have two good men.

Mr. Read said there was nothing to show that Mr. Grier was inefficient, except hearsay. Education did not seem to be suffering in his Inspectorate, and as an instance he stated that at the last entrance examinations while at Owen Sound a little over 50 per cent. passed, and at Durham 33 per cent., at Meaford 57 per cent. passed. He thought also that Mr. Grier's long experience counted for something. He would not go for dismissing an Inspector on mere hearsay.

Mr. McKenny spoke at length on the question, saying that it would not be a task members of the Council should be called on to undertake to give their personal experience of the qualifications of the Inspectors, or to detail the information which they must otherwise get from hearsay; but he urged the passage of the motion on the ground that the educational interests of the county demanded that we should have Inspectors with the legal qualifications.

Mr. Frost said although the County Council was empowered to dismiss for inefficiency, that inefficiency should be proved in some tangible way, and not be taken on mere hearsay. An objection was raised that the inspectors were men of the past; but he did not think that a sufficient reason. We did not discard men in other professions who had long experience because they were getting up in years. In the legal profession there were men who entered years ago when they never passed an examination, but they were successful practitioners. And so with doctors, they were not discarded when they had been practising for a long time and got experience. Mr. Frost went on to speak at some length on educational matters in general. He was in favor of having two Inspectorates, but did not believe the present motion was going about it properly.

Mr. Agnew said he would dismiss no man on hearsay or rumor, but wanted something definite. He agreed with Mr. Frost that the motion would be impracticable.

Mr. Gilray said the East Grey Inspectorate was formerly part of North Grey, and a division was made because it was too large. He did not being properly attended to, and it was now proposed to go back to the same thing again. The people of his township were satisfied with their Inspector.

Mr. Bowes also defended Mr. Grier, and said there was no complaint from his township. If there were complaints against the Inspector of South Grey let them deal with him, without dragging in East Grey.

Dr. Jamieson spoke of a complaint against Mr. Ferguson in neglecting to have a fair proportion of model school pupils sent to Durham school; also of the entrance examination being withdrawn from Durham and representations were made to the Department.

Mr. Miller referred to several teachers having spoken to him about the inefficiency of the Inspectors of East and South Grey. He did not believe, however, in dismissing them without notice, as this motion would do.

Mr. Frost again spoke, severely criticising the tirade that had appeared in a paper attacking the Inspectors. He referred at some length to the increasing cost of education in the country, and the complicated system we were building up. He thought something should be done to simplify it.

Dr. Christoe replied to the discussion; intending that his motion should prevail.

Mr. Cameron said he was opposed to dividing the county into three Inspectorates, and was in favor of having to again.

Mr. Shute said it appeared from the discussion there was a grievance in South Grey, but none in East Grey.

The yeas and nays on Dr. Christoe's amendment were as follows:—

Yeas—Christoe, Blakely, McNicol, McKinney, Hetwill, McCormick, Davis, McMil-

UBLIC.

ER SHOP in connection
gement of Mr. Kay, well
d purpose turning out a ellence at prices which oly & Expeditiously.

y Goods, Boots & Shoes
n the shoddy men who

TRIAL.

cents per barrel.

ROWN & CO.

265-tf

N, V. S.,

Veterinary College.

Horses Examined For Soundness and Certificates Given.

KEPT & DISPENSED

HARGES MODERATE.

MARKDALE.

Canadian Horticulturist,

d monthly by the Fruit Growers' ion of Ontario, and now entering on h year, is the only horticultural on conducted with special reference culiarities of our Canadian climate. bers among its contributors our rticulturists.

ubscription is only ONE DOL- A YEAR, which entitles the sub- o a copy of the Annual Report of t Growers' Association for the year taining the discussions at the three held during the year carefully re- y a short hand writer, AND IN TION, whichever of the following he subscriber may designate namely plants of the Ontario Strawberry, or rling tree of the Russian Yellow ent Apple, or (3) a plant of the Dewberry, or (4) a yearling vine of Victor Grape, or (5) two plants of oro Raspberry, or (6) a package g three papers of seeds, viz: Gypso- niculata. Aquilegia cœrulea and nm, mixed colors.

ple copy will be sent to any person ation. If you take any interest in vation of any kind of fruit or of s or flowers, and wish to have the s of our best cultivators and to keep f the times in these matters take the Horticulturist.

iptions may be sent direct to the

BEADLE, St. Catharines. 214-77

ICAN AGRICULTURIST.

lumns and 100 Engrav- ings in each issue.

EAR. $1.50 A YEAR,

ree 2-cent stamps for Sample Copy or German) and Premium List of est and Best Agricultural al in the World. Address, ERS AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, Broadway, New York.

club the Agriculturist with the giving the two for $2.—Ed. Stan-

HELLO!

w Grocery BERKELEY.

hos. Brown wishes to intimate to tants of Berkeley and surrounding that she has opened up a first-class tore, and hopes, by strict attention s and selling away down below the village, to get a fair share of nage.

s on hand SUGARS of all descrip- AS of best grade; TOBACCO, all lso No. 1 COAL OIL, SPICES, S, BROOMS, PAILS, OYSTERS NED GOODS in season, and every- kept in a first-class Grocery. n and see for yourselves, and be hat I mean what I say and will do vertise.

Mrs. T. Brown.

y, Dec. 29, '85.

KSHIRE BOAR,

rvice at McBride's, near Rockwood. Terms 75 cents cash or $1.00 aid.

BOB'T. McKINDLY.

County Council.

From the O. S. Times.

THURSDAY.

The reports of County Property, Education, Finance and Printing Committees, were presented and passed.

FRIDAY.

Mr. McKenny presented report of Finance Committee, recommending payment of several accounts; also that $25 be granted to each of the Farmers' Institutes, and that the Treasurer purchase wholesale a stock of stationery for County Officials and Board of Examiners.

Mr. Frost read report on circular received from Department of Agriculture, in which it was recommended that the people of the county should take an interest in the coming County Exhibition. Adopted.

Mr. Read presented report of Education Committee. It recommended a grant of $25 to the Teachers' Institute of each of the ridings; also the payment of several accounts.

Council passed by-law respecting Peddlers through the final stages. The by-law imposes a license fee of $25 on all Peddlers, in accordance with the new Act.

The Council went into Committee and made some amendments in the Education report. On the adoption of the report being moved in Council, it was Moved by Dr. Christoe in amendment, seconded by Dr. Jamieson, That the report be referred back to Committee with instructions to insert the following:—That your Committee would recommend that the School Inspectorates of the county be changed. That the original ground which composed Inspector Gordon's Inspectorate be restored to him, excepting perhaps a slight reduction to equalize the work with another Inspector. That a duly educationally qualified Inspector be sought for the second Inspectorate, whose service shall commence with the New Year, or so soon thereafter as possible, thereby dispensing with the other Inspectors now employed—being deemed inefficient. That the Inspectors be paid by salary—such salary to include every change pertaining to the office. That a Committee of five be ballotted for—to whom shall be committed the duty to ask for applications and decide upon a fitting man for the office, as also to arrange the Inspectorates and the salaries to be paid—their report to be submitted to new Council in January.

Dr. Christoe said it was thought no animosity to Inspectors, for he had a high opinion of them personally, and the position he was forced to take was painful to him, but it was solely because the Inspectors (with the exception of Mr. Gordon,) were inefficient, and the education of the county was suffering. His idea was that if Mr. Gordon's old Inspectorate was restored to him, with the exception of Collingwood of Euphrasia, it would equalize the county, so that there could be two good Inspectorates, and they might have two good men.

Mr. Read said there was nothing to show that Mr. Grier was inefficient, except hearsay Education did not seem to be suffering in his Inspectorate, and as an instance he stated that at the last entrance examinations while at Owen Sound a little over 50 per cent. passed, and at Durham 33 per cent., at Meaford 57 per cent. passed. He thought also that Mr. Grier's long experience counted for something. He would not go for dismissing an Inspector on mere hearsay.

Mr. McKenny spoke at length on the question, saying that it would not be a task members of the Council should be called on to undertake to give their personal experience of the qualifications of the Inspectors, or to read the information which they must otherwise get from hearsay; but he urged the passage of the motion on the ground that the educational interests of the county demanded that we should have Inspectors with the legal qualifications.

Mr. Frost said although the County Council was empowered to dismiss for inefficiency, that inefficiency should be proved in some tangible way, and not be taken on mere hearsay. An objection was raised that the Inspectors were men of the past; but he did not think that a sufficient reason. We did not discard men in other professions who had long experience because they were getting up in years. In the legal profession there were men who entered years ago when they never passed an examination, but they were successful practitioners. And so with doctors, they were not discarded when they had been practising for a long time and got experience. Mr. Frost went on to speak at some length on educational matters in general. He was in favor of having two Inspectorates, but did not believe the present motion was going about it properly.

Mr. Agnew said he would dismiss no man on hearsay or rumor, but wanted something definite. He agreed with Mr. Frost that the motion would be impracticable.

Mr. Gilray said the East Grey Inspectorate was formerly part of North Grey, and a division was made because it was too large, and not being properly attended to, and it was now proposed to go back to the same thing again. The people of his township were satisfied with their Inspector.

Mr. Bowes also defended Mr. Grier, and said there was no complaint from his township. If there were complaints against the Inspector of South Grey let them deal with him, without dragging in East Grey.

Dr. Jamieson spoke of a complaint against Mr. Ferguson in neglecting to have a fair proportion of model school pupils sent to Durham school; also of the entrance examination being withdrawn from Durham all representations were made to the Department.

Mr. Miller referred to several teachers having spoken to him about the inefficiency of the Inspectors of East and South Grey. He did not believe, however, in dismissing them without notice, as this motion would do.

Mr. Frost again spoke, severely criticising articles that had appeared in a paper attacking the Inspectors. He referred at some length to the increasing cost of education in the country, and the complicated system we were building up. He thought something should be done to simplify it.

Dr. Christoe replied to the discussion; contending that his motion should prevail.

Mr. Cameron said he was opposed to dividing the county into three Inspectorates, and was in favor of having to again.

Mr. Shute said it appeared from the discussion there was a grievance in South Grey, but none in East Grey.

The yeas and nays on Dr. Christoe's amendment were as follows:—

Yeas—Christoe, Blakely, McNicol, McKenny, Hewgill, McCormick, Davis, McMillan; Cameron, Totten, V. Lang, O'Farrell, Widmeyer, Gamey, Potts, McPhail, Rogers, Pringle, Jamieson—19.

Nays—Nays—Messenger, McCallum, Robertson, Campbell, Green, Gilray, Fawcett, Caulfield, Shute, Clark, Stewart, Bowes, Read, W. Lang, Gordon, Heming, McNaught, Frost, Miller, Agnew, McCard—21.

The report was then adopted.

It was decided to print 250 copies of the by-laws relating to auctioneers and peddlers.

SATURDAY MORNING.

A vote of thanks was given to the town for the use of Council Chamber.

Moved by Mr. Bowes, seconded by Mr. Clark, That the Legislature be memorialized to make midsummer holiday in rural school sections two weeks instead of seven weeks.

Mr. Bowes said on account of the state of the roads in winter very often small children could not get to school, and the summer time was the most convenient for them to go.

Messrs. Gilray, Clark, Shute, Cameron, Gamey, and Fawcett, agreed with Mr. Bowes.

Mr. Agnew suggested that other counties should be asked to co-operate.

Dr. Christoe thought the Province was ruled in educational matters by Teachers Associations, and the Minister would not pay much attention to what we said. He thought two weeks was too short in the interest of the children, and suggested four weeks as a compromise.

Mr. Frost also spoke strongly about the way in which the Province was school ridden in the interest of teachers. He suggested that a holiday might be given say in November, when the roads were bad.

Mr. Read agreed with Mr. Frost.

The resolution was altered appointing the Warden and Clerk to draw up a memorial, and ask other counties to co-operate, and passed in that shape.

Moved by Mr. V. Lang, seconded by Mr. McCallum, That the thanks of this Council are due to John Chisholm, Esq., Warden, for his able and impartial conduct, and that the sum of $100 be granted for his services—carried by a standing vote.

The sum of $10 was voted to Mr. Frost as a slight acknowledgment of his services in codifying the rules of the Council. The sum of $30 was voted to Chairman of County Property Committee, $15 to Chairman of Finance, $10 to Chairman of Education, and $10 to Chairman of Printing. The Reeves of St. Vincent, Euphrasia and Bentinck, were voted $5 each for expenses in establishing Farmers' Institutes.

The Council then rose.

THE BEST COUGH CURE.

The best remedy for Cough and all Throat and Lung troubles, is one that loosens and dislodges the tough mucous, clears the bronchial tubes, and allays irritation. This is what Hagyards Pectoral Balsam does in every case.

Boots! Boots! Boots!

SAVING MONEY.

Your life may now be bright and clear
And sweet as honey,
Yet some day sorrow may appear,
So save your money.
Cash is King o'er young and old,
Cash makes friends that ne'er grow cold,
Cash brings please ne'er untold—
So save your money.

If you would make your burden light
And times seem sunny;
If you would keep things going right,
Why, save your money
Buy what will only last you long—
Boots that are neat, yet cheap and strong,
Buy of McLeod, then you can't get wrong—
And so save your money

If you have jolly boys and girls,
Happy and funny,
If you would give them sterling joys
For little money,
Buy them boots that's good and smart,
That fit the feet and charm the heart,
At Wm. McLeod's, that's the spot
Where you'll save money

WILLIAM McLEOD,
BOOT & SHOEMAKER,
Markdale, Ont.

1873. GRIP? 1886.

Canada's Comic Journal!

Thirteenth Year of Publication

The aim of "GRIP" is to set forth, in an impartial and independent manner, the passing events of Canadian political and social life. Its Cartoons speak more definitely and more pleasingly than whole columns of editorial. In this pungent, easily appreciable, and artistic style of presenting a subject, the whole situation is revealed at a glance. The success of Grip shows how well this fact is appreciated—its Cartoons on the passing political events of the country being even more eagerly sought after than the chaste and humorous letter-press of the paper,—though the latter is equal to that of any similar publication on the continent.

For 1886, Grip is to be considerably improved. The old cover is to be discarded; the paper is to comprise 12 pages; while a handsome design for the title page, a re-arrangement of the matter, and improved facilities for the artistic production of the Cartoons, will materially improve the typographical appearance of the paper.

☞ THE PRICE WILL NOT BE INCREASED.

Grip is now the cheapest paper of its class in America; and these improvements must decidedly enhance its value. No one who takes any interest in the political and social affairs of this country should be without Grip, as it presents a complete and entertaining pictorial record, as the panorama moves.

GRIP'S PLATFORM:

Humor without Vulgarity; Patriotism without Partizanship; Truth without Temper.

Only $3 a Year, Postage Free.

277-8

TEACHER WANTED.

FOR S. S. No. 17, Euphrasia, holding 3rd class certificate. Apply stating salary, to

JOSEPH MANAREY,
Sec.-Treas.,
277-79 Goring P. O.

Farm for Sale.

150 ACRES North ½ of lot No. 18, con. 8, Euphrasia. 100 acres cleared and under cultivation, 60 acres of which is fit for reaper and mower, fenced with cedar rails, well watered, log house and frame barn. The uncleared portion is hardwood, with sufficient cedar for fencing purposes. Soil clay loam, and almost free from stone. This is a desirable farm and will be sold on easy terms. Church and school convenient. Distance from Markdale, 9 miles; from Rocklyn, 3 miles. For further particulars apply to

JAMES BOYD,
273-tf Rocklyn P. O.

Store to Rent in Makaale.

THE Store in Reynold's Block to rent. Application as to terms can be obtained from John Lyons, Markdale, or

JOHN WHITE, St. Vincent,
148-tf. Strathnairn, P. O., Owner

Flouring Mills to Rent.

THE well known "Speeton Mills," within one an a half miles of Flesherton, to rent on very reasonable terms.

Apply to the executors,

JOHN W. ARMSTRONG,
WILLIAM CLAYTON,
JOHN BOLAND,

Flesherton, Nov. 25, 1885.

Auction Sale

Of Valuable Property.

Under and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be sold on Thursday, the 14th day of January, 1886, at one o'clock in the afternoon, by Geo. Noble, Auctioneer, at the Revere House, in the village of Markdale. Lots Nos. 74 and 75 in the 1st concession North East of the Toronto and Sydenham Road in the Township of Holland in the County of Grey, containing 100 acres more or less.

Terms:—One-tenth of the purchase money to be paid down at time of sale, two other tenths within 30 days thereafter, and the balance thereof to remain for a term of years secured by a first mortgage on the property bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from day of sale.

For further particulars apply to

ROBINSON O'BRIEN, & Co.,
Vendors' Solicitors,
No. 68 *C*hurch Street, Toronto.

TEACHER WANTED.

FEMALE, holding 3rd class certificate or well recommended permit, for S. S. No. 19, Euphrasia, duties to commence 1st January, '86. Apply at once, stating salary, and references to

CHAS. DEVITT,
Epping P. O.
Epping, Dec. 10, '85. 275-77

FURS AND SKINS.

I WILL pay the highest price for all kinds of Furs & Skins and Wild Game that is shipped to me. Send for price-list.

GEO. W. GOERNFLO,
273-2m Hamilton, Ont.

STRAYED.

TO the premises of the subscriber, lot 21, con. 10, Euphrasia, about the 1st November, a heifer about three years old, red and white. The owner is requested to prove property pay expenses, and take her.

JAMES E. SPARLING,
275-77* Goring P. O.

PURE BRAZILLIAN PEBBLE SPECTACLES, manufactured by Frank Lazarus, late of the firm of Lazarus & Morris, formerly of Hartford County, now of No. 28, Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London, Eng., can be had of W. A. Brown, Watchmaker, &c., Markdale.

Mr. Lazarus would beg to notify his numerous friends and patrons, that he has no connection with any other firm in the Dominion, and only his Pebbles can be procured as above. Frank Lazarus, Manufacturer Opician, 28 Maryland's Road, Harrow Road, London W., England. 274-6m

NEW STATIONERY

—AND—

Fancy Goods

EMPORIUM.

Mrs. Williams has opened a new stock of Stationery and Fancy Goods in

DUNLOP'S OLD STAND

MARKDALE

PAPER,
ENVELOPES,
PENCILS,
SLATES,
PENS,
INK,
SCHOOL BOOKS,
POCKET BOOKS,
FANCY GOODS,
TOYS, &c., &c.

Head quarters for the celebrated

"DOHERTY ORGAN"

BERKSHIRE BOAR

KEPT for service at lot 18, con. 14, Artemesia. Terms—75 cents at time of service. Sows returned free of charge.

270-77 J. HANSON.

NEW GROCERY STORE

IN CONNECTION WITH

Plewes' Flour and Feed tore.

Having just received a

Choicee, Fresh and Select STOCK OF

Teas,
Sugars,
Tobacco, &c,

Which will be sold VERY CHEAP.

I respectfully solicit the public's patronage.

193 J. PLEWES.

TO SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The undersigned is manufacturing an excellent assortment of

School Furniture.

Consisting of SCHOOL SEATS and DESKS, TEACHERS' DESKS, etc, of the latest design and most approved pattern. Highly recommended by School Trustees and Teachers, for cheapness, comfort and compactness, wherever tried. An assortment of Farm and School Bells kept always on hand. Send for catalogue to Chatsworth P. O.

181 ANDREW McGILL.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP.

BRITISH WORM SYRUP is the best worm exterminator. It is pleasant to take, requires no purgative, safe and effectual, and takes but few doses.

Sole Agent,

H. PARKER,
Druggist,
Durham.

MONEY

To Loan on real estate security. Simple Interest, low rates, and easy terms.

C. W. BUTLEDGE,
275 Standard Office.

SavE MoneY

By buying your

Watches,
Cc ks,
Jewelry,
Spectaces,
Pipes, &c.

—AT—

JAS. G. RUSSELL'S

FLESHERTON.

A Beautiful Stock to Select from.

☞ It is a fact, as every one says, that RUSSELL is the man to repair your Watch or Clock properly.

GIVE HIM A TRIAL.

Every job warranted to give satisfaction.

JAS. G. RUSSELL.

217-269

Scale of Cristing at

BARRHEAD -:- MILLS.

WHEAT.	WEIGHING.	OFFAL.
62 lbs.	41 flour.	13 lbs.
61 "	40 "	13 "
60 "	39 "	14 "
59 "	38 "	15 "
58 "	37 "	16 "
57 "	36 "	17 "
56 "	35 "	18 "
55 "	34 "	19 "
54 "	33 "	20 "
53 "	32 "	20 "
52 "	30 "	20 "
51 "	28 "	20 "
50 "	26 "	20 "
49 "	24 "	20 "

Remember I give you all your small wheat home with you, which is considerable.

270 W. J. ROWE.

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, within one mile of Williamsford Station, being composed of lots 38, 39, 43 & 44, first con. East Toronto & Sydenham Road, township Holland, Co. Grey.

On lots 38 & 39 there is 90 acres cleared well fenced, and under good cultivation; a frame house 22 x 32 ft.; kitchen 18 x 24 ft., well finished; good frame barn, driving house, straw house, concrete stable, cattle stable, open sheds, and all necessary buildings; two good wells; orchard of 3 acres of healthy young trees all bearing.

On lots 43 & 44 there is 20 acres cleared, well fenced, with good stream running through it; balance well timbered with maple, beech, hemlock and cedar.

Good title; and possession given at once.

For particulars apply on premises; if by letter

JOSEPH FANNING
Williamsford Station,
Co. Grey, Ont.

NEW GROCERIES.

RESTAURANT & HOT MEALS.

The undersigned has much pleasure in informing his old friends, and the public generally, that he has opened out a general

Grocery Store,

where all kinds of Groceries can be obtained, which for price and quality cannot be undersold. A trial will convince.

In connection with the above, Hot Meals will be served at seasonable hours; and Lunch at any busines period called upon, thus giving free will to choose what you please. A call is respectfully solicited.

Canned & Green Fruit

In every variety.

OYSTERS served, either hot or cold, either by the quart or plate, at prices which will astonish those who have dealt in those luxuries in the past.

Temperance Drinks,

Cigars, Tobaccoes, of the best brands.

PREMISES—Opposite Mansion House Hotel Sheds, Sydenham Street, Markdale.

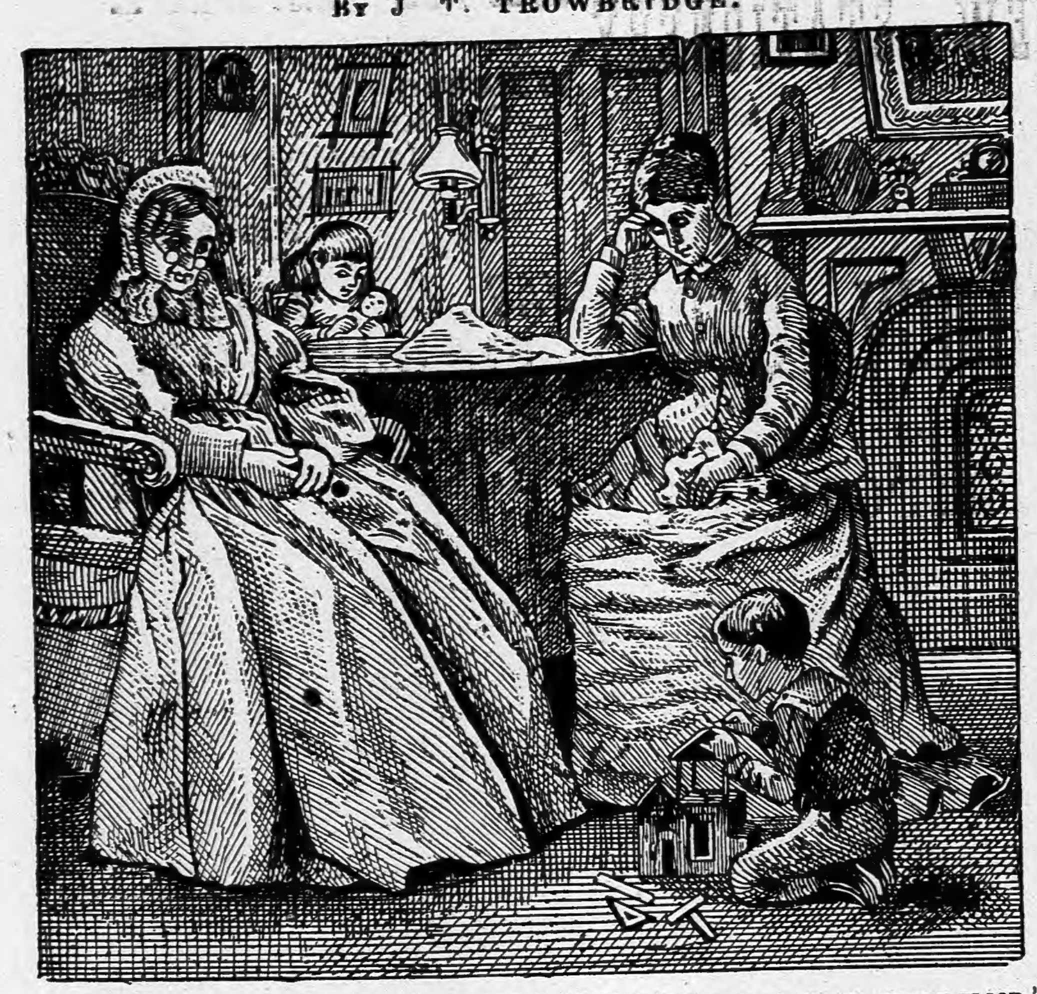
MRS. S. MORROW.

Markdale, Dec. 10, '85. 275-77

FARM FOR SALE.

200 ACRES, being lot 1, con. 8, Euphrasia, 3 miles from Markdale, 70 acres cleared and balance good hardwood bush; soil, clay loam; well watered with running stream; well fenced and in good state of cultivation; good frame house, also frame barn and cedar log stable. Will be sold together or in two parts of 100 acres each. Terms made known on application to

THOMAS MANN,
274-77 Markdale.



ESTRAY.

CAME to the premises of the undersigned about October last one heifer. The owner can have the same by proving property and paying expenses.

RALPH ONEY,
Epping P. O.
Lot 15, con. 4, Euphrasia. 272-3m

THE BOOK OF GOLD.

BY J. T. TROWBRIDGE.

"HIS OWN GOOD MOTHER FR M HER EASY-CHAIR WATCHES BABY MAURICE ON THE FLOOR."

While thus amid his blessings he must think
Of perils passed, and shudder at the brink
Of one black gulf, the dark remembrance makes
What is seem brighter; as he sometimes wakes
At midnight from the hideous dream, to press
More closely his dear present happiness.

He hurries on with eased and thankful heart;
And of a sudden sees before him start
From a by-street the figure of a child,
A wretched girl in rags, who put up wild
Entreating hands, and cries out piteously,
"Oh, Sir! who is there—who will come and see My father? He is very sick! I fear—"
"My child, I will go with you. Is it near?"
And, comprehending what she scarce can say,
He follows where she quickly leads the way.

Down the by-street were red-eyed rum-shops glare,
And with hot breath defile the evening air,
Where pines pale Poverty, while Vice and Crime
With lurid orgies vex the hallowed time;
Across the court and upward through the gloom
Of creaking stairs, she leads to a cold room,
Ill-odored with foul drugs and misery,
Where from his couch a man starts up to see
A stranger come.
"Art thou the Christ?" he cries;
And in the wan white face and wondrous eyes,
Where now the awful fires of fever burn,
Is something which recalls to Allanburn
Old Richard's book-shop and one long ago
White Christmas eve. "Art thou the Christ or no?"
"Not I," said Maurice, as amazed he stood,
"But in His name I come to do you good."

"Idle your labor, if you be not He.
No Christ at second-hand will do for me.
For know you who I am?—Sir, a lost soul!
Hear overhead Jehovah's thunder rol!
It mutters—do you mark it? 'Woe! woe! woe!'"

Maurice replied: "I do not hear it so.
It says you shall be saved. For Christ is here:
In me He comes to bring you help and cheer,
For you and for your child."
"For her indeed!
And, Sir, I thank you; she has woful need.
But I am driven about the desert world
By my own burning; hither and thither whirled
Forever, a wailing, wandering ghost of sin,
Through reigons where Lord Christ has never been.
And yet I was a master once, and taught Divine Philosophy; preached, wrote, and brought Refreshment to some hearts, I verily think.
Now I am perishing for a little drink;
And if you bear a charitable mind,
As I must deem—for in your face I find
A certain eloquence—give me some gin.
You'll tell me that has been my special sin:
Not so: it was the world-consuming thirst
For fresher power and larger life which first Fevered my soul; then, in the sacred name
Of Inspiration, sovereign Opium came.
In gorgeous dreams he stalks, the Lord of Pain:
Gin is a little page that bears his train.
In pomp before us to the feast he goes,
But ever, at the pageant's sorrowful close,
Puts off his robes of fantasy and dream,
And in his naked death's-head grins supreme.

"You're right: that little hunchback last held rum;
That other bottle smells of laudanum.
To purchase that my little girl was sent
Starved through the street, and our last coin was spent.

Now curse me for a fool, and go your way;
But in your censure don't forget to say,
'HE WAS THE BOUND THRALL OF LORD OPIUM.'"

"Unhappy man! think you that I have come With judgment to condemn you? What am I?"
Says Maurice, as he puts the bottles by,
And takes the sick man's hot dry hand in his.
"A fellow-man, to whom all miseries
Through his own sin and suffering are made known;
Who censures no man's folly but his own."
"And have you kissed Temptation? in the cup
Of madness drunk all hope and manhood up?
I am more guilty; yet I am the same
Who once, and with some reason, bore the name
Of Genius; for my spirit, in my youth,
Explored all knowleoge and conceived all truth.
And—let me whisper it I had a wife
Won from a pleasant home and gentle life.
A violet just opened in the air
Of a sweet May is not so sweet and fair.
And we we were happy, and I loved her well;
And hers was greater love; and when I fell,
She strove with me, strove for me, and forgave me,
And would have saved, if mighty love could save me,
Pleading with Heaven and men and me my cause.
But all my resolutions were as straws
That bind a sleeping lion when he wakes.
Why, Sir, for her and our dear children's sakes
To prudence I a thousand times was pledged;
And with that venom-thought the tooth is edged
Which gnaws me here. But now her sleep is sound,
Under the buttercups, in the cool ground,
While I am burning. Where are you, my girl?
Fidele! child! my brain is all a-whirl.
I can not see you well."
She nestles near:
"Oh, father! don't you know me? I am here."

With feeble hand he takes her thin wan shoulder,
And for an eager moment seems to hold her
In his soul's steadfast gaze: he sees the sad
And patient little face which never had
Its share of smiles; small features, which should be
All freshness, pinched with early penury.
And eyes—still like her mother's, tender blue,
Through every trial heavenly deep and true
In their affection—at this moment dim
With piteous tears, not for herself, but him.

He held her there, and fondly gazed, and smiled
With mournful pathos: "My poor orphan child!
You've had no parent since your mother died."

"Oh, father! I have you." But he replied,

"Your own good father died some years ago.
I was that father; but this man of woe,
Whochides, neglects you, makes your dear heart bleed,
I pray you think it is not I indeed.
A father should have cherished this frail flower,
And nourished it in gentle sun and shower,
And kept it, with a father's manifold
Fond troubles, from rude winds and wintry cold.

"I dreamed just now that it was Christmas-day;
And I saw troops of children at their play,
And you among them, and your little brother—
He had not died of hunger. And your mother,
All hope and happy smiles, was at my side.
And with unutterable love and pride
We watched and kept you ever in our sight,
And all was happiness and warmth and light.
You were not cold or hungry any more;
You were like other children. Then the roar
Of laughing fiends awoke me, and I saw
My darling shivering on her bed of straw.
But do not mind. When I am gone, for you,
My poor Fidele, the vision may come true.
Then you'll forgive your father. Do not weep.
I am too weak and ill. Now let me sleep."

So saying, he sank back upon his bed.

And Maurice drew the child aside, and said,
"Have you no friends, no kindred, you should know, Nor other home to which you two can go?"

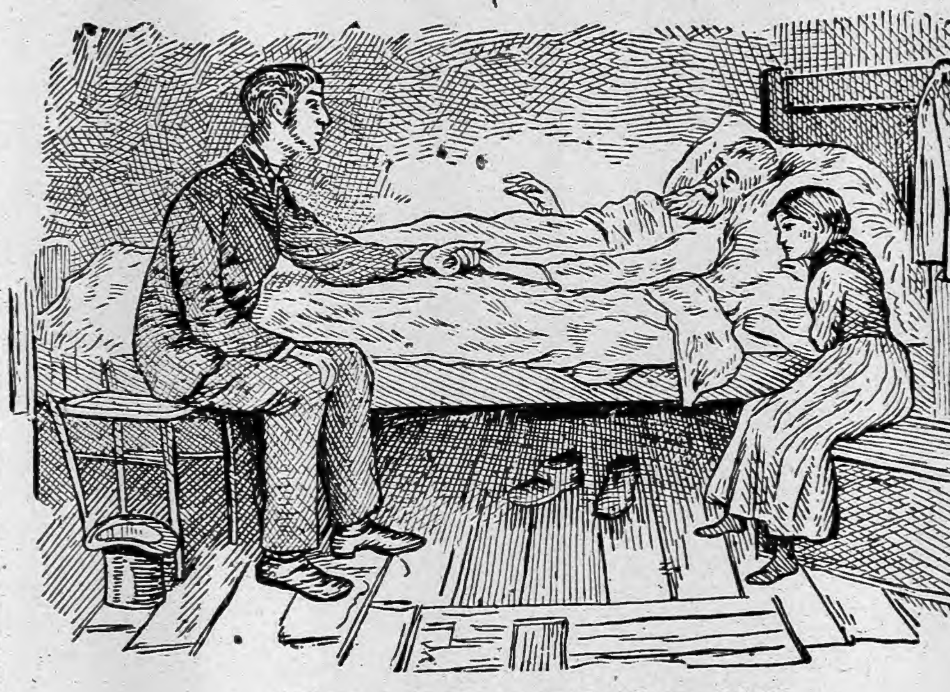
"My mother's friends; but they are far away.
They would have had me go to them and stay—
Forsake my father!" weeping, she replied.
"But mother left him to me when she died.
'Be good to him; be always good and true.'
That was her charge, and so what could I do
They call him wicked. Oh, it is not so!
But, good or wicked, this is all I know:
He is my father, and has need of me."



"And you do well," cries Maurice, cheerily.
"Your little heart is very brave and strong;
Now watch till I return; 'twill not be long."

Five minutes takes him to a coach; ten more,
And he alights in haste at his own door.
There busy hands in ample baskets pack
Fuel and food, and he is whirling back;
Finds a physician by the way, and, lo!
Into that dismal chamber steals a glow
Of comfort. Kindlings crackle in the grate,
The table beams with bounty, where of late
Only the rank-breathed empty bottles stood;
While in the child the sense of gratitude
For gifts that seem by Heavenly Mercy sent
Is lost in wonder and bewilderment.

"Eat, child!" But now beside the patient's bed
The doctor sits; and ere she touches bread,
Though from long fasting weak in every limb,
She trembling waits for words of hope from him.

As when an infant gone astray has climbed
Some dizzy height, and any act ill-timed
Of rescuing friends may cause its hold to miss,
And dash it down the dreadful precipice,
But slowly, step by step, with toil and pain,
The way it climbed must it descend again;
So this strayed soul has groped along the ledge
Of life-o'er-death, till at the very edge
He swoons, suspended in the giddy air
And only tender love and utmost care
And all the skill which ever science gave
Can save him, if indeed even such can save.

The wise physician, seated at his task—
His kindly features moulded to a mask
Of calm grave thought, through which no faintest ray
To kindle expectation finds its way—
Counts pulse, and ponders symptoms, and prepares
The patient's powders, while the patient glares
Delirious; then takes leave; but at the door,
Seeing the child's eyes question and implore,
Puts off the doctor and resumes the man,
And speaks what comfortable words he can.

"'ART THOU THE CHRIST?' HE CRIES."

And now Fidele is pacified and fed.
She sleeps, and Maurice watches in her stead
Through weary hours; till, just as morning breaks,
The patient from a fitful slumber wakes,
But can not move for utter weariness.
"Fidele!" he whines, in querulous distress;
Sees the strange watcher there, and at the sight
Gropes feebly in his memories of the night
To find again the half-remembered face.

"Let the child rest; command me in her place,"
Says Maurice, pillowing the patient's head.

"Something I do recall," the sick man said,
"But solve me now the riddle if you can:
You are, I deem, a prosperous gentleman;
I, the forlorn self-ruined wretch you see,
Not worth your thought; and yet you waste on me
Your time and thought. We've met, I think, before?
Nay, speak, or I shall only talk the more."

"You are a man—enough for me to know
I can relieve a fellow-mortal's woe.
But you are more to me than common men.
Once, twice, indeed, we've met;" and how and when (To soothe his patient) Allanburn relates,
"That night the subtle circles of our fates
Appeared to touch; so that in memory
I've seen you still, and wondered what might be
Your fortunes since. Dark as they were that night,
My own were in a far more evil plight.
And I was saved—almost by chance it seemed—
So mere a chance that often I have dreamed
It was your path of life, not mine, it crossed,
And you were saved instead, and I was lost."

The other sighed, "No chance! Our destiny,
With its heaven-reaching branches, is a tree
Which grows from little seeds in our own hearts;
The elements strengthen, bend, or rend the parts,
And we are sound or flawed. My will was weak,
The very pith and root of all. But speak!"

"What was my chance or providence? A book,
Which from the counter carelessly I took—
A little faded volume, thumbed and old,
But to my life and need a BOOK OF GOLD."

The sick man groaned. "Talk not of books to me!
If they could save, be sure I should not be
This burnt-out wick; but a lamp glorified,
Set in the windows of the Lord, to guide
Benighted souls, to cheer the tempest-tossed,
And show the Way of Life, which I have lost."

Quoth Allanburn: "All that you say, and more,
My author in his book has said before.

"Good books are pearl and gold; yet not of them
Is builded bright the New Jerusalem;
Hear thou thyself the Voice the prophets heard,
And shape in thine own life the shining Word.

"But now, we talk too much, and you must rest."

In the pale face a vivid gleam expressed Surprise, hope, doubt. "I had well-nigh forgot
That such a book was written. Is it not Right Thinking and Right Living?"
Maurice cried,
"You know it!" And a look almost of pride
And joy into the strange bright visage stole.

"Thank Heaven, if it has helped a single soul!
Enough, O friend! But you are here to gain
A deeper lesson than its leaves contain;
Since he whose words can save, himself may be among the lost."

"Charles Masters!"
"I am he
Be not too much amazed and grieved; for I Am happy, and contented now to die."

"Dear soul! and have I sought you far and near,"
Cries Allanburn," at last to find you here?
My benefactor! 'Tis not yet too late!
All that I have, life, happiness, estate,
I owe to you; and, help me, Heaven! I ye
Will pay some portion of the precious debt
In love and service to your child and you."

"I am repaid," Charles Masters said, and drew
A long deep sigh of peace. "You bring me rest,
And almost make me feel that I am blessed.
Cherish my child—she has a heart of gold.
But all your prayers and patience can not hold
This bruised reed up, and make it grow again.
Seek not to keep my memory among men,
But set there warning words above my grave;
'OTHERS HE SAVED, HIMSELF HE COULD NOT SAVE.'"

(CONCLUDED.)

A Strange Bird Story.

In an aviary in London one of a pair of singularly attractive paroquets died, and the male bird was in despair. He consoled himself, however, as males will, with a pretty greenfinch, until, to the astonishment of the onlookers, another parroquet appeared before the wires asking for admittance. None knew whence it came and the stranger was let in. Immediately the faithless male deserted the greenfinch and adopted his heaven-sent spouse. The poor finch, then out in the cold, pined and perched alone with ruffled feathers. The newly-mated parroquets took pity upon it and consoled it, so that it now perches between them, and the strange trio live happily together.

Our Progress

As stages are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge, drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts. By druggists.

Words of praise are almost as necessary to warm a child into a genial life as acts of kindness and affection. Judicious praise is to children what the sun is to flowers.

For colds, fevers and inflammatory attacks, as well as for cholera morbus, diarrhœa, dysentery, or bloody-flux, colic or cramps in stomach, use Dr. Pierce's Extract of Smart-Weed, composed of best Grape Brandy, Smart-Weed or Water Pepper, Jamaica Ginger and Camphor Water.

Shakespeare was not a broker; but does any one know of another man who has furnished so many stock quotations?

In the cure of severe coughs, weak lungs, spitting of blood, and the early stages of Consumption, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has astonished the medical faculty. While it cures the severest coughs, it strengthens the system and purifies the blood. By druggists.

Stockings did not become fashionable until the time of Queen Elizabeth. Christmas did not cost as much in those days.

The "Rogers" Name on Sp...

As the world-wide celebrity of the ... stamp upon silver-plated spoons has ... ated the growth of many imitations, ... be interesting to recall briefly the ... this famous brand. In the year 184... seven years after the first applica... electricity for silver plating articles ... mestic use, the first objects bearing ... trade mark were manufactured in H... Conn. The three brothers who ... the manufacture, and who had the ... of Rogers, placed upon the market ... of goods greatly superior to anything ... ously known. The venture was carried ... ward for considerable time, until ... found that the high quality of the ... could only be maintained profitably by ... employment of greater capital and ... than the brothers had at their com... They were, consequently, obliged to ... sumb, and the business was sold to ... Meriden Britannia Company, of M... Conn., who required thereby not only ... established trade-mark, but also, ... their lives, the services of the origi... The facilities and able management of ... new owners enabled them to maintain ... improve the high quality of the wares, ... it is due principally to them that the ... ers name has become so famous for supe... workmanship.

Naturally, parties who seek to reap ... of the harvest of these years of labor ... not wanting, and the consumers are comp... ed, in self protection, to examine partic... ly the distinguishing marks of this ... brated brand to avoid being deceived.

The integrity and reputation of the ... facturers furnish to the consumer the ... guarantee of quality. To enable purch... to select the genuine and best "Rogers goods," two prefixes were long ago adopted the presence of either of which in the ... on the goods may be relied upon as an in... fallible test of quality. The most pro... ent is "1847," referring to the date of ... ination, thus: "1847, Rogers Bros." ... much importance cannot be given in this ... as distinguishing the genuine wares. ... other prefix referred to is a star, "* R... & Bro." All articles bearing either of ... prefixes are genuine, are made by the ... ies who have legally succeeded to the ori... al manufacturers, and are guaranteed ... the Meriden Britannia Company to be of the very best quality.

The experiment which Messrs. Tuckett & Son entered upon when they commenced to make their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco was ... to give the public a tobacco of the very ... Virginia leaf at the smallest possible ma... beyond its actual cost, in the hope that ... would be so extensively bought as to remu... nerate them. By the end of three years ... demand for it had grown so much as to g... assurance that the success of the experi... was within reach. The demand for it to-day is more than ten times greater than it ... then and it is still increasing. Success ... been reached.

Woman may indeed have a sphere that is boundless, but she strikes an impa... barrier when she comes to a barbed w... fence.

Imperial Cough Drops will ... Positive and Instant Relief to those suff... from Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, ... and are invaluable to orators and vocal... For sale by druggists and confection... R. & T. WATSON, Manufac... Toronto.

A.P.5...

ONE DOZEN BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS CA... suitable for making presents of, with your ... on, 15 cents. C. H. HOLDEN, 135 River St., ...

PATENT RIGHT FOR SALE—LAMP ... cleaner and dish washer combined; ... September, 1885; send 25c. for sample and ... lars. JNO. W. COONEY, Box 35, Arnprior, Ont.

YOUR NAME, ADDRESS, AND ... mailed Bengough's Shorthand and ... Institute. Toronto, will bring copy ... Shorthander, best journal in America. ... Send for Calendar.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE BEST ... ING Patented Article in Canada to-day. ... 25 cents for Sample and Agents' Terms. ... & Co., Guelph.

Neuralgia Positively Cured In twenty minutes, without fail. Chapman's ... brated Neuralgia Powders. Sample mailed ... five cents. Chapman, Chemist, London, Ont.

BUSINESS CHANCE—FOR SALE—THE ... equipped Butcher business in the City of ... does a good trade; a splendid chance; will sell ... good reasons for selling. For particulars address A. LAMPREY, Real Estate Agent, Guelph.

A BIG OFFER To introduce them will GIVE AWAY ... Self-Operating Washing Machines. If ... one send us your name, P. O. and ex... at once. THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., ...

GUELPH BUSINESS COLLEGE, Guelph ... That man only is rightly educated who ... how to use himself, who possesses such ... knowledge and such manual skill as will enable ... to compete successfully with his fellows in ... ness of life. To impart such education, ... such men is the design and purpose of this ... tion. For terms, etc., call at the college or ... M. MACCORMICK, Principal.

WILD LANDS FOR SALE—S. ½ 21, CON... 2, Nottawasaga, Simcoe County; 100 ... one mile from Stayner; will make a first-class ... or dairy farm; also lot 36, 2 Vespra; 100 ... be sold cheap; also lot 35, north boundary ... Huron County, 100 acres; will be sold cheap. ... to T. EDE, Barrister, Toronto.

SCIATICA, INFLAMMATORY RHEUMA... TISM, Gout, Neuralgia, and Lumbago ... ally cured by a remedy invented by one who ... self cured by it after being three years ... with sciatica; abundant testimonials as to ... ficial effects in above-mentioned diseases; ... expressed to any address. S. J. LANCASTER, ... Ont.

BRITISH AMERIC... BUSINESS COLLEGE, ARCADE, ... ST., TORONTO. Finest rooms in America. ... in every department. Teachers pushing and ... getic, and know what they teach. Endorsed ... leading business men of Ontario, its graduates ... ing positions of trust in every city, town and ... Canada. Send for new circular. C. O'DEA, ...

CANADA PERMANENT ... LOAN & SAVINGS ...

Incorporated, A. D. 185...

Subscribed Capital............
Paid up Capital............
Reserve Fund............
Total Assets............

OFFICE:
Company's Buildings, Toronto ... Toronto.

The Company has now on hand ... amount of English money which ... pared to lend on first-class securities ... rates of interest. Apply to J. HERBERT MASON, ...

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

...me time past a feeling of dissatisfac... has prevailed in the breasts of certain ...bers of the club, although they have ...very careful to exhibit no signs outside ...e ring. This dissatisfaction had its ...n the election of officers and appoint... of committees. A day or two after ...t meeting, Elder Juneberry Smith, ...on Clingstone Cabiff, Shinbone White, ...Chewso, State Rights Taylor, Lord ...Sluggs and Prof. Wintergreen Johnson ...a room near the market to talk over ...grievance. Judge Chewso offered the ...ing resolution, which was adopted.

...solved,—Dat we hev bin ignominously ...ed by de President of de Lime-Kiln ..., an' dat we refuse to take part in any ...r purceedin's of dat club until de res... ...hun of Brudder Gardner am laid befo' ...r ackshun.

...eeches were made by Shinbone White ...Lord John Sluggs, asserting that the ...had come when men of spirit must as... their independence or expect to be ...forever. The name of William Tell ...called up and eulogized, and the con... ...tors sang revolutionary songs and ate ...nuts until a late hour.

SPRINGING THE TRAP.

...e regular meeting of the club opened at ...usual hour Saturday evening, with ...ther Gardner on hand to sound the tri... ... So far as appearances went all was ... and contentment. Every conspirator ...n his seat, and no action betrayed that ...orm was brewing. Brother Gardner ...a letter in his hand, and was about to ...some comments when Judge Chewso ...and said:

"...Misser Chairman, befo' dis heah meetin' ...ceeds any furder, I should like to make ...y remarks."

...other Gardner looked at him over his ...cles in great astonishment, and there ...a buzz of excitement throughout the ...

"...t a meeting of a po'shun of dis club, ...a few days since," continued the Judge "...was unanimously resolved dat de Presi... ...of dis club should be axed to tender ...resignashun, fur ackshun by de club."

...hen the Judge sat down silence reigned ...upreme that Samuel Shin's chilblains ...l almost be heard growing. It was a ...nderclap in a clear sky.

"...Did I understand you to say how many ...bers war present at dat meetin'?" asked ...President when the silence had become ...ively painful.

...dge Chewso stated the number and gave ...names.

"An' so seben dissatisfied members, out ...total of 284, demand my resignashun?" ...ried the President in a voice which had ...k-saw edge to it.

"...es, sah!"

"...When a majority of dis club frow out a ...dat a new President am wanted," said ...ther Gardner, "no trouble will be experi... ...d in securin' my resignashun. Seben ...bers simply represent a conspiracy. Dar ...o by-law to punish conspiracy, an' I ...re feel justified in takin' de case in my ...hands."

...e descended the platform and approach... ...he Judge. The Judge called for his ...ds to rally to the standard and die for ...ty, but not a man rallied. What follow... ...ill be blank in the Judge's life. His ... knocked over three stools, broke a ..., brought down eighteen lengths of ...e-pipe and split a door. His head seem... ...bump everything for ten feet around, ...locks of wool went slowly floating to... ...the ceiling. He was finally picked up ...given a lift through the door leading to ...alley, and after the last bumpety-bump ...e stairs had died away Brother Gard... ...looked around and asked:

"...Am dar any odder pusson in dis hall who ...s my resignashun?"

"...No! No! No!" shouted every man ...nt, including the six remaining con... ...tors.

"...t am well! If any of ye change yer ...jist let me know at de nex' meetin'!"

"STAND OBER HEAH."

"...think I kin discover de entire gang ...ut a mistake," said the President as the ...or ceased. "Elder Juneberry Smith, ...may stand ober heah."

"...—I doan' 'zactly like to, sah," stam... ...d the Elder.

"...specks not, but I want dem hoofs to ...movin'! Clingstone Cabiff, Shinbone ...e, State Rights Taylor, Lord John ...s an' Wintergreen Johnson will follow ...you."

...e men dragged themselves to the des... ...d spot, each one looking as if he fully ...ted to be hung, and when they were ...d in line Brother Gardner said:

"...believe I has de k'rect number. P'raps ...of you may want to make a state... ...?"

"...es, sah, I does!" answered the five in ...s.

...ery one of the band was ready to turn ...'s evidence and peach on the others.

"...know how it come about widout any ...snashuns," continued the President. "I ...ad my eye on dees yere chaps fur de ...three months. Las' spring de hull six ...n war counted 'mong our hardest work... ... No man eber heard of one of 'em being ...unless he was sick, an' deir fam'lies had ...y to eat an' good clothes to w'ar. Judge ...so war' de fust to go. Some white man ... him why it was dat he had to work ... and late when odders didn't hev to do ..., an' dat sot him to thinkin'. He was ...ood arter dat.

...lder Smith was workin' fur a dollar an' ...a day. Some white man toled him ...ter hev $2; dat his boss was grewin' ...n his life blood; dat he must assert his ...pendence. He asserted, an' he heard ...the' drap. I reckon he hasn't found ...y work since.

...ery man in dat line owes his present ...ance to listenin' to the talk of some white ...agogue. Theory an' sophistry hev bin ...ed at 'em. You may hev noticed dat ...a man gets dat way he also hates ...s bail. He will howl dat de rich am ...min' r'cher an' de poo' poorer, but he ...t look fur a job to help turn de figgers ...ther way.

"While I pity dese yere dupes, dey mus' ...scape punishment altogether. Giveadam ...s will show each one of 'em de doah in ... an' I hope to see 'em all back at de ...meetin'."

...EXIT.

...ther Jones slipped into the ante-room ...n on his double-soled boots, and then ...d his first victim out. In each case the ...shook and trembled, as if a young earth

The "Rogers" Name On Spoons

As the world-wide celebrity of the Rog amp upon silver-plated spoons has stim ed the growth of many imitations, it ma s interesting to recall briefly the history his famous brand. In the year 1847, a ven years after the first application lectricity for silver plating articles of d eatic use, the first objects bearing th ade mark were manufactured in Hartfo onn. The three brothers who originate e manufacture, and who had the surnam
Rogers, placed upon the market a cla goods greatly superior to anything pre usly known. The venture was carried fo ard for considerable time, until it w und that the high quality of the wa ould only be maintained profitably by th mployment of greater capital and resource an the brothers had at their command hey were, consequently, obliged to se amb, and the business was sold to th eriden Britannia Company, of Meride onn., who required thereby not only th tablished trade-mark, but also, duri eir lives, the services of the originators he facilities and able management of th ew owners enabled them to maintain an nprove the high quality of the wares, an is due principally to them that the Ro
s name has become so famous for superio orkmanship.

Naturally, parties who seek to reap som
the harvest of these years of labor s ot wanting, and the consumers are compe
d, in self protection, to examine particula the distinguishing marks of this ori rated brand to avoid being deceived.

The integrity and reputation of the man ctures furnish to the consumer the onl uarantee of quality. To enable purchas select the genuine and beat "Roge oods," two prefixes were long ago adopte e presence of either of which in the stam the goods may be relied upon as an illible test of quality. The most promi is "1847," referring to the date or ori ation, thus: "1847, Rogers Bros." T uch importance cannot be given in this de distinguishing the genuine wares. Th her prefix referred to is a star, "* Roge Bro." All articles bearing either of the efixes are genuine, are made by the par s who have legally succeeded to the origi manufacturers, and are guaranteed
e Meriden Britannia Company to be of th
ry best quality.

The experiment which Messrs. Tuckett n entered upon when they commenced ake their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco was thi give the public a tobacco of the very fine irginia leaf at the smallest possible marg yond its actual cost, in the hope that uld be so extensively bought as to rem erate them. By the end of three years th mand for it had grown so much as to gi surance that the success of the experime as within reach. The demand for it to-d more than ten times greater than it w en and it is still increasing. Success h en reached.

Woman may indeed have a sphere th boundless, but she strikes an impassab rrier when she comes to a barbed wi nce.

Imperial Cough Drops will gi ositive and Instant Relief to those sufferi om Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, et d are invaluable to orators and vocalis or sale by druggists and confectione
. & T. WATSON, Manufacture
oronto.

A.P.560

ONE DOZEN BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS CARD suitable for making presents of, with your na
, 15 cents. C. H. HOLDEN, 135 River St., Toron

PATENT RIGHT FOR SALE—LAMP GLA cleaner and dish washer combined; patent pten ber, 1885; send 25c. for sample and partic
rs JNO. W. COONEY, Box 35, A. prior, Ont.

OUR NAME, ADDRESS, AND TEN CEN
mailed Beugough's Shorthand and Busin stitute Toronto, will bring copy Cosmopoli orthander, best journal in America. Price, $1.
nd for Calendar.

AGENTS WANTED FOR THE BEST SE
ING Patented Article in Canada to-day. Se cents for Sample and Agents' Terms. Discou Co., Guelph.

Neuralgia Positively Cured
twenty minutes, with at fail. Chapman's C ated Neuralgia Powder. Sample mailed free
e cents. Chapman, Chemist, London, Ont.

BUSINESS CHANCE—FOR SALE—THE BE equipped Butcher business in the City of Guel s a good trade; a splendid chance; will sell che od reasons for selling. For particulars address, LAMPREY, Real Estate Agent, Guelph.

BIG OFFER To introduce them will GIVE AWAY
Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you w one send us your name, P. O. and express off at once. THE NATIONAL CO., 23 Dey St., N

GUELPH BUSINESS COLLEGE, Guelph, O
That man only is rightly educated who kn ow to use himself, who possesses such practi nowledge and such manual skill as will enable h compete successfully with his fellows in the ss of life. To impart such education, to pers ch men is the design and purpose of this insti
n. For terms, etc., call at the college or addr MacCORMICK, Principal.

WILD LANDS FOR SALE—S 21, CONCESS
2, Nottawasaga, Simcoe unty; 100 acr
o mile from Stayner; will make a first-class p r dairy farm; also lot 36, 2 Vespra; 100 acres
e sold cheap; also lot 35, north boundary Sin uron County, 100 acres; will be sold cheap. Ap T. Eng, Barrister, Toronto.

SCIATICA, INFLAMMATORY RHEU
TISM, Gout, Neuralgia, and Lumbago oft ly cured by a remedy invented by one who was lf cured by it after being three years on cruti ith sciatica; abundant testimonials as to its cial effects in above-mentioned diseases; will pressed to any address. S. J. Lancaster, Pelee nt.

BRITISH AMERICA
BUSINESS COLLEGE, ARCADE, YON
T., TORONTO. Finest rooms in America. Prac every department. Teachers pushing and etic, and know what they teach. Endorsed by ading business men of Ontario, its graduates are g positions of trust in every city, town and villa anada. Send for new circular. C. O'DEA, Secre

CANADA PERMANENT
LOAN & SAVINGS C

Incorporated, A. D. 1855.

Subscribed Capital	$5,000,000
Paid up Capital	2,500,000
Reserve Fund	1,100,000
Total Assets	6,000,000

OFFICE:
Company's Buildings, Toronto S
Toronto.

The Company has now on hand a l mount of English money which it is pared to lend on first-class securities at tes of interest. Apply to
J. HERBERT MASON,
Managing Dire

THE LIME-KILN CLUB.

For some time past a feeling of dissatisfachas prevailed in the breasts of certain mbers of the club, although they have en very careful to exhibit no signs outside the ring. This dissatisfaction had its ot in the election of officers and appoint-nt of committees. A day or two after t last meeting, Elder Juneberry Smith, n H. Clingstone Cabiff, Shinbone White, dge Chewso, State Rights Taylor, Lord
hn Sluggs and Prof. Wintergreen Johnson et in a room near the market to talk over ir grievance. Judge Chewso offered the llowing resolution, which was adopted.

Resolved,—Dat we hev bin ignominously ressed by de President of de Lims-Kiln ub, an' dat we refuse to take part in any rther proceedin's of dat club until de resignashun of Brudder Gardner am laid befo' ur ackshun.

Speeches were made by Shinbone White d Lord John Sluggs, asserting that the me had come when men of spirit must as-rt their independence or expect to be ave forever. The name of William Tell as called up and eulogized, and the conirators sang revolutionary songs and ate eanuts until a late hour.

SPRINGING THE TRAP.

The regular meeting of the club opened at e usual hour Saturday evening, with rother Gardner on hand to sound the tri-gle. So far as appearances went all was ace and contentment. Every conspirator as in his seat, and no action betrayed that storm was brewing. Brother Gardner ld a letter in his hand, and was about to ake some comments when Judge Chewso
ose and said:

"Misser Chairman, befo' dis heah meetin' roceeds any furder, I should like to make few remarks."

Brother Gardner looked at him over his ectacles in great astonishment, and there as a buzz of excitement throughout the all.

"At a meeting of a po'shun of dis club, ld a few days since," continued the Judge was unanimously resolved dat de Presint of dis club should be axed to tender s resignashun, fur ackshun by de club."

When the Judge sat down silence reigned supreme that Samuel Shin's chilblains uld almost be heard growing. It was a underclap in a clear sky.

"Did I understand you to say how many embers war present at dat meetin'?" asked e President when the silence had become stively painful.

Judge Chewso stated the number and gave e names.

"An so seben dissatisfied members, out a total of 284, demand my resignashun?"
peated the President in a voice which had ost a new edge to it.

"Yes, sah!"

"When a majority of dis club frow out a int dat a new President am wanted," said rother Gardner, "no trouble will be expericed in securin' my resignashun. Seben embers simply represent a conspiracy. Dar no by-law to punish conspiracy, an' I efore feel justified in takin' de case in my n hands."

He descended the platform and approach-d the Judge. The Judge called for his ends to rally to the standard and die for rty, but not a man rallied. What follow-will be blank in the Judge's life. His ir knocked over three stools, broke a mp, brought down eighteen lengths of ve-pipe and split a door. His head seem-to bump everything for ten feet around, d locks of wool went slowly floating to-rd the ceiling. He was finally picked up d given a lift through the door leading to e alley, and after the last bumpety-bump his stairs had died away Brother Gardr looked around and asked:

"Am dar any odder pusson in dis hall who ants my resignashun?"

"No! No! No!" shouted every man esent, including the six remaining conirators.

"I am well! If any of ye change yer nd jist let me know at de nex' meetin'!"

"STAND OBER HEAH."

"I think I kin discover de entire gang thout a mistake," said the President as the mor ceased. "Elder Juneberry Smith, u may stand ober heah."

"I—I doan' 'zactly like to, sah," stam-red the Elder.

"I specks not, but I want dem hoofs to movin'! Clingstone Cabiff, Shinbone hite, State Rights Taylor, Lord John uggs an' Wintergreen Johnson will follow ber you."

The men dragged themselves to the desnated spot, each one looking as if he fully pected to be hung, and when they were anged in line Brother Gardner said:

"I hab-ve I has de k'rect number. P'raps me of you may want to make a stateent?"

"Yes, sah, I does!" answered the five in horus.

Every one of the band was ready to turn ate's evidence and peach on the others.

"I know how it come about widout any rplanashuns," continued the President. "I ad my eye on dees yere chaps fur de st three months. Dis' spring de hull six m war counted 'mong our hardest works. No man eber heard of one o' 'em being e onless he was sick, an' deir fam'lies had enty to eat an' good clothes to w'ar. Judge ewso war' de fust to go. Some white man ed him why it was dat he had to work ly and late when odders didn't hev to do , an' dat sot him to thinkin'. He was good arter dat.

"Elder Smith was workin' fur a dollar an' half a day. Some white man toled him e oder hev $2; dat his boss was grewin' ch on his life blood; dat he must assert his dependence. He asserted, an' he heard methin' drap. I reckon he hasn't found t's work since.

"Ebery man in dat line owes his present isgrace to listenin' to the talk of some white magogue. Theory an' sophistry hev bin nged at 'em. You may hev noticed dat en a man gets dat way he also hates eet toil. He will howl dat de rich am eezin' fr cher an' de poo' poorer, but he n't look fur a job to help turn de figgers
e odder way.

"While I pity dese yere dupes, dey mus' t escape punishment altogether. Giveadam nses will show each one of 'em de doah in urn, an' I hope to see 'em all back at de er meetin'."

EXIT.

Brother Jones slipped into the ante-room put on his double-soled boots, and then alked his first victim out. In each case the ll shook and trembled, as if a young earth quake was at work, and it is presumed the boots had something to do with it.

A FEW WORDS.

"I knowed dose chaps war' up to sunthin wicked," said the President as the plaster ceased falling. "It am de idler who conspires. It am de discontented who break de laws. While I doan' suspeck dat conspiracy went beyand de pussons named, I want to say a few words to you all: Demagogues hev made de workingman believe in queer philosophy and dangerous theories; to strike when he wants more wages; to boycott when higher wages am refused. De odder has seen dat he am at de mercy of employes.
Even when his own men am satisfied some odder gang kin come along an' drive 'em out an' keep 'em out until he am ruined.

"Common sense teach s you dat dis state of affairs can't go on a great while longer.
Let's go home."

THE FIENDISH SIOUX.

The Terrible Manner in Which a Stalwart Soldier Was Tortured by Indians.

The chief sent for me and gave me to understand that I might go and talk with the prisoner. At the time I took it as a gracious favor, but later on I saw it was only the first step on the program of torture. They wanted to torture the poor fellow mentally as well as physically. I at once went over to him. He was dust-covered and blood-stained, and evidently half dead of thirst. Before speaking to him I brought him a gourd of water. The vessel held a full quart, and he drained it to the last drop before he looked up.

"My God! You are a white man!" he exclaimed, as he saw my face.

"Yes, but a prisoner, like yourself."

"Oh! you will save me, won't you? These infernal devils are going to torture me!"

I promised to interfere for his life, though holding out no hope that I could save it, and then asked:

"What command do you belong to?"

"Gen. Sully's."

"Where is it?"

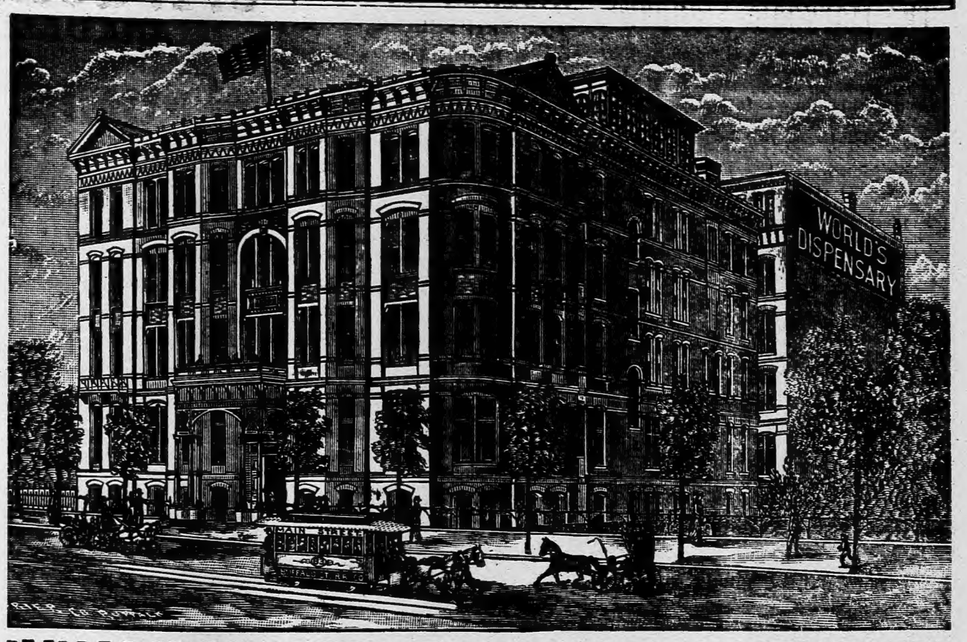
"I was captured about twenty miles from here, and we broke camp this morning."

"Who was your captain?"

"Capt. Smith."

"What is your name?"

He promptly replied to the query, but I cannot now recall the name; it was like Saulsbury or Slatterly. He had the most direful forebodings of the immediate future and anxiety and ill usage had almost driven him crazy. He was a large, stout man, with black hair and deep black eyes, and had evidently been in the service for years. He might have been termed a game man, but the fear of torture had made a child of him. At his earnest solicitation I went to seek the chief, but before I reached the tent a crowd of warriors seized the prisoner and hurried him to a stake driven in the clear space in the centre of the village.



I saw that I was too late, and started for my lodge, but before I reached it I was seized by two bucks and hurried to the stake and made to sit down on the grass beside a sub-chief. The head chief had a seat a few feet away, and his countenance expressed the great satisfaction he anticipated. The soldier's arms were tied behind him to the stake, while his legs were left free. Such terror and anguish I never saw in a human face before or since. He entreated me—he begged of the chief—he appealed to the Indians to save him. He offered to be a slave—a dog—to join them and fight the whites—to do anything on earth to preserve his life. I was half wild, but dared not even reply to him, while the chief and the spectators mocked him.

At a sign from the chief the torture began. The soldier, as I had neglected to state, was stripped stark naked. The first move was to cut a great slice from his left arm just above the elbow. The piece was held up to view and then thrown to the dogs. The man shrieked and shouted, and tugged at his bonds, but while doing so a slice was cut from the calf of his right leg. Blood flowed so freely that I believed he would be a dead man in five minutes. Then his other arm and leg were sliced, and his calls for mercy were answered by sneers and laughter.

Then, at brief intervals, the prisoner's ears, nose, and chin were cut off, his body cut and slashed, his toes severed from the foot, and brands of fire held against his legs and body that the braves might see him squirm and dance. Even now, fifteen years after, I grow faint at the thought, and I shudder as I recall his groans and shrieks. As I sat there before him I neither turned my eyes away nor fainted. There was a horrible fascination which I could not shake off, and the feeling was strong upon me that I would be the next victim.

The torture continued for a full hour, during which time the man never fainted once, and there was scarcely an instant when he was not pleading and begging for mercy. He was dyed in blood after the first five minutes, and it ran down until the ground was saturated, but it was certainly a whole hour before he gave up. Along toward the last, when he showed signs of fainting, the knives were applied to a fresh part and the firebrands thrust against him, when he would revive. At length he fell forward, almost gone, and a warrior stepped forward and scalped him. This was a signal to about twenty boys in waiting, and they at once rushed in, each one armed with a knife, and cut and slashed and stabbed, until what was left of the poor body resembled a piece of bloody beef.

During the Antwerp Exhibition, just closed, the pickpockets seem to have had a high old time. An interesting document referring to the number of these characters arrested within the precints of the exhibition has just been published. Altogether 578 men and women have been interrupted in an untimely manner in the pursuit of their handicraft. Classed by nationalities, the Belgians occupy the place of honor with 234, but they are run hard by the Germans with 211. Then follow 63 of Dutch, 35 of English, and 14 of French nationality. The English offenders were, as a rule, fashionably attired, and were all found to be lodging in good hotels, while their competitors of other nationalities had to be traced to the slums of Antwerp.

INVALIDS' HOTEL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Not a Hospital, but a pleasant Remedial Home, organized with

A FULL STAFF OF EIGHTEEN PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS,

And exclusively devoted to the treatment of all Chronic Diseases.

This imposing Establishment was designed and erected to accommodate the large number of invalids who visit Buffalo from every State and Territory, as well as from many foreign lands, that they may avail themselves of the professional services of the Staff of skilled specialists in medicine and surgery that compose the Faculty of this widely-celebrated institution.

NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.

By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases just as successfully without as with a personal consultation. While we are always glad to see our patients, and become acquainted with them, show them our institutions, and familiarize them with our system of treatment, yet we have not seen one person in five hundred whom we have cured. The perfect accuracy with which scientists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous, if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take, for example, the electro-magnetic telegraph, the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with the most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and foretell what the weather will be in Florida or New York as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between him and the places named. And so in all departments of modern science, what is required is the knowledge of certain signs. From these scientists deduce accurate conclusions regardless of distance. So, also, in medical science, diseases have certain unmistakable signs, or symptoms, and by reason of this fact, we have been enabled to originate and perfect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of chronic diseases, without seeing and personally examining our patients. In recognizing diseases without a personal examination of the patient, we claim to possess no miraculous powers. We obtain our knowledge of the patient's disease by the practical application, to the practice of medicine, of well-established principles of modern science. And it is to the accuracy with which this system has endowed us that we owe our almost world-wide reputation of skillfully treating lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice, and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which, being subjected to scientific analysis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data, to guide the judgment of the skillful practitioner aright in determining the nature of diseased conditions. The most ample resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases, and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of every invalid, however distant he or she may reside from the physicians making the treatment of such affections a specialty. Full particulars of our original, scientific system of examining and treating patients at a distance are contained in "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." By R. V. Pierce, M. D. 1000 pages and over 300 colored and other illustrations. Sent, post-paid, for $1.50. Or write and describe your symptoms, inclosing ten cents in stamps, and a complete treatise, on your particular disease, will be sent you, with our terms for treatment and all particulars.

MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

SIGNS OF DISEASE.

OUR FIELD OF SUCCESS.

NASAL, THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES.

Recognizing the fact that no great institution dedicated exclusively to the treatment of chronic diseases, would meet the needs of the afflicted of our land, without the most perfect, complete and extensive provision for the most improved treatment of diseases of the air-passages and lungs, such as Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption, we have made this branch of our institution one of the leading Departments. We have every kind of useful instrument for examining the organs involved, such as rhinoscopes, laryngoscopes, stethoscopes, spirometers, etc., etc., as well as all of the most approved kinds of apparatus for the application of sprays, fumigations, atomizations, pulverizations, inhalations, and all other forms of approved medicinal applications.

We publish three separate books on Nasal, Throat and Lung diseases, viz.: A Treatise on Consumption, Laryngitis and Bronchitis; price, postpaid, ten cents; A treatise on Asthma, or Pithisic, giving new and successful treatment; price, postpaid, ten cents; A treatise on Chronic Nasal Catarrh, price, postpaid, two cents.

PILE TUMORS.

PILES, FISTULA IN ANO, and other diseases affecting the region of the lower bowel, are largely treated, and with marvelous success, by specialists, who give their whole time to the study and treatment of this class of affections. We never fail to cure pile tumors, however large. When the patient can come here for treatment, we will guarantee a cure.

Fortunately for suffering humanity, a method of treatment has been perfected and thoroughly tested in our institutions, by which in from six to fifteen days radical and perfect cures of the worst forms of piles are effected without causing any severe suffering. Send ten cents in stamps for our large illustrated Treatise on Piles.

RUPTURE.

Hernia (Breach), or Rupture, no matter of how long standing, of what size, or what the age of the patient may be (if not under four years), is speedily and radically cured in every case undertaken by our specialists, without the knife, without dependence upon trusses, without pain, and without danger.

THROW AWAY TRUSSES. There is no longer any need of wearing clumsy, awkward, chafing, old trusses, which, at best, give only partial relief, which never cure, but often inflict great injury and induce inflammation and strangulation, from which thousands annually die.

NOT SAFE. There is no safety in depending upon any kind of truss, though, no doubt, every man who has suffered the agonies of a strangulated hernia, and died, thought himself safe. Both the rupture and the truss keep up a mental strain and induce nervous debility and various organic weaknesses of the kidneys, bladder, and associate organs.

CURES GUARANTEED in every case undertaken. Can any sufferer ask for greater inducements than these?

Notwithstanding the great number of ruptures treated in the three years past, many of them of immense size and of such a character that no other plan of treatment could possibly have succeeded, every case to which this perfected system of treatment has been thoroughly applied, has been perfectly cured. Only a few days residence at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute is necessary.

Abundant references, by permission of those whom we have cured, will be furnished to any one wishing to call upon or write them.

An illustrated treatise on Rupture sent to any address upon receipt af ten cents.

DISEASES OF DIGESTION.

Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Obstinate Constipation, Chronic Diarrhœa, Tape-worms, and kindred affections are among those chronic diseases in the successful treatment of which our specialists have attained unparalleled success. Many of the diseases affecting the liver and other organs contributing in their functions to the process of digestion, are very obscure, and are not infreqently mistaken by both laymen and physicians for other maladies, and treatment is employed directed to the removal of a disease which does not exist. Our Complete Treatise on diseases of the Digestive Organs will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

KIDNEY DISEASES.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES, and kindred maladies, have been very largely treated, and cures effected in thousands of cases which had been pronounced beyond hope. The study and practice of chemical analysis and microscopical examination of the urine in our consideration of cases, with reference to correct diagnosis, in which our institution long ago became famous, has naturally led to a very extensive practice in diseases of the urinary organs. Our specialists have acquired, through a vast and varied experience, great expertness in determining the exact nature of each case, and, hence, have been successful in nicely adapting their remedies for the cure of each individual case.

The treatment of diseases of the urinary organs having constituted a prominent branch, or specialty, of our practice at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and, being in constant receipt of numerous inquiries for a complete but concise work on the nature and curability of these maladies, we have published a large illustrated treatise on these diseases, which will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

BLADDER DISEASES.

INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER, Gravel, Enlarged Prostate Gland, Retention of Urine, and kindred affections may be included among those in the cure of which our specialists have achieved marvelous success. These are fully treated of in our illustrated pamphlet on Urinary Diseases. It includes numerous testimonials from well-known people. Sent by mail for ten cents in stamps. Send for it at once.

STRICTURE.

STRICTURES AND URINARY FISTULÆ.—Hundreds of cases of the worst form of strictures, many of them greatly aggravated by the careless use of instruments in the hands of inexperienced physicians and surgeons, causing false passages, urinary fistulæ, and other complications, annually consult us for relief and cure. That no case of this class is too difficult for the skill of our specialists is proved by cures reported in our illustrated treatise on these maladies, to which we refer with pride. To intrust this class of cases to physicians of small experience, is a dangerous proceeding. Many a man has been ruined for life by so doing, while thousands annually lose their lives through unskillful treatment. Send particulars of your case and ten cents in postage stamps, for a large, illustrated treatise containing many testimonials.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

Epileptic Convulsions, or Fits, Paralysis, or Palsy, Locomotor Ataxia, St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, and threatened insanity. Nervous Debility, arising from overstudy, excesses, and other causes, and every variety of nervous affection, are treated by our specialists for these diseases with a measure of success heretofore regarded as impossible. See numerous cases reported in our different illustrated pamphlets on nervous diseases, any one of which will be sent for ten cents in postage stamps, when request for them is accompanied with a statement of a case for consultation, so that we may know which one of our Treatises to send.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.

So alarmingly prevalent are those chronic diseases peculiar to females, and so famous have our institutions become for their cure that we were long ago obliged to create a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of these cases. The physicians and surgeons in this Department have made these delicate diseases their sole study.

Hundreds are brought to our institutions from far distant States on beds, and they go home well and strong. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Every important case (and we get few which have not already baffled the skill of all the home physicians) has the benefit of a full Council, composed of skilled specialists. Our Department and rooms for ladies in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute are so arranged as to be very private, and free from the annoyances so common in other institutions. Send ten cents in postage stamps for our large Complete Treatise on Diseases of Women, illustrated with numerous wood-cuts and colored plates.

DELICATE DISEASES.

Organic weakness, nervous debility, premature decline of the manly powers, involuntary vital losses, and kindred affections, are speedily, thoroughly and permanently cured.

To those acquainted with our institutions it is hardly necessary to say that the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, with the branch establishment located at No. 3 New Oxford Street, London, England, have, for many years, enjoyed the distinction of being the most largely patronized and widely celebrated institutions in the world for the treatment and cure of those affections which arise from youthful indiscretions and pernicious, solitary practices.

We, many years ago, established a special Department for the treatment of these diseases, under the management of some of the most skillful physicians and surgeons on our Staff, in order that all who apply to us might receive all the advantages of a full Council of the most experienced medical men.

WE OFFER NO APOLOGY.

We offer no apology for devoting so much attention to this neglected class of diseases, believing no condition of humanity is too wretched to merit the sympathy and best services of the noble profession to which we belong. Many who suffer from these terrible diseases contract them innocently. Why any medical man intent on doing good, and alleviating suffering, should shun such cases, we cannot imagine. Why any one should consider it otherwise than most honorable to cure the worst cases of these diseases, we cannot understand; and yet of all the other maladies which afflict mankind there are probably none about which physicians in general practice know so little.

We fully agree with the celebrated Dr. Bartholow, who says, "I think it a reproach to our profession that this subject has been permitted, in a measure by our own indifference, to pass into the hands of unscrupulous pretenders. Because the subject is disagreeable, competent physicians are loath to be concerned with it. The same unnecessary fastidiousness causes the treatment of this malady to be avoided in private practice."

We shall, therefore, continue, as heretofore, to treat with our best consideration, sympathy, and skill, all applicants who are suffering from any of these delicate diseases.

Our Complete and Illustrated Treatise on these subjects is sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

ALL CHRONIC DISEASES A SPECIALTY.—Although we have, in the preceding paragraphs, made mention of some of the special ailments to which particular attention is given by the specialists at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, yet the institution abounds in skill, facilities, and apparatus for the successful treatment of every form of chronic ailment, whether requiring for its cure medical or surgical means.

All letters of inquiry or of consultation should be addressed to

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION,
663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Markdale Standard

Is issued evesy Thursday, at the office, Mill Street, Markdale.

TERMS—$1 per year in advance; $1.50 if not paid within three months.

Professional and business cards one inch space and under, per year, $4.

	1 YR.	6 MO.	3 MO.
Whole column	$50 00	$27 50	$15 00
Half column	27 00	15 00	10 00
Quarter column	15 00	10 00	6 00
Two inch space	7 00	4 00
Three inch space	10 00	5 00

Casual advertisements 8 cents per line first insertion, 3 cents per line each subsequent insertion, nonpareil measure.

Editorial notices, or notices in local column 10 cents per line first insertion, 5 cents each subsequent insertion.

Stray animals &c., advertised 3 weeks for $1, the advertisement not to exceed twelve lines.

No paper discontinued until all arrears are paid except at the aption of the publisher.

JOB PRINTING.

THE STANDARD office has a splendid equipment of poster as well as fine job type. Special attention to orders by mail. Orders filled with dispatch.

C. W. RUTLEDGE
EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.

Legal.

P. McCullough,
BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, &c.
OFFICE—OVER McFARLAND'S STORE,
MARKDALE.
Money to Loan.
274

HANDS, ECHLIN & GARVIN,
(SUCCESSORS TO LAUDER & HANDS),
BARRISTERS, Solicitors, Proctors, Notaries, Conveyancers, &c. Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.
Offices 16 King Street East,
190-251 TORONTO.

MASSON & MASSON,
BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, &c.
OFFICES—Owen Sound, in Vicker's Block Poulett St.; Branch office in Markdale, over McFarland's Store, on Friday and Saturday every week. 57-ly
J. MASSON, Q. C. S. MASSON. W. MASSON.
N. B.—Private Company's funds to invest at from Six to Eight per cent.

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Money to loan for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Nov. 5th, 1885. 1-y

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate se curity.

J.P. MARSHALL, L.D.S.
DENTIST,
GRADUATE OF TORONTO SCHOOL of Dentistry, will be at the Markdale House, Markdale, on the 1st and third Wednesday of each month and also at Munshaw's Hotel, Flesherton, the day following the third Wednesday in each month for the practice of his profession.
122-47.

MANSION HOUSE,
MARKDALE,
Jas. Bryan, Proprietor.

MARKDALE HOUSE,
MARKDALE, - - ONT.
J. E. Marsh, - Prop'.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larde well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling and attentive Hostler's
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor

CITY HOTEL,
MARKDALE.
The subscriber begs to inform the travelling public generally, that he has leased the above premises for a term of years, and hopes by catering to their comfort to merit a share of public patronage, Bar and Larder well supplied. Good stabling and attentive hostler.
D. McLANE,
Proprietor,
Markdale, Nov. 12, 1885.

EUGENIA HOTEL.
EUGENIA FALLS - - - Ont.
J. McAleer, - - Prop.
The public may rely on receiving every necessary attention as to Eatables, Drinkables, and Horse Care. 244-57

WILLIAM STUART,
KIMBERLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licences. Money to Loan on Real Estate at low rates.
Nov. 5, '85–1y

SAMUEL WARDELL,
WELL DIGGER AND DRILLER. ALL orders promptly attended to. Residence—Snider's Hill Owen Sound 122-35

A. HILL,
Fashionable Tailor,
OVER MACFARLAND'S STORE.
A PERFECT FIT GUARANTEED.

ISAAC STINSON.
Builder and Contractor
In all kinds of Brick and Stone work.
Estimates given.
All work guaranteed.
Orders by mail promptly attended to.
195-6m* MARKDALE P. O.

W. C. RICHARDS,
BUILDER, CONTRACTOR, & ARCHITECT, Markdale.
124ly

VICTORIA R. B. PRECEPTORY,
No. 282,
Meets in Lodge Room of Markdale L. O. L. No. 1045, first Friday in each month. Visiting Sir Knights always welcome.
JAMES BRODIE, W. P.
275 THOMAS ELLIOTT, Registrar.

Money to Loan.
6 to 6½ per cent. All business strictly confidential. Apply to
JOHN R. BAINES,
Lot 30, Con. 4, Holland,
275-88 Glascott P O.

J. J. DALTON.
DOMINION TOPOGRAPHICAL SURVEYOR, P. L. S. Ontario, and civil engineer, Architectural Drawing and Levelling, Chatsworth, Ont.

WM. G. CUTHRIE,
Plain & Ornamental Plaster
Opposite the new
Presbyterian Church Markdale.
Arches, Cornices, Centre Flowers, and all kinds of plain and ornamental plastering executed at cheapest rates. Calsomining Lime Washing and Repairs promptly attended to.
803

JOSEPH GIBSON
CONTRACTOR.
Contracts taken for all kinds of
BRICK AND STONE WORK,
Plain Ornamental Plastering.
Calsomining in all Shades and Colors.
Charges moderate and satisfaction guaranteed. Orders left at ahe STANDARD office will receive prompt attention.
126-ly.

ROBERT S. RAE,
TAILOR,
Sydenham Street.
MARKDALE.

JOHN NOBLE,
MARKDALE
GENER'L BLACKSMITH
HORSE SHOEING
A SPECIALTY.
Also agent for the celebrated
CHATHAM WAGONS.

J. T. QUINN,
MARKDALE,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
PUMPS,
Cylinder, Drop Valve and Cistern Pumps.
Iron Pumps Supplied
Orders respectfully solicited and satisfaction guaranteed.
Also Agent for Sargent's
PATENT LOAD LIFTER
For Glenelg and Bentinck townships.
☞ Orders by mail promptly attended. 219

ROBT. ASKIN,
UNDERTAKER,
MARKDALE,
FUNERAL FURNISHINGS
supplied on the shortes notice.
A Splendid Hearse
for hire at moderate rates.
—All kinds of—
PICTURE FRAMING
Done on short notice.
ROBT. ASKIN.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL
CURES RHEUMATISM
FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS.
Are pleasant to take. Contain their own Purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effectual destroyer of worms in Children or Adults.

LAND FOR SALE.
THE north half of lot number 15, concession 11, Holland Township, County of Grey, containing 100 acres. This lot is all heavy timbered with beech, maple, elm, basswood and hemlock, and is situated about 4 miles from Berkeley, 6 from Williamsford and 9 from Markdale stations, on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway.
For terms and particulars apply to GEO. S. BOWES, Esq., Markdale, or to the undersigned,
GARROW & PROUDFOOT,
Barristers,
253-tf Gedrich.

EUGENIA
Grist, Saw and Lath Mills
Having made extensive improvements in my Grist Mill I feel confident I can give good satisfaction.
GOOD FLOUR ALWAYS ON HAND
Chopping Done Every Day.
Custom Sawing and Bills Filled on the shortest notice.
LUMBER AND LATH ALWAYS ON HAND.
Cherry, Butternut, White Ash, Black Ash Basswood, Pine and Hemlock Logs wanted
91y. M. AKITT, Eugenia.

Health is Wealth!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a guaranteed specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Convulsions, Fits, Nervous Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by the use of alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain resulting in Insanity and leading to misery, decay and death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Involuntary Losses and Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of the brain, self-abuse or over-indulgence. One box will cure recent cases. Each box contains one month's treatment. One dollar a box, or six boxes for five dollars; sent by mail prepaid on receipt of price. We guarantee six boxes to cure any case. With each order received by us for six boxes, accompanied with five dollars, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refund the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by JOHN C. WEST & CO., Sole Proprietors, 181 & 183 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. Sold by A. Turner & Co. 270-1y

Victor Roller Mills,
MARKDALE.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

Wanted, all the good Spring Wheat in the four townships, for which the highest price will be paid in cash.
219 ANGUS PLEWES.

Markdale Roller Mill.
The following is the scale of exchange for flour:—

Wheat.	Flour.	Bran & Shorts.
62	40	13
61	39	14
60	38	14
59	37	15
58	36	16
57	35	17
56	34	18
55	32	19
54	31	20
53	30	20
52	28	20
51	26	20
50	25	20

J. W. FORD.

THE KEY TO HEALTH.
BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
Unlocks all the clogged avenues of the Bowels, Kidneys and Liver, carrying off gradually without weakening the system, all the impurities and foul humors of the secretions; at the same time Correcting Acidity of the Stomach, curing Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Dizziness, Heartburn, Constipation, Dryness of the Skin, Dropsy, Dimness of Vision, Jaundice, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Fluttering of the Heart, Nervousness and General Debility; all these and many other similar Complaints yield to the happy influence of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.
Sample Bottles 10c; Regular size $1.
For sale by all dealers.
T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, Toronto

MARKDALE
Woolen Mills.
Weaving done on short notice. Cotton warp supplied. Charges moderate. A call respectfully solicited.
248-4in F. J. RITCHIE.

OWEN SOUND
MARBLE WORKS
H. B. HARRISON,
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE AND GRANITE
MONUMENTS & HEADSTONES,
Mantles, Furniture Marble, &c.
JUST RECEIVED
3 Carloads Finest Variegated Marble
☞ Largest stock in the Dominion to select from. Personally selected at the quarries in Vermont. Will be sold at prices which defy competition.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.
N. B.—Beware of Monuments and Headstones of Tin, Spelter, or Zinc, soldered together, and oiled and Sandblasted to hide the imperfections, and called White Bronze.
H. B. HARRISON.

MARKDALE
HARNESS EMPORIUM
ESTABLISHED 19 YEARS.
THOS. MATTHEWS, Proprietor
Nothing but good stock used and the best mechanics employed. A stock of Double and Single, Heavy and Light Harness always on hand. Also Whips, Trunks, Valises, Blankets, Robes, &c., always in stock.

CANADIAN PACIFIC R'Y
OWEN SOUND BRANCH.
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect Monday, November 2nd, 1885.

GOING NORTH.

STATIONS.	Mail.	Exp.
Toronto.....Leave	7 20am	4 00pm
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 07 "
Orangeville { Arrive	9 50 "	7 00 "
Orangeville { Leave	10 05 "	7 25 "
Orangeville Jun	10 17 "	7 37 "
Shelburne	10 45 "	8 04 "
Dundalk	11 10 "	8 30 "
Flesherton	11 36 "	8 56 "
Markdale	11 51 "	9 11 "
Berkeley	12 03pm	9 23 "
Williamsford	12 12 "	9 32 "
Chatsworth	12 28 "	9 48 "
Owen Sound	1 00 "	10 20 "

GOING SOUTH.

STATIONS.	Exp.	Mail.
Owen Sound	5 20am	2 25pm
Chatsworth	5 50 "	3 00 "
Williamsford	6 05 "	3 20 "
Berkeley	6 14 "	3 40 "
Markdale	6 27 "	3 53 "
Flesherton	6 42 "	4 08 "
Dundalk	7 06 "	4 31 "
Shelburne	7 31 "	4 57 "
Orangeville Jun	8 00 "	5 26 "
Orange { Arrive	8 12 "	5 38 "
ville { Leave	8 35 "	5 55 "
Cardwell Junction	9 07 "	6 30 "
Toronto.....Arrive	10 45 "	8 05 "

Markdale Church Directory.
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. Prayer Meeting every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. Wilson, Pastor; Wm. Brown, S. S. Superintendent.

CHRIST CHURCH.
Services for November, 15th at 7 p. m. 22nd 10:30 and 7. 29th 7. December 6th 10:30 and 7; 13th 7, 20th 10:30 and 27th 7. Rev. Jas. Ward, Incumbent. J. W. Ford, Superintendent.

METHODIST CHURCH.
Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2:30. Prayer Meeting every Thursday evening from Rev. Wesley Casson, Pastor; W. A. Brown, S. S. Superintendent. Ladies' Aid in connection; Mrs. T Hill, Secretary.

Society Directory.
Markdale C. O. O. F. No. 76, meets every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Hall, McDougall's block. Visiting brethren welcome.

Markdale A. O. U. W. No 141 meets in their Hall, McDougall's block, every alternate Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A visit from brethren of neighboring lodges solicited.

MARKDALE L. O. L. No. 1045 meets in the Hall on Friday on or before full moon of each month. Thos. Elliott, Master; W. J. Elliott, Secretary.

Peerless Oil
Ahead of All Competitors.
Highest Honors & Co
Medal at Toronto.
SIX GOLD MEDALS IN 3 YEARS—BEST RECORD IN THE WORLD
Satisfaction Guaranteed
Ask for PEERLESS and be sure you get it, as there are imitations. The genuine is only made by
SAMUEL ROGERS & CO.
Queen City Oil Works,
TORONTO, ONT.

THE CELEBRATED DR. CHASE'S MANDRAKE AND DANDELION LIVER CURE
HAVE YOU
Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Costiveness, or any disease arising from a disordered liver, DR. CHASE'S LIVER CURE will be found a safe and certain remedy.
NATURE'S REMEDY
The unqualified success of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure in Liver Complaint rests solely with the fact that it is compounded from nature's well-known liver regulators, MANDRAKE AND DANDELION, combined with other invaluable roots, barks and herbs, having a powerful effect on the Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels and Blood.
500,000 SOLD
Over one-half million of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure were sold in Canada alone. We want every man, woman and child who is troubled with Liver Complaint to try this excellent remedy.
SOMETHING NEW. GIVEN AWAY FREE.
Wrapped around every bottle of Dr. Chase's Liver Cure is a valuable Household Medical Guide and Prescription Book (84 pages), containing over 200 useful receipts pronounced by medical men and druggists to be invaluable, and worth ten times the price of the medicine.
TRY CHASE'S CATARRH CURE. A safe and positive remedy. Price, 25 cents.
TRY CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS. 25 cents.
SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
T. CRAMARON & CO., Sole Agents, Toronto

Mar

VOL. 6.--No. 278.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.
"A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."
—MY LINE OF—
NEW YEAR'S CARDS.
Are very pretty, at list prices and plain figures.
FINE ASSORTMENT
SILVERWARE,
In Hollow and Flat Patterns. 10 per cent off for cash this month.
Gold & Silver Watches, Clocks, Jewellery & Spectacles.
W. A. BROWN,
A reliable Jeweller.

Local and Other Items.

NOTICES in these columns intended to benefit any individual or Society will be charged ten cents a line for the first insertion and five cents a line each subsequent insertion.

COLLINGWOOD has a steam laundry.

MR. WM. GOWAN of Allston died on the 27th ult.

GEORGE WHITE of St. Thomas is home on a visit.

SHEET music for sale at Williams' Stationery, Markdale.

THREE polling places in Markdale on Monday, and not a drunk.

GROCERIES and Oysters cheaper than any house in town, at Morrow's.

MR. DAVIS, ex-reeve of Glenelg, gave us a pleasant call on Monday.

ROLLER FLOUR always on hand at Morrow's store, same price as at mill.

THE present bad state of the roads have seriously interfered with business.

MISS EMILY STEPHENS started last Monday to visit her brother in Brandon, Man.

MR. and MRS. JOHN WHITBY spent New Year's day with friends in Orangeville.

COURTING is sometimes called sparking, because the real fire doesn't commence until after marriage.

$50,000 to loan on farm security. Terms easy; interest light, and square dealing. Apply at this office.

GET a bottle of "Silver Cream," and make your silverware shine—only 25c. W. A. Brown, sole agent.

MR. HOWLAND was elected Mayor of Toronto by about 1,700 majority. This is a great moral victory for the Queen City.

REV. MR. CASSON has chosen a series of special topics for Sunday services in the Methodist church during January.

IF you are about to purchase an organ be sure to get the Doherty; the best in the market. H. Williams, agent, Markdale.

A RAILWAY tank has been erected at Owen Sound with a capacity of over 50,000 gallons. The one at Markdale which is nearly complete, is the same size.

AFTER the heavy rain and very warm weather, a sudden change took place on Tuesday, and on Wednesday morning the thermometer registered 4 zero.

MR. W. DUNDAS has commenced the erection of a store on his lot, corner of Mill and Queen streets, where he will continue in the boot & shoe business.

THE brass band desires to thank the citizens of Markdale for their liberal assistance, and for the kind manner in which they were received on Thursday night last.

MR. A in Mar
NOTI
to the book ac
once.
outstan
THE take h
"drivin
both h
sleigh,
"drivin
MR.
both n
Presby
His se wrapt and we
NEW
"The V
compos
Arthur
music should
THE grand
They make t in Ma surpass highly BRU
by-law hawker Council making
If this fewer
LET
all the
Which Willie,
go and Boy—whethe
THE Presby
on Mo tended was v hour t well enjoyi
THE
at the tute to and Sa will c
and th
we ho missio
THE ship A to sta Janua their hall
A ful are w vote.
MR.
Shell
and Hamb posse recon forwa
ings.
this i
WA
Trium
the g signa of pu pomt prope are p by th
NO
Refor
in the
Tues
o'cloc organ
M. H Frien
ment
Brow
Grey
At
variou
Hagy
throa Coug and h

End of Reel